

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

THE principal object of this edition of Lucretius is to bring into compact form the results of critical work on the poem since Munro's posthumous edition of 1886, and also to indicate the sources of criticism prior to 1886 that were either disregarded by, or unknown to, that great scholar. There have been five great modern Lucretians — Lambin, Lachmann, Munro, Brieger, and Giussani. To them every editor of the poem must confess an indebtedness, as great almost as Lucretius owed to Epicurus. It is difficult to say to which one of them this edition owes most: whether to Munro, usually the first guide in point of time to an English or American student; to Lambin, so copious in illustration; to Lachmann, acute in textual criticism; to Brieger, learned and courageous; or to the subtle Giussani. Yet it is hoped that there may be found in this book some things of value that are not due altogether to its predecessors.

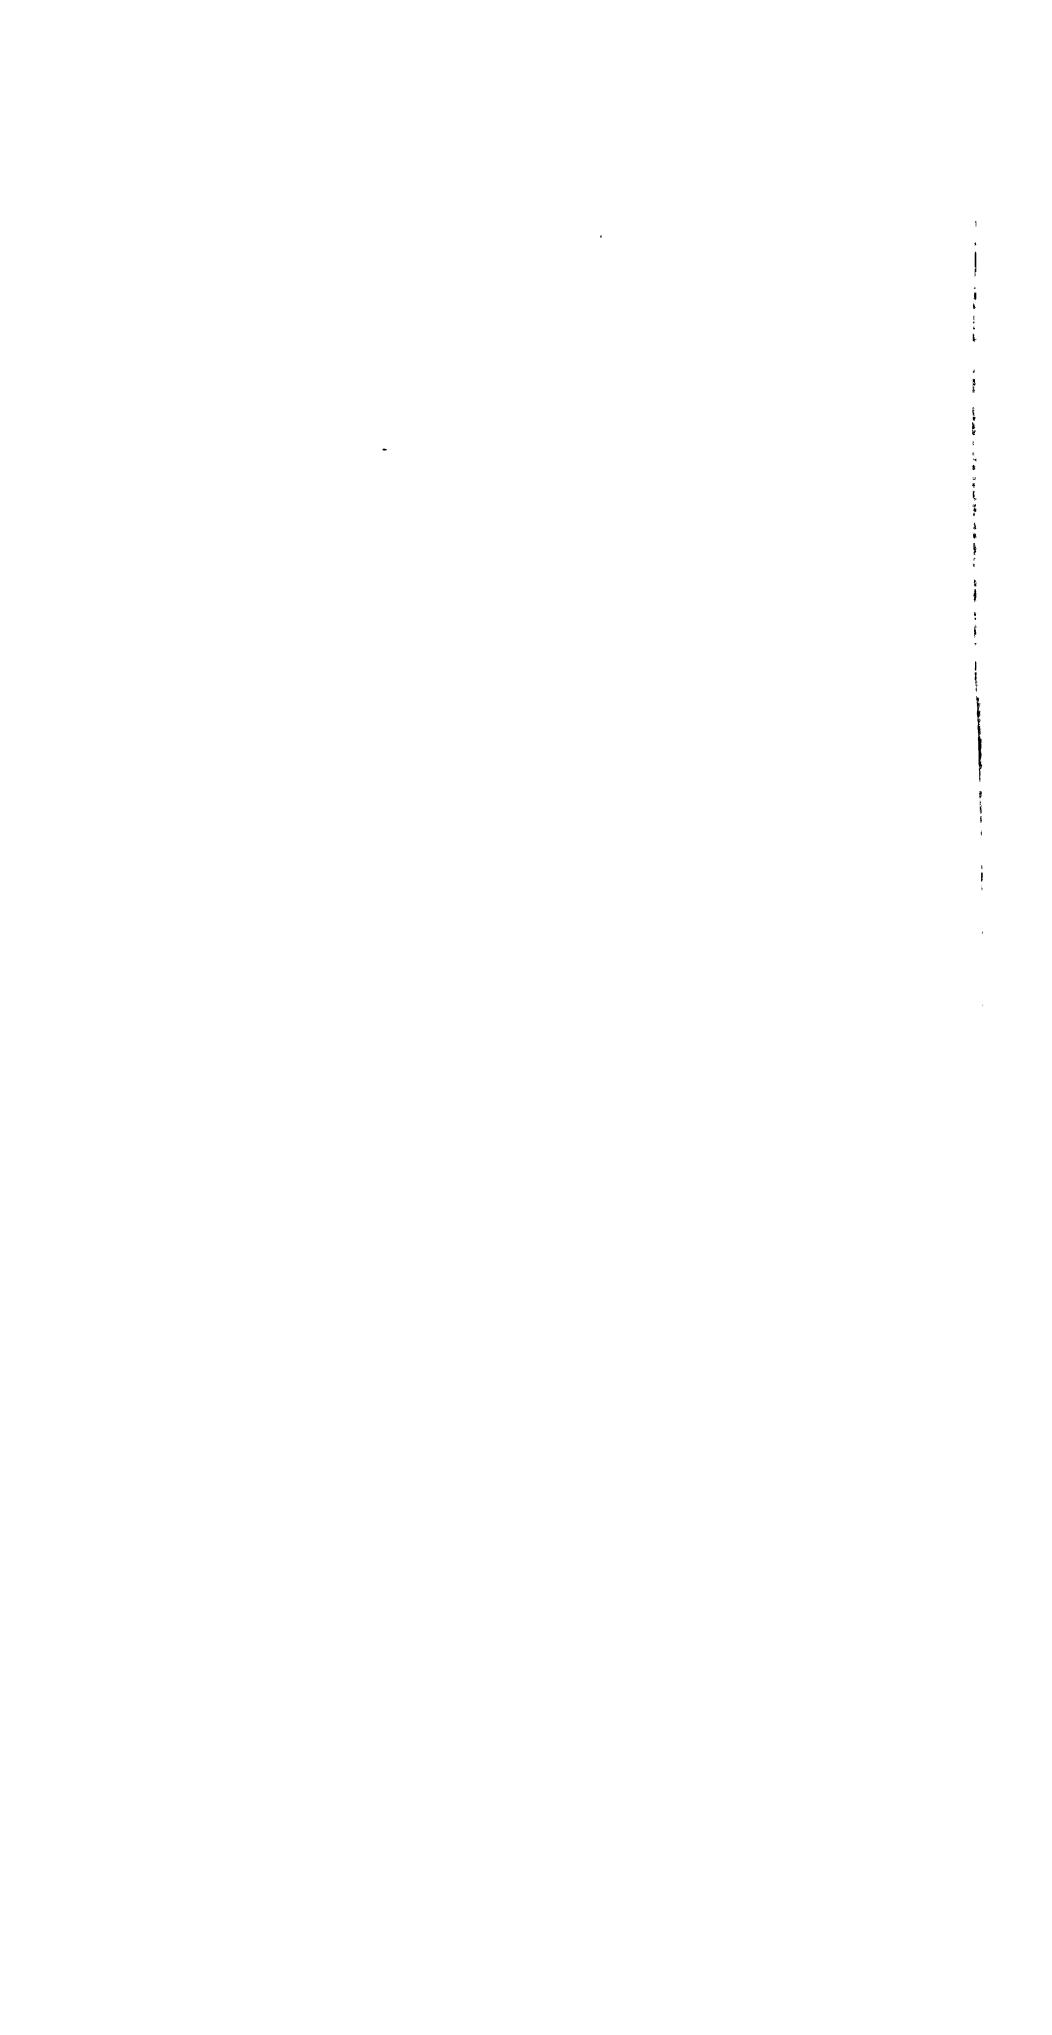

Lachmann has given once for all, at least until the Leyden facsimiles become available, a complete recension of the two great manuscripts; and, consequently, in this edition obvious corrections of the manuscript readings are not recorded: but an effort has been made to indicate all important variations, especially where there has been difference of opinion among scholars. The editor has not departed from the reading of the archetype except where it has seemed to him necessary; and the varied signs by which other editors have signified incoherence of the argument, and the transposition of paragraphs and the like, have all been omitted from this text as properly belonging to the commentary.

The sources of the Introduction are, it is hoped, sufficiently indicated in the footnotes thereto. To the general editors of the series, Professors Morris and Morgan, the editor is grateful for helpful criticism; and to the American Book Company special thanks are due for undertaking the publication of a book of such a character as the present edition.

INTRODUCTION

JEROME in his continuation of Eusebius' Chronicle, for the year of Abraham 1922, Olym. 171. 2, A.U.C. 659, B.C. 95, says: 'Titus Lucretius poeta nascitur. Postea amatorio poculo in furorem versus, cum aliquot libros per intervalla insaniae conscribisset, quos postea Cicero emendavit, propria se manu interfecit anno aetatis XLIII.'<sup>1</sup> His death then would occur in 702/52 or in 703/51. But Donatus, or the writer of the life of Virgil, given in Suetonius ed. Reiff. p. 55, says: 'initia aetatis Cremonae egit (Vergilius) usque ad virilem togam, quam XV<sup>2</sup> anno natali suo accepit, isdem illis consulibus iterum duobus (Cn. Pomp. Magnus, M. Lic. Crassus) quibus erat natus, evenitque eo ipso die (15 Oct. 699/55) Lucretius poeta dederet.' The September of the year 699/55 corresponds to the end of the year of Abraham 1962 and 1962 - 44 = 1918 = 655 A.U.C., 99 B.C. Supposing the date in the life of Virgil to be correct, if we take 699/55 as a starting point and go back 44 years, we find 655/99 or 656/98 to be the birth year of Lucretius, either the end of 655/99 or the beginning of 656/98. Jerome's mistake is probably due to a confusion between the consuls of 656/98, Q. Caecilius and T. Didius, and those of 660/94, C. Caelius and L. Domitius. But there is yet another statement found in the Codex Monacensis, No. 14429, of the tenth century, which contains the following: 'Titus Lucretius poeta nascitur sub consulibus anno XXVII<sup>3</sup> ante Vergilium.'<sup>4</sup> As Virgil was born in 684/70, 27 years earlier would

make 657/97, the date of Lucretius' birth. Again, taking the statement of Donatus in reference to Lucretius' death (699/55) and subtracting 17 from 684/70, the date of Virgil's birth, we have 701/53 as the death year of Lucretius, which is inconsistent with the date of Virgil's taking the toga virilis, 699/55. Yet as Jerome elsewhere (2, 137 Sch.) states the year 701/53 as the date of Virgil's assumption of the toga virilis, isdem . . . natus would have to be rejected as an interpolation, and 44 years earlier would give 657/97 for the date of birth and 701/53 for the death; and according to this view XVII must be read instead of XV in the life by Donatus,<sup>1</sup> for  $684 + 17 = 701$ . Again, Masson in 1894 (Journal of Philology, 23, 221 sq.) discovered in the British Museum a copy of Pontanus' edition with a Ms. introduction by Borgius which he thought was derived from Suetonius. The important part reads as follows: 'T. Lucretius Carus nascitur Licinio Crasso oratore et Q. Mutio Scevola pont. cons. (659/95), quo anno Q. Hortensius orator in foro quom diceret non parvam eloquentiae gloriam est auspicatus. vixit ann. iiiii et xl et noxio tandem improbae seminae poculo in furias actus sibi necem concrivit reste gulam frangens, vel, ut alii opinantur, gladio incubuit; matre natus diu sterili (a distortion of Lucr. 4, 1251). — Ciceroni vero recentia ostendebat carmina, cius limam secutus a quo inter legendum aliquando admonitus ut in translationibus servaret verecundiam, ex quibus duo potissimum loci referuntur, Neptuni lacunas et coeli cavernas.'<sup>2</sup> Finally the date (700/54) of Cicero's letter<sup>3</sup> to his brother in which he mentions Lucretius' poem was probably subsequent to the poet's death, although not certainly so.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>2</sup> Masson, commenting on the discrepancy between this account of the date of the birth and the date of the death given in the life of Virgil (699/55), would keep both dates, assuming that L. did not live to be 44, as Suetonius says that Horace died in 8 B.C., being over 59, while he fixes his birth at 65 B.C., which would make him 57 in 8 B.C. Wohler, Mnem. 23, 223, rejects the Borgian account as a humanistic invention; see, in reply, Masson, C. Rev. 10, 323, and against the authenticity, Brieger, in Jahrb. 24, 188. Cf. also editor in C. R. 10, 19. The Borgian Vita is now generally rejected.

It is plain that some one of these dates<sup>1</sup> must be taken as least liable to error, and that the others must be made to harmonize if possible. There is one date which seems practically certain, viz., the second consulship of Pompey and Crassus in 699/55, and resting on that date alone we may place the death at that time; for it is psychologically more probable that a date designated by a second consulship of famous men is less likely to be erroneous than a mere number, or a circumstance suggestive of mythical and legendary influence. There is no such definite clew to the diverging dates of the birth, but 44 years before, viz., 655/99, cannot be far out of the way. Yet in the light of the conflicting evidence too much dependence cannot be placed on Suetonius' 44. The poet was born about 655/99 and died in 699/55.<sup>2</sup> Lachmann (p. 62) decided on 655/99, Munro<sup>3</sup> on 655/99 or 656/98, and 699/55 'since in either case he would be in his 44th year on the ides of October, 55, u.c. 699.' Marx<sup>4</sup> by a complicated calculation would fix the birth in the middle of 658/96 and the death toward the end of 699/55. Schanz<sup>5</sup> decides on 699/55 for the date of the death, that of the birth being uncertain.

There is no direct evidence in regard to the birthplace of Lucretius. In 1, 41 he speaks of patriai tempore iniquo, and in 1, 832 and 3, 260 of patrii sermonis egestas, which seem to imply

659/95, Borgius.

DEATH
699/55, Donatus.	702/52 or 703/51, Jerome.

<sup>2</sup> Polle makes the birth 660/94, the death 704/50 or 703/51; he rejects Donatus' Virgil story. Cf. also Brieger in Jahresb. 24, 186. Woltjer tries to harmonize the statements:  $27 + 17 = 44$ . Lucr. igitur natus est anno 27 + 70 = 97 et mortuus 97 - 44 = 70 - 17 = 53 a. Ch. n. In Mnem. 23, 233, he makes the birth 96(58) instead of 97(657). Giussani (ed. p. XI sq.) decides on 699/55 for the death, aet. 44. Scholars differ markedly in rejecting all authority of Donatus and the Monac. codex, and latterly even of Jerome himself. <sup>3</sup> II, p. 1.

There is equally little to show the social position of the poet. The general tone of the poem seems to justify the remark of Myers that he was 'an aristocrat with a mission,' and the tria nomina in the time of the republic were usually a sign of nobility.<sup>7</sup> Patin<sup>8</sup> calls him an eques, but of this there is no certain proof; Mommsen<sup>9</sup> thinks he belonged to the best circles of Roman society. His attitude toward Memmius would to most persons imply an equality of rank; yet Marx<sup>10</sup> interprets this very relation, added to the fact of the cognomen Carus being almost unknown<sup>11</sup> in the Lucretian gens, as an indication that Lucretius was either the son of a freedman, or an emancipated slave.<sup>12</sup> Such expressions as vulgus abhorret,<sup>13</sup> impia pectora volgi<sup>14</sup> show the intellectual aristocrat; but the austere sermon at the opening of the second book on the vanity of political ambition is evidence of a freedom of criticism and a liberty of thought and expression which could hardly be found in a person of low social standing at the time.<sup>15</sup>

<sup>12</sup> Marx, I.c. 534, maintains that I., was a provincial from the valley of the Po or from southern France or from Spain, because poets at this time were not usually native Romans; we might also add that they did not write on Epicurean physics as a rule. Carus occurs in Celtic and Celtiberian inscriptions.

of Lucretia, were of course patrician; the Ofellae, Galli, and Triones were probably plebeian. A Lucretius Vesillo, mentioned by Caesar,<sup>1</sup> must have been a contemporary of the poet. Lambinus invented a pretty story that this Vesillo was a brother of our Lucretius; that one was a man of action, the other a student; one lived in the whirl of the busy world, and the other cultivated the solitude of gentle studies, winning the title Carus<sup>2</sup> through the affection which he inspired—of all of which there is no evidence. Still at this time a son often had a cognomen different from that borne by his father, and the name Carus is no proof that the poet was out of the line of better-known families of the Lucretian gens.<sup>3</sup>

Jerome's (or Suetonius') statement of the insanity of Lucretius is not attested elsewhere, unless credence is given to the Borgian Vita, and it has been received with varying degrees of trust by some scholars, while rejected by others. It is well known that Jerome was a slavish follower of Suetonius, the anecdote hunter, whose stories are likely to be true. Lachmann<sup>4</sup> saw no reason for disbelieving Jerome's story, Munro<sup>5</sup> hesitated, Sellar<sup>6</sup> thought it too sensational for belief. The line of demarcation between genius and insanity is proverbially difficult to trace, a principle well shown in the interpretation of Statius'<sup>7</sup> 'et docti furor arduus Lucreti,' furor being either insanity, or more probably the divine afflatus, as Barth (I.c.) thinks, with reference to Lucr. I, 923 sq. The poet's vivid portrayal of dreams and visions in the fourth book betrays a highly imaginative mind perhaps subject to hallucination, and, as De Quincey expresses it, the unrelieved intensity of the work shows symptoms of that morbid strain of mind which passes readily into insanity.<sup>8</sup> On the other hand, it is hard to believe that a mind strong enough to conceive and work out a poem of such worth could have suffered from intermittent insanity; a mind so affected, as a rule, rapidly decays and loses its powers.<sup>9</sup> It has

even been suggested that the story represented Christian calumny : as has been concisely expressed by Friedländer,<sup>1</sup> the philosophy is that of a madman, the description of the passion of love in the fourth book betrays the voluptuary who would inevitably drink the love potions given him. It was a common belief in antiquity<sup>2</sup> that insanity was produced by such philtres. Then his suicide would follow as a divine retribution. We may compare the story of Voltaire's death ; so Suidas<sup>3</sup> says Lucian was torn to pieces by dogs ; so the maladies of Epicurus were a return for his impiety.<sup>4</sup> Whoever, says Marx,<sup>5</sup> takes up Lombroso's book on Genius and Insanity will find among the thinkers and poets of all nations an astounding number of those who have shared Lucretius' fate ; the names of Tasso and Hölderlin, of Lenau and Robert Schumann, need only be mentioned for one to comprehend completely the account of our unfortunate philosopher and poet. But if Jerome was following Suetonius, this calumny cannot be Christian ; and if pagan, there had been other rationalists at Rome since Ennius who had retained their mental faculties. Jessen<sup>6</sup> has suggested here a possible confusion by Jerome between the names Lucullus and Lucretius, the former of whom is said 'amatorio periisse' ;<sup>7</sup> however that may be, the same scholar<sup>8</sup> gives a reasonable pagan origin for the story, not only in the sombre melancholy which pervades the poem, but in the divine anger of slighted Venus : they who avoid love must perish by love, like Hippolytus. Tennyson, who next to Munro has been called the best commentator on Lucretius,<sup>9</sup> seems to take this view : —

Because I would not one of thine own doves,
Not e'en a rose were offered unto thee ?’<sup>10</sup>

The belief in his intermittent insanity is not inconsistent with literary history, or with the condition of the poem. It must then be accepted, unless Jerome's account be wholly discredited.<sup>11</sup>

There is similar doubt as to his suicide. On the one hand, there is a suspicious silence in literature concerning it. Lactantius<sup>1</sup> mentions the suicide of Democritus, and quotes Lucr. 3, 1041, in connection therewith, yet does not hint that Lucretius himself met a similar end. Arnobius, who was intimately acquainted with Lucretius' work, is silent in regard to it. Statius<sup>2</sup> speaks of the 'furor' of Lucretius, which may have been distorted from poetic enthusiasm into madness. It has also been suggested that the story may have been inferred from the poet's views on death and love.<sup>3</sup> On the other hand, such an end would be consistent with his principles, although not encouraged by Epicurus. He who sang the hymn to death at the end of the third book might well embrace the secure rest, the 'divine Tranquillity, yearned after by the wisest of the wise.' Furthermore, if there is any truth in the story of the philtre, his brain may have become disordered by the poison, and he may have put an end to himself in a moment of frenzy. There is nothing inherently improbable in the story.<sup>4</sup>

'Lucilia, wedded to Lucretius, found Her master cold,' says Tennyson, reviving a tale which Lachmann<sup>5</sup> traces back to Crinitus and Scaliger, but which is discredited by all editors. In the Migne edition of Jerome, Vol. 11, p. 259, is a spurious letter entitled Valerius Rufino ne ducat uxorem, in which occurs 'Livia virum suum interfecit, quem nimis odit; Lucillia suum, quem nimis amavit,' because she gave him a philtre. The identification of Lucilia with the wife of Lucretius rests on no other evidence, and there in nothing in the poem or elsewhere to

<sup>3</sup> Giri, Il suicido di T. Lucrezio, Palermo, 1895, reviewed in Lit. Centralblatt, March 7, 1896, thinks the story was formed in the time of the empire, before Suetonius. But this does not account for the intervalla insaniae. See against Giri, Stampini, Il suicido di Lucrezio, in Riv. di Storia antica I, 4 (Berl. Ph. Woch. 1896, 1076); Fritsche, Jahrb. 153, 555; Brieger, Berl. Ph. W. 1896, 1551.

<sup>4</sup> The question is discussed by Masson, C. R. 12, 237, and by anonymous writers in Macmillan's Magazine, 12, 49; Fraser's Magazine, 74, 452. Br. in Bursian, 1900, 49, would relegate the whole story of madness and suicide to the lumber room of literary history to join innumerable biographical fables. The suicide has been questioned by the earliest scholars, e.g. Pius, Crinitus, Creech; and latterly by Martha, Poème, p. 24. Van d. Valk, De L. carmine, 1902, rejects the entire account by Jerome. Giussani, p. xiii, sees no improbability in the story. <sup>5</sup> P. 63.

show that he was married.<sup>1</sup> In 4, 1278 sq., he acknowledges that 'interdum' woman with her charms may persuade one to live with her, and 'at all events habit brings love.'<sup>2</sup> In tracing as a philosopher the development of society, he grants the civilizing influence of the family,<sup>3</sup> yet insists that the male sex is the superior in skill;<sup>4</sup> but there is nothing to show personal interest. Even in the most pathetic appeal, 'non domus accipiet te laeta neque uxor optima,'<sup>5</sup> the reader feels instinctively that the poet is not speaking from his own experience, either actual or possible.

Recurring to the statement of Jerome, the phrase 'quos posse Cicero emendavit' has been the source of much perplexity. Like the moderns, the ancients understood by 'Cicero' the orator.<sup>6</sup> But Cicero has but one reference to Lucretius in all his works, the perfunctory remark addressed to his brother Quintus,<sup>7</sup> 'Lucretii poemata ut scribis ita sunt multis luminibus ingenii multae tamen artis,'<sup>8</sup> and this is of doubtful meaning.

<sup>7</sup> ad Q. F. 2, 9, 3. The Ms. reading is now generally adopted, e.g. by Tyrrell (Cicero's Correspondence, 2, 107), Reitzenstein (Drei Vermuthungen, etc., p. 52), Heinze (on Lucre. 3, p. 132), Hendrickson (AJP. 22, 438), Sihler (APA. 28, 43). Of early scholars, Le Clerc, Wakefield, K. F. Hermann, Siebelis, and Braun had retained the reading of the codex. Formerly non had been inserted before ita (Victorius), or non venustus was read (Spengel); or non was placed before ita, as by Ernesti, Lachmann, Vahlen, and many scholars, or before multae, as by Bergk, Schanz, Sellar, and Woltjer; or etiam was inserted before artis, as by Baiter and Wesenberg; or incultae was placed before tamen, as by Weil and v. Leeuven. Other and more violent proposals were nullis (Roos), lita (Faber), tincta (Lambinus). See Polle, Phil. 25, 501; and Bockemüller, Studien, 77 sq. for varying opinion up to 1885; and to 1897, Sihler, l.c. Tyrrell, in Hermathena, No. 21, 1895, says that edd. wrongly insert non in ad Att. 12, 13, 1, and 14, 1, 2.

Bockemüller,<sup>1</sup> with his theory of publication, maintains that 'poemata' refers only to parts of the work separately published in Lucretius' lifetime, passages like the invocation to Venus and the introduction to the fourth book; each book, he thinks, was a poem in itself, like the Aeneids and Iliads.<sup>2</sup> Cicero approves his brother's judgment in a careless, unsympathetic manner: Lucretius has genius, as you say, and art as well (although you would not expect to find them together). The controversy between native strength of intellect (ingenium) and poetic skill in representation (ars) was brought before the Roman mind at this time particularly by the partisans of the Alexandrian school; Ovid says of one of the greatest of them, Callimachus, 'quamvis ingenio non valet, arte valet,'<sup>3</sup> and no doubt the general question was one which had been debated between the two brothers. Quintus Cicero was no mean critic, and the elder brother was unsympathetic toward the new school, the 'cantores Euphorionis' who did not appreciate Ennius,<sup>4</sup> whose influence on Lucretius must have been apparent to all readers, and might, in part at least, have removed from Cicero's conservative mind the prejudice which, perhaps, Catullus<sup>5</sup> (whom also he does not mention) may have aroused.

It was not Cicero's custom to refer to contemporaries, least of all to those with whom for any reason he was in disagreement.<sup>6</sup> Thus, in Tusc. 2, 7, he says that he does not read Epicurean books in Latin, as no good could come from the Epicurean school. As Reid<sup>7</sup> remarks, the poem made its way very slowly, and Cicero preferred to keep silence about a little-known author.<sup>8</sup> There are several places in his works where he could well have quoted Lucretius in illustration.<sup>9</sup> There is no evidence that he was really familiar with the poem; he may have glanced over it, and may have been willing to allow the work to appear under his auspices, perhaps at the suggestion of Quintus, who could vouch for it; or the arrangement for publication, such as it was, may have been intrusted to some slave.<sup>1</sup> We know from Pliny<sup>2</sup> that the great man liked to patronize candidates for literary honors, and he once declared publicly that his time was always free for poets.<sup>3</sup> Lachmann,<sup>4</sup> magisterially as is his wont, declares 'ut in re nota' that Quintus Cicero was meant by Jerome; later scholars incline to Marcus, while acknowledging that emendavit<sup>5</sup> can mean little.

Aside from the testimony of Jerome, there is sufficient internal evidence that the poet did not himself edit his work. Many passages are out of place; there are inartistic repetitions, double forms of the same argument; at the beginning of the fourth book the introduction has been taken bodily from the first; and there is repeatedly a lack of connection between paragraphs. The date of Cicero's letter is 700/54; the reference to the covering of the theatre in 6, 109 shows that the date of that part of the sixth book was after 695/59, and the reference in 4, 75

proves also a date subsequent to 685/69.<sup>1</sup> He thus lived in stirring times: 'quis enim ignorat, diremptos gradibus aetatis floruisse hoc tempore Ciceronem, Hortensium, anteque Crassum, Cottam, Sulpicium, moxque Brutum, Calidium, Caelium, Calvum, et proximum Ciceroni Caesarem, eorumque velut alumnos Corvinum, ac Pollionem Asinium, aemulumque Thucydidis Sallustium, auctoresque carminum Varronem ac Lucretium neque ullo in suscepto carminis sui opere minorem Catullum.'<sup>2</sup>

In examining the poem for evidence of the author's character, all will agree with Dryden<sup>3</sup> 'that the distinguishing characteristic is a certain kind of noble pride and positive assertion of his own opinions. He is everywhere confident of his own reasons — and is so confident of his cause that he is beforehand with his antagonists, urging for them whatever he imagined they could say, and leaving them, as he supposes, without an objection for the future.' He has all the zeal of a missionary: listen that you may not deny the truth and depart rejecting it,<sup>4</sup> you will go far astray<sup>5</sup> unless you receive the truth;<sup>6</sup> weigh these arguments well: if they are true, yield; if false, gird yourself against them;<sup>7</sup> a few words only are necessary;<sup>8</sup> but if you continue to resist, the poet can pour forth arguments from his rich store until old age shall steal over him.<sup>9</sup> Truth always overcomes falsehood,<sup>10</sup> and this philosophy is far more certain than Apollo's oracle.<sup>11</sup> As for the opinions of antagonists — and they are usually Stoicks, or originators of opinions adopted by the Stoicks — he cannot reason with a man who stands on his head;<sup>12</sup> their opinions are not only worthless but absolutely crazy;<sup>13</sup> their talk is emptiness.<sup>14</sup> The true philosopher on his calm and serene height beholds the ignorant and the foolish wandering in their misery and wasting their energies on worthless objects.<sup>15</sup> Lucretius was also conscious of his proud position as the first poet of the Epicurean philosophy: 'avia Pieridum peragro loca nullius ante trita solo. iuvat integros accedere fontis;'<sup>16</sup> he thought himself the first<sup>17</sup> translator of the doctrine into the words of his fatherland. There is some doubt whether this boast is justified, but it is an open question whether the Epicurean prose literature by Latin authors preceded his death or not.<sup>1</sup>

There are many traces in the poem of his ardent love of nature and close observation; sometimes the reference is inserted in a dry argument.<sup>2</sup> He likes to illustrate his doctrines by humble comparisons: thus the simulacra or membrane-like patterns are compared with the 'tunics' which the cicadae leave on every hedge,<sup>3</sup> and with the cast-off skin of the gliding snake.

Lucretius was a man of peace although he lived in such troubled times.<sup>4</sup> He was familiar with the pomp and pageantry of armies,<sup>5</sup> but there is nothing to show that he had ever been a soldier himself, or had seen actual warfare; the vivid expression of the horrors of war—'tollunt clamorem quasi si iugulentur ibidem'<sup>6</sup>—may be ascribed to the poet's imagination, but phrases like 'studio disposita fideli,'<sup>7</sup> noctes vigilare serenas,<sup>8</sup> show the life of the student. And yet he was a patriot; not to mention the reference to the danger of the state when the Carthaginians came rushing in from every side,<sup>9</sup> he could not practise the indifference of a Sulla, 'patriai tempore iniquo,'<sup>10</sup> or withdraw himself from interest in public affairs as did Lucullus and Hortensius.<sup>11</sup> Lucretius was a teacher, a reformer, and a poet,<sup>12</sup> and combined the Greek ardor of speculation with the Roman's firm hold of reality.<sup>13</sup> Yet all these characteristics fade away before his profound melancholy: 'miseretur funere vigor,' never morning wore to evening, but some heart did break;<sup>14</sup> 'vagituque locum lugubri complet, ut aecumst';<sup>15</sup> men labor in vain,<sup>16</sup> and the farmer compares the past with the present and sighs that his great toil is all for naught.<sup>17</sup> Perhaps the revived interest in Lucretius is not due to his dim foreshadowing of modern scientific principles,<sup>18</sup> not to his noble verse, his devotion to the truth, and his sublimity of thought and expression, but to the undertone of unrest, the unsatisfied longing, the weariness of the struggle with the emptiness of the reward thereof, which

The title of the poem, De Rerum Natura, was and had been a common one for such works; the pre-Socratic philosophers wrote frequently περὶ φύσεως.<sup>2</sup>

It numbers six books and without doubt all have survived, albeit in an incomplete form. Varro<sup>3</sup> quotes from the twenty-first book of Lucretius, meaning Lucilius, as the two names were often confused. The sixth book was regarded by the poet as the last;<sup>4</sup> it is in a more unfinished state than any of the others. Book I treats of the nature of the atoms and the void with a criticism of the rival systems of Heraclitus, Empedocles, and Anaxagoras. Book II discusses the qualities of the atoms, their motion, shapes, arrangement; these books lay the foundation for his philosophy. Book III gives the composition of the human soul and numerous arguments to prove its mortality. The conclusion of this book on the true significance of death is of great beauty, pathos, and sublimity. Book IV explains the Epicurean theory of visual images, and the operation of the senses; the way in which the mind and will are excited; and the passion of love. Book V shows how the world was formed, the movement of sun, moon, and stars, eclipses, the origin of man, and the progress of human society, the discovery of language, and the development of art and religion. This book is, perhaps, the most readable, as the poet treats matters of perennial and universal interest. The last six hundred lines are especially interesting and seem nearly finished. The subject-matter of this book should have followed the second in logical order, but as the purpose of the work was to free men from the terrors of superstition,<sup>5</sup> which to Lucretius' mind were indissolubly united to the belief in the soul's immortality, he delayed until this matter might be settled, even to the supplying of a rational explanation for apparitions in Book IV. In the sketchy outline of the poem in 1,127 sq., solis lunaeque meatus is named before the animi natura; but, in the final order of the books, the fifth<sup>1</sup> appears as a logical successor of the fourth in showing that the world is mortal like men.<sup>2</sup> The sixth is varied in its contents. Certain phenomena demanded explanation, and the poet probably both selected the subjects and determined the scope of the treatment in accordance with the interest which he himself felt, or supposed his contemporaries to take in them: certain problems, however, as may be seen by comparing Seneca's Naturales Quaestiones, would be ordinarily discussed. So he gives the causes of thunder and lightning, of the formation of the clouds, of rain, earthquakes, volcanoes; the rising of the Nile, the magnet; concluding with a description of the plague at Athens, in which he follows Thucydides, but not slavishly.

The poem was intended for Memmius — 'versibus . . . quos ego de rerum natura pangere conor | Memmiadae nostro.'<sup>3</sup> Who this Memmius was is a matter of pure conjecture. Lucretius tells us little: the family was illustrious,<sup>4</sup> the two were to be, or were already, friends;<sup>5</sup> and the poet regarded him as a man of worth.<sup>6</sup> Since Lambinus he has been usually identified with C. Memmius,<sup>7</sup> whom Catullus accompanied to Bithynia. He was tribunus plebis in 688/66, praetor 696/58, provincial governor of Bithynia in 697/57. In 701/53 he was accused of bribery as a candidate for the consulship and retired into exile, residing finally at Patrae where he died about 705/49.<sup>8</sup> Cicero mentions him, in the Brutus, 247, as one interested in Greek literature especially, a man of some oratorical ability, but of an indolent character. He lived a profligate life, and it seems difficult to harmonize Lucretius' reverence for his character with the man's reputation.<sup>1</sup> The name was illustrious, and coins have been found of the Memmian family, bearing an image of Venus crowned by Cupid, which connects the invocation to 'Aeneadum genetrix'<sup>2</sup> with the dedication to Memmius. The family traced its descent to Mnestheus, companion of Aeneas. There are some letters of Cicero addressed to Memmius, contained in the thirteenth book of the collection ad Familiares, and he appears to have written erotic poems.<sup>3</sup>

As one reads the poem the prominence of Memmius steadily decreases, and the address is more and more to the general reader. In the last five books Memmius is addressed only seven times: twice in Book II (143, 182) and five times in Book V (8, 93, 164, 867, 1282); and his name usually takes the reader by surprise. In 1, 923 sq. the poet is actuated by the hope of winning praise, presumably from the public. The poem in its present form begins with an address to Memmius which is of later origin than the original proemium (1, 62 sq.). The poet then added the name of Memmius in unimportant places where a spondaic or trochaic word might be displaced.<sup>4</sup> Probably he intended to make similar changes in Books III, IV, and VI.<sup>5</sup> Bockemüller<sup>6</sup> thought Memmius an afterthought; Kannengiesser<sup>7</sup> maintained that the addresses to Memmius could be detached from the 'carmen continuum' and were later additions — a view properly controverted by Brandt.<sup>8</sup> Schanz<sup>9</sup> would have the public virtually addressed from the first.

The object of the work is to convert the reader to Epicureanism; ignorance of the philosophical principles is assumed, hence the poem falls into the class of didactic poetry. Patin<sup>10</sup> has discussed the question whether didactic poetry is really admissible, deciding that it is when the subject is imperfectly known, incomplete, and provokes curiosity—conditions applicable to this poem of Lucretius. He had been preceded by Ennius, Accius, and Lucilius, and had evidently studied closely Cicero's translation of Aratus; his own influence was strong on Manilius, but the later writers in this branch were more strongly influenced by Virgil and Ovid.

The poem of Lucretius is one of the principal sources of our knowledge of Epicureanism. Philosophy, said Epicurus,<sup>1</sup> is an activity that by doctrine and reasoning prepares the way for the happy life. The main problems of philosophy are two: first, the theory of man and the universe, with the explanation of man's position therein, his constitution and natural powers, that is to say, the physiology (φυσιολογία) or philosophy of nature,<sup>2</sup> called physics in other systems. The second division embraces the practical application of the knowledge so acquired to the regulation of conduct (ethics). Dialectic, which Epicurus called Canonic, occupied a position of great inferiority in comparison with the other two.

Epicurus borrowed his system of physics from Democritus,<sup>3</sup> whose essential principles were the following:<sup>4</sup> I. Out of nothing arises nothing;<sup>5</sup> nothing that is can be destroyed. All change is only combination and separation of atoms, i.e. the modern doctrine of the indestructibility of matter and of perseverance of force, equivalent to conservation of energy. This appeared to Kant as the first 'analogy of experience.' In all change of phenomena matter is permanent, and the quantity thereof in nature is neither increased nor diminished. II. Nothing happens by chance, but everything through a cause and of necessity. III. Nothing exists but atoms and empty space; all else is only opinion. IV. The atoms are indefinite in number and of endless variety of form. In the eternal fall through infinite space<sup>1</sup> the greater, which fall more quickly,<sup>2</sup> strike against the lesser, and the lateral movements and vortices that thus arise are the commencement of the formation of worlds. Innumerable worlds are formed and perish successively and simultaneously. Epicurus differed here in making atoms infinite in number, but not infinitely various in form.<sup>3</sup> V. The variety of all things is a consequence of the variety of their atoms in number, size, figure, and arrangement; there is no qualitative difference in atoms. They have no 'internal conditions,' and act on one another only by pressure or collision. VI. The soul consists of fine smooth round atoms like those of fire.<sup>4</sup> These atoms are most mobile, and by their motion, which permeates the whole body, the phenomena of life are produced. The doctrine of the quicker descent of the greater atoms was attacked by Aristotle,<sup>5</sup> for which reason Epicurus introduced his theory of fortuitous deviation of the atoms laterally, the cinamen or swerve,<sup>6</sup> since in empty space there is no resistance and all bodies must fall equally fast; a principle which seems to agree with modern physics, although the ancients had no satisfactory theory of gravitation.<sup>7</sup>

The fundamental principle, that from nothing nothing comes, was common to all the ontological systems of antiquity.<sup>8</sup> All that is consists of atoms and void, ātropos καὶ κενόν. An atom, philosophically speaking, is a continued body under one immutable superficies, existing in a determined time and place.<sup>9</sup> The atom of Democritus is not sensible, but ideal; it belongs wholly to thought, even when we say that atoms exist.<sup>10</sup> The ancient atom was geometrical, forming geometrical aggregations;<sup>11</sup> a modern molecule<sup>12</sup> is a compound body possessing powers of spontaneity and movement, is perpetually vibrating with endless capacity for changing its form; it is subject to measurement, not merely infinitesimal; thus 2,000,000 molecules of hydrogen = 1 mm.<sup>1</sup> It is customary, says Lewes,<sup>2</sup> to apply the term 'molecule' to compounds, and the term 'atom' to constituents of these molecules; but very often atom and molecule are used interchangeably to express the smallest possible particle of a substance. These 'architectural atoms'<sup>3</sup> are infrangible and indestructible; they are hard and solid or they would wear out;<sup>4</sup> they have different shapes capable of manifold combinations;<sup>5</sup> the large and heavy atoms unite forming earth and water, while the small and light make air and fire; afterwards come plants and animals. The void between these atoms is absolute emptiness, for the atoms need space in which to move. Here again is an important point of departure. Two great systems, says Lewes,<sup>6</sup> embrace all minor systems: atomism and dynamism. The one regards matter<sup>7</sup> as constituted by infinitesimal units of constant values with interspaces of variable values; these interspaces are supposed by one school to be filled with a peculiar medium, also constituted by units and interspaces; by another, to be pure space. The atom of Lord Kelvin is a vortex ring of ethereal medium in which light and heat are propagated by vibrations. The recent experiments with radium by Crookes, Lodge, and the Curies tend to establish a theory that the atom is a system of infinitely small but identical units, all in orbital motion. The hydrogen atom is supposed to consist of 700 such units, that of oxygen of 11,200, and these corpuscles are supposed to be electrical. Radium is ceived but conceived. It is the smallest portion of matter which we can reach by our means of dividing, while atom is the least possible of all divisions,' Fleming, Vocab. of Phil. 322-323. supposed to contain 150,000 electrons in each one of its atoms.<sup>1</sup> The hypotheses of atoms with hooks, with special movements, with polyhedral forms such as these of Democritus and Epicurus, Lewes<sup>2</sup> classes as qualitative atomism, and contrasts with the modern hypotheses of atoms having chronometric vibrations which are the logical equivalents of experiments and are not fictions to supplement observations.<sup>3</sup> With these fundamental conceptions an explanation of all phenomena is given. Man himself is a mixture of body and soul, which are themselves aggregations of atoms, capable of dissolution and mortal. Mental concepts are produced by the action of images on the mind ; these images are dislodged from the surfaces of all objects while retaining the shapes of them.

Some images, indeed, are formed in the air spontaneously. When a man wishes to think of anything, an image is ready to his mind, as they are very numerous. Vision is produced by the simulacra meeting the eye. There is absolutely no design in nature ; the members of the body are found useful and were not made with that intention ;<sup>4</sup> the world is so full of defects that it cannot be a divine work.<sup>5</sup> All being fortuitous, there are innumerable worlds, and this one of ours will pass away.<sup>6</sup> It would be as absurd to suppose only one world in the infinite as to conceive a great wheat field with only a single stalk of grain in it, said Metrodorus.<sup>7</sup> Giordano Bruno borrowed this conception of the infinity of worlds, and combining it with the system of Copernicus, taught that our solar system was but one of many.<sup>8</sup>

As for the Epicurean ethics, one could hardly construct a system from Lucretius. His great aim was to free men from the fear of the gods, and to release them from the heavy burden of religion.<sup>9</sup> Here and there ethical principles are inserted ;<sup>10</sup> his theory of conduct can more easily be gained from innumerable light touches in the poem, and by the spirit of the man as it appears in his work. Pleasure, of course, was the highest good to Epicurus, but as he wrote to Menoeceus, 'when we say that pleasure<sup>1</sup> is the chief good we are not speaking of the pleasures of the debauched, or those which lie in sensual enjoyment, as some think who are ignorant, and who do not entertain our opinions, or else interpret them perversely; but we mean the freedom of the body from pain, and of the soul from confusion. For it is not continued drinking or revels . . . that make life pleasant, but sober contemplation, which examines into the reasons for all choice or avoidance, and which puts to flight the vain opinions from which arises the greater part of the confusion that troubles the soul.'<sup>2</sup> This again is not far different from the cheerfulness, εὐθυμία, of Democritus, the condition according to which the soul lives calmly and steadily, being disturbed by no fear or superstition or other passion.<sup>3</sup> The ancients distinguished two kinds of pleasure: ἡδονή, the positive pleasure proceeding from the active satisfying of needs, the ἡδονή ἐν κινήσει; and the more important pleasure of freedom from pain, which is consistent with the perfect calm that follows on satisfied desires, ἡδονὴ καταστηματική.<sup>4</sup> Epicurus borrowed his ethical system from Aristippus and the Cyrenaics, but differed from them in allowing the pleasure of both rest and motion, which they limited to motion alone. They also considered the pains of the body to be worse than those of the mind, and found the chief good in a particular pleasure, happiness consisting in a number of particular pleasures among which both those which are past and those which are future are enumerated. The banishment of pain, as it is called by Epicurus, they denied to be a pleasure; for the absence of pleasure is not pain, since both pleasure and pain consist in motion; and neither the absence of pleasure nor the absence of pain is motion.<sup>1</sup> This resulting state of apathy, which so large a proportion of the Greek moralists in the post-Aristotelian period regarded as the ideal state of existence, was not, says Sidgwick,<sup>2</sup> really conceived by them as 'without one pleasure, and without one pain'; but rather as a state of placid intellectual contemplation, which in philosophic minds might easily reach a high degree of pleasure. Certain principles of living followed logically on such a system. 'Nocet empta dolore voluptas,' 'nil admirari,' were two known to Horace.<sup>3</sup> For a pleasure which would eventually be overbalanced by pain would cease to be a pleasure, and to be possessed by a longing would militate against peace of mind. The wise man will not indulge in drunkenness, says Epicurus, nor will he entangle himself in the affairs of state.<sup>4</sup> The Epicurean makes himself the centre of the world, views all action with reference to himself, indulges in or abstains from pleasure according to the result of cold-blooded calculation. Epicurus prided himself on his abstinence: 'less than an obol serves me for a meal; Metrodorus, who has not yet made so great progress, a whole obol.'<sup>5</sup> Pain he could endure, for if long, it must be light.<sup>6</sup> This elasticity would enable many minds to adapt the system to their virtues and vices.<sup>7</sup> The luxurious would see in it an exhortation to their own vices;<sup>8</sup> the temperate a scientific exposition of temperance.<sup>9</sup>

Lucretius shows himself a bitter enemy of religion as he understood it. He calls it turpis,<sup>1</sup> gravis,<sup>2</sup> and describes near the beginning of the poem the impious deeds that religion has perpetrated,<sup>3</sup> and yet he acknowledges the existence of the gods, and commences the poem with a prayer to Venus. There is an unmistakable earnestness in the tone of Lucretius, says Wallace,<sup>4</sup> when he speaks of the awful load of religion under which the world of his time lay crushed. And, strange as it may sound, the very idea of a divine providence watching over the ways and fates of men meant only the uneasy and gruesome sense of a ghostlike presence always hovering round.<sup>5</sup> Contrary to the Greek custom,<sup>6</sup> the Romans did not name their children after the gods.<sup>7</sup> Superstition would be a fairer name than religion, if, as has been said, it is rather deisidaimonia, an unreasonable fear of supernatural powers. Any form of belief which teaches that the unseen powers which are above man are also hostile to him and mean to do him an evil, so that they must, if possible, be kept in good temper at any cost, is superstition. The gospel of Epicurus declared that man has no longer a tyrant in heaven, even if he has no friend there. As for the friendship of the gods, such a thing was inconceivable to Lucretius, hence the withdrawing of fear from the gods emptied belief of practical significance and brought the charge of atheism on the school.<sup>8</sup> Epicurus taught the existence of the gods, it is true, but he placed their abode in the far-off, midway spaces of the worlds, where nothing could interrupt their tranquillity.<sup>9</sup> He gave them no place in the economy of the world, and their only use was to serve as types of perfection. According to the very first of his articles of faith, the blessed and incorruptible has no toil nor trouble of its own, and causes none to others; it is subject neither to anger nor favor, for (and this is important) ἐν ἀσθετεῖ γὰρ πᾶν τὸ τοὐσῦτον.<sup>10</sup> Any worship rendered to the gods is inspired neither by hopes nor fears, but simply by the outgoing of the spirit toward more august beings who enjoy superhuman blessedness.<sup>1</sup> Still, in spite of his opposition to the religion of the day, which indeed appears to have been shared by the intelligent of his time, Lucretius shows a deep religious spirit, a devout reverence for the powers of nature, which he in effect deifies. Sellar<sup>2</sup> sees in his acknowledgment of the incompatibility of the immensity of the universe with the constant agency and interference of the gods, a step, negative idea as it is, in advance toward a higher conception of the deity. As for his personal religion, there is no living without a pure heart;<sup>3</sup> it is not piety to lie prostrate before the shrines of the gods, but 'mage pacata posse omnia mente tueri.'<sup>4</sup> The origin of society is from nature, without ethical significance: men are thrown together, and for mutual advantage deny themselves part of their natural rights for the good of the whole; this is the fallacious theory of the social contract which is reflected in so many of our state constitutions.<sup>5</sup> Law, justice, honor, marriage, property, and all the usages and safeguards of society rest only on the will of the majority.<sup>6</sup> The most important condition for the living a happy life was the freedom from dread of a second existence after this life: 'levamur superstitione, liberamur mortis metu,' says the Epicurean in Cicero.<sup>7</sup> The Christian conception of immortality is altogether different from that of the Greeks and Romans, and no ancient poet has conceived immortality in the Christian sense; the second life to the pagans was as sad as death and vain as emptiness.<sup>8</sup> Their conception was dim: now the soul wanders below in darkness, living a joyless existence; now it is attached to the grave of the departed.<sup>9</sup> The punishment for evil committed in this life had long ceased to have any practical influence in Lucretius' time. All that Cicero could say was that if there were to be a second life, it would be good and not evil.<sup>10</sup> The immortality men looked for was the memory of their deeds in the minds of men; and death at the best was a release from toil and a quiet rest. Hence the position of Lucretius was logical and definite; correct also, if one grants his premises. It is an error to suppose that for the ancients there was anything of desolation in the negation of a future life.<sup>1</sup> The Epicurean logic is analogous to inductive logic (I quote Wallace<sup>2</sup> again). It lays down the senses as the first and, we may say, the ultimate court of appeal for the criterion of reality.<sup>3</sup> They never can be mistaken,<sup>4</sup> though the mind may be wrong in the inferences it draws from them.<sup>5</sup> This is the first principle, and the second is that the unknown is regulated by the same laws as the known; that is, the operations of the world invisible to the senses follow, on a larger or less scale, the same principles which govern the operation of the visible world. The canon of inference is: everything that is supposed to happen in the sphere beyond knowledge must follow the same laws of operation that govern what is known to occur within the range of our experience.<sup>6</sup> Conclusions rest on analogy for the most part, not on induction.<sup>7</sup> The treatise of Philodemus on Symptoms and Symptomatization<sup>8</sup> is mainly a defence of the analogical argument. The Stoics refused to admit anything but purely deductive reasoning.<sup>9</sup> The Epicurean theory of knowledge was correspondingly simple: the mind receives its notions through the senses; when these become sufficiently numerous, a general idea, πρόληψις, is stored up; these general ideas serve as a basis of comparison and argument, but the ultimate criterion is the sense.<sup>10</sup>

The system of Epicurus has been ridiculed from the beginning: 'res tota facta pueriliter,' says Cicero.<sup>11</sup> Lactantius<sup>12</sup> and many others have objected that the atoms cannot be perceived, an objection which Lucretius himself attempted to forestall.<sup>13</sup> Hume<sup>14</sup> pronounced it the most absurd system that had yet been proposed; and Macaulay<sup>15</sup> has said that the greatest didactic poem in any language was written in defence of the silliest and meanest of all systems of natural and moral philosophy. 'The entire foundation of the system is essentially defective and insecure; his first principles are crude, loose, and puerile. Such, for instance, is his conception of gravity, and this conception is the cornerstone of his whole edifice. Weight, as he explains it, and the tendency of every substance to be forever falling downwards, is, strictly speaking, unthinkable. How, in infinity, can there be an up or down? Again, he cannot conceive the propagation of energy without the propagation of matter. He knew nothing of the interaction of bodies by means of ether-vibrations.'<sup>1</sup> Of the inadequacy of the system Cudworth<sup>2</sup> wrote, 'Notwithstanding they acknowledge nothing else in matter beside magnitude, figure, site, and motion, yet they would make not only the power of sensation, but also of intellect and ratiocination, and, therefore, all human souls, to arise from the mere contexture of corporeal atoms, and utterly explode all incorporeal substances; than which two assertions nothing can be more contradictory.' The system fails to explain one of the chief phenomena of nature,—that is, the change of qualities that takes place in a single substance, as when hot things become cold, sweet things rancid.<sup>3</sup> Ritter,<sup>4</sup> indeed, goes so far in his hostility as to declare that Epicurus could not admit of any knowledge of that which really and truly is, since he resolved all things into atoms and void, which he declared to be both imperceptible and inconceivable, and consequently to elude cognition. Again, if the atoms should be infinitely divisible, all things would ultimately be non-existent, and in turn all things would then be produced from nothing, which is in opposition to his first great principle.<sup>5</sup> The atoms are indivisible and yet some have shapes, being hooked, for example; this very quality would allow of divisibility; they also rebound from one another although inelastic. As for the theory of knowledge, Martineau<sup>6</sup> remarks, 'Why this figure in the atomic dance means hearing, and that means vision, or why any of them means anything in a mental world which they cannot enter, is absolutely hidden from him; nay, must ever be so; for the sphere of physical knowledge is without contact with the sphere of consciousness, and can deal with no problems but those which can be expressed in terms of matter and motion.' 'The relation of external movements to sensation remains inconceivable, and the more light is thrown upon it, only a more glaring contradiction is revealed.'<sup>1</sup> Other points could be mentioned: his stolid persistence that the sun is no larger than it looks to be;<sup>2</sup> that the gods are immortal while constantly giving forth films;<sup>3</sup> the improbability of highly organized bodies forming themselves<sup>4</sup> through chance, or Nature that proves to be merely 'the habits of matter'.<sup>5</sup> The two great problems — how thinking can come from material atoms, and how the continuity of consciousness can be joined to the constant flux of atoms — have never received an adequate explanation from materialists.<sup>6</sup> The Epicurean ethics reduces to pure egoism; it rests on each man's conception of his own private good, and owing to the imperfection of the human race the foundation is insecure. But it should constantly be remembered that it was not Epicurus' intention to build up a complete scientific system; his physic and canonic are ancillary to his ethic, and his ethical ideals, expressed in unsystematic form, have little in common with the ethics of other schools. Virgil and Ovid share many of his errors in physics, but the difference in their purpose in writing has saved them from a like criticism.<sup>7</sup> On the other hand, Epicurus popularized Atomism, which was thus saved to become the foundation of modern science; he taught the important truth that the phenomena of the universe are governed by the same laws which are visibly working in lower spheres; he cleared away from the conception of the deity many superstitious notions and made the way clear for a purer theology; he emphasized the value of frugality and the peace of an unambitious life; he taught men to observe and think on natural phenomena; his system, especially in the time of Lucretius, was a healthy reaction from the wiredrawn distinctions of the

There is a statement, not well attested, that two Epicureans were expelled from Rome about the middle of the second century, on the ground of immoral influence on the young.<sup>2</sup> All the schools of philosophy were regarded with a jealous eye by the older Romans. Stoicism was the first to be tolerated, since it harmonized more easily with the ancient Roman character. The Peripatetic school never attained to much influence, and the Academic, in its final development, supplied only a criterion of truth, while allowing eclecticism in other departments of philosophy. In Caesar's time Epicureanism was well established; he and most of his adherents belonged to the school.<sup>3</sup>

Before Cicero, such philosophical literature as existed among the Romans was Epicurean,<sup>4</sup> and its great popularity among the common people is shown by the character of the rolls exhumed at Herculaneum and by works of art from Pompeii. In addition to such strict Epicureans as Velleius, Atticus, and Sergius Orata, there were some who, as eclectics, approved of many tenets of the school, as Horace and the elder Pliny, and even Varro; and there were doubtless thousands who made the easy principles of the system a cloak for immorality and vicious lives.<sup>5</sup> The theory was easily comprehensible; it required no knowledge of mathematics, no training in logic,<sup>6</sup> and the traditional ethics of the Roman community would veil the imperfection of that part of the system. It has been remarked that the whole of the Roman Epicurean literature is devoted to physics.<sup>7</sup> Only names here survive—Egnatius, Varro of Atax, Catius Insuber, Amafinius, Rabirius, are mentioned; with the exception of Varro, their writings had no stylistic value: ‘omnes Catii et Amafinii, mali verborum interpres,’ Cassius<sup>8</sup> calls them. The sectarian spirit of the various philosophical schools appears in Lucretius, and in Cicero, particularly when he is using Stoic principles. Both Stoics and Epicureans were sure that they were right, and arrogated all orthodoxy to themselves while anathematizing their opponents. 'The Stoics had an ineffable contempt for the weakness and effeminacy of the Epicureans. The Epicureans had an ineffable contempt for the spasmodic rigidity and unnatural exaggeration of the Stoics. They libelled each other; but the libels against the Epicureans have met with more general credit than those against the Stoics, from the more imposing character of the latter both in their actions and in their doctrines.'<sup>1</sup> The word 'epicure' itself is the proof of the Stoic victory. The distinctive features of Epicureanism have never been imitated, and probably never will be, as the system was a product of its environment, which will never return.<sup>2</sup> Christian influence was, on the whole, opposed to Epicureanism.<sup>3</sup> Jerome and St. Augustine<sup>4</sup> used the maxims of Lucretius, many of which have so close a resemblance to those of Ecclesiastes and Ecclesiasticus; but Christians could have no sympathy with a philosophy which dethroned God, admitted no future life, and was persistently misrepresented by the Stoics.<sup>5</sup> The Epicurean was almost alone in having no representatives among the fathers.<sup>6</sup> The Hebrew transliteration of the word among the Rabbinical writers was used to mean free-thinker, loose liver, and transgressor of the Mosaic law. Korah and the serpent that tempted Eve are Epicureans.<sup>7</sup> Manilius wrote the first formal refutation of Lucretius from the Stoic position, and after the invention of printing several books were aimed at the pernicious heresy: Palearius, Capicius, Polignac, Ceva, in Latin; More and Blackmore in English; Genest in French; Marchetti in Italian — all of whom Fabricius<sup>8</sup> estimates; later, one Brookes wrote in German.<sup>9</sup> The most ambitious of these was the Anti-Lucretius of Melchior, Cardinal de Polignac,<sup>10</sup> a posthumous publication in nine books, best known in the Leipzig edition of 1748. It is a dull and wearisome exposition of the Cartesian

system.<sup>1</sup> The bitterness of the opposition to Lucretius may be judged from the remark of Bougainville, Polignac's translator:<sup>2</sup> 'Some reflections on the vanity of human greatness, some maxims, stern and therefore inconsistent, sown in his poem, serve as a pretext to raise to a work of morality a poem where obscenity reigns and which breathes only irreligion.'<sup>3</sup> Gassendi, the reviver of Epicureanism, thought it necessary to add to his syntagma of the philosophy an exposition of the points wherein it was opposed to Christianity. The early editors felt constrained to defend themselves for their interest in such a writer. Lambinus has a long argument to show that in editing other authors he would not adopt their erroneous opinions,<sup>4</sup> and Faber prints a sermon before the third book, the most dangerous of all. Lemaire was forbidden by Louis XVIII to publish Lucretius in his Bibliotheca Classica Latina, and in the later supplementary volumes containing the poem, he states that he knew of but one manuscript of Lucretius in Paris (I, xii).<sup>5</sup> Walter Burleigh, in his De vitis et moribus Philosophorum, declared, 'erravit Epicurus in multis plus quam omnes philosophi'; and J. Lipsius said, 'Epicureos communis sensus iugulavit';<sup>6</sup> finally, Lord Byron<sup>7</sup> testifies that 'Lucretius' irreligion is too strong | For early stomachs to prove wholesome food.' Now all see that, granting the principles of the system, absurd as they are, the atoms and void need explanation still; the problem of a creator and a providential divinity is simply pushed farther back; Lucretius the poet is read, the philosopher is without influence.

Epicureanism was revived in the seventeenth century by Sennert,<sup>1</sup> a physician of Wittenberg, who goes back of Democritus to the more or less mythical Phoenician Mochus or Moschus;<sup>2</sup> then by Chrysostom Magnenus of Padua; but especially by Gassendi (born 1592), who added the principle of a divine superintendency from which the first motion of the atoms should be derived.<sup>3</sup> The materialists of the eighteenth century used and studied Lucretius, and it is only recently that the debt due him has been denied.<sup>4</sup> Kant called Epicurus the foremost philosopher of the sensible, as Plato was the foremost philosopher of the intellectual. He devotes a special eulogy to Epicurus, because in his conclusions he never transcended the limits of experience.<sup>5</sup> De la Mettrie, with his L'Homme Machine, Büchner, with Kraft und Stoff, are lineal descendants of Democritus and Epicurus.<sup>6</sup> Hobbes, with his Leviathan, is perhaps the English philosopher upon whom Epicureanism had the strongest influence; but the agreement of Newton's<sup>7</sup> corpuscular theory of light with that of Lucretius has often been noticed.

In tracing the authorities used by Lucretius, it is necessary to distinguish between his literary models and the sources of his philosophical doctrine. Doubtless the form of the work is due to Empedocles<sup>8</sup> of Agrigentum, who wrote a didactic poem on nature. Empedocles is complimented as the most brilliant production of Sicilian soil.<sup>9</sup> In the fifth book Lucretius probably follows him in tracing the origin of man from the earth, in describing the production of defective monsters, and in distributing the various animals over the earth in proportion to the amount of each of the primal four elements possessed by each.<sup>10</sup> For the subject-matter Epicurus is the first source: he had written thirty-seven books περὶ φύσεως.<sup>11</sup> Lucretius acknowledges his indebtedness in most abject terms,<sup>1</sup> regarding himself as a mere intermediary between Epicurus and the Romans. Democritus is treated with respect;<sup>2</sup> Lucretius was familiar with the points of difference between him and his own master; agreeing closely in many points, the trend of their systems was quite different. Democritus aimed at science, Epicurus merely at a view of nature which might bring inward calm.<sup>3</sup> Heraclitus<sup>4</sup> and Anaxagoras<sup>5</sup> are refuted, but he shows no deep knowledge of their systems and very likely knew them only in a general way.<sup>6</sup> Plato,<sup>7</sup> Homer, and the Greek tragedians he knew as an educated man would know them. Munro, indeed, has traced imitations of Euripides<sup>8</sup> and Hippocrates;<sup>9</sup> there is a paraphrase of Homer in the third book, and the description of the Athenian plague in the sixth is taken from Thucydides. His medical knowledge, there and at the close of the fourth book especially, may be due to the Greek physician Asclepiades, who lived at Rome, and was the friend of Crassus, Antony, and Cicero.<sup>10</sup> To Homer he gives extravagant praise as chief of poets.<sup>11</sup> But in form, as a Latin, he owes most to Ennius, first and foremost of poets;<sup>12</sup> Lachmann has noted several passages as direct borrowings from him.<sup>13</sup> As Gifanius<sup>14</sup> long ago expressed it, Ennius is avus, Lucretius pater, Vergilius filius. In metre he imitated Cicero's<sup>15</sup> treatment in his juvenile translations from Aratus, but his model of style, of poetic diction and ornament, of grammar and of linguistic treatment generally, was Ennius.<sup>16</sup> It would be unjust to demand originality of thought in the sense of a development of, or addition to, the system;<sup>17</sup> the tendency of the Roman character to imitate, rather than to create, in literature applied with special force to writers on philosophical subjects.<sup>1</sup> 'His originality consists, not in any material expansion or modification of the Epicurean doctrine, but in the new life which he has imparted to its exposition, and in the poetical power with which he has applied it to reveal the secret of the life of nature and man's true position in the world.'<sup>2</sup> He doubtless manifested a more bitter hatred of the influence of the Roman religion than appears in the attitude of Epicurus toward that of the Greeks;<sup>3</sup> and, of course, by the mere passing through his mind, and being cast in a poetic mould, the aspect of the philosophy must have changed.<sup>4</sup> Furthermore, he drew on his own stores of knowledge and experience in his interpretation of the philosophy, preëminently on his legal and medical learning. His early literary training had made him familiar with the masterpieces of Greek literature, and he had heard the spoken word of the great orators of the republic to whom his rhetoric is due. He gave himself and all that he had to Epicurus' cause; one needs only to read the dry letters preserved in Diogenes Laertius to understand how much the system owes to the fire of Lucretius' genius.

By his own confession Lucretius is a difficult author — 'nec me animi fallit Graiorum obscura reperta | difficile inlustrire Latinis versibus esse';<sup>5</sup> nova res molitur ad auris | accidere';<sup>6</sup> hence the famous criticism of Quintilian causes no surprise: 'Macer et Lucretius legendi quidem, sed non ut phrasin, id est, corpus eloquentiae faciant; elegantes in sua quisque materia, sed alter humilis, alter difficilis.'<sup>7</sup> There would be little advantage to an orator in reading Lucretius; his style is unsuitable for oratory: there are few commonplaces for transference to orations, and the style was too antique for imitation in Quintilian's time. The difficulty lay in the philosophy, which was hard to express through the Latin in a way that could be understood by negligent readers who had been instructed in other schools.<sup>8</sup> Lucretius, says Conington,<sup>9</sup> complains of the poverty of his native language, but the complaint is made in the interest of science, not in that of poetry; of the need of a diction and a metre worthy of being compared with those of the Greek masterpieces he does not appear to be conscious. Barring the philosophic difficulty Lucretius is plain enough,<sup>1</sup> although there are some passages which are hopelessly obscure through textual corruption.<sup>2</sup> Faber<sup>3</sup> says he cannot be read by boys and should not if he could; but the first charge is removed by the labors of the editors since Faber's time,<sup>4</sup> and the second by the freedom and strength of true religion in our day.

At the time Lucretius wrote, poetry and prose had not been authoritatively separated in Latin literature,<sup>5</sup> and his work shares the faults of the time. There are in the poem passages of great beauty and imaginative power, but there are also most arid wastes of dry argument which, if taken out of their metrical setting, might be well regarded as 'clear, vigorous rhetorical prose of a somewhat redundant and ornate character.'<sup>6</sup> In a most sympathetic article Symonds<sup>7</sup> has pointed out the stylistic beauties of the poem: the administration of the Epicurean philosophy as if it were an army, the marshalling of his arguments like legionaries, the majestic corridors of the poem, the want of any breathing space, and the stop at the end as if a scythe sweep from the hand of death had cut the singing short. Much of this is true, yet it is doubtful if the ordinary reader could either see the grounds for, or accept, such praise without qualification. Speaking especially of the resting places in the fifth book, Conington,<sup>8</sup> granting their greatness, finds obvious signs of an immature development of art: the grandeur is too long drawn out, too uniformly solemn; the grace and graphic beauty have an air of negligence and rusticity; there is gold, but it is gold still encumbered with dross, not gold purified and refined like that of Conington's favorite, Virgil.

Joseph Warton, in estimating the descriptive powers of Lucretius, said that he was more than a painter, he was a sculptor. Lessing<sup>9</sup> has praised the description of the procession of the seasons,<sup>10</sup> differing from Spence, who thought it might have been taken from an actual procession which the poet had seen. The sacrifice of Iphigenia<sup>11</sup> is portrayed with such vividness that it may have been copied from a painting, or might serve as the basis for a painting; the description of a cow seeking her offspring,<sup>1</sup> and the procession of Cybele<sup>2</sup> furnish also the material for a detailed picture. But Lucretius does not introduce these descriptions for mere ornament; he never forgets his real purpose in writing his poem, and the 'descriptions are diagrams illustrating his text.'<sup>3</sup> His illustrations, too, are apt, and rarely taken from mythology; they are mostly from nature,<sup>4</sup> or from the daily life of a Roman:<sup>5</sup> the sheep grazing on the distant hill, the army moving about in its evolutions, the purple color fading as the threads are drawn from the cloth, the dance of the motes in the sunbeam, the sea beach with its variegated shells, the apparent movement of objects on the shore as the boat passes by on the river, the columns seeming to whirl to the dizzy child, the monstrous shapes sometimes taken by the clouds, the effect of wine, the scythe-bearing chariots reeking with gore, the odor of spices and myrrh, the doorway illustrating the mirror, the square tower appearing round in the distance and the bent appearance of the stick in water, the dream life of animals and men, the wearing away of stone by falling water, of pavement by the feet of passers-by, of a ring by use; the conflagration of a field of grain by a little spark, the drying of wet clothes by the wind and sunshine, the striking of fire by flint and steel.<sup>6</sup> Veitch<sup>7</sup> has noticed that in the imaginative passages visual space forms the groundwork: the dark blue of the great universe,<sup>8</sup> the vast azure level of ocean,<sup>9</sup> the all-illuminating sun.<sup>10</sup> These illustrations are clear-cut, plain, and leave little to the imagination. Virgil works by allusion, Lucretius never does;<sup>1</sup> his effects are gained by the direct presentation of a distinct image. Goethe once analyzed his poetical power and found it to consist in his habit of observation and imaginative force. Observation can be physiological and pathological, and the poet possessed both. Imaginative force is imitative and productive, and these qualities appear in his analogies and illustrations.<sup>2</sup>

The Latinity of the poem is indubitable. Lambinus, who was one of the greatest Latinists the world has seen, declares, 'nullum in tota lingua Latina scriptorem Lucretio Latine melius esse locutum : non M. Tullii, non C. Caesaris orationem esse puriorem';<sup>3</sup> and Lachmann,<sup>4</sup> peer of Lambin, proclaims him 'castissimum Latinitatis auctorem.' Conington, although disposed, as we have seen, to deprecate his poetic merit, speaks of his sound, pure, idiomatic Latin.<sup>5</sup> Lucretius allowed himself to use some antique forms, no doubt intentionally following Ennius: such are the passive infinitive ending in -ier; the genitive in -ai,<sup>6</sup> contractions like abstraxe, -at for -avit; the forms cimus, tuimur, percit, instead of the usual conjugation-forms; ablatives in -i for -e and -x for -i; datives in u, -om for -um. He has, mainly for metrical convenience, many new forms of nouns in -ia, -us, -as, -ura;<sup>7</sup> adverbs in -iter, -tim, -sim; frequentatives, inceptives, diminutives peculiar to the poem; prepositions, both monosyllabic and dissyllabic, following their nouns; the accusative governed by the neuter gerundive, neuter plural adjective with genitive of nouns, the infinitive used as a noun.<sup>8</sup> His vocabulary has much of the rugged character of that of Ennius and Lucilius, and not infrequently he uses humble words to describe humble matters. In the later books, especially, his style is colored by expressions from the Vulgar Latin, and he is equally careless in syntax, notably in using constructions according to sense. Greek words are rare,<sup>1</sup> except such as had already been Latinized, as he tried to create a Latin philosophical vocabulary. Traces of periods are found here and there in the argumentative passages.

The Lucretian hexameter stands midway between that of Ennius and Virgil. Ennius followed the language of common life to a greater degree, and had fewer words to work with. Lucretius shows an immense advance over him, but falls far short of Virgil in smoothness, in variation of rhythm, and in liveliness.<sup>2</sup> He is more pedantic in observing metrical rules so far as they had been established; but is free from the later law requiring subordinate in addition to principal caesuras;<sup>3</sup> he allows monosyllabic endings freely after dissyllabic or polysyllabic words, and is also fond of sonorous conclusions with words of several syllables.<sup>4</sup> He allows variation between the word and verse accent in the fifth and sixth feet. The caesuras and elisions<sup>5</sup> are frequently awkward, and his contractions violent. Prosaic verse-endings, such as id ita esse,<sup>6</sup> are not infrequent. Spondaic lines are numerous, although entirely lacking in the sixth book.<sup>7</sup> As compared with Virgil, he begins the verse with diaeresis after two dactyls,<sup>8</sup> after spondee and dactyl, sometimes dactyl and spondee; and the fourth foot is often contained in a word.<sup>1</sup> He frequently disregards final s in the ancient fashion, uses words in varying quantity, has u equivalent to v, and adds -que to a word ending in short e as with mutareque. The movement is grave, ponderous, majestic, and strong, but also monotonous, heavy, and tiresome.<sup>2</sup> Lachmann calls him 'summus versuum artifex.'<sup>3</sup> In the manner of the older poets he relies much on the outward form of expression: the poem is full of alliteration,<sup>4</sup> assonance, internal rhyme; words having a similar outward form are placed near one another, and different cases of the same word are put in juxtaposition. Sometimes he places words of opposite signification side by side; oxymoron is common, even the use of the same word in different cases.<sup>5</sup> All these ornaments were used sparingly by the Augustan writers, and are properly regarded as characteristic of an immature, and not of a finished, literature. Lucretius has the vigor and the failings of youth. Having this admiration for antiquity, he had no sympathy for the fashionable Alexandrian standard of the day, with its burden of pedantic learning; and what he lost in elegance of expression he gained in seriousness of thought; and by his choice, and through his influence over Virgil, he perhaps saved Latin poetry from yielding wholly to its baneful influence.<sup>6</sup>

In estimating the poem as a work of art it should be remembered that the work is confessedly incomplete and imperfect. Reference has already been made to the poet's premature death, and there is sufficient internal proof of imperfection. From the beginning to the end of the poem evidence of incompleteness continually occurs with increasing frequency; particularly in the second half of the work.<sup>7</sup> The fourth book is much less

finished than those which precede it, and the fifth is unequal. The sixth has a patchwork introduction and closes with a description of the plague at Athens, which is no proper conclusion for such a work.<sup>1</sup> Parts of the poem are first attempts, others are later additions; many passages have no plain connection with the argument. Promises are not kept, notably the one where, after a few words concerning the gods and their abode, he says 'quae tibi posterius largo sermone probabo,'<sup>2</sup> which was never done.<sup>3</sup> The poetry and philosophy are mingled together in a fashion which has called forth severe criticism: 'aliud est enim poetarum more verba fundere, aliud ea, quae dicas, ratione et arte distinguere';<sup>4</sup> yet the ancient philosophy, being indefinite and susceptible of greater embellishment, was more fitted for poetical treatment than modern science.<sup>5</sup> Symonds thinks philosophy in verse was out of date even in Lucretius' time. Jeffrey<sup>6</sup> said that the poet made a mistake in not confining his poetry to the introductions, episodes, and conclusions, giving his philosophy in plain metre, with no pretensions to poetic art; in his opinion any one who can translate his philosophy would prove unequal to his poetry; 'his philosophy,' indeed, is 'insupportable to a modern reader,' just as the Stoicism of Manilius is. The Epicurean philosophy, in addition to the other calumny it has received, has been berated as unpoetical. Says F. Schlegel,<sup>7</sup> 'the philosophy Lucretius had adopted was the worst that a Roman poet could have selected;—that of Epicurus, which, while destroying all belief and all the nobler feelings, and, in a scientific point of view, abounding with the strangest hypotheses, was, if not positively immoral, at least unpatriotic and selfish in its influence on life, as well as fatal to imagination and poetry generally. . . . It is with poignant regret that we contemplate his noble spirit given over to such a pernicious system of Greek sophistry. . . . The form which Lucretius uses in treating scientifically of nature is, in fact, defective, and like his philosophy objectionable.' All will agree with Schlegel's condemnation of the form, but Munro<sup>1</sup> has eloquently answered him and others by showing that neither Stoicism, the Academy, nor the Lyceum would have served any better. 'If we except the abstract exposition of the theory of constituent atoms and of vision, Epicureanism, with its freedom from logic and metaphysics, its direct appeal to the ordinary mind, the pathos of its ethical tone, and the humanistic character of its historical philosophy, seems more congenial to poetry than any of its contemporary systems.'<sup>2</sup>

'Carmina sublimis tunc sunt peritura Lucreti | exitio terras cum dabit una dies,' says Ovid,<sup>3</sup> and posterity has agreed with him in praising the sublimity of the 'history of the speculative conquest of the universe'.<sup>4</sup> 'There is no one in the whole series of ancient Roman writers in poetry and prose who can be placed alongside of Lucretius for the union of high speculative power, deep moral earnestness, and imagination that rises to the loftiest reaches of awe and grandeur,' says Veitch;<sup>4</sup> 'göttlos, aber göttlich,' was G. Hermann's judgment; 'there is poetry in abundance and some of this is the loftiest in all Roman literature,' writes Mallock;<sup>6</sup> 'the sublimest of the Roman poets,' Merivale<sup>6</sup> calls him; 'a certain largeness of touch and amplitude of manner mark him above all others that smote the Latin lyre,' is Andrew Lang's<sup>7</sup> opinion. Bernhardy<sup>8</sup> praises his loftiness of spirit and philosophic depth surpassing all the poets of the Augustan age; and Schlegel,<sup>9</sup> even, says of him 'in sublime enthusiasm he holds the first place among Roman poets; as nature's own minstrel he surpasses all the bards of antiquity.' The poem is Roman from the invocation to 'Aeneadum genetrix' to its end; the majestic march of the thought, the directness of the argument, the practical end in view, are all Roman. What Latin poem besides causes the impression that it was written with a Roman will?<sup>1</sup> The De Rerum Natura is the greatest of Roman poems, says Benn,<sup>2</sup> because it is just the one work where the abstract genius of Rome met with a subject combining an abstract form with the interest and inspiration of concrete reality. 'In Lucretius,' to quote Symonds again, 'Roman character found its most perfect literary incarnation . . . In Lucretius the Roman spirit, disdainful, uncompromising, and forceful, had full sway.'

Some references to Lucretius as found in the ancient writers have already been given.<sup>3</sup> Ovid<sup>4</sup> mentions him again: 'explicat ut causas rapidi Lucretius ignis, | casurumque triplex vaticinatur opus;' Nepos<sup>5</sup> compliments him indirectly in calling Calidius 'post Lucretii Catullique mortem multo elegantissimum poetam.' Tacitus<sup>6</sup> speaks of those who read Lucilius instead of Horace, and Lucretius instead of Virgil. The younger Pliny<sup>7</sup> quotes him once; Vitruvius<sup>8</sup> names him; Velleius Paterculus<sup>9</sup> mentions him with Varro and Catullus; Seneca<sup>10</sup> quotes him, and Serenus Samonicus<sup>11</sup> refers his reader to the fourth book. Lactantius<sup>12</sup> calls him 'inanissimum poetam.' Jessen<sup>13</sup> adds to this traditional list Censorinus and Martianus Capella. Tertullian quotes Lucretius, and Arnobius studied him closely. Probus, according to the probable testimony of Suetonius,<sup>14</sup> edited him critically, and Jerome<sup>15</sup> speaks of a commentary by Donatus; of neither edition nor commentary does any trace remain. There is, however, some doubt whether this work of Donatus was not on Lucilius instead of Lucretius, as the two are frequently confounded by the grammarians.<sup>16</sup> Lucretius was quite unknown in the middle ages, although there are one or two references borrowed from grammarians.<sup>17</sup> He was unknown to Italian literature until the fifteenth century,<sup>1</sup> being introduced by Poggio, who found a manuscript somewhere in Germany and sent a copy<sup>2</sup> of it to his friend Nicolò Niccoli at Florence about 1417.<sup>3</sup>

To the estimates by modern scholars previously given may be added that of Lessing<sup>4</sup> that Lucretius and those like him are verse-makers, but no poets. One can bring a system into verse or rhyme, but the result cannot be a poem. Shaftesbury<sup>5</sup> calls Lucretius 'the great disciple of this un-polite philosophy, who dares with so little equity employ the Muse's art in favor of such a system. But in spite of his philosophy, he everywhere gives way to admiration, and rapturous views of Nature. He is transported with the several Beauties of the World even when he arraigns the Order of it, and destroys the principle of Beauty, from whence in antient Languages the World itself was named.' Byron<sup>6</sup> wrote : 'If Lucretius had not been spoiled by the Epicurean system, we should have had a far superior poem to any now in existence. As mere poetry, it is the first of Latin poems.' Julius Caesar Scaliger pronounced him 'divinus vir atque incomparabilis poeta ;' Mrs. Browning<sup>7</sup> says, 'he died chief poet on the Tiber-side ;' De Quincey<sup>8</sup> admired him as first of demoniacs.

The influence of Lucretius has been twofold : as a poet and as a philosopher. He was a poet's poet among the ancients, and a scholar's poet among the moderns, as Mallock<sup>9</sup> has said ; hence reference to him by name is rare, and his influence on the world has been indirect. Virgil does not name him, yet in the Georgics, especially, his influence is supreme : a mastery well illustrated by the apocryphal legend that the soul of Lucretius at his death entered the body of the poet of husbandry. Gellius,<sup>10</sup> indeed, says, 'non verba autem sola, sed versus prope totos et locos quoque Lucreti plurimos sectatum esse Vergilium videamus.'<sup>11</sup> It is doubtful whether Catullus had read Lucretius.<sup>12</sup>

Ovid has many reminiscences.<sup>1</sup> Horace does not mention him by name, but was under his influence, more particularly when he wrote his Satires.<sup>2</sup> Manilius imitated his style and opposed his philosophy,<sup>3</sup> and the writer of Aetna followed in both. Bruno wrote an imitation, De Universis et Mundis; in France Fontanes, André Chenier, Lebrun, imitated his style and subject,<sup>4</sup> and the English poet Gray attempted a De Principiis Cogitandi to illustrate Locke's philosophy.<sup>5</sup> He is not mentioned by Chaucer, and Spenser's paraphrase of the invocation to Venus is said to be the sole trace of Lucretius in the Elizabethan age.<sup>6</sup> Wordsworth was alone in his sympathy. In the later periods of the nineteenth century Shelley and Tennyson caught his spirit. Munro finds in Milton proof of acquaintance with the poem.<sup>7</sup>

The philosophy has had greater influence by reason of the foreshadowing of modern doctrine. The conception of atoms falling suggested the nebular hypothesis to Kant, its originator.<sup>8</sup> The atomic theory accomplished nothing in ancient times, but served to transmit the spirit of physical inquiry and, as modified by Descartes, Newton, and Boyle, became the foundation of modern science.<sup>9</sup> In its final form the atomic theory is the law of definite proportions; the ancient doctrine is merely the affirmation of indefinite combinations.<sup>10</sup> Between these two conceptions there is precisely the difference between Positive Science and Philosophy. Instead of being similar conceptions, they were neither arrived at in the same way nor have they the same signification.<sup>11</sup> The essence of Dalton's theory—that every element is made up of homogeneous atoms, whose weight is constant, and that chemical compounds are formed by the union of the atoms of different elements in the simplest numerical proportions—this doctrine, says Meyer,<sup>12</sup> has nothing in common with the doctrines of Democritus and Epicurus, in spite of apparent agreement.<sup>1</sup>

The utilitarian school of ethics owed much to Epicureanism. Hume's ethics is developed from Hobbes', and his from Epicurus.<sup>2</sup> There is also an anticipation of the doctrine of evolution in the poem: the earth produces many animals which cannot survive, and men push along in social development; but of the 'modificability of specific forms by the summing up of spontaneous variations in a given direction' the Epicureans had not the slightest suspicion.<sup>3</sup> Other anticipations of modern science on analysis will prove essentially vain, yet, in reading this philosophical epic, one gains a keen pleasure, as when one walks through a picturesque country in the moonlight; the objects are dim, shadowy, and it is impossible to obtain accurate knowledge at the time, although easy to recall the picture previously seen in the broad light of day.

All modern texts of Lucretius rest principally on two manuscripts,<sup>4</sup> both preserved at Leyden. The first, a folio of the ninth century, is called, from its shape, the Oblongus; the second is a quarto of the tenth century, and is known as the Quadratus.<sup>5</sup> O is corrected by two scribes, probably from the archetype. Q is copied from a copy of the archetype and corrected by several hands. Q belongs to the same family as the Schedae Haunienses (or Götterpian), 8 leaves, and the Schedae Vindobonenses, 10 leaves. All other MSS. are traced to the lost codex, a copy of which Poggio brought from the North; there are 8 Florentine, 6 Vatican, 7 English, and some others.<sup>6</sup> The archetype came originally from France; it was written during the fourth or fifth century in thin capitals; the words were not separated; there were 26 lines to the page and 300 or 304 pages in all, as was discovered by the extraordinary acuteness of Lachmann.<sup>1</sup> The archetype was somewhat interpolated, but ruling opinion now ascribes the general condition of the text partly to the unfinished state of the poem, partly to the causes that have caused corruption in the works of other authors. Lachmann's theory of an 'interpolator philosophus,' who wished to explain, and an 'interpolator irrigor,' who was hostile to the system, is no longer tenable.<sup>2</sup> The Oblongus is the more important of the two Leyden codices, and the Laurentian xxxv 30 (Flor. 30) is the best of the copies of Poggio's original, having been copied by Niccoli. In the next order is the Cambridge Ms., which is of the same origin as the Laurentian. The corrections of O and Q, the Laurentian 29, 31, 32, the Vatican 1706, etc., and the Victorianus (Monacensis), are of varying value and of occasional assistance in the establishing of the text. The task of an editor of Lucretius at the present time is to constitute the text by restoring it to the condition in which Lucretius, through his editor, left it; and in his commentary to explain it. Hence ejections, bracketings, transpositions, lacunae, and the like, should be used with great moderation and only under the stress of urgent necessity; the correction should in every case appear unavoidable and not merely desirable, and the burden of proof rests on the innovator.

<sup>3</sup> Benn, 2, 83. 'We cannot truly speak of Lucretius as an evolutionist, in the sense of gradual development by descent, although he believed in the successive appearance of different forms of life. His nearest approach to true evolution teaching was in his account of the development of the faculties and arts among the races of men. The animals and plants of Lucretius arise full formed direct from the earth. This is not evolution, yet it plays an important part in the later history of the idea,' Osborn, From the Greeks to Darwin, p. 63. Cf. Zeller, Ueber die griechische Vorgänger Darwins, in his Vorträge, 3, especially p. 48. <sup>4</sup> Munro, I, p. 22 sq.

The editio princeps of Lucretius was printed by Ferandus of Brescia about 1473; it is one of the rarest of books.<sup>3</sup> Those who wish a complete list of editions with a statement of their value may find it in Munro.<sup>4</sup> Of the early editions two only need be mentioned here, the Aldine, by Avancius, 1500, and the Juntine, of 1512, by Candidus, who used Avancius without acknowledgement and also the Ms. notes of Marullus and Pontanus. Marullus did not himself print, but his work was used by Avancius and Candidus. Marullus is considered inferior only to Lambinus, and Pontanus follows as second after him. For the modern scholar the first important editor ordinarily accessible is Lambinus, whose third edition was published at Paris in 1570. Lambinus boasts of having corrected the text in eight hundred places; his explanatory notes are full and have been up to the present time the storehouse of Lucretian commentators: his text remained the Vulgate until Lachmann. Havercamp's edition, Leyden, 1725, is convenient as containing variorum notes; he pretended to gather up all of importance before his day, including the work of Lambin, Faber, Gifanius, and Creech; the last is useful for his Latin paraphrase and explanation of the philosophy. Wakefield's handsome Glasgow edition is a delusion, and has little in it for modern students except parallel passages from Virgil and obscure authors. Eichstädt has an index verborum which is poor enough, yet is the best available. Forbiger's is a juvenile edition based on Wakefield, and is now utterly antiquated;<sup>1</sup> and the Lemaire and Valpy variorum editions are practically worthless if one has Havercamp. Lachmann reconstituted the text, publishing it with separate critical notes in 1850.<sup>2</sup> He shows astonishing erudition and acuteness, and his work is indispensable, not only to the student of Lucretius, but to Latinists generally. An index by Harder (1882) has increased its usefulness. Munro first published a text in 1860, but the final form of his work (4th ed. 1886) embraces a text with critical notes, an exhaustive exegetical commentary, and a close literal translation. Munro's edition rivals Lachmann's in the elucidation of the Latinity, and for twenty-five years was the standard edition of the poet. He began the conservative movement against Lachmann's criticism. Bockemüller's edition (Stade, 1874) is useful with its terse notes, but must be used with great care, as the editor is most violent in his conjectures and rejections and transference of passages, while his commentary is influenced by his theory of publication before alluded to. Parnajon, Poyard, Crouslé (selections), Benoist-Lantoine (Book V), have little independent value, to which they make no pretence. Lee (I-III) and Duff (III, V) are founded on Munro, yet have much which Munro passed over either through intent or oversight. Many scholars have projected editions of the author, but have published little or nothing. The Bipont edition, p. xx, gives a long list of intended editions. Bernays published a commentary on part of Book I; his text (Teubner, 1852) was obscured by Lachmann's, yet owing to its convenient form disputed with Lachmann the position of the standard text for German scholars. Brieger's text was published in 1894, by Teubner, and an appendix in 1898. It is more conservative than either Lachmann's or Munro's, but is disfigured by many transpositions and by an unhappy desire to continue the work of Cicero's editorship; yet it gathers up the results of criticism since Lachmann, and is to-day the standard in Germany. Heinze's edition of Book III (1897) is conservative as regards the text, and the commentary is a monument of learning, particularly in tracing parallels and the indebtedness of Lucretius to Greek literature. Giussani's edition (Turin, 1896-8) follows Brieger closely in the establishing of the text, but carries still farther the conservative policy except for numerous transpositions; it is particularly valuable for the elucidation of the philosophy. His edition is indispensable and his premature death is mourned by all Lucretian scholars. Bailey's text (Oxford, 1900) is a sane recension with the principal variant readings at the foot of each page. It is the neatest and safest text for general use. The edition by Kelsey (Boston, 1884) contains Munro's text, and notes, based on Munro, on Books I, III, and V. It was intended for college use and has met with a favorable reception.

The standard translations of Lucretius are those by Munro<sup>1</sup> in English, Patin and Pongerville<sup>2</sup> in French, Knebel<sup>3</sup> and Meineke in German, and Marchetti in Italian. Good's is still the best verse translation in English, yet Baring, Evelyn, and Dryden have been felicitous in translating certain parts.

T. LVCRETI CARI
DE RERVM NATVRA
LIBER PRIMVS

Aeneadum genetrix, hominum divomque voluptas, alma Venus, caeli subter labentia signa quae mare nigerum, quae terras frugiferentis concelebras, per te quoniam genus omne animantum concipitur visitque exortum lumen solis:
te, dea, te fugiunt venti, te nubila caeli adventumque tuum, tibi suavis daedala tellus summittit flores, tibi rident aequo fauori placatumque nitet diffuso lumine caelum.
nam simul ac species patefactast verna diei et reserata viget genitabilis aura favoni, aeriae primum volucres te, diva, tuumque significant initum perculta corda tua vi.
inde ferae pecudes persultant pabula laeta-et rapidos tranant amnis: ita capta lepore te sequitur cupide quo quamque inducere pergit.
denique per maria ac montis fluviosque rapacis frondiferasque domos avium camposque virentis omnibus incutiens blandum per pectora amorem efficiat ut cupide generatim saecula propagent.
quae quoniam rerum naturam sola gubernas nec sine te quicquam dias in luminis oras exoritur neque fit laetum neque amabile quicquam, te sociam studio scribendis versibus esse quos ego de rerum natura pangere conor Memmiadae nostro quem tu, dea, tempore in omni omnibus ornatum voluisti excellere rebus.
quo magis aeternum da dictis, diva, leporem.

CAUSE efficē ut interea fera mōnera militiai 30 per maria ac terras omnis sopita quiescant.
 nam tu sola potes tranquilla pace iuvare.
 mortalis, quoniam belli fera mōnera Mavors armipotens regit, in grēnum qui sāpe tūsum se reicit aeterno devictus vulhere amoris, 35 atque ita suspiciens tereti cervice reposta pascit amore avidos inflans in tē, dēa, vīsus, eque tuo pendet resupini sp̄litus ore.
 hunc tu diva, tuo recubantem corpore sancto circumfusa super, st̄ayis ex ore loquellas 40 funde petens placidam Romanis, incluta, pacem.
 nam neque nōs agere hoc patriai tempore iniquo possumus aequo animo nec Memmi clara propago talibus in rēbus communi desse saluti.

WHAT REMAINS
 50 quod superest, vacuas aūris (animūmque sagacem) semotum a curis adhibe veram ad rationem, nre mea dōna tibi studio disposta fideli, intellecta prius quam sint, contēpta relinquis.
 nam tibi de summa caeli ratione deumque 55 disserere incipiā et rerum primordiā pandam, unde omnis natura creet res auctet alatque,
 quove eadem rursus natura perempta resolvat;
 -quae nōs materiem et genitaliā corpora rēbus
 reddunda in ratione vocare et semina rerum 60 appellare suēmus et haec eadem usurpare corpora prima, quod ex illis sunt omnia primis.

Hūmana ante oculos foedē cum vita iaceret in terris oppressa gravi sub religione quae caput a cæli regionibus ostendebat 65 horribili super aspēctu mortalibus instans, primum Graius homo mortalis tollere contra-est oculos aegus primusque obsistere contra, quem neque fama deum nec fulmina nec minitanti murmurē compressit caelum, sed eo magis acrem irritat animi virtutē, effringere ut arta naturae primus portarum clāustra cupiret.
 ergo vivida vīs animi pēvicit, et extra processit longe flamantia moenia mundi <sup>HEAVENS</sup> atque omne immensum peragrayit mente animoque, unde refert nobis victor quid possit oriri, <sup>COME</sup> quid nequeat, finita potestas denique cuique <sup>END</sup>

 quanam sit ratione atque alte terminus haerens.
 quare religio pedibus subiecta vicissim opteritur, nos exaequat Victoria <sup>WORLD</sup> caelo.
 Illud in his rebus vereor, ne forte rearis in pia te rationis inire elementa viamque indulgredi sceleris. quod contra saepius illa religio peperit scelerosa atque impia facta.
 Autide quo pacto Triviai virginis aram Iphiianassai turparunt sanguine foede ductores Dariaum defecti, prima virorum, cui simul insula virgineos circumdata contemptus ex ultraque pari malorum parte profusast;
 et maestum simul ante aras adstare parentem sensit et hinc propter ferrum celare ministros aspectuque suo lacrimas effundere civis, muta metu terram genibus summissa petebat:
 nec miserae prodesse in tali tempore quibat quod patrio princeps donarat nomine regem; nam sublata virum manibus tremibundaque ad aras deductast, non ut sollemini more sacerorum perfecto posset claro comitari Hymenaeo, sed casta inceste nubendi tempore in ipso hostia concideret mactatu maesta parentis, exitus ut classi felix faustusque daretur.
 tantum religio potuit staudere malorum.
 Tudem a nobis iam quovis tempore vatum terroquis victus dictis desciscere quaeres.
 quippe etenim quam multa tibi iam fingere possunt somnia quae vitae rationes vertere possint fortunasque tuas omnis turbare timore!
 et merito; nam si certam finem esse viderent
 aerumnarum homines, aliqua ratione valerent religionibus atque minis obsistere vatum.
 nunc ratio nulla est restandi, nulla facultas, aeternas quoniam poenas in morte timendum(st).

ignoratur enim quae sit natura animai,
 nata sit an contra nascentibus insinuetur,
 et simul int̄erat nobiscum morte dirempta, 115 an tenebras Orci visat vastasque lacunas,
 an pecudes alias divinitus insinuet se, Ennius ut noster cecinit qui primus amoeno detulit ex Helicone perenni fronde coronam, per gentis Italas hominum quae clara clueret;
 120 etsi praeterea tamen esse Acherusia templa Ennius aeternis exponit versibus edens, quo neque permaneant animae neque corpora nostra, sed quaedam simulacra modis pallentia miris;
 unde sibi exortam semper florentis Homeri 125 commemorat speciem lacrimas effundere salsas coepisse et rerum naturam expandere dictis.
 quapropter bene cum superis de rebus habenda nobis est ratio, solis lunaeque meatus qua fiant ratione, et qua vi quaeque gerantur 130 in terris, tum cum primis ratione sagaci unde anima atque animi constet natura videndum, et quae res nobis vigilantibus obvia mentes terrificet morbo adfectis somnoque sepultis, cernere uti videamur eos audireque coram,
 morte obita quorum tellus amplectitur ossa.
 135

Nec me animi fallit Graiorum obscura rep̄ta difficile inlustrare Latinis versibus esse, multa novis verbis praesertim cum sit agendum propter egestatem linguae et rerum novitatem; 140 sed tua me virtus tamen et sperata voluptas suavis amicitiae quemvis efferre laborem suadet et inducit noctes vigilare serenas quaerentem dictis quibus et quo carmine demum clara tuae possim praepandere lumina menti, res quibus occultas penitus convisere possis.

Hunc igitur terrorem animi tenebrasque necessest
 non radii solis neque lucida tela diei
 discutiant, sed naturae species ratioque.
 principium cuius hinc nobis exordia sumet, 150 nullam rem e nilo gigni divinitus umquam.

quippe ita formido mortalis continet omnis, quod multa in terris fieri caeloque tuentur
quorum operum causas nulla ratione videre
possunt ac fieri divino numine rentur.

155 quas ob res ubi viderimus nil posse creari
de nilo, tum quod sequimur iam rectius inde perspiciemus, et unde queat res quaeque creari et quo quaeque modo fiant opera sine divom.

Nam si de nilo fierent, ex omnibu' rebus 160 omne genus nasci posset, nil semine egeret.
e mare primum homines, e terra posset oriri squamigerum genus et volucres erumpere caelo ;
armenta atque aliae pecudes, genus omne ferarum,
incerto partu' culta ac deserta tenerent.

165 nec fructus idem arboribus constare solerent, sed mutarentur, ferre omnes omnia possent.
quippe, ubi non essent genitalia corpora cuique, qui posset mater rebus consistere certa ?
at nunc seminibus quia certis quaeque creatur, 170 inde enascitur atque oras in luminis exit, materies ubi inest cuiusque et corpora prima ;
atque hac re nequeunt ex omnibus omnia gigni,
quod certis in rebus inest secreta facultas.
praeterea cur vere rōsam, frumenta cālore, 175 vites autumno fundi suadente videmus, si non, certa suo quia tempore semina rerum cum confluxerunt, patefit quodcumque creatur, dum tempestates adsunt et vivida tellus
tuto res teneras effert in luminis oras ?

180 quod si de nilo fierent, subito exorerentur incerto spatio atque alienis partibus anni, quippe ubi nulla forent primordia quae genitali concilio possent arceri tempore inquo.
nec porro augendis rebus spatio foret usus 185 seminis ad coitum, si e nilo crescere possent ; nam fierent iuvenes subito ex infantib' parvis
e terraque exorta repente arbusta salirent.
quorum nil fieri manifestum est, omnia quando
paulatim crescunt, ut par est, semine certo,

- 190 crescentesque genus servant; ut noscere possis
 quicque sua de materia grandescere aliisque.
 huc accedit uti sine certis imbribus anni laetificos nequeat fetus submittere tellus nec porro secreta cibo natura animantium
- 195 propagare genus possit vitamque tueri;
 ut potius multis communia corpora rebus multa putes esse, ut verbis elementa videmus, quam sine principiis ullam rem existere posse.
 denique cur homines tantos natura parare
- 200 non potuit, pedibus qui pontum per vada possent transire et magnos manibus divellere montis multaque vivendo vitalia vincere saecla, si non, materies quia rebus redditia certast dignundis e qua constat quid possit oriri?
- 205 nil igitur fieri de nilo posse fatendumst, semine quando opus est rebus quo quaeque creatae aeris in teneras possint proferri auras.
 postremo quoniam in cultis praestare videmus culta loca et manibus melioris reddere fetus,
- 210 esse videlicet in terris primordia rerum
 quae nos fecundas vertentes vomere glebas terraque solum subigentes cimus ad ortus.
 quod si nulla forent, nostro sine quaeque labore sponte sua multo fieri meliora videres.
- 215 Huc accedit uti quicque in sua corpora rursum
 dissoluat natura neque ad nilum interemat res.
 nam siquid mortale (e) cunctis partibus esset,
 ex oculis res quaeque repente erecta periret.
 nulla vi foret usus enim quae partibus eius
- 220 discidium parere et nexus exsolvere posset.
 quod nunc, aeterno quia constant semine quaeque, donec vis obiit quae res diverberet ictu aut intus penetret per inania dissoluatque, nullius exitium patitur natura videri.
- 225 praeterea quaecumque vetustate amovet aetas,
 si penitus peremit consumens materiem omnem, unde animale genus generatim in lumina vitae reducit Venus, aut redditum daedala tellus

- unde alit atque auget generatim pabula praebens ?
 230 unde mare ingenui fontes externaque longe flumina suppeditant ? unde aether sidera pascit ?
 omnia enim debet, mortali corpore quae sunt, infinita aetas consumpsa anteacta diesque.
 quod si in eo spatio atque anteacta aetate fuere 235 e quibus haec rerum consistit summa refecta, inmortali sunt natura praedita certe,
 haut igitur possunt ad nilum quaeque reverti.
 denique res omnis eadem vis causaque volgo conficeret, nisi materies aeterna teneret, 240 inter se nexus minus aut magis indupedita ;
 tactus enim leti satis esset causa profecto, quippe, ubi nulla forent aeterno corpore, quorum contextum vis deberet dissolvere quaeque.
 at nunc, inter se quia nexus principiorum 245 dissimiles constant aeternaque materies est, incolumi remanent res corpore, dum satis acris vis obeat pro textura cuiusque reperta.
 haud igitur redit ad nilum res ulla, sed omnes discidio redeunt in corpora materiai.
 250 postremo pereunt imbræ, ubi eos pater aether in gremium matris terrai præcipitavit ;
 at nitidae surgunt fruges ramique virescunt arboribus, crescent ipsæ fetuque gravantur ;
 hinc alitur porro nostrum genus atque ferarum, 255 hinc laetas urbes pueris florere videmus frondiferasque novis avibus canere undique silvas ;
 hinc fessæ pecudes pingui per pabula laeta corpora deponunt et candens lacteus umor uberibus manat distentis ; hinc nova proles 260 artibus infirmis teneras lasciva per herbas ludit lacte mero mentes perculta novellas.
 haud igitur penitus pereunt quaecumque videntur, quando alid ex alio reficit natura nec ullam
 rem gigni patitur nisi morte adiuta aliena.
 265 Nunc age, res quoniam docui non posse creari
 de nilo neque item genitas ad nil revocari, nequa forte tamen coeptes diffidere dictis, quod nequeunt oculis rerum primordia cerni, accipe praeterea quae corpora tute necesset 270 confiteare esse in rebus nec posse videri.

principio venti vis verberat incita pontum ingentisque ruit navi et nubila differt, interdum rapido percurrens turbine campos
arboribus magnis sternit montisque supremos 275 silvifragis vexat flabris : ita perfurit acri cum fremitu saevitque minaci murmure ventus.
sunt igitur venti nimirum corpora caeca
3 quae mare, quae terras, quae denique nubila caeli verrunt ac subito vexantia turbine raptant, 280 nec ratione fluunt alia stragemque propagant et cum mollis aquae fertur natura repente flumine abundant, quom largis imbris urget montibus ex altis magnus decursus aquai fragmina coniciens silvarum arbustaque tota, 285 nec validi possunt pontes venientis aquai vim subitam tolerare : ita magno turbidus imbris molibus incurrit validis cum viribus amnis :
dat sonitu magno stragem volvitque sub undis grandia saxa : ruit qua quicquid fluctibus obstat.
290 sic igitur debent venti quoque flamina ferri, quae veluti validum cum flumen procubuere quamlibet in partem, trudunt res ante ruuntque impetibus crebris, interdum vertice torto corripiunt rapidique rotanti turbine portant.
quare etiam atque etiam sunt venti corpora caeca, quandoquidem factis et moribus aemula magnis amnibus inveniuntur, aperto corpore qui sunt.
tum porro varios rerum sentimus odores
nec tamen ad naris venientis cernimus umquam, 295 nec calidos aestus tuimur nec frigora quimus usurpare oculis nec voces cernere suemus ;
quae tamen omnia corporea constare necesset natura, quoniam sensus inpellere possunt.
tangere enim et tangi, nisi corpus, nulla potest res.
300 denique fluctifrago suspensa in litore vestes uvescunt, eaedem dispansae in sole serescunt.

at neque quo pacto persederit umor aquai visumst nec rursum quo pacto fugerit aestu.
in parvas igitur partis dispergitur humor

- 310 quas oculi nulla possunt ratione videre.
quin etiam multis solis redeuntibus annis anulus in digito subter tenuatur habendo, stilicidi casus lapidem cavat, uncus aratri ferreus occulte decrescit vomer in arvis,
- 315 strataque iam volgi pedibus detrita viarum
saxea conspicimus; tum portas propter aena signa manus dextras ostendunt adtenuari saepe salutantum tactu praeterque meantum.
haec igitur minui, cum sint detrita, videmus.
- 320 sed quae corpora decadent in tempore quoque,
invida paeclusit speciem natura videndi.
postremo quaecumque dies naturaque rebus paulatim tribuit, moderatim crescere cogens, nulla potest oculorum acies contenta tueri;
- 325 nec porro quaecumque aevo macieque senescunt, nec, mare quae inpendent, vesco sale saxa peresa quid quoque amittant in tempore cernere possis.
corporibus caecis igitur natura gerit res.
- Nec tamen undique corporea stipata tenentur
- 330 omnia natura; namque est in rebus inane.
quod tibi cognosse in multis erit utile rebus nec sinet errantem dubitare et quaerere semper de summa rerum et nostris diffidere dictis.
quapropter, locus est intactus inane vacansque;
- 335 quod si non esset, nulla ratione moveri
res possent; namque officium quod corporis exstat, officere atque obstarre, id in omni tempore adesset omnibus; haud igitur quicquam procedere posset, principium quoniam cedendi nulla daret res.
- 340 at nunc per maria ac terras sublimaque caeli
multa modis multis varia ratione moveri cernimus ante oculos, quae, si non esset inane, non tam sollicito motu privata carerent
quam genita omnino nulla ratione fuissent, 345 undique materies quoniam stipata quiesset.

praeterea quamvis solidae res esse putentur, hinc tamen esse licet raro cum corpore cernas.
 in saxis ac speluncis permanat aquarum liquidus umor et uberibus flent omnia guttis.
 350 dissipat in corpus sese cibus omne animatum.
 crescent arbusta et fetus in tempore fundunt, quod cibus in totas usque ab radicibus imis per truncos ac per ramos diffunditur omnis.
 inter saepta meant voces et clausa domorum 355 transvolitant, rigidum permanat frigus ad ossa, quod, nisi inania sint, qua possent corpora quaeque transire, haud ulla fieri ratione videres.
 denique cur alias aliis praestare videmus pondere res rebus nilo maiore figura?
 360 nam si tantudemst in lanae glomere quantum corporis in plumbo est, tantudem pendere par est, corporis officiumst quoniam premere omnia deorsum, contra autem natura manet sine pondere inanis.
 ergo quod magnumst aequa leviusque videtur, 365 nimirum plus esse sibi declarat inanis;
 at contra gravius plus in se corporis esse dedicat et multo vacui minus intus habere.
 est igitur nimirum id quod ratione sagaci quaerimus, admixtum rebus, quod inane vocamus. / 370 Illud in his rebus ne te deducere vero possit, quod quidam fingunt, praecurrere cogor.
 cedere squamigeris latices nitentibus aiunt et liquidas aperire vias, quia post loca pisces linquunt, quo possint cedentes confluere undae; 375 sic alias quoque res inter se posse moveri et mutare locum, quamvis sint omnia plena.
 scilicet id falsa totum ratione receptumst.
 nam quo squamigeri poterunt procedere tandem,
 ni spatium dederint latices? concedere porro 380 quo poterunt undae, cum pisces ire nequibunt?
 aut igitur motu privandumst corpora quaeque aut esse admixtum dicundumst rebus inane unde initum primum capiat res quaeque movendi.
 postremo duo de concursu corpora lata

385 si cita dissiliant, nempe aer omne necessest, inter corpora quod fiat, possidat inane.
 is porro quamvis circum celerantibus auris confluat, haud poterit tamen uno tempore totum compleri spatium ; nam primum quemque necessest 390 occupet ille locum, deinde omnia possideantur.
 quod si forte aliquis, cum corpora dissiliuere, tum putat id fieri quia se condenseat aer, errat ; nam vacuum tum fit quod non fuit ante et repletur item vacuum quod constitutus ante, 395 nec tali ratione potest denserier aer, nec, si iam posset, sine inani posset, opinor,
 ipse in se trahere et partis conducere in unum.

Quapropter, quamvis causando multa moreris,
 esse in rebus inane tamen fateare necessest.

400 multaque praeterea tibi possum commemorando argumenta fidem dictis conradere nostris.
 verum animo satis haec vestigia parva sagaci sunt per quae possis cognoscere cetera tute.
 namque canes ut montivagae persaepe ferarum 405 naribus inveniunt inectas fronde quietes, cum semel institerunt vestigia certa viai, sic alid ex alio per te tute ipse videre talibus in rebus poteris caecasque latebras insinuare omnis et verum protrahere inde.
 410 quod si pigraris paulumve recesseris ab re, hoc tibi de plano possum promittere, Memmi :
 usque adeo largos haustus e fontibu' magnis lingua meo suavis diti de pectore fundet, ut verear ne tarda prius per membra senectus 415 serpat et in nobis vitai claustra resolvat, quam tibi de quavis una re versibus omnis argumentorum sit copia missa per auris.

Sed nunc ut repetam coeptum pertexere dictis,
 omnis ut est igitur per se natura duabus 420 constitutis in rebus ; nam corpora sunt et inane, haec in quo sita sunt et qua diversa moventur.
 corpus enim per se communis dedicat esse sensus ; cui nisi prima fides fundata valebit,

- haut erit occultis de rebus quo referentes 425 confirmare animi quicquam ratione queamus.
 tum porro locus ac spatium, quod inane vocamus, si nullum foret, haut usquam sita corpora possent esse neque omnino quoquam diversa meare ;
 id quod iam supera tibi paulo ostendimus ante.
 430 praeterea nil est quod possis dicere ab omni corpore seiunctum secretumque esse ab inani, quod quasi tertia sit numero natura reperta.
 nam quodcumque erit, esse aliquid debebit id ipsum ;
 cui si tactus erit quamvis levis exiguisque, 435 augmine vel grandi vel parvo denique, dum sit, corporis augebit numerum summamque sequetur.
 sin intactile erit, nulla de parte quod ullam rem prohibere queat per se transire meantem, scilicet hoc id erit, vacuum quod inane vocamus.
 440 praeterea per se quodcumque erit, aut faciet quid aut aliis fungi debebit agentibus ipsum aut erit ut possint in eo res esse gerique.
 at facere et fungi sine corpore nulla potest res
 nec praebere locum porro nisi inane vacansque.
 445 ergo praeter inane et corpora tertia per se nulla potest rerum in numero natura relinquiri, nec quae sub sensus cadat ullo tempore nostros nec ratione animi quam quisquam possit apisci.
 Nam quaecumque cluent, aut his coniuncta duabus 450 rebus ea invenies aut horum eventa videbis.
 coniunctum est id quod nusquam sine permitiali discidio potis est seiungi seque gregari ;
 pondus uti saxis, calor ignis, liquor aqua,
 tactus corporibus cunctis, intactus inani.
 455 servitium contra paupertas divitiaeque, libertas bellum concordia, cetera quorum adventu manet incolumis natura abituque, haec soliti sumus, ut par est, eventa vocare.
 tempus item per se non est, sed rebus ab ipsis 460 consequitur sensus, transactum quid sit in aevo, tum quae res instet, quid porro deinde sequatur.
 nec per se quemquam tempus sentire fatendumst semotum ab rerum motu placidaque quiete.

 denique Tyndaridem raptam belloque subactas 465 Troiugenas gentis cum dicunt esse, videndumst ne forte haec per se cogant nos esse fateri, quando ea saecla hominum, quorum haec eventa fuerunt, inrevocabilis abstulerit iam praeterita aetas;
 namque aliut † terris, aliut regionibus ipsis 470 eventum dici poterit quodcumque erit actum.
 denique materies si rerum nulla fuisse nec locus ac spatiū, res in quo quaeque geruntur, numquam Tyndaridis forma confiatus amoris ignis, Alexandri Phrygio sub pectore gliscens, 475 clara accendisset saevi certamina belli, nec clam durateus Trojanis Pergama partu inflammasset equos nocturno Graiugenarum; perspicere ut possis res gestas funditus omnis non ita uti corpus per se constare neque esse, 480 nec ratione cluere eadem qua constet inane, sed magis ut merito possis eventa vocare corporis, atque loci, res in quo quaeque gerantur.
 Corpora sunt porro partim primordia rerum, partim concilio quae constant principiorum.
 485 sed quae sunt rerum primordia, nulla potest vis stinguere; nam solido vincunt ea corpore demum.
 etsi difficile esse videtur credere quicquam in rebus solido reperiri corpore posse.
 transit enim fulmen caeli per saepa domorum, 490 clamor ut ac voces; ferrum candescit in igni dissiliuntque fero ferventia saxa vapore;
 tum labefactatus rigor auri solvitur aestu;
 tum glacies aeris flamma devicta liquecit;
 permanat calor argentum penetraleque frigus, 495 quando utrumque manu retinentes pocula rite sensimus infuso lympharum rore superne.
 usque adeo in rebus solidi nil esse videtur.
 sed quia vera tamen ratio naturaque rerum
 cogit, ades, paucis dum versibus expediamus 500 esse ea quae solido atque aeterno corpore constant, semina quae rerum primordiaque esse docemus,

unde omnis rerum nunc constet summa creata.

Principio quoniam duplex natura duarum dissimilis rerum longe constare repertast, 505 corporis, atque loci, res in quo quaeque geruntur, esse utramque sibi per se puramque necessest.
nam quacumque vacat spatium, quod inane vocamus, corpus ea non est; qua porro cumque tenet se corpus, ea vacuum nequaquam constat inane.
510 sunt igitur solida ac sine inani corpora prima.
praeterea quoniam genitis in rebus inanest, materiem circum solidam constare necessest, nec res ulla potest vera ratione probari corpore inane suo celare atque intus habere, 515 si non, quod cohibet, solidum constare relinquas.
id porro nil esse potest nisi materiai conclitum, quod inane queat rerum cohibere.
materies igitur, solido quae corpore constat,
esse aeterna potest, cum cetera dissoluantur.
520 tum porro si nil esset quod inane vacaret, omne foret solidum; nisi contra corpora certa essent quae loca completerent quaecumque tenerent, omne quod est spatium, vacuum constaret inane.
alternis igitur nimirum corpus inani 525 distinctum(st), quoniā nec plenum naviter extat nec porro vacuum. sunt ergo corpora certa quae spatium pleno possint distinguere inane.
haec neque dissolui plagis extrinsecusicta possunt nec porro penitus penetrata retexi 530 nec ratione queunt alia temptata labare;
id quod iam supra tibi paulo ostendimus ante.
nam neque conlidi sine inani posse videtur quicquam nec frangi nec findi in bina secando nec capere umorem neque item manabile frigus 535 nec penetralem ignem, quibus omnia conficiuntur.
et quo quaeque magis cohibet res intus inane, tam magis his rebus penitus temptata labascit.
ergo si solida ac sine inani corpora prima sunt ita uti docui, sint hæc aeterna necessest.
540 praeterea nisi materies aeterna fuisset, antehac ad nilum penitus res quaeque redissent de niloque renata forent quaecumque videmus.

 at quoniam supra docui nil posse creari
 de nilo neque quod genitum est ad nil revocari, 545 esse inmortali primordia corpore debent, dissolui quo quaeque supremo tempore possint, materies ut subpeditet rebus reparandis.
 sunt igitur solida primordia simplicitate
 nec ratione queunt alia servata per aevom 550 ex infinito iam tempore res reparare.

Denique si nullam finem natura parasset frangendis rebus, iam corpora materiai usque redacta forent aevo frangente priore, ut nil ex illis a certo tempore posset 555 conceptum (ad) summum aetatis pervadere finis.
 nam quidvis citius dissolvi posse videmus quam rursus refici; quapropter longa diei infinita aetas anteacti temporis omnis quod fregisset adhuc disturbans dissoluensque, 560 numquam relicuo reparari tempore posset.
 at nunc nimirum frangendi redditia finis certa manet, quoniam refici rem quamque videmus et finita simul generatim tempora rebus stare, quibus possint aevi contingere florem.
 565 huc accedit uti, solidissima materiai corpora cum constant, possint tamen omnia reddi mollia quae fiunt, aer aqua terra vapores, quo pacto fiant et qua vi quaeque gerantur,
 admixtum quoniam semel est in rebus inane.
 570 at contra si mollia sint primordia rerum, unde queant validi silices ferrumque creari
 non poterit ratio reddi; nam funditus omnis principio fundamenti natura carebit.
 sunt igitur solida pollutia simplicitate 575 quorum condenso magis omnia conciliatu artari possunt validasque ostendere viris.
 Porro si nullast frangendis redditia finis corporibus, tamen ex aeterno tempore quaeque nunc etiam superare necesest corpora rebus,

580 quae nondum clueant ullo temptata periclo.
 at quoniam fragili natura praedita constant,
 discrepat aeternum tempus potuisse manere innumerabilibus plagis vexata per aevom.
 denique iam quoniam generatim reddit a finis 585 crescendi rebus constat vitamque tenendi, et quid quaeque queant per foedera naturai, quid porro nequeant, sancitum quandoquidem extat, nec commutatur quicquam, quin omnia constant usque adeo, variae volucres ut in ordine cunctae 590 ostendant maculas generalis corpore inesse, inmutabili' materiae quoque corpus habere debent nimirum. nam si primordia rerum commutari aliqua possent ratione revicta, incertum quoque iam constet quid possit oriri, 595 quid nequeat, finita potestas denique cuique
 quanam sit ratione atque alte terminus haerens, nec totiens possent generatim saecla referre naturam mores victum motusque parentum.

Tum porro quoniam est extreum quodque cacumen 600 corporis illius quod nostri cernere sensus iam nequeunt, id nimirum sine partibus extat et minima constat natura nec fuit umquam per se secretum neque posthac esse valebit, alterius quoniamst ipsum pars, primaque et una 605 inde aliae atque aliae similes ex ordine partes agmine condenso naturam corporis explent, quae quoniam per se nequeunt constare, necescessent haerere unde queant nulla ratione revelli.
 sunt igitur solida primordia simplicitate 610 quae minimis stipata cohaerent partibus arte, non ex illarum conventu conciliata, sed magis aeterna pollutia simplicitate, unde neque avelli quicquam neque deminui iam
 concedit natura reservans semina rebus.
 615 praeterea nisi erit minimum, parvissima quaeque corpora constabunt ex partibus infinitis, quippe ubi dimidia partis pars semper habebit dimidiad partem nec res prae finiet ulla.

ergo rerum inter summam minimamque quid escit ?
 620 nil erit ut distet ; nam quamvis funditus omnis summa sit infinita, tamen, parvissima quae sunt, ex infinitis constabunt partibus aequae.
 quod quoniam ratio reclamat vera negatque credere posse animum, victus fateare necesset 625 esse ea quae nullis iam praedita partibus extent et minima constent natura. quae quoniam sunt, illa quoque esse tibi solida atque aeterna fatendum.
 denique si minimas in partis cuncta resolvi
 cogere consuisset rerum natura creatrix, 630 iam nil ex illis eadem reparare valeret propterea quia, quae nullis sunt partibus aucta, non possunt ea quae debet genitalis habere materies, variòs conexus pondera plagas concursus motus, per quae res quaeque geruntur.
 635 Quapropter qui materiem rerum esse putarunt
 ignem atque ex igni summam consistere solo,
 magno opere a vera lapsi ratione videntur.
 Heraclitus init quorum dux proelia primus, clarus (ob) obscuram linguam magis inter inanis 640 quamde gravis inter Graios qui vera requirunt.
 omnia enim stolidi magis admirantur amantque, inversis quae sub verbis latitantia cernunt, veraque constituant quae belle tangere possunt
 auris et lepido quae sunt fucata sonore.
 645 Nam cur tam variae res possent esse, requiro, ex uno si sunt igni puroque creatae ?
 nil prodesset enim calidum denserier ignem nec rarefieri, si partes ignis eandem naturam quam totus habet super ignis haberent.
 650 acrior ardor enim conductis partibus esset, languidior porro disiectis disque supatis.
 amplius hoc fieri nil est quod posse rearis talibus in causis, nedum variantia rerum tanta queat densis rarisque ex ignibus esse.
 655 id quoque, si faciant admixtum rebus inane, denseri poterunt ignes rarique relinqu.
 sed quia multa sibi cernunt contraria rursum

- et fugitant in rebus inane relinquere purum, ardua dum metuant, amittunt vera viai, 660 nec rursum cernunt exempto rebus inani omnia denseri fierique ex omnibus unum corpus, nil ab se quod possit mittere raptim ;
 aestifer ignis uti lumen iacit atque vaporem,
 ut videoas non e stipatis partibus esse.
 665 quod si forte alia credunt ratione potesse ignis in coetu stingui mutareque corpus, scilicet ex nulla facere id si parte reparcent, occidet ad nilum nimirum funditus ardor omnis et (e) nilo fient quaecumque creantur.
 670 nam quodcumque suis mutatum finibus exit,
 continuo hoc mors est illius quod fuit ante.
 proinde aliquit superare necesse est incolumem ollis,
 ne tibi res redeant ad nilum funditus omnes
 de niloque renata vigescat copia rerum.
 675 nunc igitur quoniam certissima corpora quaedam sunt quae conservant naturam semper eandem, quorum abitu aut aditu mutatoque ordine mutant naturam res et convertunt corpora sese, scire licet non esse haec ignea corpora rerum.
 680 nil referret enim quaedam decedere, abire, atque alia adtribui, mutarique ordine quaedam, si tamen ardoris naturam cuncta tenerent ;
 ignis enim foret omnimodis quodcumque crearent.
 verum, ut opinor, itast : sunt quaedam corpora quorum
 685 concursus motus ordo positura figurae efficiunt ignis, mutatoque ordine mutant naturam neque sunt igni simulata neque ulli praeterea rei quae corpora mittere possit sensibus et nostros adiectu tangere tactus.
 690 Dicere porro ignem res omnis esse neque ullam rem veram in numero rerum constare nisi ignem, quod facit hic idem, per delirum esse videtur.
 nam contra sensus ab sensibus ipse repugnat et labefactat eos, unde omnia credita pendent, 695 unde hic cognitus est ipsi quem nominat ignem ;
 credit enim sensus ignem cognoscere vere, cetera non credit, quae nilo clara minus sunt.

 quod mihi cum vanum tum delirum esse videtur;
 quo referemus enim? quid nobis certius ipsis 700 sensibus esse potest, qui vera ac falsa notemus?
 praeterea quare quisquam magis omnia tollat et velit ardoris naturam linquere solam, quam neget esse ignis, (quidvis) tamen esse relinquat?
 aequa videtur enim dementia dicere utrumque.

705 Quapropter qui materiem rerum esse putarunt
 ignem atque ex igni summam consistere posse, et qui principium gignundis aera rebus constituere, aut umorem quicunque putarunt fingere res ipsum per se, terramve creare 710 omnia et in rerum naturas vertier omnis, magno opere a vero longe derrasse videntur. adde etiam qui conduplicant primordia rerum aera iungentes igni terramque liquori, et qui quattuor ex rebus posse omnia rentur 715 ex igni terra atque anima procrescere et imbri. Ex istis primum quorum Acragantinus cum primis Empedocles est, insula quem triquetris terrarum gessit in oris, quam fluitans circum magnis anfractibus aequor
 Ionium glaucis aspargit virus ab undis,
 720 angustoque fretu rapidum mare dividit undis
 Italiae terrarum oras a finibus eius.
 hic est vasta Charybdis et hic Aetnaea minantur murmura flamarum rursum se colligere iras, faucibus eruptos iterum vis ut vomat ignis 725 ad caelumque ferat flammai fulgura rursum.
 quae cum magna modis multis miranda videtur gentibus humanis regio visendaque fertur, rebus opima bonis, multa munita virum vi,
 nil tamen hoc habuisse viro praeclarious in se 730 nec sanctum magis et mirum carumque videtur.
 carmina quin etiam divini pectoris eius vociferantur et exponunt praeclara reperta, ut vix humana videatur stirpe creatus.

Hic tamen et supra quos diximus inferiores 735 partibus egregie multis multoque minores.

quamquam multa bene ac divinitus invenientes
 ex adyto tamquam cordis responsa dedere
 sanctius et multo certa ratione magis quam Pythia quae tripodī a Phoebi lauroque profatur, principiis tamen in rerum fecere ruinas 740 et graviter magni magno cecidere ibi casu ; primum quod motus exempto rebus inani constituunt et res mollis rarasque relinquunt, aera rorem ignem terras animalia frugis,
 nec tamen admiscent in eorum corpus inane ;
 deinde quod omnino finem non esse secundis corporibus faciunt neque pausam stare fragori nec prorsum in rebus minimum consistere qui(cquam) ;
 cum videamus id extremum cuiusque cacumen 750 esse quod ad sensus nostros minimum esse videtur, conicere ut possis ex hoc, quae cernere non quis extremum quod habent, minimum consistere (vere).
 huc accedit item, quoniam primordia rerum
 mollia constituunt, quae nos nativa videmus 755 esse et mortali cum corpore, funditus utqui debeat ad nilum iam rerum summa reverti de niloque renata vigescere copia rerum ;
 quorum utrumque quid a vero iam distet habebis.
 deinde inimica modis multis sunt atque veneno 760 ipsa sibi inter se ; quare aut congressa peribunt aut ita diffugient ut tempestate coacta fulmina diffugere atque imbris ventosque videmus.

Denique quattuor ex rebus si cuncta creantur
 atque in eas rursum res omnia dissoluuntur, 765 qui magis illa queunt rerum primordia dici quam contra res illorum retroque putari ?
 alternis gignuntur enim mutantque colorem et totam inter se naturam tempore ab omni 770 sin ita forte putas ignis terraeque coire corpus et aerias auras roremque liquoris, nil in concilio naturam ut mutet eorum, nulla tibi ex illis poterit res esse creata,
 non animans, non exanimo cum corpore, ut arbos :
 775 quippe suam quicque in coetu variantis acervi naturam ostendet mixtusque videbitur aer cum terra simul atque ardor cum rore manere.

 at primordia gignundis in rebus oportet naturam clandestinam caecamque adhibere, 780 emineat nequid quod contra pugnet et obstet quominus esse queat proprie quocumque creatur.

Quin etiam repetunt a caelo atque ignibus eius et primum faciunt ignem se vertere in auras aeris, hinc imbre gigni terramque creari 785 ex imbre retroque a terra cuncta reverti, umorem primum, post aera, deinde calorem, nec cessare haec inter se mutare, meare
 a caelo ad terram, de terra ad sidera mundi.
 quod facere haud ullo debent primordia pacto;
 790 immutabile enim quiddam superare necesset,
 ne res ad nilum redigantur funditus omnes.
 nam quocumque suis mutatum finibus exit,
 continuo hoc mors est illius quod fuit ante.
 quapropter quoniam quae paulo diximus ante 795 in commutatum veniunt, constare necesset ex aliis ea, quae nequeant convertier usquam,
 ne tibi res redeant ad nilum funditus omnes.
 quin potius tali natura praedita quaedam corpora constituas, ignem si forte crearint, 800 posse eadem demptis paucisque tributis, ordine mutato et motu, facere aeris auras,
 sic alias aliis rebus mutarier omnis?

'At manifesta palam res indicat' inquis 'in auras aeris e terra res omnis crescere aliique; 805 et nisi tempestas indulget tempore fausto imbris, ut tabe nimborum arbusta vacillent, solque sua pro parte foveat tribuitque calorem, crescere non possint fruges arbusta animantis.'
 scilicet et nisi nos cibus aridus et tener umor 810 adiuvet, amissio iam corpore vita quoque omnis omnibus e nervis atque ossibus exsoluatur;
 adiutamur enim dubio procul atque alimur nos certis ab rebus, certis aliae atque aliae res.
 nimirum quia multa modis communia multis

- 815 multarum rerum in rebus primordia mixta sunt, ideo variis variae res rebus aluntur.
 atque eadem magni refert primordia saepe
 cum quibus et quali positura contineantur
 et quos inter se dent motus accipientque ;
- 820 namque eadem caelum mare terras flumina solem
 constituunt, eadem fruges arbusta animantis, verum aliis aliquo modo commixta moventur.
 quin etiam passim nostris in versibus ipsis
 multa elementa vides multis communia verbis, 825 cum tamen inter se versus ac verba necessest confiteare et re et sonitu distare sonanti.
 tantum elementa queunt permutato ordine solo ;
 at rerum quae sunt primordia, plura adhibere possunt unde queant variae res quaque creari.
- 830 Nunc et Anaxagorae scrutemur homoeomerian
 quam Grai memorant nec nostra dicere lingua concedit nobis patrii sermonis egestas, sed tamen ipsam rem facilest exponere verbis.
 principio, rerum quam dicit homoeomerian, 835 ossa videlicet e pauxillis atque minutis ossibus hic et de pauxillis atque minutis visceribus viscus igni sanguenque creari sanguinis inter se multis coeuntib' guttis ex aurique putat micis consistere posse
- 840 aurum et de terris terram concrescere parvis, ignibus ex ignis, umorem umoribus esse, cetera consimili fingit ratione putatque.
 nec tamen esse ulla idem (ex) parte in rebus inane concedit neque corporibus finem esse secundis.
- 845 quare in utraque mihi pariter ratione videtur errare atque illi, supra quos diximus ante.
 adde quod inbecilla nimis primordia fingit ;
 si primordia sunt, simili quae praedita constant natura atque ipsae res sunt aequaque laborant 850 et pereunt neque ab exitio res ulla refrenat.
 nam quid in oppressu valido durabit eorum,
 ut mortem effugiat, leti sub dentibus ipsis ?
 ignis an umor an aura ? quid horum ? sanguen an ossa ?

nil, ut opinor, ubi ex aequo res funditus omnis 855 tam mortalis erit quam quae manifesta videmus ex oculis nostris aliqua vi victa perire.
 at neque recidere ad nilum res posse neque autem crescere de nilo testor res ante probatas.
 praeterea quoniam cibus auget corpus alitque,
 860 scire licet nobis venas et sanguen et ossa

* * *

sive cibos omnis commixto corpore dicent esse <e>t habere in se nervorum corpora parva ossaque et omniq[ue] venas partisque crux, fiet ut cibus omnis, et aridus et liquor, ipse 865 ex alienigenis rebus constare putetur, ossibus et nervis sanieque et sanguine mixtim.
 praeterea quaecumque e terra corpora crescent si sunt in terris, terram constare necesset ex alienigenis, quae terris exoriuntur.
 870 transfer item, totidem verbis utare licebit.
 in lignis si flamma latet fumusque cinisque, ex alienigenis consistant ligna necesset.
 praeterea tellus quae corpora cumque alit, auget

* * *

ex alienigenis, quae lignis exoriuntur.
 875 Linquitur hic quaedam latitandi copia tenuis, id quod Anaxagoras sibi sumit, ut omnibus omnis res putet inmixtas rebus latitare, sed illud apparere unum cuius sint plurima mixta et magis in promptu primaque in fronte locata.
 880 quod tamen a vera longe ratione repulsumst.
 conveniebat enim fruges quoque saepe, minaci robore cum saxi franguntur, mittere signum sanguinis aut aliquid, nostro quae corpore aluntur.
 consimili ratione herbis quoque saepe decebat, 885 cum lapidi in lapidem terimus, manare cruem ;
 et latices dulcis guttas similique sapore mittere, lanigerae quali sunt ubere lactis, scilicet et glebis terrarum saepe friatis
 herbarum genera et fruges frondesque videri 890 disperita in<ter> terram latitare minute,

postremo in lignis cinerem fumumque videri, cum prae fracta forent, ignisque latere minutos.
 quorum nil fieri quoniam manifesta docet res,
 scire licet non esse in rebus res ita mixtas, 895 verum semina multimodis inmixta latere multarum rerum in rebus communia debent.

'At saepe in magnis fit montibus' inquis 'ut altis arboribus vicina & acumina summa terantur inter se, validis facere id cogentibus austris, 900 donec flammae fulserunt flore coorto.'

scilicet et non est lignis tamen insitus ignis, verum semina sunt ardoris multa, terendo quae cum confluxere, creant incendia silvis.
 quod si facta foret silvis abscondita flamma, 905 non possent ullum tempus celarier ignes, conficerent volgo silvas, arbusta cremarent.
 iamne vides igitur, paulo quod diximus ante, permagni referre eadem primordia saepe
 cum quibus et quali positura contineantur
 910 et quos inter se dent motus accipientque, atque eadem paulo inter se mutata creare ignes et lignum? quo pacto verba quoque ipsa inter se paulo mutatis sunt elementis, cum ligna atque ignes distincta voce notemus.
 915 denique iam quaecumque in rebus cernis apertis si fieri non posse putas, quin materiai corpora consimili natura praedita fingas, hac ratione tibi pereunt primordia rerum:
 fiet uti risu tremulo concussa cachinnent 920 et lacrimis salsis umectent ora genasque.

Nunc age quod superest cognosce et clarius audi.
 nec me animi fallit quam sint obscura; sed acri percussit thyrso laudis spes magna meum cor et simul incussit suavem mi in pectus amorem 925 musarum, quo nunc instinctus mente vigenti avia Pieridum peragro loca nullius ante
 trita solo. iuvat integros accedere fontis
 atque haurire, iuvatque novos decerpere flores
 insignemque meo capiti petere inde coronam

- 930 unde prius nulli velarint tempora musae ;
 primum quod magnis doceo de rebus et artis
 religionum animum nodis exsolvere pergo,
 deinde quod obscura de re tam lucida pango
 carmina, musaeo contingens cuncta lepore.
- 935 id quoque enim non ab nulla ratione videtur ;
 sed veluti pueris absinthia taetra medentes
 cum dare conantur, prius oras pocula circum
 contingunt mellis dulci flavoque liquore,
 ut puerorum aetas improvida ludificetur
- 940 laborum tenus, interea perpotet amarum
 absinthi laticem deceptaque non capiatur,
 sed potius tali pacto recreata valescat,
 sic ego nunc, quoniam haec ratio plerumque videtur
 tristior esse quibus non est tractata, retroque
- 945 volgus abhorret ab hac, volui tibi suaviloquenti
 carmine Pierio rationem exponere nostram
 et quasi musaeo dulci contingere melle,
 si tibi forte animum tali ratione tenere
 versibus in nostris possem, dum perspicis omnem
- 950 naturam rerum qua constet compta figura.
 Sed quoniam docui solidissima materiai corpora perpetuo volitare invicta per aevom, nunc age, summai quaedam sit finis eorum necne sit, evolvamus ; item quod inane repertumst
- 955 seu locus ac spatium, res in quo quaeque gerantur, pervideamus utrum finitum funditus omne constet an immensum pateat vasteque profundum.
 Omne quod est igitur nulla regione viarum finitumst ; namque extrellum debebat habere.
- 960 extrellum porro nullius posse videtur esse, nisi ultra sit quod finiat ; ut videatur quo non longius haec sensus natura sequatur.
 nunc extra summam quoniam nil esse fatendum,
 non habet extrellum, caret ergo fine modoque.
- 965 nec refert quibus adsistas regionibus eius ;
 usque adeo, quem quisque locum possedit, in omnis tantudem partis infinitum omne relinquit.
 praeterea si iam finitum constituatur

omne quod est spatium, si quis procurrat ad oras 970 ultimus extremas iaciatque volatile telum, id validis utrum contortum viribus ire quo fuerit missum mavis longeque volare, an prohibere aliquid censes obstareque posse?
 alterutrum fatearis enim sumasque necesset.
 975 quorum utrumque tibi effugium praeccludit et omne cogit ut exempta concedas fine patere.
 nam sive est aliquit quod probeat efficiatque quominus quo missum est veniat finique locet se, sive foras fertur, non est a fine profectum.
 980 hoc pacto sequar atque, oras ubicumque locaris extremas, quaeram quid telo denique fiat.
 fiet uti nusquam possit consistere finis effugiumque fugae prolatet copia semper.

Praeterea spatium summai totius omne 985 undique si inclusum certis consisteret oris finitumque foret, iam copia materiai undique ponderibus solidis confluxet ad imum nec res ulla geri sub caeli tegmine posset nec foret omnino caelum neque lumina solis, 990 quippe ubi materies omnis cumulata iaceret ex infinito iam tempore subsidendo.
 at nunc nimirum requies data principiorum corporibus nullast, quia nil est funditus imum quo quasi confluere et sedes ubi ponere possint.
 995 semper in adsiduo motu res quaeque geruntur partibus (e) cunctis infernaque suppeditantur ex infinito cita corpora materiai.

Postremo ante oculos res rem finire videtur;
 aer dissaepit collis atque aera montes, 1000 terra mare et contra mare terras terminat omnis;
 omne quidem vero nil est quod finiat extra.

Est igitur natura loci spatiumque profundi, quod neque clara suo percurrere fulmina cursu
 perpetuo possint aevi labentia tractu 1005 nec prorsum facere ut restet minus ire meando;
 usque adeo passim patet ingens copia rebus,
 finibus exemptis, in cunctas undique partis.

ipsa modum porro sibi rerum summa parare
 ne possit, natura tenet, quae corpus inani 1010 et quod inane autem est finiri corpore cogit, ut sic alternis infinita omnia reddat, aut etiam alterutrum, nisi terminet alterum, eorum simplice natura pateat tamen inmoderatum

nec mare nec tellus neque caeli lucida templam 1015 nec mortale genus nec divum corpora sancta exiguum possent horai sistere tempus ;
 nam dispulsa suo de coetu materiai copia ferretur magnum per inane soluta, sive adeo potius numquam concreta creasset 1020 ullam rem, quoniam cogi disiecta nequisset.
 nam certe neque consilio primordia rerum
 ordine se suo quaeque sagaci mente locarunt
 nec quos quaeque (darent motus pepigere profecto),
 sed quia multa modis multis mutata per omne 1025 ex infinito vexantur percita plagis, omne genus motus et coetus experiundo tandem deveniunt in talis disposituras, qualibus haec rerum consistit summa creatura,
 et multos etiam magnos servata per annos 1030 ut semel in motus coniectast convenientis, efficit ut largis avidum mare fluminis undis integrant amnes et solis terra vapore fota novet fetus summissaque gens animantium floreat et vivant labentes aetheris ignes; 1035 quod nullo facerent pacto, nisi materiai ex infinito suboriri copia posset, unde amissa solent reparare in tempore quaeque.
 nam veluti privata cibo natura animantium difflit amittens corpus, sic omnia debent 1040 dissolui simul ac defecit suppeditare materies aliqua ratione aversa viai.
 nec plagae possunt extrinsecus undique summam conservare omnem quaecumque est conciliata.
 . cudere enim crebro possunt partemque morari, 1045 dum veniant aliae ac suppleri summa queatur.

interdum resilire tamen coguntur et una principiis rerum spatium tempusque fugai largiri, ut possint a coetu libera ferri.
 quare etiam atque etiam suboriri multa necesset, 1050 et tamen ut plagae quoque possint suppeter ipsae, infinita opus est vis undique materiali.

Illud in his rebus longe fuge credere, Memmi, in medium summae quod dicunt omnia niti,
 atque ideo mundi naturam stare sine ulla 1055 ictibus externis neque quoquam posse resolvi summa atque ima, quod in medium sint omnia nixa :
 ipsum si quicquam posse in se sistere credis :
 et quae pondera sunt sub terris omnia sursum
 nitier in terraque retro requiescere posta, 1060 ut per aquas quae nunc rerum simulacra videmus.
 et simili ratione animalia supra vagari contendunt neque posse e terris in loca caeli reccidere inferiora magis quam corpora nostra sponte sua possint in caeli templa volare ; 1065 illi cum videant solem, nos sidera noctis cernere, et alternis nobiscum tempora caeli dividere et noctes parilis agitare diebus.
 sed vanus stolidis haec
 amplexi quod habent perv 1070 nam medium nil esse potest infinita. neque omnino, si iam
 possit ibi quicquam consistere quam quavis alia longe ratione omnis enim locus ac spatium, quod in 1075 per medium per non medium concedere aeque ponderibus, motus quacumque feruntur.
 nec quisquam locus est, quo corpora cum vener(e), ponderis amissa vi possint stare (in) inani;
 nec quod inane autem est ulli subsistere debet, 1080 quin, sua quod natura petit, concedere pergat.
 haud igitur possunt tali ratione teneri
 res in concilium medii cuppedine vinctae.

Praeterea quoniam non omnia corpora fingunt in medium niti, sed terrarum atque liquoris,

1085 et quasi terreno quae corpore contineantur, umorem ponti magnasque e montibus undas,
at contra tenuis exponunt aeris auras et calidos simul a medio differrier ignis, atque ideo totum circum tremere aethera signis 1090 et solis flamمام per caeli caerula pasci, quod calor a medio fugiens se ibi conligat omnis,
nec prorsum arboribus summos frondescere ramos 1093 posse, nisi a terris paulatim cuique cibatum

1102 ne volucri ritu flamarum moenia mundi diffugiant subito magnum per inane soluta et ne cetera consimili ratione sequantur 1105 neve ruant caeli tonitralia templa superne terraque se pedibus raptim subducat et omnis inter permixtas rerum caelique ruinas corpora solventes abeat per inane profundum, temporis ut puncto nil extet reliquiarum 1110 desertum praeter spatium et primordia caeca.
nam quacumque prius de parti corpora desse constitues, haec rebus erit pars ianua leti, hac se turba foras dabit omnis materiai.
Haec sic pernosces parva perductus opella;
1115 namque alid ex alio clarescet nec tibi caeca nox iter eripiet quin ultima naturai pervideas: ita res accendent lumina rebus.

LIBER SECUNDVS

---

Suave, mari magno turbantibus aequora ventis,
e terra magnum alterius spectare laborem;
non quia vexari quemquamst iucunda voluptas,
sed quibus ipse malis careas quia cernere suave est.
suave etiam belli certamina magna tueri per campos instructa tua sine parte pericli. 6 sed nil dulciss est, bene quam munita tenere edita doctrina sapientum templa serena, despicere unde queas alios passimque videre errare atque viam palantis quaerere vitae, certare ingenio, contendere nobilitate,
noctes atque dies niti praestante labore
ad summas emergere opes rerumque potiri.
o miseras hominum mentes, o pectora caeca!
qualibus in tenebris vitae quantisque periclis degitur hoc aevi quodcumque! nonne videre nil aliud sibi naturam latrare, nisi utqui corpore seiunctus dolor absit mensque fruatur iucundo sensu cura semota metueque?
ergo corpoream ad naturam pauca videmus esse opus omnino, quae demant cumque dolorem.
delicias quoque uti multas substernere possint gratius interdum, neque natura ipsa requirit, si non aurea sunt iuvenum simulacra per aedes lampadas igniferas manibus retinentia dextris, lumina nocturnis epulis ut suppeditentur,
nec domus argento fulget auroque renidet 5 nec citharae reboant laqueata aurataque templa, cum tamen inter se prostrati in gramine molli propter aquae rivum sub ramis arboris altae non magnis opibus iucunde corpora curant, praesertim cum tempestas adridet et anni tempora conspergunt viridantis floribus herbas.

 nec calidae citius decadent corpore febres, 30 textilibus si in picturis ostroque rubenti iacteris, quam si in plebeia veste cubandum est.
 quapropter quoniam nil nostro in corpore gazae proficiunt neque nobilitas nec gloria regni, quod superest, animo quoque nil prodesse putandum;
 35 si non forte tuas legiones per loca campi fervere cum videas bellum simulacracientis, subsidiis magnis et equom vi constabilitas,
 ornatas armis pariterque animatas, 40 fervere cum videas classem lateque vagari, his tibi tum rebus timefactae religiones effugiunt animo pavidae; mortisque timores tum vacuum pectus lincunt curaque solutum.
 quod si ridicula haec ludibriaque esse videmus, 45 re veraque metus hominum curaeque sequaces nec metuunt sonitus armorum nec fera tela audacterque inter reges rerumque potentis versantur neque fulgorem reverentur ab auro nec clarum vestis splendorem purpureai, quid dubitas quin omni' sit haec rationi' potestas?
 omnis cum in tenebris praesertim vita laboret;
 50 nam veluti pueri trepidant atque omnia caecis
 in tenebris metuunt, sic nos in luce timemus
 interdum, nilo quae sunt metuenda magis quam
 quae pueri in tenebris pavant finguntque futura.
 hunc igitur terrorem animi tenebrasque necessest
 55 non radii solis neque lucida tela diei
 discutiant, sed naturae species ratioque.
 Nunc age, quo motu genitalia materiai corpora res varias gignant genitasque resolvant et qua vi facere id cogantur quaeque sit ollis 60 redditu mobilitas magnum per inane meandi, 65

expidiam : tu te dictis praebere memento.
nam certe non inter se stipata cohaeret materies, quoniam minui rem quamque videmus et quasi longinquo fluere omnia cernimus aevo 70 ex oculisque vetustatem subducere nostris, cum tamen incolumis videatur summa manere propterea quia, quae decadunt corpora cuique, unde abeunt minuunt, quo venere augmine donant,
illa senescere at haec contra florescere cogunt, 75 nec remorantur ibi. sic rerum summa novatur semper, et inter se mortales mutua vivunt.
augescunt aliae gentes, aliae minuuntur, inque brevi spatio mutantur saecla animantium et quasi cursores vitali lampada tradunt.
80 Si cessare putas rerum primordia posse cessandoque novos rerum progignere motus, avius a vera longe ratione vagaris.
nam quoniam per inane vagantur, cuncta necessest
aut gravitate sua ferri primordia rerum 85 aut ictu forte alterius. nam (cum) cita saepe obvia conflixere, fit ut diversa repente dissiliant; neque enim mirum, durissima quae sint ponderibus solidis neque quicquam a tergo ibus obstet.
et quo iactari magis omnia materiai 90 corpora pervideas, reminiscere totius imum nil esse in summa, neque habere ubi corpora prima consistant, quoniam spatium sine fine modoquest inmensumque patere in cunctas undique partis pluribus ostendi et certa ratione probatumst.
95 quod quoniam constat, nimirum nulla quies est reddita corporibus primis per inane profundum, sed magis adsiduo varioque exercita motu partim intervallis magnis confulta resultant, pars etiam brevibus spatiis vexantur ab ictu.
100 et quaecumque magis condenso conciliatu exiguis intervallis convecta resultant, indupedita suis perplexis ipsa figuris,
haec validas saxi radices et fera ferri corpora constituunt et cetera (de) genere horum.

105 paucula quae porro magnum per inane vagantur cetera dissiliunt longe longeque recursant in magnis intervallis; haec aera rarum sufficiunt nobis et splendida lumina solis.
multaque praeterea magnum per inane vagantur, 110 conciliis rerum quae sunt reiecta nec usquam consociare etiam motus potuere recepta.
cuius, uti memoro, rei simulacrum et imago ante oculos semper nobis versatur et instat.
contemplator enim, cum solis lumina cumque 115 inserti fundunt radii per opaca domorum:
multa minuta modis multis per inane videbis corpora misceri radiorum lumine in ipso et velut aeterno certamine proelia pugnas edere turmatim certantia nec dare pausam, 120 conciliis et discidiis exercita crebris;
conicere ut possis ex hoc, primordia rerum quale sit in magno iactari semper inani.
dumtaxat rerum magnarum parva potest res exemplare dare et vestigia notitiai.
125 hoc etiam magis haec animum te advertere par est corpora quae in solis radiis turbare videntur, quod tales turbae motus quoque materiai significant clandestinos caecosque subesse.
multa videbis enim plagis ibi percita caecis 130 commutare viam retroque repulsa reverti nunc huc nunc illuc in cunctas undique partis.
scilicet hic a principiis est omnibus error.
prima moventur enim per se primordia rerum;
inde ea quae parvo sunt corpora conciliatu 135 et quasi proxima sunt ad viris principiorum, ictibus illorum caecis impulsu carentur,
ipsaque proporro paulo maiora lacesunt.
sic a principiis ascendit motus et exit paulatim nostros ad sensus, ut moveantur 140 illa quoque, in solis quae lumine cernere quimus nec quibus id faciant plagis appetere aperte.
Nunc quae mobilitas sit reddita materiai corporibus, paucis licet hinc cognoscere, Memmi.

primum aurora novo cum spargit lumine terras 145 et variae volucres nemora avia pervolitantes aera per tenerum liquidis loca vocibus opplent, quam subito soleat sol ortus tempore tali convestire sua perfundens omnia luce, omnibus in promptu manifestumque esse videmus.
 150 at vapor is quem sol mittit lumenque serenum non per inane meat vacuum; quo tardius ire cogitur, aerias quasi dum diverberat undas.
 nec singillatim corpuscula quaeque vaporis
 sed complexa meant inter se conque globata; 155 quapropter simul inter se retrahuntur et extra officiuntur, uti cogantur tardius ire.
 at quae sunt solida primordia simplicitate, cum per inane meant vacuum nec res remoratur
 ulla foris atque ipsa suis e partibus unum, 160 unum in quem coepere locum conixa feruntur, debent nimirum praecellere mobilitate et multo citius ferri quam lumina solis multiplexque loci spatium transcurrere eodem
 tempore quo solis pervolgant fulgura caelum.

165 nec persecuti primordia singula quaeque, ut videant qua quicque geratur cum ratione.
 At quidam contra haec, ignari materiai, naturam non posse deum sine numine renunt
 tanto opere humanis rationibus admoderate 170 tempora mutare annorum frugesque creare, et iam cetera, mortalis quae suadet adire ipsaque deducit dux vitae dia voluptas et res per Veneris blanditur saecla propagent, ne genus occidat humanum. quorum omnia causa 175 constituisse deos cum fingunt, omnibu' rebus
 magno opere a vera lapsi ratione videntur.
 nam quamvis rerum ignorem primordia quae sint,
 hoc tamen ex ipsis caeli rationibus ausim
 confirmare aliisque ex rebus reddere multis, 180 nequaquam nobis divinitus esse creatam naturam mundi: quanta stat praedita culpa!

quae tibi posterius, Memmi, faciemus aperta.
nunc id quod superest de motibus expediemus.

- Nunc locus est, ut opinor, in his illud quoque rebus 185 confirmare tibi, nullam rem posse sua vi corpoream sursum ferri sursumque meare ;
ne tibi dent in eo flamarum corpora fraudem.
sursus enim versus gignuntur et augmina sumunt et sursum nitidae fruges arbustaque crescunt, 190 pondera, quantum in se est, cum deorsum cuncta ferantur.
nec cum subsiliunt ignes ad tecta domorum et celeri flamma degustant tigna trabesque, sponte sua facere id sine vi subigente putandum est.
quod genus e nostro quom missus corpore sanguis 195 emicat exultans alte spargitque cruentem.
nonne vides etiam quanta vi tigna trabesque respuat umor aquae ? nam quo magis ursimus alte derecta et magna vi multi pressimus aegre, tam cupide sursum revomit magis atque remittit, 200 plus ut parte foras emergant exiliantque.
nec tamen haec, quantum est in se, dubitamus, opinor,
quin vacuum per inane deorsum cuncta ferantur.
sic igitur debent flammæ quoque posse per auras
aeris expressæ sursum succedere, quamquam 205 pondera, quantum in se est, deorsum deducere pugnant.
nocturnasque faces caeli sublime volantis nonne vides longos flamarum ducere tractus in quascumque dedit partis natura meatum ?
non cadere in terram stellas et sidera cernis ?
 210 sol etiam <caeli> de vertice dissipat omnis ardorem in partis et lumine conserit arva ;
in terras igitur quoque solis vergitur ardor.
transversosque volare per imbris fulmina cernis ;
nunc hinc nunc illinc abrupti nubibus ignes 215 concursant ; cadit in terras vis flammea volgo.
- Illud in his quoque te rebus cognoscere avemus, corpora cum deorsum rectum per inane feruntur, ponderibus propriis incerto tempore ferme incertisque locis spatio depellere paulum, 220 tantum quod momen mutatum dicere possis.

quod nisi declinare solerent, omnia deorsum, imbris uti guttae, caderent per inane profundum, nec foret offensus natus nec plaga creata principiis: ita nil umquam natura creasset.

225 Quod si forte aliquis credit graviora potesse corpora, quo citius rectum per inane feruntur, incidere ex supero levioribus atque ita plagas gignere quae possint genitalis reddere motus, avius a vera longe ratione recedit.

230 nam per aquas quaecumque cadunt atque aera rarum, haec pro ponderibus casus celare necesset propterea quia corpus aquae naturaque tenuis aeris haut possunt aequa rem quamque morari, sed citius cedunt gravioribus exsuperata;

235 at contra nulli de nulla parte neque ullo tempore inane potest vacuum subsistere rei, quin, sua quod natura petit, concedere pergit;
 omnia quapropter debent per inane quietum
 aequa ponderibus non aequis concita ferri.

240 haud igitur poterunt levioribus incidere umquam ex supero graviora neque ictus gignere per se qui varient motus per quos natura gerat res.
 quare etiam atque etiam paulum inclinare necesset corpora; nec plus quam minimum, ne fingere motus

245 obliquos videamur et id res vera refutet.
 namque hoc in promptu manifestumque esse videmus, pondera, quantum in sest, non posse obliqua meare,
 ex supero cum praecipitant, quod cernere possis;
 sed nil omnino (recta) regione viai

250 declinare quis est qui possit cernere sese?

Denique si semper motus conectitur omnis et vetera exoritur semper novus ordine certo nec declinando faciunt primordia motus principium quoddam quod fati foedera rumpat, ex infinito ne causam causa sequatur, libera per terras unde haec animantibus exstat,
 unde est haec, inquam, fatis avolsa voluntas,
 per quam progredimur quo dicit quemque voluptas?
 declinamus item motus nec tempore certo

- 260 nec regione loci certa, sed ubi ipsa tulit mens.
 nam dubio procul his rebus sua cuique voluntas principium dat et hinc motus per membra rigantur.
 nonne vides etiam patefactis tempore puncto carceribus non posse tamen prorumpere equorum 265 vim cupidam tam de subito quam mens avet ipsa ?
 omnis enim totum per corpus materiai copia conciri debet, concita per artus omnis ut studium mentis conixa sequatur ;
 ut videoas initum motus a corde creari 270 ex animique voluntate id procedere primum, inde dari porro per totum corpus et artus.
 nec similest ut cum impulsi procedimus ictu viribus alterius magnis magnoque coactu ;
 nam tum materiem totius corporis omnem 275 perspicuumst nobis invitis ire rapique, donec eam refrenavit per membra voluntas.
 iamne vides igitur, quamquam vis extera multos pellat et invitox cogat procedere saepe praecipitesque rapi, tamen esse in pectore nostro 280 quiddam quod contra pugnare obstarere possit ?
 cuius ad arbitrium quoque copia materiai cogitur interdum flecti per membra per artus et projecta refrenatur retroque residit.
 quare in seminibus quoque idem fateare necessest, 285 esse aliam praeter plagas et pondera causam motibus, unde haec est nobis innata potestas, de nilo quoniam fieri nil posse videmus.
 pondus enim prohibet ne plagis omnia fiant externa quasi vi ; sed ne mens ipsa necessum 290 intestinum habeat cunctis in rebus agendis et devicta quasi cogatur ferre patique, id facit exiguum clinamen principiorum
 nec regione loci certa nec tempore certo.
 Nec stipata magis fuit umquam materiai 295 copia nec porro maioribus intervallis ;
 nam neque adaugescit quicquam neque deperit inde.
 quapropter quo nunc in motu principiorum corpora sunt, in eodem ante acta aetate fuere et post haec semper simili ratione ferentur, 300 et quae consuerint gigni gignentur eadem condicione et erunt et crescent vique valebunt, quantum cuique datum est per foedera naturai.

 nec rerum summam commutare ulla potest vis ;
 nam neque quo possit genus ullum materiai 305 (immenso) effugere ex omni quicquam est, neque in omne unde coorta queat nova vis intrumpere et omnem naturam rerum mutare et vertere motus.
 Illud in his rebus non est mirabile, quare,
 omnia cum rerum primordia sint in motu, 310 summa tamen summa videatur stare quiete, praeterquam siquid proprio dat corpore motus.
 omnis enim longe nostris ab sensibus infra primorum natura iacet: quapropter, ubi ipsa cernere iam nequeas, motus quoque surpere debent; 315 praelestum cum, quae possimus cernere, celent saepe tamen motus spatio diducta locorum.
 nam saepe in colli tondentes pabula laeta lanigerae reptant pecudes quo quamque vocantes invitant herbae gembantes rore recenti, 320 et satiati agni ludunt blandeque coruscant;
 omnia quae nobis longe confusa videntur et velut in viridi candor consistere colli.
 praeterea magnae legiones cum loca cursu camporum complent belli simulacra cientes, 325 fulgor ibi ad caelum se tollit totaque circum aere renidescit tellus superque virum vi excitur pedibus sonitus clamoreque montes icti reiectant voces ad sidera mundi et circumvolitant equites mediosque repente 330 tramittunt valido quatientes impete campos.
 et tamen est quidam locus altis montibus (unde)
 stare videntur et in campus consistere fulgor.
 Nunc age iam deinceps cunctarum exordia rerum
 qualia sint et quam longe distantia formis 335 percipe, multigenis quam sint variata figuris ;
 non quo multa parum simili sint praedita forma,
 sed quia non volgo paria omnibus omnia constant.

nec mirum ; nam cum sit eorum copia tanta
ut neque finis, uti docui, neque summa sit ulla, 340 debent nimirum non omnibus omnia prorsum esse pari filo similique adfecta figura.
praeterea genus humanum mutaeque natantes squamigerum pecudes et laeta armenta feraeque et variae volucres, laetantia quae loca aquarum 345 concelebrant circum ripas fontisque lacusque, et quae pervolgant nemora avia per volitantes ;
quorum unum quidvis generatim sumere perge,
invenies tamen inter se differre figuris.
nec ratione alia proles cognoscere matrem 350 nec mater posset prolem ; quod posse videmus nec minus atque homines inter se nota cluere.
nam saepe ante deum vitulus delubra decora turicremas propter mactatus concidit aras sanguinis expirans calidum de pectore flumen ; 355 at mater viridis saltus orbata per agrans noscit humi pedibus vestigia pressa bisulcis, omnia convisens oculis loca si queat usquam conspicere amissum fetum, completque querellis frondiferum nemus adsistens et crebra revisit 360 ad stabulum desiderio perfixa iuvenci, nec tenerae salices atque herbae rore vigentes fluminaque illa queunt summis labentia ripis oblectare animum subitamque avertere curam, nec vitulorum aliae species per pabula laeta 365 derivare queunt animum curaque levare :
usque adeo quiddam proprium notumque requirit.
praeterea teneri tremulis cum vocibus haedi cornigeras norunt matres agnique petulci balantum pecudes : ita, quod natura reposcit, 370 ad sua quisque fere decurrunt ubera lactis.
postremo quodvis frumentum non tamen omne qui que suo genere inter se simile esse videbis, quin intercurrat quaedam distantia formis.
concharumque genus parili ratione videmus 375 pingere telluris gremium, qua mollibus undis litoris incurvi bibulam pavit aequor harenam.

quare etiam atque etiam simili ratione necessest, natura quoniam constant neque facta manu sunt
 unius ad certam formam primordia rerum, 380 dissimili inter se quaedam volitare figura.

Perfacile est animi ratione exsolvere nobis quare fulmineus multo penetralior ignis quam noster fuat e taedis terrestribus ortus ;
 dicere enim possis caelestem fulminis ignem 385 suptilem magis e parvis constare figuris atque ideo transire foramina quae nequit ignis noster hic e lignis ortus taedaque creatus.
 praeterea lumen per cornum transit, at imber
 respuitur. quare? nisi luminis illa minora 390 corpora sunt quam de quibus est liquor almus aquarum.
 et quamvis subito per colum vina videmus perfluere ; at contra tardum cunctatur olivom, aut quia nimirum maioribus est elementis
 aut magis hamatis inter se perque plicatis, 395 atque ideo fit uti non tam diducta repente inter se possint primordia singula quaeque singula per cuiusque foramina permanare.

Huc accedit uti mellis lactisque liquores iucundo sensu linguae tractentur in ore ;
 400 at contra taetra absinthi natura ferique centauri foedo pertorquent ora sapore ;
 ut facile agnoscas e levibus atque rutundis esse ea quae sensus iucunde tangere possunt, at contra quae amara atque aspera cumque videntur, 405 haec magis hamatis inter se nexa teneri proptereaque solere vias rescindere nostris sensibus introituque suo perrumpere corpus.

Omnia postremo bona sensibus et mala tactu dissimili inter se pugnant perfecta figura ; 410 ne tu forte putas serrae stridentis acerbum horrorem constare elementis levibus aequae ac musaea mele, per chordas organici quae mobilibus digitis expergefacta figurant ;
 neu simili penetrare putas primordia forma 415 in nares hominum, cum taetra cadavera torrent, et cum scena croco Cilici perfusa recens est

 araque Panchaeos exhalat propter odores ;
 neve bonos rerum simili constare colores
 semine constituas, oculos qui pascere possunt, 420 et qui compungunt aciem lacrimareque cogunt aut foeda specie di(ri) turpesque videntur.
 omnis enim, sensus quae mulcet cumque, (figura) haut sine principiali aliquo levore creatast ;
 at contra quaecumque molesta atque aspera constat, 425 non aliquo sine materiae squalore repertast.
 sunt etiam quae iam nec levia iure putantur esse neque omnino flexis mucronibus unca, sed magis angellis paulum prostantibus, (utqui)
 titillare magis sensus quam laedere possint ; 430 fecula iam quo de genere est inulaeque sapores.
 denique iam calidos ignis gelidamque pruinam dissimili dentata modo compungere sensus corporis, indicio nobis est tactus uterque.
 tactus enim, tactus, pro divum numina sancta, 435 corporis est sensus, vel cum res extera sese insinuat, vel cum laedit quae in corpore natast aut iuvat egrediens genitalis per Veneris res, aut ex offensu cum turbant corpore in ipso semina confundunt(que) inter se concita sensum ; 440 ut si forte manu quamvis iam corporis ipse tute tibi partem ferias atque experiare.
 quapropter longe formas distare necessest principiis, varios quae possint edere sensus.
 Denique quae nobis durata ac spissa videntur, 445 haec magis hamatis inter sese esse necesest et quasi ramosis alte compacta teneri.
 in quo iam genere in primis adamantina saxa prima acie constant ictus contemnere sueta et validi silices ac duri robora ferri 450 aeraque quae claustris restantia vociferantur.
 illa quidem debent e levibus atque rutundis esse magis, fluido quae corpore liquida constant ;
 nec retinentur enim inter se glomeramina quaeque : 454
 namque papaveris haustus itemst facilis quasi aquarum, 453

- 455 et percusus item proclive volubilis exstat.
 omnia postremo quae puncto tempore cernis diffugere, ut fumum nebulas flamasque, necesset, si minus omnia sunt e levibus atque rutundis,
 at non esse tamen perplexis indupedita,
- 460 pungere uti possint corpus penetrareque saxa,
 nec tamen haerere inter se; quodcumque videmus
- *
- sensibus esse datum, facile ut cognoscere possis
 non e perplexis sed acutis esse elementis.
 sed quod amara vides eadem quae fluvida constant,
- 465 sudor uti maris est, minime mirabile debet
- *
- nam quod fluvidus est, e levibus atque rutundis est, et (squalida sunt illis) admixta doloris corpora. nec tamen haec retineri hamata necessu(mst);
 scilicet esse globosa tamen, cum squalida constent,
- 470 provolvit simul ut possint et laedere sensus.
 et quo mixta putes magis aspera levibus esse principiis, unde est Neptuni corpus acerbum, est ratio secernendi seorsumque videndi,
 humor dulcis, ubi per terras crebrius idem
- 475 percolatur, ut in foveam fluat ac mansuescat;
 linquit enim supra taetri primordia viri,
 aspera quom magis in terris haerescere possint.
- Quod quoniam docui, pergam conectere rem quae
 ex hoc apta fidem ducat, primordia rerum
- 480 finita variare figurarum ratione.
 quod si non ita sit, rursum iam semina quaedam esse infinito debebunt corporis auctu.
 namque in eadem una cuiusvis iam brevitate corporis inter se multum variare figurae
- 485 non possunt: fac enim minimis e partibus esse corpora prima tribus, vel paulo pluribus auge;
 nempe ubi eas partis unius corporis omnis,
 summa atque ima locans, transmutans dextera laevis, omnimodis expertus eris, quam quisque det ordo
- 490 formai speciem totius corporis eius, quod superest, si forte voles variare figuram, addendum partis alias erit ; inde sequetur,

ad simili ratione alias ut postulet ordo,
si tu forte voles etiam variare figuræ.

- 495 ergo formarum novitatem corporis augmen subsequitur. quare non est ut credere possis esse infinitis distantia semina formis, ne quaedam cogas inmani maximitate esse, supra quod iam docui non posse probari.
500 iam tibi barbaricae vestes Meliboeaque fulgens purpura Thessalico concharum tacta colore, aurea pavonum ridenti imbuta lepore ~~specula~~, novo rerum superata colore iacerent et contemptus odor smyrnae mellisque sapores, 505 et cycnea mele Phoebeaque daedala chordis carmina consimili ratione oppressa silerent ;
namque aliis aliud praestantius exoreretur.
cedere item retro possent in deteriores
omnia sic partis, ut diximus in melioris ; 510 namque aliis aliud retro quoque taetrius esset naribus auribus atque oculis orisque sapori.
quae quoniam non sunt, (sed) rebus reddita certa finis utrimque tenet summam, fateare necesset materiem quoque finitis differre figuris.
515 denique ab ignibus ad gelidas iter usque pruinæ finitumst retroque pari ratione remensumst ;
omnis enim calor ac frigus mediique tempos interutrasque iacent explentes ordine summam.
ergo finita distantia creata, 520 ancipiti quoniam mucroni utrimque notantur, hinc flammis illinc rigidis infesta pruinis.

Quod quoniam docui, pergam concretæ rem quæ
ex hoc apta fidem ducat, primordia rerum,
inter se simili quæ sunt perfecta figura, 525 infinita cluere. etenim distantia cum sit formarum finita, necesse est quæ similes sint esse infinitas aut summam materiai finitam constare, id quod non esse probavi versibus ostendens corpuscula materiai 530 ex infinito summam rerum usque tenere, undique protelo plagarum continuato.

 nam quod rara vides magis esse animalia quaedam fecundamque minus naturam cernis in illis, at regione locoque alio terrisque remotis 535 multa licet genere esse in eo numerumque repleri :
 sicut quadripedum cum primis esse videmus in genere anguimanus elephantos, India quorum milibus e multis vallo munitur eburno, ut penitus nequeat penetrari : tanta ferarum 540 vis est, quarum nos perpaucā exempla videmus.
 sed tamen id quoque uti concedam, quamlibet esto unica res quaedam nativo corpore sola, cui similis toto terrarum non sit in orbi ;
 infinita tamen nisi erit vis materiai 545 unde ea progigni possit concepta, creari
 non poterit, neque, quod superest, procrescere aliue.
 quippe etenim sumantur uti finita per omne corpora iactari unius genitalia rei, unde ubi qua vi et quo pacto congressa coibunt 550 materiae tanto in pelago turbaque aliena ?
 non, ut opinor, habent rationem conciliandi ;
 sed quasi naufragiis magnis multisque coortis disiectare solet magnum mare transtra cavernas antemas proram malos tonsasque natantis, 555 per terrarum omnis oras fluitantia aplustra ut videantur et indicium mortalibus edant, infidi maris insidias virisque columque ut vitare velint, neve ullo tempore credant, subdola cum ridet placidi pellacia ponti, 560 sic tibi si finita semel primordia quaedam constitues, aevom debebunt sparsa per omnem disiectare aestus diversi materiai, numquam in concilium ut possint compulsa coire nec remorari in concilio nec crescere adaucta ; 565 quorum utrumque palam fieri manifesta docet res, et res progigni et genitas procrescere posse.
 esse igitur genere in quovis primordia rerum infinita palam est unde omnia suppeditantur.
 Nec superare queunt motus itaque exitiales

570 perpetuo neque in aeternum sepelire salutem, nec porro rerum genitales auctificique motus perpetuo possunt servare creata.
 sic aequo geritur certamine principiorum
 ex infinito contractum tempore bellum :
 575 nunc hic nunc illic superant vitalia rerum et superantur item. miscetur funere vagor quem pueri tollunt visentis luminis oras ;
 nec nox ulla diem neque noctem aurora secutast
 quae non audierit mixtos vagitibus aegris 580 ploratus mortis comites et funeris atri.

Illud in his obsignatum quoque rebus habere convenit et memori mandatum mente tenere, nil esse, in promptu quorum natura videtur,
 quod genere ex uno consistat principiorum, 585 nec quicquam quod non permixto semine constet.
 et quodcumque magis vis multas possidet in se atque potestates, ita plurima principiorum in sese genera ac varias docet esse figuras.
 principio tellus habet in se corpora prima 590 unde mare immensum volventes frigora fontes adsiduerenovent, habet ignes unde orientur.
 nam multis succensa locis ardent sola terrae, eximiis vero furit ignibus impetus Aetnae.
 tum porro nitidas fruges arbustaque laeta 595 gentibus humanis habet unde extollere possit, unde etiam fluvios frondes et pabula laeta montivago generi possit praebere ferarum.
 quare magna deum mater materque ferarum et nostri genetrix haec dicta est corporis una.

sedibus in curru biiugos agitare leones, aeris in spatio magnam pendere docentes tellurem neque posse in terra sistere terram.
 adiunxere feras, quia quamvis effera proles 605 officiis debet molliri victa parentum.
 muralique caput summum cinxere corona,
 eximiis munita locis quia sustinet urbes ;

- quo nunc insigni per magnas praedita terras horrifice fertur divinae matris imago.
- 610 hanc variae gentes antiquo more sacrorum Idaeam vocitant matrem Phrygiasque catervas dant comites, quia primum ex illis finibus edunt per terrarum orbem fruges coepisse creari.
gallos attribuunt, quia, numen qui violarint
- 615 matris et ingratii genitoribus inventi sint, significare volunt indignos esse putandos,
vivam progeniem qui in oras luminis edant.
tympana tenta tonant palmis et cymbala circum
concava, raucisonoque minantur cornua cantu,
- 620 et Phrygio stimulat numero cava tibia mentis,
telaque paeportant violenti signa furoris, ingratios animos atque impia pectora volgi conterrere metu quae possint numini' divae.
ergo cum primum magnas invecta per urbis
- 625 munificat tacita mortalis muta salute, aere atque argento sternunt iter omne viarum largifica stipe ditantes ninguntque rosarum floribus umbrantes matrem comitumque catervas.
hic armata manus, Curetas nomine Grai
- 630 quos memorant Phrygios, inter se forte (quod armis)
ludunt in numerumque exultant sanguine laeti, terrificas capitum quatientes numine cristas, Dictaeos referunt Curetas qui Iovis illum vagitum in Creta quondam occultasse feruntur,
- 635 cum pueri circum puerum pernice chorea 637 armatei in numerum pulsarent aeribus aera, ne Saturnus eum malis mandaret adeptus aeternumque daret matri sub pectore volnus.
- 640 propterea magnam matrem armati comitantur, aut quia significant divam praedicere ut armis ac virtute velint patriam defendere terram praesidioque parent decorique parentibus esse.
quae bene et eximie quamvis disposta ferantur,
- 645 longe sunt tamen a vera ratione repulsa.
omnis enim per se divom natura necessest inmortali aevo summa cum pace fruatur

- semota ab nostris rebus seiunctaque longe ;
 nam privata dolore omni, privata periclis, ipsa suis pollens opibus, nil indiga nostri,
 nec bene promeritis capitur neque tangitur ira.
 terra quidem vero caret omni tempore sensu,
 et quia multarum potitur primordia rerum,
 multa modis multis effert in lumina solis.
- 5 hic si quis mare Neptunum Cereremque vocare constituet fruges et Bacchi nomine abuti mavolt quam laticis proprium proferre vocamen, concedamus ut hic terrarum dictitet orbem esse deum matrem, dum vera re tamen ipse
 o religione animum turpi contingere parcat.
- Saepe itaque ex uno tondentes gramina campo lanigerae pecudes et equorum duelica proles buceriaeque greges eodem sub tegmine caeli ex unoque sitim sedantes flumine aquai 15 dissimili vivont specie retinentque parentum naturam et mores generatim quaeque imitantur.
 tanta est, in quovis genere herbae, materiali dissimilis ratio, tanta est in flumine quoque.
 hinc porro quamvis animantem ex omnibus unam 20 ossa crux venae calor humor viscera nervi constituunt; quae sunt porro distantia longe, dissimili perfecta figura principiorum.
 tum porro quaecumque igniflammata cremantur,
 si nil praeterea, tamen haec in corpore condunt 25 unde ignem iacere et lumen summittere possint scintillasque agere ac late differre favillam.
 cetera consimili mentis ratione peragrans invenies igitur multarum semina rerum

 haec igitur variis debent constare figuris;
 nidor enim penetrat qua fucus non it in artus,
 fucus item sorsum, (sorsum) sapor insinuatur 35 sensibus; ut noscas primis differre figuris.

dissimiles igitur formae glomeramen in unum conveniunt et res permixto semine constant.
quin etiam passim nostris in versibus ipsis
multa elementa vides multis communia verbis, 692 cum tamen inter se versus ac verba necesse est confiteare alia ex aliis constare elementis ;
non quo multa parum communis littera currat aut nulla inter se duo sint ex omnibus isdem,
sed quia non volgo paria omnibus omnia constant.
695 sic aliis in rebus item communia multa multarum rerum cum sint primordia, verum dissimili tamen inter se consistere summa possunt ; ut merito ex aliis constare feratur humanum genus et fruges arbustaque laeta.
700 Nec tamen omnimodis conecti posse putandum est
omnia ; nam volgo fieri portenta videres, semiferas hominum species existere et altos interdum ramos egigni corpore vivo, multaque conecti terrestria membra marinis, 705 tum flammarum taetro spirantis ore Chimaeras pascere naturam per terras omniparentis.
quorum nil fieri manifestum est, omnia quando
seminibus certis certa genetrice creata conservare genus crescentia posse videmus.
710 scilicet id certa fieri ratione necessust.
nam sua cuique cibis ex omnibus intus in artus corpora discedunt conexaque convenientis efficiunt motus ; at contra aliena videmus reicere in terras naturam, multaque caecis 715 corporibus fugiunt e corpore percita plagis, quae neque conecti quoquam potuere neque intus vitalis motus consentire atque imitari.
sed ne forte putas animalia sola teneri legibus hisce, ea res ratio disternat omnis.
720 nam veluti tota natura dissimiles sunt inter se genitae res quaeque, ita quamque necessest dissimili constare figura principiorum ;
non quo multa parum simili sint praedita forma,
sed quia non volgo paria omnibus omnia constant.

725 semina cum porro distent, differre necessust
intervalla vias conexus pondera plagas concurrus motus, quae non animalia solum corpora seiungunt, sed terras ac mare totum secernunt caelumque a terris omne retentant.

730 Nunc age dicta meo dulci quaesita labore percipe, ne forte haec albis ex alba rearis principiis esse, ante oculos quae candida cernis, aut ea quae nigrant nigro de semine nata;
nive alium quemvis quae sunt inbuta colorem,

735 propterea gerere hunc credas, quod materiali corpora consimili sint eius tincta colore.
nullus enim color est omnino materiali corporibus, neque par rebus neque denique dispar.
in quae corpora si nullus tibi forte videtur

740 posse animi iniectus fieri, procul avius erras.
nam cum caecigeni, solis qui lumina numquam dispexere, tamen cognoscant corpora tactu, ex ineunte aevo nullo coniuncta colore,
scire licet nostrae quoque menti corpora posse

745 vorti in notitiam nullo circum lita fuco.
denique nos ipsi caecis quaecumque tenebris tangimus, haud ullo sentimus tincta colore.
quod quoniam vinco fieri, nunc esse docebo

omnis enim color omnino mutatur in omnis;
750 quod facere haud ullo debent primordia pacto;
immutable enim quiddam superare necesset,
ne res ad nilum redigantur funditus omnes.
nam quocumque suis mutatum finibus exit,
continuo hoc mors est illius quod fuit ante.

755 proinde colore cave contingas semina rerum,
ne tibi res redeant ad nilum funditus omnes.

Praeterea si nulla coloris principiis est reddita natura et variis sunt praedita formis,
e quibus omne genus gignunt variantque colores 760 propterea, magni quod refert semina quaeque
cum quibus et quali positura contineantur
et quos inter se dent motus accipientque,

- perfacile extemplo rationem reddere possis
 cur ea quae nigro fuerint paulo ante colore, 765 marmoreo fieri possint candore repente ;
 ut mare, cum magni commorunt aequora venti, vertitur in canos carenti marmore fluctus ;
 dicere enim possis, nigrum quod saepe videmus,
 materies ubi permixta est illius et ordo 770 principiis mutatus et addita demptaque quaedam, continuo id fieri ut candens videatur et album.
 quod si caeruleis constarent aequora ponti seminibus, nullo possent albescere pacto ;
 nam quocumque modo perturbes caerula quae sint, 775 numquam in marmoreum possunt migrare colorem.
 sin alio atque alio sunt semina tincta colore quae maris efficiunt unum purumque nitorem, ut saepe ex aliis formis variisque figuris efficitur quiddam quadratum unaque figura, 780 conveniebat, ut in quadrato cernimus esse dissimiles formas, ita cernere in aequore ponti aut alio in quovis uno puroque nitore dissimiles longe inter se variosque colores.
 praeterea nil officiunt obstantque figurae 785 dissimiles quo quadratum minus omne sit extra ;
 at varii rerum impediunt prohibentque colores
 quominus esse uno possit res tota nitore.
 Tum porro quae dicit et inicit ut tribuamus principiis rerum nonnumquam causa colores, 790 occidit, ex albis quoniam non alba creatur, nec quae nigra cluent de nigris sed variis ex.
 quippe etenim multo proclivius exorientur candida de nullo quam nigro nata colore aut alio quovis qui contra pugnet et obstet.
 795 Praeterea quoniam nequeunt sine luce colores
 esse neque in lucem existunt primordia rerum, scire licet quam sint nullo velata colore.
 qualis enim caecis poterit color esse tenebris ?
 lumine quin ipso mutatur propterea quod 800 recta aut obliqua percussus luce refulget ;
 pluma columbarum quo pacto in sole videtur,

quae sita cervices circum collumque coronat;
 namque alias fit uti claro sit rubra pyropo,
 interdum quodam sensu fit uti videatur 80; inter caeruleum viridis miscere zmaragdos.
 caudaque pavonis, larga cum luce repleta est,
 consimili mutat ratione obversa colores;
 qui quoniam quodam gignuntur luminis ictu,
 scire licet, sine eo fieri non posse putandum est.
 810 et quoniam plagae quoddam genus excipit in se pupula, cum sentire colorem dicitur album, atque aliud porro, nigrum cum et cetera sentit, nec refert ea quae tangas quo forte colore praedita sint, verum quali magis apta figura, 815 scire licet nil principiis opus esse colores,
 sed variis formis variantes edere tactus.

Praeterea quoniam non certis certa figuris est natura coloris et omnia principiorum formamenta queunt in quovis esse nitore, 820 cur ea quae constant ex illis non pariter sunt omne genus perfusa coloribus in genere omni?
 conveniebat enim corvos quoque saepe volantis ex albis album pinnis iactare colorem et nigros fieri nigro de semine cycnos 825 aut alio quovis uno varioque colore.

Quin etiam quanto in partes res quaeque minutis distrahitur magis, hoc magis est ut cernere possis evanescere paulatim stinguique colorem;
 ut fit ubi in parvas partis discerpitur austrum: 830 purpura poeniceusque color clarissimu' multo, filatim cum distractum est, disperditur omnis;
 noscere ut hinc possis prius omnem efflare colorem particulas quam discedant ad semina rerum.

Postremo quoniam non omnia corpora vocem 835 mittere concedis neque odorem, propterea fit ut non omnibus adtribuas sonitus et odores.
 sic oculis quoniam non omnia cernere quimus, scire licet quaedam tam constare orba colore
 quam sine odore ullo quaedam sonituque remota, 840 nec minus haec animum cognoscere posse sagacem

quam quae sunt aliis rebus privata notare.

Sed ne forte putas solo spoliata colore corpora prima manere, etiam secreta teporis

sunt ac frigoris omnino calidique vaporis,

845 et sonitu sterila et suco iejuna feruntur, nec iaciunt ullum proprium de corpore odorem.

sicut amaracini blandum stactaeque liquorem et nardi florem, nectar qui naribus halat, cum facere instituas, cum primis quaerere par est,

850 quoad licet ac possis reperire, inolentis olivi naturam, nullam quae mittat naribus auram, quam minime ut possit mixtos in corpore odores concoctosque suo contractans perdere viro, propter eandem (rem) debent primordia rerum 855 non adhibere suum gignundis rebus odorem nec sonitum, quoniam nil ab se mittere possunt, nec simili ratione saporem denique quemquam nec frigus neque item calidum tepidumque vaporem, cetera; quae cum ita sunt tamen ut mortalia constent,

860 molli lenta, fragosa putri, cava corpore raro, omnia sint a principiis seiuncta necessest, inmortalia si volumus subiungere rebus fundamenta quibus nitatur summa salutis;

ne tibi res redeant ad nilum funditus omnes.

865 Nunc ea quae sentire videmus cumque necessest ex insensilibus tamen omnia confiteare principiis constare. neque id manufesta refutant nec contra pugnant, in promptu cognita quae sunt, sed magis ipsa manu ducunt et credere cogunt

870 ex insensilibus, quod dico, animalia gigni.

quippe videre licet vivos existere vermes stercore de taetro, putorem cum sibi nacta est intempestivis ex imbris umida tellus;
praeterea cunctas itidem res vertere sese.

875 vertunt se fluvii frondes et pabula laeta in pecudes, vertunt pecudes in corpora nostra naturam, et nostro de corpore saepe ferarum augescunt vires et corpora pennipotentum.
ergo omnes natura cibos in corpora viva

880 vertit et hinc sensus animantium procreat omnes, non alia longe ratione atque arida ligna explicat in flamas et in ignis omnia versat.
 iamne vides igitur magni primordia rerum
 referre in quali sint ordine quaeque locata 885 et commixta quibus dent motus accipientque ?

Tum porro quid id est, animum quod percutit, ipsum quod movet et varios sensus expromere cogit, ex insensilibus ne credas sensile gigni ?
 nimirum lapides et ligna et terra quod una 890 mixta tamen nequeunt vitalem reddere sensum.

 illud in his igitur rebus meminisse decebit,
 non ex omnibus omnino, quaecumque creant res sensilia, extemplo me gigni dicere sensus, sed magni referre ea primum quantula constent, 895 sensile quae faciunt, et qua sint praedita forma, motibus ordinibus posituris denique quae sint.
 quarum nil rerum in lignis glaebisque videmus ;
 et tamen haec, cum sunt quasi putrefacta per imbras, vermiculos pariunt, quia corpora materiali 900 antiquis ex ordinibus permota nova re conciliantur ita ut debent animalia gigni.
 deinde ex sensilibus qui sensile posse creari
 constituunt, porro ex aliis sentire sueti

mollia cum faciunt. nam sensus iungitur omnis 905 visceribus nervis venis, quae cumque videmus mollia mortali consistere corpore creta.

sed tamen esto iam posse haec aeterna manere :
 nempe tamen debent aut sensum partis habere
 aut simili totis animalibus esse putari.
 910 at nequeant per se partes sentire necesse est ;
 namque † alios sensus membrorum respuit omnis, nec manus a nobis potis est secreta neque ulla corporis omnino sensum pars sola tenere.
 linquitur ut totis animantibus adsimulentur.

915 sic itidem quae sentimus sentire necessest, vitali ut possint consentire undique sensu.
 qui poterunt igitur rerum primordia dici

923

et leti vitare vias, animalia cum sint, atque animalia (sint) mortalibus una eademque?
 920 quod tamen ut possint, at coetu concilioque nil facient praeter volgum turbamque animantium, scilicet ut nequeant homines armenta feraeque
 inter sese ullam rem gignere conveniundo.
 quod si forte suum dimitunt corpore sensum 925 atque alium capiunt, quid opus fuit adtribui id quod detrahitur? tum praeterea, quod diximus ante, quatenus in pullos animalis vertier ova cernimus alitum vermisque effervere, terram intempestivos quom putor cepit ob imbris, 930 scire licet gigni posse ex non sensib' sensu.

Quod si forte aliquis dicet dumtaxat oriri posse ex non sensu sensus mutabilitate, aut aliquo tamquam partu quo proditur extra,
 huic satis illud erit planum facere atque probare 935 non fieri partum nisi concilio ante coacto nec quicquam commutari sine conciliatu.
 principio nequeunt ullius corporis esse sensus ante ipsam genitam naturam animantis, nimirum quia materies disiecta tenetur 940 aere fluminibus terris terraque creatis, nec congressa modo vitali convenientes contulit inter se motus, quibus omnituentes accensi sensus animantem quamque tuentur.

Praeterea quamvis animantem grandior ictus, 945 quam patitur natura, repente affigit et omnis corporis atque animi pergit confundere sensus.
 dissoluuntur enim positurae principiorum et penitus motus vitales impediuntur, donec materies, omnis concussa per artus, 950 vitalis animae nodos a corpore solvit dispersaque foras per caulas eiecit omnis.
 nam quid praeterea facere ictum posse reamur oblatum, nisi discutere ac dissolvere quaeque?
 fit quoque uti soleant minus oblato acriter ictu 955 reliqui motus vitalis vincere saepe, vincere, et ingentis plagae sedare tumultus

inque suos quicquid rursus revocare meatus et quasi iam leti dominantem in corpore motum discutere ac paene amissos accendere sensus.

960 nam qua re potius leti iam limine ab ipso ad vitam possint conlecta mente reverti, quam quo decursum prope iam siet ire et abire?

Praeterea quoniam dolor est ubi materiai corpora vi quadam per viscera viva per artus 965 sollicitata suis trepidant in sedibus intus, inque locum quando remigrant, fit blanda voluptas.
scire licet nullo primordia posse dolore temptari nullamque voluptatem capere ex se ;
quandoquidem non sunt ex ulla principiorum 970 corporibus, quorum motus novitate laborent aut aliquem fructum capiant dulcedinis almae.
haut igitur debent esse ullo praedita sensu.

Denique uti possint sentire animalia quaeque, principiis si iam est sensus tribuendus eorum, 975 quid, genus humanum proprium de quibus auctumst ?
scilicet et risu tremulo concussa cachinnant et lacrimis spargunt rorantibus ora genasque multaque de rerum mixtura dicere callent et sibi proporro quae sint primordia quaerunt ; 980 quandoquidem totis mortalibus adsimulata ipsa quoque ex aliis debent constare elementis, inde alia ex aliis, nusquam consistere ut ausis :
quippe separar, quodcumque loqui ridereque dices et sapere, ex aliis eadem haec facientibus ut sit.
985 quod si delira haec furiosaque cernimus esse et ridere potest non ex ridentibus auctus et sapere et doctis rationem reddere dictis non ex seminibus sapientibus atque disertis, qui minus esse queant ea quae sentire videmus 990 seminibus permixta parentibus undique sensu?

Denique caelesti sumus omnes semine oriundi ;
omnibus ille idem pater est, unde alma liquentis umoris guttas mater cum terra recepit, feta parit nitidas fruges arbustaque laeta 995 et genus humanum, parit omnia saecla ferarum, pabula cum praebet quibus omnes corpora pascunt et dulcem ducunt vitam prolemque propagant;

 quapropter merito maternum nomen adepta est.
 cedit item retro, de terra quod fuit ante, 1000 in terras, et quod missumst ex aetheris oris, id rursum caeli rellatum templa receptant.
 nec sic interemit mors res ut materiai corpora conficiat, sed coetum dissupat ollis, inde aliis aliud coniungit et efficit omnes 1005 res ut convertant formas mutentque colores et capiant sensus et puncto tempore reddant;
 ut noscas referre eadem primordia rerum
 cum quibus et quali positura contineantur
 et quos inter se dent motus accipientque, 1010 neve putas aeterna penes residere potesse corpora prima quod in summis fluitare videmus rebus et interdum nasci subitoque perire.
 quin etiam refert nostris in versibus ipsis cum quibus et quali sint ordine quaeque locata;
 1015 namque eadem caelum mare terras flumina solem significant, eadem fruges arbusta animantis;
 si non omnia sunt, at multo maxima pars est
 consimilis; verum positura discrepant res.
 1019 sic ipsis in rebus item iam materiai
 1021 concursus motus ordo positura figurae
     cum permutantur, mutari res quoque debent.
     Nunc animum nobis adhibe veram ad rationem.
     nam tibi vementer nova res molitur ad auris 1025 accidere et nova se species ostendere rerum.
     sed neque tam facilis res ulla est quin ea primum difficilis magis ad credendum constet, itemque nil adeo magnum neque tam mirabile quicquam, quod non paulatim mittant mirarier omnes.
 1030 principio caeli clarum purumque colorem, quaeque in se cohibet, palantia sidera passim, lunamque et solis praeclara luce nitorem, omnia quae nunc si primum mortalibus extent,
     ex improviso si sint obiecta repente, 1035 quid magis his rebus poterat mirabile dici aut minus ante quod auderent fore credere gentes ?

nil, ut opinor : ita haec species miranda fuisset.
quam tibi iam nemo, fessus satiate videndi,
suspicere in caeli dignatur lucida tempa !
1040 desine quapropter novitate exterritus ipsa expuere ex animo rationem, sed magis acri iudicio perpende et, si tibi vera videntur, dede manus, aut, si falsum est, accingere contra.
quaerit enim rationem animus, cum summa loci sit 1045 infinita foris haec extra moenia mundi, quid sit ibi porro quo prospicere usque velit mens atque animi iactus liber quo pervolet ipse.

Principio nobis in cunctas undique partis et latere ex utroque (supra) superque per omne 1050 nulla est finis ; uti docui, res ipsaque per se vociferatur, et elucet natura profundi.
nullo iam pacto veri simile esse putandumst, undique cum vorsum spatium vacet infinitum seminaque in numero numero summaque profunda 1055 multimodis volitent aeterno percita motu, hunc unum terrarum orbem caelumque creatum,
nil agere illa foris tot corpora materiai ;
cum praesertim hic sit natura factus, et ipsa sponte sua forte offensando semina rerum, 1060 multimodis temere incassum frustraque coacta, tandem coluerunt, ea quae coniecta repente magnarum rerum fierent exordia semper, terrai maris et caeli generisque animantum.
quare etiam atque etiam talis fateare necesse est 1065 esse alios alibi congressus materiai, qualis hic est, avido complexu quem tenet aether.

Praeterea cum materies est multa parata, cum locus est praesto nec res nec causa moratur
ulla, geri debent nimirum et confieri res.
1070 nunc et seminibus si tanta est copia quantam enumerare aetas animantum non queat omnis, vis(que) eadem (et) natura manet quae semina rerum conicere in loca quaeque queat simili ratione atque hoc sunt coniecta, necesse est confiteare

- 1075 esse alios aliis terrarum in partibus orbis et varias hominum gentis et saecla ferarum.
Huc accedit ut in summa res nulla sit una,
unica quae gignatur et unica solaque crescat,
quin aliquoiu' siet saecli permultaque eodem 1080 sint genere. in primis animalibus inice mentem ;
invenies sic montivagum genus esse ferarum, sic hominum genitam prolem, sic denique mutas squamigerum pecudes et corpora cuncta volantum.
quapropter caelum simili ratione fatendumst 1085 terramque et solem lunam mare, cetera quae sunt, non esse unica, sed numero magis innumerati ;
quandoquidem vitae depactus terminus alte tam manet haec et tam nativo corpore constant, quam genus omne quod hic generatim(st) rebus abundan 1090 Quae bene cognita si teneas, natura videtur libera continuo dominis privata superbis ipsa sua per se sponte omnia dis agere expers.
nam pro sancta deum tranquilla pectora pace
quae placidum degunt aevom vitamque serenam, 1095 quis regere immensi summam, quis habere profundi indu manu validas potis est moderanter habenas, quis pariter caelos omnis convertere et omnis ignibus aetheriis terras suffire feracis, omnibus inve locis esse omni tempore praesto, 1100 nubibus ut tenebras faciat caelique serena concutiat sonitu, tum fulmina mittat et aedis saepe suas disturbet et in deserta recedens saeviat exercens telum quod saepe nocentes praeterit exanimatque indignos inque merentes ?
1105 Multaque post mundi tempus genitale diemque primigenum maris et terrae solisque coortum addita corpora sunt extrinsecus, addita circum semina quae magnum iaculando contulit omne ;
unde mare et terrae possent augescere et unde 1110 appareret spatium caeli domus altaque tecta tolleret a terris procul et consurgeret aer.
nam sua cuique, locis ex omnibus, omnia plagis corpora distribuuntur et ad sua saecla recedunt, umor ad umorem, terreno corpore terra 1115 crescit et ignem ignes procudunt aetheraque aether, donique ad extremam crescendi perfica finem omnia perduxit rerum natura creatrix; ut fit ubi nilo iam plus est quod datur intra vitalis venas quam quod fluit atque recedit.

1120 omnibus hic aetas debet consistere rebus,
hic natura suis refrenat viribus auctum.
nam quaecumque vides hilario grandescere adactu paulatimque gradus aetatis scandere adultae, plura sibi adsumunt quam de se corpora mittunt, 1125 dum facile in venas cibus omnis inditur et dum non ita sunt late dispessa ut multa remittant et plus dispendi faciant quam vescitur aetas.
nam certe fluere atque recedere corpora rebus multa manus dandum est; sed plura accedere debent, 1130 donec alescendi summum tetigere cacumen.
inde minutatim vires et robur adulturn frangit et in partem peiorem liquitur aetas.
quippe etenim quanto est res amplior, augmine adempto,
et quo latior est, in cunctas undique partis 1135 plura modo dispargit et a se corpora mittit, nec facile in venas cibus omnis diditur ei nec satis est, proquam largos exaestuat aestus, unde queat tantum suboriri ac subpeditare.
iure igitur pereunt, cum rarefacta fluendo 1140 sunt et cum externis succumbunt omnia plagis;
quandoquidem grandi cibus aevo denique defit,
nec tuditantia rem cessant extrinsecus ullam
corpora conficere et plagis infesta domare.
Sic igitur magni quoque circum moenia mundi 1145 expugnata dabunt labem putris(que) ruinas;
omnia debet enim cibus integrare novando et fulcire cibus, (cibus) omnia sustentare, nequiquam, quoniam nec venae perpetiuntur quod satis est neque quantum opus est natura ministrat.
1150 iamque adeo fracta est aetas effetaque tellus vix animalia parva creat quae cuncta creavit saecla deditque ferarum ingentia corpora partu.

haud, ut opinor, enim mortalia saecla superne
aurea de caelo demisit funis in arva 1155 nec mare nec fluctus plangentis saxa crearunt, sed genuit tellus eadem quae nunc alit ex se.
praeterea nitidas fruges vinetaque laeta sponte sua primum mortalibus ipsa creavit, ipsa dedit dulcis fetus et pabula laeta ;
1160 quae nunc vix nostro grandescunt aucta labore, conterimusque boves et viris agricolarum, conficimus ferrum vix arvis suppeditati :
usque adeo parcunt fetus augentque laborem.
iamque caput quassans grandis suspirat arator 1165 crebrius, incassum magnum cecidisse laborem, et cum tempora temporibus praesentia confert praeteritis, laudat fortunas saepe parentis.
tristis item vetulæ vitis sator atque (vietae)
temporis incusat momen caelumque fatigat, 1170 et crepat, anticum genus ut pietate repletum perfacile angustis tolerarit finibus aevom, cum minor esset agri multo modus ante viritim ; nec tenet omnia paulatim tabescere et ire
ad capulum spatio aetatis defessa vetusto.

DE RERVVM NATVRA
LIBER TERTIVS

---

E tenebris tantis tam clarum extollere lumen qui primus potuisti inlustrans cōmoda vitae, te sequor, o Graiae gentis decus, inquē tuis nunc
ficta pedum pono pressis vestigia signis,
5 non ita certandi cupidus quam propter amorem quod te imitari aveo ; quid enim contendat hirundo cycnis, aut quidnam tremulis facere artubus haedi consimile in cursu possint et fortis equi vis ?
tu, pater, es rerum inventor, tu patria nobis 10 suppeditas praecepta, tuisque ex, include, chartis, floriferis ut apes in saltibus omnia libant, omnia nos itidem depascimur aurea dicta,
aurea, perpetua semper dignissima vita.
nam simul ac ratio tua coepit vociferari 15 naturam rerum, divina mente coorta, diffugint animi terrores, moenia mundi discedunt, totum video per inane geri res.
apparet divum numen sedesque quietae
quas neque concutiunt venti nec nubila nimbis 20 aspergunt neque nix acri concreta pruina cana cadens violat semperque innubilus aether integit, et large diffuso lumine rident.
omnia suppeditat porro natura neque ulla
res animi pacem delibat tempore in ullo.
25 at contra nusquam apparent Acherusia templa nec tellus obstat quin omnia dispiciantur, sub pedibus quaecumque infra per inane geruntur.

his ibi me rebus quaedam divina voluptas percipit atque horror, quod sic natura tua vi tam manifesta patens ex omni parte reiecta est.

Et quoniam docui, cunctarum exordia rerum
 qualia sint et quam variis distantia formis sponte sua volent aeterno percita motu quove modo possint res ex his quaeque creari, hasce secundum res animi natura videtur atque animae claranda meis iam versibus esse et metus ille foras praeceps Acheruntis agendum, funditus humanam qui vitam turbat ab imo omnia suffundens mortis nigrore neque ullam esse voluptatem liquidam puramque relinquit.

 nam quod saepe homines morbos magis esse timendos infamemque ferunt vitam quam Tartara leti et se scire animi naturam sanguinis esse aut etiam venti, si fert ita forte voluntas, nec prosim quicquam nostrae rationis egere,

hinc licet advertas animum magis omnia laudis iactari causa quam quod res ipsa probetur.

extores idem patria longeque fugati conspictu ex hominum, foedati criminis turpi, omnibus aerumnis affecti denique vivunt,

 et quocumque tamen miseri venere parentant et nigras mactant pecudes et manib' divis inferias mittunt multoque in rebus acerbis acrius advertunt animos ad religionem.

quo magis in dubiis hominem spectare periclis convenit adversisque in rebus noscere qui sit;

nam verae voces tum demum pectore ab imo eliciuntur <et> eripitur persona, manet res.

denique avarities et honorum caeca cupidio quaes miseros homines cogunt transcendere fines iuris et interdum socios scelerum atque ministros

noctes atque dies niti praestante labore

ad summas emergere opes, haec vulnera vitae non minimam partem mortis formidine aluntur.

turpis enim ferme contemptus et acris egestas semota ab dulci vita stabilique videtur

- et quasi iam leti portas cunctarier ante;
 unde homines dum se falso terrore coacti
 effugisse volunt longe longeque remosse, 70 sanguine civili rem conflant dixitiasque conduplicant avidi, caedem caede accumulantes;
 crudeles gaudent in tristi funere fratri et consanguineum mensas odere timentque.
 consimili ratione ab eodem saepe timore 75 macerat invidia: ante oculos illum esse potentem, illum aspectari, claro qui incedit honore,
 ipsi se in tenebris volvi caenoque queruntur.
 intereunt partim statuarum et nominis ergo.
 et saepe usque adeo, mortis formidine, vitae 80 percipit humanos odium lucisque videndae, ut sibi consiscant maerenti pectore letum oblii fontem curarum hunc esse timorem.
 hunc vexare pudorem, hunc vincula amicitiae rumpere et in summa pietatem evertere suadet; 85 nam iam saepe homines patriam carosque parentis prodiderunt, vitare Acherusia templa petentes.
 nam veluti pueri trepidant atque omnia caecis
 in tenebris metuunt, sic nos in luce timemus
 interdum, nilo quae sunt metuenda magis quam
 90 quae pueri in tenebris pavitant finguntque futura.
 hunc igitur terrorem animi tenebrasque necesest
 non radii solis neque lucida tela diei
 discutiant, sed naturae species ratioque.

Primum animum dico, mentem quam saepe vocamus, 95 in quo consilium vitae regimenque locatum est, esse hominis partem nilo minus ac manus et pes atque oculi partes animantis totius extant.

sensum animi certa non esse in parte locatum, verum habitum quendam vitalem corporis esse, 100 harmoniam Grai quam dicunt, quod faciat nos vivere cum sensu, nulla cum in parte siet mens;
 ut bona saepe valetudo cum dicitur esse corporis, et non est tamen haec pars ulla valentis.
 sic animi sensum non certa parte reponunt;

- 105 magno opere in quo mi diversi errare videntur.
 saepe itaque, in promptu corpus quod cernitur, aegret,
 cum tamen ex alia laetamur parte latenti;
 et retro fit uti contra sit saepe vicissim,
 cum miser ex animo laetatur corpore toto;
 110 non alio pacto quam si, pes cum dolet aegri,
 in nullo caput interea sit forte dolore.
 praeterea molli cum somno dedita membra effusumque iacet sine sensu corpus honustum, est aliud tamen in nobis quod tempore in illo 115 multimodis agitatur et omnis accipit in se laetitiae motus et curas cordis inanis.
 nunc animam quoque ut in membris cognoscere possis esse neque harmonia corpus sentire solere, principio fit uti detracto corpore multo 120 saepe tamen nobis in membris vita moretur;
 atque eadem rursum, cum corpora pauca caloris diffugere forasque per os est editus aer, deserit extemplo venas atque ossa relinquit;
 noscere ut hinc possis non aequas omnia partis 125 corpora habere neque ex aequo fulcire salutem, sed magis haec, venti quae sunt calidique vaporis semina, curare in membris ut vita moretur.
 est igitur calor ac ventus vitalis in ipso corpore qui nobis moribundos deserit artus.
 130 quapropter quoniam est animi natura reperta atque animae quasi pars hominis, redde harmoniai nomen, ad organicos alto delatum Heliconi;
 sive aliunde ipsi porro traxere et in illam transtulerunt, proprio quae tum res nomine egebat.
 135 quidquid id est, habeant: tu cetera percipe dicta.
 Nunc animum atque animam dico coniuncta teneri inter se atque unam naturam conficere ex se, sed caput esse quasi et dominari in corpore toto consilium quod nos animum mentemque vocamus.
 140 idque situm media regione in pectoris haeret.
 hic exultat enim pavor ac metus, haec loca circum
 laetitiae mulcent; hic ergo mens animusquest.
 cetera pars animae per totum dissita corpus

- paret et ad numen mentis momenque movetur.
 145 idque sibi solum per se sapit, (id) sibi gaudet, cum neque res animam neque corpus commovet una.
 et quasi, cum caput aut oculus temptante dolore laeditur in nobis, non omni concruciamur corpore, sic animus nonnumquam laeditur ipse 150 laetitiaque viget, cum cetera pars animai per membra atque artus nulla novitate cietur.
 verum ubi vementi magis est commota metu mens, consentire animam totam per membra videmus sudoresque ita palloremque existere toto 155 corpore et infringi linguam vocemque aboriri, caligare oculos, sonere auris, succidere artus, denique concidere ex animi terrore videmus saepe homines; facile ut quivis hinc noscere possit esse animam cum animo coniunctam, quae cum animi (vi)
 160 percussast, exim corpus propellit et icit.
 Haec eadem ratio naturam animi atque animai corpoream docet esse; ubi enim propellere membra, corripere ex somno corpus mutareque vultum
 atque hominem totum regere ac versare videtur, 165 quorum nil fieri sine tactu posse videmus nec tactum porro sine corpore, nonne fatendumst corporea natura animum constare animamque?
 praeterea pariter fungi cum corpore et una consentire animum nobis in corpore cernis.
 170 si minus offendit vitam vis horrida teli ossibus ac nervis disclusis intus adacta, at tamen insequitur languor terraeque petitus suavis, et in terra mentis qui gignitur aestus, interdumque quasi exurgendi incerta voluntas.
 175 ergo corpoream naturam animi esse necessest, corporeis quoniam telis ictuque laborat.
 Is tibi nunc animus quali sit corpore et unde constiterit pergam rationem reddere dictis.
 principio esse aio persuibilem atque minutis 180 perquam corporibus factum constare. id ita esse hinc licet advertas animum ut pernoscere possis:
 nil adeo fieri celeri ratione videtur, quam si(bi) mens fieri proponit et inchoat ipsa ;

ocius ergo animus quam res se perciet ulla,
ante oculos quorum in promptu natura videtur.
at quod mobile tanto operest, constare rutundis perquam seminibus debet perquamque minutis, momine uti parvo possint impulsa moveri.
namque movetur aqua et tantillo momine flutat quippe volubilibus parvisque creata figuris.
at contra mellis constantior est natura et pigri latices magis et cunctantior actus ;
haeret enim inter se magis omnis materiai copia, nimirum quia non tam levibus extat corporibus neque tam suptilibus atque rutundis.
namque papaveris aura potest suspensa levisque cogere ut ab summo tibi diffluat altus acervus :
at contra lapidum conlectum spicarumque noenu potest. igitur parvissima corpora proquam et levissima sunt, ita mobilitate fruuntur ;
at contra quaecumque magis cum pondere magno asperaque inveniuntur, eo stabilita magis sunt.
nunc igitur quoniam (est) animi natura reperta mobilis egregie, perquam constare necessest corporibus parvis et levibus atque rutundis.
quae tibi cognita res in multis, o bone, rebus utilis invenietur et opportuna cluebit.
haec quoque res etiam naturam dedicat eius, quam tenui constet textura quamque loco se contineat parvo, si possit conglomerari, quod simul atque hominem leti secura quies est indepta atque animi natura animaeque recessit, nil ibi libatum de toto corpore cernas ad speciem, nil ad pondus : mors omnia praestat vitalem praeter sensum calidumque vaporem.
ergo animam totam perparvis esse necessest seminibus, nexam per venas viscera nervos ;
quatenus, omnis ubi e toto iam corpore cessit, extima membrorum circumcaesura tamen se incolumem praestat nec defit ponderis hilum.
quod genus est Bacchi cum flos evanuit aut cum spiritus unguenti suavis diffugit in auras aut aliquo cum iam sucus de corpore cessit;

 nil(o) oculis tamen esse minor res ipsa videtur 225 propterea neque detractum de pondere quicquam, nimirum quia multa minutaque semina sucos efficiunt et odorem in toto corpore rerum.
 quare etiam atque etiam mentis naturam animaeque
 scire licet per quam pauxillis esse creatam 230 seminibus, quoniam fugiens nil ponderis aufert.
 Nec tamen haec simplex nobis natura putanda est.
 tenuis enim quaedam moribundos deserit aura mixta vapore, vapor porro trahit aera secum.
 nec calor est quisquam, cui non sit mixtus et aer;
 235 rara quod eius enim constat natura, necessest aeris inter eum primordia multa moveri.
 iam triplex animi est igitur natura reperta;
 nec tamen haec sat sunt ad sensum cuncta creandum,
 nil horum quoniam recipit mens posse creare 240 sensiferos motus, nedum quae mente volutat.
 quarta quoque his igitur quaedam natura necessest adtribuatur; east omnino nominis expers;
 qua neque mobilius quicquam neque tenuius exstat,
 nec magis e parvis et levibus est elementis; 245 sensiferos motus quae didit prima per artus.
 prima cietur enim, parvis perfecta figuris;
 inde calor motus et venti caeca potestas accipit, inde aer; inde omnia mobilitantur, concutitur sanguis, tum viscera persentiscunt 250 omnia, postremis datur ossibus atque medullis sive voluptas est sive est contrarius ardor.
 nec temere huc dolor usque potest penetrare neque acre permanare malum, quin omnia perturbentur usque adeo (ut) vitae desit locus atque animai 255 diffugiant partes per caulas corporis omnis.
 sed plerumque fit in summo quasi corpore finis
 motibus: hanc ob rem vitam retinere valemus.
 Nunc ea quo pacto inter sese mixta quibusque compta modis vigeant rationem reddere aventem 260 abstrahit invitum patrii sermonis egestas;

sed tamen, ut potero summatim attingere, tangam.
inter enim cursant primordia principiorum motibus inter se, nil ut secernier unum possit nec spatio fieri divisa potestas, 265 sed quasi multae vis unius corporis extant.
quod genus in quovis animantium viscere volgo est odor et quidam calor et sapor, et tamen ex his omnibus est unum perfectum corporis augmen;
sic calor atque aer et venti caeca potestas 270 mixta creant unam naturam et mobilis illa vis, initum motus ab se quae dividit ollis, sensifer unde oritur primum per viscera motus.
nam penitus prorsum latet haec natura subestque nec magis hac infra quicquam est in corpore nostro 275 atque anima est animae proporro totius ipsa.
quod genus in nostris membris et corpore toto mixta latens animi vis est animaeque potestas, corporibus quia de parvis paucisque creatast.
sic tibi nominis haec expers vis facta minutis 280 corporibus latet atque animae quasi totius ipsa proporrost anima et dominatur corpore toto.
consimili ratione necessest ventus et aer et calor inter se vigeant commixta per artus atque aliis aliud subsit magis emineatque 285 ut quiddam fieri videatur ab omnibus unum, ni calor ac ventus seorsum seorsumque potestas
aeris interemant sensum diductaque solvant.
est etiam calor ille animo, quem sumit, in ira cum fervescit et ex oculis micat acrius ardor; 290 est et frigida multa, comes formidinis, aura quae ciet horrorem membris et concitat artus;
est etiam quoque pacati status aeris ille,
pectore tranquillo qui fit voltuque sereno.
sed calidi plus est illis quibus acria corda 295 iracundaque mens facile effervescit in ira.
quo genere in primis vis est violenta leonum, pectoris qui fremitu rumpunt plerumque gementes nec capere irarum fluctus in pectore possunt.
at ventosa magis cervorum frigida mens est

- 300 et gelidas citius per viscera concitat auras quae tremulum faciunt membris existere motum.
 at natura boum placido magis aere vivit,
 nec nimis irai fax umquam subdita percit
 fumida, suffundens caecae caliginis umbram, 305 nec gelidis torpet telis perfixa pavoris :
 interutrasque sitast, cervos saevosque leones.
 sic hominum genus est. quamvis doctrina politos constituat pariter quosdam, tamen illa relinquit naturae cuiusque animi vestigia prima.
 310 nec radicitus evelli mala posse putandumst,
 quin proclivius hic iras decurrat ad acris, ille metu citius paulo temptetur, at ille tertius accipiat quaedam clementius aequo.
 inque aliis rebus multis differre necesset 315 naturas hominum varias moresque sequacis ;
 quorum ego nunc nequeo caecas exponere causas nec reperire figurarum tot nomina quot sunt principiis, unde haec oritur variantia rerum.
 illud in his rebus video firmare potesse, 320 usque adeo naturarum vestigia linqui parvola quae nequeat ratio depellere nobis ut nil impedit dignam dis degere vitam.

Haec igitur natura tenetur corpore ab omni ipsaque corporis est custos et causa salutis ;
 325 nam communibus inter se radicibus haerent
 nec sine pernicie divelli posse videntur.
 quod genus e thuris glaebis evellere odorem haud facile est quin intereat natura quoque eius.
 sic animi atque animae naturam corpore toto 330 extrahere haut facile est quin omnia dissoluantur.
 inplexis ita principiis ab origine prima inter se fiunt consorti praedita vita, nec sibi quaeque sine alterius vi posse videtur corporis atque animi seorsum sentire potestas, 335 sed communibus inter eas conflatur utrumque motibus accensus nobis per viscera sensus.
 praeterea corpus per se nec gignitur umquam nec crescit neque post mortem durare videtur.

non enim, ut umor aquae dimitit saepe vaporem 340 qui datus est, neque ea causa convellitur ipse, sed manet incolumnis, non, inquam, sic animai discidium possunt artus perferre relictii, sed penitus pereunt convulsi conque putrescunt.
 ex ineunte aevo sic corporis atque animai 345 mutua vitalis discunt contagia motus maternis etiam membris alvoque reposta, discidium <ut> nequeat fieri sine peste maloque ;
 ut videas, quoniam coniunctast causa salutis,
 coniunctam quoque naturam consistere eorum.

350 Quod superest, si quis corpus sentire refutat atque animam credit permixtam corpore toto suscipere hunc motum quem sensum nominitamus, vel manifestas res contra verasque repugnat.
 quid sit enim corpus sentire quis adferet umquam, 355 si non ipsa palam quod res dedit ac docuit nos ?
 at dimissa anima corpus caret undique sensu ;
 perdit enim quod non proprium fuit eius in aevo, multaque praeterea perdit cum expellitur aevo.

Dicere porro oculos nullam rem cernere posse, 360 sed per eos animum ut foribus spectare reclusis, difficilest, contra cum sensus ducat eorum ;
 sensus enim trahit atque acies detrudit ad ipsas, fulgida praesertim cum cernere saepe nequimus,
 lumina luminibus quia nobis praepediuntur.
 365 quod foribus non fit ; neque enim, qua cernimus ipsi, ostia suscipiunt ullum reclusa laborem.
 praeterea si pro foribus sunt lumina nostra,
 iam magis exemptis oculis debere videtur cernere res animus sublati postibus ipsis.

370 Illud in his rebus nequaquam sumere possis, Democriti quod sancta viri sententia ponit,
 corporis atque animi primordia singula privis adposita alternis variare, ac nectere membra.
 nam cum multo sunt animae elementa minora 375 quam quibus e corpus nobis et viscera constant, tum numero quoque concedunt et rara per artus dissita sunt, dumtaxat ut hoc promittere possis, quantula prima queant nobis injecta ciere corpora sensiferos motus in corpore, tanta 380 intervalla tenere exordia prima animai.

 nam neque pulveris interdum sentimus adhaesum corpore nec membris incussam sidere cretam, nec nebulam noctu neque aranei tenvia fila
 obvia sentimus, quando obretimur eentes, 385 nec supera caput eiusdem cecidisse vietam vestem nec plumas avium papposque volantis qui nimia levitate cadunt plerumque gravatim, nec repentis itum cuiusviscumque animantis
 sentimus nec priva pedum vestigia quaeque, 390 corpore quae in nostro culices et cetera ponunt.
 usque adeo prius est in nobis multa ciendum, quam primordia sentiscant concussa animai semina corporibus nostris inmixta per artus, et quam in his intervallis tuditantia possint 395 concursare coire et dissultare vicissim.
 Et magis est animus vitai claustra coercens et dominantior ad vitam quam vis animai.
 nam sine mente animoque nequit residere per artus temporis exiguum partem pars ulla animai, 400 sed comes insequitur facile et discedit in auras et gelidos artus in leti frigore linquit.
 at manet in vita cui mens animusque remansit.
 quamvis est circum caesis lacer undique membris truncus, adempta anima circum membrisque remota 405 vivit et aetherias vitalis suscipit auras.
 si non omnimodis, at magna parte animai privatus, tamen in vita cunctatur et haeret;
 ut, lacerato oculo circum si pupula mansit
 incolumis, stat cernundi vivata potestas, 410 dummodo ne totum corrumpas luminis orbem et circum caedas aciem solamque relinquas;
 id quoque enim sine pernicie non fiet eorum.
 at si tantula pars oculi media illa peresa est,
 occidit extemplo lumen tenebraeque secuntur, 415 incolumis quamvis alioqui splendidus orbis.
 hoc anima atque animus vinci sunt foedere semper.

Nunc age, nativos animantibus et mortalis esse animos animasque levis ut noscere possis, conquisita diu dulcique reperta labore 420 digna tua pergam disponere carmina vita.
 tu fac utrumque uno sub iungas nomine eorum,
 atque animam verbi causa cum dicere pergam, mortalem esse docens, animum quoque dicere credas,
 quatenus est unum inter se coniunctaque res est.
 425 principio quoniam tenuem constare minutis corporibus docui multoque minoribus esse principiis factam quam liquidus umor aqua aut nebula aut fumus : — nam longe mobilitate praestat et a tenui causa magis icta movetur ; 430 quippe ubi imaginibus fumi nebulaeque movetur :
 quod genus in somnis sopiti ubi cernimus alte exhalare vaporem altaria ferreque fumum ;
 nam procul haec dubio nobis simulacra geruntur : —
 nunc igitur quoniam quassatis undique vasis 435 diffluere umorem et laticem discedere cernis et nebula ac fumus quoniam discedit in auras, crede animam quoque diffundi multoque perire ocius et citius dissolvi in corpora prima, cum semel ex hominis membris ablata recessit.
 440 quippe etenim corpus, quod vas quasi constitit eius, cum cohibere nequit conquassatum ex aliqua re ac rarefactum detracto sanguine venis, aere qui credas posse hanc cohiberier ullo, corpore qui nostro rarus magis incohicens sit ?
 445 Praeterea gigni pariter cum corpore et una crescere sentimus pariterque senescere mentem.
 nam velut infirmo pueri teneroque vagantur corpore, sic animi sequitur sententia tenuis.
 inde ubi robustis adolevit viribus aetas, 450 consilium quoque maius et auctior est animi vis.
 post ubi iam validis quassatum est viribus aevi corpus et obtusis ceciderunt viribus artus, claudicat ingenium, delirat lingua, (labat) mens,
 omnia deficiunt atque uno tempore desunt.
 ergo dissolui quoque convenit omnem animai naturam, ceu fumus, in altas aeris auras ;

quandoquidem gigni pariter pariterque videmus crescere et, ut docui, simul aevo fessa fatisci.

- Huc accedit uti videamus, corpus ut ipsum 460 suscipere inmanis morbos durumque dolorem, sic animum curas acris luctumque metumque ;
quare participem leti quoque convenit esse.
quin etiam morbis in corporis avius errat
saepe animus ; dementit enim deliraque fatur 465 interdumque gravi lethargo fertur in altum aeternumque soporem oculis nutuque cadenti, unde neque exaudit voces nec noscere voltus illorum potis est, ad vitam qui revocantes circumstant lacrimis rorantes ora genasque.
470 quare animum quoque dissolui fateare necesset, quandoquidem penetrant in eum contagia morbi :
nam dolor ac morbus leti fabricator uterque,
multorum exitio perdocti quod sumus ante.
475 denique cur, hominem cum vini vis penetravit acris et in venas discessit diditus ardor, consequitur gravitas membrorum, praepediuntur
crura vacillanti, tardescit lingua, madet mens, 480 nant oculi, clamor singultus iurgia gliscunt, et iam cetera de genere hoc quaecumque secuntur, cur ea sunt, nisi quod vemens violentia vini conturbare animam consuevit corpore in ipso ?
at quaecumque queunt conturbari inque pediri, 485 significant, paulo si durior insinuarit causa, fore ut pereant aevo privata futuro.
quin etiam subito vi morbi saepe coactus ante oculos aliquis nostros, ut fulminis ictu, concidit et spumas agit, ingemit et tremit artus, 490 desipit, extentat nervos, torquetur, anhelat inconstanter, et in iactando membra fatigat.
nimirum quia vis morbi distracta per artus turbat, agens animam spumat, ut in aequore salso ventorum validis fervescunt viribus undae.
495 exprimitur porro gemitus, quia membra dolore adficiuntur et omnino quod semina vocis eiciuntur et ore foras glomerata feruntur qua quasi consuerunt et sunt munita viai.

 desipientia fit, quia vis animi atque animai 500 conturbatur et, ut docui, divisa seorsum disiectatur eodem illo distracta veneno.
 inde ubi iam morbi reflexit causa reditque in latebras acer corrupti corporis humor, tum quasi vaccillans primum consurgit et omnis 505 paulatim redit in sensus animamque receptat.
 haec igitur tantis ubi morbis corpore in ipso iacentur miserisque modis distracta laborent, cur eadem credis sine corpore in aere aperto cum validis ventis aetatem degere posse?
 510 et quoniam mentem sanari, corpus ut aegrum,
 cernimus et flecti medicina posse videmus,
 id quoque praesagit mortalem vivere mentem.
 addere enim partis aut ordine traiecere aecumst
 aut aliquid prosum de summa detrahere hilum, 515 commutare animum quicunque adoritur et infit aut aliam quamvis naturam flectere quaerit.
 at neque transferri sibi partis nec tribui vult inmortale quod est quicquam neque defluere hilum.
 nam quodcumque suis mutatum finibus exit,
 520 continuo hoc mors est illius quod fuit ante.
 ergo animus sive aegrescit, mortalia signa mittit, uti docui, seu flectitur a medicina.
 usque adeo falsae rationi vera videtur
 res occurrere et effugium paecludere eunti 525 ancipitique refutatu convincere falsum.
 Denique saepe hominem paulatim cernimus ire et membratim vitalem deperdere sensum;
 in pedibus primum digitos livescere et unguis,
 inde pedes et crura mori, post inde per artus 530 ire alios tractim gelidi vestigia leti.
 scinditur atqui animae haec quoniam natura nec uno tempore sincera existit, mortalis habendast.
 quod si forte putas ipsam se posse per artus introsum trahere et partis conducere in unum 535 atque ideo cunctis sensum deducere membris, at locus ille tamen, quo copia tanta animai cogitur, in sensu debet maiore videri;

qui quoniam nusquamst, nimirum ut diximus (ante),
dilaniata foras dispargitur, interit ergo.

- 540 quin etiam si iam libeat concedere falsum et dare posse animam glomerari in corpore eorum, lumina qui lincunt moribundi particulatim,
mortalem tamen esse animam fateare necesse,
nec refert utrum pereat dispersa per auras 545 an contracta suis e partibus obbrutescat, quando hominem totum magis ac magis undique sensus deficit et vitae minus et minus undique restat.

Et quoniam mens est hominis pars una, loco quae fixa manet certo, velut aures atque oculi sunt

- 550 atque alii sensus qui vitam cumque gubernant, et veluti manus atque oculus naresve seorsum secreta ab nobis nequeunt sentire neque esse, sed tamen in parvo licuntur tempore tabe,
sic animus per se non quit sine corpore et ipso 555 esse homine, illius quasi quod vas (es)se videtur sive aliud quid vis potius coniunctius ei fingere, quandoquidem conexu corpus adhaeret.

Denique corporis atque animi vivata potestas inter se coniuncta valent vitaque fruuntur;

- 560 nec sine corpore enim vitalis edere motus sola potest animi per se natura nec autem cassum anima corpus durare et sensibus uti.
scilicet avolsus radicibus ut nequit ullam dispicere ipse oculus rem seorsum corpore toto, 565 sic anima atque animus per se nil posse videtur nimirum quia (per) venas et viscera mixtim, per nervos atque ossa, tenentur corpore ab omni nec magnis intervallis primordia possunt libera dissultare, ideo conclusa moventur 570 sensiferos motus quos extra corpus in auras aeris haut possunt post mortem ejecta moveri propterea quia non simili ratione tenentur.
corpus enim atque animans erit aer, si cohibere
sese anima atque in eos poterit concludere motus

575 quois ante in nervis et in ipso corpore agebat.
 quare etiam atque etiam resoluto corporis omni tegmine et eiectis extra vitalibus auris dissolui sensus animi fateare necessest atque animam, quoniam coniunctast causa duobus.
 580 Denique cum corpus nequeat perferre animai discidium quin in taetro tabescat odore, quid dubitas quin ex imo penitusque coorta emanarit uti fumus diffusa animae vis, atque ideo tanta mutatum putre ruina 585 conciderit corpus, penitus quia mota loco sunt fundamenta, foras manante anima usque per artus perque viarum ·omnis flexus, in corpore qui sunt, atque foramina? multimodis ut noscere possis dispertitam animae naturam exisse per artus 590 et prius esse sibi distractam corpore in ipso, quam prolapsa foras enaret in aeris auras.
 quin etiam finis dum vitae vertitur intra,
 saepe aliqua tamen e causa labefacta videtur
 ire anima ac toto solui de corpore (velle) 595 et quasi supremo languescere tempore voltus molliaque exsangui (trunc) cadere omnia membra.
 quod genus est, animo male factum cum perhibetur aut animam liquisse; ubi iam trepidatur et omnes extremum cupiunt vitae reprahendere vinclum.
 600 conquassatur enim tum mens animaeque potestas omnis et haec ipso cum corpore conlabefiunt;
 ut gravior paulo possit dissolvere causa.
 quid dubitas tandem quin extra prodita corpus inbecilla foras in aperto, tegmine dempto, 605 non modo non omnem possit durare per aevom, sed minimum quodvis nequeat consistere tempus?
 nec sibi enim quisquam moriens sentire videtur ire foras animam incolumem de corpore toto nec prius ad iugulum et supera succedere fauces, 610 verum deficere in certa regione locatam;
 ut sensus alios in parti quemque sua scit dissolui. quod si inmortalis nostra foret mens, non tam se moriens dissolvi conquereretur,

sed magis ire foras vestemque relinquere, ut anguis.

615 Denique cur animi numquam mens consiliumque gignitur in capite aut pedibus manibusve, sed unis sedibus et certis regionibus omnibus haeret, si non certa loca ad nascendum reddit a cuique
sunt, et ubi quicquid possit durare creatum 620 atque ita multimodis partitis artibus esse, membrorum ut numquam existat praeposterus ordo ?
usque adeo sequitur res rem neque flamma creari
fluminibus solitast neque in igni gignier algor.

Praeterea si inmortalis natura animaist

625 et sentire potest secreta a corpore nostro, quinque, ut opinor, eam faciundum est sensibus auctam ;
nec ratione alia nosmet proponere nobis possumus infernas animas Acherunte vagari.
pictores itaque et scriptorum saecula priora 630 sic animas intro duxerunt sensibus auctas.
at neque sorsum oculi neque nares nec manus ipsa esse potest animae neque sorsum lingua, neque aures ;
haud igitur per se possunt sentire neque esse.

Et quoniam toto sentimus corpore inesse

635 vitalem sensum et totum esse animale videmus, si subito medium celeri praeciderit ictu vis aliqua ut sorsum partem secernat utramque, dispertita procul dubio quoque vis animai et discissa simul cum corpore dissicietur.
640 at quod scinditur et partis discedit in ulla, scilicet aeternam sibi naturam abnuit esse.
falciferos memorant currus abscidere membra saepe ita de subito permixta caede calentis, ut tremere in terra videatur ab artibus id quod 645 decidit abscisum, cum mens tamen atque hominis vis mobilitate mali non quit sentire dolorem ;
et simul in pugnae studio quod dedita mens est,
corpore reliquo pugnam caedesque petessit,
nec tenet amissam laevam cum tegmine saepe 650 inter equos abstraxe rotas falcesque rapaces, nec cecidisse alius dextram, cum scandit et instat.
inde alias conatur adempto surgere crure,

- cum digitos agitat propter moribundus humi pes.
 et caput abscisum calido viventeque trunco 655 servat humi voltum vitalem oculosque patentis, donec reliquias animai reddidit omnes.
 quin etiam tibi si lingua vibrante minanti serpentis cauda e procero corpore utrumque sit libitum in multas partis discidere ferro, 660 omnia iam sorsum cernes ancisa recenti volnere tortari et terram conspargere tabo, ipsam seque retro partem petere ore priorem, volneris ardenti ut morsu premat icta dolore.
 omnibus esse igitur totas dicemus in illis 665 particulis animas? at ea ratione sequetur unam animantem animas habuisse in corpore multas.
 ergo divisast ea quae fuit una simul cum corpore; quapropter mortale utrumque putandumst, in multas quoniam partis disciditur aequa.
 670 Praeterea si inmortalis natura animai constat et in corpus nascentibus insinuatur, cur super anteactam aetatem meminissemus nequimus?
 nec vestigia gestarum rerum ulla tenemus?
 nam si tanto operest animi mutata potestas, 675 omnis ut actarum exciderit retinentia rerum,
 non, ut opinor, id ab leto iam longiter errat;
 quapropter fateare necesset quae fuit ante interiisse et quae nunc est nunc esse creatam.
 Praeterea si iam perfecto corpore nobis 680 inferri solitast animi vivata potestas tum cum gignimur et vitae cum limen inimus, haud ita conveniebat uti cum corpore et una cum membris videatur in ipso sanguine cresse, sed velut in cavea per se sibi vivere solam 685 convenit, ut sensu corpus tamen affluat omne.
 quare etiam atque etiam neque originis esse putandumst expertis animas nec leti lege solutas.
 nam neque tanto opere adnecti potuisse putandumst corporibus nostris extrinsecus insinuatas—690 quod fieri totum contra manifesta docet res;
 namque ita conexa est per venas viscera nervos

- ossaque, uti dentes quoque sensu participantur ;
 morbus ut indicat et gelidai stringor aquai et lapis oppressus subitis e frugibus asper —
- 695 nec, tam contextae cum sint, exire videntur incolumes posse et salvas exsolvore sese omnibus e nervis atque ossibus articulisque.
 quod si forte putas extrinsecus insinuatam permanare animam nobis per membra solere,
- 700 tanto quique magis cum corpore fusa peribit.
 quod permanat enim dissolvitur, interit ergo :
 dispertitur enim per caulas corporis omnis.
 ut cibus, in membra atque artus cum diditur omnis, disperit atque aliam naturam sufficit ex se,
- 705 sic anima atque animus quamvis integra recens (in) corpus eunt, tamen in manando dissoluuntur, dum quasi per caulas omnis diduntur in artus particulae quibus haec animi natura creatur, quae nunc in nostro dominatur corpore nata
- 710 ex illa quae tum periit partita per artus. scilicet in membra
 quapropter neque natali privata videtur esse die natura animae nec funeris expers.
- Semina praeterea linquuntur necne animai corpore in exanimo? quod si lincuntur et insunt, haut erit ut merito inmortalis possit haberi,
 partibus amissis quoniam libata recessit.
 sin ita sinceris membris ablata profugit ut nullas partis in corpore liquerit ex se, unde cadavera rancenti iam viscere vermes
- 720 expirant atque unde animantium copia tanta exos et exanguis tumidos perfluctuat artus ?
 quod si forte animas extrinsecus insinuari vermicibus et privas in corpora posse venire credis nec reputas cur milia multa animarum
- 725 convenient unde una recesserit, hoc tamen est ut quaerendum videatur et in discrimen agendum, utrum tandem animae venentur semina quaeque vermiculorum ipsaeque sibi fabricentur ubi sint, an quasi corporibus perfectis insinuentur.
- 730 at neque cur faciant ipsae quareve laborent

dicere suppeditat. neque enim, sine corpore cum sunt, sollicitae volitant morbis alguque fameque ;
corpus enim magis his vitiis adfine laborat et mala multa animus contagio fungitur eius.

735 sed tamen his esto quamvis facere utile corpus cum subeant ; at qua possint via nulla videtur.
haut igitur faciunt animae sibi corpora et artus.
nec tamen est utqui perfectis insinuentur corporibus ; neque enim poterunt suptiliter esse 740 conexae neque consensus contagia fient.

Denique cur acris violentia triste leonum seminium sequitur, volpes dolus, et fuga cervis
a patribus datur et patrius pavor incitat artus, et iam cetera de genere hoc cur omnia membris 745 ex ineunte aevo generascunt ingenioque, si non, certa suo quia semine seminioque vis animi pariter crescit cum corpore quoque ?
quod si inmortalis foret et mutare soleret corpora, permixtis animantes moribus essent, 750 effugeret canis Hyrcano de semine saepe cornigeri incursum cervi tremeretque per auras aeris accipiter fugiens veniente columba, desiperent homines, saperent fera saecula ferarum.
illud enim falsa fertur ratione, quod aiunt 755 inmortalem animam mutato corpore flecti.
quod mutatur enim dissolvitur, interit ergo.
traiciuntur enim partes atque ordine migrant ;
quare dissolui quoque debent posse per artus,
denique ut intereant una cum corpore cunctae.
760 sin animas hominum dicent in corpora semper ire humana, tamen quaeram cur e sapienti stulta queat fieri, nec prudens sit puer ullus, 764 nec tam doctus equae pullus quam fortis equi vis.
765 scilicet in tenero tenerascere corpore mentem confugient. quod si iam fit, fateare necessest mortalem esse animam, quoniam mutata per artus tanto opere amittit vitam sensumque priorem.
quove modo poterit pariter cum corpore quoque 770 confirmata cupitum aetatis tangere florem vis animi, nisi erit consors in origine prima ?

 quidve foras sibi vult membris exire senectis ?
 an metuit conclusa manere in corpore putri et domus aetatis spatio ne fessa vetusto obruat ? at non sunt immortali ulla pericla.

775 Denique conubia ad Veneris partusque ferarum esse animas praesto deridiculum esse videtur, expectare immortalis mortalia membra
 in numero certareque praeproperanter 780 inter se quae prima potissimaque insinuetur ;
 si non forte ita sunt animarum foedera pacta ut quae prima volans advenerit insinuetur prima neque inter se contendant viribus hilum.

Denique in aethere non arbor, non aequore in alto 785 nubes esse queunt nec pisces vivere in arvis
 nec crux in lignis neque saxis sucus inesse.
 certum ac dispositumst ubi quicquid crescat et insit.
 sic animi natura nequit sine corpore oriri
 sola neque a nervis et sanguine longiter esse.
 790 quod si posset enim, multo prius ipsa animi vis
 in capite aut umeris aut imis calcibus esse
 posset et innasci quavis in parte soleret,
 tandem in eodem homine atque in eodem vase manere.
 quod quoniam nostro quoque constat corpore certum
 795 dispositumque videtur ubi esse et crescere possit sorsum anima atque animus, tanto magis infitiandum totum posse extra corpus durare genique.
 quare, corpus ubi interiit, perisse necesset confiteare animam distractam in corpore toto.
 800 quippe etenim mortale aeterno iungere et una consentire putare et fungi mutua posse desiperest ; quid enim diversius esse putandumst aut magis inter se disiunctum discrepitansque, quam mortale quod est inmortali atque perenni 805 iunctum in concilio saevas tolerare procellas ?
 praeterea quaecumque manent aeterna necesset
 aut, quia sunt solido cum corpore, respuere ictus
 nec penetrare pati sibi quicquam quod queat artas
 dissociare intus partis, ut materiai

- 810 corpora sunt quorum naturam ostendimus ante,
 aut ideo durare aetatem posse per omnem,
 plagarum quia sunt expertia, sicut inanest
 quod manet intactum neque ab ictu fungitur hilum,
 aut etiam quia nulla loci fit copia circum,
 815 quo quasi res possint discedere dissoluique, sicut summarum summast aeterna neque extra quis locus est quo diffugiant, neque corpora sunt quae possint incidere et valida dissolvere plaga.
 quod si forte ideo magis immortalis habendast, 820 quod vitalibus ab rebus munita tenetur, aut qui non veniunt omnino aliena salutis aut quia quae veniunt aliqua ratione recedunt pulsa prius quam quid noceant sentire queamus,
- *
- praeter enim quam quod morbis cum corporis aegret, 825 advenit id quod eam de rebus saepe futuris macerat inque metu male habet curisque fatigat praeteritisque male admissis peccata remordent.
 adde furorem animi proprium atque oblivia rerum,
 adde quod in nigras lethargi mergitur undas.
- 830 Nil igitur mors est ad nos neque pertinet hilum, quandoquidem natura animi mortalis habetur.
 et velut anteacto nil tempore sensimus aegri,
 ad configendum venientibus undique Poenis,
 omnia cum belli trepido concussa tumultu 835 horrida contremuere sub altis aetheris oris, in dubioque fuere utrorum ad regna cadendum omnibus humanis esset terraque marique, sic, ubi non erimus, cum corporis atque animai discidium fuerit quibus e sumus uniter apti, 840 scilicet haud nobis quicquam, qui non erimus tum, accidere omnino poterit sensumque movere,
 non si terra mari miscebitur et mare caelo.
 et si iam nostro sentit de corpore postquam distractast animi natura animaeque potestas, 845 nil tamen est ad nos qui comptu coniugioque corporis atque animae consistimus uniter apti.
 nec, si materiem nostram collegerit aetas

- post obitum rursumque redegerit ut sita nunc est
 atque iterum nobis fuerint data lumina vitae, 850 pertineat quicquam tamen ad nos id quoque factum, interrupta semel cum sit repetentia nostri.
 et nunc nil ad nos de nobis attinet, ante
 qui fuimus, (neque) iam de illis nos adficit angor.
 nam cum respicias inmensi temporis omne 855 praeteritum spatium, tum motus materiali multimodis quam sint, facile hoc adcredere possis, semina saepe in eodem, ut nunc sunt, ordine posta haec eadem, quibus e nunc nos sumus, ante fuisse.
 nec memori tamen id quimus reprehendere mente ; 855 860 inter enim iectast vitai pauca vagueque deerrarunt passim motus ab sensibus omnes.
 debet enim, misere si forte aegreque futurumst, ipse quoque esse in eo tum tempore, cui male possit accidere. id quoniam mors eximit, esseque probet 865 illum cui possint incomoda conciliari, 864 scire licet nobis nil esse in morte timendum nec miserum fieri qui non est posse neque hilum differre an nullo fuerit iam tempore natus, mortalem vitam mors cum inmortalis ademit.
 870 Proinde ubi se videoas hominem indignarier ipsum, post mortem fore ut aut putascat corpore posto aut flammis interfiat malisve ferarum, scire licet non sincerum sonere atque subesse caecum aliquem cordi stimulum, quamvis neget ipse 875 credere se quemquam sibi sensum in morte futurum.
 non, ut opinor, enim dat quod promittit et unde,
 nec radicitus e vita se tollit et eicit,
 sed facit esse sui quiddam super inscius ipse.
 vivus enim sibi cum proponit quisque futurum, 880 corpus uti volucres lacerent in morte feraeque, ipse sui miseret; neque enim se dividit illum nec removet satis a projecto corpore et illum se fingit sensuque suo contaminat astans.
 hinc indignatur se mortalem esse creatum 885 nec videt in vera nullum fore morte alium se qui possit vivus sibi se lugere p<sup>r</sup>emptum

- stansque iacentem se lacerari urive dolere.
 nam si in morte malumst malis morsuque ferarum
 tractari, non invenio qui non sit acerbum 890 ignibus inpositum calidis torrescere flammis aut in melle situm suffocari atque rigere frigore, cum summo gelidi cubat aequore saxi, urgerive superne obtritum pondere terrae.
- ‘Iam iam non domus accipiet te laeta, neque uxor 895 optima nec dulces occurrent oscula nati praeripere et tacita pectus dulcedine tangent.
 non poteris factis florentibus esse, tuisque praesidium. misero misere’ aiunt ‘omnia ademit una dies infesta tibi tot praemia vitae.’
- 900 illud in his rebus non addunt ‘nec tibi earum iam desiderium rerum super insidet una.’
 quod bene si videant animo dictisque sequantur, dissoluant animi magno se angore metuque. — ‘tu quidem ut es letō sopitus, sic eris aevi 905 quod superest cunctis privatu’ doloribus aegris :
 at nos horrifico cinefactum te prope busto insatiabiliter deflevimus, aeternumque nulla dies nobis maerorem e pectore demet.’
 illud ab hoc igitur quaerendum est, quid sit amari 910 tanto opere, ad somnum si res reddit atque quietem, cur quisquam aeterno possit tabescere luctu.
- Hoc etiam faciunt ubi discubuere tenentque pocula saepe homines et inumbrant ora coronis, ex animo ut dicant ‘brevis hic est fructus homullis;
 915 iam fuerit neque post umquam revocare licebit.’
 tamquam in morte mali cum primis hoc sit eorum, quod sitis exurat miseros atque arida torrat,
 aut aliae cuius desiderium insideat rei.
 nec sibi enim quisquam tum se vitamque requirit, 920 cum pariter mens et corpus sopita quiescunt ;
 nam licet aeternum per nos sic esse soporem,
 nec desiderium nostri nos adficit ullum.
 et tamen haudquaquam nostros tunc illa per artus longe ab sensiferis primordia motibus errant, 925 cum correptus homo ex somno se colligit ipse.

- multo igitur mortem minus ad nos esse putandumst,
 si minus esse potest quam nil esse videmus ;
 maior enim turbae disiectus materiai consequitur leto nec quisquam expergitus exstat, 930 frigida quem semel est vitai pausa secura.
 Denique si vocem rerum natura repente mittat et hoc alicui nostrum sic increpet ipsa
 'quid tibi tanto operest, mortalis, quod nimis aegris luctibus indulges ? quid mortem congemis ac fles ?
 935 nam (si) grata fuit tibi vita anteacta priorque, et non omnia pertusum congesta quasi in vas commoda perfluxere atque ingrata interiere, cur non ut plenus vitae conviva recedis
 aequo animoque capis securam, stulte, quietem ?
 940 sin ea quae fructus cumque es periere profusa vitaque in offensust, cur amplius addere quaeris, rursum quod pereat male et ingratum occidat omne,
 non potius vitae finem facis atque laboris ?
 nam tibi praeterea quod machiner inveniamque, 945 quod placeat, nil est : eadem sunt omnia semper.
 si tibi non annis corpus iam marcat et artus confecti languent, eadem tamen omnia restant, omnia si pergas vivendo vincere saecla,
 atque etiam potius, si numquam sis moriturus'— 950 quid respondemus, nisi iustum intendere item naturam et veram verbis exponere causam ?
 grandior hic vero si iam seniorque queratur atque obitum lamentetur miser amplius aequo, non merito inclamat magis et voce increpet acri ?
 955 'aufer abhinc lacrimas, balatro, et compesce querellas.
 omnia perfunctus vitai praemia marces.
 sed quia semper aves quod abest, praesentia temnis, imperfecta tibi elapsast ingrataque vita et nec opinanti mors ad caput adstitit ante 960 quam satur ac plenus possis disce(de)re rerum.
 nunc aliena tua tamen aetate omnia mitte aequo animoque agedum † magnis concede : necessest.'
 iure, ut opinor, agat, iure increpet incletque ;
 cedit enim rerum novitate extrusa vetustas

955

952

954

- 965 semper, et ex aliis aliud reparare necessest;
 nec quisquam in barathrum nec Tartara deditur atra:
 materies opus est ut crescant postera saecla;
 quae tamen omnia te vita perfuncta sequentur;
 nec minus ergo ante haec quam tu cecidere, cadentque.
 970 sic alid ex alio numquam desistet oriri vitaque mancipio nulli datur, omnibus usu.
 respice item quam nil ad nos anteacta vetustas temporis aeterni fuerit, quam nascimur ante.
 hoc igitur speculum nobis natura futuri 975 temporis exponit post mortem denique nostram.
 numquid ibi horribile appetit, num triste videtur
 quicquam, non omni somno securius exstat?
 Atqua ea nimirum quaecumque Acherunte profundo prodita sunt esse, in vita sunt omnia nobis.
 980 nec miser inpendens magnum timet aere saxum Tantalus, ut famast, cassa formidine torpens;
 sed magis in vita divom metus urget inanis mortalis casumque timent quem cuique ferat fors.
 nec Tityon volucres ineunt Acherunte iacentem 985 nec quod sub magno scrutentur pectore quicquam perpetuam aetatem possunt reperire profecto.
 quamlibet immanni projectu corporis exstet,
 qui non sola novem dispessis iugera membris
 optineat, sed qui terrai totius orbem, 990 non tamen aeternum poterit perferre dolorem nec praebere cibum proprio de corpore semper.
 sed Tityos nobis hic est, in amore iacentem quem volucres lacerant atque exest anxius angor aut alia quavis scindunt cuppedine curae.
 995 Sisyphus in vita quoque nobis ante oculos est qui petere a populo fasces saevasque secures imbibit et semper victus tristisque recedit.
 nam petere imperium quod inanest nec datur umquam,
 atque in eo semper durum sufferre laborem, 1000 hoc est adverso nixantem trudere monte saxum quod tamen (e) summo iam vertice rusum volvitur et plani raptim petit aequora campi.
 deinde animi ingratam naturam pascere semper

atque explere bonis rebus satiareque numquam, 1005 quod faciunt nobis annorum tempora, circum
   cum redeunt fetusque ferunt variosque lepores, nec tamen exemplum vitai fructibus umquam, hoc, ut opinor, id est, aevo florente puellas quod memorant laticem pertusum congerere in vas, 1010 quod tamen expleri nulla ratione potestur.]
 Cerberus et furiae iam vero et lucis egestas

*

Tartarus horriferos eructans faucibus aestus, qui neque sunt usquam nec possunt esse profecto.
 sed metus in vita poenarum pro male factis 1015 est insignibus insignis, scelerisque luella, carcer et horribilis de saxo iactu' deorsum, verbera carnifices robur pix lammina taedae ;
 quae tamen etsi absunt, at mens sibi conscientia factis praemetuens adhibet stimulos torretque flagellis 1020 nec videt interea qui terminus esse malorum possit nec quae sit poenarum denique finis atque eadem metuit magis haec ne in morte gravescant.
 hic Acherusia fit stultorum denique vita.

Hoc etiam tibi tute interdum dicere possis 1025 'lumina sis oculis etiam bonus Ancu' reliquit qui melior multis quam tu fuit, improbe, rebus.
 inde alii multi reges rerumque potentes occiderunt, magnis qui gentibus imperitarunt.
 ille quoque ipse, viam qui quondam per mare magnum 1030 stravit iterque dedit legionibus ire per altum ac pedibus salsa docuit super ire lucunas et contemsit equis insultans murmura ponti, lumine adempto animam moribundo corpore fudit.
 Scipiadas, belli fulmen, Carthaginis horror, 1035 ossa dedit terrae proinde ac famul infimus esset.
 adde repertores doctrinarum atque leporum, adde Heliconiadum comites ; quorum unus Homerus sceptra potitus eadem aliis sopitu' quietest.
 denique Democritum postquam matura vetustas 1040 admonuit memores motus languescere mentis, sponte sua leto caput obvius optulit ipsè.

ipse Epicurus obit decurso lumine vitae, qui genus humanum ingenio superavit et omnis restinxit, stellas exortus ut aetherius sol.
 1045 tu vero dubitabis et indignabere obire?
 mortua cui vita est prope iam vivo atque videnti, qui somno partem maiorem conteris aevi et vigilans stertis nec somnia cernere cessas
 sollicitamque geris cassa formidine mentem 1050 nec reperire potes tibi quid sit saepe mali, cum ebrius urgeris multis miser undique curis atque animi incerto fluitans errore vagaris.
 Si possent homines, proinde ac sentire videntur
 pondus inesse animo quod se gravitate fatiget, 1055 e quibus id fiat causis quoque noscere et unde tanta mali tamquam moles in pectore constet, haut ita vitam agerent, ut nunc plerumque videmus quid sibi quisque velit nescire et quaerere semper commutare locum quasi onus deponere possit.
 1060 exit saepe foras magnis ex aedibus ille, esse domi quem pertaesumst, subitoque (revertit), quippe foris nilo melius qui sentiat esse.
 currit agens mannos ad villam praecipitanter,
 auxilium tectis quasi ferre ardentibus instans; 1065 oscitat extemplo, tetigit cum limina villaee, aut abit in somnum gravis atque oblivia quaerit, aut etiam properans urbem petit atque revisit.
 hoc se quisque modo fugitat, quem, scilicet, ut fit,
 effugere haut potis est; ingratis haeret et odit 1070 propterea, morbi quia causam non tenet aeger;
 quam bene si videat, iam rebus quisque relictis naturam primum studeat cognoscere rerum, temporis aeterni quoniam, non unius horae, ambigitur status, in quo sit mortalibus omnis 1075 aetas, post mortem quae restat cumque, manenda.
 Denique tanto opere in dubiis trepidare periclis
 quae mala nos subigit vitai tanta cupido?
 certa quidem finis vitae mortalibus adstat nec devitari letum pote quin obeamus.
 1080 praeterea versahur ibidem atque insimus usque nec nova vivendo procuditur ulla voluptas;

sed dum abest quod avemus, id exsuperare videtur cetera; post aliut, cum contigit illud, avemus et sitis aqua tenet vitai semper hiantis.

- 1085 posteraque in dubiost fortunam quam vehat aetas,
quidve ferat nobis casus quive exitus instet.
nec prorsum vitam ducendo demimus hilum tempore de mortis nec delibare valemus, quo minus esse diu possimus forte perempti.
1090 proinde licet quot vis vivendo condere saecla;
mors aeterna tamen nilo minus illa manebit,
nec minus ille diu iam non erit, ex hodierno lumine qui finem vitai fecit, et ille, mensibus atque annis qui multis occidit ante.

Avia Pieridum peragro loca nullius ante
trita solo, iuvat integros accedere fontis
atque haurire, iuvatque novos decerpere flores
insignemque meo capiti petere inde coronam
5      unde prius nulli velarint tempora musae ;
primum quod magnis doceo de rebus et artis
religionum animum nodis exsolvere pergo,
deinde quod obscura de re tam lucida pango
carmina, musaeo contingens cuncta lepore.
10     id quoque enim non ab nulla ratione videtur ;
nam veluti pueris absinthia taetra medentes
cum dare conantur, prius oras pocula circum
contingunt mellis dulci flavoque liquore,
ut puerorum aetas improvida ludificetur
15     labrorum tenus, interea perpotet amarum
absinthi laticem deceptaque non capiatur,
sed potius tali pacto recreata valescat,
sic ego nunc, quoniam haec ratio plerumque videtur
tristior esse quibus non est tractata, retroque
20     volgus abhorret ab hac, volui tibi suaviloquenti
carmine Pierio rationem exponere nostram
et quasi musaeo dulci contingere melle,
si tibi forte animum tali ratione tenere
versibus in nostris possem, dum percipis omnem 25     naturam rerum ac persentis utilitatem.
45     Sed quoniam docui cunctarum exordia rerum
qualia sint et quam variis distantia formis

sponte sua volitent aeterno percita motu
48 quoque modo possit res ex his quaeque creari,
26 atque animi quoniam docui natura quid esset et quibus e rebus cum corpore compta vigeret quove modo distracta rediret in ordia prima, nunc agere incipiam tibi, quod vementer ad has res 30 attinet, esse ea quae rerum simulacra vocamus :
quae, quasi membranae summo de corpore rerum dereptae, volitant ultroque citroque per auras, atque eadem nobis vigilantibus obvia mentes terrificant atque in somnis, cum saepe figuræ 35 contuimur miras simulacraque luce carentum, .
quae nos horrifice languentis saepe sopore excierunt : ne forte animas Acherunte reamur effugere aut umbras inter vivos volitare neve aliquid nostri post mortem posse relinqui, 40 cum corpus simul atque animi natura perempta in sua discessum dederint primordia quaeque.

Dico igitur rerum effigias tenuisque figuræ
43 mittier ab rebus summo de corpore rerum, 51 quae quasi membranae vel cortex nominitandast, quod speciem ac formam similem gerit eius imago cuiuscumque cluet de corpore fusa vagari.
44 id licet hinc quamvis hebeti cognoscere corde.
54 principio quoniam mittunt in rebus apertis 55 corpora res multæ, partim diffusa solute, robora ceu fumum mittunt ignesque vaporem, et partim contexta magis condensaque, ut olim
cum teretis ponunt tunicas aestate cicadae,
et vituli cum membranas de corpore summo 60 nascentes mittunt, et item cum lubrica serpens exuit in spinis vestem ; nam saepe videmus illorum spoliis vepres volitantibus auctas :
quae quoniam fiunt, tenuis quoque debet imago
ab rebus mitti summo de corpore rerum.
65 nam cur illa cadant magis ab rebusque recedant quam quae tenua sunt, hiscendist nulla potestas ;
praesertim cum sint in summis corpora rebus multa minuta, iaci quae possint ordine eodem quo fuerint et formai servare figuram, 70 et multo citius, quanto minus indupediri pauca queunt et (quae) sunt prima fronte locata.

nam certe iacere ac largiri multa videmus,
non solum ex alto penitusque, ut diximus ante,
verum de summis ipsum quoque saepe colorem.
75 et volgo faciunt id lutea russaque vela et ferrugina, cum magnis intenta theatris per malos volgata trabesque trementia flutant;
namque ibi concessum caveai super et omnem scaenai speciem, patrum coetumque decorum 80 inficiunt coguntque suo fluitare colore.
et quanto circum mage sunt inclusa theatri moenia, tam magis haec intus perfusa lepore omnia conrident correpta luce diei.
ergo linea de summo cum corpore fucum 85 mittunt, effigias quoque debent mittere tenuis res quaeque, ex summo quoniam iaculantur utraque.
sunt igitur iam formarum vestigia certa quae volgo volitant suptili praedita filo nec singillatim possunt secreta videri.
90 praeterea omnis odor fumus vapor atque aliae res consimiles ideo diffusae (e) rebus abundant, ex alto quia, dum veniunt extrinsecus, ortae scinduntur per iter flexum, nec recta viarum ostia sunt qua contendant exire coortae.
95 at contra tenuis summi membrana coloris cum iacitur, nil est quod eam discerpere possit, in promptu quoniam est in prima fronte locata.
postremo speculis in aqua splendoreque in omni quaecumque apparent nobis simulacra, necesset, 100 quandoquidem simili specie sunt praedita rerum,
ex (ea) imaginibus missis consistere rerum.
104 sunt igitur tenues formarum illis similesque 105 effigiae, singillatim quas cernere nemo cum possit, tamen adsiduo crebroque repulso reiectae reddunt speculorum ex aequore visum, nec ratione alia servari posse videntur,
tanto opere ut similes reddantur cuique figurae.

- 110 Nunc age quam tenui natura constet imago percipe. et in primis, quoniam primordia tantum sunt infra nostros sensus tantoque minora quam quae primum oculi coeptant non posse tueri, nunc tamen id quoque uti confirmem, exordia rerum cunctarum quam sint suptilia percipe paucis.
 115 primum animalia sunt iam partim tantula, quorum tertia pars nulla possit ratione videri.
 horum intestinum quodvis quale esse putandumst !
 quid cordis globus aut oculi ? quid membra ? quid artus ?
 120 quantula sunt ! quid praeterea primordia quaeque unde anima atque animi constet natura necessumst ?
 nonne vides quam sint subtilia quamque minuta ?
 praeterea quaecumque suo de corpore odorem expirant acrem, panaces absinthia taetra 125 habrotonique graves et tristia centaurea, quorum unum quidvis leviter si forte duobus
 *
 quin potius noscas rerum simulacra vagari
 multa modis multis nulla vi cassaque sensu ?
 Sed ne forte putas ea demum sola vagari, 130 quaecumque ab rebus rerum simulacra recedunt, sunt etiam quae sponte sua gignuntur et ipsa constituuntur in hoc caelo qui dicitur aer, 135 quae multis formata modis sublime feruntur
 140 nec speciem mutare suam liquentia cessant
 142 et cuiusque modi formarum vertere in oras ;
 143 ut nubes facile interdum concrescere in alto
 144 cernimus et mundi speciem violare serenam
 146 aera mulcentes motu. nam saepe Gigantum ora volare videntur et umbram ducere late, interdum magni montes avolsaque saxa montibus anteire et solem succedere praeter, .
 148 inde alios trahere atque inducere belua nimbos.
 143 Nunc ea quam facili et celeri ratione genantur perpetuoque fluant ab rebus lapsaque cedant
 *
 145 semper enim summum quicquid de rebus abundat quod iacentur. et hoc alias cum pervenit in res,

- transit, ut in primis vestem. sed ubi aspera saxa aut in materiam ligni pervenit, ibi iam
scinditur ut nullum simulacrum reddere possit.
150 at cum splendida quae constant opposta fuerunt densaque, ut in primis speculum est, nil accidit horum ;
nam neque, uti vestem, possunt transire, neque autem scindi ; quam meminit levor praestare salutem.
quapropter fit ut hinc nobis simulacra redundant.
155 et quamvis subito quovis in tempore quamque rem contra speculum ponas, appareret imago ;
perpetuo fluere ut noscas e corpore summo texturas rerum tenuis tenuisque figuræ.
ergo multa brevi spatio simulacra genuntur, 160 ut merito celer his rebus dicatur origo.
et quasi multa brevi spatio summittere debet lumina sol ut perpetuo sint omnia plena, sic ab rebus item simili ratione necessest
temporis in puncto rerum simulacra ferantur 165 multa modis multis in cunctas undique partis ;
quandoquidem speculum quocumque obvertimus oris,
res ibi respondent simili forma atque colore.
praeterea modo cum fuerit liquidissima caeli tempestas, perquam subito fit turbida foede, 170 undique uti tenebras omnis Acherunta rearis
liquisse et magnas caeli complesse cavernas.
usque adeo taetra nimborum nocte coorta
inpendent atrae formidinis ora superne ;
quorum quantula pars sit imago dicere nemost
qui possit neque eam rationem reddere dictis.
175 Nunc age, quam celeri motu simulacra ferantur et quae mobilitas ollis tranantibus auras reddita sit, longo spatio ut brevis hora teratur, in quem quaeque locum diverso numine tendat, 180 suavidicis potius quam multis versibus edam ;
parvus ut est cycni melior canor, ille gruum quam
clamor in aetheriis dispersus nubibus austri.
principio persaepe levis res atque minutis corporibus factas celeris licet esse videre.
185 in quo iam genere est solis lux et vapor eius propterea quia sunt e primis facta minutis quae quasi cunctuntur perque aeris intervallum non dubitant transire sequenti concita plaga.

 suppeditatur enim confestim lumine lumen et quasi protelo stimulatur fulgere fulgor.
 190 quapropter simulacra pari ratione necesse est inmemorabile per spatium transcurrere posse temporis in puncto, primum quod parvola causa est procul a tergo quae provehat atque propellat, 195 quod superest, ubi tam volucri levitate ferantur;
 deinde quod usque adeo textura praedita rara mittuntur, facile ut quasvis penetrare queant res et quasi permanare per aeris intervallum.
 praeterea si, quae penitus corpuscula rerum 200 ex altoque foras mittuntur, solis uti lux ac vapor, haec puncto cernuntur lapsa diei per totum caeli spatium diffundere sese perque volare mare ac terras caelumque rigare, quid quae sunt igitur iam prima fronte parata, 205 cum iaciuntur et emissum res nulla moratur?
 quone vides citius debere et longius ire
 multiplexque loci spatium transcurrere eodem
 tempore quo solis per volgant lumina caelum?
 hoc etiam in primis specimen verum esse videtur 210 quam celeri motu rerum simulacra ferantur, quod simul ac primum sub diu splendor aquai ponitur, exemplo caelo stellante serena sidera respondent in aqua radiantia mundi.
 iamne vides igitur quam puncto tempore imago 215 aetheris ex oris in terrarum accidat oras?
 quare etiam atque etiam mira fateare necessest corpora quae feriant oculos visumque lacessant.

 perpetuoque fluunt certis ab rebus odores;
 frigus ut a fluiis, calor ab sole, aestus ab undis 220 aequoris exesor moerorum litora circum.
 nec variae cessant voces volitare per auras.
 denique in os salsi venit umor saepe saporis,
 cum mare versamur propter, dilutaque contra

225       cum tuimur misceri absinthia, tangit amaror.
usque adeo omnibus ab rebus res quaeque fluenter
fertur et in cunctas dimittitur undique partis
nec mora nec requies interdatur ulla fluendi,
perpetuo quoniam sentimus, et omnia semper
cernere odorari licet et sentire sonare.

230       Praeterea quoniam manibus tractata figura in tenebris quaedam cognoscitur esse eadem quae cernitur in luce et claro candore, necessest consimili causa tactum visumque moveri.
nunc igitur si quadratum temptamus et id nos 235       commovet in tenebris, in luci quae poterit res accidere ad speciem quadrata, nisi eius imago ?
esse in imaginibus quapropter causa videtur cernundi neque posse sine his res ulla videri.
nunc ea quae dico rerum simulacra feruntur 240       undique et in cunctas iaciuntur didita partis ;
verum nos oculis quia solis cernere quimus, propterea fit uti, speciem quo vertimus, omnes
res ibi eam contra feriant forma atque colore.
et quantum quaeque ab nobis res absit, imago 245       efficit ut videamus et internoscere curat ;
nam cum mittitur, exemplo protrudit agitque aera qui inter se cumque est oculosque locatus, isque ita per nostras acies perlabitur omnis et quasi perterget pupillas atque ita transit.

250       propterea fit uti videamus quam procul absit res quaeque. et quanto plus aeris ante agitatur et nostros oculos perterget longior aura, tam procul esse magis res quaeque remota videtur.
scilicet haec summe celeri ratione geruntur,

255       255 quale sit ut videamus et una quam procul absit.
illud in his rebus minime mirabile habendumst, cur, ea quae feriant oculos simulacra videri singula cum nequeant, res ipsae perspiciantur.
ventus enim quoque paulatim cum verberat et cum

260       260 acre fluit frigus, non privam quamque solemus particulam venti sentire et frigoris eius, sed magis unorsum, fierique perinde videmus

- corpore tum plagas in nostro tam quam aliquae res verberet atque sui det sensum corporis extra.
- 265 praeterea lapidem digito cum tundimus, ipsum
tangimus extreum saxi summumque colorem, nec sentimus eum tactu, verum magis ipsam duritatem penitus saxi sentimus in alto.
Nunc age, cur ultra speculum videatur imago 270 percipe; nam certe penitus semota videtur.
quod genus illa foris quae vere transpiciuntur,
ianua cum per se transpectum praebet apertum,
multa facitque foris ex aedibus ut videantur.
is quoque enim duplice geminoque fit aere visus.
275 primus enim citra postes tum cernitur aer, inde fores ipsae dextra laevaque secuntur,
post extraria lux oculos perterget et aer alter et illa foris quae vere transpiciuntur.
sic ubi se primum speculi proiecit imago, 280 dum venit ad nostras acies, protrudit agitque aera qui inter se cumque oculosque locatus, et facit ut prius hunc omnem sentire queamus quam speculum. sed ubi speculum quoque sensimus ipsum, continuo a nobis in idem quae fertur imago 285 pervenit et nostros oculos reiecta revisit atque alium p[ro]ae se propellens aera volvit et facit ut prius hunc quam se videamus, eoque distare ab speculo tantum semota videtur.
quare etiam atque etiam minime mirarier est par
- *
- 290 illis quae reddunt speculorum ex aequore visum,
aeribus binis quoniam res confit utraque.
nunc ea quae nobis membrorum dextera pars est,
in speculis fit ut in laeva videatur eo quod
planitiem ad speculi veniens cum offendit imago, 295 non convertitur incolumis, sed recta retrorsum sic eliditur, ut si quis, prius arida quam sit creta persona, adlidat pilaeve trabive, atque ea continuo rectam si fronte figuram 303 servet et elisam retro sese exprimat ipsa.
fiet ita, ante oculus fuerit qui dexter, ut idem

- 325 nunc sit laevus, et e laevo sit mutua dexter.
 fit quoque de speculo in speculum ut tradatur imago, quinque etiam (aut) sex ut fieri simulacra suerint.
 nam quaecumque retro parte interiore latebunt, inde tamen, quamvis torte penitusque remota, 305
 330 omnia per flexos aditus educta licebit pluribus haec speculis videantur in aedibus esse.
 usque adeo speculo in speculum translucet imago,
 et cum laeva data est, fit russum ut dextera fiat,
 inde retro rursum reddit et convertit eodem.
 310
 335 quin etiam quaecumque latuscula sunt speculorum adsimili lateris flexura praedita nostri, dextera eapropter nobis simulacra remittunt,
 aut quia de speculo in speculum transfertur imago, inde ad nos elisa bis advolat, aut etiam quod 315
 340 circum agitur, cum venit, imago propterea quod
 flexa figura docet speculi convertier ad nos.
 indugredi porro pariter simulacra pedemque ponere nobiscum credas gestumque imitari propterea quia, de speculi qua parte recedas, 320
 345 continuo nequeunt illinc simulacra reverti;
 omnia quandoquidem cogit natura referri
 ac resilire ab rebus ad aequos redditia flexus.
 299 Splendida porro oculi fugitant vitantque tueri.
 300 sol etiam caecat, contra si tendere pergas, propterea quia vis magnast ipsius et alte aera per purum graviter simulacra feruntur et feriunt oculos turbantia composituras.
 325
 305 praeterea splendor quicumque est acer adurit saepe oculos ideo quod semina possidet ignis multa, dolorem oculis quae gignunt insinuando.
 lurida praeterea fiunt quaecumque tuentur arquati, quia luroris de corpore eorum semina multa fluunt simulacris obvia rerum, 330
 310 multaque sunt oculis in eorum denique mixta, quae contagie sua palloribus omnia pingunt.
 e tenebris autem quae sunt in luce tuemur propterea quia, cum propior caliginis aer ater init oculos prior et possedit apertos,

- 315 insequitur candens confestim lucidus aer qui quasi purgat eos ac nigras discutit umbras aeris illius ; nam multis partibus hic est mobilior multisque minutior et mage pollens.
qui simul atque vias oculorum luce replevit
- 320 atque patefecit quas ante obsederat aer (ater), continuo rerum simulacra secuntur quae sita sunt in luce, laccessuntque ut videamus.
- 325 quod contra facere in tenebris e luce nequimus propterea quia posterior caliginis aer
- 330 crassior insequitur qui cuncta foramina complet obsiditque vias oculorum, ne simulacra possint ullarum rerum coniecta movere.
- 335 quadratasque procul turris cum cernimus urbis,
propterea fit uti videantur saepe rutundae, angulus optusus quia longe cernitur omnis sive etiam potius non cernitur ac perit eius plaga nec ad nostras acies perlabitur ictus, aera per multum quia dum simulacra feruntur,
cogit hebescere eum crebris offensibus aer.
- 340 hoc ubi suffugit sensum simul angulus omnis, fit quasi ut ad tornum saxorum structa terantur.
non tamen ut coram quae sunt vereque rutunda,
sed quasi adumbratim paulum simulata videntur.
umbra videtur item nobis in sole moveri
- 345 et vestigia nostra sequi gestumque imitari;
aera si credis privatum lumine posse indugredi, motus hominum gestumque sequentem ;
nam nil esse potest aliut nisi lumine cassus
aer id quod nos umbram perhibere suēmus.
- 350 nimirum quia terra locis ex ordine certis
lumine privatur solis quacumque meantes officimus, repletur item quod liquimus eius, propterea fit uti videatur, quae fuit umbra corporis, e regione eadem nos usque secuta.
- 355 semper enim nova se radiorum lumina fundunt
primaque dispereunt, quasi in ignem lana trahatur.
propterea facile et spoliatur lumine terra et repletur item nigrasque sibi abluit umbras.

Nec tamen hic oculos falli concedimus hilum.

380 nam quocumque loco sit lux atque umbra tueri illorum est; eadem vero sint lumina necne, umbraque quae fuit hic eadem nunc transeat illuc,
an potius fiat paulo quod diximus ante,
hoc animi demum ratio discernere debet, 385 nec possunt oculi naturam noscere rerum.
proinde animi vitium hoc oculis adfingere noli.
qua vehimur navi, fertur, cum stare videtur;
quae manet in statione, ea praeter creditur ire.
et fugere ad puppim colles campique videntur 390 quo agimus praeter navem velisque volamus.
sidera cessare aetheriis adfixa cavernis cuncta videntur, et adsiduo sunt omnia motu, quandoquidem longos obitus exorta revisunt,
cum permensa suo sunt caelum corpore claro.
395 solque pari ratione manere et luna videntur in statione, ea quae ferri res indicat ipsa.
exstantisque procul medio de gurgite montis classibus inter quos liber patet exitus ingens, insula coniunctis tamen ex his una videntur.
400 atria versari et circumcursare columnae usque adeo fit uti pueris videantur, ubi ipsi desierunt verti, vix ut iam credere possint non supra sese ruere omnia tecta minari.
iamque rubrum tremulis iubar ignibus erigere alte 405 cum coepitat natura supraque extollere montes, quos tibi tum supra sol montis esse videtur comminus ipse suo contingens fervidus igni, vix absunt nobis missus bis mille sagittae,
vix etiam cursus quingentos saepe veruti:
410 inter eos solemque iacent immania ponti aequora substrata aetheriis ingentibus oris, interiectaque sunt terrarum milia multa
quae variae retinent gentes et saecla ferarum.
at conlectus aquae digitum non altior unum, 415 qui lapides inter sistit per strata viarum, despectum praebet sub terras inpete tanto,
a terris quantum caeli patet altus hiatus;

nubila despicere et caeli ut videare videre caerulea mirande sub terras abdita caelo.

- 420 denique ubi in medio nobis ecus acer obhaesit flumine et in rapidas amnis despeximus undas, stantis equi corpus transversum ferre videtur vis et in adversum flumen contrudere raptim, et quocumque oculos traiecmus omnia ferri 425 et fluere adsimili nobis ratione videntur.
porticus aequali quamvis est denique ductu stansque in perpetuum paribus suffulta columnis, longa tamen parte ab summa cum tota videtur,
paulatim trahit angusti fastigia coni, 430 tecta solo iungens atque omnia dextera laevis donec in obscurum coni conduxit acumen.
in pelago nautis ex undis ortus in undis sol fit uti videatur obire et condere lumen ;
quippe ubi nil aliud nisi aquam caelumque tuentur ;
435 ne leviter credas labefactari undique sensus.
at maris ignaris in portu clauda videntur
navigia aplustris fractis obnitier undis.
nam quaecumque supra rorem salis edita pars est
remorum, recta est, et recta superne gubernat :
440 quae demersa liquorem obeunt, refracta videntur omnia converti sursumque supina reverti et reflexa prope in summo fluitare liquore.
raraque per caelum cum venti nubila portant tempore nocturno, tum splendida signa videntur 445 labier aduersum nimbos atque ire superne longe aliam in partem ac ve(ra) ratione feruntur.
at si forte oculo manus uni subdita superne pressit eum, quodam sensu fit uti videantur omnia quae tuimur fieri tum bina tuendo, 50 bina lucernarum florentia lumina flammis binaque per totas aedis geminare supellec et duplicitis hominum facies et corpora bina.
denique cum suavi devinxit membra sopore somnus et in summa corpus iacet omne quiete, tum vigilare tamen nobis et membra movere nostra videmur, et in noctis caligine caeca

- cernere censemus solem lumenque diurnum, conclusoque loco caelum mare flumina montis
 mutare et campos pedibus transire videmur, 460 et sonitus audire, severa silentia noctis undique cum constant, et reddere dicta tacentes.
 cetera de genere hoc mirande multa videmus,
 quae violare fidem quasi sensibus omnia quaerunt,
 nequ quam, quoniam pars horum maxima fallit 465 propter opinatus animi quos addimus ipsi, pro visis ut sint quae non sunt sensib' visa.
 nam nil aegrius est quam res secernere apertas
 ab dubiis, animus quas ab se protinus addit.
- Denique nil sciri si quis putat, id quoque nescit 470 an sciri possit, quoniam nil scire fatetur.
 hunc igitur contra mittam contendere causam,
 qui capite ipse sua in statuit vestigia sese.
 et tamen hoc quoque uti concedam scire, at id ipsum quaeram, cum in rebus veri nil viderit ante, 475 unde sciat quid sit scire et nescire vicissim, notitiam veri quae res falsique crearit et dubium certo quae res differre probarit.
 invenies primis ab sensibus esse creatam notitiam veri neque sensus posse refelli.
- 480 nam maiore fide debet reperirier illud,
 sponte sua veris quod possit vincere falsa.
 quid maiore fide porro quam sensus haberit debet? an ab sensu falso ratio orta valebit dicere eos contra, quae tota ab sensibus orta est?
 485 qui nisi sunt veri, ratio quoque falsa fit omnis.
 an poterunt oculos aures reprehendere, an aures tactus? an hunc porro tactum sapor arguet oris, an confutabunt nares oculive revincent?
 non, ut opinor, ita est. nam seorsum cuique potestas
- 490 divisast, sua vis cuiquest, ideoque necesse est et quod molle sit et gelidum fervensve (seorsum) et seorsum varios rerum sentire colores et quaecumque colorib' sint coniuncta (videre).
 seorsus item sapor oris habet vim, seorsus odores 495 nascuntur, sorsum sonitus. ideoque necesse est

non possint alios alii convincere sensus.
nec porro poterunt ipsi reprehendere sese,
aequa fides quoniam debet semper haberi.
proinde quod in quoquest his visum tempore, verumst.
500 et si non poterit ratio dissolvere causam, cur ea quae fuerint iuxtim quadrata, procul sint visa rutunda, tamen praestat rationis egentem reddere mendose causas utriusque figurae, quam manibus manifesta suis emittere quoquam 505 et violare fidem primam et convellere tota fundamenta quibus nixatur vita salusque.
non modo enim ratio ruat omnis, vita quoque ipsa concidat extemplo, nisi credere sensibus ausis praecipitisque locos vitare et cetera quae sint 510 in genere hoc fugienda, sequi contraria quae sint.
illa tibi est igitur verborum copia cassa omnis quae contra sensus instructa parast.
denique ut in fabrica, si pravast regula prima,
normaque si fallax rectis regionibus exit, 515 et libella aliqua si ex parti claudicat hilum, omnia mendose fieri atque obstipa necesse est
prava cubantia prona supina atque absona tecta, iam ruere ut quaedam videantur velle, ruantque prodita iudiciis fallacibus omnia primis, 520 sic igitur ratio tibi rerum prava necesset falsaque sit, falsis quaecumque ab sensibus ortast.
Nunc alii sensus quo pacto quisque suam rem sentiat, haudquaquam ratio scruposa relicta est.
Principio auditur sonus et vox omnis, in auris 525 insinuata suo pepulere ubi corpore sensum.
corpoream quoque enim (vocem) constare fatendumst et sonitum, quoniam possunt inpellere sensus.
praeterea radit vox fauces saepe facitque asperiora foras gradiens arteria clamor.
530 quippe per angustum turba maiore coorta ire foras ubi cooperunt primordia vocum, scilicet expleti quoque ianua raditur oris.
haud igitur dubiumst quin voces verbaque constant corporeis e principiis, ut laedere possint.

- 535 nec te fallit item quid corporis auferat et quid detrahat ex hominum nervis ac viribus ipsis perpetuus sermo nigrai noctis ad umbram aurorae perductus ab exoriente nitore, praesertim si cum summost clamore profusus.
540 ergo corpoream vocem constare necesset,
multa loquens quoniam amittit de corpore partem.
541 asperitas autem vocis fit ab asperitate principiorum et item levor levore creatur.
542 nec simili penetrant auris primordia forma, cum tuba depresso graviter sub murmure mugit et reboat raucum Berecyntia barbara bombum, 545 et gelidis cycni nocte oris ex Heliconis cum liquidam tollunt lugubri voce quereNam.
Hasce igitur penitus voces cum corpore nostro exprimimus rectoque foras emittimus ore, mobilis articulat verborum daedala lingua 550 formaturaque labrorum pro parte figurat.
553 hoc ubi non longum spatiumst unde una profecta perveniat vox quaeque, necesset verba quoque ipsa 555 plane exaudiri discernique articulatim;
servat enim formaturam servatque figuram.
at si interpositum spatium sit longius aequo, aera per multum confundi verba necesset et conturbari vocem, dum transvolat auras.
560 ergo fit, sonitum ut possis sentire neque illam internoscere, verborum sententia quae sit:
usque adeo confusa venit vox inque pedita.
praeterea verbum saepe unum perciet auris omnibus in populo, missum praeconis ab ore.
565 in multis igitur voces vox una repente diffugit, in privas quoniam se dividit auris obsignans formam verbi clarumque sonorem.
at quae pars vocum non auris incidit ipsas,
praeterlata perit frustra diffusa per auras.
570 pars solidis adlisa locis reiecta sonorem reddit et interdum frustratur imagine verbi.
quae bene cum videas, rationem reddere possis
tute tibi atque aliis, quo pacto per loca sola

575 saxa paris formas verborum ex ordine reddant, palantis comites cum montis inter opacos quaerimus et magna dispersos voce ciemus.
 sex etiam aut septem loca vidi reddere vocis, unam cum iaceres : ita colles collibus ipsi
 verba repulsantes iterabant docta referri.
 580 haec loca capripedes satyros nymphasque tenere finitimi fingunt et faunos esse locuntur quorum noctivago strepitu ludoque iocanti adfirmant volgo tacitura silentia rumpi chordarumque sonos fieri dulcisque querellas, 585 tibia quas fundit digitis pulsata canentum,
 et genus agricolum late sentiscere, quom Pan
 pinea semiferi capitis velamina quassans unco saepe labro calamos percurrit hiantis, fistula silvestrem ne ccesset fundere musam.
 590 cetera de genere hoc monstra ac portenta loquuntur, ne loca deserta ab divis quoque forte putentur sola tenere. ideo iactant miracula dictis aut aliqua ratione alia ducuntur, ut omne humanum genus est avidum nimis auricularum.
 595 Quod superest, non est mirandum qua ratione, per loca quae nequeunt oculi res cernere apertas,
 haec loca per voces veniant aurisque lacent. conloquium clausis foribus quoque saepe videmus,
 nimirum quia vox per flexa foramina rerum 600 incolumis transire potest, simulacra renuntant;
 perscinduntur enim, nisi recta foramina tranant,
 qualia sunt vitrei, species qua travolat omnis.
 praeterea partis in cunctas dividitur vox,
 ex aliis aliae quoniam gignuntur, ubi una 605 dissiluit semel in multas exorta, quasi ignis saepe solet scintilla suos se spargere in ignis.
 ergo repletur loca vocibus, abdita retro omnia quae circum fervunt sonituque centur.
 at simulacra viis derectis omnia tendunt 610 ut sunt missa semel; quapropter cernere nemo saepa intra potis est, at voces accipere extra.
 et tamen ipsa quoque haec, dum transit clausa (domorum), vox optunditur atque auris confusa penetrat et sonitum potius quam verba audire videmur.

- 615 Nec, qui sentimus sucum, lingua atque palatum plusculum habent in se rationis plus operae(ve).
principio sucum sentimus in ore, cibum cum mandendo exprimimus, ceu plenam spongiam aquai siquis forte manu premere ac siccare coepit.
- 620 inde quod exprimimus per caulas omne palati
diditur et rarae perplexa foramina linguae.
hoc ubi levia sunt manantis corpora suci, suaviter attingunt et suaviter omnia tractant umida linguai circum sudantia tempa.
- 625 at contra pungunt sensum lacerantque coorta,
quanto quaeque magis sunt asperitate repleta.
deinde voluptas est e suco fine palati;
cum vero deorsum per fauces praecipitavit,
nulla voluptas est, dum diditur omnis in artus.
- 630 nec refert quicquam quo victu corpus alatur, dummodo quod capias concoctum didere possis artibus et stomachi umectum servare tenorem.
- Nunc aliis alius qui sit cibus ut videamus expediam, quareve, aliis quod triste et amarumst, 635 hoc tamen esse aliis possit perdulce videri, tantaque (in) his rebus distantia differitasquest,
ut quod ali cibus est aliis fuat acre venenum, est aliquae ut serpens, hominis quae tacta salivis disperit ac sese mandendo conficit ipsa.
- 640 praeterea nobis veratrum est acre venenum,
at capris adipes et coturnicibus auget.
id quibus ut fiat rebus cognoscere possis,
principio meminisse decet quae diximus ante,
semina multimodis in rebus mixta teneri.
- 645 porro omnes quaecumque cibum capiunt animantes, ut sunt dissimiles extrinsecus et generatim extima membrorum circumcaesura coercet, proinde ex seminibus constant variante figura.
semina cum porro distent, differre necesset
- 650 intervalla viasque, foramina quae perhibemus, omnibus in membris et in ore ipsoque palato.

esse minora igitur quaedam maioraque debent,
 esse triquetra aliis, aliis quadrata necessest,
 multa rutunda, modis multis multangula quaedam.

- 655 namque figurarum ratio ut motusque reposcunt, proinde foraminibus debent differre figurae,
 et variare viae proinde ac textura coercent.
 hoc ubi quod suave est alii alii fit amarum,
 illi, cui suave est, levissima corpora debent 660 contractabiliter caulas intrare palati, at contra quibus est eadem res intus acerba,
 aspera nimirum penetrant hamataque fauces.
 nunc facile est ex his rebus cognoscere quaeque.
 quippe ubi cui febris bili superante coorta est 665 aut alia ratione aliquast vis excita morbi, perturbatur ibi iam totum corpus et omnes commutantur ibi positurae principiorum ;
 fit prius ad sensum ut quae corpora conveniebant
 nunc non convenient, et cetera sint magis apta, 670 quae penetrata queunt sensum progignere acerbum ;
 utraque enim sunt in mellis commixta sapore ;
 id quod iam supera tibi saepe ostendimus ante.
 Nunc age quo pacto naris adiectus odoris tangat agam. primum res multas esse necessest 675 unde fluens volvat varius se fluctus odorum, et fluere et mitti volgo spargique putandumst ;
 verum aliis alius magis est animantibus aptus dissimilis propter formas. ideoque per auras mellis apes quamvis longe ducuntur odore, 680 volturiisque cadaveribus. tum fissa ferarum ungula quo tulerit gressum promissa canum vis dicit, et humanum longe praesentit odorem Romulidarum arcis servator candidus anser.
 sic aliis alius nidor datus ad sua quemque 685 pabula dicit et a taetro resilire veneno cogit, eoque modo servantur saecla ferarum.
 Hic odor ipse igitur, naris quicumque lacescit,
 est alio ut possit permitti longius alter ;
 sed tamen haud quisquam tam longe fertur eorum 690 quam sonitus, quam vox, mitto iam dicere quam res

quae feriunt oculorum acies visumque lassent.
 errabundus enim tarde venit ac perit ante paulatim facilis distractus in aeris auras;
 ex alto primum quia vix emittitur ex re:

- 695 nam penitus fluere atque recedere rebus odores significat quod fracta magis redolere videntur omnia, quod contrita, quod igni conlabefacta:
 deinde videre licet maioribus esse creatum principiis quam vox, quoniam per saxea saepa non penetrat, qua vox volgo sonitusque feruntur.
 • 700 quare etiam quod olet non tam facile esse videbis investigare in qua sit regione locatum;
 refrigerescit enim cunctando plaga per auras
 nec calida ad sensum decurrunt nuntia rerum.
 705 errant saepe canes itaque et vestigia quaerunt.

Nec tamen hoc solis in odoribus atque saporum in generest, sed item species rerum atque colores non ita convenient ad sensus omnibus omnes, ut non sint aliis quaedam magis acria visu.

- 710 quin etiam gallum, noctem explaudentibus alis
 auroram clara consuetum voce vocare, noenu queunt rabidi contra constare leones inque tueri: ita continuo meminere fugai, nimirum quia sunt gallorum in corpore quaedam 715 semina, quae cum sunt oculis inmissa leonum, pupillas interfodiunt acremque dolorem praebent, ut nequeant contra durare feroceis;
 cum tamen haec nostras acies nil laedere possint, aut quia non penetrant aut quod penetrantibus illis 720 exitus ex oculis liber datur, in remorando laedere ne possint ex ulla lumina parte.

Nunc age quae moveant animum res accipe, et unde quae veniunt veniant in mentem percipe paucis.

- principio hoc dico, rerum simulacra vagari 725 multa modis multis in cunctas undique partis
 tenvia, quae facile inter se iunguntur in auris, obvia cum veniunt, ut aranea bratteaque auri.
 quippe etenim multo magis haec sunt tenvia textu
 quam quae percipiunt oculos visumque lassent,

- o corporis haec quoniam penetrant per rara crientque
tenvem animi naturam intus sensumque lacesunt.
Centauros itaque et Scyllarum membra videmus Cerbereasque canum facies simulacraque eorum quorum morte obita tellus amplectitur ossa;
  - 135 omne genus quoniam passim simulacra feruntur,
partim sponte sua quae fiunt aere in ipso, partim quae variis ab rebus cumque recedunt et quae confiunt ex horum facta figuris.
nam certe ex vivo Centauri non fit imago,
  - 740 nulla fuit quoniam talis natura anima(lis) ;
verum ubi equi atque hominis casu convenit imago,
haerescit facile extemplo, quod diximus ante,
propter subtilem naturam et tenvia texta.
cetera de genere hoc eadem ratione creantur.
  - 745 quae cum mobiliter summa levitate feruntur, ut prius ostendi, facile uno commovet ictu quaelibet una animum nobis subtilis imago ;
tenvis enim mens est et mire mobilis ipsa.
- Haec fieri ut memoro, facile hinc cognoscere possis.
- 750 quatenus hoc simile est illi, quod mente videmus
atque oculis, simili fieri ratione necesse est.
nunc igitur quoniam docui me forte leonem cernere per simulacra, oculos quaecumque lacesunt, scire licet mentem simili ratione moveri,
  - 755 per simulacra leonem et cetera quae videt aequa
nec minus atque oculi, nisi quod mage tenvia cernit.
nec ratione alia, cum somnus membra profudit, mens animi vigilat, nisi quod simulacra lacesunt
haec eadem nostros animos quae cum vigilamus,
  - 760 usque adeo, certe ut videamur cernere eum quem
relicta vita iam mors et terra potitast.
hoc ideo fieri cogit natura, quod omnes corporis effecti sensus per membra quiescant nec possunt falsum veris convincere rebus.
  - 765 praeterea meminisse iacet languetque sopore
nec dissentit eum mortis letique potitum iam pridem, quem mens vivom se cernere credit.
quod superest, non est mirum simulacra moveri

- bracchiaque in numerum iactare et cetera membra ; 770 nam fit ut in somnis facere hoc videatur imago ;
 quippe, ubi prima perit alioque est altera nata
 inde statu, prior hic gestum mutasse videtur.
 scilicet id fieri celeri ratione putandumst :
 tanta est mobilitas et rerum copia tanta
 775 tantaque sensibili quovis est tempore in uno copia particularum, ut possit suppeditare.
- Multaque in his rebus quaeruntur multaque nobis clarandumst, plane si res exponere avemus.
 quaeritur in primis quare, quod cuique libido 780 venerit, extemplo mens cogitet eius id ipsum.
 anne voluntatem nostram simulacula tuentur et simul ac volumus nobis occurrit imago, si mare, si terram cordist, si denique caelum ?
 conventus hominum pompam convivia pugnas, 785 omnia sub verbone creat natura paratque ?
 cum praesertim aliis eadem in regione locoque longe dissimilis animus res cogitet omnis.
 quid porro, in numerum procedere cum simulacula
 cernimus in somnis et mollia membra movere, 790 mollia, mobiliter cum alternis bracchia mittunt et repetunt oculis gestum pede convenienti ?
 scilicet arte madent simulacula et docta vagantur,
 nocturno facere ut possint in tempore ludos.
 an magis illud erit verum ? quia tempore in uno, 795 cum sentimus, id est, cum vox emititur una,
 tempora multa latent, ratio quae comperit esse, propterea fit uti quovis in tempore quaeque praesto sint simulacula locis in quisque parata :
 tanta est mobilitas et rerum copia tanta.
- 800 hoc, ubi prima perit alioque est altera nata
 inde statu, prior hic gestum mutasse videtur.
 et quia tenvia sunt, nisi quae contendit, acute cernere non potis est animus : proinde omnia quae sunt praeterea pereunt, nisi (si) ad quae se ipse paravit.
 805 ipse parat sese porro speratque futurum ut videat quod consequitur rem quamque ; fit ergo.
 nonne vides oculos etiam, cum tenvia quae sunt

810 cernere coeperunt, contendere se atque parare, nec sine eo fieri posse ut cernamus acute?
 et tamen in rebus quoque apertis noscere possis, si non advertas animum, proinde esse quasi omni tempore semotum fuerit longeque remotum.
 cur igitur mirumst, animus si cetera perdit 815 praeterquam quibus est in rebus deditus ipse?
 deinde adopinamur de signis maxima parvis
 ac nos in fraudem induimus frustraminis ipsi.

Fit quoque ut interdum non suppeditetur imago eiusdem generis, sed femina quae fuit ante, 820 in manibus vir uti factus videatur adesse,
 aut alia ex alia facies aetasque sequatur.
 825 quod ne miremur sopor atque oblia curant.

822 Illud in his rebus vitium vementer avessis effugere, errorem vitareque praemetuenter, lumina ne facias oculorum clara creata, 825 prospicere ut possemus, et ut proferre quea(mus) proceros passus, ideo fastigia posse surarum ac feminum pedibus fundata plicari, bracchia tum porro validis ex apta lacertis 830 esse manusque datas ultraque (ex) parte ministras, ut facere ad vitam possemus quae foret usus.
 cetera de genere hoc inter quaecumque pretantur,
 omnia perversa praepostera sunt ratione,
 nil ideo quoniam natumst in corpore ut uti 835 possemus, sed quod natumst id procreat usum.
 nec fuit ante videre oculorum lumina nata nec dictis orare prius quam lingua creatast, sed potius longe linguae praecessit origo
 sermonem multoque creatae sunt prius aures

840 quam sonus est auditus, et omnia denique membra ante fuere, ut opinor, eorum quam foret usus;
 haud igitur potuere utendi crescere causa.
 at contra conferre manu certamina pugnae et lacerare artus foedareque membra cruento 845 ante fuit multo quam lucida tela volarent, et volnus vitare prius natura coegit
 quam daret obiectum parmai laeva per artem.

scilicet et fessum corpus mandare quieti.
 multo antiquius est quam lecti mollia strata, 850 et sedare sitim prius est quam pocula natum.
 haec igitur possunt utendi cognita causa credier, ex usu quae sunt vitaque reperta.
 illa quidem seorsum sunt omnia quae prius ipsa
 nata dedere suae post notitiam utilitatis.
 855 quo genere in primis sensus et membra videmus ;
 quare etiam atque etiam procul est ut credere possis
 utilitatis ob officium potuisse creari.
 Illud item non est mirandum, corporis ipsa quod natura cibum quaerit cuiusque animantis.
 860 quippe etenim fluere atque recedere corpora rebus multa modis multis docui, sed plurima debent ex animalibu'. (quae) quia sunt exercita motu, 864 multa per os exhalantur, cum languida anhelant,
 863 multaque per sudorem ex alto pressa feruntur.
 865 his igitur rebus rarescit corpus et omnis subruitur natura ; dolor quam consequitur rem.
 propterea capitur cibus ut suffulciat artus et recreet vires interdatus atque patentem per membra ac venas ut amorem opturet edendi.
 870 umor item discedit in omnia quae loca cumque
 poscunt umorem ; glomerataque multa vaporis corpora, quae stomacho praebent incendia nostro, dissupat adveniens liquor ac restinguit ut ignem,
 urere ne possit calor amplius aridus artus.
 875 sic igitur tibi anhela sitis de corpore nostro abluitur, sic expletur ieuna cupidio.
 Nunc qui fiat uti passus proferre queamus,
 cum volumus, varieque datum sit membra movere,
 et quae res tantum hoc oneris protrudere nostri 880 corporis insuerit, dicam : tu percipe dicta.
 dico animo nostro primum simulacra meandi accidere atque animum pulsare, ut diximus ante.
 inde voluntas fit; neque enim facere incipit ullam rem quisquam, (quam) mens providit quid velit ante.
 885 id quod providet, illius rei constat imago.
 ergo animus cum sese ita commovet ut velit ire

inque gredi, ferit extemplo quae in corpore toto per membra atque artus animai dissita vis est.
et facilest factu, quoniam coniuncta tenetur.
800 inde ea proporro corpus ferit, atque ita tota paulatim moles protruditur atque movetur.
praeterea tum rarescit quoque corpus et aer,
scilicet ut debet qui semper mobilis extat,
per patefacta venit penetratque foramina largus 805 et dispargitur ad partis ita quasque minutus corporis.  hic igitur rebus fit utrimque duabus, corpus ut ac navis velis ventoque feratur.
nec tamen illud in his rebus mirabile constat, tantula quod tantum corpus corpuscula possunt 900 contorquere et onus totum convertere nostrum. quippe etenim ventus suptili corpore tenuis trudit agens magnam magno molimine navem et manus una regit quantovis impete euntem atque gubernaculum contorquet quolibet unum, 905 multaque, per trocleas et tympana, pondere magno
commovet atque levi sustollit machina nisu.
Nunc quibus ille modis somnus per membra quietem inriget atque animi curas e pectore solvat,
suavidicis potius quam multis versibus edam ;
910 parvus ut est cycni melior canor, ille gruum quam
clamor in aetheriis dispersus nubibus austri.
tu mihi da tenuis aures animumque sagacem, ne fieri negites quae dicam posse retroque
vera repulsanti discedas pectore dicta, 915 tutimet in culpa cum sis neque cernere possis.
principio somnus fit ubi est distracta per artus vis animae partimque foras ejecta recessit et partim contrusa magis concessit in altum ;
dissoluuntur enim tum demum membra fluuntque.
920 nam dubium non est, animai quin opera sit sensus hic in nobis, quem cum sopor inpedit esse, tum nobis animam perturbatam esse putandumst ejectamque foras ; non omnem ; namque iaceret aeterno corpus perfusum frigore leti.
925 quippe, ubi nulla latens animai pars remaneret in membris, cinere ut multa latet obrutus ignis, unde reconfari sensus per membra repente posset, ut ex igni caeco consurgere flamma?

- Sed quibus haec rebus novitas confiat et unde 930 perturbari anima et corpus languescere possit, expadiam: tu fac ne ventis verba profundam.
principio externa corpus de parte necessum est,
aeriis quoniam vicinum tangitur auris,
tundier atque eius crebro pulsarier ictu, 935 propterea que fere res omnes aut corio sunt aut etiam conchis aut callo aut cortice tectae.
interiorem etiam partem spirantibus aer verberat hic idem, cum ducitur atque reflatur.
quare utrimque secus cum corpus vapulet et cum 940 perveniant plagae per parva foramina nobis corporis ad primas partis elementaque prima, fit quasi paulatim nobis per membra ruina, conturbantur enim positurae principiorum
corporis atque animi. fit uti pars inde animai 945 eiciatur et introsum pars abdita cedat, pars etiam distracta per artus non queat esse coniuncta inter se neque motu mutua fungi;
inter enim saepit coetus natura viasque;
ergo sensus abit mutatis motibus alte.
 950 et quoniam non est quasi quod suffulciat artus, debile fit corpus languescuntque omnia membra, braccchia palpebraeque cadunt poplitesque cubanti
saepe tamen summittuntur virisque resolvunt.
 955 deinde cibum sequitur somnus, quia, quae facit aer,
haec eadem cibus, in venas dum diditur omnis, efficit. et multo sopor ille gravissimus exstat quem satur aut lassus capias, quia plurima tum se corpora conturbant magno contusa labore.
fit ratione eadem coniectus partim animai 960 altior atque foras ejectus largior eius, et divisor inter se ac distractior intus.

Et quo quisque fere studio devinctus adhaeret aut quibus in rebus multum sumus ante morati atque in ea ratione fuit contenta magis mens,

965 in somnis eadem plerumque videmur obire;
 causidici causas agere et componere leges,
 induperatores pugnare ac proelia obire, nauiae contractum cum ventis degere duellum,
 nos agere hoc autem et naturam quaerere rerum 970 semper et inventam patriis exponere chartis.
 cetera sic studia atque artes plerumque videntur
 in somnis animos hominum frustrata tenere.
 et quicumque dies multos ex ordine ludis adsiduas dederunt operas, plerumque videmus, 975 cum iam destiterunt ea sensibus usurpare, reliquias tamen esse vias in mente patentis,
 qua possint eadem rerum simulacra venire.
 per multos itaque illa dies eadem obversantur ante oculos, etiam vigilantes ut videantur 980 cernere saltantis et mollia membra moventis et citharae liquidum carmen chordasque loquentis auribus accipere et concessum cernere eundem scenaque simul varios splendere decores.
 usque adeo magni refert studium atque voluntas, 985 et quibus in rebus consuerint esse operati non homines solum sed vero animalia cuncta.
 quippe videbis equos fortis, cum membra iacebunt,
 in somnis sudare tamen spirareque semper et quasi de palma summas contendere viris 990 aut quasi carceribus patefactis [saepe quiete] 991 venantumque canes in molli saepe quiete iactant crura tamen subito vocesque repente mittunt et crebro redducunt naribus auras, ut vestigia si teneant inventa ferarum, expergefactique secuntur inania saepe donec discussis redeant erroribus ad se.

 at consueta domi catulorum blanda propago sollicitant divom nocturno tempore lucos, accipitres somno in leni si proelia pugnas 1010 edere sunt persecantes visaeque volantes.

porro hominum mentes, magnis quae motibus edunt magna, itidem saepe in somnis faciuntque geruntque, reges expugnant, capiuntur, proelia miscent,
tollunt clamorem quasi si iugulentur ibidem.
1015 multi depugnant gemitusque doloribus edunt et quasi pantherae morsu saevive leonis mandantur magnis clamoribus omnia complent.
multi de magnis per somnum rebu' loquuntur indicioque sui facti persaepe fuere.
1020 multi mortem obeunt. multi, de montibus altis ut qui praecipitent ad terram corpore toto, exterrentur et ex somno quasi mentibu' capti
vix ad se redeunt permoti corporis aestu.
flumen item sitiens aut fontem propter amoenum 1025 adsidet et totum prope faucibus occupat amnem.
puri saepe lacum propter si ac dolia curta somno devincti credunt se extollere vestem, totius umorem saccatum corpori' fundunt,
cum Babylonica magnifico splendore rigantur.
1030 tum quibus aetatis freta primitus insinuat semen, ubi ipsa dies membris matura creavit, conveniunt simulacra foris e corpore quoque nuntia paeclari voltus pulchrique coloris, qui ciet inritans loca turgida semine multo, 1035 ut quasi transactis saepe omnibu' rebu' profundant fluminis ingentis fluctus vestemque cruentent.
Sollicitatur id in nobis, quod diximus ante,
semen, adulta aetas cum primum roborat artus.
namque alias aliud res commovet atque lassisit; 1040 ex homine humanum semen ciet una hominis vis.
quod simul atque suis ejectum sedibus exit, per membra atque artus decedit corpore toto
in loca conveniens nervorum certa cietque continuo partis genitalis corporis ipsas.
1045 inritata tument loca semine fitque voluntas eicere id quo se contendit dira lubido, idque petit corpus, mens unde est saucia amore.

namque omnes plerumque cadunt in vulnus et illam 050 emicat in partem sanguis unde icimur ictu, et si comminus est, hostem ruber occupat umor.
sic igitur Veneris qui telis accipit ictus, sive puer membris muliebribus hunc iaculatur
seu mulier toto iactans e corpore amorem, 1055 unde feritur, eo tendit gestisque coire et iacere umorem in corpus de corpore ductum;
namque voluptatem praesagiti muta cupido.
Haec Venus est nobis; hinc autem est momen amoris, hinc illaec primum Veneris dulcedinis in cor 1100 stillavit gutta et successit frigida cura.
nam si abest quod ames, praesto simulacra tamen sunt illius et nomen dulce obversatur ad auris.
sed fugitare decet simulacra et pabula amoris absterrere sibi atque alio convertere mentem 1105 et iacere umorem conlectum in corpora quaeque nec retinere, semel conversum unius amore, et servare sibi curam certumque dolorem.
ulcus enim vivescit et inveterascit alendo
inque dies gliscit furor atque aerumna gravescit, 1150 si non prima novis conturbes volnera plagis volgivagaque vagus Venere ante recentia cures aut alio possis animi traducere motus.
Nec Veneris fructu caret is qui vitat amorem,
sed potius quae sunt sine poena commoda sumit; 1175 nam certe purast sanis magis inde voluptas quam miseris. etenim potiundi tempore in ipso fluctuat incertis erroribus ardor amantium nec constat quid primum oculis manibusque fruantur.
quod petiere, premunt arte faciuntque dolorem 1200 corporis et dentes inlidunt saepe labellis, osculaque adfigunt, quia non est pura voluptas et stimuli subsunt qui instigant laedere id ipsum quodcumque est, rabies unde illaec germina surgunt.
sed leviter poenas frangit Venus inter amorem 1225 blandaque (re)frenat morsus admixta voluptas.
namque in eo spes est, unde est ardoris origo, restingui quoque posse ab eodem corpore flammam.

 quod fieri contra totum natura repugnat ;
 unaque res haec est, cuius quam plurima habemus, 1090 tam magis ardescit dira cuppedine pectus.
 nam cibus atque umor membris adsumitur intus ;
 quae quoniam certas possunt obsidere partis,
 hoc facile expletur laticum frugumque cupidio.
 ex hominis vero facie pulchroque colore 1095 nil datur in corpus praeter simulacra fruendum tenvia ; quae vento spes raptast saepe misella.
 ut bibere in somnis sitiens quom quaerit et umor non datur, ardorem qui membris stinguere possit, sed laticum simulacra petit frustraque laborat 1100 in medioque sitit torrenti flumine potans, sic in amore Venus simulacris ludit amantis nec satiare queunt spectando corpora coram, nec manibus quicquam teneris abradere membris possunt errantes incerti corpore toto.
 1105 denique cum membris conlatis flore fruuntur aetatis, iam cum prae sagit gaudia corpus atque in eost Venus ut muliebria conserat arva, adfigunt avide corpus iunguntque salivas
 oris et inspirant pressantes dentibus ora, 1110 nequicquam, quoniam nil inde abradere possunt nec penetrare et abire in corpus corpore toto :
 nam facere interdum velle et certare videntur :
 usque adeo cupide in Veneris compagibus haerent,
 membra voluptatis dum vi labefacta liquescunt.
 1115 tandem ubi se erupit nervis conlecta cupido, parva fit ardoris violenti pauca parumper.
 inde reddit rabies eadem et furor ille revisit,
 cum sibi quid cupiant ipsi contingere quaerunt,
 nec reperire malum id possunt quae machina vincat ;
 1120 usque adeo incerti tabescunt volnere caeco.
     Adde quod absument viris pereuntque labore,
     adde quod alterius sub nutu degitur aetas.
     labitur interea res et Babylonica fiunt,
     languent officia atque aegrotat fama vacillans.
 1125 † unguenta et pulchra in pedibus Sicyonia rident

scilicet et grandes viridi cum luce zmaragdi auro includuntur teriturque thalassina vestis adsidue et Veneris sudorem exercita potat.
et bene parta patrum fiunt anademata, mitrae, 1130 interdum in pallam atque Alidensia Ciaque vertunt.
eximia veste et victu convivia, ludi, pocula crebra, unguenta coronae serta parantur, neququam, quoniam medio de fonte leporum surgit amari aliquid quod in ipsis floribus angat, 1135 aut cum conscius ipse animus se forte remordet desidiose agere aetatem lustrisque perire, aut quod in ambiguo verbum iaculata reliquit quod cupidus adfixum cordi vivescit ut ignis, aut nimium iactare oculos aliumve tueri 1140 quod putat in voltuque videt vestigia risus.

Atque in amore mala haec proprio summeque secundo inveniuntur; in adverso vero atque inopi sunt, prendere quae possis oculorum lumine operto,
innumerabilia; ut melius vigilare sit ante, 1145 qua docui ratione, cavereque ne iniciaris.
nam vitare, plagas in amoris ne iaciamur,
non ita difficile est quam captum retibus ipsis
exire et validos Veneris perrumpere nodos.
et tamen implicitus quoque possis inque peditus 1150 effugere infestum, nisi tute tibi obvius obstes et praetermittas animi vitia omnia primum aut quae corpori' sunt eius, quam praepetis ac vis.
nam faciunt homines plerumque cupidine caeci et tribuunt ea quae non sunt his commoda vere.
1155 multimodis igitur pravas turpisque videmus esse in deliciis summoque in honore vigere.
atque alias alii inrident Veneremque suadent ut placent, quoniam foedo afflictentur amore, nec sua respiciunt miseri mala maxima saepe.
1160 nigra melichrus est, inmunda et fetida acosmos, caesia Palladium; nervosa et lignea dorcas, parvula, pumilio, chariton mia, tota merum sal,
magna atque inmanis cataplexis plenaque honoris. balba loqui non quit, traulizi, muta pudens est;

1165 at flagrans odiosa loquacula Lampodium fit.
ischnon eromenion tum fit, cum vivere non quit prae macie; rhadine verost iam mortua tussi.
at tumida et mammosa Ceres est ipsa ab Iaccho, simula Silena ac Saturast, labeosa philema.

1170 cetera de genere hoc longum est si dicere coner.
sed tamen esto iam quantovis oris honore,
cui Veneris membris vis omnibus exoriatur:
nempe aliae quoque sunt; nempe hac sine viximus ante;
nempe eadem facit, et scimus facere, omnia turpi,

1175 et miseram taetris se suffit odoribus ipsa quam famulæ longe fugitant furtimque cachinnant.
at lacrimans exclusus amator limina saepe floribus et sertis operit postisque superbos unguit amaracino et foribus miser oscula figit;

1180 quem si, iam (ad)missum, venientem offenderit aura una modo, causas abeundi quaerat honestas, et meditata diu cadat alte sumpta querella, stultitiaque ibi se damnet, tribuisse quod illi
plus videat quam mortali concedere par est.

1185 nec Veneres nostras hoc fallit; quo magis ipsæ omnia summo opere hos vitae postscaenia celant quos retinere volunt adstrictosque esse in amore, nequiam, quoniam tu animo tamen omnia possis protrahere in lucem atque omnis inquirere risus

1190 et, si bello animost et non odiosa, vicissim praetermittere (et) humanis concedere rebus.
Nec mulier semper factio suspirat amore quae complexa viri corpus cum corpore iungit et tenet adsuctis umectans oscula labris.

1195 nam facit ex animo saepe et communia quaerens gaudia sollicitat spatium decurrere amoris.
nec ratione alia volucres armenta feraeque et pecudes et equae maribus subsidere possunt, si non, ipsa quod illarum subbat ardet abundans

1200 natura et Venerem salientum laeta retractat.
nonne vides etiam quos mutua saepe voluptas vinxit, ut in vinclis communibus excrucientur?
in triviis quam saepe canes, discedere aventis,

- 1210 divorsi cupide summis ex viribu' tendunt, 1204 quom interea validis Veneris compagibus haerent! 1205 quod facerent numquam nisi mutua gaudia nossent quae iacere in fraudem possent vinctosque tenere.
     quare etiam atque etiam, ut dico, est communi' voluptas.
     Et commiscendo quom semine forte virilem
 1209 femina vim vicit subita vi corripuitque, 1210 1211 tum similes matrum materno semine fiunt, ut patribus patrio. sed quos utriusque figurae esse vides, iuxtim miscentes vulta parentum, corpore de patrio et materno sanguine crescunt, 1215 semina cum Veneris stimulis excita per artus obvia conflixit conspirans mutuus ardor, et neque utrum superavit eorum nec superatumst.
     fit quoque ut interdum similes existere avorum
     possint et referant proavorum saepe figuras 1220 propterea quia multa modis primordia multis mixta suo celant in corpore saepe parentis, quae patribus patres tradunt ab stirpe profecta ;
     inde Venus varia producit sorte figuras maiorumque refert voltus vocesque comasque ; 1225 quandoquidem nilo magis haec de semine certo fiunt quam facies et corpora membraque nobis.
     et muliebre oritur patrio de semine saeculum maternoque mares existunt corpore creti ;
     semper enim partus duplici de semine constat, 1230 atque utri similest magis id quodcumque creatur, eius habet plus parte aequa ; quod cernere possis,
     sive virum suboles sivest muliebris origo.
     Nec divina satum genitalem numina cuiquam absterrent, pater a gnatis ne dulcibus umquam 1235 appetetur et ut sterili Venere exigat aevom ; quod plerumque putant et multo sanguine maesti conspergunt aras adolescentque altaria donis, ut gravidas reddant uxores semine largo ;
     nequiquam divom numen sortisque fatigant.
 1240 nam steriles nimium crasso sunt semine partim et liquido praeter iustum tenuique vicissim.
     tenve locis quia non potis est adfigerē adhaesum, liquitur extemplo et revocatum cedit abortu.

 crassius his porro quoniam concretius aequo 1245 mittitur, aut non tam prolixo provolat ictu aut penetrare locos aequae nequit aut penetratum aegre admiscetur muliebri semine semen.
 nam multum harmoniae Veneris differre videntur.
 atque alias alii complent magis ex aliisque 1250 succipiunt aliae pondus magis inque gravescunt.
 et multae steriles Hymenaeis ante fuerunt pluribus et nactae post sunt tamen unde puellos suscipere et partu possent ditescere dulci.
 et quibus ante domi fecundae saepe nequissent 1255 uxores parere, inventast illis quoque compar natura, ut possent gnatis munire senectam.
 usque adeo magni refert, ut semina possint seminibus commisceri genitaliter apta, crassaque convenient liquidis et liquida crassis.
 1260 atque in eo refert quo victu vita colatur ;
 namque aliis rebus concrescunt semina membris
 atque aliis extenvantur tabentque vicissim.
 et quibus ipsa modis tractetur blanda voluptas,
 id quoque permagni refert ; nam more ferarum 1265 quadrupedumque magis ritu plerumque putantur concipere uxores, quia sic loca sumere possunt, pectoribus positis, sublatis semina lumbis.
 nec molles opu' sunt motus uxoribus hilum.
 nam mulier prohibet se concipere atque repugnat, 1270 clunibus ipsa viri Venerem si laeta retractat
 atque exossato ciet omni pectore fluctus ;
 eicit enim sulcum recta regione viaque vomeris atque locis avertit seminis ictum.
 idque sua causa consuerunt scorta moveri, 1275 ne complerentur crebro gravidaeque iacerent, et simul ipsa viris Venus ut concinnior esset ;
 coniugibus quod nil nostris opus esse videtur.
     Nec divinitus interdum Venerisque sagittis deteriore fit ut forma muliercula ametur.
 1280 nam facit ipsa suis interdum femina factis morigerisque modis et mente corpore culto, ut facile insuescat (te) secum degere vitam.

quod superest, consuetudo concinnat amorem;
nam leviter quamvis quod crebro tunditur ictu, 1285 vincitur in longo spatio tamen atque labascit.
nonne vides etiam guttas in saxa cadentis umoris longo in spatio pertundere saxa?

T. LVCRETI CARI
DE RERVM NATVRA
LIBER QVINTVS

---

Quis potis est dignum pollenti pectore carmen condere pro rerum maiestate hisque repertis?
quisve valet verbis tantum qui fingere laudes pro meritis eius possit qui talia nobis 5 pectore parta suo quaesitaque praemia liquit?
nemo, ut opinor, erit mortali corpore cretus.
nam si, ut ipsa petit maiestas cognita rerum, dicendum est, deus ille fuit, deus, inclyte Memmi,
qui princeps vitae rationem invenit eam quae 10 nunc appellatur sapientia, quique per artem fluctibus e tantis vitam tantisque tenebris in tam tranquillo et tam clara luce locavit.
confer enim divina aliorum antiqua reperta.
namque Ceres fertur fruges Liberque liquoris 15 vitigeni laticem mortalibus instituisse;
cum tamen his posset sine rebus vita manere,
ut fama est aliquas etiam nunc vivere gentis.
at bene non poterat sine puro pectore vivi;
quo magis hic merito nobis deus esse videtur, 20 ex quo nunc etiam per magnas didita gentis
dulcia permulcent animos solacia vitae.
Herculis antistare autem si facta putabis,
longius a vera multo ratione ferere.
quid Nemeaeus enim nobis nunc magnus hiatus 25 ille leonis obesset et horrens Arcadius sus?
denique quid Cretae taurus Lernaeaque pestis hydra venenatis posset vallata colubris?

quidve tripectora tergemini vis Geryonai

tanto opere officerent nobis Stymphala coientes, 30 et Diomedis equi spirantes naribus ignem Thracis Bistoniasque plagas atque Ismara propter, aureaque Hesperidum servans fulgentia mala, asper, acerba tuens, immani corpore serpens
arboris amplexus stirpem quid denique obesset 35 propter Atlanteum litus pelagique severa, quo neque noster adit quisquam nec barbarus audet?
cetera de genere hoc quae sunt portenta perempta,
sei non victa forent, quid tandem viva nocerent?
nil, ut opinor: ita ad satiatem terra ferarum 40 nunc etiam scatit et trepido terrore repleta est per nemora ac montes magnos silvasque profundas;
quae loca vitandi plerumque est nostra potestas.
at nisi purgatumst pectus, quae proelia nobis
atque pericula tumst ingratissimum !
45 quantae tum scindunt hominem cuppedinis acres sollicitum curae quantique perinde timores!
quidve superbia spurcitia ac petulantia? quantas efficiunt clades! quid luxus desidiaque?
haec igitur qui cuncta subegerit ex animoque 50 expulerit dictis, non armis, nonne decebit hunc hominem numero divom dignarier esse?
cum bene praesertim multa ac divinitus ipsis immortalibus de divis dare dicta suerit atque omnem rerum naturam pandere dictis.
55 Cuius ego ingressus vestigia dum rationes persequor ac doceo dictis, quo quaeque creata foederem sint, in eo quam sit durare necessum nec validas valeant aevi rescindere leges, quo genere in primis animi natura reperta est 60 nativo primum consistere corpore creta nec posse incolumis magnum durare per aevom, sed simulacra solere in somnis fallere mentem,
cernere cum videamur eum quem vita reliquit,
quod superstes, nunc huc rationis detulit ordo,

65 ut mihi mortali consistere corpore mundum nativomque simul ratio reddunda sit esse ;
 et quibus ille modis congressus materiai fundarit terram caelum mare sidera solem lunaique globum ; tum quae tellure animantes extiterint, et quae nullo sint tempore natae ;
 quo modo genus humanum variante loquella coeperit inter se vesci per nomina rerum ;
 et quibus ille modis divom metus insinuarit pectora, terrarum qui in orbi sancta tueruntur fana lacus lucos aras simulacraque divom.
 praeterea solis cursus lunaeque meatus expediāt natura gubernans ;
 ne forte haec inter caelum terramque reamur libera sponte sua cursus lustrare perennis 80 morigera ad fruges augendas atque animantis, neve aliqua divom volvi ratione putemus.
 nam bene qui didicere deos securum agere aevom,
 si tamen interea mirantur qua ratione
 quaeque geri possint, praesertim rebus in illis 85 quae supera caput aetheriis cernuntur in oris, rursus in antiquas referuntur religiones
 et dominos acris adsciscunt, omnia posse
 quos miseri credunt, ignari quid queat esse,
 quid nequeat, finita potestas denique cuique
 90 quanam sit ratione atque alte terminus haerens.
 Quod superest, ne te in promissis plura moremur, principio maria ac terras caelumque tuere ;
 quorum naturam triplicem, tria corpora, Memmi,
 tris species tam dissimilis, tria talia texta, 95 una dies dabit exitio, multosque per annos sustentata ruet moles et machina mundi.
 nec me animi fallit quam res nova miraque menti accidat exitium caeli terraque futurum, et quam difficile id mihi sit pervincere dictis ;
 100 ut fit ubi insolitam rem adportes auribus ante nec tamen hanc possis oculorum subdere visu nec iacere indu manus, via qua munita fidei proxima fert humanum in pectus templaque mentis.

- sed tamen effabor. dictis dabit ipsa fidem res 105 forsitan et graviter terrarum motibus ortis omnia conquassari in parvo tempore cernes.
 quod procul a nobis flectat fortuna gubernans, et ratio potius quam res persuadeat ipsa succidere horrisono posse omnia victa fragore.
- 110 Qua prius adgrediar quam de re fundere fata
 sanctius et multo certa ratione magis quam Pythia quae tripode a Phoebi lauroque profatur, multa tibi expediam doctis solacia dictis ;
 religione refrenatus ne forte rearis
- 115 terras et solem et caelum, mare sidera lunam, corpore divino debere aeterna manere, propterea que putes ritu par esse Gigantum pendere eos poenas inmani pro scelere omnis qui ratione sua disturbent moenia mundi
- 120 praeclarumque velint caeli restinguere solem inmortalia mortali sermone notantes ;
 quae procul usque adeo divino a numine distent,
 inque deum numero quae sint indigna videri,
 notitiam potius praebere ut posse putentur
- 125 quid sit vitali motu sensuque remotum.
 quippe etenim non est, cum quovis corpore ut esse posse animi natura putetur consiliumque ;
 sicut in aethere non arbor, non aequore salso nubes esse queunt neque pisces vivere in arvis
- 130 nec crux in lignis neque saxis sucus inesse.
 certum ac dispositumst ubi quicquid crescat et insit.
 sic animi natura nequit sine corpore oriri
 sola neque a nervis et sanguine longiter esse.
 quod si posset enim, multo prius ipsa animi vis
- 135 in capite aut umeris aut imis calcibus esse
 posset et innasci quavis in parte soleret,
 tandem in eodem homine atque in eodem vase manere.
 quod quoniam nostro quoque constat corpore certum
 dispositumque videtur ubi esse et crescere possit
- 140 seorsum anima atque animus, tanto magis infitiandum totum posse extra corpus formamque animalem putribus in glebis terrarum aut solis in igni aut in aqua durare aut altis aetheris oris.

 haud igitur constant divino praedita sensu, 145 quandoquidem nequeunt vitaliter esse animata.
 Illud item non est ut possis credere, sedes esse deum sanctas in mundi partibus ullis.
 tenvis enim natura deum longeque remota
 sensibus ab nostris animi vix mente videtur; 150 quae quoniam manuum tactum suffigit et ictum, tactile nil nobis quod sit contingere debet.
 tangere enim non quit quod tangi non licet ipsum.
 quare etiam sedes quoque nostris sedibus esse dissimiles debent; tenues de corpore eorum; 155 quae tibi posterius largo sermone probabo.
 dicere porro hominum causa voluisse parare praeclaram mundi naturam proptereaque adlaudabile opus divom laudare decere aeternumque putare atque immortale futurum 160 nec fas esse, deum quod sit ratione vetusta gentibus humanis fundatum perpetuo aevo, sollicitare suis ulla vi ex sedibus umquam nec verbis vexare et ab imo evertere summa, cetera de genere hoc adfangere et addere, Memmi, 165 desiperest. quid enim immortalibus atque beatis gratia nostra queat largirier emolumenti, ut nostra quicquam causa gerere adgrediantur?
 quidve novi potuit tanto post ante quietos
 inlicare ut cuperent vitam mutare priorem?
 170 nam gaudere novis rebus debere videtur cui veteres obsunt; sed cui nil accidit aegri tempore in anteacto, cum pulchre degeret aevom, quid potuit novitatis amorem accendere tali?
 at, credo, in tenebris vita ac maerore iacebat, 175 donec diluxit rerum genitalis origo.
 quidve mali fuerat nobis non esse creatis?
 natus enim debet quicumque est velle manere
 in vita, donec retinebit blanda voluptas.
 qui numquam vero vitae gustavit amorem 180 nec fuit in numero, quid obest non esse creatum?
 exemplum porro gignundis rebus et ipsa notities divis hominum unde est insita primum, quid vellent facere ut scirent animoque viderent,

 quo ve modost umquam vis cognita principiorum 185 quidque inter se(se) permutato ordine possent, si non ipsa dedit specimen natura creandi?
 namque ita multa modis multis primordia rerum
 ex infinito iam tempore percita plagis
 ponderibusque suis consuerunt concita ferri 190 omnimodisque coire atque omnia pertemptare, quaecumque inter se possent congressa creare,
 ut non sit mirum si in talis disposituras deciderunt quoque et in talis venere meatus, qualibus haec rerum geritur nunc summa novando.

195 Quod (si) iam rerum ignorem primordia quae sint,
 hoc tamen ex ipsis caeli rationibus ausim
 confirmare aliisque ex rebus reddere multis, nequaquam nobis divinitus esse paratam
 naturam rerum: tanta stat praedita culpa.
 200 principio quantum caeli tegit impetus ingens, inde avidam partem montes silvaeque ferarum possedere, tenent rupes vastaeque paludes et mare quod late terrarum distincte oras.
 inde duas porro prope partis fervidus ardor 205 adsiduusque gelii casus mortalibus aufert.
 quod superest arvi, tamen id natura sua vi sentibus obducat, ni vis humana resistat vitai causa valido consueta bidenti ingemere et terram pressis proscindere aratris.
 210 si non fecundas vertentes vomere glebas
 terra que solum subigentes cimus ad ortus, sponte sua nequeant liquidas existere in auras,
 et tamen interdum magno quaesita labore cum iam per terras frondent atque omnia florent, 215 aut nimiis torret fervoribus aetherius sol aut subiti peremunt imbris gelidaeque pruinæ, flabraque ventorum violento turbine vexant.
 praeterea genus horriferum natura ferarum humanae genti infestum terra que marique 220 cur alit atque auget? cur anni tempora morbos

- adportant? quare mors inmatura vagatur?
 tum porro puer, ut saevis projectus ab undis navita, nudus humi iacet, infans, indigus omni vitali auxilio, cum primum in luminis oras 225 nixibus ex alvo matris natura profudit, vagituque locum lugubri complet, ut aecumst
 cui tantum in vita restet transire malorum.
 at variae crescent pecudes armenta feraeque
 nec crepitacillis opus est nec cuiquam adhibendast 230 almae nutricis blanda atque infracta loquella nec varias quaerunt vestes pro tempore caeli, denique non armis opus est, non moenibus altis, qui sua tutentur, quando omnibus omnia large tellus ipsa parit naturaque daedala rerum.
- 235 Principio quoniam terrai corpus et umor aurarumque leves animae calidique vapores,
 e quibus haec rerum consistere summa videtur, omnia nativo ac mortali corpore constant,
 debet eodem omnis mundi natura putari.
- 240 quippe etenim quorum partis et membra videmus
 corpore nativo ac mortalibus esse figuris, haec eadem ferme mortalia cernimus esse et nativa simul. quapropter maxima mundi cum videam membra ac partis consumpta regnii, 245 scire licet caeli quoque item terraeque fuisse principiale aliquod tempus clademque futuram.
- Illud in his rebus ne corripuisse rearis me mihi, quod terram atque ignem mortalia sumpsi esse neque umorem dubitavi aurasque perire 250 atque eadem gigni rursusque augescere dixi, principio pars terrai nonnulla, perusta solibus adsiduis, multa pulsata pedum vi, pulveris exhalat nebulam nubesque volantis
 quas validi toto dispergunt aere venti.
- 255 pars etiam glebarum ad diluviem revocatur
 imbris et ripas radentia flumina rodunt.
 praeterea pro parte sua, quodcumque alid auget, redditur; et quoniam dubio procul esse videtur omniparens eadem rerum commune sepulcrum,

260 ergo terra tibi libatur et aucta recrescit.

Quod superest, umore novo mare flumina fontes semper abundare et latices manare perennis nil opus est verbis: magnus decursus aquarum undique declarat. sed primum quicquid aquai 265 tollitur in summaque fit ut nil umor abundet, partim quod validi verentes aequora venti deminuunt radiisque retexens aetherius sol, partim quod superter per terras diditur omnis;
percolatur enim virus retroque remanat

270 materies umoris et ad caput amnibus omnis convenit, inde super terras fluit agmine dulci
qua via secta semel liquido pede detulit undas.

Aera nunc igitur dicam qui corpore toto innumerabiliter privas mutatur in horas.

275 semper enim, quodcumque fluit de rebus, id omne aeris in magnum fertur mare; qui nisi contra corpora retribuat rebus recreetque fluentis, omnia iam resoluta forent et in aera versa.
haut igitur cessat gigni de rebus et in res

280 recidere, adsidue quoniā fluere omnia constat.

Largus item liquidi fons luminis, aetherius sol, inrigat adsidue caelum candore recenti suppeditatque novo confestim lumine lumen.
nam primum quicquid fulgoris disperit ei,

285 quocumque accedit. id licet hinc cognoscere possis, quod simul ac primum nubes succedere soli coepere et radios inter quasi rumpere lucis, extemplo inferior pars horum disperit omnis terraque inumbratur qua nimbi cumque feruntur;

290 ut noscas splendore novo res semper egere et primum iactum fulgoris quemque perire nec ratione alia res posse in sole videri, perpetuo ni suppeditet lucis caput ipsum.

295 quin etiam nocturna tibi, terrestria quae sunt, lumina, pendentes lychni claraeque coruscis fulguribus pingues multa caligine taedae consimili properant ratione, ardore ministro, suppeditare novom lumen, tremere ignibus instant, instant, nec loca lux inter quasi rupta relinquit :

 300 usque adeo properanter ab omnibus ignibus ei exitium celeri celatur origine flammae.
 sic igitur solem lunam stellasque putandum(st)
 ex alio atque alio lucem iactare subortu et primum quicquid flammarum perdere semper ; 305 inviolabilia haec ne credas forte vigere.

Denique non lapides quoque vinci cernis ab aevo,
 non altas turris ruere et putrescere saxa,
 non delubra deum simulacraque fessa fatisci,
 nec sanctum numen fati protollere finis 310 posse neque adversus naturae foedera niti ?
 denique non monimenta virum dilapsa videmus,
 quaerere proporro sibi † cumque senescere † credas,
 non ruere avolsos silices a montibus altis
 nec validas aevi vires perferre patique 315 finiti ? neque enim caderent avolsa repente, ex infinito quae tempore pertolerassent omnia tormenta aetatis privata fragore.

Denique iam tuere hoc, circum supraque quod omnem continet amplexu terram : si procreat ex se 320 omnia, quod quidam memorant, recipitque perempta, totum nativo ac mortali corpore constat.
 nam quodcumque alias ex se res auget alitque,
 deminui debet, recreari, cum recipit res.

Praeterea si nulla fuit genitalis origo 325 terrarum et caeli semperque aeterna fuere, cur supera bellum Thebanum et funera Troiae non alias alii quoque res cecinere poetae ?
 quo tot facta virum totiens cecidere neque usquam aeternis famae monumentis insita florent ?
 330 verum, ut opinor, habet novitatem summa recensque naturast mundi neque pridem exordia cepit.
 quare etiam quaedam nunc artes expoliuntur, nunc etiam augescunt ; nunc addita navigiis sunt
 multa, modo organici melicos peperere sonores.
 335 denique natura haec rerum ratioque repertast nuper, et hanc primus cum primis ipse repertus nunc ego sum in patrias qui possim vertere voces.

quod si forte fuisse antehac eadem omnia credis,
 sed periisse hominum torrenti saecula vapore, 340 aut cecidisse urbis magno vexamine mundi, aut ex imbris adsiduis exisse rapaces per terras amnes atque oppida cooperuisse, tanto quique magis victus fateare necessest
 exitium quoque terrarum caelique futurum.
 345 nam cum res tantis morbis tantisque periclis temptarentur, ibi si tristior incubuisset causa, darent late cladem magnasque ruinas.
 nec ratione alia mortales esse videmur,
 inter nos nisi quod morbis aegrescimus isdem 350 atque illi quos a vita natura removit.

Præterea quaecumque manent aeterna necessust
 aut, quia sunt solido cum corpore, respuere ictus
 nec penetrare pati sibi quicquam quod queat artas
 dissociare intus partis, ut materiai
 355 corpora sunt quorum naturam ostendimus ante,
 aut ideo durare aetatem posse per omnem,
 plagarum quia sunt expertia, sicut inane est
 quod manet intactum neque ab ictu fungitur hilum,
 aut etiam quia nulla loci fit copia circum,
 360 quo quasi res possint discedere dissoluique, sicut summarum summa est aeterna neque extra qui locus est quo dissiliant neque corpora sunt quae
 possint incidere et valida dissolvere plaga.
 at neque, uti docui, solido cum corpore mundi 365 naturast, quoniam admixtumst in rebus inane, nec tamen est ut inane, neque autem corpora desunt,
 ex infinito quae possint forte coorta correre hanc rerum violento turbine summam aut aliam quamvis cladem importare pericli, 370 nec porro natura loci spatiumque profundi deficit, exspargi quo possint moenia mundi, aut alia quavis possunt vi pulsa perire.
 haut igitur leti præclusa est ianua caelo
 nec soli terraeque neque altis aequoris undis, 375 sed patet immanni et vasto respectat hiatu.
 quare etiam nativa necessumst confiteare

haec eadem; neque enim, mortali corpore quae sunt, ex infinito iam tempore adhuc potuissent inmensi validas aevi contemnere vires.

- 380 Denique tantopere inter se cum maxima mundi pugnant membra, pio nequaquam concita bello, nonne vides aliquam longi certaminis ollis posse dari finem, vel cum sol et vapor omnis omnibus epotis umoribus exsuperant?
- 385 quod facere intendunt, neque adhuc conata patrantur:
tantum suppeditant amnes ultraque minantur omnia diluviare ex alto gurgite ponti, nequ quam, quoniam verrentes aequora venti deminuant radiisque retexens aetherius sol,
- 390 et siccare prius confidunt omnia posse
quam liquor incepti possit contingere finem.
tantum spirantes aequo certamine bellum magnis inter se de rebus cernere certant, cum semel interea fuerit superantior ignis
- 395 et semel, ut fama est, umor regnarit in arvis.
ignis enim superat et lambens multa perussit, avia cum Phaethonta rapax vis solis equorum aethere raptavit toto terrasque per omnis.
at pater omnipotens ira tum percitus acri
- 400 magnanium Phaethonta repenti fulminis ictu deturbavit equis in terram, solque cadenti obvius aeternam succepit lampada mundi disiectosque redigit equos iunxitque trementis, inde suum per iter recreavit cuncta gubernans,
- 405 scilicet ut veteres Graium cecinere poetae.
quod procul a vera nimis est ratione repulsum.
ignis enim superare potest ubi materiai
ex infinito sunt corpora plura coorta;
inde cadunt vires aliqua ratione revictae,
- 410 aut pereunt res exustae torrentibus auris.
umor item quandam coepit superare coortus,
ut fama est, hominum multas quando obruit urbis.
inde ubi vis aliqua ratione aversa recessit,
ex infinito fuerat quaecumque coorta,
- 415 constiterunt imbres et flumina vim minuerunt.

Sed quibus ille modis coniectus materiai fundarit terram et caelum pontique profunda, solis lunai cursus, ex ordine ponam.
nam certe neque consilio primordia rerum
420 ordine se suo quaeque sagaci mente locarunt
nec quos quaeque darent motus pepigere profecto, sed quia multa modis multis primordia rerum
ex infinito iam tempore percita plagis
ponderibusque suis consuerunt concita ferri
425 omnimodisque coire atque omnia pertemptare,
quaecumque inter se possent congressa creare,
propterea fit uti magnum volgata per aevom omne genus coetus et motus experiundo tandem convenient ea quae convecta repente 430 magnarum rerum fiunt exordia saepe,
terrai maris et caeli generisque animantum.

Hic neque tum solis rota cerni lumine largo altivolans poterat nec magni sidera mundi nec mare nec caelum nec denique terra neque aer 435 nec similis nostris rebus res ulla videri, sed nova tempestas quaedam molesque coorta omne genus de principiis, discordia quorum intervalla vias conexus pondera plagas

440

concursus motus turbabat proelia miscens, 440 propter dissimilis formas variasque figuras quod non omnia sic poterant coniuncta manere nec motus inter sese dare convenientis.

445

diffugere inde loci partes coepere paresque cum paribus iungi res et discludere mundum

437

445 membraque dividere et magnas disponere partes, hoc est, a terris altum secernere caelum,
et sorsum mare, uti secreto umore pateret,
seorsus item puri secretique aetheris ignes.

439

Quippe etenim primum terrai corpora quaeque, 450 propterea quod erant gravia et perplexa, coibant in medio atque imas capiebant omnia sedes ;
quae quanto magis inter se perplexa coibant, tam magis expressere ea quae mare sidera solem lunamque efficerent et magni moenia mundi.

455 omnia enim magis haec e levibus atque rutundis seminibus multoque minorib' sunt elementis quam tellus. ideo per rara foramina terrae partibus erumpens primus se sustulit aether ignifer et multos secum levis abstulit ignis, 460 non alia longe ratione ac saepe videmus, aurea cum primum gemmantis rore per herbas matutina rubent radiati lumina solis exhalantque lacus nebulam fluviique perennes, ipsaque ut interdum tellus fumare videtur; 465 omnia quae sursum cum conciliantur in alto,
corpore concreto subtexunt nubila caelum.
sic igitur tum se levis ac diffusilis aether corpore concreto circumdatus undique (flexit) et late diffusus in omnis undique partis 470 omnia sic avido complexu cetera saepsit.
hunc exordia sunt solis lunaeque secuta, interutrasque globi quorum vertuntur in auris;
quae neque terra sibi adscivit nec maximus aether,
quod neque tam fuerunt gravia ut deressa sederent, 475 nec levia ut possent per summas labier oras, et tamen interutrasque ita sunt, ut corpora viva versent et partes ut mundi totius extent;
quod genus in nobis quaedam licet in statione
membra manere, tamen cum sint ea quae moveantur.
480 his igitur rebus retractis terra repente, maxuma qua nunc se ponti plaga caerulea tendit,
succidit et salso suffudit gurgite fossas.
inque dies quanto circum magis aetheris aestus et radii solis cogebant undique terram 485 verberibus crebris extrema ad limina in artum, in medio ut propulsa suo condensa coiret, tam magis expressus salsus de corpore sudor augebat mare manando camposque natantis, et tanto magis illa foras elapsa volabant 490 corpora multa vaporis et aeris altaque caeli densebant procul a terris fulgentia templa.
sidebant campi, crescebant montibus altis ascensus; neque enim poterant subsidere saxa nec pariter tantundem omnes succumbere partis.

495 Sic igitur terrae concreto corpore pondus constitit atque omnis mundi quasi limus in imum confluxit gravis et subsedit funditus ut faex;
inde mare inde aer inde aether ignifer ipse corporibus liquidis sunt omnia pura relictam, 500 et leviora aliis alia, et liquidissimus aether atque levissimus aerias super influit auras, nec liquidum corpus turbantibus aeris auris commiscet; sinit haec violentis omnia verti turbinibus, sinit incertis turbare procellis, 505 ipse suos ignis certo fert impete labens.
nam modice fluere atque uno posse aethera nisu significat Pontos, mare certo quod fluit aestu unum labendi conservans usque tenorem.

Motibus astrorum nunc quae sit causa canamus.

510 principio magnus caeli si vortitur orbis, ex utraque polum parti premere aera nobis dicendum est extraque tenere et claudere utrimque;
inde alium supra fluere atque intendere eodem quo volvenda micant aeterni sidera mundi; 515 aut alium super, contra qui subvehat orbem,
ut fluvios versare rotas atque haustra videmus.
est etiam quoque uti possit caelum omne manere in statione, tamen cum lucida signa ferantur;
sive quod inclusi rapidi sunt aetheris aestus 520 quaerentesque viam circum versantur et ignes passim per caeli volvunt summania templa;
sive aliunde fluens alicunde extrinsecus aer versat agens ignis; sive ipsi serpere possunt quo cuiusque cibus vocat atque invitat euntis, 525 flammea per caelum pascentis corpora passim.
nam quid in hoc mundo sit eorum ponere certum difficile est; sed quid possit fiatque per omne
in variis mundis varia ratione creatis,
id doceo plurisque sequor disponere causas, 530 motibus astrorum quae possint esse per omne;
e quibus una tamen siet hic quoque causa necessest quae vegeat motum signis; sed quae sit earum praecipere hautquaquamst pedetemtim progredientis.

Terraque ut in media mundi regione quiescat, 535 evanescere paulatim et decrescere pondus

convenit, atque aliam naturam super habere ex ineunte aevo coniunctam atque uniter aptam partibus aeris mundi quibus insita vivit.

propterea non est oneri neque deprimit auras ;
540 ut sua cuique homini nullo sunt pondere membra nec caput est oneri collo nec denique totum corporis in pedibus pondus sentimus inesse ;

at quaecumque foris veniunt in postaque nobis pondera sunt laedunt, permulto saepe minora.

545 usque adeo magni refert quid quaeque queat res.
sic igitur tellus non est aliena repente allata atque auris aliunde obiecta alienis, sed pariter prima concepta ab origine mundi certaque pars eius, quasi nobis membra videntur.

550 praetera grandi tonitru concussa repente, terra supra quae se sunt concutit omnia motu :
quod facere haut ulla posset ratione, nisi esset partibus aeris mundi caeloque revincta.

nam communibus inter se radicibus haerent 555 ex ineunte aevo coniuncta atque uniter apta.

nonne vides etiam quam magno pondere nobis sustineat corpus tenuissima vis animai propterea quia tam coniuncta atque uniter apta est ?
denique iam saltu pernici tollere corpus 560 quid potis est nisi vis animi quae membra gubernat ?

iamne vides quantum tenuis natura valere possit, ubi est coniuncta gravi cum corpore, ut aer coniunctus terris et nobis est animi vis ?

Nec nimio solis maior rota nec minor ardor 565 esse potest, nostris quam sensibus esse videtur.
nam quibus e spatiis cumque ignes lumina possunt adicere et calidum membris adflare vaporem, nil illa his intervallis de corpore libant flammārum, nil ad speciem est contractior ignis.
570 proinde, calor quoniam solis lumenque profusum perveniunt nostros ad sensus et loca mulcent, forma quoque hinc solis debet filumque videri,

nil adeo ut possis plus aut minus addere, vere.

575 lunaque sive notho fertur loca lumine lustrans sive suam proprio iactat de corpore lucem, quidquid id est, nilo fertur maiore figura quam, nostris oculis qua cernimus, esse videtur.

nam prius omnia, quae longe semota tuemur

580 aera per multum, specie confusa videntur quam mi(nui) filum. qua propter luna necesse est, quandoquidem claram speciem certamque figuram praebet, ut est oris extremis cumque notata quantaque quantast hinc nobis videatur in alto.

585 postremo quoscumque vides hinc aetheris ignes ;
quandoquidem quoscumque in terris cernimus (ignes),
dum tremor est clarus, dum cernitur ardor eorum, perparvom quiddam interdum mutare videtur
alteram utram in partem filum, quo longius absunt ;

590 scire licet perquam pauxillo posse minores esse vel exigua maioris parte breve.

594

Illud item non est mirandum, qua ratione tantulus ille queat tantum sol mittere lumen, quod maria ac terras omnis caelumque rigando 595 compleat et calido perfundat cuncta vapore.

590

597 nam licet hinc mundi patefactum totius unum largiflum fontem scatere atque erumpere lumen, ex omni mundo quia sic elementa vaporis

593

600 undique convenient et sic coniectus eorum confluit, ex uno capite hic ut profluat ardor.

nonne vides etiam quam late parvus aquai prata riget fons interdum campisque redundet ?
est etiam quoque uti non magno solis ab igni

605 aera percipiat calidis fervoribus ardor, opportunus ita est si forte et idoneus aer,
ut queat accendi parvis ardoribus ictus ;
quod genus interdum segetes stipulamque videmus accidere ex una scintilla incendia passim.

610 forsitan et rosea sol alte lampade lucens possideat multum caecis fervoribus ignem circum se, nullo qui sit fulgore notatus,

595

aestifer ut tantum radiorum exaugeat ictum.

Nec ratio solis simplex (et) recta patescit,

- 615 quo pacto aestivis e partibus aegocerotis
 brumalis adeat flexus atque inde revertens cancri se ut vertat metas ad solstitialis, lunaque mensibus id spatium videatur obire,
 annua sol in quo consumit tempora cursu.
 620 non, inquam, simplex his rebus redditus causast.
 nam fieri vel cum primis id posse videtur,
 Democriti quod sancta viri sententia ponit,
 quanto quaeque magis sint terram sidera propter,
 tanto posse minus cum caeli turbine ferri; 625 evanescere enim rapidas illius et acris imminui super viris, ideoque relinqui paulatim solem cum posteriorib[us] signis, inferior multo quod sit quam fervida signa.
 et magis hoc lunam : quanto demissior eius 630 cursus abest procul a caelo terrisque propinquat, tanto posse minus cum signis tendere cursum.
 flaccidiore etiam quanto iam turbine fertur inferior quam sol, tanto magis omnia signa hanc adipiscuntur circum praeterque feruntur.
 635 propterea fit ut haec ad signum quodque reverti mobilius videatur, ad hanc quia signa revisunt.
 fit quoque ut e mundi transversis partibus aer alternis certo fluere alter tempore possit, qui queat aestivis solem detrudere signis 640 brumalis usque ad flexus gelidumque rigorem, et qui reiciat gelidis a frigoris umbris aestiferas usque in partis et fervida signa.
 et ratione pari lunam stellasque putandumst,
 quae volvunt magnos in magnis orbibus annos, 645 aeribus posse alternis e partibus ire.
 nonne vides etiam diversis nubila ventis diversas ire in partis inferna supernis ?
 qui minus illa queant per magnos aetheris orbis aestibus inter se diversis sidera ferri ?

650 At nox obruit ingenti caligine terras, aut ubi de longo cursu sol ultima caeli impulit atque suos efflavit languidus ignis concussos itere et labefactos aere multo, aut quia sub terras cursum convertere cogit 55 vis eadem, supra quae terras pertulit orbem.

Tempore item certo roseam Matuta per oras aetheris auroram differt et lumina pandit, aut quia sol idem, sub terras ille revertens,
 anticipat caelum radiis accendere temptans, 50 aut quia convenient ignes et semina multa confluere ardoris consuerunt tempore certo, quae faciunt solis nova semper lumina gigni;
 quod genus Idaeis fama est e montibus altis
 dispersos ignis orienti lumine cerni, 55 inde coire globum quasi in unum et conficere orbem.
 nec tamen illud in his rebus mirabile debet esse, quod haec ignis tam certo tempore possunt semina confluere et solis reparare nitorem.
 multa videmus enim, certo quae tempore fiunt 60 omnibus in rebus. florescunt tempore certo arbusta et certo dimittunt tempore florem.
 nec minus in certo dentes cadere imperat aetas tempore et in pubem molli pubescere veste et pariter mollem malis demittere barbam.
 65 fulmina postremo nix imbres nubila venti non nimis incertis fiunt in partibus anni.
 namque ubi sic fuerunt causarum exordia prima atque ita res mundi decidere ab origine prima, consequē quoque iam redeunt ex ordine certo.
 70 Crescere itemque dies licet et tabescere noctes, et minui luces, cum sumant augmina noctes,
 aut quia sol idem sub terras atque superne imparibus currens amfractibus aetheris oras partit et in partis non aequas dividit orbem, 75 et quod ab alterutra detraxit parte, reponit eius in adversa tanto plus parte relatus, donec ad id signum caeli pervenit, ubi anni nodus nocturnas exaequat lucibus umbras.
 nam, medio cursu flatus aquilonis et austri, 80 distincte aequato caelum discrimine metas

propter signiferi posituram totius orbis,
annua sol in quo concludit tempora serpens,
obliquo terras et caelum lumine lustrans,
ut ratio declarat eorum qui loca caeli 695 omnia dispositis signis ornata notarunt.
aut quia crassior est certis in partibus aer,
sub terris ideo tremulum iubar haesitat ignis nec penetrare potest facile atque emergere ad ortus.

propterea noctes hiberno tempore longae

700 cessant, dum veniat radiatum insigne diei.
aut etiam, quia sic alternis partibus anni tardius et citius consuerunt confluere ignes qui faciunt solem certa de surgere parte, propterea fit uti videantur dicere verum

705 Luna potest solis radiis percussa nitere inque dies magis (id) lumen convertere nobis ad speciem, quantum solis secedit ab orbi, donique eum contra pleno bene lumine fulsit
atque oriens obitus eius super edita vidit;

710 inde minutatim retro quasi condere lumen debet item, quanto propius iam solis ad ignem labitur ex alia signorum parte per orbem;
ut faciunt, lunam qui fingunt esse pilai consimilem cursusque viam sub sole tenere.

715 est etiam quare proprio cum lumine possit volvier et varias splendoris reddere formas.
corpus enim licet esse aliud quod fertur et una labitur omnimodis occursans officiensque nec potis est cerni, quia cassum lumine fertur.

720 versarie potest, globus ut, si forte, pilai dimidia ex parti candenti lumine tinctus, versandoque globum variantis edere formas, donique eam partem, quaecumque est ignibus aucta,
ad speciem vertit nobis oculosque patentis;

725 inde minutatim retro contorquet et aufert luciferam partem glomeraminis atque pilai;
ut Babylonica Chaldæum doctrina refutans astrologorum artem contra convincere tendit, proinde quasi id fieri nequeat quod pugnat uterque aut minus hoc illo sit cur amplectier ausis.

 denique cur nequeat semper nova luna creari
 ordine formarum certo certisque figuris inque dies privos aborisci quaeque creata atque alia illius reparari in parte locoque, 35 difficilest ratione docere et vincere verbis, ordine cum (possint) tam certo multa creari.
 it ver et Venus, et Veneris praenuntius ante
 pennatus graditur, zephyri vestigia propter
 Flora quibus mater praespargens. ante viai 40 cuncta coloribus egregiis et odoribus opplet.
 inde loci sequitur calor aridus et comes una pulverulenta Ceres (et) etesia flabra aquilonum.
 inde autumnus adit, graditur simul Euhius Euan.
 inde aliae tempestates ventique secuntur, 45 altitonans Voltumnus et austus fulmine pollens.
 tandem bruma nives adfert pigrumque rigorem reddit hiemps, sequitur crepitans hanc dentibus algor.
 quo minus est mirum si certo tempore luna gignitur et certo deletur tempore rusus, 50 cum fieri possint tam certo tempore multa.
 Solis item quoque defectus lunaeque latebras pluribus e causis fieri tibi posse putandumst.
 nam cur luna queat terram secludere solis lumine et a terris altum caput obstruere ei, 55 obiciens caecum radiis ardentibus orbem ;
 tempore eodem aliut facere id non posse putetur corpus quod cassum labatur lumine semper ?
 solque suos etiam dimittere languidus ignis tempore cur certo nequeat recreareque lumen, 60 cum loca praeterit flammis infesta per auras, quae faciunt ignis interstingui atque perire ?
 et cur terra queat lunam spoliare vicissim lumine et oppressum solem super ipsa tenere, menstrua dum rigidas coni perlabbitur umbras ;
 65 tempore eodem aliut nequeat succurrere lunae corpus vel supra solis perlabilis orbem, quod radios interrupat lumenque profusum ?

- et tamen ipsa suo si fulget luna nitore,
 cur nequeat certa mundi languescere parte, 770 dum loca luminibus propriis inimica per exit?
- 772 Quod superest, quoniam magni per caerulea mundi qua fieri quicquid posset ratione resolvi, solis uti varios cursus lunaeque meatus 775 noscere possemus quae vis et causa cieret, quo modo (possent) effecto lumine obire et neque opinantis tenebris obducere terras, cum quasi conivent et aperto lumine rursum
 omnia convisunt clara loca candida luce, 780 nunc redeo ad mundi novitatem et mollia terrae arva, novo fetu quid primum in luminis oras tollere et incertis crerint committere ventis.
 Principio genus herbarum viridemque nitorem
 terra dedit circum collis camposque per omnis, 785 florida fulserunt viridanti prata colore, arboribusque datumst variis exinde per auras crescendi magnum inmissis certamen habenis.
 ut pluma atque pili primum saetaeque creatur quadripedum membris et corpore pennipotentum, 790 sic nova tum tellus herbas virgultaque primum sustulit, inde loci mortalia saecla creavit multa modis multis varia ratione coorta.
 nam neque de caelo cecidisse animalia possunt nec terrestria de salsis exisse lacunis.
 795 linquitur ut merito maternum nomen adepta terra sit, e terra quoniam sunt cuncta creata.
 multaque nunc etiam existunt animalia terris imbribus et calido solis concreta vapore;
 quo minus est mirum si tum sunt plura coorta 800 et maiora, nova tellure atque aethere adulta.
 principio genus alituum variaeque volucres ova relinquebant exclusae tempore verno, folliculos ut nunc teretis aestate cicadae
 lincunt sponte sua victum vitamque petentes.
 805 tum tibi terra dedit primum mortalia saecla.
 multus enim calor atque umor superabat in arvis.
 hoc ubi quaeque loci regio opportuna dabatur, crescebant uteri terram radicibus apti;

 quo ubi tempore maturo patefecerat aetas 10 infantum fugiens umorem aurasque petessens, convertebat ibi natura foramina terrae et sucum venis cogebat fundere apertis consimilem lactis, sicut nunc femina quaeque cum peperit, dulci repletur lacte, quod omnis 15 impetus in mammae convertitur ille alimenti.
 terra cibum pueris, vestem vapor, herba cubile praebebat multa et molli lanugine abundans.
 at novitas mundi nec frigora dura ciebat
 nec nimios aestus nec magnis viribus auras.
 20 omnia enim pariter crescunt et robora sumunt.

Quare etiam atque etiam maternum nomen adepta terra tenet merito, quoniam genus ipsa creavit humanum atque animal prope certo tempore fudit omne quod in magnis bacchatur montibu' passim, 25 aeriasque simul volucres variantibu' formis.
 sed quia finem aliquam pariendi debet habere,
 destitit, ut mulier spatio defessa vetusto.
 mutat enim mundi naturam totius aetas
 ex alioque aliis status excipere omnia debet, 30 nec manet ulla sui similis res: omnia migrant,
 omnia commutat natura et vertere cogit.
 namque aliut putrescit et aevo debile languet,
 porro aliut (suc)crescit et (e) contemptibus exit.
 sic igitur mundi naturam totius aetas 35 mutat et ex alio terram status excipit alter;
 quod tulit ut nequeat, possit quod non tulit ante.

Multaque tum tellus etiam portenta creare conatast mira facie membrisque coorta, androgynum, interutasque nec utrum, utrimque remotum, 40 orba pedum partim, manuum viduata vicissim, muta sine ore etiam, sine voltu caeca reperta, vinctaque membrorum per totum corpus adhaesu, nec facere ut possent quicquam nec cedere quoquam
 nec vitare malum nec sumere quod foret usus.
 45 cetera de genere hoc monstra ac portenta creabat, nequicquam, quoniam natura absterruit auctum

- nec potuere cupitum aetatis tangere florem nec reperire cibum nec iungi per Veneris res.
 multa videmus enim rebus concurrere debere, 850 ut propagando possint procudere saecla ;
 pabula primum ut sint, genitalia deinde per artus semina qua possint membris manare remissa ;
 feminaque ut maribus coniungi possit, habere
 mutua qui mutant inter se gaudia uterque.
- 855 Multaque tum interiisse animantium saecla necessest nec potuisse propagando procudere prolem.
 nam quaecumque vides vesci vitalibus auris, aut dolus aut virtus aut denique mobilitas est
 ex ineunte aevo genus id tuta(ta) reservans.
- 860 multaque sunt, nobis ex utilitate sua quae commendata manent, tutelae tradita nostrae.
 principio genus acre leonum saevaque saecla tutatast virtus, volpes dolus et fuga cervos.
 at levisomna canum fido cum pectore corda 865 et genus omne quod est veterino semine partum lanigeraeque simul pecudes et bucera saecla omnia sunt hominum tutelae tradita, Memmi.
 nam cupide fugere feras pacemque secuta
 sunt et larga suo sine pabula parta labore,
- 870 quae damus utilitatis eorum praemia causa.
 at quis nil horum tribuit natura, nec ipsa sponte sua possent ut vivere nec dare nobis utilitatem aliquam quare pateremur eorum praesidio nostro pasci genus esseque tutum, 875 scilicet haec aliis praedae lucroque iacebant indupedita suis fatalibus omnia vinculis, donec ad interitum genus id natura redegit.
- Sed neque Centauri fuerunt, nec tempore in ullo esse queunt duplice natura et corpore bino 880 ex alienigenis membris compacta, potestas hinc illinc partis ut non par esse potissit.
 id licet hinc quamvis hebeti cognoscere corde.
 principio circum tribus actis impiger annis floret ecus, puer hautquaquam ; nam saepe etiam nunc 885 ubera mammarum in somnis lactantia quaeret.

post ubi ecum validae vires aetate senecta membraque deficiunt fugienti languida vita, tum demum pueris aevo florente iuventas occipit et molli vestit lanugine malas.

- 890 ne forte ex homine et veterino semine equorum
 confieri credas Centauros posse neque esse, aut rabidis canibus succinctas semimarinis corporibus Scyllas et cetera de genere horum, inter se quorum discordia membra videmus;
- 895 quae neque florescunt pariter nec robora sumunt
 corporibus neque prociunt aetate senecta nec simili Venere ardescunt nec moribus unis conveniunt, neque sunt eadem iucunda per artus.
 quippe videre licet pinguescere saepe cicuta
- 900 barbigeras pecudes, homini quae est acre venenum.
 flamma quidem (vero) cum corpora fulva leonum tam soleat torrere atque urere quam genus omne visceris in terris quodcumque et sanguinis extet, qui fieri potuit, triplici cum corpore ut una,
- 905 prima leo, postrema draco, media ipsa Chimaera ore foras acrem flaret de corporeflammam?
 quare etiam tellure nova caeloque recenti talia qui fingit potuisse animalia gigni, nixus in hoc uno novitatis nomine inani,
- 910 multa licet simili ratione effutiat ore,
 aurea tum dicat per terras flumina vulgo fluxisse et gemmis florere arbusta suësse aut hominem tanto membrorum esse impete natum, trans maria alta pedum nisus ut ponere posset
- 915 et manibus totum circum se vertere caelum.
 nam quod multa fuere in terris semina rerum tempore quo primum tellus animalia fudit, nil tamen est signi mixtas potuisse creari
 inter se pecudes compactaque membra animantum,
- 920 propterea quia quae de terris nunc quoque abundant herbarum genera ac fruges arbustaque laeta non tamen inter se possunt complexa creari, sed res quaeque suo ritu procedit et omnes
 foedere naturae certo discrimina servant.

925     At genus humanum multo fuit illud in arvis durius, ut decuit, tellus quod dura creasset, et maioribus et solidis magis ossibus intus fundatum, validis aptum per viscera nervis, nec facile ex aestu nec frigore quod caperetur 930     nec novitate cibi nec labi corporis ulla.
 multaque per caelum solis volventia lustra volgivago vitam tractabant more ferarum.
 nec robustus erat curvi moderator aratri
 quisquam, nec scibat ferro molirier arva 935     nec nova defodere in terram virgulta neque altis arboribus veteres decidere falcibus ramos.
 quod sol atque imbris dederant, quod terra crearat sponte sua, satis id placabat pectora donum.
 glandiferas inter curabant corpora quecūs 940     plerumque; et quae nunc hiberno tempore cernis arbita puniceo fieri matura colore, plurima tum tellus etiam maiora ferebat.
 multaque praeterea novitas tum florida mundi pabula dura tulit, miseris mortalibus ampla.
 945     at sedare sitim fluvii fontesque vocabant, ut nunc montibus e magnis decursus aquai claru' citat late sipientia saecula ferarum.
 denique nota vagi silvestria templa tenebant
 nympharum, quibus e scibant umori' fluenta 950     lubrica proluvie larga lavere umida saxa, umida saxa, super viridi stillantia musco,
 et partim plano scatere atque erumpere campo.
 necdum res igni scibant tractare neque uti
 pellibus et spoliis corpus vestire ferarum, 955     sed nemora atque cavos montis silvasque colebant et frutices inter condebant squalida membra verbera ventorum vitare imbrisque coacti.
 nec commune bonum poterant spectare neque ullis
 moribus inter se scibant nec legibus uti.
 960     quod cuique obtulerat praedae fortuna, ferebat sponte sua sibi quisque valere et vivere doctus.
 et Venus in silvis iungebat corpora amantium;
 conciliabat enim vel mutua quamque cupidio

- vel violenta viri vis atque impensa libido 965 vel pretium, glandes atque arbita vel pira lecta.
 et manuum mira freti virtute pedumque consecabantur silvestria saecla ferarum missilibus saxis et magno pondere clavae ;
 multaque vincebant, vitabant pauca latebris ; 970 saetigerisque pares subus silvestria membra nuda (da)bant terrae nocturno tempore capti, circum se foliis ac frondibus involventes.
 nec plangore diem magno soleisque per agros quaerebant pavidi palantes noctis in umbris, 975 sed taciti respectabant somnoque sepulti,
 dum rosea face sol inferret lumina caelo.
 a parvis quod enim consuerant cernere semper alterno tenebras et lucem tempore gigni, non erat ut fieri posset mirarier umquam 980 nec diffidere ne terras aeterna teneret nox in perpetuum detracto lumine solis.
 sed magis illud erat curae, quod saecla ferarum infestam miseris faciebant saepe quietem.
 eiectique domo fugiebant saxea tecta 985 spumigeri suis adventu validique leonis atque intempesta cedebant nocte paventes hospitibus saevis instrata cubilia fronde.
 Nec nimio tum plus quam nunc mortalia saecla
 dulcia linquebant labentis lumina vitae.
 990 unus enim tum quisque magis deprensus eorum pabula viva feris praebebat, dentibus haustus, et nemora ac montis gemitu silvasque replebat
 viva videns vivo sepeliri viscera busto.
 at quos effugium servarat corpore adeso, 995 posterius tremulas super ulcera taetra tenentes palmas horrieris accibant vocibus Orcum, donique eos vita privarant vermina saeva expertis opis, ignaros quid volnera vellent.
 at non multa virum sub signis milia ducta 1000 una dies dabat exitio nec turbida ponti aequora lidebant navis ad saxa virosque.
 hic temere incassum frustra mare saepe coortum saevibat leviterque minas ponebat inanis, nec poterat quemquam placidi pellacia ponti 1005 subdola pellicere in fraudem ridentibus undis.

 improba navigii ratio tum caeca iacebat.
 tum penuria deinde cibi languentia leto membra dabat, contra nunc rerum copia mersat.
 illi (in)prudentes ipsi sibi saepe venenum 1010 vergebant, nunc dant (aliis) sollertius ipsi.

Inde casas postquam ac pellis ignemque pararunt, et mulier coniuncta viro concessit in unum

cognita sunt prolemque ex se videre creatam,
 tum genus humanum primum mollescere coepit.
 1015 ignis enim curavit ut alsia corpora frigus non ita iam possent caeli sub tegmine ferre, et Venus inminuit viris puerique parentum blanditiis facile ingenium fregere superbum.
 tunc et amicitiem coeperunt iungere aentes 1020 finitimi inter se nec laedere nec violari, et pueros commendarunt muliebreque saeculum, vocibus et gestu cum balbe significant imbecillorum esse aecum misererier omnis.
 nec tamen omnimodis poterat concordia gigni, 1025 sed bona magna pars servabat foedera caste; aut genus humanum iam tum foret omne peremptum
 nec potuisse adhuc perducere saecula propago.

At varios linguae sonitus natura subegit
 mittere et utilitas expressit nomina rerum, 1030 non alia longe ratione atque ipsa videtur protrahere ad gestum pueros infantia linguae, cum facit ut digito quae sint praesentia monstrent.
 sentit enim vis quisque suas quoad possit abuti.
 cornua nata prius vitulo quam frontibus extent, 1035 illis iratus petit atque infestus inurget.
 at catuli pantherarum scymnique leonum unguibus ac pedibus iam tum morsuque repugnant, vix etiam cum sunt dentes unguesque creati.
 alituum porro genus alis omne videmus 1040 fidere et a pinnis tremulum petere auxiliatum.

proinde putare aliquem tum nomina distribuisse rebus et inde homines didicisse vocabula prima, desiperest. nam cur hic posset cuncta notare
vocibus et varios sonitus emittere linguae, 1045 tempore eodem alii facere id non quisse putentur?
praeterea si non alii quoque vocibus usi
inter se fuerant, unde insita notities est utilitatis et unde data est huic prima potestas, quid vellet facere ut sciret animoque videret?
1050 cogere item pluris unus victosque domare non poterat, rerum ut perdiscere nomina vellent;
nec ratione docere ulla suadereque surdis, quid sit opus facto, facilest; neque enim paterentur
nec ratione ulla sibi ferrent amplius auris 1055 vocis inauditos sonitus obtundere frustra.
postremo quid in hac mirabile tantoperest re,
si genus humanum, cui vox et lingua vigeret,
pro vario sensu varia res voce notaret?
cum pecudes mutae, cum denique saecla ferarum 1060 dissimilis soleant voces variasque ciere, cum metus aut dolor est et cum iam gaudia gliscunt.
quippe etenim licet id rebus cognoscere apertis.
inritata canum cum primum magna Molossum
mollia ricta fremunt duros nudantia dentes, 1065 longe alio sonitu rabie *<re>*stricta minantur, et cum iam latrant et vocibus omnia complent.
et catulos blande cum lingua lambere temptant aut ubi eos lactant pedibus morsuque petentes suspensis teneros imitantur dentibus haustus, 1070 longe alio pacto gannitu vocis adulant, et cum deserti baubantur in aedibus aut cum plorantis fugiunt summisso corpore plagas.
denique non hinnitus item differre videtur,
inter equas ubi equus florenti aetate iuvencus 1075 pinnigeri saevit calcaribus ictus amoris, et fremitum patulis ubi naribus edit ad arma,
et cum sic alias concussis artibus hinnit?
postremo genus alituum variaeque volucres, accipitres atque ossifragae mergique marinis

1080 fluctibus in salso victum vitamque petentes, longe alias alio iaciunt in tempore voces,
 et quom de victu certant praedaque repugnant.
 et partim mutant cum tempestatibus una raucisonos cantus, cornicum ut saecula vetusta 1085 corvorumque greges ubi aquam dicuntur et imbris poscere et interdum ventos aurasque vocare.
 ergo si varii sensus animalia cogunt,
 muta tamen cum sint, varias emittere voces,
 quanto mortalis magis aecumst tum potuisse 1090 dissimilis alia atque alia res voce notare !

Illud in his rebus tacitus ne forte requiras,
 fulmen detulit in terram mortalibus ignem primitus, inde omnis flamarum diditur ardor.
 multa videmus enim caelestibus incita flammis 1095 fulgere, cum caeli donavit plaga vapore.
 et ramosa tamen cum ventis pulsa vacillans
 aestuat in ramos incumbens arboris arbor, exprimitur validis extritus viribus ignis et micat interdum flammai fervidus ardor, 1100 mutua dum inter se rami stirpesque teruntur.
 quorum utrumque dedisse potest mortalibus ignem.
 inde cibum coquere ac flammae mollire vapore sol docuit, quoniam mitescere multa videbant verberibus radiorum atque aestu victa per agros.

1105 Inque dies magis hi victum vitamque priorem commutare novis monstrabant rebus et igni, ingenio qui praestabant et corde vigebant.
 condere coeperunt urbis arcemque locare praesidium reges ipsi sibi perfugiumque, 1110 et pecus atque agros divisere atque dedere pro facie cuiusque et viribus ingenioque ;
 nam facies multum valuit viresque vigebant.
 posterius res inventast aurumque repertum,
 quod facile et validis et pulchris dempsit honorem ;

1115 divitioris enim sectam plerumque secuntur quamlibet et fortes et pulchro corpore creti.
 quod si quis vera vitam ratione gubernet,
 divitiae grandes homini sunt vivere parce

- aequo animo; neque enim est umquam pénuria parvi.
 1120 at claros homines voluerunt se atque potentes, ut fundamento stabili fortuna maneret et placidam possent opulentí degere vitam, nequicquam, quoniam ad summum succedere honorem
 certantes iter infestum fecere viai, 1125 et tamen e summo, quasi fulmen, deicit ictos invidia interdum contemptim in Tartara taetra;
 invidia quoniam, ceu fulmine, summa vaporant plerumque et quae sunt aliis magis edita cumque;
 ut satius multo iam sit parere quietum 1130 quam regere imperio res velle et regna tenere.
 proinde sine incassum defessi sanguine sudent,
 angustum per iter luctantes ambitionis;
 quandoquidem sapiunt alieno ex ore petuntque
 res ex auditis potius quam sensibus ipsis, 1135 nec magis id nunc est neque erit mox quam fuit ante.
 Ergo regibus occisis subversa iacebat pristina maiestas soliorum et sceptrá superba, et capití summi praeclarum insigne cruentum
 sub pedibus vulgi magnum lugebat honorem; 1140 nam cupide conculcatur nimis ante metutum.
 res itaque ad summam faecem turbasque redibat,
 imperium sibi cum ac summatum quisque petebat.
 inde magistratum partim docuere creare
 iuraque constituere, ut vellent legibus uti.
 1145 nam genus humanum, defessum vi colere aevom, ex inimiciis languebat; quo magis ipsum sponte sua cecidit sub leges artaque iura.
 acrius ex ira quod enim se quisque parabat ulcisci quam nunc concessumst legibus aequis, 1150 hanc ob rem est homines pertaesum vi colere aevom.
 inde metus maculat poenarum praemia vitae.
 circumretit enim vis atque iniuria quemque atque, unde exortast, ad eum plerumque revertit, nec facilest placidam ac pacatam degere vitam 1155 qui violat factis communia foedera pacis.
 etsi fallit enim divom genus humanumque,
 perpetuo tamen id fore clam diffidere debet;

quippe ubi se multi per somnia saepe loquentes
 aut morbo delirantes protraxe ferantur 1160 et celata (diu) in medium et peccata dedisse.

Nunc quae causa déum per magnas numina gentis pervulgarit et ararum compleverit urbís suscipiendaque curarit sollemnia sacra, quae nunc in magnis florent sacra rebu' locisque, 1165 unde etiam nunc est mortalibus insitus horror qui delubra deum nova toto suscitat orbi terrarum et festis cogit célébrare diebus, non ita difficilest rationem reddere verbis.
 quippe etenim iam tum divom mortalia saecla 1170 egregias animo facies vigilante videbant et magis in somnis mirando corporis auctu.
 his igitur sensum tribuebant propterea quod membra movere videbantur vocesque superbas mittere pro facie praecclara et viribus amplis.
 1175 aeternamque dabant vitam, quia semper eorum subpeditabatur facies et forma manebat, et tamen omnino quod tantis viribus auctos
 non temere ulla vi convinci posse putabant.
 fortunisque ideo longe praestare putabant, 1180 quod mortis timor haut quemquam vexaret eorum, et simul in somnis quia multa et mira videbant efficere et nullum capere ipsos inde laborem.
 praeterea caeli rationes ordine certo et varia annorum cernebant tempora verti 1185 nec poterant quibus id fieret cognoscere causis.
 ergo perfugium sibi habebant omnia divis tradere et illorum nutu facere omnia flecti.
 in caeloque deum sedes et templa locarunt,
 per caelum volvi quia nox et luna videtur, 1190 luna dies et nox et noctis signa severa noctivagaeque faces caeli flammaeque volantes, nubila sol imbres nix venti fulmina grando et rapidi fremitus et murmura magna minarum.
 O genus infelix humanum, talia divis 1195 cum tribuit facta atque iras adiunxit acerbas !
 quantos tum gemitus ipsi sibi, quantaque nobis volnera, quas lacrimas peperere minorib' nostris !

 nec pietas ullast velatum saepe videri vertier ad lapidem atque omnis accedere ad aras 1200 nec procumbere humi prostratum et pandere palmas ante deum delubra nec aras sanguine multo spargere quadrupedum nec votis nectere vota, sed mage pacata posse omnia mente tueri.
     nam cum suspicimus magni' caelestia mundi 1205 templa, super stellisque micantibus aethera fixum, et venit in mentem solis lunaeque viarum,
     tunc aliis oppressa malis in pectora cura illa quoque expergefactum caput erigere infit, nequae forte deum nobis inmensa potestas 1210 sit, vario motu quae candida sidera verset.
     temptat enim dubiam mentem rationis egestas,
     ecquaenam fuerit mundi genitalis origo, et simul ecquae sit finis quoad moenia mundi
     solliciti motus hunc possint ferre laborem.
 1215 an divinitus aeterna donata salute
     perpetuo possint aevi labentia tractu
     inmensi validas aevi contemnere viris.
     praeterea cui non animus formidine divum contrahitur, cui non correput membra pavore, 1220 fulminis horribili cum plaga torrida tellus contremit et magnum percurrunt murmura caelum ?
     non populi gentesque tremunt, regesque superbi corripiunt divum percussi membra timore, nequid ob admissum foede dictumve superbe 1225 poenarum grave sit solvendi tempus adactum ?
     summa etiam cum vis violenti per mare venti induperatorem classis super aequora verrit cum validis pariter legionibus atque elephantis, non divom pacem votis adit ac prece quaesit 1230 ventorum pavidus paces animasque secundas, nequiquam, quoniam violento turbine saepe correptus nilo fertur minus ad vada leti ?
     usque adeo res humanas vis abdita quaedam opterit et pulchros fascis saevasque secures 1235 proculcare ac ludibrio sibi habere videtur.

denique sub pedibus tellus cum tota vacillat concussaeque cadunt urbes dubiaeque minantur, quid mirum si se temnunt mortalia saecla
 atque potestatis magnas mirasque relinqunt 1240 in rebus viris divum, quae cuncta gubernent?
 Quod superest, aes atque aurum ferrumque repertumst et simul argenti pondus plumbique potestas, ignis ubi ingentis silvas ardore cremarat
 montibus in magnis, seu caeli fulmine misso, 1245 sive quod inter se bellum silvestre gerentes hostibus intulerant ignem formidinis ergo, sive quod inducti terrae bonitate volebant pandere agros pinguis et pascua reddere rura, sive feras interficere et ditescere praeda.
 1250 nam fovea atque igni prius est venarier ortum quam saepire plagis saltum canibusque ciere.
 quidquid id est, quacumque e causa flammeus ardor horribili sonitu silvas exederat altis ab radicibus et terram percoxerat igni, 1255 manabat venis ferventibus in loca terrae concava conveniens argenti rivus et auri, aeris item et plumbi. quae cum concreta videbant posterius claro in terra splendere colore, tollebant nitido capti levique lepore 1260 et simili formata videbant esse figura atque lacunarum fuerant vestigia cuique.
 tum penetrabat eos posse haec liquefacta calore quamlibet in formam et faciem decurrere rerum et prorsum quamvis in acuta ac tenvia posse 1265 mucronum duci fastigia procudendo, ut sibi tela parent, silvasque ut caedere possint materiemque dolare et levia radere tigna et terebrare etiam ac pertundere perque forare.
 nec minus argento facere haec auroque parabant 1270 quam validi primum violentis viribus aeris, nequiquam, quoniam cedebat victa potestas nec poterant pariter durum sufferre laborem.
 tum fuit in pretio magis aes aurumque iacebat propter inutilitatem hebeti mucrone retusum.

- 1275 nunc iacet aes, aurum in summum successit honorem.
 sic volvenda aetas commutat tempora rerum.
 quod fuit in pretio, fit nullo denique honore;
 porro aliut succedit et (e) contemptibus exit
 inque dies magis adpetitur floretque repertum 1280 laudibus et miro est mortalis inter honore.
- Nunc tibi quo pacto ferri natura reperta sit facilest ipsi per te cognoscere, Memmi.
 arma antiqua manus ungues dentesque fuerunt et lapides et item silvarum fragmina rami, 1285 et flamma atque ignes, postquam sunt cognita primum.
 posterius ferri vis est aerisque reperta.
 et prior aeris erat quam ferri cognitus usus,
 quo facilis magis est natura et copia maior.
 aere solum terrae tractabant, aereque belli 1290 miscebant fluctus et vulnera vasta serebant et pecus atque agros adimebant; nam facile ollis omnia cedebant armatis nuda et inerma.
 inde minutatim processit ferreus ensis versaque in obprobrium species est falcis ahenae, 1295 et ferro coepere solum proscindere terrae exaequataque sunt creperi certamina belli.
 et prius est armatum in equi condescendere costas et moderarier hunc frenis dextraque vigere quam biiugo curru belli temptare pericla.
 1300 et biugos prius est quam bis coniungere binos et quam falciferos armatum escendere currus.
 inde boves lucas turrito corpore, taetras, anguimanus, belli docuerunt volnera Poeni
 sufferre et magnas Martis turbare catervas.
 1305 sic alid ex alio peperit discordia tristis, horribile humanis quod gentibus esset in armis,
 inque dies belli terroribus addidit augmen.
- Temptarunt etiam tauros in moenere belli expertique sues saevos sunt mittere in hostis.
 1310 et validos partim prae se misere leones cum doctoribus armatis saevisque magistris qui moderarier his possent vinclisque tenere, nequiquam, quoniam permixta caede calentes

turbabant saevi nullo discrimin'e turmas, 1315 terrificas capitum quatientes undique cristas, nec poterant equites fremitu perterrita equorum pectora mulcere et frenis convertere in hostis.
 irritata leae iaciebant corpora saltu undique et adversum venientibus ora petebant 1320 et nec opinantis a tergo deripiebant deplexaeque dabant in terram volnere victos, morsibus adfixae validis atque unguibus uncis.
 iactabantque suos tauri pedibusque terebant et latera ac ventres haubitant super equorum 1325 cornibus et terram minitanti fronte ruebant.
 et validis socios caedebant dentibus apri
 tela infracta suo tingentes sanguine saevi, in se fracta suo tingentes sanguine tela,
 permixtasque dabant equitum peditumque ruinas.
 1330 nam transversa feros exibant dentis adactus iumenta aut pedibus ventos erecta petebant, neququam, quoniam ab nervis succisa videres concidere atque gravi terram consternere casu.
 siquos ante domi domitos satis esse putabant, 1335 effervescere cernebant in rebus agundis volneribus clamore fuga terrore tumultu, nec poterant ullam partem reducere eorum;
 diffugiebat enim varium genus omne ferarum;
 ut nunc saepe boves lucae ferro male mactae 1340 diffugiunt, fera facta suis cum multa dedere.
 si fuit ut facerent: sed vix adducor ut ante non quierint animo praesentire atque videre quam commune malum fieret foedumque, futurum;
 et magis id possis factum contendere in omni, 1345 in variis mundis varia ratione creatis,
 quam certo atque uno terrarum quolibet orbi.
 sed facere id non tam vincendi spe voluerunt,
 quam dare quod gernerent hostes, ipsique perire,
 qui numero diffidebant armisque vacabant.
 1350 Nexilis ante fuit vestis quam textile tegmen.
 textile post ferrumst, quia ferro tela paratur,
 nec ratione alia possunt tam levia gigni insilia ac fusi radii scapique sonantes.

 et facere ante viros lanam natura coegit 1355 quam muliebre genus ; nam longe praestat in arte et sollertia est multo genus omne virile ;
 agricolae donec vitio vertere severi,
 ut muliebribus id manibus concedere vellent
 atque ipsi pariter durum sufferre laborem 1360 atque opere in duro durarent membra manusque.

At specimen sationis et insitionis origo ipsa fuit rerum primum natura creatrix, arboribus quoniam bacae glandesque caducae tempestiva dabant pullorum examina super ;
 1365 unde etiam libitumst stirpis committere ramis et nova defodere in terram virgulta per agros.
 inde aliam atque aliam culturam dulcis agelli temptabant fructusque feros mansuescere terram cernebant indulgendo blandeque colendo.
 1370 inque dies magis in montem succedere silvas cogebant infraque locum concedere cultis, prata lacus rivos segetes vinetaque laeta collibus et campus ut haberent, atque olearum caerulea distinguens inter plaga currere posset 1375 per tumulos et convallis camposque profusa ;
 ut nunc esse vides vario distincta lepore omnia, quae pomis intersita dulcibus ornant arbustisque tenent felicibus opsita circum.

At liquidas avium voces imitarier ore 1380 ante fuit multo quam levia carmina cantu concelebrare homines possent aurisque iuvare.
 et zephyri, cava per calamorum, sibila primum agrestis docuere cavas inflare cicutas.
 inde minutatim dulcis didicere querellas, 1385 tibia quas fundit digitis pulsata canentum,
 avia per nemora ac silvas saltusque reperta, 1390 per loca pastorum deserta atque otia dia.
 haec animos ollis mulcebant atque iuvabant cum satiate cibi; nam tum sunt omnia cordi.
 saepe itaque inter se prostrati in gramine molli propter aquae rivom sub ramis arboris altae

non magnis opibus iucunde corpora habebant, 1395 praesertim cum tempestas ridebat et anni tempora pingebant viridantis floribus herbas.
tum ioca, tum sermo, tum dulces esse cachinni consuerant. agrestis enim tum musa vigebat ;
tum caput atque umeros plexis redimire coronis 1400 floribus et foliis lascivia laeta monebat, atque extra numerum procedere membra moventes duriter et duro terram pede pellere matrem ;
unde oriebantur risus dulcesque cachinni,
omnia quod nova tum magis haec et mira vigebant.
1405 et vigilantibus hinc aderant solacia somno, ducere multimodis voces et flectere cantus et supera calamos unco percurrere labro ;
unde etiam vigiles nunc haec accepta tuentur et numerum servare t̄genus didicere, neque hilo 1410 maiorem interea capiunt dulcedini' fructum quam silvestre genus capiebat terrigenarum.
nam quod adest praesto, nisi quid cognovimus ante suavius, in primis placet et pollere videtur, posteriorque fere melior res illa reperta 1415 perdit et immutat sensus ad pristina quaeque.
sic odium coepit glandis, sic illa relicta strata cubilia sunt herbis et frondibus aucta.
pellis item cecidit vestis contempta ferinae ;
quam reor invidia tali tunc esse repertam, 1420 ut letum insidiis qui gessit primus obiret, et tamen inter eos distractam sanguine multo disperiisse neque in fructum convertere quissee.
tunc igitur pelles, nunc aurum et purpura curis exercent hominum vitam belloque fatigant ; 1425 quo magis in nobis, ut opinor, culpa resedit.
frigus enim nudos sine pellibus excruciat terrigenas ; at nos nil laedit veste carere purpurea atque auro signisque ingentibus apta, dum plebeia tamen sit quae defendere possit.
1430 ergo hominum genus incassum frustraque laborat semper et in curis consumit inanibus aevom, nimirum quia non cognovit quae sit habendi finis et omnino quoad crescat vera voluptas.

idque minutatim vitam provexit in altum

1435 et bellī magnos commovit funditus aestus.

At vigiles mundi magnum versatilē templum sol et luna suo lustrantes lumine circum perdocuere homines annorum tempora verti et certa ratione gerī rem atque ordine certo.

1440 Iam validis saepī degebant turribus aevom et divisa colebatur discretaque tellūs, iam mare velivolis florebat (navibus . . .)
auxilia ac socios iam pacto foedere habebant, carminibus cum res gestas coepere poētæ

1445 tradere; nec multo priu' sunt elementa reperta.
propterea quid sit prius actum respicere aetas nostra nequit, nisi qua ratio vestigia monstrat.

· Navigia atque agri culturas moenia leges
arma vias, vestes, et cetera de genere horum.

1450 praemia, delicias quoque vitae funditus omnis, carmina picturas, et daedala signa polire,
usus et impigrae simul experientia mentis paulatim docuit pedetemtim progredientis.
sic unumquicquid paulatim protrahit aetas

1455 in medium ratioque in luminis erigit oras.
namque alid ex alio clarescere corde videbant,
artibus ad summum donec venere cacumen.

LIBER SEXTVS

---

Primae frugiparos fetus mortalibus aegris dididerunt quondam praeclaro nomine Athenae et recreaverunt vitam legesque rogarunt, et primae dederunt solacia dulcia vitae,
5      cum genuere virum tali cum corde repertum, omnia veridico qui quondam ex ore profudit;
cuius et extincti propter divina reperta divulgata vetus iam ad caelum gloria fertur.
nam cum vidit hic ad victimum quae flagitat usus 10     omnia iam ferme mortalibus esse parata et, proquam posset, vitam consistere tutam, divitiis homines et honore et laude potentis affluere atque bona gnatorum excellere fama,
nec minus esse domi cuiquam tamen anxia corda, 15     atque animi ingratis vitam vexare (sine ulla)
pausa atque infestis cogei saevire querellis, intellegit ibi vitium vas efficere ipsum omniaque illius vitio corrumpier intus quae conlata foris et commoda cumque venirent; 20     partim quod fluxum pertusumque esse videbat, ut nulla posset ratione explerier umquam;
partim quod taetro quasi conspurcare sapore omnia cernebat, quaecumque receperat, intus.
veridicis igitur purgavit pectora dictis 25     et finem statuit cuppedinis atque timoris exposuitque bonum summum quo tendimus omnes quid foret, atque viam monstravit, tramite parvo qua possemus ad id recto contendere cursu, quidve mali foret in rebus mortalib' passim,

o quod fieret naturali varieque volaret seu casu seu vi, quod sic natura parasset, et quibus e portis occurri cuique deceret, et genus humanum frustra plerumque probavit
volvere curarum tristis in pectore fluctus.

5 nam veluti pueri trepidant atque omnia caecis
in tenebris metuunt, sic nos in luce timemus
interdum, nilo quae sunt metuenda magis quam
quae pueri in tenebris pavitant finguntque futura.
hunc igitur terrorem animi tenebrasque necesset 10 non radii solis nec lucida tela diei
discutiant, sed naturae species ratioque.
quo magis incepsum pergam pertexere dictis.

Et quoniam docui mundi mortalia templa esse et nativo consistere corpore caelum, 45 et quaecumque in eo fiunt fierique necesset,

*
pleraque dissolui, quae restant percipe porro, quandoquidem semel insignem concendere currum

*
ventorum existant, placentur omnia rursum

quae fuerint sint placato conversa furore.

50 cetera quae fieri in terris caeloque tuentur mortales, pavidis cum pendent mentib' saepe, et faciunt animos humilis formidine divom depressosque premunt ad terram propterea quod ignorantia causarum conferre deorum
55 cogit ad imperium res et concedere regnum.
58 nam bene qui didicere deos securum agere aevom,
si tamen interea mirantur qua ratione
60 quaeque geri possint, praesertim rebus in illis
quae supera caput aetherii cernuntur in oris, rursus in antiquas referuntur religionis
et dominos acris adsciscunt, omnia posse
quos miseri credunt, ignari quid queat esse,
65 quid nequeat, finita potestas denique cuique

quanam sit rationi atque alte terminus haerens ;
 quo magis errantes caeca ratione feruntur.
 quae nisi respuis ex animo longeque remittis dis indigna putare alienaque pacis eorum,

70 delibata deum per te tibi numina sancta saepe oberunt ; non quo violari summa deum vis possit, ut ex ira poenas petere inbibat acris, sed quia tute tibi placida cum pace quietos constitues magnos irarum volvere fluctus,

75 nec delubra deum placido cum pectore adibis, nec de corpore quae sancto simulacra feruntur
 in mentes hominum divinae nuntia formae, suscipere haec animi tranquilla pace valebis.
 inde videre licet qualis iam vita sequatur.

80 quam quidem ut a nobis ratio verissima longe reiciat, quamquam sunt a me multa profecta, multa tamen restant et sunt ornanda politis versibus ; est ratio caeli <specie>sque tenenda, sunt tempestates et fulmina clara canenda,

85 quid faciant et qua de causa cumque ferantur ;
 ne trepides caeli divisis partibus amens,
 unde volans ignis pervenerit aut in utram se
 verterit hinc partim, quo pacto per loca saepa
 insinuarit, et hinc dominatus ut extulerit se.

90 quorum operum causas nulla ratione videre
 possunt ac fieri divino numine rentur.
 tu mihi supremae praescribta ad candida calcis
 currenti spatium praemonstra, callida musa
 Calliope, requies hominum divomque voluptas,
 95 te duce ut insigni capiam cum laude coronam.

Principio tonitru quatiuntur caerulea caeli propterea quia concurrunt sublime volantes aetheriae nubes contra pugnantibus ventis.
 nec fit enim sonitus caeli de parte serena, 100 verum ubicumque magis denso sunt agmine nubes, tam magis hinc fremitus fit murmure saepe.
 praeterea neque tam condenso corpore nubes esse queunt quam sunt lapides ac ligna, neque auten tam tenues quam sunt nebulae fumique volantes ;

105 nam cadere aut bruto deberent pondere pressae ut lapides, aut ut fumus constare nequirent nec cohibere nives gelidas et grandinis imbris.
dant etiam sonitum patuli super aequora mundi,
carbasus ut quondam magnis intenta theatris 110 dat crepitum malos inter iactata trabesque, interdum perscissa furit petulantibus auris et fragilis sonitus chartarum commeditatur.
id quoque enim genus in tonitru cognoscere possis,
aut ubi suspensam vestem chartasque volantis 115 verberibus venti versant planguntque per auras.
fit quoque enim interdum ut non tam concurrere nubes frontibus adversis possint quam de latere ire diverso motu radentes corpora tractim, aridus unde auris terget sonus ille diuque 120 ducitur, exierunt donec regionibus artis.
Hoc etiam pacto tonitru concussa videntur omnia saepe gravi tremere et divolsa repente maxima dissiluisse capacis moenia mundi, cum subito validi venti conlecta procella 125 nubibus intorsit sese conclusaque ibidem turbine versanti magis ac magis undique nubem cogit uti fiat spisso cava corpore circum, post ubi conminuit vis eius et impetus acer,
tum perterrcrepo sonitu dat scissa fragorem.
130 nec mirum, cum plena animae vensicula parva
saepe ita dat magnum sonitum displosa repente.
Est etiam ratio, cum venti nubila perflant, ut sonitus faciant. etenim ramosa videmus
nubila saepe modis multis atque aspera ferri; 135 scilicet ut, crebram silvam cum flamina cauri perflant, dant sonitum frondes ramique fragorem.
fit quoque ut interdum validi vis incita venti perscindat nubem perfringens impete recto.
nam quid possit ibi flatus manifesta docet res, 140 hic, ubi lenior est, in terra cum tamen alta
arbusta evolvens radicibus haurit ab imis.
sunt etiam fluctus per nubila, qui quasi murmur dant in frangendo graviter; quod item fit in altis fluminibus magnoque mari, cum frangitur aestus.

145 fit quoque, ubi e nubi in nubem vis incidit ardens fulminis, haec multo si forte umore recepit ignem, continuo magno clamore trucidat; ut calidis candens ferrum e fornacibus olim
stridit, ubi in gelidum propere demersimus imbre.
150 aridior porro si nubes accipit ignem, uritur ingenti sonitu succensa repente;
lauricos ut si per montis flamma vagetur turbine ventorum comburens impete magno;
nec res ulla magis quam Phoebi Delphica laurus 155 terribili sonitu flamma crepitante crematur.
denique saepe geli multus fragor atque ruina grandinis in magnis sonitum dat nubibus alte.
ventus enim cum confert, franguntur in artum
concreti montes nimborum et grandine mixti.
160 Fulgit item, nubes ignis cum semina multa excussere suo concursu; ceu lapidem si percutiat lapis aut ferrum; nam tum quoque lumen exilit et claras scintillas dissipat ignis.
sed tonitrum fit uti post auribus accipiamus, 165 fulgere quam cernant oculi, quia semper ad auris tardius adveniunt quam visum quae moveant res.
id licet hinc etiam cognoscere: caedere si quem ancipiti videoas ferro procul arboris auctum, ante fit ut cernas ictum quam plaga per auris 170 det sonitum; sic fulgorem quoque cernimus ante quam tonitrum accipimus, pariter qui mittitur igni
e simili causa, concursu natus eodem.
Hoc etiam pacto volucri loca lumine tingunt
nubes et tremulo tempestas impete fulgit.
175 ventus ubi invasit nubem et versatus ibidem fecit ut ante cavam docui spissescere nubem, mobilitate sua fervescit; ut omnia motu percalefacta vides ardescere, plumbea vero glans etiam longo cursu volvenda liquescit.
180 ergo fervidus hic nubem cum perscidit atram, dissipat ardoris quasi per vim expressa repente semina quae faciunt nictantia fulgura flammae;

inde sonus sequitur qui tardius adlicit auris
 quam quae perveniant oculorum ad lumina nostra.
 185 scilicet hoc densis fit nubibus et simul alte extractis aliis alias super impete miro;
 ne tibi sit frudi quod nos inferne videmus quam sint lata magis quam sursum extracta quid extent.
 contemplator enim, cum montibus adsimulata 190 nubila portabunt venti transversa per auras, aut ubi per magnos montis cumulata videbis insuper esse aliis alia atque urguere superne in statione locata sepultis undique ventis:
 tum poteris magnas moles cognoscere eorum 195 speluncasque velut saxis pendentib' structas cernere, quas venti cum tempestate coorta conplerunt, magno indignantur murmure clausi nubibus in caveisque ferarum more minantur;
 nunc hinc nunc illinc fremitus per nubila mittunt 200 quaerentesque viam circum versantur et ignis semina convolvunt <e> nubibus atque ita cogunt multa rotantque cavis flammam fornacibus intus, donec divolsa fulserunt nube corusci.
 Hac etiam fit uti de causa mobilis ille 205 devolet in terram liquidi color aureus ignis, semina quod nubes ipsas permulta necessust ignis habere; etenim cum sunt umore sine ullo, flammeus est plerumque colos et splendidus ollis.
 quippe etenim solis de lumine multa necescessent 210 concipere, ut merito rubeant ignesque profundant.
 hasce igitur cum ventus agens contritus in unum compressitque locum cogens, expressa profundunt semina quae faciunt flammarie fulgere colores.
 fulgit item, cum rarescant quoque nubila caeli.
 215 nam cum ventus eas leviter diducit euntis dissolutique, cadant ingratis illa necescessent semina quae faciunt fulgorem. tum sine tactro terrore et sonitu fulgit nulloque tumultu.
 Quod superest, <quali> natura praedita constant 220 fulmina, declarant ictus et inusta vaporis signa notaeque gravis halantis sulphuris auras.

ignis enim sunt haec non venti signa neque imbris.
praeterea sae(pe) accendunt quoque tecta domorum et celeri flamma dominantur in aedibus ipsis.

225 hunc tibi subtilem cum primis ignibus ignem constituit natura minutis mobilibusque corporibus, cui nil omnino obsistere possit.
transit enim validum fulmen per saepa domorum, clamor ut ac voces, transit per saxa, per aera,

230 et liquidum puncto facit aes in tempore et aurum, curat item vasis integris vina repente diffugiant, quia nimirum facile omnia circum conlaxat rareque facit lateramina vasis adveniens calor eius et insinuatus in ipsum

235 mobiliter soluens differt primordia vini.
quod solis vapor aetatem non posse videtur efficere usque adeo pollens fervore corusco :
tanto mobilior vis et dominantior haec est.

Nunc ea quo pacto gignantur et impete tanto 240 fiant ut possint ictu discludere turris, disturbare domos, avellere tigna trabesque,
et monimenta virum commoliri atque ciere,
exanimare homines, pecudes prosternere passim,

245 cetera de genere hoc qua vi facere omnia possint, expadiam, neque te in promissis plura morabor.

Fulmina gigni(er) e crassis alteque putandumst nubibus extractis; nam caelo nulla sereno nec leviter densis mittuntur nubibus umquam.
nam dubio procul hoc fieri manifesta docet res;

250 quod tum per totum concrescent aera nubes, undique uti tenebras omnis Acherunta reamur
liquisse et magnas caeli complesse cavernas :
usque adeo taetra nimborum nocte coorta

255 inpendent atrae formidinis ora superne,
cum commoliri tempestas fulmina coeptat.
praeterea persaepe niger quoque per mare nimbus,
ut picis e caelo demissum flumen, in undas

260 sic cadit effertus tenebris procul et trahit atram fulminibus gravidam tempestatem atque procellis, ignibus ac ventis cum primis ipse repletus,

in terra quoque ut horrescant ac tecta requirant.
sic igitur supera nostrum caput esse putandumst tempestatem altam. neque enim caligine tanta obruerent terras, nisi inaedificata superne 265 multa forent multis exempto nubila sole;
nec tanto possent venientes opprimere imbris,
flumina abundare ut facerent camposque natare,
si non exstructis foret alte nubibus aether.
hic igitur ventis atque ignibus omnia plena 270 sunt; ideo passim fremitus et fulgura fiunt.
quippe etenim supra docui permulta vaporis semina habere cavas nubes et multa necessest concipere ex solis radiis ardoreque eorum.
hoc ubi ventus eas idem qui cogit in unum 275 forte locum quemvis, expressit multa vaporis semina seque simul cum eo commiscuit igni, insinuatus ibi vortex versatur in arto et calidis acuit fulmen fornacibus intus.
nam dupli ratione accenditur, ipse sua cum 280 mobilitate calescit et e contagibus ignis.
inde ubi percaluit venti vis (et) gravis ignis impetus incessit, maturum tum quasi fulmen perscindit subito nubem, ferturque coruscis omnia luminibus lustrans loca percitus ardor.
285 quem gravis insequitur sonitus, displosa repente opprimere ut caeli videantur templa superne.
inde tremor terras graviter pertemptat et altum murmura percurrunt caelum; nam tota fere tum tempestas concussa tremit fremitusque moventur.
290 quo de concussu sequitur gravis imber et uber, omnis uti videatur in imbrevertier aether atque ita praecipitans ad diluviem revocare:
tantus discidio nubis ventique procella
mittitur, ardenti sonitus cum provolat ictu.
295 est etiam cum vis extrinsecus incita venti incidit in validam maturo fulmine nubem;
quam cum perscidit, exemplo cadit igneus ille vertex quem patro vocitamus nomine fulmen.
hoc fit idem in partis alias, quocumque tulit vis.

- 300 fit quoque ut interdum venti vis missa sine igni
 igniscat tamen in spatio longoque meatu, dum venit, amittens in cursu corpora quaedam grandia quae nequeunt pariter penetrare per auras;
 atque alia ex ipso conradens aere portat
- 305 parvola quae faciunt ignem commixta volando;
 non alia longe ratione ac plumbea saepe fervida fit glans in cursu, cum multa rigoris corpora dimittens ignem concepit in auris.
 fit quoque ut ipsius plagae vis excitet ignem,
- 310 frigida cum venti pepulit vis missa sine igni,
 nimirum quia, cum vementi perculit ictu, confluere ex ipso possunt elementa vaporis et simul ex illa quae tum res excipit ictum;
 ut, lapidem ferro cum caedimus, evolat ignis,
- 315 nec, quod frigida vis ferrist, hoc setius illi
 semina concurrunt calidi fulgoris ad ictum.
 sic igitur quoque res accendi fulmine debet,
 opportuna fuit si forte et idonea flammis.
 nec temere omnino plane vis frigida venti
- 320 esse potest, ea quae tanta vi missa supernest,
 quin, prius in cursu si non accenditur igni,
 at tepefacta tamen veniat commixta calore.
- Mobilitas autem fit fulminis et gravis ictus,
 et celeri ferme percurrunt fulmina lapsu,
- 325 nubibus ipsa quod omnino prius incita se vis
 colligit et magnum conamen sumit eundi, inde ubi non potuit nubes capere inpetis auctum, exprimitur vis atque ideo volat impete miro,
 ut validis quae de tormentis missa feruntur.
- 330 adde quod e parvis et levibus est elementis,
 nec facilest tali naturae opsistere quicquam;
 inter enim fugit ac penetrat per rara viarum,
 non igitur multis offensibus in remorando haesitat, hanc ob rem celeri volat impete labens.
- 335 deinde, quod omnino natura pondera deorsum
 omnia nituntur, cum plagast addita vero, mobilitas duplicatur et impetus ille gravescit
 ut vementius et citius quaecumque morantur

- obvia discutiat plagis itinerque sequatur.
 340 denique quod longo venit impete, sumere debet mobilitatem etiam atque etiam, quae crescit eundo et validas auget viris et roborat ictum.
 nam facit ut quae sint illius semina cumque
 e regione locum quasi in unum cuncta ferantur, 345 omnia coniciens in eum volventia cursum.
 forsitan ex ipso veniens trahat aere quaedam corpora quae plagis incendunt mobilitatem.
 incolumisque venit per res atque integra transit
 multa, foraminibus liquidus quia transviat ignis.
 350 multaque perfigit, cum corpora fulminis ipsa corporibus rerum inciderunt, qua texta tenentur.
 dissoluit porro facile aes aurumque repente conseruefacit, e parvis quia facta minute corporibus vis est et levibus ex elementis, 355 quae facile insinuantur et insinuata repente dissoluont nodos omnis et vincla relaxant.
 autumnoque magis stellis fulgentibus apta concutitur caeli domus undique totaque tellus, et cum tempora se veris florentia pandunt.
 360 frigore enim desunt ignes ventique calore deficiunt neque sunt tam denso corpore nubes.
 interutrasque igitur cum caeli tempora constant,
 tum variae causae concurrunt fulminis omnes.
 nam fretus ipse anni permiscet frigus (et) aestum, 365 quorum utrumque opus est fabricanda ad fulmina nubi, ut discordia sit rerum magnoque tumultu ignibus et ventis furibundus fluctuet aer.
 prima caloris enim pars et postrema rigoris,
 tempus id est vernum ; quare pugnare necesset 370 dissimilis res inter se turbareque mixtas.
 et calor extremus primo cum frigore mixtus volvitur, autumni quod fertur nomine tempus, hic quoque configunt hiemes aestatibus acres.
 propterea (freta) sunt haec anni nominitanda, 375 nec mirumst, in eo si tempore plurima fiunt fulmina tempestasque cietur turbida caelo, ancipiti quoniam bello turbatur utrimque,

hinc flammis illinc ventis umoreque mixto.

- Hoc est igniferi naturam fulminis ipsam 380 perspicere et qua vi faciat rem quamque videre, non Tyrrhena retro volventem carmina frustra indicia occultae divum perquirere mentis,
 unde volans ignis pervenerit aut in utram se
 verterit hinc partim, quo pacto per loca saepa 385 insinuarit, et hinc dominatus ut extulerit se, quidve nocere queat de caelo fulminis ictus.
 quod si Iuppiter atque alii fulgentia divi terrifico quatint sonitu caelestia templa et iaciunt ignem quo quoiquest cumque voluntas, 390 cur quibus incautum scelus aversabile cumquest non faciunt icti flamas ut fulguris halent pectore perfixo, documen mortalibus acre, et potius nulla sibi turpi conscius in re
 volvitur in flammis innoxius inque peditur 395 turbine caelesti subito correptus et igni?
 cur etiam loca sola petunt frustraque laborant?
 an tum bracchia consuescunt firmantque lacertos?
 in terraque patris cur telum perpetiuntur optundi? cur ipse sinit neque parcit in hostis?
 400 denique cur numquam caelo iacit undique puro
 Iuppiter in terras fulmen sonitusque profundit?
 an simul ac nubes successere, ipse in eas tum descendit, prope ut hinc teli determinet ictus?
 in mare qua porro mittit ratione? quid undas 405 arguit et liquidam molem camposque natantis?
 praeterea si vult caveamus fulminis ictum,
 cur dubitat facere ut possimus cernere missum?
 si nec opinantis autem volt opprimere igni,
 cur tonat ex illa parte, ut vitare queamus, 410 cur tenebras ante et fremitus et murmura concit?
 et simul in multas partis qui credere possis mittere? an hoc ausis numquam contendere factum, ut fierent ictus uno sub tempore plures?
 at saepest numero factum fierique necessest, 415 ut pluere in multis regionibus et cadere imbris, fulmina sic uno fieri sub tempore multa.

postremo cur sancta deum delubra suasque discutit infesto paeclaras fulmine sedes et bene facta deum frangit simulacra suisque 120 demit imaginibus violento volnere honorem?
 altaque cur plerumque petit loca plurimaque eius montibus in summis vestigia cernimus ignis?

Quod superest, facilest ex his cognoscere rebus,
 presteras Grai quos ab re nominitarunt, 425 in mare qua missi veniant ratione superne.
 nam fit ut interdum tamquam demissa columna in mare de caelo descendat, quam freta circum fervescunt graviter spirantibus incita flabris, et quaecumque in eo tum sint deprensa tumultu 430 navigia in summum veniant vexata periculum.
 hoc fit ubi interdum non quit vis incita venti rumpere quam coepit nubem, sed deprimit, ut sit in mare de caelo tamquam demissa columnna, paulatim, quasi quid pugno bracchique superne 435 coniectu trudatur et extendatur in undas;
 quam cum discidit, hinc prorumpitur in mare venti vis et fervorem mirum concinnat in undis;
 versabundus enim turbo descendit et illam
 deducit pariter lento cum corpore nubem; 440 quam simul ac gravidam detrusit ad aequora ponti, ille in aquam subito totum se inmittit et omne excitat ingenti sonitu mare fervere cogens.
 fit quoque ut involvat venti se nubibus ipse vertex conradens ex aere semina nubis 445 et quasi demissum caelo prestera imitetur.
 hic ubi se in terras demisit dissoluitque,
 turbinis inmanem vim provomit atque procellae.
 sed quia fit raro omnino montisque necessest
 officere in terris, appetet crebrius idem 450 prospectu maris in magno caeloque patentи.
 Nubila concrescunt, ubi corpora multa volando hoc supero in caeli spatio coiere repente asperiora, modis quae possint indupedita exiguis tamen inter se comprensa teneri.
 455 haec faciunt primum parvas consistere nubes;

inde ea comprehendunt inter se conque gregantur et coniungendo crescent ventisque feruntur usque adeo donec tempestas saeva coortast.
fit quoque uti montis vicina cacumina caelo 460 quam sint quoque magis, tanto magis edita fument adsidue fulvae nubis caligine crassa propterea quia, cum consistunt nubila primum, ante videre oculi quam possint, tenvia, venti portantes cogunt ad summa cacumina montis.
hic demum fit uti turba maiore coorta et condensa queant apparere et simul ipso vertice de montis videantur surgere in aethram.
nam loca declarat sursum ventosa patere
res ipsa et sensus, montis cum ascendimus altos.
470 praeterea permulta mari quoque tollere toto corpora naturam declarant litore vestes suspensae, cum concipiunt umoris adhaesum.
quo magis ad nubis augendas multa videntur
posse quoque e salso consurgere momine ponti ; 475 nam ratio consanguineast umoribus ollis.
praeterea fluviis ex omnibus et simul ipsa surgere de terra nebulas aestumque videmus, quae velut halitus hinc ita sursum expressa feruntur
suffunduntque sua caelum caligine et altas 480 sufficiunt nubis paulatim conveniundo ;
urget enim quoque signiferi super aetheris aestus et quasi densendo subtexit caerula nimbis.
fit quoque ut huc veniant in caelum extrinsecus illa corpora quae faciunt nubis nimbosque volantis ; 485 innumerabilem enim numerum summamque profundi esse infinitam docui, quantaque volarent corpora mobilitate ostendi quamque repente inmemorabile (per) spatium transire solerent.
haut igitur mirumst si parvo tempore saepe 490 tam magnis nimbis tempestas atque tenebrae coperiant maria ac terras impensa superne, undique quandoquidem per caulas aetheris omnis et quasi per magni circum spiracula mundi exitus introitusque elementis redditus extat.

495 Nunc age, quo pacto pluvius concrescat in altis nubibus umor et in terras demissus ut imber decidat, expediam. primum iam semina aquai multa simul vincam consurgere nubibus ipsis omnibus ex rebus pariterque ita crescere utrumque 500 et nubis et aquam quaecumque in nubibus extat, ut pariter nobis corpus cum sanguine crescit,
sudor item atque umor quicumque est denique membris.
concipiunt etiam multum quoque saepe marinum
umorem, veluti pendentia vellera lanae, 505 cum supera magnum mare venti nubila portant.
consimili ratione ex omnibus amnibus umor tollitur in nubis. quo cum bene semina aquarum multa modis multis convenere undique adacta, confertae nubes (imbris de)mittere certant 510 dupliciter; nam vis venti contrudit et ipsa copia nimborum turba maiore coacta urget et e supero premit ac facit effluere imbris.
praeterea cum rarescant quoque nubila ventis
aut dissolvuntur, solis supericta calore, 515 mittunt umorem pluvium stillantque, quasi igni cera super calido tabescens multa liquescat.
sed vemens imber fit, ubi vementer utraque nubila vi cumulata premuntur et impete venti.
atque tenere diu pluviae longumque morari 520 consuerunt, ubi multa cident semina aquarum atque aliis aliae nubes nimbique rigantes insuper atque omni vulgo de parte feruntur, terraque cum fumans umorem tota redhalat.
hic ubi sol radiis tempestatem inter opacam 525 adversa fulsit nimborum aspargine contra, tum color in nigris existit nubibus arqui.
Cetera quae sursum crescent sursumque creantur, et quae concrescent in nubibus, omnia, prorsum omnia, nix venti grando gelidaeque pruinæ 530 et vis magna geli, magnum duramen aquarum, et mora quae fluvios passim refrenat aeventis, perfacilest tamen haec reperire animoque videre omnia quo pacto fiant quareve creentur.

cum bene cognoris elementis reddita quae sint.
 535 Nunc age quae ratio terrai motibus extet percipe. et in primis terram fac ut esse rearis supter item ut supera ventosis undique plenam speluncis multosque lacus multasque lucunas in gremio gerere et rupes deruptaque saxa ; 540 multaque sub tergo terrai flumina tecta volvere vi fluctus summersaque saxa putandumst ;
 undique enim similem esse sui res postulat ipsa.
 his igitur rebus subiunctis suppositisque terra superne tremit magnis concussa ruinis, 545 subter ubi ingentis speluncas subruit aetas ;
 quippe cadunt toti montes magnoque repente concussu late disserpunt inde tremores ;
 et merito, quoniam plaustris concussa tremescunt
 tecta viam propter non magno pondere tota, 550 nec minus exultant res, ut lapi' cumque viai ferratos utrimque rotarum succutit orbes.
 fit quoque, ubi in magnas aquiae vastasque lucunas gleba vetustate e terra provolvitur ingens, ut iactetur aquae fluctu quoque terra vacillans ;
 555 ut vas inter(dum) non quit constare, nisi umor
 destitit in dubio fluctu iactarier intus.

Praeterea ventus cum per loca subcava terrae collectus parte ex una procumbit et urget obnixus magnis speluncas viribus altas, 560 incumbit tellus quo venti prona premit vis.
 tum supera terram quae sunt extucta domorum ad caelumque magis quanto sunt edita quaeque, inclinata minent in eandem prodita partem protractaeque trabes inpendent ire paratae.
 565 et metuunt magni naturam credere mundi exitiale aliquod tempus clademque manere, cum videant tantam terrarum incumbere molem !
 quod nisi respirent venti, vis nulla refrenet
 res neque ab exitio possit reprehendere euntis.
 570 nunc quia respirant alternis inque gravescunt et quasi collecti redeunt ceduntque repulsi, saepius hanc ob rem minitatur terra ruinas

DE RERVM NATVRA VI

quam facit ; inclinatur enim retroque recellit et recipit prolapsa suas in pondera sedes.
575      hac igitur ratione vacillant omnia tecta, summa magis mediis, media imis, ima perhilum.
Est haec eiusdem quoque magni causa tremoris, ventus ubi atque animae subito vis maxima quaedam aut extrinsecus aut ipsa tellure coorta t;      580      in loca se cava terrai coniecit ibique speluncas inter magnas fremit ante tumultu versabundaque portatur, post incita cum vis exagitata foras erumpitur et simul altam diffindens terram magnum concinnat hiatum.
585      585 in Syria Sidone quod accidit et fuit Aegi in Peloponneso, quas exitus hic animai disturbat urbes et terrae motus obortus.
multaque praeterea ceciderunt moenia magnis
motibus in terris et multae per mare pessum 590      590 subsedere suis pariter cum civibus urbes.
quod nisi prorumpit, tamen impetus ipse animai et fera vis venti per crebra foramina terrae dispertitur ut horror et incutit inde tremorem ;
frigus uti nostros penitus cum venit in artus, 595      595 concutit invitatos cogens tremere atque movere.
ancipiunt trepidant igitur terrore per urbis, tecta superne timent, metuunt inferne cavernas terrai ne dissoluat natura repente,
neu distracta suum late dispendat hiatum 600      600 atque suis confusa velit complere ruinis.
proinde licet quamvis caelum terramque reantur incorrupta fore aeternae mandata saluti ;
et tamen interdum praesens vis ipsa pericli subdit et hunc stimulum quadam de parte timoris, 605      605 ne pedibus raptim tellus subtracta feratur in barathrum rerumque sequatur prodita summa funditus et fiat mundi confusa ruina.
Principio mare mirantur non reddere maius
naturam, quo sit tantus decursus aquarum, 610      610 omnia quo veniant ex omni flumina parte.
adde vagos imbris tempestatesque volantes,

- omnia quae maria ac terras sparguntque rigantque ;
 adde suos fontis ; tamen ad maris omnia summam guttai vix instar erunt unius adaugmen ; 615 quo minus est mirum mare non augescere magnum.
 praeterea magnam sol partem detrahit aestu.
 quippe videmus enim vestis umore madentis exsiccare suis radiis ardentib' solem :
 at pelage multa et late substrata videmus.
 620 proinde licet quamvis ex uno quoque loco sol umoris parvam delibet ab aequore partem ;
 largiter in tanto spatio tamen auferet undis.
 tum porro venti quoque magnam tollere partem
 umoris possunt verrentes aequora, ventis 625 una nocte vias quoniam persaepe videmus siccari mollisque luti concrescere crustas.
 praeterea docui multum quoque tollere nubes umorem magno conceptum ex aequore ponti et passim toto terrarum spargere in orbi, 630 cum pluit in terris et venti nubila portant.
 postremo quoniam raro cum corpore tellus est, et coniunctast, oras maris undique cingens, debet, ut in mare de terris venit umor aquai,
 in terras itidem manare ex aequore salso ;
 635 percolatur enim virus retroque remanat
 materies umoris et ad caput amnibus omnis confluit, inde super terras redit agmine dulci
 qua via secta semel liquido pede detulit undas.
 Nunc ratio quae sit, per fauces montis ut Aetnae 640 expirent ignes interdum turbine tanto, expediam. neque enim mediocri clade coorta flammae tempestas Siculum dominata per agros finitimis ad se convertit gentibus ora, fumida cum caeli scintillare omnia templa 645 cernentes pavida complebant pectora cura, quid moliretur rerum natura novarum.
 Hisce tibi in rebus latest alteque videndum et longe cunctas in partis dispiciendum, ut reminiscaris summam rerum esse profundam 650 et videoas caelum summai totius unum

iam sit parvula pars et quam multesima constet
c tota pars, homo terrai quota totius unus.
iod bene propositum si plane contueare videas plane, mirari multa relinquas.
imquis enim nostrum miratur si quis in artus cepit calido febrim fervore coortam
it alium quemvis morbi per membra dolorem ?
turgescit enim subito pes, arripit acer epe dolor dentes, oculos invadit in ipsos, tistit sacer ignis et urit corpore serpens
iamcumque arripuit partim, reptique per artus, mirum quia sunt multarum semina rerum,

Nunc tamen illa modis quibus irritata repente mma foras vastis Aetnae fornacibus efflet, pediam. primum totius subcava montis
t natura, fere silicum suffulta cavernis.
nibus est porro in speluncis ventus et aer ;
ntus enim fit, ubi est agitando percitus aer.
t ubi percaluit calefecitque omnia circum

et penetrare mari penitus res cogit aperto atque efflare foras ideoque extollere flammarum 700 saxaque subiectare et arenae tollere nimbos.
 in summo sunt vertice enim crateres, ut ipsi nominitant; nos quod fauces perhibemus et ora.

Sunt aliquot quoque res quarum unam dicere causam non satis est, verum pluris, unde una tamen sit; 705 corpus ut exanimum siquod procul ipse iacere conspicias hominis, fit ut omnis dicere causas conveniat leti, dicatur ut illius una.
 nam neque eum ferro nec frigore vincere possis interiisse neque a morbo neque forte veneno, 710 verum aliquid genere esse ex hoc quod contigit ei scimus. item in multis hoc rebus dicere habemus.

Nilus in aestatem crescit campisque redundat, unicus in terris Aegypti totius amnis.
 is rigat Aegyptum medium per saepe calorem, 715 aut quia sunt aestate aquilones ostia contra,
 anni tempore eo qui etesiae esse feruntur, et contra fluvium flantes remorantur et undas cogentes sursus replent coguntque manere.
 nam dubio procul haec adverso flabra feruntur 720 flumine, quae gelidis ab stellis axis aguntur.
 ille ex aestifera parti venit amnis ab austro,
 inter nigra virum percocto saecla colore exoriens penitus media ab regione diei.
 est quoque uti possit magnus congestus harenae 725 fluctibus adversis oppilare ostia contra, cum mare permotum ventis ruit intus harenam;
 quo fit uti pacto liber minus exitus amni et proclivis item fiat minus impetus undis.

fit quoque uti pluviae forsan magis ad caput ei 730 tempore eo fiant, quo etesia flabra aquilonum nubila coniciunt in eas tunc omnia partis.
scilicet ad medium regionem electa diei cum convenerunt, ibi ad altos denique montis contrusae nubes coguntur vique premuntur.
735 forsitan Aethiopum penitus de montibus altis crescat, ubi in campos albas descendere ningues tabificis subigit radiis sol omnia lustrans.

Nunc age, Averna tibi quae sint loca cumque lacusque expediam, quali natura praedita constent.
740 principio, quod Averna vocantur nomine, id ab re inpositumst, quia sunt avibus contraria cunctis,
e regione ea quod loca cum venere volantes, remigi oblita pennarum vela remittunt
praecipitesque cadunt molli cervice profusae 745 in terram, si forte ita fert natura locorum, aut in aquam, si forte lacus substratus Averni(st).
is locus est Cumas aput, acri sulphure montis opleti calidis ubi fumant fontibus aucti;
est et Athenaeis in moenibus, arcis in ipso 750 vertice, Palladis ad templum Tritonidis almae, quo numquam pennis appellant corpora raucae cornices, non cum fumant altaria donis:
usque adeo fugitant non iras Palladis acris
pervigili causa, Graium ut cecinere poetae, 755 sed natura loci opus efficit ipsa suapte.
in Syria quoque fertur item locus esse videri, quadripedes quoque quo simul ac vestigia primum intulerint, graviter vis cogat concidere ipsa, manibus ut si sint divis mactata repente.
760 omnia quae naturali ratione geruntur, et quibus e fiant causis appareat origo;
ianua ne forte his Orci regionibus esse credatur, post hinc animas Acheruntis in oras ducere forte deos manis inferne reamur, 765 naribus aliapedes ut cervi saepe putantur
ducere de latebris serpentia saecla ferarum.

quod procul a vera quam sit ratione repulsum percipe; nam de re nunc ipsa dicere conor.

Principio hoc dico, quod dixi saepe quoque ante, 770 in terra cuiusque modi rerum esse figuræ;

multa, cibo quæ sunt, vitalia, multaque, morbos incutere et mortem quæ possint adcelerare.
et magis esse aliis alias animantibus aptas
res ad vitai rationem ostendimus ante

775 propter dissimilem naturam dissimilisque texturas inter sese primasque figuræ.
multa meant inimica per auris, multa per ipsas insinuant naris infesta atque aspera tactu, nec sunt multa parum tactu vitanda neque autem 780 aspectu fugienda saporeque tristia quæ sint.

Deinde videre licet quam multæ sint homini res
acriter infesto sensu spurcaeque gravesque;
arboribus primum certis gravis umbra tributa usque adeo, capitis faciant ut saepe dolores, 785 si quis eas superter iacuit prostratus in herbis.
est etiam magnis Heliconis montibus arbos floris odore hominem taetro consueta necare.
scilicet haec ideo terris ex omnia surgunt,
multa modis multis multarum semina rerum 790 quod permixta gerit tellus discretaque tradit.
nocturnumque recens extinctum lumen ubi acri nidore offendit nares, consopit ibidem, concidere et spumas qui morbo mittere suevit.
castoreoque gravi mulier sopita recumbit

795 et manibus nitidum teneris opus effluit ei, tempore eo si odoratast quo menstrua solvit.
multaque praeterea languentia membra per artus solvunt atque animam labefactant sedibus intus.
denique si calidis etiam cunctere lavabris

800 plenior et fueris, solio ferventis aquai quam facile in medio fit uti des saepe ruinas!
carbonumque gravis vis atque odor insinuatur
quam facile in cerebrum, nisi aquam paecepimus ante!
at cum membra domans percepit fervida febris, 805 tum fit odor vini plague mactabilis instar.

nonne vides etiam terra quoque sulphur in ipsa gignier et taetro concrescere odore bitumen ;
denique ubi argenti venas aurique secuntur,
terrai penitus scrutantes abdita ferro,

- 810 qualis expiret Scaptensula subter odores ?
quidve mali fit ut exhalent aurata metalla !
quas hominum reddunt facies qualisque colores !
nonne vides audisve perire in tempore parvo
quam soleant et quam vitai copia desit, 815 quos opere in tali cohibet vis magna necessis ?
hos igitur tellus omnis exaestuat aestus expiratque foras in apertum promptaque caeli.

Sic et Averna loca alibus summittere debent mortiferam vim, de terra quae surgit in auras,

- 820 ut spatium caeli quadam de parte venenet ;
quo simul ac primum pennis delata sit ales,
impediatur ibi caeco correpta veneno,
ut cadat e regione loci, qua derigit aestus.
quo cum conruit, hic eadem vis illius aestus 825 reliquias vitae membris ex omnibus aufert.
quippe etenim primo quasi quendam conciet aestum ;
posterioris fit uti, cum iam cecidere veneni
in fontis ipsos, ibi sit quoque vita vomenda propterea quod magna mali fit copia circum.

- 830 Fit quoque ut interdum vis haec atque aestus Averni aera, qui inter avis cum quest terramque locatus, discutiat, prope uti locus hic linquatur inanis.
cuius ubi e regione loci venere volantes,
claudicat extemplo pinnarum nisus inanis 835 et conamen utrimque alarum proditur omne.
hic ubi nixari nequeunt insistereque alis, scilicet in terram delabi pondere cogit natura, et vacuum prope iam per inane iacentes dispergunt animas per caulas corporis omnis.

- *
840 frigidior porro in puteis aestate fit humor, arescit quia terra calore et semina siquae forte vaporis habet, propere dimittit in auras.
quo magis est igitur tellus effeta calore,

- fit quoque frigidior qui in terrast abditus umor.
 845 frigore cum premitur porro omnis terra coitque et quasi concrescit, fit scilicet ut coeundo exprimat in puteos si quem gerit ipsa calorem.
- Esse apud Hammonis fanum fons luce diurna frigidus et calidus nocturno tempore fertur.
- 850 hunc homines fontem nimis admirantur et acri sole putant super terras fervescere raptim, nox ubi terribili terras caligine texit.
 quod nimis a verast longe ratione remotum.
 quippe ubi sol nudum contractans corpus aquai
- 855 non quierit calidum supera de reddere parte, cum superum lumen tanto fervore fruatur, qui queat hic super tam crasso corpore terram percoquere umorem et calido satiare vapore?
 praesertim cum vix possit per saepa domorum
- 860 insinuare suum radiis ardentibus aestum.
 quae ratiost igitur? nimirum terra magis quod rara tenet circum fontem quam cetera tellus multaque sunt ignis prope semina corpus aquai.
 hoc ubi roriferis terram nox obruit umbris,
- 865 extemplo penitus frigescit terra coitque.
 hac ratione fit ut, tamquam compressa manu sit,
 exprimat in fontem quae semina cumque habet ignis,
 quae calidum faciunt laticis tactum atque vaporem.
 inde ubi sol radiis terram dimovit obortus
- 870 et rarefecit calido gliscente vapore, rursus in antiquas redeunt primordia sedes ignis et in terram cedit calor omnis aquai.
 frigidus hanc ob rem fit fons in luce diurna.
 praeterea solis radiis iactatur aquai
- 875 umor et in lucem tremulo rarescit ab aestu;
 propterea fit uti quae semina cumque habet ignis dimitat; quasi saepe gelum, quod continet in se, mittit et exolvit glaciem nodosque relaxat.
- Frigidus est etiam fons, supra quem sita saepe
- 880 stuppa iacitflammam concepto protinus igni, taedaque consimili ratione accensa per undas conlucet, quocumque natans impellitur auris.

- nimirum quia sunt in aqua permulta vaporis semina de terraque necesest funditus ipsa 885 ignis corpora per totum consurgere fontem et simul exspirare foras exireque in auras, non ita multa tamen, calidus queat ut fieri fons ;
 praeterea dispersa foras erumpere cogit vis per aquam subito sursumque ea conciliari.
 890 quod genus endo marist Aradi fons, dulcis aquai qui scatit et salsas circum se dimovet undas ;
 et multis aliis praebet regionibus aequor utilitatem opportunam sipientib' nautis, quod dulcis inter salsas intervomit undas.
 895 sic igitur per eum possunt erumpere fontem et scatere illa foras ; in stupram semina quae cum conveniunt aut in taedai corpore adhaerent, ardescunt facile extemplo, quia multa quoque in se semina habent ignis stupiaeque latentis.
 900 nonne vides etiam, nocturna ad lumina linum nuper ubi extinctum admoveas, accendier ante quam tetigit flamمام, taedamque pari ratione ?
 multaque praeterea prius ipso tacta vapore eminus ardescunt quam comminus imbuat ignis.
 905 hoc igitur fieri quoque in illo fonte putandumst.
 Quod superest, agere incipiam quo foedere fiat naturae, lapis hic ut ferrum ducere possit, quem Magneta vocant patrio de nomine Grai, Magnetum quia sit patriis in finibus ortus.
 910 hunc homines lapidem mirantur ; quippe catenam saepe ex anellis reddit pendentibus ex se.
 quinque etenim licet interdum pluresque videre ordine demissos levibus iactarier auris, unus ubi ex uno dependet supter adhaerens 915 ex alioque alias lapidis vim vinclaque noscit :
 usque adeo permananter vis pervalet eius.
 Hoc genus in rebus firmandumst multa prius quam ipsius rei rationem reddere possis, et nimium longis ambagibus est adeundum ;
 920 quo magis attentas auris animumque reposco.
 Principio omnibus ab rebus, quascumque videmus, perpetuo fluere ac mitti spargique necessest corpora quae feriant oculos visumque lacescant.

 perpetuoque fluunt certis ab rebus odores;
 925 frigus ut (a) fluviiis, calor ab sole, aestus ab undis aequoris exesor moerorum litora propter.
 nec varii cessant sonitus manare per auras.
 denique in os salsi venit umor saepe saporis,
 cum mare versamur propter, dilutaque contra 930 cum tuimur misceri absinthia, tangit amaror.
 usque adeo omnibus ab rebus res quaeque fluenter
 fertur et in cunctas dimittitur undique partis
 nec mora nec requies interdatur ulla fluendi,
 perpetuo quoniam sentimus, et omnia semper
 935 cernere odorari licet et sentire sonare. 933

Nunc omnis repetam quam raro corpore sint res commemorare; quod in primo quoque carmine claret.
 quippe etenim, quamquam multas hoc pertinet ad res
 noscere, cum primis hanc ad rem protinus ipsam, 940 qua de disserere adgredior, firmare necessest nil esse in promptu nisi mixtum corpus inani.
 principio fit ut in speluncis saxa superne sudent umore et guttis manantib' stillent.
 manat item nobis e toto corpore sudor, 945 crescit barba pilique per omnia membra, per artus.
 diditur in venas cibus omnis, auget alitque corporis extremas quoque partis unguiculosque.
 frigus item transire per aes calidumque vaporem sentimus, sentimus item transire per aurum 950 atque per argentum, cum pocula plena tenemus.
 denique per dissaepa domorum saxea voces per volitant, permanat odor frigusque vaposque ignis, qui ferri quoque vim penetrare suavit.
 denique qua circum caeli lorica coeret

955 morbida visque simul, cum extrinsecus insinuatur, et tempestates terra caeloque coortae,
 in caelum terrasque remotae iure facessunt;
 quandoquidem nil est nisi raro corpore nexum.

Huc accedit uti non omnia, quae iaciuntur

- 960 corpora cumque ab rebus, eodem praedita sensu
 atque eodem pacto rebus sint omnibus apta.
 principio terram sol excoquit et facit are,
 at glaciem dissolvit et altis montibus altas extrectasque nives radiis tabescere cogit ; 965 denique cera liquefit in eius posta vapore.
 ignis item liquidum facit aes aurumque resolvit,
 at coria et carnem trahit et conducit in unum.
 umor aquae porro ferrum condurat ab igni,
 at coria et carnem mollit durata calore.
 970 barbigeras oleaster eo iuvat usque capellas, effluat ambrosia quasi vero, et nectare tinctus ;
 qua nil est homini quod amariu' frondeat esca.
 denique amaracinum fugitat sus et timet omne ungentum ; nam saetigeris subus acre venenumst, 975 quod nos interdum tamquam recreare videtur.
 at contra nobis caenum taeterrima cum sit spurcites, eadem subus haec iucunda videtur, insatiabiliter toti ut volvantur ibidem.
 Hoc etiam superest, ipsa quam dicere de re 980 adgredior quod dicendum prius esse videtur.
 multa foramina cum variis sint redditia rebus, dissimili inter se natura praedita debent esse et habere suam naturam quaeque viasque.
 quippe etenim varii sensus animantibus insunt, 985 quorum quisque suam proprie rem percipit in se ;
 nam penetrare alio sonitus alioque saporem
 cernimus e sucis, alio nidoris odores.
 990 praeterea manare aliud per saxa videtur, atque aliud lignis, aliud transire per aurum, argentoque foras aliud vitroque meare.
 nam fluere hac species, illac calor ie videtur, atque aliis aliut citius transmittere eadem.
- 991
- 995 scilicet id fieri cogit natura viarum multimodis varians, ut paulo ostendimus ante, propter dissimilem naturam textaque rerum.
- 996
- Quapropter, bene ubi haec confirmata atque locata
 omnia constiterint nobis praeposta parata, 1000 quod superest, facile hinc ratio reddetur et omnis

causa patefiet quae ferri pelliciat vim.
 principio fluere e lapide hoc permulta necesset semina sive aestum qui discutit aera plagis, inter qui lapidem ferrumque est cumque locatus.
 1005 hoc ubi inanitur spatium multusque vacefit in medio locus, extemplo primordia ferri in vacuum prolapsa cadunt coniuncta, fit utque anulus ipse sequatur eatque ita corpore toto.
     nec res ulla magis primoribus ex elementis 1010 indupedita suis arte conexa cohaeret quam validi ferri natura et frigidus horror.
     quo minus est mirum, quod dicitur [ex elementis], corpora si nequeunt e ferro plura coorta
     in vacuum ferri, quin anulus ipse sequatur; 1015 quod facit, et sequitur, donec pervenit ad ipsum iam lapidem caecisque in eo compagibus haesit.
     hoc fit idem cunctas in partis, unde vacefit
     cumque locus, sive e transverso sive superne corpora continuo in vacuum vicina feruntur; 1020 quippe agitantur enim plagis aliunde nec ipsa sponte sua sursum possunt consurgere in auras.
     huc accedit item, quare queat id magis esse,
     haec quoque res adiumento motuque iuvatur,
     quod, simul a fronte est anelli rarior aer 1025 factus inanitusque locus magis ac vacuatus, continuo fit uti qui post est cumque locatus
     aer a tergo quasi provehat atque propellat.
     semper enim circumpositus res verberat aer;
     sed tali fit uti propellat tempore ferrum, 1030 parte quod ex una spatium vacat et capit in se.
     hic, tibi quem memoro, per crebra foramina ferri parvas ad partis subtiliter insinuatus trudit et inpellit, quasi navem velaque ventus.
     denique res omnes debent in corpore habere 1035 aera, quandoquidem raro sunt corpore et aer omnibus est rebus circumdatus adpositusque.
     hic igitur, penitus qui in ferrost abditus aer, sollicito motu semper iactatur eoque verberat anellum dubio procul et ciet intus;

1033

1026

1030

1032

- 1040 scilicet ille eodem fertur quo praecipitavit
iam semel et partem in vacuam conamina sumpsit.
Fit quoque ut a lapide hoc ferri natura recedat interdum, fugere atque sequi consueta vicissim.
exultare etiam Samothracia ferrea vidi
- 1045 et ramenta simul ferri furere intus ahenis
in scaphiis, lapis hic Magnes cum subditus esset:
usque adeo fugere a saxo gestire videtur.
aere interposito discordia tanta creatur propterea quia nimirum prius aestus ubi aeris
- 1050 praecepit ferrique vias possedit apertas, posterior lapidis venit aestus et omnia plena invenit in ferro neque habet qua tranet ut ante.
cogitur offensare igitur pulsareque fluctu ferrea texta suo; quo pacto respuit ab se
- 1055 atque per aes agitat, sine eo quod saepe resorbet.
Illud in his rebus mirari mitte, quod aestus non valet e lapide hoc alias impellere item res.
pondere enim fretae partim stant: quod genus aurum;
et partim raro quia sunt cum corpore, ut aestus
- 1060 pervolet intactus, nequeunt inpellier usquam;
ligneaa materies in quo genere esse videtur.
interutrasque igitur ferri natura locata aeris ubi accepit quaedam corpuscula, tum fit, inpellant ut eam Magnesia flumine saxa.
- 1065 nec tamen haec ita sunt aliarum rerum aliena, ut mihi multa parum genere ex hoc suppeditentur
quae memorare queam inter se singlariter apta.
saxa vides primum sola colescere calce.
glutine materies taurino iungitur uno,
- 1070 ut vitio venae tabularum saepius hiscant quam laxare queant compages taurea vincla.
vitigeni latices aquai fontibus audent mischeri, cum pix nequeat gravis et leve olivom.
purpureusque colos conchyli iungitur uno
- 1075 corpore cum lanae, dirimi qui non queat usquam, non si Neptuni fluctu renovare operam des,
non, mare si totum velit eluere omnibus undis.
denique non auro res aurum copulat una aerique (aes) plumbo fit uti iungatur ab albo ?

1080 cetera iam quam multa licet reperire ! quid ergo ?
nec tibi tam longis opus est ambagibus usquam,
nec me tam multam hic operam consumere par es,
sed breviter paucis praestat comprehendere multa.
quorum ita texturae ceciderunt mutua contra, 1085 ut cava convenient plenis haec illius illa huiusque inter se, iunctura haec optima constat.
est etiam, quasi ut anellis hamisque plicata inter se quaedam possint coplata teneri ;
quod magis in lapide hoc fieri ferroque videtur.
1090 Nunc ratio quae sit morbis aut unde repente mortiferam possit cladem conflare coorta morбida vis hominum generi pecudumque catervis, expadiam. primum multarum semina rerum
esse supra docui quae sint vitalia nobis, 1095 et contra quae sint morbo mortique necessest multa volare. ea cum casu sunt forte coorta et perturbarunt caelum, fit morbidus aer.
atque ea vis omnis morborum pestilitasque
aut extrinsecus ut nubes nebulaeque superne 1100 per caelum veniunt, aut ipsa saepe coorta de terra surgunt, ubi putorem umida nactast intempestivis pluviisque et solibusicta.
nonne vides etiam caeli novitate et aquarum temptari procul a patria quicumque domoque 1105 adveniunt ideo quia longe discrepant res ?
nam quid Brittannis caelum differre putamus,
et quod in Aegypto est qua mundi claudicat axis, quidve quod in Ponto est differre, et Gadibus atque usque ad nigra virum percocto saecla colore ?
1110 quae cum quattuor inter se diversa videmus quattuor a ventis et caeli partibus esse, tum color et facies hominum distare videntur
largiter et morbi generatim saecla tenere.
est elephas morbus qui propter flumina Nili 1115 gignitur Aegypto in media neque praeterea usquam.
Atthide temptantur gressus oculique in Achaeis finibus. inde aliis alias locus est inimicus partibus ac membris : varius concinnat id aer.

proinde ubi se caelum, quod nobis forte alienum,
x 120 commovet atque aer inimicus serpere coepit, ut nebula ac nubes paulatim repit et omne qua graditur conturbat et immutare coactat ;
fit quoque ut, in nostrum cum venit denique caelum,
corrumpat reddatque sui simile atque alienum.
x 125 haec igitur subito clades nova pestilasque aut in aquas cadit aut fruges persidit in ipsas aut alios hominum pastus pecudumque cibatus, aut etiam suspensa manet vis aere in ipso et, cum spirantes mixtas hinc ducimus auras, x 130 illa quoque in corpus pariter sorbere necessest.
consimili ratione venit bubus quoque saepe pestilas et iam pigris balantibus aegror.
nec refert utrum nos in loca deveniamus nobis adversa et caeli mutemus amictum, x 135 an caelum nobis ultro natura corruptum deferat aut aliquid quo non consuevimus uti, quod nos adventu possit temptare recenti.
Haec ratio quondam morborum et mortifer aestus finibus in Cecropis funestos reddidit agros x 140 vastavitque vias, exhaustis civibus urbem.
nam penitus veniens Aegypti finibus ortus,
aera permensus multum camposque natantis, incubuit tandem populo Pandionis omni,
inde catervatim morbo mortique dabantur.
x 145 principio caput incensum fervore gerebant et duplicitis oculos suffusa luce rubentes.
sudabant etiam fauces intrinsecus atrae sanguine et ulceribus vocis via saepa coibat atque animi interpres manabat lingua cruento x 150 debilitata malis, motu gravis, aspera tactu.
inde ubi per fauces pectus complerat et ipsum morbi vis in cor maestum confluxerat aegris,

NOTES

TITLE. Cf. 25, quos ego de rerum natura pangere conor; 5, 335, denique natura haec rerum ratioque repertast | nuper, et hanc primus cum primis ipse repertus | nunc ego sum in patrias qui possim vertere voces; 4, 969, nos agere hoc autem et naturam quaerere rerum | semper et inventam patriis exponere chartis. By rerum natura Lucretius means all phenomena in the widest sense, the object of the working power and the reason for its working. The term occurs 15 times in the poem in this sense (APA 22, p. xxxiii). So Numa in Ovid, M. 15, 6, desires to learn of Pythagoras quaes sit rerum natura. Humboldt, Cosmos, tr. Otté, Introduction: "Nature—considered rationally—is a unity in diversity of phenomena; a harmony; a blending together of all created things, however dissimilar in form and attributes; one great whole animated with the breath of life" (quoted by Kelsey). Lucr. took the title from Epicurus' Περὶ Φύσεως, which contained 37 books, yet several philosophers (e.g. Empedocles, Parmenides) had written books with a like title. Ovid, Tr. 5, 10, 9, has 'scilicet in nobis rerum natura novata est.' See on 3, 931.

BOOK I

1-43. 'O mother of the Aeneadae, fostering Venus, it is by thy means that the world is peopled and all living things have existence. Help me to unfold this poem in Memmius' honor, cause Mars to rest from cruel war.'—Ov. Tr. 2, 261, sumpserit Aeneadum genitrix ubi prima; requiret | Aeneadum genitrix unde sit alma Venus. Ausonius, Epigr. 33, Aeneadum genitrix hic habito alma Venus. Priscian, (KGL. 2, 292), cites the first verse to show that Aeneadum is equivalent to Aeneadarum. Tert., de Corona, 12, Veneris enim myrtus, matris Aeneadarum.—The first two words are found as a wall inscription at Pompeii (CIL. 4, 3072), just as Arma virumque cano Tro was also written (CIL. 4, 2361), testifying to the vogue of both Lucretius and Virgil; cf. Friedländer, SG. 3, 302.

1. Aeneadum: the word first occurs here, and frequently (18 times) in Virgil, e.g. Aen. 1, 157; cf. Thesidae, Georg. 2, 383 of the Athenians. Rutil. Itin. 1, 67, auctorem generis Venerem Martemque fatemur, | Aeneadum matrem, Romulidumque patrem; see Thes. LL. 1, 984, 12.—genetrix: the spelling genetrix is best attested: Bramb. 85. Suet. Jul. 61, cuius (equi) instar pro aede Veneris Genetricis postea (Julius) dedicavit. Venus Genetrix was originally a gentile cult of the Julian gens (Caelius, ap. Cic. Fam. 8, 15, 2, vellem quidem Venere prognatus tantum animi habuisse), but on the adoption of the Aeneas legend became a public one. Ennius, Ann. 52, makes Ilia pray te salve nata precor, Venus et genetrix patris nostri; a temple was erected in her honor by Julius Caesar in 708/46, and Augustus extended her cult. Cybele is nostri genetrix in 2, 599.—divom occurs repeatedly; cf. 2, 646; 4, 1008; 5, 51; the -om is not a contraction of -orum, but the suffix indicated by most I.E. languages (cf. īrrōw); the form survived in the classic language in nostrum vestrum (Lindsay, Lat. Lang. 401, 244). Other words in Lucr. which have this ending are virum, 95, 728, etc.; deum, 54, 68, etc.; squamigerum, 2, 343; Graium, 2, 600, etc.; consanguineum, 3, 73 (see n. there); Chaldaeum, 5, 727; Molossum, 5, 1063; Siculum, 6, 642; this use is part of the antique coloring of the poem. For the antique o for u, cf. aevom, 549, etc.; olivom, 2, 392, etc.; volgi, 1, 315, etc.; volnus, 2, 639, etc.; volpes, 3, 742, etc.; Volturnas, 5, 745; voltu, 3, 293, etc.; volturii, 4, 680; nativom, 5, 66; parvola, 4, 193, etc.; perparvom, 5, 588; vivom, 4, 767; and several others. He seems to use the form deorum certainly but once, 6, 54. Calliope is addressed as requies hominum divomque voluptas, 6, 94. So in the poem Jove, Saturn, Neptune, Ceres, Bacchus, Mars, Phoebus are mentioned; not that L. believes that they take any part in human affairs or that they are personalities to him; but merely for poetic coloring as symbols representing natural forces. So Tennyson's 'Lucretius' would remove an apparent inconsistency in this invocation: 'Ay, but I meant not thee: I meant not her, Whom all the pines of Ida shook to see Slide from that quiet heaven of hers, and tempt the Trojan, while his neat-herds were abroad; Nor her that o'er her wounded hunter wept Her deity false in human-amorous tears; Nor whom her beardless apple arbiter Decided fairest. Rather, O ye Gods, Poet-like, as the great Sicilian called Calliope to grace his golden verse— Ay, and this Kypris also—did I take That popular name of thine to shadow forth The all-generating powers and genial heat Of Nature, when she strikes through the thick blood Of cattle, and light is large and lambs are glad, Nosing the mother's udder, and the bird Makes his heart voice amid the blaze of flowers: Which things appear the work of mighty Gods.' Fabricius, Bib. Lat. ed. Ernesti, 79, cites the objection of Clericus and the answer of Victorius to this introduction, viz.: 'rectius facturus fuisse videtur L. si Rationem sive Mentem tamquam Deum in limine poetatis potius quam Venerem implorasset. Sed L. sensibus plus quam rationi tribuens, et generationem rerum cupiens exponere, nullum magis physicum numen quam Venerem appellare se posse existimavit.' Quintilian (4, 1) speaks of the custom of poets' invoking divinities: 'quod si nemo miratur poetas maximos saepe fecisse, ut non solum initii operum suorum Musas invocarent, sed proiecti quoque longius, cum ad aliquem graviorem venissent locum, repeterent vota,' etc. (cf. L. 6, 94). See Sellars' discussion of the logical inconsistency, p. 343. Hume, Nat. Hist. of Religion, Sect. 5, says L. was plainly seduced by the strong appearance of allegory which is observable in pagan fictions. He first addresses himself to Venus as to that generating power which animates, renews, and beautifies the universe, but is soon betrayed by mythology into incoherences when he prays to that allegorical personage to appease the furies of her lover Mars; an idea not drawn from allegory, but from popular religion, and which L. as an Epicurean could not consistently admit of. Martha, Poème, p. 54, has noticed that the invocation to Venus contains also a compliment to Memmius, inasmuch as many coins of the Memmian gens bear a head of Venus crowning Cupid. The Memmii had adopted the cult of Venus physica from Sulla (Marx, Bonner Studien, 18, 115), and thus L. compliments his patron. Sicmering, 13, states the case very succinctly: certainly the goddess in whom the popular belief revered the ideals of beauty, and to whom they ascribed the origin of the strongest impulse in life, seemed to L. to personify the idea of Nature. ‘Poeta erat L. ideoque non neglexit leges suae artis; Epicureus, ideoque patriae superstitioni subdole obsequitur,’ Creech. Bernays cites Porphyr. on Hor. Ep. 1, 20, 1, ‘receptum est et principia et fines in omnibus libris nullius legis formula contineri, unde sic L. incipit primum Epicureae sectae librum.’—voluptas: 2, 171, ‘quae suadet adire | ipsaque deducit dux vitae dia voluptas | et res per Veneris blanditur saecula propagant, | ne genus occidat humanum. quorum omnia causa | constituisse deos cum fingunt, omnibus rebus | magnopere a vera lapsi ratione videntur.’ For this use of voluptas (darling, joy), cf. Aen. 8, 581, ‘care puer, mea sola et sera voluptas’; Stat. Theb. 3, 295, ‘O mihi, bellorum requies et sacra voluptas | unaque pax animo.’—Reitzenstein quotes (p. 47) ἀφροδύτης Κυθέρεια, θεῶν γενέτερα καὶ διδόπων, | αἰθέλα, χθονία, φύσις πατήστρων, δόδαιμοντε. Marx (l.c. p. 197) describes a fresco of this Venus, which is numbered 295 in Helbig’s Wandgemälde, being a tutelary divinity of a colony of Sullan veterans, wherein the goddess is represented in a spangled robe, bearing in the right hand a twig while the left holds a sceptre and rests on a rudder; Marx sees here symbolized heaven, earth, and sea, these being governed by the goddess of the prooemium; note particularly verse 21. See also the Venus of Pompeii, in Mau-Kelsey, Pompeii, 12.—Perhaps Martha (p. 61) goes too far in saying that this ‘hymn’ is the most beautiful that has proceeded from the mouth of a pagan. Milton was as inconsistent in invoking the Heavenly Muse in Paradise Lost.

2. alma: ‘fostering’; cf. 2, 992, alma . . . mater . . . terra; 2, 971, dulcedinis almae; 5, 230, almae nutricis; 6, 750, Tritonidis almae; 2, 390, liquor almus aquarum; the epithet logically follows genetrix. M. tr. ‘increase giving’ from the etymology (ab alendo). Horace has ‘almae progeniem Veneris,’ C. 4, 15, 31. Alma Venus occurs in Aen. 1, 618; 10, 332; Ov. F. 4, 90; M. 14, 478, 15, 844; Anth. Meyer, 535, 15; Germanicus, Arat. Prog., 4, 50. Munro cites alma Venus from the Basis Capitolina, reg. xii; Aethicus Cosmographia, 83 r.; Macr. Sat. 3, 8, 3 quoting Laevius, ‘Venerem igitur alnum adorans, sive femina sive mas est’; and Plaut. Rud. 694; —all to show that the epithet had passed into the language of the people. Other references in Carter’s Epitheta Deorum, 100.—Marx, in the N. Jakrb. 1899, 543, describes the Venus Pompeiana and the Venus of Aphrodisias, the latter particularly having attributes such as are given by L. here. His wood-cut shows symbolically her control over heaven, earth, and sea, and the goddess was frequently joined with Roma as sharing the government of the world.—Venus: to be interpreted by 227, ‘unde animale genus generatim in lumina vitae | reducunt Venus.’ Cf. Eurip. Fr. 890 quoted by Cudworth, Intellectual System, 1, 645, ‘Do you not see how great a god Venus is? But you are never able to declare her greatness, nor to measure the vast extent thereof. For this is she who nourisheth both thee and me and all mortals, and who makes heaven and earth friendly to conspire together.’ Apul. 4, 29, ‘en rerum naturae prisca parens, en elementorum origo initialis, en orbis totius alma Venus.’—subter labentia signa: cf. for the rhythm Georg. 2, 157, subter labentia muros. Subter is rare as a preposition, and when so used is more frequent with the acc. than the abl.—labentia: a word frequently used by L. to describe the motion of the heavenly bodies: 5, 712, ‘(luna) labitur, ex alia signorum parte’; cf. 5, 718; 4, 444, ‘splendida signa videntur

| labier'; Georg. 1, 365, 'stellas . . . praecipites caelo labi.' M. cites Cic. Arat. Fr. 3, 'cetera labuntur celeri caelestia motu.' — signa, for constellations, occurs frequently, e.g. 5, 627 sq.; Ovid, F. 3, 113, 'caelo labentia signa.' — (This introduction is translated by Dryden, imitated by Spenser, F. Q. Bk. 4, Canto 10, St. 44-47; cf. Chaucer, Troilus and Cressida, near the end of Book 3. Sellar, Poets of Rep. 343 sq.).

3. navigerum is not cited before L., who uses it but once; it occurs in Mart. 12, 98, 4. For the invention and use by L. of compounds in -ger and -fer see on 3, 11. — quae: for the postponement of the relative in the clause cf. 84, 145, 149, and Holtze, 109. — terras: he uses the plural to express the wide extent of the action: cf. 30, 278; 2, 144, 256; 4, 203, and elsewhere (the whole world). Ov. M. 1, 22, 'nam caelo terras, et terris abscidit undas, | et liquidum spasso secrevit ab aere caelum.' Mark here the threefold division of the world into mare, terra, caelum, as Plaut. Tr. 1070 has it. Bentley cited Eurip. Hipp. 449, Φοίτρα δ' ἀν' αἰθέρ', οὐτι δ' ἐν θαλασσών κλύδωνι Κύπρις, πάντα δ' ἐκ ταῦτης ἔφυ, but the imitation, as M. notices, goes back to Homeric Hymn, 4, 1, 'Διφοδίτης Κύπριδος, η τε θεοῖσιν ἐτι γλυκὺν ἵμερον ὄρσε, Και τ' ἔβαμπτοντο φῦλα καταθυητῶν ἀνθρώπων, Ολυμπός τε διπτέρεας καὶ θύρα πάντα, Ήμέρα δο' Ηπειρος πολλὰ τρέφει ήδ' θα νέντος; cf. Orphic Hymn, 55, 4 in M. For the rhythm cf. 278; 'quae mare, quae terras, quae denique nubila caeli.' L. has abl. terris 33 times, dat. once, 5, 630; terras 51, terram 49, terrā 32, terrārum 32, terrae, nom., once, 2, 1109. Terrae = tellus in L. usually. — frugiferentis. Evelyn translates 'comfort bring and mirth To the ship-bearing seas, corn-bearing earth; ' Αρουραὶ πυροφόροι, Hom. Σ 122; ζελδωροὶ Αρουραὶ, η 332. Ennius had used frugifer, Ann. 479; but frugiferens is Δ. λεγ.; cf. aedituentes 6, 1275 for aeditui.

4. concelebras: 'people,' i.e. 'cause to throng,' cf. 2, 344, 'volucres, laetantia quae loca aquarum | concelebrant' (= throng), to which pervolgant in the following line corresponds; 5, 1380, 'ante fuit multo quam levia carmina cantu | concelebrare homines possent' (= cause to abound). L. uses the simple verb but once, 5, 1167. 'Fillesst with thy presence' M.; du erfüllst, bevölkerst, B.; 'reples et exornas,' Creech; 'celebras et cultas redditis vel colis et frequantas,' Lamb.; besucht, Br. comparing adventumque tuum η, tuumque . . . initum, 12-13, see Phil. 23, 455; Giussani, 'riempi di te, ti diffondi per, sei la vita di.' Bernays is right: 'Venus omnia loca . . . animantium celebria ac frequentia reddit' like celebrare in 5, 1167. — per te: also 6, 70. For per expressing means cf. 2, 258, '(voluntas) per quam progredimur'; 4, 753, 'cernere per simulacra'; 5, 72, 'vesci per nomina rerum.' — quoniam: this and other words are frequently postponed in the clause for metrical reasons: cf. 21, 111; proper position in 32. As Bock. notes, quoniam introduces the necessary reason to justify the statement to an Epicurean. — Cf. in general, Incerti Ponticon, Praefatio 14, in the Anthology: 'tu foetibus auges | cuncta suis: totus pariter tibi parturit orbis.' L. has quoniam with subj. 6 times; with indic. 121. — genus omne animantium: 194, 'natura animantium | propagare genus possit'; 1033, 'summisseque gens animantium | floreat'; 2, 78, 'saecula animantium'; 2, 1063, 'generisque animantium'; 2, 1071, 'aetas animantium,' in middle of the line; the prevailing position of animantium is the sixth place (1. 4, 194, 350, 1033, 1038; 2. 78, 921, 1063; 5. 431, 919; middle, 2. 880, 1071; 3. 266, 720; 5. 855); but in formulas like this in 1, 4 it is usually at the end. In all these passages animantium would be excluded by the metre. — Cf. Ovid's invocation to Venus, Fasti, 4, 87 sq., especially

93 sq., ‘iuraque dat caelo, terrae, natalibus undis, | perque suos initus continet omne genus. | illa deos omnes, longum est numerare, creavit; | illa satis causas arboribus- que dedit.’

5. visitque: cf. 22 and 2, 576, ‘vagor | quem pueri tollunt visentis luminis oras.’ — exortum: cf. 23, and with Bernays, 2, 545, ‘unde ea progigni possit concepta’; hence exortum = progigni. — lumina solis, for the light of life; in this sense frequent in L.: cf. on 3, 681 and 542. The expression occurs also in Aen. 6, 255; 7, 130 (lumini), 8, 68, solis | lumina. Ennius seems to have first used lumina solis as a verse ending (Ann. 290), and through L. his influence extended to Ovid also: lumina solis, M. I., 767, and Tr. 2, 325. L. has lumina vitae, 1, 227, 3, 861; lumina solis, 1, 5; 2, 660; lumine vitae, 3, 1042, luminis oras, 5, 224, 1455; 1, 22, 170, 179; 2, 577, 617; hence the singular he uses in these phrases 8 times and the plural 4; he has lumina solis for φάος ἡλίου, 2, 108, 114, 741, but 4, 371, lumine solis, the singular. Doubtless the plural suggested ‘rays’ to a Roman mind. In 2, 114, lumina is opposed to radii. Woltjer, Serta Romana, puts a comma after solis; Lachm. and Br. a period; M. a colon. Reitzenstein, Drei Vermuthungen, etc., 44, thinks 21 corresponds to 3; 22 to 4; and 23 to 6–9 which he would not, therefore, bracket with Br.

6. te . . . te . . . te: for the anaphora cf. ‘nulla est restandi, nulla facultas,’ 110; ‘quae mare, quae terras, quae denique nubila caeli,’ 278; ‘unde haec animantibus exstat | unde est haec,’ 2, 256; ‘iure, ut opinor, agat, iure increpet,’ 3, 962; ‘nempe aliae quoque sunt, nempe hac sine viximus ante; | nempe eadem facit,’ 4, 1173; ‘tria corpora, Memmi, | tris species tam dissimilis, tria talia texta,’ 5, 93; ‘inde mare inde aer inde aether,’ 5, 498; ‘tum ioca, tum sermo, tum dulces esse cachinni,’ 5, 1397. Anaphora occurs frequently in other forms. — fugiunt: because at the coming of Venus all is calm. Claudio De Nupt. Hon. 184, ‘adventu Veneris pulsatae rcedunt | nubila.’ So in Theocr. Id. 20, 19, at the appearance of the Dioscuroi, νεφέλαι δὲ διέδραμον ἀλλύτι ἀλλα. Stat. Silv. 1, 2, 51, serenati qua stat plaga lactea caeli where alma Venus iacebat. — venti of course are winter winds and nubila winter clouds. — nubila for nubes is poetical. L. has it frequently, and also nubes; nubila caeli closes the line also in 278 and 6, 214; nubila caelum, 5, 466, n. caelo, Aen. 3, 586; Ov. M. 5, 286, Am. 1, 8, 9; n. caelum, F. 2, 493. — te . . . adventumque tuum: for the pleonasm cf. te . . . tuumque initum, 12; vos et vestrum numen, Aen. 2, 154; te violo aut tua iura resolvo, id. 4, 27, and Conington on the former. Lucr. 3, 919, ‘se vitamque requirit’; Enn. Ann. 107, ‘quod mihi meaque fide,’ Sc. 186, ‘per vos et vostrum imperium’; Aen. 4, 492, ‘te . . . tuumque dulce caput.’ M. notices a like use of te after vocatives and relatives in Hor. C. 1, 35, 5; Catull. 2, 9. — Br. brackets 6–9 as interrupting the thought. He has discussed the question in the Jahresbericht for 1889, 233, and in Phil. 23, 455. See also Stürenberg, 8, and Giuss. Note L. 6. They seem to me to be an ascription of praise within the invocation.

7. Alliteration: tumque tuum tibi tellus. — tibi: cf. Georg. 2, 4, ‘huc, pater O Lenaee, — tuis hic omnia plena | muneribus, tibi pampineo gravidus autumno | floret ager.’ Pervig. Ven. 76, ‘rura fecundat voluptas, rura Venerem sentiunt.’ — suavis is to be taken with flores; adjectives ending in -is are sometimes ambiguous in case in L.: so omnis, 56, 353, 558; 5, 383; ingentis, 2, 956; fortis, 3, 8; inanis, 3, 116; suavis, 3, 222 with spiritus unguenti, where the sweetness of odor is plainer than here.—daedala: 2, 205, ‘Phoebeaque daedala chordis | carmina’; 4, 551, ‘verborum daedala lingua’; 5, 234, ‘naturaque daedala rerum’; 1, 228, ‘daedala tellus’; 5, 1451, ‘daedala signa.’ It is an epithet of Minerva in Ennius (Incert. xxi) according to Paul. ex Fest. 68, ‘daedalam a varietate rerum artificiorumque dictam esse apud Lucretium terram, apud Ennium Minervam, apud Vergilium Circen (Aen. 7, 282) facile est intellegere, cum Graeci δαιδάλλειν significant variare.’ Cf. Forb. on Georg. 4, 179, ‘omnes enim res artificiose factas Graecis et Romanis daedalias s. daedalas dici (a δαιδάλλειν, unde etiam celeberrimus ille artifex Cretensis nomen accepit) satis notum.’ Here the word seems to mean ‘curiously, or skilfully, working’; it is sometimes passive in meaning as in 2, 505; 5, 1451.—tellus is poetical for the most part; used as an active subject in 135, 228; 5, 837. If the word is connected with tollo, the meaning ‘supporter’ would follow; terra may be connected with torreo, ‘dry land.’

8. summittit: ‘sends from below’; 193, ‘nequeat fetus submittere tellus,’ 1033, ‘summissaque gens animantium’; Hor. C. 4, 4, 63, ‘monstrumve submisere Colchi’; L. 6, 818, ‘Averna loca alitibus summittere debent | mortiferam vim’; Prop. 1, 2, 9, ‘aspice quos summittit humus dumosa colores.’ Manilius has imitated L., in 3, 652 sq. — rident: 2, 559, ‘subdola cum ridet placidi pellacia ponti’; 5, 1005, ‘ridentibus undis’; the reference is to the dimpling of the waters but not to the flashing or gleam. Cf. also Patricii Epithalamium Auspicii et Aellae in the Anthology, 26 sq., a manifest imitation of L.: ‘adrident late toto revolantia mundo | sidera, blandito dominam venerata sereno. | ipsa levি residens curru, mitissima Divum, | ventilat adflatu caelum, Zephyrisque remissis | mulcet agros, lenique astris adremigat aura,’ etc. For the dative cf. Hor. C. 2, 6, 13, ‘ille terrarum mihi praeter omnes | angulus ridet.’—Stat. Silv. 4, 5, 7, ‘iam pontus ac tellus resident, | iam Zephyris Aquilo refractus.’ ‘Αντριθμον γέλασμα, Aesch. Prom. 90. Rutil. Il. 2, 13, ‘arridet placidum radiis crispantibus aequor’ is cited by Wakef.—aequora: ‘plains’ is poetical for mare and is frequently used by L., the underlying conception being the level plains of the sea: ‘aequor mare appellatum quod aequatum, cum commotum vento non est,’ Varro LL. 7, 23. Cf. aequore ponti, 6, 628; 2, 781; immania ponti | aequora, 4, 410; turbida ponti | aequora, 5, 1000; aequora ponti, 6, 440; 2, 772. Georg. 1, 469 and Ov. M. 2, 872 have also aequora ponti at the close of the line.

9. nitet: 5, 705, ‘luna potest nitere.’—diffuso lumine, ‘broadcast light’; 3, 22, ‘diffuso lumine rident,’ and n. there; 2, 114, ‘cum solis lumina cumque | inserti fundunt radii per opaca domorum.’ Wakef. comp. Prudent. Contra Symm. 2, 830, ‘solis radiis colluminat omnes | diffuso splendore locos.’ Aequora ponti, tellus, caelum, are the three great divisions of the world.

10. nam, if anything more than a connective (surely?), explains concelebras, 4, concipitur visitque, 5. Ov. F. 4, 125, ‘nec Veneri tempus, quam ver, erat aptius ullum.’ Bock. changes to iam; M. says the nam shows a poet’s logic: he assumes the sunshine and spring to follow the advent of Venus, because when they do come, all living things turn to thoughts of love. Bernays explains: ‘nam quia veris tempore animalia Venerem certis repetunt diebus (Georg. 2, 329), Venus illo tempore terram invisere fingitur.’ Reitzenstein grants the illogical structure: to him nam merely introduces a single example to explain the song of praise. To Edelbluth, De consueto uso Lucr., 28, nam introduces reasons why Venus is called the goddess of spring.

Stürenberg interprets, 'tu es alma Venus, cui venti et nubila cedunt, tu es, quam terra salut tempore verno, nam simul atque veris species patefacta est, tu es, cuius initum omnia animalia significant.' Why expect logical consistency in such a rhapsody? — simul ac occurs 13 times in L.; simul, 3 times (Archiv 14, 96). — species: 4, 242, 'speciem quo vertimus'; with verna dici = 'spring day's face.' Cf. 4, 137. — patefactast, 'unveiled.' Est loses its e frequently in the MSS., and where it is so printed by Lachmann and Munro we are safe in inferring that the Ms. reading is followed, according to Lachmann's express statement, p. 65, where the whole subject is discussed. Lindsay, LL., 121, compares English it's for it is and states Ms. authority in Virgil and Plautus. Patefactast connected with viget and dependent on simul ac is a circumlocution for the present 'is unveiled'; the adjectival use of the participle. It is possible, not probable, that patefacta here has an allusion to aperire as connected with the name of the month of April, suggested by Lemaire. — verna, strictly speaking, should be joined with dici: L. often has this hypallage: 474, 'Alexandri Phrygio sub pectore'; 722, 'Aetnaea minantur murmura flammalarum'; 2, 501, 'purpure Thessalico concharum tacta colore'; 5, 622, 'Democriti sancta sententia.' The use is more common with proper nouns as in Hamlet, 'the whole ear of Denmark.' Many exx. in Hertzberg, Prop. 3, p. 373. Cf. on 119, 970; 3, 309. — Cf. in general Virgil's description of Spring in Georg. 2, 328 sq., the introduction of the Pervigilium Veneris, Calpurn. Buc. 5, 19 sq.; and Pentadius, Eleg. 2, in the Anthology.

11. reserata: Val. Flacc. 1, 655, 'emicuit reserata dies.' The earth has been chained during the winter, now the icy barriers have been relaxed: 'solvitur acris hiems grata vice veris et Favoni,' Hor. C. 1, 4, 1. L. 5, 737, 'Veneris praenuntius ante | pennatus graditur, Zephyri vestigia propter | Flora,' etc. Catull. 64, 283, 'aura parit flores tepidi secunda Favoni.' Favonius began to blow on February 10. — Enn. had used the verb, Ann. 217, nos ausi reserare. — 'Ver exoritur octavo Kal. Martias,' Suet. De anno Roman., Reiff. 174. Unger, 'Frühlings Anfang,' Jahrb. 141, 493, says the brightness of heaven and the opening of navigation are set partly at the equinox, partly after the beginning of March; the same date of the coming and pairing of the first birds; so not the February zephyr only, but the whole spring is meant by gen. aura favoni; the same time is indicated by the heat of animals, as Aristotle shows that most animals pair at the transition of winter to summer; so in Manil. 3, 654, tunc means after the equinox, which is indicated by terras frugiferentis; cf. Georg. 2, 324. — viget, 'blows strong,' Lee. Aura as in 6, 111 and Auson. Ep. 17, 'hortabor auras ut vigeant.' — genitabilis, 'creative,' is probably nom. by Lucret. usage: 557, 'longa . . . infinita actas'; 898, 'vicina cacumina summa'; 947, 'musaeo dulci . . . melle'; 2, 7, 'munita tenere edita . . . templa serena'; 2, 600, 'veteres docti poetae'; 4, 398, 'liber patet exitus ingens'; 4, 787, 'dissimilis animus res cogitet omnis'; 5, 461, 'aurea . . . matutina . . . lumina'; 6, 204, 'mobilis ille . . . color aureus ignis.' The ending -bilis is usually passive in signification; see Lane, 294; there is an inferior reading genitalis which violates the metre. See M.'s note on the active sense of -bilis, and cf. mactabilis, 6, 805; Lucil. 1, 1, 'aetheris et terrae genitabile quaerere tempus'; L. 1, 534, 'manabile frigus | nec penetralem ignem'; Hor. C. 1, 3, 22, 'Oceano dissociabili.' Cooper, Sermo Pleb. 98, says there are 277 such adjectives with active meaning. — favoni: Pliny, 16, 93, 'hic est geni-talis spiritus mundi a fovendo dictus ut quidam existimavere'; Avien. Descriptio, 373, 'altera pulsatur genitabilis ore Favoni.'

12. aeriae volucres: like avis, volucet is usually feminine. L. has volucres twice at the close of the verse, 5, 801, 1078. Aerias volucres occurs in 5, 825; the phrase does not seem to be so common as the English 'birds (fowls) of the air.'—Ov. F. 4, 99, 'quid genus omne creat volucrum, nisi blanda voluptas? | nec coeant pecudes, si levis absit amor.' Schol. Bern., ed. Hagen, on Georg. 1, 375, 'aeriae fugere grues,' says 'quod alte volant,' citing L.—diva occurs in this prooemium in 28, 38, and is used of Cybele in 2, 623, 641.

13. significant: sc. cantu. L. is fond of such compounds: terrificet, 133; 4, 34; auctifici, 2, 571; munificat, 2, 625; ludificetur, 1, 939. He uses significare several times; without an abl. or its equivalent, in 2, 616, 'significare volunt indignos esse putandos.'—initum corresponds to adventum, 7. The Stoics derived the word 'Venus' from venio because deus ad omnes veniret, Cic. ND. 2, 69; 3, 62.—percussae (causal participle): 261, mentes percussa, as if by an electric shock. For the acc. 'struck to the heart' see on 261.—vi: monosyllabic endings of the hexameter are frequent in L.; e.g. 33, 116, 216, 245, 328, 339, 440. See on 3, 3. In 23 instances a dissyllabic word precedes: loco is most common; L. 1, 1–800 has 17 such endings; V. Aen. 1, 1–800 has 2; Ov. M. 1, 1–800 has 4.

14 (15). Line 15 of the Leyden codices was placed before 14 by Niccoli, whom all follow. Note the allit. (ppp).—inde = tum. Cf. 2, 270, 'ex animique voluntate id procedere primum, | inde dari porro per totum corpus et artus'; 3, 528, 'in pedibus primum digitos livescere et unguis, | inde pedes et crura mori'; 6, 455, 'haec faciunt primum parvas consistere nubes; | inde ea comprehendunt inter se.' Primum . . . deinde enumerates arguments in order, primum . . . inde refers to time merely.—ferae, predicate 'maddened': for the adjective cf. 3, 753, fera saecula ferarum. These domestic animals are made wild by passion, although pecus is usually a domestic animal and so not properly fera, 'wild,' 'savage'; yet Horace can say of man 'nemo adeo ferus est ut non mitescere posset' (Ep. 1, 1, 39). But Varro, RR. 2, 1, 5, has 'in locis multis genera pecudum ferarum sunt aliquot'; and Columella, RR. 9, 1, 'ferae pecudes ut capreoli damaeque . . . lautitiis et voluptatibus dominorum serviunt'; yet there seems no good reason for limiting the influence of Venus to wild animals not yet tamed or to domestic animals in a wild state. Bentley proposed ferae et pecudes. Surely the fierceness of a domesticated horse is sufficient for the thought: temporary madness and wildness is the important matter; ferocientes quadrupedes, Creech. Catull. 61, 56, 'tu fero iuveni in manus | floridam ipsa puerilam | dedis,' quoted also by M., who seems almost inclined to accept fera, an old interpretation of the Ms. reading by Wakef., defending it by 2, 370; 3, 65, etc. Weyman in Archiv 1, 591, gives exx. of ferae pecudes.—pabula laeta occurs in 257; 2, 875, 317, 364, 596, 1159. So laeta is said of armenta, 2, 343; arbusta, 2, 699; vineta, 2, 1158. Cf. its use with segetes, Georg. 1, 1 (cf. L. 5, 1372), Ov. Am. 3, 5, 28, 'carpebant tauri pabula laeta procul.' Laeta means primarily 'fat,' and laetare 'fatten'; it was said of things before persons. See Breal, APA. 24, 24, and Nettleship, J. Phil. 7, 171. Cic. Orat. 3, 155, 'laetas segetes etiam rustici dicunt' (cf. Colum. RR. 2, 16), showing that the metaphor was not felt even by rustics: cf. also Hor. C. 4, 4, 13, 'qualemve laetis capraea pascuis.' M. cites Manilius' imitation, 3, 654, 'tunc pecudum volucrumque genus per pabula laeta | in Venerem partumque ruunt.' Cf. also Georg. 3, 252, 'ac neque eos iam frena virum neque verbera saeva, | non scopuli rupesque cavae atque obiecta retardant | flumina correptosque unda torquentia montis'; Plin. 16, 40, 'sunt tristes quaedam, quaeque non sentiant gaudia annorum. nam neque ilex . . . pinus ullo flore exhilarantur'; Sen. NQ. 3, 27, 5, 'iam nec gramina aut pabula laeta aquis sustinet' — in plain prose. Colum. RR. 2, 9, 'ante ver seri non possunt quoniam teporibus maxime laetantur' ('do well'); id. 10, 'rapa . . . locis humidis laetantur.'

15. rapidos amnis: rapacis, 17; 4, 421, 'in rapidas amnis despeximus undas.' Amnis is a 'mighty stream'; used of the Nile in 6, 713; cf. 1, 287, 'molibus incurrit validis cum viribus amnis.' — tranant: sc. pecudes, not necessarily equae, as the fem. of pecus includes both sexes; but Georg. 3, 269, 'illas dicit amor trans Gargara transque sonantem | Ascanium; superant amnis.' — capta lepore: 5, 1259, 'nitido capti levique lepore.' Capta is to be taken with a nominative understood from quamque in 16; this usage — the supplying of the 'subject from an oblique case in a subsequent relative clause' (Roby, 1432) — is common in L.: 2, 1139, 'iure igitur pereunt, cum rarefacta fluendo | sunt et cum externis succumbunt omnia plagis,' where omnia is to be supplied to pereunt; 4, 387, 'qua vehimur navi, fertur, cum stare videtur'; 1, 169, 'seminibus quia certis quaeque creatur, | inde enascitur atque oras in luminis exit, | materies ubi inest cuiusque.' A spurious verse, 'illecebrisque tuis omnis natura animantium,' was inserted here by either Marullus, Politian, or Pontanus (Pascal, Riv. 30), which appeared in the editions before Lachmann.

16. cupide: 20, 'cupide generatim saecla propagant'; 4, 1113, 'cupide in Veneris compagibus haerent'; 4, 1057, 'voluptatem praesagit muta cupidus.' — inducere: Tib. 1, 6, 1, 'semper, ut inducar, blandos offers mihi vultus, | post tamen es misero tristis et asper, Amor,' with the particular meaning 'cajole'; here simply 'entice,' 'lead on.' — inducere pergis: L. likes to close a line with infinitive and finite verb: see on 3, 117. — pergis: 2, 946, 'pergis confundere sensus'; 1, 1080, 'concedere pergit.' L. has it 13 times and only with the bare infinitive (Reich, 510). — Francken, Jahrb. 121, 765, would read 13, 14, 16, 15, bracketing ita . . . pergis; but repetition of thought and words in L. is too common to justify the proposal.

17. denique: 'yes,' M.; 471, 'denique materies si rerum nulla fusset.' It usually means in L. 'to continue' or 'again,' introducing a new example, e.g. 464. — per: 'throughout,' not 'over' or 'through.' — ac . . . que . . . que . . . que: L., like most poets, is irregular in his use of copulative conjunctions: 2, 844, 'ac frigoris omnino calidique vaporis'; 5, 41, 'per nemora ac montes magnos silvasque profundas'; 5, 92, 'maria ac terras caelumque'; 5, 1428, 'purpurea atque auro signisque'; Schmalz, Synt. § 175. — fluviosque rapacis: 5, 341, 'exisse rapaces | per terras amnes'; Georg. 3, 142, 'carpere prata fuga fluviosque innare rapacis.' The river sweeps away obstacles.

18. frondiferasque: used with nemus, 2, 359; silvas, 1, 256. The homes are the woods: 1, 256. Brandt, Rh. M. 38, 606, compares Inc. Panegyr. 5, 3 (133, 31), 'O felix beatumque ver novo parti, iam non amoenitate florum nec viriditate segetum nec gemmis vitium nec ipsis tantum favoniis et luce faserata (Brandt, reserata) laetum atque venerabile, quantum ortu Caesarum maximorum,' wherein luce reserata laetum is an imitation of L. 1, 7, viriditate segetum of 18, laetum aliquo venerabile possibly of 23.—domos occurs also in 6, 241; L. does not use domus, acc. pl. Georg. 2, 209, ‘antiquasque domos avium’; Aen. 8, 235, ‘domus opportuna volucrum.’—camposque virentis: 5, 783, ‘genus herbarum viridemque nitorem | terra dedit circum collis camposque per omnis.’ Camposque is distributed 7 times between the 4th and 5th feet; e.g. 6, 405, 1142, and the passage just cited.

19. incutiens, ‘instilling’; 924, ‘incussit suavem mi pectus amorem’; Hor. Ep. 1, 14, 22, ‘incutunt desiderium.’ Strictly speaking, incutio is said of a blow: est enim amoris plaga gravis, as Lamb. says, adding Plato’s epithet of Love, γλυκύρικος. Cf. also percussae corda tua vi in 13 and the use with metum and timorem.—blandum: ‘persuasive’: 2, 966, blanda voluptas, and 4, 1263; 5, 178. Prop. 4, 1<sup>b</sup>, 13, Veneris blandis sub armis.

20. effici ut: a prosaic phrase not uncommon in L.—generatim, ‘after their kind’: 227, ‘unde animale genus generatim in lumina vitae | redditum Venus’; a frequent word in L. These adverbs in -tim belong to the common language: L. has iuxtim, propritim, acervatim, adumbratim, articulatim, catervatim, contemptim, filatim, gravatim, membratim, minutatim, mixtim, moderatim, particulatim, pedetemtim, raptim, summamatim, tractim, turmatim, viritim; see Rönsch, Itala und Vulgata, 148; Lindsay, LL. 556. Add the more common praesertim, passim, paulatim, confestim, partim, viciissim.—Serv. on Georg. 2, 35 interprets proprios generatim as per singula genera; generaliter autem est simul omnia, γενικῶς καὶ κατὰ γένος.—saecla, on 3, 629.—propagant, an agricultural word; cf. 2, 173; 5, 850.

21. quoniam takes up the thought of 4: the intervening lines have explained the secret of the power of Venus; now the general apodosis begins. See Susemihl, III.—rerum naturam: inanimate nature, as well, is implied in venti, etc.; 6.—sola: rarely (6 times) used by L.—gubernans: a common metaphor; see on 3, 550. In 5, 77 natura gubernans guides the course of the heavenly bodies. Cf. Parthenen, 127, Δάμων ἡ τάντα κυβερνᾷ; Eurip. Hipp. 1272, τοτάραι δὲ τὸ γαῖαν εὐάχητον θ' | ἀλμυρὸν ἐπὶ πόντον . . . συμπάντων δὲ | βασιληΐδα τιμᾶν, Κύπρι, | τῶνδε μόνα κρατήνεις.

22. quicquam . . . quicquam, 23; chiasmus: other examples in 50, 174, 800, 986; 2, 273, 651, 708, 860, 994; 3, 155; 5, 863; 6, 653–654, etc. L. is sparing in the use of this figure.—dias, ‘divine, an epithet applied to anything of extraordinary excellence or distinction,’ lex. In L. 2, 172, dia voluptas; 5, 1387, otia dia. I am tempted to translate ‘bright’ (Pius took it as vitales, Lamb. aerias, Howard divinas).—in: L. often places both monosyllabic and dissyllabic prepositions between the adjective and noun: 640, gravis inter Graios; 642, inversis sub verbis; 653, talibus in causis; 654, rarisque ex ignibus; 719, glaucis ab undis; 755, mortali cum corpore; 1017, suo de coetu; 1018, magnum per inane; 1110, desertum praeter spatium; 2, 6, tua sine parte; 2, 20, corpoream ad naturam; 2, 353, turicremas propter aras; 1, 155, quas ob res; 3, 85, hasce secundum res; 4, 678, dissimilis propter formas.—luminis oras: the borders of light, looked upon as a direction of motion. 171, oras in luminis exit; 179, effert in luminis oras; 2, 577, visentis luminis oras; 2, 617, progeniem in oras luminis edant; 5, 224, in luminis oras | nixibus ex alto matris natura profudit; 5, 781, novo fetu quid primum in luminis oras | tollere; 1454, ratioque in luminis erigit oras. Ennius had used the phrase: Ann. 114, tu produxisti nos intra luminis oras; 131, sum quae dederat in luminis

oras. The prevailing place is in the fifth and sixth feet. Virgil followed: Georg. 2, 47, quae se tollunt in luminis oras (Med. Ms.); Aen. 7, 660, partu sub luminis edidit oras. Polle, Jahrb. 117, 640, notices that the termination -minis in the fifth foot occurs 339 times in L.: 3.23%; in Ovid, 801—3.45; Catullus, 34—4.40; Virgil, 518—4.01; Horace, 49—1.20.—Cf. Gray, ‘warm precincts of the cheerful day,’ and Schiller, ‘ohne liebe kehrt kein frühlung wieder.’

23. exoritur, 869, ‘quae terris exoriuntur’; 2, 507, ‘namque aliis aliud prae-stantius exoreretur.’—amabile: Polle, Jahrb. 117, 640, finds -bilis in the fifth foot 17 times in L., 178 times in Ovid, 3 in Catull., 76 in Virgil; percentages, 0.23; 0.78; 0.38; 0.59.

24. Alliteration (sss) and not unpleasing.—sociam: L.’s inconsistency in asking divine help is sufficiently apparent. The goddess of nature is to help the poet of nature, and the goddess of beauty is to make the poet’s work beautiful.—Gratt. Cyneg. 1, 6, ‘te sociam, ratio, rebus sumpsero gerendis,’ Wakef.—scribendis: cf. augendis 184, gignundis 203, reparandis 547.

25. ego: like Plautus and Terence, L. uses ego and nos without logical accent; cf. 3, 139, ‘consilium quod nos animum mentemque vocamus’; 1, 754; 4, 369. See on 3, 316.—pangere: 933; Hor. Ep. 1, 18, 40, ‘poemata panges.’ The metaphor lies in the fixing of the stylus in the tablet. Col. 10, 251, ‘ceu litera . . . pan-gitur in cera.’—conor: 6, 768; 4, 1170.

26. Memmiadae: so Scipiadas, 3, 1034, in imitation of the Greek; see note there. The Memmius to whom the poem is addressed is probably C. Memmius; see Introd. 24.—Mēmmiō would not suit the metre.—nostro, ‘my friend.’—tempore in: the postposition of prepositions after nouns is frequent in L.: opera sine, 158; oras in, 170; montibus ex altis, 283; portas propter, 316; rebus ab ipsis, 459; pocula circum, 937; aera per tenerum, 2, 146; portas ante, 3, 67; nominis ergo, 3, 78; corporibus . . . de parvis, 3, 278; iras . . . ad acris, 3, 311; res contra, 3, 353; finis intra, 3, 592, solem . . . praeter, 4, 141; lapides inter, 4, 415; igni . . . super calido, 6, 516; Cumas apud, 6, 747; corpore cum, 6, 1075. Where an adjective follows, it is noted in the exx. See on 316. L. often joins in to tempore, which is hardly necessary: 98, 337, 351, 1037; see on 3, 24.

27. omnibus: emphasized by position.—ornatum, ‘graced.’ ‘Hominem ornatissimum loco ordine nomine virtute ingenio copiis,’ Cic. Verr. 2, 1, 127. Wakef. cites Odys. 8 725 παρολύς ἀπειστὶ κεκαυμένος ἐν Δαραῖσι. M. cites also Cic. Fam. 3, 10, 10, ‘quibus ille me rebus non ornatum voluit amplissime?’ Pro Corn. Fr. 2, ‘Q. Metelli adulescentia ad summam laudem omnibus rebus ornata.’ Bernays compares Cic. Fam. 13, 77, 2, ‘M. Bolanum virum bonum et fortē et omnibus rebus ornatum,’ 12, 21, ‘C. Anicius . . . vir omnibus rebus ornatus.’—Sauppe, Phil. 22, 182, recalls the discovery of a coin of the gens Memmia on which a goddess, probably Venus, is shown driving a chariot, and crowned by a winged boy (Cupid); this to him explains the verse. Brandt, Jahrb. 131, 602 sq., thinks the reference is to the aedileship of Memmius and perhaps to the praetorship; but there is reason enough in the brilliancy of a family descended from Mnestheus; possibly also in his physical beauty; he was a second Paris, as with Lucullus’ wife, Cic. Att. 1, 18, 3.

28. Alliteration (ddd).—quo magis, ‘the more’ for Memmius’ sake.—dictis:

'tu te dictis praebere memento,' 2, 66; 'nunc age dicta meo dulci quaesita labore | percipe,' 2, 730; 'tu cetera percipe dicta,' 3, 135; 'rerum naturam expandere dictis,' 1, 126; 'doceo dictis,' 5, 56.—leporem: 934, 'musaeo contingens cuncta lepore.' Here the request is properly made of the goddess of grace and charm.—Although he has the word 10 times it always occurs in the fifth and sixth feet.

29. interea, while I sing.—fera moenera, 'fierce works,' also in 32; moenere belli, 5, 1308; munera belli, Livy, 24, 35, 7; 32, 16, 15. For the archaic spelling cf. moerorum, 4, 220; 6, 926; and poeniceus, 2, 830; poenibat, 6, 1246; in other authors and inscriptions inmoene, moiros, moerus, ploera, oinversi, oinigenos, and the like; see Stoltz, Hist. Gr. 1, 150.—militiai: so patriai, 41; Triviae, 84; Iphianassai, 85; animai, 112, etc.; terrai, 212, etc.; materiai, 249, etc.; aquai, 285, etc.; viae, 406, etc.; vitai, 415, etc.; naturai, 586, etc.; flammai, 725, etc.; summai, 953, etc.; horai, 1016; fugai, 1047, etc.; purpureai, 2, 52; notitiai, 2, 124; formai, 2, 490, etc.; amicitiae, 3, 83; harmoniae, 3, 131; irai, 3, 303; gelidai, 3, 689; caveai, 4, 78; scenai, 4, 79, etc.; nigrai, 4, 537; linguai, 4, 624; parmai, 4, 847; Geryonai, 5, 28; lunai, 5, 69, etc.; pilai, 5, 713, etc.; guttai, 6, 614; taedai, 6, 897. He uses only four adjectives with this ending. The prevailing position is at the end of the verse; cf. on 3, 83.—For the expression cf. belli per munia, Lucan, 5, 8; munerum militiae, Livy, 27, 9, 9.

30. maria ac terras: quae mare . . . quae terras, 3; per maria ac terras, 340; mare terras, 820; terræ ac mare, 2, 728; mare ac terras, 4, 203; 6, 668; maria ac terras, 5, 92, 594; 6, 491, 612. Terræ is followed by a word beginning with a vowel also in 744; 2, 212, 256, 706, 1000; 4, 416; 5, 115, 342, 658, 682, 693, 980; 6, 491, 634; but there are many examples of it before a consonant; the reason for the plural is that given in the note to 3, not the desire to avoid hiatus.—sopita quiescant: verses ending with a participle and finite verb are common in L: cf. 53, 57, 218, 329, 423, 919, etc., sopita quiescunt, 3, 920, and note on 3, 30. Munro compares Vell. Pater. 2, 89, sopitus ubique armorum furor. Notice the mingled prolepsis and pleonasm.

31. nam, 'and with reason I pray this, for,' etc.—tranquilla: 6, 78, 'tranquilla pace valebis'; 2, 1093, 'nam pro sancta deum tranquilla pectora pace | quae placidum degunt aevom vitamque serenam.' M. compares Livy, 26, 26, 11, 'qui vel in pace tranquilla bellum excitare possent.'

32. fera moenera, Lamb.; feram onera OQ.—mortalis: a word of frequent use in L and mostly poetical for metrical convenience. But the form mortales won its way into Ciceronian prose.—Mavors: here only in L.; 'Martis turbare catervas,' 5, 1304. Mavors appears occasionally in the Augustan poets as a bit of archaism; in Val. Flacc. 2, 208, Mavortia coniunx is Venus.—The second tradition, the Romulus legend, is here united to the Aeneas myth: Mars is the sire, Venus the mother of the Romans.

33. armipotens: Mars armipotens, Aen. 9, 917. Cf. the compounds pennipotentum, 2, 878; 5, 789; omnipotens, 5, 399.—regit, 'guides'; manus una regit (navem) 4, 903; quis regere immensi summam . . . potis est, 2, 1095.—in, a proclitic, as the rhythm indicates.—Cf. Ov. M. 10, 558, 'inque sinu iuvenis posita cervice reclinis.' Bockemüller's theory that Venus and Mars here represent Julia and Pompey seems without foundation.

34. reicit, Q, Gott.; reficit O; see on 3, 639. Ter. And. 136, reiecit se in eum. — aeterno . . . vulnere: 5, 1321, vulnere victos; Aen. 1, 36, aeternum servans sub pectore vulnus, id. 4, 67, 689; Pope, Messiah ‘And hell’s grim tyrant feel th’ eternal wound’; Aen. 8, 394, aeterno satur devinctus amore; some codd. there have devictus; see Forb. ad loc. Cf. also Aen. 4, 2, vulnus alit venis, of the wound of love, a not uncommon expression in the poets and used by L. in Book 4. Giussani suspects a group in statuary which L. may have seen.—devictus (devinctus, Pont. Lamb.): ‘completely conquered’; 493, glacies flamma devicta liquescit.

35. ita: ‘as thus he rests.’—suspiciens, literal; 2, 1039, ‘suspicere in caeli dignatur lucida tempa.’—tereti, ‘shapely’; 4, 58, ‘cum teretis ponunt tunicas aestate cicadæ'; Aen. 8, 633, ‘tereti cervice reflexam.’ It is noticeable, as pointed out by Zingerle, 7, that the prevailing position of cervice is in the fifth foot followed by a verb compounded with re-; he compares Georg. 4, 523, cervice revulsum; Aen. 8, 633, c. reflexam, cf. Ov. AA. 3, 779, c. reflexa; Aen. 1, 402, c. refulsit; Ov. Hal. 106, c. refulgens, M. 10, 558, c. reclinis, Her. 15, 231, c. recumbo, ex Ponto, 2, 8, 65, c. recedet, M. 15, 698, c. recurvam. In L. 6, 744, the verse closes with cervice profusae. Cf. also Cic. Arat. 60, tereti cervice reflexum; Manil. 1, 334, cervice reflexus; Sil. Pun. 7, 322, c. reposta.—cervice: Quint. 8, 3, 35, ‘cervicem videtur Hortensius primus dixisse; nam veteres pluraliter appellant’—naturally of prose writers. Enn. Ann. 472, caput a cervice revulsum. On cervix see Maas, Archiv 12, 501.—reposta is abl. For the form see on 3, 346. Quint. 4, 2, 39, ‘cervicem reponunt et brachium in latus iactant.’ Richards, CL R. 13, 17, repostam.

36. pascit: 2, 419, ‘oculos qui pascere possunt.’ Tac. H. 3, 39, ‘Vitellii vox qua se . . . pavisse oculos spectatu inimici morte iactavit’; Sen. Ep. 58, 25, ‘oculos . . . ut dici solet pascit’; Ter. Ph. 85, ‘restabat aliud nil nisi oculos pascere’; Catull. 64, 221, ‘lumina sunt nati cara saturata figura’; Cic. Ph. 11, 8, ‘oculos paverit suos’; Ov. Am. 3, 2, 6, ‘oculos pascat uterque suos.’—avidos: Cic. Or. 104, ‘ita sunt (aures) avidae.’—inhians, ‘with open mouth,’ ‘longing’: Hor. S. 1, 1, 70, saccis indormis inhians; only here in L. The usual construction is with the dative.—te: Woltjer has noticed (Mnemosyne, 17, 70) that L. never puts ego in any of its forms in the fifth foot, but forms of tu five times: 1, 36, 269, 1115; 3, 900, 906.—visus, ‘gaze,’ only here in the pl. in L., for metrical convenience of avidos. Stat. Th. 6, 277, ‘spectat inocciduis stellatum visibus Argum.’—Tennyson, Lucr. ‘Then would I cry to thee | To kiss thy Mavors, roll thy tender arms | Round him, and keep him from the lust of blood | That makes a steaming slaughter house of Rome.’ Reposianus, Concub. M. et V. 104, spectat hians Venerem.

37. eque: V. Ecl. 7, 13; Cic. Off. 2, 80; 1, 122; Sen. HF. 260; Ov. M. 1, 468; 15, 268; 2, 96; Lucan. 5, 751, eque tuo. Que is rarely added to monosyllabic prepositions unless the preposition is repeated. See on 3, 3, and Archiv 13, 198.—pendet e is the usual construction: 6, 911, pendentibus ex se; other exx. in lex. s.v.; Aen. 4, 79, pendetque iterum narrantis ab ore.—spiritus, ‘his soul,’ i.e. ‘breath.’ Q. Curt. 3, 6, 10, spiritus meus ex te peperdit.—In general cf. Byron, Childe Harold, 4, 51, ‘Appearedst thou not to Paris in this guise? | Or to more deeply blest Anchises? or | In all thy perfect goddess-ship, when lies | Before thee thy own vanquished Lord of War? | And gazing in thy face as toward a star, | Laid on thy lap, his eyes to thee upturns, | Feeding on thy sweet cheek ; while thy lips are, | With lava kisses melting while they burn, | Shower'd on his eyelids, brow, and mouth, as from an urn, | Glowing, and circumfused in speechless love.'

38. hunc is object of circumfusa; for construction, see lex.—two . . . sancto: verses with internal rhyme—when perfect, called leonine—are not uncommon in L.: 5, 639, ‘qui queat aestivis solem detrudere signis’; 5, 644, ‘quae volvunt magnos in magnis orbibus annos’; 6, 1123, ‘fit quoque ut in nostrum cum venit denique caelum’; 2, 112, ‘cuius uti memoro rei simulacrum et imago’; 2, 152, ‘cogitur aerias quasi dum diverberat undas’; see on 3, 6.—corpore, abl. of means with circumfusa.—*sanc*to, ‘divine’; 6, 76, ‘nec de corpore quae sancto simulacula feruntur’; Catull. 36, 3, ‘sanctae Veneri’.

39. super is an adverb; cf. 3, 871, 901; 5, 763.—loquellas: 5, 230, ‘nutricis blanda atque infracta loquella’; Brambach prefers *loqua*la.—Cf. lingua suavis, 413; Aen. 5, 842, funditque has ore loquellas.

40. Alliteration of ppp; the relative absence of alliteration in the introduction is remarkable.—funde: 413, ‘lingua meo suavis diti de pectore fundet’.—placidam: 6, 73, placida cum pace quietos.—Romanis: the dative is a rather uncommon construction with peto instead of pro and abl. Cic. QF. 2, 13, 3, ‘M. Curtio tribunatum ab eo petivi.’—inclusa: an antique word not used by Cicero and Caesar; an epithet of Epicurus, 3, 10, of Memmius, 5, 8. Georg. 4, 534, ‘tu munera supplex | tende petens pacem.’ In Carter’s Epitheta Deorum, inclusus is cited of more than a dozen deities (Iovi, Plaut. Persa, 251); cf. Stabat Mater, 12, ‘nati poenas inclyti’.

41. nam: in the present state of civil disturbance the calm of the Muses is broken.—neque . . . nec is common: Draeg. Synt. § 323, 3. In L. 1, 747–748; 2, 867–868; 3, 467, 686–687, 711–712, etc.—nos lacks logical accent.—agere hoc: 4, 969, ‘nos agere hoc autem et naturam quaerere rerum.’ It seems to mean ‘to set about this task’; M. quotes Juv. 7, 20 hoc agite, 48, nos tamen hoc agimus; see Mayor’s notes there.—patriai tempore iniquo: plainly some time of civil disturbance; Munro and Giussani would have the reference to the end of 695/59, when Caesar was consul. Tennyson, Lucr., ‘keep him from the lust of blood | That makes a steaming slaughter house of Rome.’—Manil. 1, 13, ‘hoc sub pace vacat tantum.’—The older view (Forb. ad loc.) made the reference to the disturbances caused by Clodius in 696–697. Bernays does better in making the time of the disturbance extend from 655 to 699. Brandt, Jahrb. 131, 602, demands an actual war, not a mere civil disturbance; not one war necessarily (cf. 29, 30); we must find a war by land and sea which disturbed all the Roman people (40); such a war was the Mithradatic, 686/68, and that of the pirates at sea.—Patriui may be dative, see on 454. Forb. is wrong in joining hoc to tempore; see Polle, Phil. 25, 500; Schneidewin, Phil. 10, 362; the latter explains si tempus erit iniquum.—tempore iniquo: also of atoms, 183.

42. aequo animo is opposed to tempore iniquo. See on 3, 939.—Memmi: this word occurs only here and in 2, 182 in the middle of the verse; in all other cases (411, 1052; 2, 143; 5, 8, 93, 164, 867, 1282) it comes in the sixth foot. Notice that it does not appear in the third, fourth, or sixth books, and could easily replace a spondaic or trochaic adjective or adverb in the sixth place. Could L. have added the name of M. as an afterthought in revising the work? See Introd. 25.—

clara : 638, Heracitus . . . clarus, opposed by implication to obscurus. For the elision in the second foot of — before o, see on 3, 184. Memnius was praetor urbanus in 58, which justifies the adjective. The family also claimed descent from Mnestheus : Aen. 5, 117, ‘mox Italus Mnestheus genus a quo nomine Memmi’; cf. Aen. 4, 288.—propago, ‘scion.’ M. quotes Manil. 1, 795, et Claudi magna propago.

43. communi saluti, as he would have no peace for the reception of Epicurus’ doctrine. 5, 958, nec commune bonum poterant spectare. ‘Et le grand Memnius, défenseur de l'état, | Ne peut pour m'écouter, déserter le combat;’ Martha, p. 66.—desse for desse also in 1111; common in dactylic poetry; cf. derrasse, 711.

44–49 is inserted here from 2, 646–651 by the ‘interpolator irrisor, qui poetam reprehendens versus adscripsit,’ as Harder puts it in his index to Lachmann’s commentary. Marullus cancelled the verses, which had been inserted, as Isaac Voss said, ‘ut ostenderet Lucretium sibi adversari, qui cum deos mortalia non curare affirmet, Venerem tamen invocet.’

50–61. ‘Listen, Memnius, and do not despise my sayings; I shall discourse concerning the things of heaven and the gods; how nature works with the atoms which we call by various names.’

50. A lacuna before 50 is inferred by most edd. since Lachm., as the poet is now addressing Memnius. The reading adopted is by Bernays; quod superest ut vacuas auris, OQ; old editions, q. s. v. a. mihi Memnius et te; Lamb., Memniada. Lachm. proposes animumque age Memmi, but follows in his text the suggestion of Bernays, who found in the Verona interpreter of Georg. 3, 3, vacuas aures animumque sagacem ascribed to L.; and L. 4, 912 has tu mihi da tenuis aures animumque sagacem. Brieger marks off 50–61 as out of place; discussion in Phil. 23, 456 sq., Jahresb. 17, 233; Susemihl, Greifswald Ind. 1884, 6; Woltjer, Mnemosyne, 24, 62; Everett, Harv. St. 7, 25; v. d. Valk, 43; Vahlen, Monatsb. Berl. Akad. 1877, 488. Goebel, Rh. M. 15, 416, dislikes sagacem and proposes auris nobis animumque; cf. 2, 1023, nunc animum nobis adhibe veram ad rationem. Sauppe, Ausgew. Schrift. 726, transfers 50–61 to follow 79; cf. also Stürenberg, Acta Phil. Lips. 2, 12. Bock. transfers 50–61 to follow 158; he makes 1–49 a later addition; Giuss. places 50 after 145, with no lacuna. Reitzenstein regards 50–61 as necessary for the explanation of 159–214; he would read 50–61, 136–145, 62 sq.—quod superest, ‘for what remains,’ a common formula in L. Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 63, discusses quod superest in L.; it occurs nine times at the beginning of a new period, but nowhere in the first and second books, once (350) in the third book, once (595) in the fourth, four times in the fifth (91, 261, 772, 1241), thrice in the sixth (219, 423, 906). It means ‘well then’ or iām age. Once (6, 979) it is used demonstratively: hoc etiam superest. At the beginning, in the sense praeterea, it occurs twice: 4, 768, 1283; in the middle of the argument in the sense etiam or ‘advancing further’ it occurs four times: 2, 39, 491; 5, 64; 6, 1000. In two places it means quod restat, 1, 921; 2, 183; in two places also with a genitive, 3, 905; 5, 206. In the sense quod plus est it occurs in 2, 546; 4, 195. Woltjer would interpret this passage (1, 50) either like 4, 1283 in the sense praeterea, or as coming in the middle of the argument in sense quod plus est like 2, 546; at any rate it cannot introduce a new period.—aurea: 2, 1024, ‘nam tibi vementer nova res molitur ad auris | accidere’; Plaut.

Tr. 11, 'date vocivas auris dum eloquor'; Hor. Epo. 1, 16, 26, 'vacuas permulceat aures'; Quint. 10, 132, 'vacuas aures.' — sagacem: on 1, 130.

51. semotum: 2, 19, cura semota metuque. — curis: 5, 45, 'quantae tum scindunt hominem cuppedinis acres | sollicitum curae quantique perinde timores' unless the heart is cleared as he says; 3, 826, 'curisque fatigat'; 3, 1051, 'ebrius urgeris multis miser undique curis | atque animi incerto fluitans errore vagaris'; 5, 1431, 'in curis consumit inanibus aevom'; this ἀράπαξτα is one of the chief ends of the poem, and the aim of the Epicurean philosophy. See on 3, 826. — veram ad rationem, the 'true philosophy' of Epicurus which L. often confuses with fact; 2, 1023, 'nunc animum nobis adhibe veram ad rationem'; 1, 498, 'vera tamen ratio naturaque rerum cogit'; 623, 'quoniam ratio reclamat vera'; so 513, 'res ulla potest vera ratione probari'; 637, 'magno opere a vera larsi ratione videntur.' Mistaken philosophers are wrong, so others in 2, 176; 2, 82, 'avius a vera longe ratione vagaris,' if you accept a hypothesis inconsistent with Epicureanism; so also 1, 229, 'avius a vera longe ratione recedit'; 2, 645, certain mythological interpretations are false — 'longe sunt tamen a vera ratione repulsa'; 5, 23, if you think Hercules was a benefactor above Epicurus 'longius a vera multo ratione ferere'; 5, 1117, if a man governs his life by true philosophy, which is Epicureanism, 'quod si quis vera ratione gubernet'; 6, 767, mistaken popular errors, 'quod procul a vera quam sit ratione repulsum | percipe,' so also 6, 853; 6, 80, there is no divine vengeance 'quam quidem ut a nobis ratio verissima longe | reiciat' it is necessary to give the ratio caeli. Cicero also uses the phrase: Fin. 1, 5, 2, 'invitat igitur vera ratio bene sanos ad iustitiam.' Haeckel, as Kelsey says, speaks of the 'unassailable truth' of the theory of descent.

52. dona: M. compares Ciris 46, 'accipe dona meo multum vigilata labore.' — disposta: cf. repusta, 35, and on 3, 420.

53. intellecta priusquam sint: for the subjunct. cf. 417; 2, 833; 4, 296; 5, 391; antequam, 6, 169, 463. — relinquas: L. nowhere else implies that such a thing is possible. It is probable that Memmius did what L. fears.

54. summa caeli ratione: 'most lofty system,' i.e. deepest philosophy; ultima essenza, Giuss.; 5, 335, 'natura haec rerum ratioque repertast'; 6, 83, 'est ratio caeli tenenda'; 2, 178, 'hoc tamen ex ipsis caeli rationibus ausim | confirmare,' i.e. from the arrangements; also 5, 196. — 1, 127, 'quapropter bene cum superis de rebus habenda | nobis est ratio' seems to repeat the thought of 54. At the outset the poet intends to discuss physics rather than ethics; the reason will appear later.

55. disserere: 6, 940, 'qua de re disserere aggrediar,' the only other place where he uses the word. — incipiam, 'take in hand,' 'proceed.' 'Coepi' refers to the action which is begun, incipio more to the beginning which has been made, Död.; but incipio is regularly used for the tenses of the present stem of coepi; 4, 29, nunc agere incipiam; 6, 906, agere incipiam. He has also incepti finem contingere, 5, 391 (5, 385 conata patrantur); inceptum pergam pertexere dictis, 6, 42; neque enim facere incipit ullam | rem quisquam, 4, 883 — the only places where he uses the word. Aen. 2, 12, 'quamquam animus meminisse horret luctuque refugit, | incipiam'; Georg. 1, 5, 'hinc canere incipiam'; but Georg. 1, 225 coepere. Coepi sometimes has the same notion of undertaking: 4, 807, 'nonne vides oculos etiam, cum tenvia quae sunt | cernere cooperunt.' For incipio, Krätsch, De abundantia d. g. Lucret.

16, compares Ter. And. 493, 'tibi videor esse quem tam aperte fallere incipias dolis'; Nepos, Pelop. 1, 1, 'si res explicare incipiam'; Ov. F. 4, 16, 'coeptum perfice, dixit, opus.' — primordia, his most common word for atoms, occurring 73 times according to Woltjer. Pacuvius had used the word: quod primordium capissam, 50, 51; it was used occasionally by Cicero and the later writers. The Epicureans used various words to express atoms and primary bodies: ἀρχαὶ = principia, usually in the forms principiorum and principiis, in other cases primordia; στοιχέα = elementa, ὑλη = materies, σώματα = corpora, τρόπος σ. = corpora prima. The words ἀρχαὶ and τὰ ὀρθέλια L. did not transfer (Bindseil, 11 sq.; Polle, AV. 15). The words used by L. for primary bodies are primordia with and without rerum, semina rerum or semina, corpora prima, genitalia corpora, genitalis materies, corpora alone, prima, exordia rerum, principia, elementa, corpuscula, radices — the last from Empedocles. Cicero has individua corpuscula, ND. 1, 67, individua et solidia corpora, Fin. 1, 18 and often atomi. 'Nostri insecabilia corpora, nonnulli individua vocitaverunt,' Vitr. 2, 2, 1. — pandam: 5, 54, omnem naturam pandere dictis.

57. quove for quoque as in 3, 34; so quaeque for et quae, 2, 1031. Quidve petat, Aen. 10, 150. — eadem: probably accusative as in 2, 1156, where there is a like ambiguity, 'sed genuit tellus eadem quae nunc alit ex se'; and as in 56 the order is omnis natura res with the nominative intervening, so in this line natura nominative comes between the two accusatives. — rursum, 'in turn.' He has also the form rurus 5, 749; 3, 121, eadem rursum. — perempta: 5, 319, 'si procreat ex se | omnia . . . recipitque perempta.' The neuter is taken from res: 1, 238, res omnis . . . indupedita; 351, arbusta . . . in totas; 157, queal res quaeque . . . quaeque modo fiant. See lex., res, D. — resolvat: 5, 276, 'nisi contra | corpora retribuat rebus recreetque fluentis, | omnia iam resoluta forent,' where omnia takes up rebus also.

58. nos probably means 'we Epicureans.' — materiem: he has materia about 50 times but not in the nominative singular, and but once in the accusative singular, 4, 148; materies about 29 times in nominative and accusative singular only; so he has amicities once in accusative singular, amicitia twice in genitive singular only; effigies once; effigias, accusative plural, twice; avarities once; durities once; notities twice; notitia, genitive and accusative six times; spurcities, spurcitia, nominative singular, each once; see Roby, 932. Metrical convenience appears to govern his choice; but generally the first declension rules in oblique cases, Reisig, 1, 146. Lact. uses the genitive plural of materies. — genitalia corpora, 'creative elements'; genitalia semina 5, 850–851; corpora 1, 167; 2, 62, 548 only. — rebus: L. often uses the dative where we should expect a genitive. See on 3, 129.

59. Note the feminine caesura; there are comparatively few such verses in L. See Kühn, 51. — reddunda: archaic spelling; again in 5, 66; gignundis, 1, 707.

Cf. on 3, 409. — ratione, ‘in our discussion.’ Rationem reddere is common in L. See on 3, 259. — semina rerum used also by Ovid, e.g. M. 1, 419. The words usually come at the end of the line in L. and Ovid.

60. suēmus: L. uses this form 3 times: 301; 4, 369; see Gildersleeve-Lodge, LG. 131, 2, n.; Roby, 94. Sueſſe, 5, 912; suēvit, 6, 953, suevit, 6, 793; suerit, 5, 53; suerint, 4, 303; sueſſe, 5, 912; sueti, 2, 903; suta, 2, 448; — all of these except 1, 60 are at the end of the line. It is of course possible that suēmus may be from a lost sueo, as L. and S. think; most editors and grammarians prefer to call it syncopated; so consuemus, Prop. 1, 7, 5. For spondaic lines, see on 3, 191. — usurpare, ‘name’: lex. a.v. II, C. In 4, 975 it also forms the close of a spondaic verse, tetrasyllables being the best ending in such verses. Bock. reads usurpanius.

61. ex illis sunt: esse ex occurs in 654; 2, 402-403, 451-452; the preposition is omitted in 2, 445; 3, 216; both constructions are common in L.; see on 3, 216. primis, i.e. principiis, M. compares V. Ecl. 6, 33, ‘ut his exordia primis | omnia.’

62-79. ‘When men were sore pressed by superstition Epicurus first dared to make head against it and to break through the barriers of nature and as a victor to bring the knowledge of the limitations of law, thus conquering religion.’ — With this statement the argument of the poem properly begins.

62. ‘The terrible picture which Lucretius has drawn of Religion, in order to display the magnanimity of his philosophical hero in opposing her, is thought to be designed with great boldness and spirit,’ Burke, Sublime and Beautiful, ed. 1829, sub fin. — 62-79 follow 43 in Giussani’s ed. — Humana, emphasized by position. — 3, 37, ‘et metus ille foras praeceps Acheruntis agendum, | funditus humanam qui vitam turbat ab imo’; 5, 1233, ‘usque adeo res humanas vis abdita quaedam | opterit.’ — ante oculos, i.e. plainly; on 3, 185. — foede, 85; 3, 49, foedati crimine turpi. — iacebat: 5, 174, ‘at, credo, in tenebris vita ac maerore iacebat, | donec diluxit rerum genitalis origo.’ Cum temp. with subjunct. impf. occurs only here in L., as 4, 578, is iterative with second person: Dr. Synt. II, § 498. — Avancius and most of the older editors inserted here the interpolated passage from the 2d book. Bock. would have the real prooemium begin here, mainly because other books begin with praise of Epicurus, but a general introduction to the entire poem is necessary. — Sen. Ep. 117, 6, ‘cum de animarum aeternitate disserimus non leve momentum apud nos habet consensus hominum aut timentium inferos aut coletum.’

63. The verse ending is bad, as the 5th and 6th feet are contained within one word. — in terris is a prosaic expression which he frequently uses: 130; 5, 586. — religione: L. seems to make no distinction between religion and superstition: 3, 54, ‘acrius advertunt animos ad religionem’; 1, 932, ‘religionum animum nodis exsolvere pergo’; but in 1, 109, ‘religionibus atque minis obsistere vatum’ it rather means superstition. In 6, 62, appears his indifference: ‘rursus in antiquas referuntur religionis | et dominos acris adsciscunt.’ He does not use superstitio, which first occurs in Cicero. The difference between the attitude of Lucr. and that of Epicurus who wrote περὶ εὐεξίας and περὶ θεῶν and περὶ δοκιμής (see Usener, Épicurea, 257) is discussed by Martha, Poème, p. 76 sq., who finds the chief reason in the difference between the Greek and Roman systems: ‘(Ces dieux) président minutieusement à tous les actes de la vie civile et domestique, surveillant l’homme et le citoyen, et, comme des magistrats subalternes, exercent une sorte de police tracassière . . .’

Aussi l'impiété de Lucrèce est plus violente que celle d'Epicure, et sous son fanaticisme dogmatique on croit voir un ressentiment personnel contre la religion romaine; Friedländer, Sittengesch. 3, 425, also regards Lucretius' bitterness as exceptional. Buchanan, Mod. Atheism, p. 36 sq., discussing the Epicurean ideal of tranquillity of mind, remarks that the only sovereign and effective antidote to superstitious terror was thought to be the spirit of philosophical disbelief, although the fears which generated religion must have been anterior to it. Tolstoi, in an article on Religion and Morality (Contemp. Rev. 65, 326), gives three definitions of religion, the second being 'religion is a collection of superstitious statements, from which a worship equally superstitious is derived. Such an interpretation is applied to religion by sceptics in general; by those, that is, who do not believe in the religion they are defining.—By the second (definition) religion is a mass of superstition from which it is desirable, and even needful to the welfare of humanity, that mankind should be delivered.—It is that which, in the definier's opinion, people are wrong in believing.' This is the position of L. The Epicurean, of course, believed in the existence of the gods: esse igitur deos confidendum est, Cic. ND. 1, 44. To L. religion is turpis, 2, 657; gravis in this passage.—Cic. Div. 2, 148, 'superstitione tollenda religio tollitur . . . ut religio propaganda etiam est . . . sic superstitionis stirpes omnes eligendae.' Ihne, Hist. Rome, 4, 254, well says that Roman religion had nothing to do with the faith and very little with the moral condition of men; and, p. 270, that it shudders at the thought of having neglected anything to avert the wrath of the gods.

64. Spondaic line with the best ending.—quae caput: the lively personification heightens the effect; other personifications of religio in 79, 83; 2, 45. Burke, Sublime and Beautiful, 241, commenting on this picture says: 'What idea do you derive from so excellent a picture? None at all, most certainly; neither has the poet said a single word which might in the least serve to mark a single limb [caput?] or feature of the phantom which he intended to represent in all the horrors imagination can conceive [but did he ?]. In reality, poetry and rhetoric do not succeed in exact description so well as painting does; their business is to affect rather by sympathy than imitation.'—caeli regionibus: 1062, in loca caeli; 1064, in caeli templo, and elsewhere—ostendebat: impf. of continuous action; obtendebat, Wakef.—Martha, p. 87, says that paganism at Rome appeared only as an immense instrument of terror. Heaven, earth, hell, were peopled with a thousand terrible divinities who practised an inexplicable and ridiculous tyranny over the human race. Lact. Inst. 3, 27, seems to have imitated this passage: 'quae (virtus) sese a regionibus caeli regionibus ostentabat.'—Schwartz, Jahrb. 109, 363, thinks the imagery of a thunderstorm was in the poet's mind; cf. 4, 169 sq.

65. super = in caeli regionibus, an adverb. There is no verb superinsto.—aspectu, 'mien,' a meaning occurring only here in L.; common in patristic Latin: (lignum) aspectu delectabile, Vulg. Gen. 3, 6; avoided by the best writers, although occurring in Cic. ND. 2, 158.—mortalibus, for hominibus or viris, is common in L.—instans: Bernays and others compare Servius on Aen. 8, 187, 'aut secundum Lucretium supersticio est superstantium rerum, i.e. caelestium et divinarum, quae super nos stant, inanis et superfluus timor.' Cic. Div. 2, 149, '(supersticio) instat enim et urguit.' M. tr. 'lowering.'

66. primum, first in order of time; Ep. did this first before all others; primus

in 67 means he was the first of all to do it. As a matter of historical truth Democritus had preceded Ep. in intellectual audacity, but perhaps not in scorn of religion; cf. Ovid's praise of Pythagoras (M. 15, 60 sq.) which was perhaps suggested by L.'s praise of Epicurus: 72, 'primusque animalia mensis | arguit imponi: primus quum talibus ora | docta quidem solvit, sed non et credita, verbis.' — Graius: so in 3, 3 Ep. is Graiae gentis decus; L. does not use Graecus. Enn. had used both forms: Graius homo, Ann. 177. Graius is mostly poetical. — homō, a man, not a god. The final o was originally long; homō, 6, 652; homōque, 6, 676; see Müller, RM. 336; Lindsay, LL. 212; Cruttwell, RL. 276. Lucr. never shortens final o in the abl. sing. 2d declension, even in modo (2, 941 n.). See Kühn, 37. — tollere, OQ, M. Br. Giuss. Bail., tendere, Nonius, Lamb. ed. 3, Lachm. Bern. M. gives instances where Seneca, Gellius, Nonius, and Lactantius have misquoted L. Discussion by Polle, Phil. 26, 298. Livy, 6, 16, 3, 'aut tribuni plebis aut ipsa plebs attollere oculos aut hiscere audebant'; Ov. M. 2, 448, 'vix oculos attollit humo.' Tollere is consistent with iaceret, 62, and is antithetic to oppressa.

67. obsistere, 'to make a stand against'; 109, 'religionibus atque minis obsistere vatum.' — contra and contra, 66: such repetitions occur occasionally in L.: 835–836, e pauxillis atque minutis . . . de pauxillis atque minutis. — Cudworth, I, 150: 'It was thus a noble and heroical exploit of Democritus and Epicurus, who . . . did manfully encounter that affrightful spectre . . . of a providential deity; and by clear philosophic reason chase it away, and banish it quite out of the world; laying down such principles as would solve all the phenomena of nature without a God.' Lewes, Biographical Hist. of Phil., 1857, 280, mentions Lucretius' claim to a rebellious originality for Epicurus, which history cannot endorse. Epicurus is the moral hero; cf. 5, 1 sq. — Klussmann, Phil. 26, 364, thinks Arnobius, I, 37–39, in giving praise to Christ is following Lucretius' praise of Epicurus.

68. Alliteration, ff, intentional; nnn, accidental. — fama, OQ, M. Br. Giuss. Bail.; fana, Bentl. Lachm. Bern.; he has fana, 5, 75, fanum, 6, 849; fama several times, most often ut fama est, 3, 981, n. Tr.: 'story of the gods.' M. The objective genitive with fama is not so common as de with the abl.; see exx. of both in lex., s.v. I, b. — mimitanti: Plew, Jahrb. 93, 631 sq., has examined the occurrence of words with the metrical value of  $\cup \cup \_ \square$  at the end of the hexameter; there are many such in L.: e.g. 4, 51, 74, 97, 112, 139, 148. Virgil has 6 examples of a monosyllable in the fifth ictus syllable, Ovid has none; and they employ the ending itself very sparingly and mostly in Greek proper nouns and words. L. has in the majority of cases a monosyllable before  $\cup \cup \_ \square$ . In the 161 cases where such a close occurs, a monosyllable precedes in 71, and in 38 more there is elision which reduces dissyllables to monosyllables. The remaining 52 words in 32 cases have their regular accent through elision. So in L. there are only 20 cases where violence is done to the ordinary accent; e.g. I, 139, 547. — Cicero, Arat. 71, 'nec metuant canos mimitanti murmure fluctus.' — Cicero, Tusc. I, 43, has no sympathy with this praise of Epicurus: 'soleo saepe mirari non nullorum insolentiam philosophorum, qui naturae cognitionem admirantur eiusque inventori et principi gratias exsultantes agunt eumque venerantur ut deum.'

69. Alliteration (mmcm); allit. with m is frequent when thunder is mentioned: 5, 1193, 'murmura magna minarum'; 5, 1221, 'contremitt et magnum percurrunt murmura caelum.' — eo, all the more he strove to conquer nature's secret. — acrem: 'penetrating' if animi means intellect, 'ardent' if soul; the latter is more probable.

70. inritat is contracted from inritavit; so 6, 587, disturbat for disturbavit; superat (e coni.), 5, 396; a contraction usually avoided, as it was likely to work confusion between present and perfect forms in prose. The subjects of inritat are distributed as those of compressit in 69. See Lane, 892. — effringere occurs nowhere else in L., and confringere, an unmetrical reading, is found in OQ. Edd. read effringere from Priscian's quotation. Housman, Cl. R. 5, 295, would read esfringere, as in his opinion cō and ec were confused; Wakef. had printed esfringere; Bock. virtus confringere. — arta: 931, 'artis | religionum animum nodis exsolvere.'

71. Alliteration (ppcc). — naturae: Nature is invested in a walled town by the hero Epicurus. — claustra: if he should break the bars the gates would open. Lucil. 30, 1, 'quoi sua committunt mortali claustra Camenae,' where Müller compares L. — cupiret, O corr., Prisc., edd.; cuperet, OQ. In L.'s time there was probably some doubt as to whether cupio was conjugated like rego or audio. The other forms which L. uses might be either 3d or 4th conj. Bock. reads studeret; Mähly, Jahrb. 71, 204, valeret.

72. Note the alliteration. — ergo, rather resumptive than strictly logical: 'well then,' as in 2, 624; the logical conclusion is obscure but implied, i.g. 'because his courage was so great, therefore,' etc. — vivida: 'lively, vigorous,' a poetic word; it occurs with tellus, 178; cf. 3, 558, 'corporis atque animi vivata potestas.' Dactylic words in the 2d foot are rare; cf. 87, and Müller, RM. 216. — vis animi is a periphrasis for animus; such are common; see on 3, 8. — pervicit: the word occurs again in 5, 99, 'quam difficile id mihi sit pervincere dictis,' 'to win a complete victory.'

73. processit: sc. Epicurus, as is shown by refert victor, 75. — flammatia moenia mundi, 'the flaming ramparts of the world.' Cf. Gray, Progress of Poetry, 'He pass'd the flaming bounds of space and time.' The world was supposed to be surrounded by a fire belt or ether: 2, 1144, 'magni quoque circum moenia mundi'; 5, 449 sq., the heavy atoms met in chaos and by union squeezed out the smaller and light atoms 'quae mare sidera solem | lunamque efficerent et magni moenia mundi.' See on 3, 16. Edd. comp. Manil. 1, 151, 'flammarum vallo naturae moenia fecit'; Milton, 'the rest in circuit walls this universe.'

74. omne, 'the universe,' rd. ώντας, in which are innumerable worlds: 967, 'infinitum omne relinquit'; 2, 1108, 'semina quae magnum iaculando contulit omne'; 1, 1001, 'omne quidem vero nil est quod finiat extra.' Cic. prefers omnia; cf. Acad. 2, 118, 'e qua omnia gignerentur' and Reid there. — immensum: 956, 'pervideamus utrum finitum funditus omne | constet an immensum pateat vaseque profundum.' — peragravit: 926, 'avia Pieridum peragro loca'; Hor. C. 1, 28, 4, 'nec quidquam tibi prodest | aerias tentasse domos animoque rotundum | percurrisse polum morituro.' Cic. Tusc. 5, 114, 'ille (Democritus) in infinitatem omnem peregrinabatur'; Fis. 2, 102, 'haec non erant eius qui innumerabiles mundos infinitasque regiones, quarum nulla esset ora, nulla extremitas, mente peragravisset'; Lact. Inst. 4, 2, 'qui quoniam peragratis et exploratis omnibus, nusquam ullam sapientiam comprehendebunt'; Sen. Ep. 78, 26, 'rerum naturam peraganti numquam in fastidium veritas veniet.' Madvig thinks that this passage or some Greek authority common to Cic. and Lucr. was before Cic. in Fis. 2, 102. — mente animoque: a compound expression for mind and thought; see on 3, 142. Conington on Aen. 6, 11, magnam cui mentem animumque, where he thinks the rhythm and expression are taken from this passage, says mens refers to power of insight, animus to energy of conception. See Kraetsch, p. 30. — ‘Power of thought,’ Giuss.

75. unde, i.e. from extra flammatia moenia and omne immensum. — refert: 2, 1001, ‘caeli rellatum templa receptant’; Tac. Ann. 13, 32, ‘ovans se de Britannia retrullit.’ M. cites Plaut. Poen. 847, ‘domum haec ab aede Veneris refero vasa.’ Nonius wrongly makes it mean ostendit here (cf. Madvig, Fin. p. 308). Reid on Cic. Acad. 2, 126, cites the passage to illustrate ‘solis autem magnitudinem . . . vos ergo huius magnitudinem quasi decempeda permensi refertis.’ — nobis, ‘for us.’ — victor is used frequently with words of returning; see lex. s.v. II, B. a. L. uses the word here only, and victoria in 79 only. — oriri, ‘come into being,’ common in L. and other authors. Notice the verse ending —finite + infin., as in 2, 171; 3, 715, 970; 4, 965. These occur far less often than infin. + infin. or part. + infin. or infin. + finite. — ‘If there is anything for which the world is indebted to Epicurus (probably still more to Lucr.), it is for a clear enunciation of the principle of law in Nature,’ Masson, Atomic Theory, p. 9.

76. nequeat: L. cares little for symmetry or he would have written queat for possit 75, in spite of metrical difficulties; cf. 157. — Centaurs, e.g. cannot exist: 5, 878, sq. — finita: limited by law, not exposed to the arbitrary will of deities; this word and finis occur frequently in L. — Cudworth, Intellectual System, I, 275, ‘as if . . . Epicurus, by showing that all power was finite, effectually destroyed religion; he thereby taking away the object of it, which is an omnipresent and infinitely powerful deity.’ — denique, ‘in short.’ — cuique, ‘limited for each thing.’

77. qunam: quidnam, 3, 7; ecquaenam, 5, 1212. — sit goes with finita. — alte haerens, ‘deep set’; 2, 1087, ‘quandoquidem vitae depactus terminus alte | tam manet haec.’ — terminus: 3, 1020, ‘nec videt interea qui terminus esse malorum.’ Terminus is the boundary stone, and is often used metaphorically: Accius 481, ‘veter fatorum terminus sic iusserat’; Hor. Carm. Saec. 26, ‘quod semel dictum est stabilisque rerum | terminus servet’; Aen. 4, 614, ‘et sic fata Iovis poscunt, hic terminus haeret.’ The boundary stone is planted deep (depactus) in the soil. A verb like positus sit is to be understood, or finita sit taken as a zeugma. — These lines quid nequeat . . . haerens are repeated in 5, 89–90, 6, 65–66, and quid possit oriri . . . haerens in I, 594–596. Gneisse, 68, thinks they are interpolated here, because in 62–74 the perfect is used and 75–77 could have been omitted. He thinks sit a present and finita an adjective. See Purmann, 10.

78. quare religio: cf. 62–63. The syllable re- of religio is probably long in prose also; see Zielinski, Phil. Suppl. 9, 767. — subiecta occurs only here in L.; sub pedibus iacere is a common expression. Georg. 2, 491, ‘et inexorable fatum | subiecit pedibus strepitumque Acherontis avari,’ referring to L. Subiecta with opteritur, 79, is an example of L.’s fulness of statement; he often uses in this way participles and verbs, e.g. 2, 952–953; 4, 201–202: Kraetsch 86. Munro illustrates pedibus subiecta from Livy, 45, 31, 3; Sen. Ep. 94, 56. — vicissim: always at the end of the verse in hexameter poetry: Archiv 7, 371.

79. opteritur: op for ob is frequent in O and Q; optineat, 3, 989; opturet, 4, 869; but obprobrium, 5, 1294; cf. also superter, 2, 326, etc., optulit, 3, 1041; optun- ditur, 4, 613; opterit, 5, 1234; opsita, 5, 1378; opsistere, 6, 331; apsiliebat, 6, 1217; Stolz, LG. 293; Hist. Gr., 1, 267; Lindsay, LL. 73.—nos: homines, as frequently.—victoria: sc. Epicuri.—caelo, dative; exaequo has this construction often; see lex. L., 5, 688, exaequat lucibus umbras. Edd. comp. Manil. 2, 452, ‘exaequentque fidem caelo mortalia corda’.

80–101. ‘Do not think you are entering on impious paths; far more impious was that sacrifice of the maiden who, on her knees at the altar before her father, fell an innocent victim to religion that the Greek fleet might gain a blest departure.’—This is the first of three grounds for hesitation.

80. Note the alliteration.—Illud in his rebus is one of his formulas, occurring 14 times, e.g. 370; 2, 308; illud in his quoque rebus, 2, 216; illud in his . . . quoque rebus, 2, 581; in his illud quoque rebus, 2, 184; illud in his igitur rebus, 2, 891. Illud alone, as designating a matter to which the poet would call the reader’s attention, occurs in 3, 754; 4, 858; 5, 592, 146; a prosaic usage.—rebus . . . rearis: for the assonance, cf. sciunctum secretumque, 431; sciungi seque gregari, 452; relicuo reparari, 560; retroque repulsa reverti, 2, 130; religione refrénatus . . . rearis, 5, 114; deminui debet recreari . . . recipit res, 5, 323; cavati . . . cava, 6, 1194. This assonance is intentional and is of manifold variety; cf. on 3, 353.—vereor, ‘I am apprehensive’; elsewhere in L. only in 414; he prefers metuo.—rearis, properly ‘reckon,’ and connected etymologically with ratio, 81. It is not plain whether he is consciously addressing Memmius or the general reader; Madv. LG. 370, 2, says tu is usually omitted for the generalizing 2d person, but that te [81] can refer to such a subject.

81. inpia: the first foot contained in a dactylic word. Notice inpia here but impia 83 and 2, 622. ‘In is regular, but in occurs in reality very frequently,’ Brambach, 37. Inpia is here doubtless affected by assonance with inire. The adjective goes in sense with rationis, not elementa. Epic. ad Men. in Diog. Laert. 10, 123, ἀσεβῆς δὲ οὐχ ὁ τοῦς τῶν πολλῶν θεοὺς δραμῶν, δλλ' ὁ τὰς τῶν πολλῶν δόξας θεοῖς προσάπτων. Reichenhart, Infin. etc., 515, notes the order: the attribute of the object preceding the subject: so 3, 124, ‘aequas omnia partes corpora habere’; 6, 627, ‘multum quoque tollere nubes umorem’; 1, 723, ‘flammarum . . . se colligere iras.’—rationis, ‘philosophy,’ ‘rationalism’; 5, 118, ‘pendere eos poenas inmani pro scelere omnis | qui ratione sua disturbant moenia mundi.’—elementa: sometimes used for primordia (3, 244 n.); here merely ‘beginnings.’

82. indugredi, for ingrēdi, which would not suit the metre; so 4, 342, 367; indupediri, 4, 70; indupedita, 1, 240; 6, 1010, etc.; induperatorem, 5, 1227, cf. 4, 967; indu, 2, 1096; iacere indu, 5, 102. Traces of the old form appear in indigo, indigena, indipiscor, indoles. The other form -endo occurs in 6, 890. See Lindsay, 582; Ribbeck, Trag. Rel. xii.—quod contra, ‘whereas, on the contrary.’ There is some doubt about the syntax of these words: Roby, 1897, and Madv. on Fin. 5, 76, would have contra a preposition governing quod, but cf. quod in 221; Ritschl, as quoted by Roby, sees in quod si, quod utinam, an old abl.; Lane, 1839–1842, discusses the ambiguity; Lindsay, 610, makes it acc.; Schmalz, Syntax, 499, sees an abl. in quod si and thinks the acc. and abl. constructions were confused. Lahmeyer on Cic. CM. 84, quod contra decuit, makes contra a prep., referring to Lael. 90, quod contra oportebat delicto dolere. Inferior readings quin contra,

quot contra, show that the syntax early caused trouble. Probably L. did not recognize any distinction here between adverb and preposition, or between pronoun and adverb; 4, 348, 'quod contra facere in tenebris e luce nequimus.' — saepe, 'too often,' or 'more often'? — illa, emphasized by position, as in 2, 633, illum | vagitum. In a contemptuous sense also in 4, 181, ille gruum quam | clamor.

83. peperit is frequently used metaphorically: 5, 334, organici melicos peperere sonores; see lex. Gigno is used in the same way in 2, 227, (corpora) gignere plagas. — scelerosa: ante- and post-classical; here only in L. Nigidius ap. Gell. 4, 9, maintained '-osus significat copiam quandam immodicam rei, super qua dicitur.' Ter. Eun. 643, 'ubi ego illum scelerosum misera atque impium inveniam.' — impia is emphasized by its metrical position, as also above in 81.

84. Aulide: for the story, see Eurip. Iph. A. 1100 sq., Aesch. Agam. 198–248, Ov. M. 12, 24, sq. — quo pacto, 'in what fashion'; a phrase half antique, half prosaic, frequently used by L.: cf. 307, 308, 568, etc.; Pacuvius, 286. 912 is a close parallel. — Trivial: Diana, the goddess of the three ways: Aen. 4, 609, nocturnisque Hecate trivis ululata per urbes. For the gen. in -ai see on militiae, 29; notice the position in the middle of the line, which occurs 6 times only: Städler, p. 6. Trivia is really an adjective, hence virginis is not harsh; Bock would join virginis to Iph., but cf. Aen. 4, 511, tria virginis ora Diana. In general cf. Pliny, 35, 73, 'nam Timanthi vel plurimum adfuit ingenii. eius enim est Iphigenia oratorum laudibus celebrata, qua stante ad aras perforata cum maestos pinxit omnes praecipue patrum, et tristitiae omnem imaginem consumpsisset, patris ipsius voltum velavit quem digne non poterat ostendere.' Val. Max. 8, 11, ex. 6, 'quid, ille alter aequa nobilis pictor, luctuosum immolatae Iphigeniae sacrificium referens, cum Calchanta tristem, maestum Ulyssem, clamantem Aiacem, lamentantem Menelaum circa aram statuisset, caput Agamemnonis involvendo, nonne summi maeroris acerbitudinem arte exprimi non posse confessus est'; cf. also Quint. 2, 13, 174. Hachez, Lukres als Dichter, 19, thinks L. was influenced by Timanthes' painting, and very likely L. may have seen some copy of it; the subject was a rhetorical commonplace. Ribbeck, Röm. Trag. 99, describes an Etruscan sarcophagus relief that portrays the sacrifice of Iph., which he thinks (p. 104) corresponds to L.'s description. See also the note in Jex-Blake-Sellers' Pliny, p. 116. The details of the Pompeian wall painting (Helbig, Wandgemälde, 284, Mau, Pompeii, 313) are inconsistent with L.'s description; probably the story of Iphigenia was a stock subject for artists and rhetoricians; another painting is described by Helbig, 1304; a round altar of white marble described by Friederichs, Gipsabgüsse antiker Bildwerke, 816, is ascribed to Cleomenes.

85. Iphianassai: the proper name excuses the inclusion of the first and second feet within one word: cf. argumentorum, 417; induperatores, 4, 967; imbecillorum, 5, 1023; innumerabilibus, 1, 583; consectabantur, 5, 967; subpeditabatur, 5, 1176; others in 4, 660; 5, 274; 6, 978, 1176. Expergesfactique, 4, 994 is unexampled. See Kühn, 54. — As a rule Iphianassa is Homeric, and Iphigenia tragic; but Soph. El. 157, distinguishes between two persons: see Schneidewin-Nauck, Einleitung zur Elektra, 30. L. alone of the Latin poets seems to use the form Iphianassa; it is difficult to see why, as metrical reasons did not force him. 'Iphianassai eruditio nem affectando in errorem lapsus esse videtur L. . . . Grammatici cum ab Euripide liberrimo antiquarum fabularum novatore tres appellari viderent in Oreste v. 23 Clytemnestra.'

trae filias Chrysothemis Electram Iphigeniam, tres illas Euripideas cum Homericis tribus conciliaturi Iphigeniam Euripideam candem esse statuebant atque Iphianassam Homericam, sicut reapse Laodice Homeri etiam a Sophocle appellabatur Electra,' Bernays. — turparunt: Aesch. Ag. 200, βαρεῖ δ', εἰ | τέκνον δαίκω, δόμων δύαλια, | μαίνων παρθενοσφάγοισιν | ρεθόποις πατρόφους χέρας βωμοῦ πέλας. — sanguine: Enn. Sc. 99, 'Iovis aram sanguine turpari'; Aen. 10, 832, 'sanguine turpantem . . . capillos.' — foede: Cic. Off. 3, 95, 'Agamemnon cum devovisset Dianaee quod in suo regno pulcherrimum natum esset illo anno, immolavit Iphigeniam, qua nihil erat eo quidem anno natum pulchrius: promissum potius non faciendum quam tam taetrum facinus admittendum fuit.' The legend has several forms: Arnob. 5, 34, 'sed ut vobis adsentiamur in fabulis his omnibus cervas pro Iphigeniis dici, unde tamen vobis liquet, cum allegorias istas vel explanare velitis vel pandere, eadem vos interpretari eademque sentire quea sub tacitis cogitationibus ipsis ab historicis sensa sunt nec per voces proprias, significationibus sed aliis explicata?'

86. Alliteration (ddd). — ductores Danaum also in Aen. 2, 14; id. 18, huc delecta virum sortiti corpora; 9, 226, ductores Teucrum primi, delecta iuventus. 'Ductores sonantius est quam duces,' Serv. — prima virorum: the part. gen. with neu. pl. is rare in Cic. and Caesar, poetical since L.: Schmalz, Gr. 537; the adjective with partitive gen. should have a quantitative idea, id. 419; cf. Madv. 284, 5; L. 1, 1041, aversa viai; 2, 115, opaca domorum; 2, 575, vitalia rerum; 4, 361, saxorum structa. He rarely uses this gen. with names of persons or of animate objects. Faber compares Ov. Am. 1, 9, 37, summa ducum Atrides. The construction is common in Greek: Herod. 9, 78, ἢ Λάρυτών ὁ Πόθεων Αἰγυπτέων τὰ πρῶτα; Aesch. Pers. 1, Περσῶν πρῶτα.

87. Alliteration (ccc). cui: almost equal to a possessive gen., and common in L.: 3, 294 n. — simul = simul ac; see lex. s.v. viii, 6. — infula, the fillet or band encircling the head: Aen. 10, 538, 'infula cui sacra redimbat tempora vitta'; worn by priest and victim. — circumdata: the construction is unusual, and it may be better with Lachm. to write circum data, when comptus would be construed with the prep. There is no parallel passage in L.: cf. circumfusa, 39. — comptus, 'locks, tresses'; lit. 'combing', a rare word quoted from Afranius, by Paul. ex Fest.; Ribbeck, Com. p. 220. M. notices the arrangement of the hair into sex crines for expected marriage: Ov. F. 2, 559, 'nec tibi, quae cupidae matura videbere matri, | comat virgineas hasta recurva comas.' — Notice the three dactyls at the beginning and cf. 83, 109, 302, 329. — Masson says of this description (At. Th. 194) 'even the strong intellectual passion which L. shows for scientific research pales before the intense white heat of his human sympathies.'

88. Note the alliteration. — utraque pari malarum parte: 'from each cheek in equal length.' The ribands were attached to the infula, and were allowed to droop from the ends of it along the face of the victim. See illustration in Rich 'vitta' 3, and 'infulatus.' Georg. 3, 486, 'saepe in honore deum medio stans hostia ad aram | lanea dum nivea circumdatur infula vitta, | inter cunctantes cecidit moribunda ministros.' — pari: the cheeks were alike in being affected similarly by the riband. The construction, as Wakef. says, is ex utraque malarum, pari parte, or according to Giuss. pariter ex utraque parte. Hidén, Synt. II, 45, regards it as a confusion of ex utraque parte; ex utraque pari m. p. M. compares 5, 674.

89. maestum: the force of the word is seen from Cic. Att. 3, 8, 2, 'itaque cum meus me maeror cotidie lacerat et conficit.' Cf. also Cic. Or. 74, 'si denique pictor ille vidit, cum immolanda Iphigenia tristis Calchas esset, tristior Ulixes, maereret Menelaus, obvolvendum caput Agamemnonis esse, quoniam summum illum luctum penicillo non posset imitari.' — simul: again for simul ac. — aras: plural perhaps for metrical reasons: Pliny (cf. Juv. 12, 119) has the pl.; Val. Max. and Ovid the sing., but L. has aras in 95; 2, 353; 5, 1199; in 4, 1237, aram could not stand, but it was admissible in 5, 75, 1201. Schmalz, Antibarb., says ara is sing., altaria pl.; in good prose the pl. of ara is used only in rhetorical expressions like pro aris et focis; see Draeger, Synt. I, § 5, 4. Aesch. has βώμοι τέλας.

90. sensit, 'perceived'; not vidit, as her sight was doubtless obscured by a veil (nubendi, 98). The common Pompeian wall picture of the sacrifice shows the maiden unveiled and without the vitta. — propter, 'near'; cf. 2, 30, 353, 417; 3, 653, etc., and note to the last. — ferrum, like English 'steel' for the knife; common in this meaning also in prose. — celare: Wakef. celerare; but ordinarily every effort was made to prevent fright on the part of the victim. — ministros: subordinates, popae, etc. Cf. in general Hor. S. 2, 3, 199, 'tu cum pro vitula statuis dulcem Aulide gnamat | ante aras spargisque mola caput, improbe, salsa, | rectum animi servas?'

91. aspectuque suo: 'at sight of her.' The objective use of suum for the personal pronoun is rare: exx. in lex., 'suus,' 7, sub fin., Lane, 1262. — lacrimas effundere: 125. Ovid in his account, M. 12, 30, 'rexque patrem vicit, castamque datura cruentum | flentibus ante aram stetit Iphigenia ministris.' — civis, Bock. thinks were citizens of Aulis who were bystanders; rather Greeks. (Possibly cives may be corrupt, representing some adjective.)

92. muta metu: 'dumb in her dread'; Aen. 9, 341, 'molle pecus mutumque metu'; id. 12, 718, 'stat pecus omne metu mutum.' — terram petebat: 'sank to the earth,' but the imperfect shows a continued action (i.q. slowly). Lachm. mentions a reading petivit from Schol. Ver. on Aen. 12, 718. — genibus summissa: 'dropping on her knees,' lit. 'let down'; 5, 1072, 'plorantis fugiunt summisso corpore plagas'; Aen. 3, 93, 'submissi petimus terram'; L. 3, 172, 'terraeque petitus'; Ov. M. 4, 340, 'flexuque genu submisit.' — She could speak no words, her attitude was a prayer, as Bock. says.

93. Caesura obscured. — nec: as frequently, we should expect the equivalent of English 'but' here. — miserae: Ov. Her. 13, 28, 'indignor miserae non licuisse mori.' The word is very common in L. — in tali tempore: without in in 2, 147; 6, 1029, 1251; Livy, 30, 37, 8. In tempore is used only when tempus signifies distress or misery (as it sometimes does in Cicero: in illo tempore, hoc quidem in tempore, and in Livy, in tali tempore, where we should say 'under such circumstances'), and 'in time,' 'at the right time,' Zumpt. LG. § 475 n.; see also Draeg. Synt. I, § 223, 4; Madv. 276; Lane, 1353. The phrase occurs in Aen. 11, 303, where Forb. quotes instances from Val. Flacc. and Sil. Cf. Cat. 64, 152, supremo in tempore decessim and L. 1, 546. For the Lucretian use of the ablative of time with in, see Meissner, 46, and on 3, 24. — quibat: found here only in L.; with the indicative forms of queo L. usually joins a negative: nec . . . quimus, 300; 3, 859; nec . . . queunt, 2, 361–362, 569, 364–365; 1, 530, 549; minus . . . queunt, 4, 70–71; 'non queunt,'

5, 128–129; 3, 784–785, cf. neque . . . quisce, 5, 1422; but queunt without negative, 1, 827; 2, 819; quimus, 2, 140; the subjunctive forms occur sometimes with (2, 1071), oftener without a negative (1, 157), but usually there is an implied negative in the form of the sentence. Neque . . . quibat occurs in Plaut. Rud. 600. Queo is an older word than possum.

94. patrio: on 3, 9.—princeps: 5, 9, ‘qui princeps vitae rationem invenit.’ Primus makes his appearance first; princeps acts first and others follow the example; Död. Edd. quote Eurip. Iph. A. 1220 πρῶτη σ' ἐκάλεσα πατέρα, καὶ σὺ ταῖδ' ἔμι. Racine, Iphig. iv, 4: ‘C'est moi qui la première, | seigneur, vous appellai de ce doux nom de père.’ Livy, 21, 4.

95. nam: for she was not treated as a daughter, but as a victim.—sublata: as she is represented in the picture. But the thought of the wedding ceremony is latent and the words are ambiguous. The bride was lifted over the threshold (Catull. 61, 166, transfer omine cum bono | limen aureolos pedes). Aesch. Agamem. 223 φρασσεν δέ δόμοις πατήρ μετ' εὐχάρι | δικαν χιωταρας ὑπερθε βωμοῦ | πέπλουσι περικεφῆ ταντὶ θυμῷ | προσωπῇ λαβεῖν δέρθη. Eurip. Iph. 1559 μὴ φάνση τις Ἀργείων ἔμοι.—virum: although a maiden.—manibus: presumably violent.—tremibunda: he has moribundus in 3, 653, etc. Words in -bundus belong to the popular language, and with a few exceptions are not common in good writers: lists in Roby, 818, 819. Tremibunda is ambiguous: the trembling of the victim and the trembling of the bride; nupta virum timeat, Ov. AA. 3, 613.—Cf. in general Iph. 1467 sq.; Aesch. Ag. 228 sq.—aras: Q and Schedae have aram, which Orelli and Bock. read on account of 84.

96. deductast, ‘brought,’ not ‘led,’ on account of sublata. The reference is to the deductio of the bride: Ter. Hec. 135, uxorem deductit domum.—sollemni, ‘customary’; sollemnia sacra, 5, 1163.—sacrorum: the ceremonies of marriage. In the Roman confarreatio there was a sacrifice of fruit and bread (Marquardt, PL. 50); but the term sacra doubtless embraced all religious ceremonies connected with the wedding: the auspicatio, the usual offering of a sheep or other animal, the ritual words, etc. Iphig. and her mother had been summoned to Aulis for her marriage to Achilles: Hyg. 261, ‘ab Ulyse per nuptiarum simulationem adducta Iphigenia,’ cf. Serv. on Aen. 2, 116; Manil. 5, 544, ‘proposita est merces: vesano dedere ponto | Andromedan, teneros ut bellua manderet artus. | hic Hymenaeus erat.’

97. This is the only certain example in L. of the elision of a long vowel after the fifth ictus syllable; one also in V. Georg. 1, 63, and in Ov. M. 7, 172 (Eskuche, Rh. M. 45, 394; Kühn, 44); edd. have introduced in 2, 88 tergo ibus: see on 1, 350.—claro, ‘clear sounding’; clarumque sonorem, 4, 567; clara voce vocare, 4, 711.—comitari, passive; active in 2, 640. The passive form is quoted from Pliny the Elder, Justin, and Ovid; an active comito from Prop. and Ovid; the perfect participle is, however, classical: Catull. 63, 32. comitata tympano Atys. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 116, would have it deponent, comp. Cic. Tusc. 5, 35.—Hymenaeo, the marriage song; Ov. M. 12, 215, ecce canunt Hymenaeon; Catull. 62, 4, iam dicetur Hymenaeus.—With comitari the ablative is conceived as means, not agent: Cic. Cael. 34; Aen. 1, 312; Roby, 1220.

98. caste inceste, ‘sinless sinfully’; such cases of oxymoron are not uncommon in L.: see on 3, 779. Inceste, against right and law; ‘inceste sacrificium Dianaæ facere? quin tu ante vivo perfunderis flumine?' Livy, 1, 45, 6. Inceste is of course suggested by casta, which means pure both morally and ceremonially. Lemaire, 'quamvis pura virgo esset, impuris manibus virorum polluta mactaretur.' Eurip. Iph. 7. 566 κακῆς γυναικὸς χάριν ἀχαρίν ἀπώλετο.

99. First foot contained in one word, fourth foot closes a word; a loose verse.—hostia: the word is usually connected with ferire; for the distinction from victima (not used by L., derivation uncertain), cf. Cic. Font. 31, 'humanis hostiis eorum aras ac tempa funestant' with Caes. BG 6, 16, 2, 'pro victimis homines immolant.' Marquardt, PL 199, connects hostia with hostis, it being the offering made for the stranger; Rich, Dict. 341, would have hostia, a peace offering, and victima, an offering of thanksgiving. See Forcell., 'hostia.'—concederet: 2, 352, vitulus mactatus concidit.—mactatu: ἀπαξ λεγόμενον. Note the collocation mactatu maesta; 6, 759, ut si sint divis mactata.—parentis: cf. 89; Eurip. Iph. 1177 ἀδρὸς κτανὼν, οὐκ ἄλλος. Prop. 4, 1, 111, 'idem Agamemnoniae ferrum cervice puellae | tinxit, et Atrides vela cruenta dedit.'

100. Mallock has thus translated the whole passage: And as they bore her, ne'er a golden lyre | Rang round her coming with a bridal strain; | But in the very season of desire, | A stainless maiden amid bloody stain, | She died — a victim felled by its own sire — | That so the ships the wished-for wind might gain, | And air puff out their canvas. Learn thou then | To what damned deeds Religion urges men.—exitus, literally, of things, is Lucretian: 4, 398; 6, 586.—Prop. 3, 7, 23, 'classem non solvit Atrides: | pro qua mactata est Iphigenia mora'; Hor. S. 2, 3, 205, 'ut haerentis aduerso litore navis | eriperem, prudens placavi sanguine divos.'—felix faustusque: a common alliterative formula; sometimes fortunatus is added; Cic. Div. 1, 102, 'omnibus rebus agendis quod bonum faustum felix fortunatumque esset praefabantur'; Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 55. There is deep irony in using this formula.—L. likes to combine two adjectives of related meaning: candens lucidus, 4, 340; aeternum atque inmortale, 5, 159; certum ac dispositum, 5, 131; satur ac plenus, 3, 960; iratus atque infestus, 5, 1035; Dittel, 5; Kraetsch, 24-25.

101. suadere of evil in 6, 1282, 'multaque res subita et paupertas horrida suasit'; the verb is often used of things by the poets. These impia facta could not possibly be equalled by any philosophic scepticism.—malorum, evil: 3, 1020, 'nec videt interea qui terminus esse malorum.' Ciris, 455, tantum malorum.—Munro finds no trace of imitation of Aeschylus in the passage, but evidence that L. had studied Euripides. I see no reason for denying an acquaintance with Aeschylus also; naturally like other Romans he preferred Euripides.

102-135. 'Even you may be imposed upon by the seers, and retire from this inquiry, for they will invent superstitious terrors; if men knew their troubles were finite, they would discover some way to withstand such prophets; they do not know the nature of the soul although great Ennius has given mistaken testimony. You must learn with me the reason for things above, the course of the sun and moon, the constitution of the soul, and how we seem to see the spirits of the departed.'—This is the second ground of hesitation.

102. Tutemet: M. writes tutimet in 4, 915 with OQ, where Lachm. changes to tutemet. In Ter. HT. 374 Dziatzko prints tutimet with Umpf.; F and A have tutemet; see Lindsay, 423, Serv. on Aen. 4, 606. The weakening of e to i is regular:

Stoltz, Gr. 270. L. uses only the nom. of these compounds : nosmet, 3, 627 ; tute, 1, 269, 403, 407 ; 2, 441 ; 3, 1024 ; 4, 573, 1150 ; 6, 73. — nobis, from the author, or possibly from the Epicureans ; there is no certain parallel in L.—iam : Francken, Jahrb. 121, 766, thinks the poet intended to omit 80–101. But iam means ‘presently,’ as in 3, 915, —‘you will come to a time when,’ etc. ; 80–101 describe the hesitation proceeding from a fear of impiety, 102 sq., that from the intimidation of priests. Lamb, Faber, Wakefield make the contrast between the rudeness of Agamemnon and the culture of Memmius ; but raris, 80, and quaeres, 103, are coördinate. Bock regards 102–135 as a later addition by the poet, principally because it is addressed to an indefinite reader (cf. Bruns, Lukres Studien, 10). He thinks the original arrangement was 50–67, 922–950, 113–146. He sees no abuse in vatum because Ennius is named, and because the Graium docti poetae are mentioned with uniform respect even when in error : 2, 600 ; 5, 405. —vatum, contemptuous for poets as inspired singers or priests as in 109 ; he does not have the word elsewhere. It meant ‘poet’ in Ennius ; ‘versibu’ quos olim Faunei vatesque caneabant,’ Ann. 214, and that meaning was revived by Virgil, e.g. 6, 662, ‘quique pii vates et Phoebo digna locuti.’ For the sense of this passage cf. Cic. ND. 1, 55, ‘ut haruspices, augures, harioli, vates, coniectores nobis essent colendi.’ Buchanan, Mod. Atheism, 93, ‘formerly Religion was wont to be ascribed to priestcraft ; it was supposed to have been invented by fraud, supported by falsehood, and professed in hypocrisy.’ Leland’s Deists, 1, 58, “Shaftesbury intimates that the gospel was only a scheme of the clergy for aggrandizing their own power. He represents it as a natural suspicion of those who are called sceptical ‘That the holy records themselves were no other than pure invention and artificial compleiment of an interested party in behalf of the richest corporation and most profitable monopoly which could be erected in the world.’”—Ov. M. 15, 154, ‘quid Styga, quid tenebras et nomina vana timetis, | materiem vatum, falsique pericula mundi ? | corpora, sive rogas flamma, seu tabe vetustas | abstulerit, mala posse pati non ulla putetis.’ ‘Sub vatum appellatione (μάρτις) comprehendit prophetas sacerdotes poetas mythologicos, omnes denique popularis religionis pro-pugnatores,’ Bernays. Enn. Sc. 319, ‘superstitiosi vates impudentesque harioli.’ Pongerville does not go far enough : ‘lassé des prestiges funebres | Que les sons de la lyre ont rendus trop célèbres’ ; Good is nearer : ‘The fearful tale by priests and poets told.’ L. Müller, Q. Ennius, 29, ‘von Plautus bis auf Lucrez, in Prosa ebensowohl wie in Poesie, bedeutet vates durchaus nur Prophet, bei den Dichtern . . . hauptsächlich Bettelprediger, Lügenprediger oder . . . Pfaffe’ ; cf. 72 ; Aen. 5, 524 ‘seraque terrifici cecinerunt omnia vates.’ Vates of a prose speaker occurs in Livy, 30, 28, ‘dimicatio-nis vatem . . . Q. Fabium . . . canere solitum.’ Cf. L. 3, 629, ‘scriptorum saecula priora,’ with the context ; Sen. Dial. 6, 4 ‘luserunt ista poetae et vanis nos agitavere terroribus’ ; Aetna (written under Lucretian influence) 76, ‘vates | sub ter-ris nigros luserunt carmine manes | atque inter cineres Ditis pallentia regna, | mentiti vates Stygias undasque canesque’ ; 91 ‘debita carminibus libertas ista’ — plainly scriptores.

103. terridoquis is dr. λεγ. ; cf. perterrifico, 6, 129. — victus dictis : vincere verbis, 5, 735 ; victus fateare necessit, 1, 624 ; 5, 343. The reference is to the idle tales of Acheron and Cerberus, 3, 1011. Dictis occurs 11 times at the end, and 7 times within the verse ; when it comes at the end it usually has an infinitive preceding.

desciscere: a political metaphor; the usual construction is with a: cf. lex. and Quint. 9, 4, 146, 'si Cicero a Demosthene paulum in hac parte descivit'; 'fall away,' M.—desciscere quaeres, notice the verse ending. Quaero with infinitive is poetical: Dr. II, § 416, 6; Reichenhart, 467; cf. L. 3, 941; 4, 1097, 1118, etc., and on 3, 516.—For the attitude of the reader cf. 1, 331, 'quod tibi cognosse in multis erit utile rebus | nec sinet errantem dubitare et quaerere semper | de summa rerum et nostris diffidere dictis.'

104. quippe etenim : 2, 547, 792; 3, 440, 800; see on 3, 440 and Holtze, 190.—fingerere : 2, 58, 'quae pueri in tenebris pavant finguntque futura'; 2, 174, 'quorum omnia causa | constituisse deos cum fingunt'; 4, 580, 'haec loca capripedes satyros nymphasque tenere | finitimi fingunt.' Lact. Inst. 1, 6, 'nec poetis putent esse credendum tanquam vana fingentibus.'—possunt: Mar. Junt. for possum. O and Itali have iam, Q and schedae me; M. formerly proposed a me fingerere possum and Schneidewin, Phil. 3, 128, tibi mea fingerere possum; Bent. qui . . . confingere possunt—Cic. Cons. 2, 28, 'multaque per terras vates oracula furenti | pectore fundebant tristis minitania casus.'

105. somnia : 3, 1048, 'nec somnia cernere cessas | sollicitamque geris cassa formidine mentem'; 5, 1158, 'se multi per somnia saepe loquentes | aut morbo delirantes protracte ferantur.' In these three places and elsewhere in L. dreams are ominous of evil. For somnia fingere cf. V. Ecl. 9, 107, 'an, qui amant, ipsi sibi somnia fingunt' and Claud. in Europ. 1, 170. Cic. ND. 1, 42, 'exposui fere non philosophorum iudicia sed delirantium somnia; nec enim multo absurdiora sunt ea, quae poetarum vocibus fusa ipsa suavitate nocuerunt.' Somnia are ineptae fabulae to Giussani.—vitae rationes seem to mean the principles upon which life is conducted, one's Lebensphilosophie; cf. 3, 95, 'in quo (animo) consilium vitae regim(enque) locatum est'; 5, 9, 'qui princeps vitae rationem invenit eam quae | nunc appellatur sapientia'; 6, 774, 'aptas | res ad vitai rationem'; 3, 2, 'inlustrans commoda vitae.'—vertere: Aen. 7, 407 'consiliumque omnemque domum vertisse Latini.'

106. Alliteration (III.)—fortunasque : 2, 1167, 'laudat fortunas saepe parentis'; 5, 1179, 'fortunisque ideo longe praestare putabant, | quod mortis timor haut quemquam vexaret eorum.'—turbare: 3, 38, 'qui (metus Acheruntis) vitam turbat ab imo.' Edd. quote Aen. 11, 400, 'omnia magno | ne cessa turbare metu.'

107. et merito: 'and with reason do they invent these dreams and visions, for if they did not, their power would speedily pass away.' An elegy of Propertius (1, 17) begins, 'et merito, quoniam potui fugisse puellam'; cf. Ov. M. 9, 585, 'et merito! quid enim temeraria vulneris huius | indicium feci?' 'Et recte, inquit, respondes,' Cic. Acad. 1, 33 and Reid's note; Holtze, 173. Merito is common: cf. on 481.—finem is feminine mostly in ante- and post-classic writers in the singular; Varro has a fem. pl. in LL. 5, 1, 13. In L. the word is always fem. in the sing.: the pl. is ambiguous. See Drak. on Livy 4, 2, 4. But the Ms. reading of 2, 1116 has been emended, removing the masc. The gender of funis, 2, 1154, and sal, 4, 1162, and accipitres, 4, 1009, is also irregular.—esse viderent, notice the verse ending.

108. aerumnarum: see on 3, 50. Sallust, Cat. 51, 20, 'mortem aerumnarum requiem.'—aliqua ratione, 'in some fashion or by some device inventing something which would explain phenomena.' He uses ratione repeatedly in this meaning: cf. 77; 5, 90 etc.—valerent (= possent) is poetical with infin.: see on 3, 257 and Dr. II, § 413. Its use as a synonym of possum is said to begin with L.: Lane, 2170.

109. religionibus: the first and second feet contained in one word; list in Kühn, 53; e.g. inmortali, 236; ignorantia, 6, 54; inmutabili, 1, 591; inrevocabili, 1, 468; inmemorable, 4, 192; 6, 488; innumerabilem, 6, 485; evanescere, 5, 535; 2, 828. The word may be translated 'superstitious fictions,' although inaccurately; probably religionibus forms a hendiadys with minis. In 931 he has artis religionum nodis, which, as M. says, may support the etymology from vlig 'bind'; but 6, 1276, 'nec iam religio divom nec numina magni | pendebantur' might be cited to support the etymological connection with lego: cf. neglegere; 5, 114, religione refrenatus, probably leans to vlig. The classical authorities are, for the one, Lact. Inst. 4. 28; Nig. Fig. in Gell. 4, 92; for the other, Cic. ND. 2, 72; see lex. and Bücheler, Rh. M. 33, 9; literature in Vaniček, Etym. Wört. 2, 829. — Guyau, Morale d' Épicure, 62, gives a vigorous sketch of the 'perpetual apprehension' caused by the deities and their 'despotic caprice'; death was the beginning of a worse slavery, and human hopes were unfounded either in the present or future. See La Religion de Lucrèce in Martha, Chap. 4; Sellar, Chap. 13; on religion as a political safeguard, Cudworth, 2, 60 sq.; Hobbes, Leviathan, who maintained, p. 189, ed. of 1651, that the end of worship among men is power.

110. Note the allit. and anaphora, and cf. on 6; similar effect in Catull. 64, 187, 'nulla fugae ratio, nulla spes; omnia muta'; id. 62, 57 'hanc nulli agricolae, nulli accolere iuvenci.' — nunc: as things are now, cf. 244; not as they might be under certain conditions. — ratio: they can think of no means. — restandi: for resistendi: 2, 450, 'aeraque quae clastris restantia vociferantur': see lex. s.v. II. B.

111. aeternas: a favorite word in L.: applied to materies, 239, corpora, 627; mors, 3, 1091. — Cudworth, 1, 149, 'for besides men's insecurity from all manner of present evils upon the supposition of a God, the immortality of souls can hardly be kept out, but it will crowd in after it; and then the fear of eternal punishments after death will unavoidably follow thereupon, perpetually embittering all the solaces of life and never suffering men to have the least sincere enjoyment.' Ep. ad Herod. 81, καὶ ἐν τῷ αἰώνιῳ τῷ δευτέρῳ δὲ προσδοκᾶν ηὔποκτεῖν κατὰ τοὺς μόθους. — in morte, 'in the state of death,' i.e. after death; cf. 3, 866, 875 and nn.; post mortem, 3, 871. — timendumst: Orelli and edd. for timendum. Lachm. maintained that est must be written unless an infinitive of esse or of its compounds occurs, an induction from Lucretian usage. 2, 1084, fatendumst . . . esse shows that the reverse of the rule does not hold. Timendumst governs poenas; 138, multa cum sit agendum; 381, privandumst corpora; 2, 492, addendum partis alias erit; 2, 1129, manus dandum est; 3, 391, multa ciendum and note there; 6, 917, firmandumst multa. For discussion see Corssen, Beiträge, 133, Dr. § 595, Roby, II, lxxii and 1308, Zumpt, 549, Madvig, 421, b; Schmalz, 415, Lane, 2247; Lindsay, 544; Reid on Cato Maior, 6, Ellis on Catull. 39, 9; Servius and Forbiger on Aen. II, 230.

112. ignoratur: Prop. 1, 19, 11, 'illuc quidquid ero, semper tua dicar imago.' — natura, here 'constitution'; thirty-eight times in the poem. Natura animai is the subject of Book III.

113. Note the pentasyllabic close with the fourth foot contained in a word. — nata sit: sc. utrum; a not uncommon ellipse in all stages of the literature; see Dr. II,

§ 468.—3, 417, ‘nunc age, nativos animantibus et mortalis | esse animos animasque . . . ut noscere possis.’—contra, ‘the other hand’: 521, 766 and often; prosaic.—nascitibus insinuetur, discussed in 3, 671 sq. Watson in his translation quotes Voltaire: ‘Relying on our acquired knowledge, we venture to discuss the question whether the soul is created before us? whether it comes from nothing into our bodies? at what age it places itself within us? Whether after animating us for a few moments, its essence is to live after us in eternity? . . . These questions have an appearance of sublimity; what are they but the questions of men born blind, discussing the nature of light?’—Lucil. 6, 26, ‘sese animam insinuare aequa atque innubere censem’; Enn. Ann. 10, ‘ova parire solet genu’ pennis condecoratum, | non animam; et post inde venit divinitu’ pullis | ipsa anima’ (note the important divinitus); Arnob. 1, 38, ‘quid sit sensus, quid anima, advolatitne ad nos sponte an cum ipsis sata sit et procreata visceribus, mortis particeps degat an immortalitatis perpetuitate donata sit; qui status nos maneat, cum dissolutis abierimus a membris, visurine nos simus an memoriam nullam nostri sensus et recordationis habituri.’ The two contrasted theories are the Epicurean that the soul is born with the body; and that of the Pythagoreans and Platonists that it enters the body at birth. Aristotle’s opinion was that souls were created together with (at the same time as) the body, coming from and returning to heaven.

114. direpta: ‘separated,’ that is ‘destroyed’ in its physical existence; ‘purpureusque colos conchylii iungitur uno | corpore cum lanae, dirimi qui non queat usquam,’ 6, 1074,—the only other Lucr. occurrence. Livy, 22, 15, 4, ‘quae urbs Voltturno fumine direpta Falernum a Campano agro dividit’: dividere is said of a natural boundary, dirimere of a forcible division. Francken, Jahrb. 121, 767 would read perempta with Creech and Winckelmann, comparing 4, 40, ‘cum corpus simul atque animi natura perempta | in sua discessum dederit primordia quaeque,’ because direpta to him does not mean destroyed; but it may be separated from its constituent parts and thus perish; or better, according to L.’s doctrine, the separation would bring death to both: 3, 323 sq. Br. formerly defended perempta in Phil. 14, 550 and 23, 459, and Polle, id. 26, 298 in defence of direpta cites Kritz on Sallust, Cat. 18, ea res consilium direntur, ‘solvit atque irritum reddidit’; the interpretation is abundantly supported by the lexicons.

115. tenebras: 4, 170, ‘undique uti tenebras omnis Acherunta rearis.’ L. has tenēbrae always except in the sixth foot: 6, 490; 2, 746, 798; 5, 11.—Orci: the existence is poetically granted: 6, 762, ‘ianua ne forte his Orci regionibus esse | crederatur.’ The real Acheron is stullorum vita, 3, 1023.—vastasque lacunas: 6, 552, ‘ubi in magnas aquæ vastasque lacunas’; vastus is, then, used of size, like immanis and ingens: 6, 545, ‘ingentis speluncas subruit actas’; 5, 375, ‘patet immani et vasto respectat hiatu’; Aen. 6, 296, ‘vastaque voragine gurges.’ L. likes to enlarge a statement by stating it in two forms: cf. 3, 966, ‘nec quisquam in barathrum nec Tartara deditur atra.’ Lacunas probably means ‘chasms’: 6, 537, ‘plenam | speluncis multosque lacus multasque lacunas | in gremio (terram) gerere’.

116. Notice the monosyllabic ending of the verse.—pecudes, ‘brutes’; 14 n. The reference is to metempsychosis; Enn. Ann. 15, ‘memini me fieri pavum.’—alias, ‘other than,’ i.e. as well as men: hence ‘different’ or, as M. says, ‘in our stead’: lex. s.v. II, E. Livy, 21, 46, 9, altius confertus equitatus = alia manus, i.e. equitatus:

see Fabri-Heerwegen there; id. 4, 41, eo missa plausta iumentaque alia, and 5, 39, circa moenia aliasque portas. Odyss. β 412 μήτηρ δ' ἔμη οὐ τι πέπνοται, οὐδὲ ἄλλας δύσωται; M. quotes Empedocles, 141, ἀνθρώποι τε καὶ ἄλλων θύνει θηρῶν. Cf. on 3, 611.—divinitus: his constant word in denial of divine influence; cf. 150. For the form cf. caelitus, funditus, penitus, intus.—insinuet: for the accusatives, cf. 2, 125, ‘hoc etiam magis haec animum te advertere par est.’ Insinuare has a variety of constructions in L., according to its varied meanings; 3, 485 n.

117. Ennius: poets are wrong, even great Ennius.—noster, i.e. Roman: 831, ‘quam Grai memorant nec nostra dicere lingua’; 5, 36, ‘quo neque noster adit quisquam nec barbarus audet.’ M. cites Cicero’s use of noster in Arch. 18, 22, as applied to Ennius. But Woltjer, Lucr. Phil., etc. 1, thinks noster is used because Ennius followed the rationalistic teaching of Epicharmus.—cecinit: as a poet: 2, 600, ‘hanc veteres Graium docti cecinere poetae.’—primus, a confusion of primus Romanorum and primus absolute.—amoeno, as usual, of beauty of scenery; 4, 1024, ‘fontem propter amoenum.’ Cf. Georg. 3, 10, ‘primus ego in patriam mecum, modo vita supersat, | Antonio rediens deducam vertice Musas.’—Vahlen, Ennius, cxlvii, thinks Ennius may have mentioned these matters at the beginning of the Annals. Horace refers to his Pythagorean views in Ep. 2, 1, 50, ‘Ennius et sapiens et fortis et alter Homerus, | ut critici dicunt, leviter curare videtur | quo promissa cadant et somnia Pythagorea.’ L. excludes for obvious reasons Plautus and Naevius; cf. Ennius’ own statement, Ann. 213, ‘scripsere rem | vorsibus . . . cum neque Musarum scopulos (quisquam superarat) | nec dicti studiosus erat.’ Doubtless the reference to Helicon, 118, must be taken as relating to the introduction of Greek metres and Greek poetical theory.

118. detulit, the terminus ad quem is usually stated; see lex.; 6, 821, ‘quo simul ac primum pennis delata sit ales.’—Helicone: 6, 786, ‘est etiam magnis Heliconis montibus arbos.’ Poets are Heliconiadum comites in 3, 1037. Probably, as in Propertius (3, 3, 1, ‘visus eram molli recubans Heliconis in umbra . . . parvaque iam magnis admiram fontibus ora, | unde pater sitiens Ennius ante babit’), Ennius represented himself, in a lost part of the Annals, to have had a vision on Helicon; perhaps, as Bernays thinks, to have received the laurel there, as Hesiod received it from the Muses; Theognis, 30. Cf. Müller, Q. Ennius, 139.—perenni, ‘undying,’ ‘immortal’; 3, 804, ‘quam mortale quod est immortali atque perenni.’ Pliny, 16, 246, has aeterna fronde.—fronde: for the sing. cf. 405, ‘naribus inveniunt inectatas fronde quietes.’

119. gentis Italas: 465, Trojogenas gentis. Italus occurs here only in L.; hominum gentis in 2, 1076; but gentes humanae is more frequent, e.g. 1, 727. For the collocation, cf. Cerbereasque canum facies, 4, 733, and on 1, 10.—quae = ut ea; Francken, Jahrb. 121, 767, would read quo . . . cluerent: ‘Ennius cecinuit τὰ κλέα τῷν ἀνθρώπῳ,’ thus joining hominum with clara, a forced construction.—clara, sc. corona; Ov. M. 13, 704, ‘claramque auro gemmisque coronam.’ But clara is to be taken closely with clueret; Plaut. P. 591, ‘quae post mihi clara et diu cluerant’; Bell. Afr. 22, 3, ‘quae (dignitas) est per gentes clarissima notissima’; Enn. Ann. 3, ‘poemata nostra | clara cluebunt’; on account of this, Bährens, Jahrb. 123, 407, would write latas for Italas.—clueret, an antique word used eight times, certainly, by L. Müller, RM. 405, says that after L. clueo is used only by Seneca in the

Ludus once, and by Christian authors in imitation of the antique. The verb means transitively 'hear,' then 'name,' 'celebrate,' as Pompilius cluor in Varro; intransitively 'be famous,' as in this passage. In L. it is sometimes a synonym of esse, as in 2, 525, primordia rerum . . . infinita cluere. See on 3, 207.

120. etsi praeterea tamen: 'although in spite of his being so great a poet he is inconsistent, and adds that,' etc. Giuss. thinks the heavy weight of the conjunctions is not without irony.—Acherusia tempa: 3, 25 n.

121. Note the alliteration. The verse is mechanical.—exponit: 'carmine Pierio rationem exponere nostram,' 946; 'carmina . . . exponunt praeclara reperta,' 731.—edens: OQ, edd.; eidem (i.e. idem) Lachm., approved by Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 669, but too prosaic; opposed by Polle, Phil. 26, 299, as disturbing. Versibus edam occurs in 4, 180; edunt . . . fruges coepisse creari, 2, 612; here edens may be oracular, as Br. suggests comparing 738.

122. permaneant, OQ, Lachm. B. M.; permanent, vulg. before Lachm. and approved by Br. (now), Bail., Goebel, Vahlen, Francken, Reitzenstein; opposed by Housman, Cl. R. 14, 367; perveniant, Marull. Giuss. Polle. Lachm. compares Ov. AA. 2, 120, 'solus ad extremos permanet ille rogos'; Cic. ND. 1, 105, 'neque eam ad numerum permanere.' M. translates 'though in our passage thither neither our souls nor our bodies hold together.' Permaneo does not occur elsewhere in L.; pervenio and permaneo are used several times. With Brandt, Jahrb. 121, 771, I prefer to take quo as locative, 'where' (not 'whither'), referring to the idea of Acheron implied in Acherusia tempa, just as quorum, 2, 174, refers to genus humanum; permaneo would then mean 'stay,' 'continué,' or 'remain': Cic. Leg. 2, 63, 'Athenis iam ille mos a Cecrope . . . permansit.' Note that the philosophical principle thus implied is not held by either Ennius or L. Sauppe, QL. 13, reads qua neque permaneant. Munro quotes Sen. Ep. 76, 25, 'si modo solatae corporibus animae manent'; id. 57, 7, 'animam . . . permanere non posse,' and several others which amply defend permaneant, but he adds no strength to Lachmann's forced interpretation of quo permaneant. Again, if, with Bernays, we make permaneant = perdurant ad Ach. temp., 'utraque enim evanescunt antequam in Orcum perveniri possint,' then simulacra, 123, must be taken with permaneant in the same sense, which is not to the point.—nostra, 'human,' as frequently.

123. simulacra: εἴδωλα, a technical word frequently used by L. to describe the patterns emitted by objects, being the means of apperception by the eye. Vmbræ is the common expression of other writers, which L. has once in 4, 38, 'aut umbras inter vivos volitare.' Cf. the poet in Cic. Tusc. 1, 37, 'unde animae excitantur obscura umbra, aperto ex ostio | altae Acheruntis, salso sanguine, mortuorum imagines'; Aen. 7, 89, 'multa modis simulacra videt volitantia miris'; Georg. 1, 477, simulacra modis pallentia miris, where Schol. Bern. says, 'pallidum Homerum ad Ennium venisse et loquitum illi hexametrus antea Latina lingua inauditis.' In Aen. 4, 654, Dido says, 'et nunc magna mei sub terras ibit imago,' where Servius comments: 'valde enim queritur apud philosophos quid illud sit quod inferos petat. nam tribus constamus: anima, quae superna est, et originem suam petit: corpore, quod in terra deficit: umbra quam Lucretius sic definit †supra spoliatus lumine aer [cf. L. 4, 368 and 377]. ergo umbra si ex corpore creatur, sine dubio perit cum eo, nec est quicquam reliquum de homine quod inferos petat. sed deprehenderunt esse quoddam simula-

crum quod ad nostri corporis effigiem fictum inferos petat ; et est species corporea, quae non potest tangi, sicut ventus . . . sciendum tamen, abuti poetas, et confuse vel simulacrum vel umbras dicere.' — modis . . . miris is colloquial and occurs several times in the comic poets. L. uses mirus more often than we should expect: cf. Eng. 'extraordinarily' in colloquial phrases. — Aen. 1, 354, 'ora modis attollens pallida miris'; id. 10, 822, 'ora modis . . . pallentia miris'; id. 6, 738, 'concreta modis inolescere miris.' — pallentia: as the Romans had dark complexions, the color implied is not a glistening white (candidus), but a dull white, Hor. Epd. 7, 15, albus ora pallor inficit, or a greenish yellow; V. Ecl. 2, 47, pallentes violae, 'wan'; of umbrae Ebrei, Aen. 4, 26. It is a common epithet of shades, arising partly from the aspect of the dead, partly because pallidus also means colorless and without light. See Blümner, Farben, 88.

124. unde: Acherusia tempa. — semper florentis Homeri: 'floretque repertum | laudibus et miro est mortalis inter honore,' 5, 1279; so 3, 1037, 'unus Homerus sceptra potitus.' Cic. Acad. 2, 51, "at, cum somniavit, ita narravit 'visus Homerus adesse poeta'"; id. 88, 'quia, cum experrectus esset Ennius, non diceret se vidisse Homerum sed visum esse'; Cic. Rep. 6, 10, 'quale de Homero scribit Ennius, de quo videlicet saepissime vigilans solebat cogitare et loqui.' — M. comp. Ov. M. 7, 702, 'semper florentis Hymetti.' In general, Bern. says (on 117), 'etenim carmen suum orsurus narravit Ennius sibi aliquando in Helicone monte dormienti visum esse Homerum poetam; aperuit somnianti Ennio Homerus animam suam transvisisse in pavonem atque e pavone in Ennii corpus venisse idque ut explicaret, anime naturam Homerus Ennianus altius repetivit et μετεμψυχώσεως doctrinam exposuit.'

125. commemorat is present, as appears from exponit, 121. — speciem, 'ghost,' imago, umbra, simulacrum. The development of meaning appears from 4, 52, 'quod speciem ac formam similem gerit eius imago | cuiuscumque cluet de corpore fusa vagari.' Cf. also Livy, 8, 6, 9, 'in quiete utrique consuli eadem dicitur visa species viri'; Ov. ex P. 3, 3, 3, 'seu corporis umbra, | seu veri species, seu fuit ille sopor'; Suet. Nero, 34, 'exagitari se materna specie'; Tac. Ann. 11, 4; Hist. 1, 86. — lacrimas salsas: 'briny tears'; also in 920, 'lacrimis salsis umequent ora genasque.' Aen. 2, 270, 'in somnis, ecce, ante oculos maestissimus Hector | visus adesse mihi, largosque effundere fletus.' Acc. Medea, 420, has also salsis lacrimis; id. 578, 'salsis . . . guttis lacrimarum.' The adjective is probably antique, as Ovid does not use it in this connexion. — effundere: Housman would write effundere, as Havercamp proposed and Wakef. printed; O has effundere, Q et fundere. See Cort on Sallust, Jug. 14, 11; and on 1, 70. — Homer weeps for the condition of the dead as he represents the shades of Agamemnon and Achilles doing: Odyss. λ 391, 472.

126. coepisse et, Q corr.; coepisset O. L. likes to use coepi with an infin. instead of the simple verb; so in 4, 618, 'ceu plenam spongiam aquai | si quis forte manu premere ac siccicare coepit,' where, so far as sense is concerned, pressit ac siccavit would have expressed the thought. This is part of his abundantia dicendi; cf. 5, 287, 443. The usage is very common in Petronius (Friedländer, p. 200), and is probably a mark of colloquial Latin. — rerum naturam: see note on title. — expandere: 'expound'; here only in L., not in Cicero, and unexampled in this meaning; 5, 54, rerum naturam pandere dictis.

127-135 contains an outline of the treatise: τὰ μετεύπα and the causes, the nature of the soul, explanation of ghosts and of apparitions in disease and sleep. These matters are treated in Books 5 and 6, 3 and 4. The plan of the work changed as the author progressed.

127. bene: 5, 708, 'eum contra pleno bene lumine fulsit.' — cum, correlative with tum, 130. — superis de rebus: 5, 84, 'rebus in illis | quae supera caput aetheriis certuntur in oris.' — habenda: L. is fond of these participles of necessity in such a connexion. He is an imperious Roman in his advocacy; see on 3, 36, and 91.

128. ratio, 'principle,' and in 129; but in 130 'reason'; he frequently uses different meanings of the same word in close connexion. Lee notices the case of latitare, 875, 877; finis, 978–979; res, 690, 813–816. — meatus: lunaque meatus, 5, 76, 774; in other connexions 2, 208, 957; 6, 301; Lucan 1, 663, 'signa meatus | deseruere suos.' Ignorance of the law of celestial bodies leads to superstition.

129. Punctuation in caesura is not uncommon: 3, 75 n. — quaerque approximating to omsia is frequent: 157, 472, 482, etc.; on 3, 389. — gerantur: 'go on,' i.e. 'are conducted'; a frequent term; see on 3, 17, and cf. 1, 472, 482, 505, 634; qua vi quaerque gerantur, 568, 955.

130. tum: tunc, OQ, which cannot stand before a consonant according to the best usage of the older writers; Lachm. — cum primis, prosaic, but not uncommon: 2, 536, 849; 5, 336; 6, 225, 260. — sagaci, used with animus, 402; 2, 840; 4, 912; with ratione again, 1, 368; with mens, 1, 1022; 5, 420. The word was first used of the keen smelling scent of dogs; hence the underlying metaphor appears in other words in 404–409, where truth is to be discovered and brought from its hiding place. Sen. Ep. 76, 8, 'in cane sagacitas prima est, si investigare debet feras.'

131. Cf. 3, 35, 'animi natura videtur | atque animae claranda meis iam versibus esse | et metus ille foras praeceps Acheruntis agendum'; the special subject of the third book; 4, 121, 'unde anima atque animi constet natura necessumst.' Giuss. thinks the passage is later than Book 3. — atque, on 3, 36. — videndum, sc. est, but see on 111.

132. vigilantibus: 4, 33, 'eadem (simulacra) nobis vigilantibus obvia mentes | terrificant atque in somnis, cum saepe figuræ | contuimur miras simulacraque luce carentum, | quæ nos horrifice languentis saepe sopore | excierunt.' — obvia is frequent in L.: e.g. 5, 401, solque cadenti | obvius. — On the question of his insanity as suggested by this passage, see Introduction, p. 15.

133. morbo: because 'morbis in corporis avius errat | saepe animus,' 3, 463; 'simulacra solere in somnis fallere mentem, | cernere cum videamur eum quem vita reliquit,' 5, 62. — somnoque sepultis: 5, 975, 'taciti respectabant somnoque sepulti.' Sleep and disease alike bring phantoms. — 3, 431, 'in somnis sopiti'; Aen. 2, 265, 'urbem somno vinoque sepultam'; Enn. Ann. 292, 'somnoque sepulti.' Francken, Jahrb. 121, 768, would read adfectas somnove; Bent. had proposed -ve; but see on 3, 284.

134. coram, 'face to face.'

135. Cf. 4, 734, 'quorum morte obita tellus amplectitur ossa,' which Giuss. thinks was written before this passage. — obita: Cic. Sest. 83, 'quos a maioribus nostris morte obita positos'; Aen. 10, 641, 'morte obita qualis fama est volitare figuræ'; Gell. 15, 20, 10, 'egregius poeta morte obitus.' L. has mortem obeunt in 4, 1020; obire alone in 3, 1045. Donatus on Ter. And. 223, is obiti mortem, says, 'plene dixit, quod nos

obiis tantum,' and compares Aen. 10, 641, where see Servius.—Susemihl, vii, would add 146 sq. immediately to 135. Giuss. arranges the prooemium as follows: 1–43, invocation and dedication (late); 62–79; lacuna; 136–145; 50–61 (orig. prooem.); 80–135, amplification of prooem.: see his edition, p. 2 sq., and Note Lucrez., 3 sq. There can be no certainty in such speculations.

136–145. 'It is hard to show in Latin verse the dim discoveries of the Greeks, but for thy sake, Memmius, I bear any toil through long nights, that thou mayest see fully into these hidden principles.'—The third ground for the poet's hesitation is the difficulty of the subject.

136. Brieger brackets 136–145 as interrupting the argument: Phil. 23, 459; refuted by Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 60; see also Stürenburg, 21. M. makes no new paragraph in his last ed.—Nec me animi fallit, also 5, 97; 'nec me animi fallit quam sint obscura,' 1, 922. For nec = et non, although no negative or implied negative has preceded, cf. 2, 272, 'nec similest ut cum impulsi procedimus ictu'; 2, 294, 'nec stipata magis fuit umquam materia | copia.'—The elision of a long monosyllable before a short vowel—me animi—of a word declined is avoided except with qui, me, te, de, tu, mi for miki, sum: Müller, RM. 283; Greek and Roman Versification, 99; cf. se ibi, 1091. Statistics in Aen. VI, ed. Norden, p. 446.—fallit, 4, 1185, 'nec Veneres nostras hoc fallit.'—reperta: cf. 'rea occultas,' 145, and see on 3, 419.—In general, cf. Martha, 41, 'si, de plus, on se rappelle qu' alors la langue latine n'avait pas encore été façonnée à l'expression des vérités philosophiques, qu'elle manquait de la précision que la science exige, qu'elle ne fournissait pas même les termes les plus nécessaires, que, par conséquent, il failloit d'abord créer les mots indispensables et leur donner ensuite un certain lustre poétique, on comprendra mieux encore quelle était la témérité de ce poète novateur.' For the general sentiment, cf. Cic. Fin. 3, 3, 'idque (Stoicorum disserendi genus) cum Graecis tum magis nobis, quibus etiam verba parienda sunt imponendaque nova rebus novis nomina'; see on 3, 260, and the patriotic assumption of Latin superiority in Fin., 1, 10; 5, 96; ND. 1, 8.—There seems to be a direct imitation in Georg. 3, 289 (compared by Macrobius with 1, 922), 'nec sum animi dubius, verbis ea vincere magnum | quam sit et angustis hunc addere rebus honorem; | sed me Parnasi deserta per ardua dulcis | raptat amor; iuvat ire iugis, qua nulla priorum | Castaliam molli devertitur orbita clivo'; Aen. 4, 96, 'nec me adeo fallit,' was regarded as an imitation by Conington.

137. dificile: 5, 99 'et quam difficile id mihi sit pervincere dictis.'—inlustrare was in common classical use.—Latinis, here only in L.: 4, 970 '(naturam) inventam patriis exponere chartis.' The difficulty is due to lack of a philosophical terminology and to the absence of a Latin article, especially for the articular infinitive. Latinis VERSIBVS is the chief difficulty according to Giussani.

138. multa . . . agendum; on 111.—novis verbis: Hor. AP. 47, 'si forte necesse est | indiciis monstrare recentibus abdita rerum'; id. 52, 'et nova factaque nuper habebunt verba fidem.'

139. egestatem: 3, 260, 'abstrahit invitum patrii sermonis egestas'; 1, 831, 'nec nostra dicere lingua | concedit nobis patrii sermonis egestas'; Pliny E.P. 4, 18, 'deinde inopia vel potius, ut Lucretius ait, egestate patrii sermonis'; Sen. E.P. 58, 1, 'quanta verborum nobis paupertas, immo egestas sit, numquam magis quam hodierno die

intellexi.' — linguae et: only case in L. of elision of -ae genitive; several times in nominative plural, e.g. 305; Leo, Plautin. Forsch. 329. — 1, 639, clarus ob obscuram linguam, of Heraclitus. — rerum novitatem, again in 3, 964; note the bad close of the verse.

140. sed: he has no objection to beginning the verse with a monosyllable. Cf. 498. Aen. 8, 131, sed mea me virtus. — tua, plainly Memmius'. — virtus: not elsewhere in L. for 'worth'; see examples from other authors in lex. — sperata: Cic. QF 1, 1, 15, 43, 'nos non de reliqua et sperata gloria iam laborare, sed de parta dimicare'; Stat. Achill. 241, 'sperata conubia.' Sperata tua, or mea? doubtless both are implied; 'I hope to bring you a pleasure,' 'Memmiadae nostro,' 26. Pascal, Stud. 6, sees here an allusion to the Epicurean foedus quoddam sapientium (Cic. Fin. 1, 70): 'I hope you may join our Epicurean brotherhood;' but if L. had meant this, he would have made it plainer.

141. amicitiae: doubtless there was some thought of Epicurus' precept Kυπλα Δδέται 27 (DL. 10, 148) 'Ων ἡ σοφία παρασκεύη ται εἰς τὴν τοῦ θλου βλού μακαρίστηται, τοῦδε μέγιστον ἔσταιν ἡ τῆς φιλασ κτήσις': Cic. Fin. 1, 65, 'de qua Epicurus quidem ita dicit, omnium rerum quas ad beate vivendum sapientia comparaverit nihil esse maius amicitia, nihil uberior, nihil iucundius.' — efferre: OQ, Bent. Br. Giuss. Bail. Langen, (Phil. 34, 29); sufferre, Lachm. Bern. M. Lachm. declares that efferre laborem cannot be said of a task newly to be undertaken; Accius in Cic. Sest. 102, 'postulare, nisi labore summa cum cura ecferas,' he will not admit. 3, 999 and 5, 1272, durum sufferre laborem may be metr. gr.; vis efferre could easily be corrupted into sufferre. The infinitive with suadere occurs also in Cic. Prov. 17. Reichenhart, Infin. 514, noticing Dr. § 446 and the rule that accusative and infinitive must be changed to the passive construction to prevent ambiguity between subject and object, says there are forty such cases in L.

142. serenas, calm and undisturbed for study: 2, 7, 'sed nil dulcius est, bene quam munita tenere | edita doctrina sapientum tempora serena.' — 6, 247, 'caelo . . . sereno'; 2, 150, 'lumenque serenum.' He not only watched through the calm nights, but in his dreams carried his subject with him: 4, 965–969, 'in somnis . . . nos agere hoc autem et naturam querere rerum.' Cf. also Ov. Her. 12, 169, 'noctes vigilantur amarae'; id. AA. 1, 735, 'vigilatae . . . noctes.' M. comp. V. Ecl. 9, 44, 'te pura solum sub nocte canentem.' Bent. changed serenas to severas, unnecessarily.

143. Note the alliteration. — demum: join to quo; it is more often an enclitic with personal and demonstrative pronouns.

144. clara lumina: 4, 825, 'lumina oculorum clara'; 3, 1, 'clarum extollere lumen.' — praepandere: Cic. Arat. 274, 'hiberno praepandere temporis ortus'; Culex 15, 'Parnasia rupes | hinc atque hinc patula praepandit cornua fronte'; 5, 657, 'lumina pandit.'

145. occultas: 424, 'haut erit occultis de rebus quo referentes | confirmare animi quicquam ratione queamus.' — convisere, rare and ante-class.; con- seems to be intensive: 2, 357, of the mother cow, 'omnia convisens oculis loca.'

146–158. 'The knowledge of nature, then, can alone remove this superstitious fear, and the first principle thereof is that nothing was ever produced from nothing by divine influence. Grant this principle, and you will see how all things are produced without divine aid.'

146–148 are repeated at 2, 59; 6, 39; 3, 91, where see notes. Gneisse, 69 sq., thinks they were interpolated here, since without the customary reference to pueri trepidant, etc., they are to him meaningless. Sauppe, Gött. Index 1880, also omits them; Lohmann, QL. 45, retains them, interpreting hunc terrorem as terrorem de quo ante dixi. Giuss. thinks they were written in Book 6 originally and transferred here by the poet.

149. principium: ‘first principle.’ He does not appear to use the word elsewhere in this meaning.—cuius is a monosyllable, introduced by Lachm. in 4, 1089. Lucil. 30, 56, ‘cuius voltu ac facie ludo ac sermonib⁹ nostris’; cf. Cic. Arat. 87, ‘atque eius ipse manet religatus corpora torto’; L. Müller, RM. 271. The scansion is normal in Plautus: Lindsay, Captivi, p. 28. Cuius refers back to naturae species ratiōne as a general notion; Gneisse would have the reference to carmine.—hinc referring to what follows, as in 349; 2, 143, ‘paucis licet hinc cognoscere, Memmi.’—exordia: 5, 331, ‘neque pridem exordia cepit’; Aen. 4, 284, ‘quae prima exordia sumat.’ Doubtless, as has been remarked, the metaphor is from spinning a web. He uses both principia and exordia more frequently as synonyms of primordia.

150. rem e: L. Müller, RM. 283, says that the monosyllables qui in plural, rem, and some others should not be elided before a short syllable—a rule observed by L.: rem existere, 198; rem adportes, 5, 100; rem atque, 5, 1439; re et, 1, 826. In 2, 617 the measure is qui in; see Kühn, 41.—e: L. has always e before a, g, l, m, n, r, v, in compounds; but before n of simple words both forms are found: e.g. e nilo, 185, 669; ex non, 2, 930; Hertz, De Praep. Lucret. 5.—nīlo = τὸ μὴ δν, as in 156, 159, 180, etc. Persius 3, 83, ‘gigni | de nilo nilum, in nilum nil posse reverti,’ which he calls somnia. Polle, AV. 21, says that nil, the nominative, nowhere occurs in Latin literature in this meaning. Persius is quoted by Servius on Georg. 2, 49, with the comment ‘unde Epicurei dicunt nihil esse, quod non habeat originem sui.’ Woltjer, 12, notices that Epicurus took the general principle from Democritus, but the poet has added divinitus and umquam to deny further divine power at any time. Cf. Empedocles, 81 (p. 186, 12 D.), ἐκ τε γὰρ οὐδέποτε ἔννοια δυῆχα-ρον ἔστι γενέσθαι | καὶ τὸ ἔπειρον ἀποκόλλεσθαι ἀνήνυστον καὶ ἀπνυστον. Aristot. Phys. 1, 4, περὶ γὰρ ταῦτης ὁμογνωμονούσι τῆς δόξης πάντες οἱ περὶ φύσεως. Democritus enunciates the principle as follows, DL. 9, 44, μῆδεν ἐκ τοῦ μὴ δντος γίγνεσθαι, μῆδε εἰς τὸ μὴ δν φθείρεσθαι. See Hildebrandt, De Primordiis, 9 sq. M. quotes Tyndall, Fragments of Science, 91: ‘One fundamental thought pervades all these statements, there is one tap root from which they all spring: this is the ancient maxim that out of nothing nothing comes, that neither in the organic world nor in the inorganic is power produced without the expenditure of other power.’ ‘Lucretio tamen, quia nihil disyllabum non habet, nilum et nīlo sola probata fuisse existimo,’ Lachm. on 159.—gigni = creari, 155, fieri, 159.—divinitus, on 116.—Zeller, Stoics, etc., 441: ‘if the process of division were infinitely continued, all things would ultimately be resolved into the non-existent . . . so Epicurus and Democritus argue; and conversely all things must have been formed out of the non-existent in defiance of the first principle of natural science that nothing can be resolved into nothing.’

151. ita, ‘as has been described’; all know it; cf. illa, 82. — formido is ‘dread’; 6, 52, ‘et faciunt animos humilis formidine divom’; 5, 1218, ‘cui non animus formidine

divom | contrahitur? — continet : M. quotes Quint. 1, 3, 6, ‘quosdam continet metus, quosdam debilitat.’

152. multa : sc. opera from operum in 153; 15 n. Cf. 6, 50, ‘cetera quae fieri in terris caeloque tueruntur.’ — caeloque, ‘in air.’ — tuenter is very common in L. in the meaning ‘see.’ Dr. II, § 437, says the accus. and infin. with tuenter is archaic.

153. Cf. 6, 54, ‘ignorantia causarum conferre deorum | cogit ad imperium res.’ This line and the next are interpolated in 6, 56, and repeated in 90. — Tac. Hist. 1, 4, ‘ut non modo casus eventusque rerum, qui plerumque fortuiti sunt, sed ratio etiam causaeque noscantur.’ — nulla ratione, ‘by no reasoning’; but probably the distinction between this meaning and that of ‘way, means’ (110) was not sharply drawn. Nulla ratione occurs several times, e.g. 310, 335; 3, 1010; 6, 21. — videre of mental vision is common in L.; see on 3, 348. Ov. Ep. 15, 37, ‘ante tuos animo vidi, quam lumine, vultus.’

154. ac, ‘and therefore’; so atque in 636. The form ac is infrequent before f according to lex. but occurs in 2, 844. — divino numine = divinitus. — rentur, more often of a mistaken opinion; cf. 80; 6, 764; otherwise 6, 536; 2, 952. But 5, 1419, ‘quam reor invidia tali tunc esse repertam,’ of a matter not of scientific accuracy (‘fancy’).

155. The line seems to be constructed properly with caesura septenaria and is metrical prose.

156. tum : join closely in thought with ubi, as in 6, 1151–1153. — quod sequimur, ‘our object’ τὸ διηρούμενον of Epicurus. 5, 529, ‘id doceo plurisque sequor disponere causas.’ Francken, Jahrb. 121, 768, would read sequitur, as Lamb. had proposed. Cf. also 6, 808, ‘ubi argenti venas aurique secuntur.’ M. illustrates the use from Cic. — iam, ‘straightway.’ — rectius has good authority. — inde, the principle, goes with perspiciemus.

157. perspiciemus : 949, ‘dum perspis omnem | naturam rerum’; 6, 379, ‘hoc est igniferi naturam fulminis ipsam | perspicere.’ — et, Marull. and edd. for ut. Marull. also first transferred 155 (158), which is confirmed by the margin of the Cambridge codex. — unde = e quibus as frequently; see on 3, 68, Holtze, Synt. 6. Bock, ‘Baumaterial.’ — creari, 3, 34, ‘quove modo possint res ex his quaeque creari.’

158. A most unmusical and prosaic line: the fifth ictus syllable ends the word, and the rule, that when the last two words are dissyllabic the word preceding should be monosyllabic, is also broken; cf. 184 and 250. — opera : L. has the gen. acc. and abl. sing. and the accus. pl. of this word; Ennius has only the sing. forms operam and operae; Plaut. does not use the nom. or acc. pl.; Keller, Lat. Sprachgesch. 2, 146. — divom : Cic. Acad. 2, 121, ‘negat opera deorum se uti ad fabricandum mundum.’ M. comp. Acc. 159, ‘nam non facile sine deum opera humana propria sunt bona.’ — Bock. makes this line follow 145; Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 771, discusses the usual transposition.

159–214. ‘If things were made from nothing, then anything might be made from anything and there would be no need of seed; animals and plants would be untrue to their natures; but there is a law of propagation and development, and a necessary environment both for plants and animals; a limitation, too, of growth.’

159. de . . . ex : de means, strictly, merely separation from, ex departure from the interior of a thing. — fierent : the subject is implied in omne genus (tr. ‘came’).

'If things could come from nothing, then, wherever, in the midst of things, there might be nothing existent, something might thence arise; wherever there might be a vacuum, something might spring up from that vacuum. Should there be a vacuum in the sea, a man might spring from it; should there be a vacuum in the air, a tree might flourish out of it. Seed, or originating particles, would be quite superfluous; simple vacant space, the abode of non-entity, would suffice to produce abundance of entities;' Watson, Tr. — omnibu': for disregard of final s see on 3, 52. — Ep. ad Herod. 38, τρόπον μὲν τῇ οὐδὲν γίγνεται ἐκ τοῦ μὴ ὄντος. τὰς γὰς ἐκ παρὸς ἔγινεται οὐ σπερμάτων γέ οὐδὲν προσδέμενον. Omnibus rebus is distributed into mare, terra, caelo, culta ac deserta, arboribus.

160. omne genus: frequent, as in 2, 1089, 'quam genus omne quod hic generatim rebus abundans.' Cf. genus omne ferarum, 163. — nasci: notice the synonyms oriri, 161; erumpere, 162; partu tenerent, 164; creantur, 169; enascitur, oras in luminis exit, 170; gigni, 172. — nil is subject. — semine egeret: for elision see on 409. — Lact. De Ira Dei, 10, quotes and discusses this passage.

161. mare, abl., as in Pl. Mil. 1309, Ov. Tr. 5, 2, 20. Reisig, 1, 123. — primum: deinde is probably implied in incerto partu, etc., 164; the tertium in nec fructus, etc. 165. M. comp. 6, 1068.

162. squamigerum occurs comparatively often in L.: e.g. 378; 2, 343. It is also cited from Cic. Arat., Ovid, and Pliny the Elder. The word here may be nom. sing. or gen. pl. — volucres is used oftener than alites by L.; see on 6, 818. — erumpere, 'hatch'; it is used by Pliny the Elder, in the meaning 'burst forth in growing,' of folium, hordeum, dentes. L. always uses the simple abl. with erumpere: Keller, 14.

163. armamenta: 2, 343, 'squamigerum pecudes et laeta armenta feraeque | et variae volucres'; 5, 228, 'variae crescent pecudes armenta feraeque.' — pecudes, smaller domestic animals: 2, 317, 'tondentes papula laeta | lanigerae reptant pecudes'; 5, 900, 'barbigeras pecudes.' — genus omne ferarum occurs in the same metrical position in 5, 1338: cf. genus atque ferarum, 1, 254; 6, 1216. Ferarum of course refers to undomesticated animals, as opposed to armamenta . . . pecudes. Georg. 4. 223, 'hinc pecudes armenta viros, genus omne ferarum'; Ov. M. 10, 705, 'cumque his genus o. f.'; id. H. 10. 1, 'mitius inveni quam te g. o. f.'; Mart. Ep. lib. 21, 5, 'inmixtum pecori g. o. f.'; cf. Weyman in Archiv 1, 590. M. takes g. o. f. as appositive to armamenta, etc. Langen, Phil. 34, 29, punctuates: volucres, erumpere caelo armenta atque aliae pecudes, genus omne ferarum incerto partu culta ac deserta tenerent; and Bock, also; Wakef.: volucres; . . . armamenta; . . . pecudes, genus omne, ferarum, incerto partu, . . . tenerent; Lamb. and Hav.: volucres; . . . armamenta, . . . pecudes; . . . culta, . . . teneret. Late modern edd. follow Lachmann's punctuation, substantially that of this text.

164. incerto partu: it would be doubtful what animal would be born from another. Klussmann, Jahn's Archiv, 14, 476, pastu. — culta, 'tilled land': 5, 1371, 'cogebant infrae locum concedere cultis'; 1, 208, 'postremo quoniam in cultis praestare videamus | culta loca.' — ac frequently connects contraries: Dr. II, § 315, 6. — deserta: 2, 1102, 'in deserta recedens | saeviat exercens telum'; 5, 1387, 'per loca pastorum deserta atque qta dia.' — tenerent, 'occupy'; 4, 580 n.

165. idem is always written for idem, as in most other authors. Waltjer, Jahrb.

119, 769, objects to idem as tautological with constare, and proposes isdem, which is read by M. in 2, 693 and 5, 349 against Lachm., who maintained in his note to 4, 933 that dissyllabic eis and iis are not Lucretian.—arboribus well illustrates the regular anapaest before caes. sept. — constare is frequently a synonym of esse in L., hence arboribus is dative pl.; but 588, ‘nec commutantur quicquam, quin omnia constant | usque adeo,’ shows that constare here means more than esse.—In general cf. Georg. 2, 109, ‘nec vero terrae ferre omnes omnia possunt. | fluminibus salices crassisque paludibus alni | nascuntur, steriles saxosis montibus orni.’

166. mütärēntür is inelegant metrically.—ferre: 5, 942, ‘tellus etiam maiora ferebat.’—omnes omnia: he likes to place different cases of the same word together: cf. 172 and on 3, 71.

167. quippe: ‘for,’ not to be joined to ubi; otherwise in 182.—ubi essent: 242, ‘quippe, ubi nulla forent aeterno corpore, quorum | contextum vis deberet dissolvere quaeque.’ Vbi is here equivalent to si, as in 4, 925.—genitalia corpora = semina; 58 n.

168. qui: adv.—mater: 2, 707, ‘omnia quando | seminibus certa certa genetrice creata.’—rebus corresponds to cuique, 167.—consistere: 748, ‘minimum consistere quicquam’: ‘stand firm,’ an emphatic equivalent of esse, with notion of continuance.—certa, O corr.; derta O, terta Q; ferta Gneisse, Lit. Centr. Blatt, 1894, 1674.

169. at nunc = nunc vero. vñ ðè; 244, 340, 992.—seminibus . . . creatur: for construction see 3, 229 p.; Bock. creat.—certis: ‘it refers to the fixity and unchangeableness of law as manifested in natural productions. Things which are entirely subject to natural law, such as the growth of trees and plants, and the development of living bodies, animals, and men, each after its kind and from its proper germ, are “fixed” (certus) in respect of the time, place, and conditions of their coming into being and continuing in existence;’ Masson, 223; cf. Lucr. 173, 189, 203.

170. enascitur: the subject is understood from cuiusque; see on 15 (quicque enascitur . . . inde ubi eius materies inest).—Dactylic words in the second foot are rare; but in L. in 87, 210, 320, 386, 835, etc.; Näke, Valerius Cato, 317. Notice the abundantia dicendi here; enascitur and oras . . . exit mean the same; so 372–373, ‘cedere . . . et liquidas aperire vias’; 3, 405, ‘vivit et aetherias vitalis suscipit auras’; 4, 433, ‘obire et condere lumen’; 5, 833, ‘aliut succrescit et e contemptibus exit’; Kraetsch, 13.—oras in luminis: 179 and on 22.—exit: cf. exoritur, 23.

171. materies seems to look back to mater, 168, as if the two were etymologically related; cf. the expressions genitalia corpora and semina; Tohte, 13.—corpora prima: 61. Where things find their appropriate constituents, there they grow. Pascal denies that corpora prima here means atoms; they are the first aggregation of atoms that become the semina of single things. L. does not differentiate the two meanings of corpora prima until 483.

172. atque: explicative.—hac re = hoc: 5, 1056, ‘quid in hac mirabile tantoperest re’; he often has res instead of a neuter; qua re is common. M. quotes hac re = hanc ob rem from Balbus and Oppius in Cic. Ep., Mela, Sen. Ep., and Phaedrus. L. has it only here.

173. secreta: ‘separate,’ i.e. distinct. It is usually a synonym of privata in L. Woltjer, 12, makes it = *suis finibus circumscrip*ta.—facultas: 110.

174. But things must be produced at certain definite times. — praesterea: frequent in introducing a new argument, e.g. 225, 511, 540, 988; 2, 109. — vere . . . calore: chiasmus. — 6, 359, ‘et cum tempora se veris florentia pandunt. | frigore enim desunt ignes ventique calore | deficient.’ Priap. 84, ‘vere rosa, autumno pomis, aestate frequenter | spicis.’ — calore, ‘the heat,’ ‘summer’: 6, 714, ‘is rigat Aegyptum medium per saepe calorem’; 5, 741, ‘inde loci sequitur calor aridus et comes una | pulverulenta Ceres et etesia flabra aquilonum’; Georg. 1, 297, ‘at rubicunda Ceres medio succiditur aestu.’

175. vites: uvas Pont., and Br. who says, Proleg. xxxv, ‘vitem fundi quid sit docet Cic. CM. 52 (ne . . . in omnes partes nimia fundatur)’; vitis never means grapes; van d. Valk’s citation of Georg. 2, 97 is not in point. — auctumno: Ov. M. 2, 27, ‘verque novum stabat cinctum florente corona, | stabat nuda Aestas et spicae sarta gerebat, | stabat et Auctumnus calcatis sordidus uvis.’ — fundi: 351, ‘crescent arbusta et fetus in tempore fundunt’; M. tr. ‘put forth’ and quotes Cic. Tusc. 5, 37, ‘neque est ullum quod non ita vigeat . . . ut aut flores aut fruges fundat aut bacas’; rosam might mean rose bush here, and frumenta, grain stalks, but as L. does not care for symmetry such a limitation of meaning is unnecessary. Col. RR. 5, 5, ‘totam vitem omni parte in orbem diffundi’; vines in the autumn (in Californian vineyards certainly) do spread over the ground: the rose flowers, ripened grain, and the mass of the foliage of the vine may well have attracted the poet’s attention. — sudente is to be taken with vere and calore as well as with auctumno; see on 101. Sudante, Pius, Gif., Creech, old vulgate; sua dante, Salmasius; fundis sua ferre, Bock.

176. si . . . non quia: on 3, 746. — suo tempore: in tempore, 351; tempore certo, 5, 656. — rerum: as rosam, frumenta, vites.

177. Note the alliteration. — confluxerunt: the metaphors from flowing and pouring predominate in Latin generally (Nägelsbach, Stilistik, § 129), and L. is no exception. He uses fluere, and its compounds with ad, con, de, dis, e: see Raumer, Metapher bei L. 26, and cf. 902, ‘semina sunt ardoris multa, terendo | quae cum confluxere’; 5, 660, ‘semina multa | confluere’ ardoris consumerunt tempore certo’; 5, 667, ‘quod haec ignis tam certo tempore possunt | semina confluere’; 1, 590, ‘copia materiai | undique ponderibus solidis confluxet ad imum.’ — patesit: 6, 1001, ‘causa pateset’; cf. 4, 320. — creatur: O corr., oratu O, ora cantu Q.

178. tempestates: inelegant metrically. — 2, 32, ‘tempestas adridet et anni | tempora conspergunt viridantis floribus herbas’; 1, 805, ‘et nisi tempestas indulget tempore fausto’; Georg. 2, 345, ‘et exciperet caeli indulgentia terras.’ The propitious time here naturally coincides with the seasons, and when they are present the time becomes propitious. The earth is full of life; unfavorable conditions of the atmosphere prevent the development of her offspring (Bock.). — vivida, ‘quickened’; on 72. Ov. F. 3, 238, ‘vividaque in tenero palmite gemma tumet’ (Merkel uvida, Peter vivida). — tellus: he has forms of terra twenty times in the sixth foot, of tellus ten, but where one predominates in a discussion the other is not much used: in Book 5 terra occurs ten times, tellus once; where they occur in the sixth foot the words are not exact synonyms.

179. tuto, owing to atmospheric conditions. Georg. 2, 332, ‘inque novos soles audent se germina tuto | credere.’ — teneras, ‘tender’ because young; 2, 367, ‘teneri

tremulis cum vocibus haedi'; 3, 447, 'nam velut infirmo pueri teneroque vagantur | corpore'; Georg. 2, 343, 'nec res hunc tenerae possent perferre laborem,' which shows that teneras is not to be taken with oras as Lamb suggested.—effert: 2, 658, 'terra . . . quia multarum potitur primordia rerum, | multa modis multis effert in lumina soñs.'—in luminis oras: different order from 170; Faber and Bentley auras.

180. quod si, 391, 665; 2, 481, etc.; a bit of prose.—subito, 'unexpectedly,' Giuss.—exorerentur: see on 3, 272 and cf. 2, 507, exoreretur; for meaning, on 5.

181. spatio: of time; cf. 184; 2, 78, 'inque brevi spatio mutantur saecula animantium'; 3, 854, 'inmensi temporis omne | praeteritum spatium.'—alienis, 'unpropitious': 6, 1124, 'corrumpat redditque sui simile atque alienum'; Georg. 2, 149, 'hic ver adsiduum atque alienis mensibus aestas.' It is possible to take spatio of the interval between bud and fruit, but it probably refers to the indefiniteness of the season: roses in January (in an ordinary climate) would come incerto spatio, for they would not be expected then, and would also be alienis p. a., because June is their proper season.—partibus anni: 5, 676, 'incertis . . . in partibus anni'; 5, 701, 'alternis partibus anni.'

182. quippe ubi, 'inasmuch as': 3, 430 n.—forent: L. makes no distinction in meaning between forent and essent; sometimes forent and forent are used for metrical convenience, as in 184, 553, 683, 892, etc.; see on 3, 612. Schmalz, Syntax, § 29, says Caesar does not use forent and Cicero only twice in his Epistles. In Livy and Nepos there seems to be no difference in sense between the forms.—genitali concilio, 2, 571, 'rerum genitales auctificique | motus perpetuo possunt servare'; 2, 228, 'gignere quae possint genitalis reddere motus'; 2, 548, 'corpora iactari unius genitalia rei, | unde ubi qua vi et quo pacto congressa coibunt': the union of the primordia is necessary for creation; cf. confuxerunt, 177.

183. concilio, 'close conjunction,' 'union'; very frequent in L.; cf. 517, 484; σύγκρισις of Epicurus. Woltjer makes concilio dat. with iniquo.—arceri: here only in L.; a quasi-passive of prohibere.—tempore iniquo: on 41. Notice the ablatives: Madv. § 278 a, comp. Cic. Brut. 315, 'Menippus meo iudicio tota Asia illis temporibus disertissimus erat.' Cf. L. I, 1021; 5, 296; M. gives many other examples.

184. porro, 'again'; very common in L. The word has various meanings in different connexions, e.g. 'therefore,' 483; 'moreover,' 508; 'surely,' 516; 'on the other hand,' 587; 'onward,' 2, 105; 'in turn,' 2, 812; 'else,' 3, 133; 'secondly,' 4, 645; 'continuously,' 3, 23. Gneisse, Jahrb. 123, 497, maintains that L. uses porro to unite members of an argument, and that as a particle of transition it is always found at the beginning of the second member; the rule is criticised by Br., Jahresb. 9, 164, substituting 'usually' for 'always.'—augendis, 'for growth': 5, 80, ad fruges augendas.—usus for opus also in 219 and elsewhere. Vsus is earlier than opus which takes the ablative by analogy; it is rarely found out of Plautus; Dr. I. § 249.

185. ad, 'after'; 6, 316, ad ictum; M. comp. Cic. Verr. 4, 32, 'ad hospitum adventum.' Giuss. interprets 'there would not be sufficient time for the successive union of other primordia.'—coitum, here only in L., who usually has coetus; 5, 428, 'omne genus coetus et motus experiendo.'—si e: harsh elision: 2, 36, iacteris quam si in plebeia, but in I, 234, si in eo. The Victorianus has ex nihilo si to avoid this elision. Cf. Bouterwek, 41; Polle, AV. 19.—e nilo crescere: cf. 804, e terra omnis crescere.

186. iuvenes: adult men in full vigor of life; older than adulescentes and younger than seniores.—subito: as in 180; subito dicere in Cic. Or. 1, 150 is ‘extempore.’—ex: 4, 325 (301) n.—infantibus: Lachm. says this is the stock example of the grammarians for disregard of final s; see on 3, 52. Infans occurs in its primary meaning in 5, 222, ‘puer . . . nudus humi iacet, infans, indigus omni | vitali auxilio.’—parvus: cf. 5, 977, ‘a parvis quod enim conseruant cernere semper | aeterno tenebras et lucem tempore gigni.’ For the pleonasm cf. parva . . . opella, 1, 1114; vertice torto, 1, 293.

187. e terraque: 2, 70, ‘ex oculisque’; 4, 200, ‘ex altoque’; 2, 664, ‘ex unoque’; 3, 10, ‘tuisque ex’; 4, 1249, ‘magis ex aliisque’; 5, 49, ‘ex animoque’; cf. on 37.—repente primarily refers to the shortness of time in which an action occurs: ‘repenti fulminis ictu,’ 5, 400, in the twinkling of an eye (see Schmidt, Syn. 532); 2, 764, ‘cur ea quae nigro fuerint paulo ante colore, | marmoreo fieri candore repente,’ of the sudden change of the surface of the sea; 1, 218, ‘ex oculis res quaque repente periret.’ It is a favorite word with L.—arbusta L. always has, instead of arbores for metrical reasons, e.g. 351, 806. Arbustis in 5, 1378 = ‘orchards,’ as the form arboribus is admissible there.—salirent: Claud. praef. De IIII cons. Hon. 3, ‘excusso saliit cum tegmine proles.’ Serv. on Ecl. 1, 55, makes salicta from salio, ‘quod salit et surgit cito.’

188. quorum refers to the action of iuvenes and arbores. The verse recurs at 2, 707.—nil fieri = nil posse fieri, Giuss., comparing 2, 709.—manifestum occurs frequently in appeals to fact in L.: 2, 149, ‘omnibus in promptu manifestumque esse videmus'; cf. on 3, 353.—quando: causal as in 206, 263; 3, 546; usually with indic. in L.; with subj., 1, 467.

189. sq. M. imagines a lacuna between par est and semine certo and supplies tempore certo, | res quoniam crescunt omnes de, comp. 2, 707; approved by Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 771, and opposed by Br. and Susemihl in Phil. 23, 459; 44, 61. Br. puts a lacuna between 189 and 190 and so M. in 1860, Bail. and Susemihl. Lachm. read semine certo | crescere resque genus and Bern. followed. Grasberger, De L. C. 46, proposed crescunt seque genus servant; Christ, QL. 27, semine creta, | crescentesque. The old vulgate had crescendoque. Bock. reads ut partust semine certo, | crescunt resque genus servant, wherein res is gen.; Roos, 12, crescentisque; Lotze, Phil. 7, 697 = Kl. Schrift. 3, 101, would change certo to creta and read crescendoque. But as Susemihl, Phil. 23, 459, says, sua de materia, 191, implies certo de semine. Winckelmann, crescentumque genus servante. Susemihl would join semine certo with ut par est. Kannengiesser in BPW. 15, 1133 favors Nencini’s crescant atque; but Nencini as quoted in Jahresb. 24, 139, would now repeat paulatim and not crescant. Cartault, Flexion etc. 34, semine certo (res quoniam crescunt, certa genetrice creatae) crescentes. Giuss., Polle (Phil. 26, 297), Pascal, Kraetsch (83), and Holtze, Syntax. 151 defend the solecism of the Ms. reading; also the present editor in AJP. 21, 183, comparing other instances of constructions according to sense; see on 1, 352.

189. par est: cf. 458, ‘haec soliti sumus, ut par est, eventa vocare’; 361, ‘tandem pendere par est’; 2, 125, ‘haec animum te advertere par est’; 5, 117, ‘prop- tereaque putas ritu par esse Gigantum.' The development of meaning is: equal—fair—right; cf. accumst, 5, 226.

190. genus servant, 'preserve their kind,' i.e. are true to the law of their development; 4, 686, 'eoque modo servantur saecula ferarum,' and 2, 709.—noscere possis, didactic; see on 3, 117.

191. quicque: d is assimilated before the guttural, Lindsay, 448, but the classical spelling is quidque: Brambach s.v. Reichenhart, Jahrb. 121, 846, notices that L. puts the reflexive immediately after quisque in six places: 191, 215; 3, 611; 4, 522; 5, 923; 6, 985; but 2, 454, se glomeramina quaeque.—grandescere is an agricultural word: 2, 1160, 'quae (pabula laeta) nunc vix nostro grandescunt aucta labore'; 2, 1122, quaecumque vides hilario grandescere adactu; Col. 2, 21, 'ut potius in area et in acervo quam in agro grandescant frumenta.' Cf. the use of grandis in Cic. Orat. 2, 131, 'ut agro non semel arato sed [novato et] iterato, quo meliores fetus possit et grandiores edere.' See Nettleship, J. Phil. 7, 170, on the supposed relationship of grandis and gradus, and cf. 2, 1122–1123. For the elision, see on 337.—alique: cf. 1, 804, 'e terra res omnis crescere alike'; 2, 551, 'procrescere alike.' This word in its different forms occurs, with elision of the vowel of the word preceding, in 229, where it is in the first foot, and in 812, 883; 2, 546; 3, 64, where it occurs in the fifth and sixth; it stands in the sixth foot with que in 1, 859; 5, 322, 1, 56; in the fifth and sixth without elision in 1, 816; 4, 630; in the fifth without elision in 2, 1156; 4, 1068; in the first in 5, 220; in the first and second in 1, 254.

192. No rains would be needed.—huc accedit, 'furthermore'; prosaic; 2, 1077; 1, 215, 565; 2, 398; 3, 459, etc. Vt (uti) after accedit is necessary when the subordinate clause does not describe a fact; otherwise quod is more common: Dr. II, § 386; L. does not have quod (Polle, AV. 21). The phrase usually joins paragraphs or long arguments in L.—certis, coming at definite seasons.—imbris: 2, 929, 'intempestivos quom putor cepit ob imbris'; 1, 250, 'postremo pereunt imbris, ubi eos pater aether | in gremium matris terrai praecipitavit'; 2, 222, 'imbris guttae.'

193. laetificos is an ancient and poetical word: Enn. Sc. 152, 'vites laetificae pampinis pubescere.'—fetus: 253, 'crescent ipsae (arbores) fetuque gravantur'; 351, 'crescent arbusta et fetus in tempore fundunt'; but 2, 358, 'conspicere amissum fetus.' The prevailing reference in L. is to the products of the earth; so of grain, 6, 1.—submittere, on 8.—tellus: but 1032, 'solis terra vapore | fota novet fetus.' Cf. Hor. CS. 29, 'fertilis frugum pecorisque tellus | spicae donet Cererem corona; | nutrit fetus et aquae salubres | et Iovis aurae.'

194. The principal caesura is hepthemimeral. The rhyme porro . . . cibo is accidental; it is common between the closing words of a line divided by caes. semi-quinalia: see on 3, 6.—secretæ: 2, 912, 'nec manus a nobis potis est secretæ neque ulla | corporis omnino sensum pars sola tenere'; 2, 842, 'sed ne forte putas solo spoliata colore | corpora prima manere, etiam secretæ teporis | sunt,' where spoliata and secretæ correspond; this seems to be a Lucretian usage. Cf. the parallel expression in 1, 1038, 'nam veluti privata cibo natura animantium | diffuit amittens corpus.'—cibo is used repeatedly for 'sustenance,' e.g. 350, 352; of the stars, 5, 524.—natura animantium = animantes; on 3, 43. Notice the elision and see on 350.

195. propagare, on 20. The first syllable is long also in 5, 850, where it occurs in the second foot; elsewhere (1, 20, 280; 2, 173, 997) it is short and occurs in the fifth foot : but in 5, 856, propagando procudere prolem. The word is not used by Virgil, Ovid, or Horace, and was avoided by the poets ; it is quoted by Forc. only from L. and Claud. De laud. Stil. 1, 373, 'hi propagandi,' also in the first foot. Propego occurs three times in L. and in every case in the fifth and sixth feet (1, 42 ; 4, 997 ; 5, 1027) ; so in Aen. 6, 871. — tueri, rare in L. in the meaning 'preserve,' the common meaning in classic Latin ; e.g. Cic. Off. 1, 11, 'principio generi animalium omni est a natura tributum ut se vitam corporusque tueatur.' In the 29 instances in which L. uses this verb in this form or in the forms of the third conjugation it means 'protect' or 'preserve' in but three, viz. 1, 195 ; 5, 74, 1408.

196. ut : sc. his consideratis adduceris ut, etc. — potius, 'with greater truth' ; preferably as a matter of fact. — multia . . . rebus, interlocked ; he might have written potius communia multis corpora rebus, which would have been unrhymic ; cf. 377, id falsa totum ratione. — corpora, as constructive elements. — rebus : the dat. is the usual construction, but in 3, 325, 'communibus inter se radicibus.'

197. multa seems emphasized by its position ; cf. culta, 209 ; nullius, 224 ; omnia, 232 ; rem, 264. — verbis (communia) elementa : one of his homely illustrations, repeated in 912, 'quo pacto verba (ignes, lignum) quoque ipsa | inter se paulo mutatis sunt elementis' ; 824, 'multa elementa vides multis communia verbis,' repeated in 2, 689. He afterwards shows that the atoms are limited in form, but infinite in number. The same illustration occurs in Cic. ND. 2, 93; cf. Arist. Gen. et Corr. 1, 2, 5, ἐτῶν αὐτῶν γάρ τραγῳδία καὶ κωμῳδία γίνεται γραμμάτων ; Diels, Elementum, 14, attributes it to Leucippus and Democritus. The expression στοιχεῖον does not occur in the genuine fragments of Epicurus although its use as a technical term began with Plato ; see Diels, pp. 8, 19, and BPW. 20, 757. Doubtless the synonymous use of στοιχεῖα = elementa = litterae and atomī made this illustration weighty with the ancients. — elementa = 'letters' also in 5, 1445, 'nec multo priu' sunt elementa reperta.' — videmus = manifestum est, an appeal to common observation ; on 3, 153.

198. 'You are safer in thinking things have elements in common, than in thinking that anything is produced without elements.' — principiis, not primordiis ; on 55. — ullam, for the sentence is negative by suggestion. — rem ex . . . : harsh elision ; 150 n. — existere : 'come into being' ; 5, 69, 'tum quae tellure animantes | extiterint' ; 3, 532, 621.

199. Another argument extending to 207 : 'nature does not produce giants and immortals, because the matter for producing things is definite and unchanging.' — denique introduces another argument, as frequently ; cf. 238 and postremo, 208, 250 ; denique, 305 ; postremo, 322 ; denique, 358. For cur following denique, see on 3, 476. — natura = creative nature ; 56 n. — parare : 4, 785, 'omnia sub verbone creat natura paratque' ; 6, 31, 'seu casu seu vi quod sic natura parasset.' Wakef. proposed parire.

200. Alliteration of ppppp. This scheme occurs but three times (with p, c, and t). — non potuit : 'so far been unable.' — pontum : 'the deep sea,' although in L. it does not usually have this connotation, being merely poetical for mare. — per occurs 309 times in L. (Polle, Jahrb. 101, 217). — vada : as if they could wade through the deep as Polyphemus did (Aen. 3, 664, graditurque per aequor | iam medium, nequum fluctus latera ardua tinxit). Cf. also L. 5, 913, 'aut hominem tanto mem-

brorum esse impete natum, | trans maria alta pedum nisus ut ponere posset'; Aen. 10, 763, 'quam magnus Orion, | cum pedes incedit medii per maxuma Nerei | stagna viam scindens.' Bern. comp. Hor. C. I, 3, 24, 'non tangenda rates transiliunt vada.'

201. Note the alliteration.—magnos: 'vast,' a frequent epithet of mountains; 4, 138; 5, 41, 'montes magnos silvasque profundas'; 6, 191, 490; 1, 897; 5, 824, 946, 1244; 6, 786; Catull. 64, 281, 'quos Thessala magnis | montibus ora creat.'—divellere: 'wrench apart'; 6, 122, 'divolta repente | maxima dissiluisse capacis moenia mundi.' Otus and Ephialtes prepared to pile Ossa on Olympus and Pelion on Ossa. Also Polyphemus, Odyss. I, 481, ήκε δ' ἀπορρήτας κορυφὴν ὄρεος μεγάλου. L. 5, 915, 'et manibus totum circum se vertere caelum.'

202. Note the alliteration and cf. 3, 948, 'omnia si pergas vivendo vincere saecla.'—vivendo: on 3, 948.—vitalia: here 'full of life,' an unusual meaning; cf. on 3, 99. The entire line, as Lamb. says, = diu vivere, vitalia saecula being 'life times'; M. would have it mean the number of years over which a life, probably a human life, extends.—vincere: on 3, 948.—saecula: on 3, 629.—The reference is to such cases as that of Tithonus.

203. materies: metr. gr. for materia: 58 n.—reddita, 'set apart,' 'allotted'; 2, 512, 'sed rebus reddita certa | finis utrimque tenet suminam'; 2, 757, 'si nulla coloris principiis est | reddita natura.' Serv. on Aen. 3, 333, regnorum reddita cessit | pars Heleno, 'reddita more veteri pro data accipendum,' thus showing archaic usage. Aen. 12, 817, 'una superstatio superis quae reddita divis'; Cic. ND. I, 103, 'aetheris ignibus altissima ora reddatur.' L. has reddita fifteen times and only in the first and fifth feet; movere and moveri and creat and creat only at the close (Jessen, Zu L. Leb. u. Dicht. 60).—certa, 'unchanging.'

204. gignundis: always in L. for gignendis; cf. on 59.—constat: 'is fixed.'—quid possit oriri: 75 n.

205. Br. and Giuss. transfer 205–207 to follow 214, after the suggestion of Bock. and Stürenberg (p. 23). The clause 205–207 certainly makes a good conclusion of this general argument: yet if Lucretius could have well put 205–207 after 214, there is no evidence that he did so. Bern. says the argument is the weakest and so follows as a sort of corollary. Susemihl, Phil. 44, 61, thinks the only argument for the change would be as strong for rejecting 250–264, because postremo follows denique; cf. 199, 208, with 238, 250. Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 68, van d. Valk, 51, and Pascal, Stud. 12 also oppose the transfer.—fatendumst: didactic and frequent, e.g. 462, cf. 399.—Lact. De Ira, 10, 'denique Lucretius, quasi oblitus atomorum, quos asserebat, ut redargueret eos, qui dicunt ex nihilo fieri omnia, his argumentis usus est, quae contra ipsum valerent. sic enim dixit: nam si de nihilo fierent, ex omnibus rebus | omne genus nasci posset: nil semine egeret [159]. item postea, nil igitur fieri de nulo posse fatendumst, | semine quando opus est rebus, quo quaeque creatae | aeris in teneras possint proferri auras. Quis hunc putet habuisse cerebrum, cum haec diceret, nec videret sibi esse contraria?' But Lact. overlooked the subjunctive in the first passage.

206. semine: emphatic word.—opus est: 6, 1081, 'nec tibi tam longis opus est ambagibus'; Cic. Fam. 9, 25, 3, 'auctoritate tua nobis opus est'; Roby, 1255.—quo . . . creatae: 4, 552 (543), 'levor levore creatur'; 1, 169. Quo, as Bock. remarks, represents certo (certo igitur opus est semine).

207. aeris auras: on 3, 222.—teneras, ‘soft’; 2, 146, ‘aera per tenerum’ and Aen. 9, 699, Ov. M. 4, 616; Enn. Ann. 21, ‘per teneras caliginis auras.’—possint, Lact. and edd.; possent OQ.—proferrier: ‘bring themselves forth’; for the ending see on 3, 67.

208. postremo: 250, 322, 384; 2, 371, 408, 456, etc.—quoniam: Pius proposed quando unnecessarily; 562, ‘quoniam refici rem quamque videmus’; 5, 258, ‘quoniam dubio procul esse videtur.’—incultis: here only in L. Cic. Rosc. Com. 33, ‘ager incultus sine tecto, nunc est cultissimus cum optima villa.’ Note the difference between inculta and deserta, 164.—praestare videmus comes in the same metrical position in 358, and praestare elsewhere is the penultimate word: 4, 153; 5, 1179.

209. manibus: abl., = opera hominum, Lamb. M. quotes Cic. Off. 2, 14, ‘sine hominum manu atque opera.’ Cf. also ND. 2, 151, ‘operis hominum, id est, manibus.’ The dative, which Giuss. thinks not improbable, is more poetical, but cannot be easily defended.—reddere: Gif. proposed reddier, Lamb. reddi, Bentl. edere.

210. A dactyl closing the second foot is better than a spondee: cf. on 170.—esse videlicet: 2, 469, ‘scilicet esse globosa’; 2, 871, ‘quippe videre licet viros existere vermes,’ and often. Pl. Stich. 557, ‘videlicet nequam fuisse illum adulescentem’; Rud. 395, ‘nunc eum cum navi scilicet abiisse pessum in altum’; Dr. II, § 443; Lindsay, 564. Strangely enough in 2, 809 L. has scire licet . . . putandum est for scilicet; see on 3, 229.—primordia, usually in penultimate position. Here again Pascal understands the first aggregation of atoms.

211. Nearly = 5, 210–211.—fecundas: the clods contain the primordia.—glebas: glebae felices is quoted from Apul. M. 1, 1, 7. In general cf. Hor. S. 1, 1, 28, ‘terram qui vertit aratro’; Georg. 1, 147, ‘Ceres ferro mortalis vertere terram’; Ov. M. 1, 425, ‘versis glaebis’; Georg. 3, 525, ‘quid vomere terras | invertisse gravis.’

212. terraique solum: 5, 1295, ‘ferro coepere solum proscindere terrae,’ 1289, ‘aere solum terrae tractabant’; 2, 592, ‘multis succensa locis ardente sola terrae’; Enn. Ann. 455, ‘sola terrarum.’—subigentes is an agricultural word: ‘locum subigere oportet bene . . . ubi erit subactus, areas facito;’ Cato RR. 161, 1; cf. Col. 3, 5, 3; 2, 3, etc.; Ov. M. 11, 31, ‘forte boves presso subigebant vomere terram’; Georg. 1, 125, ‘ante Iovem nulli subigebant arva coloni’; Pliny, 18, 145, ‘solum subigit autumno.’—cimus occurs in this form only here and in 5, 211; cio, cit, ciunt, ciant, ciuntur are quoted from other authors. It is a favorite word with L. as a synonym of movere and commonly is causative. Cimus ad ortus = facimus nasci et oriri, Lamb. Cf. the compounds percit, 3, 303; concit, 6, 410; excitur, 2, 327, and on 6, 242.—ortus: 5, 698, ‘nec penetrare potest facile atque emergere ad ortus.’

213. nulla: sc. primordia.—labore is often used of agricultural toil: 2, 1160, ‘quae nunc vix nostro grandescunt aucta labore,’ 1165, ‘incassum . . . cecidisse laborem’; 5, 869, ‘larga suo sine pabula parta labore’; Georg. 1, 118, ‘haec cum sint hominumque bouisque labores | versando terram experti.’

214. sponte sua: 5, 212, ‘sponte sua nequeant liquidas existere in auras’; 2, 1092, ‘ipsa (natura) sua per se sponte omnia dis agere expers’; 2, 1157, ‘praeterea nitidas fringes vinetaque laeta | sponte sua primum mortalibus ipsa creavit’; 5, 937, ‘quod terra crearat | sponte sua, satis id placabat pectora donum’; 6, 1020, ‘nec ipsa (corpora) | sponte sua sursum possunt consurgere in auras.’ L. usually puts these words at the beginning of the line; cf. on 3, 33.—Georg. 2, 10, ‘namque aliae

215-264. 'Nil ad nilum interire.' Nature reduces all things into their component bodies; if these parts were mortal, things would wholly disappear, without employment of force to separate them. And if matter were wholly destroyed, whence are things made? Matter must, then, be indestructible. Again, all things would be easily destroyed, if they were not made up of eternal bodies capable of withstanding much force. Matter is not lost; it changes its form in the rain, grain, trees, the increase of men and flocks; things are never completely destroyed.'

215. Huc accedit uti, 'moreover'; on 192. — quicque: edd. for quicquid. — sua refers to quicque: cf. 191. — Cf. in general Epicurus ad Herod. 39, καὶ εἰ ἀφελερότερο δὲ τὸ ἀφανεῖδεν εἰς τὸ μὴ ὄν, πάττα διὰ ἀπωλόλει τὰ πράγματα, οὐκ ὄντες εἰς ἀδιείλετο.

216. Note the allit. and monosyllabic close. — natura: here the natural course or order of things, as in 2, 224; 1, 322; 2, 23, etc.; seven times in the poem. — interemant: 3, 287, interemant sensum; 2, 1002, nec sic interemit mors res. Brambach recommends spelling interimo, but see M., vol. I, p. 33. — This principle is the converse of the one established in 159 sq.: cf. 265, 'res quoniam docui non posse creari | de nulo neque item genitas ad nil revocari.' Cic. Div. 2, 37, 'non ergo omnium interitus atque obitus natura conficiet, et erit aliquid, quod aut ex nihilo oriatur aut in nihilum subito occidat. quis hoc physicus dixit umquam?' Acad. 1, 27, 'materiem quandam . . . interire non in nihilum, sed in suas partes, quae infinite secari ac dividi possint' Ov. M. 15, 165, 'omnia mutantur, nihil interit.'

217. siquid: 5, 1334, siquos. — mortale: 1, 1015, mortale genus. — e: supplied by Itali and edd. Br. in Phil. 23, 463 proposed a, comparing Hor. C. 2, 16, 27, 'nihil est ab omni | parte beatum'; but 1, 667, 'scilicet ex nulla facere id si parte reparcent'; 4, 721, 'laedere . . . ex ulla lumina parte.' — cunctis, not omnibus or totis, with reference to its etymology. E cunctis partibus is a pleonasm for θλῶς, as Bern. noticed.

218. ex oculis: 856, 'ex oculis nostris aliqua vi victa perire.' — repente: on 187. — erupta periret, 'would be snatched away to destruction,' M.; note the verse ending. Aen. 1, 88, 'eripiunt subito nubes caelumque diemque | Teucrorum ex oculis.'

219. usus = opus: see on 184. — enim: but nam, 217; not uncommon in L., as M. remarks, comparing 2, 749, 751, 753; 3, 754, 756, 757; 5, 7, 13, 14; Cic. Att. 2, 3, 2; 16, 6, 2. Enim here is the fifth word; in 680, 699, 704; 4, 526; 6, 116, it is third; in 6, 1277 ninth; it is usually in the second place, as in 1, 112; many examples in Holtze, 189; Woltjer, Mnem. 27, 54 sq. Gif. read ei instead.

220. discidium, Epic. διάκρισις, 2, 120; opposite of concilium, 183; cf. 1, 249; rare in this meaning except in L. — parere: see on 83. — nexus: 244, 'inter se quia nexus principiorum | dissimiles constant'; cf. 240. Nexus (except in the juristic sense) is poet. and late: cf. Cic. Fin. 1, 19, 'complexiones et copulationes et adhae-siones atomorum inter se.' — exsolvore posset: note the verse ending and the fulness of expression in the sentence.

221. quod, 'whereas'; 2, 350, 'quod posse videmus | nec minus atque homines inter se nota cluere.' Cf. quod si, quod nisi. M. quotes Varro, RR. 3, 3, 8, 'quod nunc ut habeant multos apros ac capreas, complura iugera maceris concludunt.' See on quod contra, 82. — aeterno: see on 111. — constant: see on 3, 167. — semine: cf. 59.

222. donec obiit: construed as in early writers; Dr. II, § 509; Lane, 2007, 2009. Donec fulserunt, 900; diluxit, 5, 175; pervenit, 5, 687. — obiit: 'comes up'; dum vis obeat, 246. So Donatus on Ter. Hec. 859, obiitus = occursus. — res is acc. — diverberet: a poetic word; 2, 952, 'nam quid praeterea facere ictum posse reamur | oblatum, nisi discutere ac dissolvere quaeque'; 6, 240, 'ictu discludere turris.' See on 2, 152.

223. intus: common in L., e.g. 367, 'et multo vacui minus intus habere.' — pene-tret: frequent word; 528, 'haec neque dissolui plagis extrinsecus icta | possunt nec porro penitus penetrata retexi,' of the atoms. — inanis, 'empty spaces'; not yet a technical word. — dissoluantque: if spelled with v, the fifth foot would be a spondee and the close would be nearly like 2, 295, maioribus intervallis; Lamb. was ready here to read either u or v. Dissoluensque closes the line in 559; if v be written there, the verse will end with — — — u; cf. 3, 330, omnia dissoluantur and n.

224. nullius: for i see on 3, 97. The word is emphatic by position and is used for the gen. of nihil. — exitium, 'complete destruction'; 5, 95, 'una dies dabit exitio, multosque per annos | sustentata ruet moles et machina mundi.' — patitur natura: 263, 'nec ullam | rem digni patitur (natura)'. Cic. Acad. 2, 54, 'quod rerum natura non patitur,' and Reid there; Off. 3, 22, 'illud natura non patitur'; Quint. 9, 2, 32, 'quae natura non permittit.' — videri: passive; on 3, 182. But in this sense it is more than a mere synonym for esse, corresponding to φαίνεσθαι, 'appear to be'; cf. 364.

225. praeterea often introduces another argument; on 3, 337. — vetustate: 2, 69, 'et quasi longinquo fluere omnia cernimus aeo | ex oculisque vetustatem subducere nostris.' Vetustas looks back, aetas forward. — amovet: here only in L. In post-Augustan Latin it is euphemistic for furari: here a translation of Epicurus' ἀφαίνειν. — aetas: a form of the vis mentioned in 222; see on 3, 847.

226. penitus peremis: for the expression of seorsum secreta, 3, 550–552. It is present; so interemat, 216; peremunt, 5, 216. — consumens: 233, 'infinita aetas consupse anteacta diesque.' For the metaphor cf. 5, 1431, 'in curis consumit inanibus aevom.' materiem, 'substance.' Notice the elision after the fifth dactyl and cf. 587, 'quandoquidem exstat'; 2, 925, 'adtribui id quod'; 5, 161, 'perpetuo aeo'; 6, 1115, 'praeterea usquam,' 1200, 'proluvie alvi': Kühn, 44, Müller, RM., 298. For the practice of other poets, see on 409.

227. unde, ex qua materia. — animale genus, 'race of living things'; cf. animalia corpora, 2, 727–728; genus animantium, 1, 4. Animal is usually an adjective in L.: 5, 823 n. — genus generatim: he likes to place words of the same etymology side by side; vivendo vitalia, 202. For generatim see on 20. — lumina vitae: on 3, 542.

228. reducit, redditum: the word is written red- not re- in 4, 993; 5, 1337; cf. reddo: most hexameter poets have rēduō; Roby, 160, 7, Müller, RM. 362;

Lindsay, 114. — Venus as in 2; but Bock. venus, ‘geschlechtliche zeugung.’ — aut: Wakef. et; with inf. Ms. — daedala tellus, on 7.

229. alit atque auget, ‘give food and increase.’ 859, ‘quoniam cibus auget corpus aliique’; 5, 220, ‘cur (natura) alit atque auget (genus ferarum)?’ 5, 322, ‘quodcumque alias ex se res auget alitque.’ The pairing also occurs in Pacuvius, Cicero, Macrobius; Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 47. — pabula praebens: note alit. and cf. 2, 596, ‘pabula laeta | montivago generi possit praebere ferarum’; 2, 996, ‘pabula cum praebet quibus omnes corpora pascunt’; 5, 991, ‘pabula viva feris praebebat.’

230. mare is acc.: 2, 590, ‘unde mare inmensum volentes frigora fontes | adsidue renovent’; 1, 1030, ‘efficit ut largis avidum mare fluminis undis | integrant amnes.’ ingenui: for spelling cf. armatei, 2, 637; oculei, 3, 97; vitrei, 4, 602, where see Lachm. Ingenuus occurs here only in L. Juv. 3, 20, ‘nec ingenuum violent mar maura tofum,’ where Mayor comp. Aus. Idyl. 10, 65–66, ‘usque sub ingenuis agitatae fontibus herbae | vibrantes patiuntur aquas.’ From ‘indigenous,’ ‘native,’ the transition is easy to ‘its own’ = suis. Prud. Cath. 3, 51, ‘fundit opes ager ingenuas, | dives aristiferae segetes; Fronto ad M. Caes. I, 3, p. 7 N., ‘at illi ingenui vapores puri perpetuique sunt’; and L. himself, 6, 612, ‘omnia quae maria ac terras sparguntque rigantque; adde suos fontes’ (all cited by Hertz). Oppenrieder, 2, explains ‘in mari ipso geniti, quibus flumina externa, h. e., procul a mare orientia recte opponuntur’; cf. Jahrb. 53, 198. Ingeniti was read by some early editors and approved by Bentl., who yet interpreted sui fontes; Wakef. cites many passages to show that ingenui is here puri, as usual. Bern. explains fontes indigenae, in ipso maris fundo scatentes, and quotes πηγας . . . θαλάττης from Arist. Meteorol. 354 a 32. — fontes: Vulg. Gen. 7, 11, ‘rupti sunt omnes fontes abyssi magnae.’ — externa, ‘without the sea.’ Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 669, knows no interna flumina, hence would write with Lachm. extentaque; Wakef. aeternaque. — longe: Aen. 10, 843, ‘adgnovit longe gemitum.’ ‘Suppeditant autem longe, id est aquam advehentes e longinquio,’ Hertz, Berlin. Index 1872, 7, who gives many examples of longe = e longinquo. Polle, Phil. 26, 299, thought longe purposeless; he objects to externaque longa (Br. id. 14, 551) and favors Bernays’ large.

231. suppeditant: transitive; see on 3, 10, and Altenburg, Jahrb. 46, 341. — aether: 5, 500, ‘liquidissimus aether | atque levissimus aerias super influit auras’; 1, 1089, ‘totum circum tremere aethera signis | et solis flammam per caeli caerulea pasci’; 5, 523, ‘sive ipsi (ignes = astra) serpere possunt | quo cuiusque cibus vocat atque invitat euntis’; Aen. 1, 608, ‘polus dum sidera pascet,’ and notice 607, ‘in freta dum fluvii current,’ a reminiscence of Lucretius 230.

232. debet, ‘is bound,’ Lee; on 3, 187. — mortalis corpore: 755; 2, 906; 5, 6, 65, 238, 321, 377. For the abl., cf. ‘forent aeterno corpore,’ 242; ‘aperto corpore qui sunt,’ 297. The convenient dactyl corpore was probably preferred to a gen. of quality, corporis: Archiv. 11, 208; so pondere 4, 905 etc.

233. infinita aetas: this is presumed, not proven. The expression recurs in 558, ‘longa diei | infinita aetas anteacti temporis omnis.’ Cf. ex infinito tempore, 550, 991; 2, 574. — consumpsisse: cf. protraxe, 5, 1159, and see Lindsay 508; 3, 69 n. The occurrence of such forms in Pl. and Ter. seems to show that they belonged to the popular language. See Proll, De formis antiquis L. 39 sq. — anteacta on 3, 672. Anse is rare in the thesis in the dactylic poets, but occurs also in 3, 969; 6, 410 (Thes. 2, 128, 6).

234. Too many elisions. — spatio atque aetate, cf. on 181. The hendiadys is like that in 348, in saxis ac speluncis = in saxis speluncarum, 2, 1131, vires et robur adulturn = robur adulturn virium. But Bock. interprets atque, 'I mean,' spatio to him being the limitless period of time that has elapsed from the beginning to the present. — fuere: for -ere see on 3, 51. The subject is the understood antecedent (corpora) of quibus.

236. The first and second feet are unpleasing because there are two spondees in one word, inmortali; the verse is wearisome from the number of spondees and the agreement of the metrical and verbal accent. And the monosyllabic sunt preceding the caesura and following so long a word as inmortali makes a bad rhythm; but L. usually has a monosyllable after two spondees beginning the verse; see on 3, 527. — certe: i.e. you must be convinced.

237. haut: but haut, 248; see on 3, 330. — igitur: the conclusion follows from quod si, 234. — reverti: 756, 'ad nilum iam rerum summa reverti'; so reverti stands in the fifth and sixth feet in 785; 2, 129, 961; 4, 345, 441; 5, 635; and revertens, 5, 616, 658.

238. res omnis: variation from quicque, 215; omnia, 232. — vis causaque: hendiadys, as is shown by the singular conficeret; 2, 150, vapor . . . lumenque serenum . . . meat; cf. 5, 775. Tactus, 241, is a sufficient cause. — volgo: old spelling for vulgo; so 2, 215, 337, 724, etc.; volgum, 2, 921. It means 'commonly,' 'without distinction,' 'usually': 2, 215, 'cadit in terras vis flammea volgo.'

239. Note the dactyls. — conficeret implies entire destruction: 2, 1002, 'nec sic interemit mors res ut materiae | corpora conficiat, sed coetum dissupat ollis.' — aeterna: variation from inmortali, 236, and epithet of materies in 245, 519, 540. — teneret: sc. res. 2, 529, 'corpuscula materiae | ex infinito summam rerum usque tenere'; 3, 323, 'haec igitur natura tenetur corpore ab omni,' and n. there.

240. inter se refers to materies: 2, 67, 'nam certe non inter se stipata cohaeret | materies'; 2, 939, 'nimirum quia materies disiecta tenetur . . . nec congressa modo vitali convenientes | contulit inter se motus'; 3, 424, 'quatenus est unum inter se coniunctaque res est.' Inter se is used repeatedly; inter sese less often in L., but usually in pl. — nexus: Itali and mod. edd.; nexus, OQ, old vulg., Bock.; Lamb. ed. 1 and 2 nexas, ed. 3 nexus. 'Nexus principiorum,' 244; see on 220. (Yet nexus may be right; nexus is a more familiar form and is aided thereby. Impedita is often used absolutely and nexus could be object of teneret.) — minus aut magis: magis minusve, magis aut minus, magis ac minus, are mostly post-Augustan for the usual plus minusve, cf. 5, 573; Sen. Ep. 82, 14, 'quaeque alia aut minus aut magis pertinimur.' See lex. magis. — indupedita: but ingue pedita, 4, 562; ingue peditus,

4, 1149; inque pediri, 3, 484; indupediri, 4, 70; indupedita, 6, 1010; 2, 102, 459; 5, 876; 6, 453. L. uses the parts of impedio where the metre allows, e.g. inpedit, 4, 921. Cf. on 82.

241. leti: of inanimate objects in 1112, 'haec rebus erit pars ianua leti'; 5, 373, 'haut igitur leti praeclosa est ianua caelo.' — satis: as in 402, 'verum animo satis haec vestigia parva | sunt.' Nepos, Epm. 4, 6, 'abstinentiae erit hoc satis testimoniū'; Ov. M. 3, 149, 'fortunamque dies habuit satis'; Aen. 11, 366, 'sat funera fusi | vidimus,' where M. thinks satis means 'in sufficient measure.' In all these cases Dr. holds (I, § 199, 3) that satis is a predicate of the verb. Bock. satis esset = sufficeret; Madv. (on Cic. Fin. 2, 84) 'non "tactus satis esset causa" sed "tactus satis esset causa leti," id est, letum satis efficeret.' — causa: 6, 706, 'fit ut omnis dicere causas | conveniat leti.'

242. quippe, 'seeing that.' — ubi: i.e. 'in which.' — nulla refers to res omnis, 238; Bern. takes it of primordia, with some older edd. — quorum: Lamb. eorum; Bock. quarum. Parnajon's translation seems correct: car du . . . moment . . . où aucunes choses ne seraient d'un corps éternel, chaque (toute) force devrait dissoudre l'assemblage d'elles.

243. contextum: here only in L. — deberet: of physical necessity. — quaerere: any violence, no matter what; e.g. levissima; 'any amount of force,' M.

244. at nunc: 'but in fact,' 169 n. The fact, however, is assumed, not proved. — nexus, 'fastenings.' — principiorum: metr. gr. for primordiorum; 55 n.

245. dissimiles, 'being unlike'; the same force would not destroy all unless strong enough to destroy the strongest. — constant, 'are combined'; here something more than an equivalent of sunt; 3, 235 n. — aeterna: assumed, not proved.

246. incolumi remanent corpore: 3, 341 n. For the abl., cf. 3, 448; 4, 1021. — acris: acris viris, 5, 625–626; 3, 461 n.

247. pro, 'proportioned to'; 5, 1111, 'pro facie cuiusque et viribus ingenioque'; 1174, 'mittere pro facie praeclara et viribus amplis.' — textura: on 3, 209. — reperta agrees with vis; cf. creata, 502; recepta, 2, 111.

248. igitur is logically dependent on at nunc, 244. — 'L. has in his conception of atomic transition from individual to individual through the changes of life and death, very closely anticipated the root idea of the modern doctrine of the Transformation of Energy; as his view of the impossibility of the annihilation of the primordia, and the absolute undiminishableness of the sum of matter is explicitly that of the Conservation of Matter'; Veitch, L. and The Atomic Theory, 33. — redit: 673, 797, and 2, 756, 864, 'ne tibi res redeant ad nilum funditus omnes' — one of his formulas; 1, 541, 'antehac ad nilum res quaeque redissent.'

249. discidio recurs in 452; cf. 2, 120, 'conciliis et discidiis exercita crebris'; so discindere, 6, 436; 3, 639. The abl. is temporal; Lee comp. Georg. I, 431, 'vento semper rubet aurea Phoebe.' — corpora materiai: he has not yet defined the atoms philosophically; the discussion of them begins at 483. Materiai occurs forty-one times in L., materiae three times, according to Cartault, Flexion, etc. — Wakef. and Oppenrieder, Jahrb. 53, 99, read corpore.

250. Note the alliteration. — pereunt: Wickham on Hor. C. 3, 11, 27 (lymphae dolium fundo pereuntis), shows that the word has both the original meaning of 'flowing through' and the common meaning of 'vanishing,' 'being wasted.' Martha,

258, after citing this beautiful description, notes that L.'s impetuous poetry is always imprisoned in the system and that it pours itself out in a logical canal. — The destruction is apparent, not real: Tert. Apol. 48, 'lux quotidie interficta resplendet, et tenebrae pari vice decedendo succedunt, sidera defuncta revivescunt, tempora ubi finiuntur incipiunt, fructus consumuntur et redeunt; certe semina non nisi corrupta et dissoluta secundius surgunt, omnia pereundo servantur, omnia de interitu reformatur.' Eurip. Chrysippus Fr. 836, θυήσκει δ' οὐδὲν τῶν γεγνομένων | διακρινόμενον δ' ἄλλο πρὸς ἄλλον | μορφὴ τέταρτη τέταρτη. — pater aether: 2, 991, 'denique caelestis sumus omnes semine oriundi; | omnibus ille idem pater est, unde alma liquentis | umoris guttas mater cum terra recepit,' etc.; cf. 5, 318 sq. V. Ecl. 7, 60, 'Iuppiter et laeto descendet plurimus imbri'; Georg. 2, 325, 'tum pater omnipotens secundis imbris aether | coniugis in gremium laetae descendit.' Tert. Apol. 10, 'quis enim non caelum et terram matrem ac patrem venerationis et honoris gratia appellat?' Cf. in general Arnob. 5, 32 sq. Edd. cite parallel passages from Aeschylus (Fr. 43) and Euripides (Fr. 890), Statius, Sitv. 2, 185 sq., Perv. Ven. 59 sq., to illustrate the ancient commonplace of the union of heaven and earth. Pac. Chryses: 'id quod nostri caelum memorant Grai perhibent aethera . . . omniumque idem est pater.'

251. gremium: 2, 375, 'pingere telluris gremium'; 6, 539 '(terram) in gremio gerere et rupes deruptaque saxa'; Cic. CM. 51, 'quae cum gremio mollito ac subacto sparsum semen exceptit'; Aen. 3, 509, 'gremio telluris.' — The tombstone reminiscences of gremium terrae are well illustrated by Webster on Maximian, 1, 228. Milton, P. L. 11, 535: 'so may'st thou live, till like ripe fruit thou drop | Into thy mother's lap; ' quoted by Lee. — matris terrai: 2, 993; 5, 1402; 'concedamus ut hic terrarum dictitet orbem | esse deum matrem', 2, 655. Pac. I. c. 'mater est terra: ea parit corpus, animam aether adiugat.' — praecipitavit: often of rain; Dirae, 76, 'praecipitent altis fumantes montibus imbres'; Pac. Incrt. 414, 'grandi mixta imbri largifico subita praecipitan cadit'; Val. Aedit. ap. Gell. 19, 9, 'aut imber caelo candidus praecipitans'; Aen. 9, 669, 'quam multa grandine nimbi | in vada praecipitant.' Cf. Näke on Val. Cato, p. 109; see on 2, 598. — Note the pentasyll. close also in 240, 244, 249; in the entire poem there are 305 occurrences; Bk. I, 66, 5.9%; II, 86, 7.3%; III, 48, 4.4%; IV, 29, 2.25%; V, 42, 2.9%; VI, 34, 2.6%; in all 4.2%. Note that Book III has about the average proportion, and that the proportion in Books I and II exceeds that in Books IV, V, and VI. This is due to the occurrence of materiai 12 times in Book I and 22 times in Book II; contineantur occurs 3 times in I and twice in II; principiorum 3 times in I, 11 in II. (These figures are from an unpublished paper by Mr. W. H. Alexander.) In 1-267 there are 9 cases; a like proportion of cases in Virgil would require 10,000 lines for that number; cf. Quint. 9, 4, 65.

252. nitidae fruges recurs in 2, 189, nitidas fr. 2, 594, joined with arbusaque laeta and also in 2, 994; with vinetaque laeta in 2, 1157. Ov. F. 5, 265, nitidissimus annus; Cic. Verr. 3, 47, campos . . . collisque nitidissimos viridissimosque. — surgunt: 6, 788, 'terris ex omnia surgunt.' — ramique: 1092, 'nec prorsum arboribus summos frondescere ramos.' — virescunt: here only in L. Aen. 6, 206, 'fronde virere nova.'

253. arboribus: dative as in 1092. — ipsae: i.e. arbores; 2, 171, 'mortalis quae suadet adire | ipsaque deducit dux vitae'; 5, 822, 'terra tenet merito, quoniam genus ipsa creavit'; 4, 131, 'sunt etiam quae sponte sua gignuntur et ipsa | constituuntur.' —

fetu: 193 n. — gravantur: here only in L. V. Ecl. 3, 56, ‘et nunc omnis ager, nunc omnis parturit arbos, | nunc frondent silvae’; Georg. 2, 429, ‘setu nemus omne gravescit’; Ov. M. 13, 812, ‘sunt poma gravantia ramos,’ 15, 76, ‘sunt fruges, sunt deducientia ramos | pondere poma suo’; AA. 2, 263, ‘dum rami pondere nutant.’ V. Ecl. 10, 54, ‘arboribus; crescent illae, crescentis, amores,’ is cited by Wakef. for imitation of rhythm.

254. hinc: from the rains and the forms they take; they are the gift of aether. Mark the anaphora and cf. 4, 408, ‘vix absunt nobis missus bis mille sagittae, | vix etiam cursus quingentos,’ and on 6. For the repetition of hinc at the beginning of the following line, cf. on 3, 822. — nostrum genus: 2, 995, ‘genus humanum, parit omnia saecula ferarum’; cf. 2, 1076; 4, 413; 3, 753. — Pope, ‘See dying vegetables life sustain, | See life dissolving, vegetate again; | All forms that perish other forms supply, | By turns we catch the vital breath and die.’

255. laetas: 3, 894, ‘non domus accipiet te laeta’; Psalm 113, 9, ‘matrem filiorum laetantem.’ — pueris: ‘children,’ on 3, 87. Oppenrieder, Jahrb. 53, 99, puerum. — florere = ‘to abound with,’ is antcl. and poet.; 5, 1442, mare velivolis florebat; Val. Flacc. 1, 539, undat equis floretque viris. — videmus: 4, 598, conloquium videmus.

256. Notice the dactyls. — frondiferas: for the compound, see on 3, 11. Naevius had used the word. — novis: 259, nova proles. Perhaps young birds would be more likely to sing. — canere, of places, is poetical. Conington on Aen. 2, 488, (aedes) femineis ululant, compares this passage. Lohmann, 59, proposed scatere; Richards, Cl. R. 13, 17, sonere.

257. Fourfold allit. with p occurs 8 times in the poem; with m 11 times; all occurrences of all letters in this scheme, 49 times. — fessae: 4, 848, ‘fessum corpus mandare quieti’; Bock. fetae after Bentl. — pingui: pinguis OQ; Philargyrius on Georg. 3, 124, denso distendere pingui, says, ‘Pingui absolute posuit ut est illud Lucretianum hic fessae pecudes pingui.’ Pinguis, noun, occurs in Pliny the Elder, and Persius 3, 32, ‘fibris increvit opimum | pingui.’ Cartault, 33, would (and van d. Valk in his edition does) restore pinguis because L. likes two epithets. — pabula laeta, 14 n.

258. deponunt: Aen. 7, 108, ‘corpora sub ramis deponunt arboris altae.’ — candens lacteus umor = candens lac, so there is practically but one epithet. Varro in Nonius, 483, 6, applies candidum to milk; cf. Ov. AA. 1, 290, ‘candidus . . . taurus . . . una sicut labes, cetera lactis erant’; M. 9, 358; 15, 79; ex Pont. 3, 3, 97, lacteus humor. For the two adjectives, cf. 5, 32, ‘aureaque fulgentia mala’; 6, 387, ‘fulgentia caelestia templia’; 6, 1197, ‘octavo candenti lumine solis’; 4, 1216, ‘conspiri-ans mutuus ardor’; 5, 25, ‘horrens Arcadius sus.’ For umor in periphrasis, see on 3, 339.

259. Bucolic diaeresis. — uberibus: abl.; 6, 944, ‘manat e toto corpore sudor.’ — distentis L. has here only: Hor. Epod. 2, 46, ‘distenta siccat ubera’; V. Ecl. 4, 21, ‘lacte . . . distenta . . . ubera,’ and Forbig. there.

260. artibus, 3, 7 n. — lasciva seems to be equivalent to a participle: ‘jumping about’; he has the word here only; Juv. 11, 98, ‘lascivi ludebant ruris alumni.’ — per herbas is like per pabula, 257; it occurs at 5, 461. — Anth. 1026 M., ‘adludunt pavidi tremulis conatis agni, | lacteolasque animas lacteus humor alit.’

261. Note the alliteration.—mero suggests wine, but Ov. F. 4, 369, lacte mero. Merum sal, 4, 1162.—mentes: so-called Greek accusative; rare in L. and avoided by prose writers before Sallust; Schmalz, 415. Roby, 1127, quotes percussi pectora Poeni, from Ennius, percussi membra (5, 1223), from L. Cf. on 13, and Landgraf, Archiv, 10, 216.—novellas, used most frequently of pastoral and agricultural products; L. has it here only. Edd. comp. 3, 765, ‘scilicet in tenero tenerascere corpore mentem.’

262. haud igitur, 237, 248, and frequently, beginning the verse.

263. quando alid: quando occurs in elision in 206, 467, 495; 3, 384, 546; 5, 233, 412; and at the end of the line in 1, 188; 2, 707; most of the instances quoted in the lex., s.v., are in a similar position; but quandō, in 2, 966, and Ov. AA. 2, 15, before the caesura; quandō, Mart. 5, 58, 2, within the line. Probably the transition from ō to ō is covered by the elision; cf. the use of temere in the sixth foot.—alid: on 3, 970.—nec ullam: nec before a vowel occurs in 2, 110; 3, 531, 561; 4, 357; 5, 839, 871, 1201; 6, 1020; neque usually precedes an initial vowel, e.g. 216, 266, etc.; Jessen, QL. 19. Virgil also preferred neque before vowels, but after the Augustan Age it was avoided: Müller, RM. 397.—Cf. the doctrine (in Aristotle, Met. 994 b), ἡ θαρέπον φθορὰ θαρέπον τοτὶ γένεσις; but, as M. remarks, the principle is hardly consistent with 556, where he says that destruction is quicker than construction. The same argument recurs at 2, 991 sq.

264. patitur, 224, and Ov. M. 15, 254. ‘non perit in tanto quicquam, mihi credite, mundo, | sed variat, faciemque novat, nascique vocatur | incipere esse aliud, quam quod fuit ante: morique, | desinere illud idem.’ This argument also rests on the doctrine of atoms, which he has not yet formally introduced.—adiuta: nature needs building material. Richards, Cl. R. 13, 17, adiutam.

265–268. ‘You say you cannot see the first beginnings. You cannot see the winds, nor odors, nor heat, nor cold, nor moisture in wet clothes; a ring, too, wears away with use; the dropping of water wears away stone; the ploughshare, the pavement, the hands of statues all wear away imperceptibly; so growth and decay are invisible, for nature works with unseen bodies.’—See Masson, Atomic Th. 159.

265. Nunc age occurs* certainly 15 times in L. e.g., 921; 2, 730; cf. Georg. 4, 149; age nunc, Cic. Rosc. Amer. 108.—docui, ‘shown,’ ‘proved’; 3, 31 n.

266. 543, ‘at quoniam supra docui nil posse creari | de nilo neque quod genitum est ad nil revocari.’—For verse ending, 68 n.

267. nequa, ‘that not in any way’; nequae, 5, 1209.—coepentes: this word occurs also in 4, 113, 405; 6, 255; in those cases it cannot form a periphrasis as coepi sometimes does.—diffidere dictis, 133, instead of d. verbis for sake of allit.; cf. diffidere debet, 5, 1157. Other examples of anticipated scepticism of the reader in 331, 370, 398, 410, 623, 975, 1052; 2, 66, 80, 410; 4, 386, 435, 822, 833, 913; 5, 22, 247, 1091; 6, 187, 920; Bruns, 10.

268. nequeunt: he never writes non queunt.—cerni, ‘distinguished’; cf. 299, 342, 642, but often a mere synonym of videre.—This objection is an old one: Lact. De Ira, 10, ‘primum minuta illa semina . . . quis illa vidit unquam? quis sensit? quis audivit? an solus Leucippus oculos habuit? . . . sed ipsorum elementorum alia voluit esse primordia, quae nec videri possint, nec tangi, nec ulla corporis parte sentiri’; Inst. 3, 17, ‘quae si sunt corpuscula, et quidem solidia, ut dicunt, sub oculos certe venire possunt.' Epicurus himself before Lucretius acknowledged this difficulty: οὐδέποτε γοῦν ἀτομος ὥσθη αἰσθῆσαι, ad Herod. 44 schol., and οὐδὲ δύναται τὸ γένος ὅρατη ἀτομος ἔστιν ἐπισκῆσαι, id. 56.

269. accipe, 'take' : 4, 722, 'nunc age quae moveant animum res accipe.' The word occurs very frequently at the beginning of dactylic verses; see Thes. 1, 307, 13.—tute: probably the reader, not Memmius; cf. 403, 407, etc.—necessest confiteare: 825; 2, 690, 865, 1074; 5, 376; 3, 799 n.

270. Elision in second foot, avoided by later poets, occurs in 301, 337, 342, 437, etc.—esse in rebus, 'to exist': 330, est in rebus inane. In rebus = in rerum numero, Giuss.—videri: passive; 3, 182 n.

271. principio: tum porro, 298; denique, 305; quin etiam, 311; postremo, 322. He often has principio at the beginning of a discussion: 503; 2, 589; 3, 179; 4, 54; 5, 783; 6, 96, etc.—venti: illustrations from the wind are frequent: 4, 901, 'ventus supili corpore tenuis | trudit agens magnam magno molimine navem'; 4, 259, 'ventus enim quoque paulatim cum verberat et cum | acre fluit frigus, non privam quamque solemus | particulam venti sentire'; for venti vis incita, cf. 6, 431, 325, 137, 295. Aug. CD. 15, 23, 'utrum aliqui spiritus elemento aero corporati (nam hoc elementum etiam cum agitatur flabello sensu corporis tactuque sentitur)'.—Serv. on Georg. 4, 219, speaks of arguments from analogy used by Virgil in imitation of L.: 'ventum namque docet esse corporalem, non quod eum tenere vel cernere possumus, sed quod eius similis atque aquae effectus est, quam corporalem esse manifestum est.'—verberat, except in 4, 264, always used by L of the wind or air. Col. 10, 75, 'verberibus gelidis iraeque obnoxia Cauri.'—pontum, Marullus, old vulg., Bern., Bail., Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 669, Polle, Phil. 26, 300, Susemihl, 44, 62; portus Flor. 29, etc., Gif. Munro; cortus OQ; cautes Lachm.; corpus Q cort., Br., Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 770, comp. 4, 259–264, Gronov., Bock., Giuss., Howard, J. Phil. 1, 116: cf. 2, 460, pungere corpus; Salmasius and Preig. porcas, 'ridges of the sea'; Cartault, 110, ventus (fretæ) v. i. cortus. I had thought of Cori or Cauri. Perhaps pontus, misplaced in 276, forced out pontum here. Portus is too modern, corpus too artificial.

272. ruit, 'whelms'; transitive also in 289, 292; 6, 726; 5, 1325; Plaut. Trin., 837, Ter. Adelph. 319. Except in the phrase ruta casæ—the transitive is unclassic.—nubila: Georg. 3, 197, differt | nubila (Aquila).

273. interdum: the dum has the ictus in 36 places in L.; intérđum occurs in 3 places (Richardson, Dum, 10, 16).—rapido turbine: 6, 668, 'rapidus percurrere turbo.' Rapidus, 'tearing,' is said of mare, 720, of amnis, 15, where see n.

274. magnis, 'mighty'; ingens arbos, Georg. 2, 80.—sternit: 2, 626, 'aere atque argento sternunt iter omne viarum.'—montisque supremos: 6, 422, 'montibus in summis'; Georg. 4, 460, 'at chorus aequalis Dryadum clamore supremos | implerunt montis.' Supremus is poetical, summus a prose usage. The winds go to the bounds of nature so far as the air reaches; aether is undisturbed (5, 502).

275. silvifragis occurs nowhere else: cf. fluctifrago, 305, also 4r. λεγ.—vexat: vexantia, 279; 'flabrum ventorum violento turbine vexant,' 5, 217; 'vexant inaequales procellas,' Hor. C. 2, 9, 3.—flabris: 7 times in L., and common in the dactylic poets after him.—ita, 'in such fashion,' cf. 286; Georg. 1, 320.—perfurit: here only in L.; lexx. cite it from Virg., Silius, Statius, and Val. Flacc. only.

276. cum fremitu: L. uses the prep. indifferently: 232, 'mortali corpore quae sunt'; 755, 'esse et mortali cum corpore'; 287, 'validis cum viribus'; 971, 'validis viribus'; 4, 539, 'cum summo clamore'; 6, 147, 'magno clamore'; Holtze, 28, 56.—fremitu: 6, 199, 'fremitus per nubila mittunt (venti).—saevitque: once in Caesar, of wind, B.G. 3, 13, 'cum saevire ventus coepisset'; otherwise poetical.—minaci murmure also in Hor. C. 2, 1, 17; strong alliteration: minis . . . minacis, Pl. Truc. 948; minitanti murmure, L. 1, 68–69 and n.; 6, 196, 'venti . . . magno indignantur murmure clausi . . . ferarum more minantur'; Aen. 1, 55, 'illi indignantes magno cum murmure (venti).—ventus, Markland, edd.; pontus OQ.—Facsimile of shedae Haun. of 276–364 may be found in Chatelain's Paleographie (see Introd. above, p. 53).

277. sunt: emphatic.—venti: probably nominative.—nimirum: not ironical in L and Cic., as in Livy and Tacitus (cf. dubio procul . . . nimirum, 812–814); a frequent word in L, occurring 28 times; cf. 395, 368, 524, etc.; 3, 194 n.—M. quotes Donatus on Ter. Eun. 508, 'solve nimirum et fac non est mirum . . . nam ni ne significat et ne non.'—Cf. in general Min. Fel. 32, 'nec mireris, si Deum non vides; vento et flatibus omnia impelluntur vibrantur agitantur et sub oculis tamen non venit ventus et fatus'; Lact. Inst. 7, 9, 'ne quis tamen ex eo ipso putaret deum non esse, quia mortalibus oculis non videretur, inter cetera institutorum miracula fecit etiam multa, quorum vis quidem appetit, substantia tamen non videtur, sicut est vox, odor, ventus.'—caeca, 'invisible'; cf. 295 and on 3, 247.

278. quae . . . quae . . . quae: anaphora, on 6. mare, terras, nubila: all but aether: mare supports the reading pontum in 271. denique: last of a series; cf. 2, 1082; 4, 840; 5, 858, 'aut dolus aut virtus aut denique mobilitas est.'

279. verrunt: always of wind in L.: 5, 266, 'validi verentes aquora venti,' cf. 5, 388; 5, 1226, 'vis violenti per mare venti | . . . super aquora verrit'; 6, 623, 'venti . . . verentes aquora'; Aen. 1, 58, 'maria ac terras caelumque profundum | quippe ferant rapidi secum verrantque per auras'; Georg. 3, 201, 'aquora verrens'; Lucan 5, 572, 'Cori verrent mare.' Broukh. on Prop. 2, 12 (15), 44, cites examples from Catull., Val. Cato, Stat., and Val. Flacc.—turbine raptant, but rapido turbine, 273; turbine atque unda raptabantur, Tac. Ann. 1, 30.

280. nec ratione alia: common, cf. 530, 549; 2, 349; 3, 627, etc.; non, 2, 881; aut, 4, 665.—fluunt: with reference to the comparison with water, although he uses fluere of semina, odores, corpora. Sen. N.Q. 5, 8, 3, illis (ventis) datur fluere. Bock. reads furunt, anticipated by Jones.—stragemque propagant: 'spread destruction abroad,' M.

281. et: 'than'; so 5, 1065, alio . . . et cum; 1060, dissimilis . . . et cum; 1070, alio . . . et cum, cf. 1076; 1081, alio . . . et quom; 3, 1092, minus . . . et ille; 2, 416, simile . . . et qui. L. thus, with Catull., Prop., Virg., Ovid., uses et before gutturals, differing from Cic.; see lex. s.v. Lucr., 6, 440, has once simul ac before g. mollis is nomin. by Lucret. usage; see on 3, 8. 'Mollibus undis,' 2, 375; Ov. AA. 475, 'quid mollius unda? | dura tamen molli saxa cavantur aqua.'—fertur: the spondee is expressive. Fertur is said of navis, 4, 387; res quaeque fluenter | fertur, 4, 225. natura: as in 194.—Cf. the description in Aen. 1, 305 sq., 'aut rapidus montano flumine torrens,' etc.

282. abundanti: 6, 267, 'flumina abundare ut facerent camposque natare.' For the ablative in i, cf. orienti, 5, 664; fugienti, id. 887; Lucil. 3, 30, ferventi. Ex

abundanti is a stereotyped phrase after Seneca. From the examples given in Archis 7, 207 sq., the abl. abs. construction has e, but i seems the prevailing ending. Cf. Roby 419; as an abl. of attendant circumstances, according to his dictum we should expect abundante here, which would be unmetrical.—quom . . . urget, Br. after Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 772; cum . . . urget, Bail.; auget, edd. before Br.; quem, OQ; quod, Flor. 30, Itali.; quam, Lachm. M. Bern. Giuss. Woltjer maintains that O has aiget, Q urget and comp. 6, 481 and 512; also Il. A. 492, ὡς δ' ὅπερε πλήθων ποταμὸς πεδίονδε κάτεσται | χειμάρρους κατ' θρεψιν, σταύζουσας Διός οὐβρος, | πολλὰς δὲ δρῦς ἀγαλάτας, πολλὰς δέ τε πένκας | ἐσφέρει. L. has urget 8 times; 5 times without an object (Woltjer). Paulson would read quom largis imbris imbris urget, BPW. 18, 1098. — Discussion in Phil. 23 and 26.—largis: ‘ut largis avidum mare fluminis undis | integrant amnes,’ 1031.

283. ex = de. L. uses ex, de, ab, indifferently, often for metrical convenience: ex = de in 2, 731, cf. 733; 791; 1000, cf. 999, 1, 412 cf. 413; 5, 946: de = ex in 5, 794; 1, 788; ab = de 1, 788; 4, 43.—decursus: four times in L. and always of water: 5, 263, ‘magnus decursus aquarum’; 946, ‘montibus e magnis decursus aquai’; 6, 609, ‘tantus decursus aquarum’; notice the metrical position. Aen. 12, 523, ‘aut ubi decursu rapido de montibus altis | dant sonitum spumosi amnes,’ etc.; Ov. M. 15, 266, ‘vallem decursus aquarum | fecit.’ M. comp. Spenser F. Q., 2, 11, 18, ‘Like a great waterflood that tumbling low | From the high mountains threats to overflow | With sudden fury all the fertile playne, | And the sad husbandmans long hope doth throw | Adown the stremme, and all his vowes make wayne; | Nor bounds nor banks his headlong ruine may sustayne.’

284. fragmina silvarum: silvarum fragmina rami, 5, 1284: prose writers used fragmentum instead.—coniciens: 3, 639; here, perhaps, in the rare literal meaning as in 2, 1061, 1073 sq.; see lex.—arbusta = arbores; on 187.—tota, ‘whole,’ ‘entire’; 6, 549, tecta tota. Wakef. comp. Claudian, H. Mall. Theod. Cons. 237, ‘torrentes immane fremtant lassique minentur | pontibus: involvant spumoso vortice silvas.’

285. validi of passive strength here, cf. 291, 571; elsewhere usually of active, e.g., validi leonis, 5, 985.—pontes: Il. E 87, ποταμῷ πλήθοντι τοιώδει | χειμάρρῳ, δι τὸ ὄκα πέων ἔκθεσσε γεφύρας κ.τ.λ. Wakef. compares Claud. in Ruf. 1, 296, ‘haud secus hiberno tumidus cum vortice torrens | saxa rotat, volvitque nemus, pontesque revellit.’—venientis, Bährens, Jahrb. 123, 407, rementis. See on 3, 752.

286. vim subitam: subita vi, 4, 1209; subiti peremunt imbris, 5, 216; cf. 6, 1282.—turbidus: Wakef. suggests magno turgida nimbo, and Bock. reads turbine inquis | molibus; comp. 294. Turbidus does not refer necessarily to color, but means stormy or turbulent, as turbida ponti aequora, 5, 1000; Hachez and Paulson turgidus; turbibus O, turbio Q, turbidus O corr.

287. molibus means huge masses: 6, 567, ‘tantam terrarum incumbere molem’; here probably ‘dykes’: Aen. 2, 496, ‘non sic, aggeribus ruptis cum spumeus amnis | exiit oppositasque evicit gurgite moles’: Orlando Furioso, 18, 157, ‘—when the opposing dyke is broke away, | Fall, and with mighty noise the country fill.’—validis viribus 3, 451 n. Enn. Ann. 300. Cic. Arat. 146, ‘magnis cum viribus amnem.’—cum is a preposition, not a conjunction, as Howard (J. Phil. 1, 117) took it.

M. notices a like use in Cic. Arat. 146, funestum magnis cum viribus amnem. Cf. also 2, 267; 5, 864; 6, 1233, and see on 1, 276.

288. dat, 'makes,' cf. 339; 2, 119; 3, 355 n.—volvit: Aen. 1, 100, 'sub undis . . . volvit'; id. 6, 550, rapidas flammis ambit torrentibus amnis, | Tartareus Phlegethon, torquetque sonantia saxa'; Ov. M. 8, 552, 'obliquaque volvere magno | murmure saxa solent.'—'Voluit versus suos dorum dertos decurrere ut ipsius fluminis violentia numeris vividioribus depingeretur,' Wakef.

289. grandia saxa, of the dyke; grandia volvere saxa, Aen. 11, 529.—ruit qua quicquid: Bentl. M. Giuss.; ruit qua quidquid OQ; ruitque ita quidquid Lachm. Br.; ruitque aqua quidquid, M. 1860; ruunt quae quidquid, Bern.; † qua quidquid † Bail. M. explains the construction qua aliquid fluctibus obstat, id ruit amnis, comp. 5, 773, qua fieri quicquid posset ratione, 3, 787 and 5, 131, ubi quicquid. For the archaism quidquid = quidque, see on 2, 957. 'Quae quidquid', Faber, Havercamp who with Lamb. keeps the Ms. reading, and explains, 'sternit quidquid obstat fluctibus, qua obstat, i.e. quo maxime obstat loco.' Wakef. read qua quidquam; Bährens, Jahrb. 123, 407, would read qua quidquid; Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 131, ruitque ut quicquid; Paulson, BPIW. 18, 1099, ruit quia; Cartault, 74, ruit qui; Bail. conj. ruitque, et quidquid; cf. C. R. 16, 330. For ruit cf. 272.

290. sic igitur: argument from analogy. Haud igitur, 237; nil igitur, 205; est i., 368; alternis i., 524; sunt i., 548, 574.—quoque, as usual, follows the word it strengthens. L. prefers to put quoque as third word, e.g. 3, 455, 470, 758; 4, 85, 259; sometimes second, as in 3, 208, 1029; 4, 274, 526; less often in the last half of the line in the fourth foot, as here, 3, 1055; 4, 74, 283, 485; in the fifth foot, 4, 469, 507.—flamina, also, in 6, 135, flamina cauri; a poetical word, usually in the plural, thus forming a convenient dactyl.

291. Note pentasyll. ending.—veluti: the winds are like a river. Cf. 6, 504, the only other place in L. where veluti introduces a comparison without express mention of the second thing compared (Feustell, 38).—procubuere: 6, 558 '(ventus) collectus parte ex una procumbit'. L. avoids closing a line with -erunt; 467, fuerunt, but 234, 391, 737; 2, 298; 3, 937; 5, 325, 1110, 1340, -ere; but -arunt, 635, 705, 708, 1022; 2, 1155; see on 3, 51. But -ere closes the verse comparatively seldom; he likes to put a word ending in -ere either at the beginning of the line or next to the last word.

292. partem, 'direction'; 4, 446, etc.—trudunt: 4, 901, 'ventus suptili corpore tenuis | trudit . . . navem.'—ante (se).—ruuntque: Aen. 4, 581, rapiuntque ruuntque; id. 9, 516, volvuntque ruuntque, Lamb.

293. impetus: 6, 728, impetus undis.—vertice torto, 'whirling eddy'; Aen. 7, 567, torto vertice torrens.

294. corripiunt: 6, 395, 'turbine caelesti subito correptus'; 5, 1231, 'violento turbine saepe | correptus.'—rapidi, O. Gif. Wakef., Pascal, Riv. 31, 7; Br. Jahresb. 28, 30; rapidis Q; rapide Lachm. M. Br. Bern. Giuss.; rapido Lamb. Rapidi is not too harsh for L.; venti is understood from flamina. Rapide is not Lucretian. —rotanti turbine, 'circling whirl.' Rotantia Lamb. ed. 2 and 3, and Paulson, BPIW. 18, 1099. Aen. 10, 362, 'qua saxa rotantia late | inpulerat torrens arbustaque diruta ripis.' The tautology is like that in fera saecula ferarum, 3, 753; vis violenta, 3, 296, where see note; cf. also the double statement in 275–276. Pascal makes turbine a result of the vertex. — portant : 4, 443, ‘per caelum cum venti nubila portant.’

295. etiam atque etiam occurs nine times in L.; see on 3, 228.

296. quandoquidem : 3, 457 n. — factis et moribus, ‘deeds and ways’; 4, 1280, factis | morigerisque modis. — aemula: only here in L. Aemula agrees with corpora; he could not use aemuli metrically, nor was it necessary; cf. 277–8. Note that the fourth, fifth, and sixth feet are all contained in separate words.

297. The verse closes with two monosyllables; 3, 56 n.; they are usually preceded by a dactylic word. — amnibus: aemula usually takes the genitive — here unmetrical. — inveniuntur = videntur; 4, 1142; 3, 202 n. — aperto corpore, ‘visible’; opposite of cæca; cf. on 915.

298. tum porro, ‘then again’; 520, 599; 2, 594, 673, etc. — sentimus: of knowledge gained through the senses: 2, 811, sentire colorem; 3, 381, pulveris sentimus adhaesum; 4, 617, sucum sentimus. — odores: 4, 673, ‘quo pacto naris adieci-tus odoris | tangat.’

299. nec tamen, ‘and yet not’; 329, 745; 2, 201, 461, 468, and often; et non tamen, 1, 901. — venientes, ‘as they come,’ expressing actual condition; here implying personal observation.

300. nec and nec, 299: cf. unde, 229–30; nec, 325–6; corporis, 360–1; aut, 381–2; nec, 395–6; aut, 441–2; nec, 447–8; tum, 492–3; corpus, 508–9; nec, 534–5, etc. — calidos is not a mere epitheton ornans, as aestus does not always mean heat in L. — tuimur: inflected according to the 3d conjug., also in 4, 224, 449; 6, 930; 4, 1004; 5, 318; and Stat. Th. 3, 152; contuimur, 4, 35: Proll 31. — frigora: ‘cold,’ 6, 1171, ventum et frigora; the plural use is uncommon; see Dr. I § 4; lex. s.v. Aestus and frigus are opposed in 5, 929; 6, 364. — quimus: 2, 140; 3, 859, but nequimus 3, 363, 672.

301. usurpare oculis, ‘observe’; an anteclass. use; 4, 975, ‘ea sensibus usurpare’; Pl. Tr. 846, ‘quas ego neque oculis nec pedibus umquam usurpavi.’ The word is used in the same way by Apul. and Arn. Notice the variety in cernimus, tuimur, usurpare. — voces: ‘words’; 3, 57 n. — suemus: on 60.

302. corporea . . . natura: also in 329–330; 2, 20; 3, 161–162, 167. See on 3, 162. — constare: on 3, 167. — As Bock. says, species naturae has preceded, now comes the ratio of these phenomena.

303. sensus inpellere : 4, 527; titillare s., 2, 429; conpungere s., 2, 432. L. uses lacessere of the special senses as term. tech., e.g. 4, 691, visumque lacessunt. Cf. in general Ep. ad Herod. 53, καὶ μὴν καὶ τὴν δομὴν τομοτέον, διστερ καὶ τὴν ἀκοὴν οὐκ ἀν ποτε οὐθὲν πάθος ἐργάσασθαι, εἰ μὴ ὄγκοι τινὲς ἡσαν ἀπὸ τοῦ τράγματος ἀποφερόμενοι σύμμετροι πρὸς τὸ τοῦτο τὸ αἰσθητήριον κίνεῖν: the word sensorium = αἰσθητήριον was used by the scholastic philosophers, and occurs first in Boethius; L. had to use sensus for it.

304. Notable alliteration. Lachm. noticed that this verse is quoted by Seneca Ep. 106, Gell. 5, 15, Tert. de Anima 5 (and adv. Marc. 4, 8), Nonius, 408, 21. Gell. quotes it with aut for et, citing the Greek τὸ δρώμενον ἢ πάσχον σῶμα ἔστιν (which, however, Hertz rejects); L. 1, 443, ‘at facere et fungi sine corpore nulla potest res,’ is against Wakefield’s aut after Gellius. Bernays grecized ‘τὸ ἀπτόμενον καὶ ἀπτὸν σῶμα ἔστιν’; the previous definition is rather Stoic than Epicurean.

305. fluctifrago occurs nowhere else except in (Tert.) Carmen de Iona 39; cf. silvifrago, 275. Nonius quotes it as fluctivago.—Ov. Her. 7, 169, ‘nota mihi freta sunt Afrum frangentia litus’; Sen. Oed. 603, ‘fluctus non tot frangit Ionium mare’; L. 2, 1155, ‘fluctus plangentis saxa crearunt’; cf. 6, 695.—in, ‘on’; omitted in 6, 471, where the same illustration occurs; cf. also 6, 114, ‘aut ubi suspensam vestem . . . verberibus venti versant’; 617, ‘vestis umore madentis | exsiccare . . . solem.’ It means ‘on’ in in terra, 3, 644; in terris, 6, 50; montibus in, 5, 1244; in digito, 1, 312.

306. Non. quotes the verse with candenti for dispansae, which occurs only here in L.; followed by the Juntine and Aldine editions and lately by Pascal. Candenti would then correspond to ardentibus, 6, 618. The Lucretian participle of dispando is dispansus (3, 988), but is apparently restricted to membris and the like. Vahlen, Monatsb. Berlin. Akad. 1877, 491, attributes candenti to candenti lumine, 6, 1197.—uvescunt: here only in L.; a poetical word. Serv. on Ecl. 10, 20, says ‘humidum est quod extrinsecus habet aliquid humoris, uvidum vero quod intrinsecus.’ Schmidt, Synonymik, 281, makes ‘umere allgemein feucht sein; . . . nass werden . . . heisst uvescere.’ L. 6, 472 (vestes) cum concipiunt umoris adhaesum.—eadem is dissyllabic; cf. idem, 165; 3, 48; eadem, 1, 480. L. does not use the form caedem elsewhere; ‘apud alias poetas qui hexametris scripsierunt neque eae neque caedem invenio. eos multi dixerunt, caedem et easdem pauci, duobus syllabis Propertius in V, 7, 7 8,’ Lachm. on 6, 456. Eodem is dissyl. in 2, 663; Aen. 12, 847; Ecl. 8, 81; for eadem see on 480; caedem trisyll. in Enn. Ann. 200. —in sole: 4, 364, ‘umbra videtur . . . in sole moveri’; 2, 801; 5, 292.—serescunt seems ēπ. λεγ.

307. at introduces the objection, as usual; 340, 366, 443, etc.—pacto: still used freely, and not yet stereotyped; alio pacto, 5, 1070; nullo, 1, 1035; hoc, 980; ullo 2, 750; cf. on 1, 84. But L. does not use the word in any case but the abl.—persederit: 6, 1125, ‘pestilitasque | aut in aquas cadit aut fruges persedit in ipsas’; Georg. 3, 441, ‘ubi frigidus imber | altius ad vivum persedit.’—umor aquai: on 3, 339.

308. visumst: the indefinite subject is contained in the preceding clause; L. avoids such forms of video; only visae sunt, 4, 1010; sunt visa, 4, 466 occur.—fugerit: sc. umor aquai; 5, 984, ‘eiectique domo fugiebant saxea tecta | spumigeri suis adventu validique leonis.’—aestu: a harsh ablative; propter with acc. might have been expected. Inferior MSS. and edd. have visus, visu, aestus. 5, 1104, ‘aestu victa per agros.’

309. partis, ‘particles’; cf. 2, 829 (for rhythm also), ‘ut fit ubi in parvas partis discerpitur austrum.’—dispergitur: 3, 539 n.—umor: absolute, in 786, 841, etc.

310. Note interlocking of words instead of the prose order.

311. quin etiam: frequent in introducing a new argument or illustration in corroboration or climax: 782; 2, 688, 1013; 3, 463 n.—redeuntibus: 3, 1005, ‘annorum tempora, circum | cum redeunt,’ and n.; 5, 619, ‘annua sol in quo consumit tempora cursu’; Aen. 1, 234, ‘volventibus annis,’ 8, 47, ‘redeuntibus annis’; Hor. S. 2, 2, 83, ‘rediens annus’; Ov. M. 14, 423, ‘totidem redeuntia solis | lumina viderunt’; see lex. annus, I, where it is said that annos means primarily a circuit or periodical return. M. cites 5, 644, where annos is used of stellar years, to show that L. did not feel annus to be connected with anulus, for otherwise he would not have used redeuntibus.

312. subter: not uncommon as an adverb; 5, 268, 536; 6, 537; (anulus) subter adhaerens, 6, 914; 'qua parte carnem tangit,' Lamb.—habendo, 'by being worn,' or 'by wearing,' i.e. when you wear it; subject not that of the principal verb: 4, 1068, 'ulcus . . . inveterascit alendo'; other examples of this quasi-passive use in Roby, II, p. lxiv; see also Madv. § 418. For habere, 'wear,' cf. Catull. 25, 8, 'quae palam soles habere tanquam avita.' See lex. habeo, and cf. Anglice, 'what did she have on?' For the illustration cf. Ov. AA. 1, 473, 'ferreus adsiduo consumitur anulus usu, | interit adsidua vomer aduncus humo. | quid magis est saxo durum, quid mollius unda? | dura tamen molli salsa cavantur aqua,' and ex Ponto, 4, 10, 5; 2, 7, 39; Amores, 1, 15, 31; Otto, Sprichwörter, 27. Sulpicius (in Anthology), quoted by Wakef., 'vomis tenuatus agris; | splendet, ac trito digitos honorans, | anulus auro.' The illustration was traditional: Melissus, as quoted by Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, 1, 168, 'iron, which is hard, seems to become rubbed away by the finger that it encircles.'—For the assonance in this and the preceding verse see on 3, 6.

313. stilicidi: Lachm. has a long note to illustrate his rule that after a long vowel only one i is to be written if i follows, unless the i belongs to a case ending; so mille, milia; but his rule is rejected by Brambach, in its application to stilicidium, which is the orthography of the jurists. L. is not conscious of the etymology, or he would not have added casus. Bernays quotes stilicidium cadet from Dig. 8, 2, 20. For the contraction in the gen. cf. dispendi, 2, 1127; remigi, 6, 743; absinthi, 1, 941; remedi, 6, 1226; bracci, 6, 434; pervigili, 6, 754.—The bucolic caesura is infrequent in L.; 3, 907 n.—For the illustration cf. Shakesp. 3 K. Henry VI. 3, 2, 'He plies her hard; and much rain wears the marble'; L. 4, 1286, 'guttas in salsa cadentis | umoris longo in spatio pertundere saxa'; Tib. 1, 4, 18, 'longa dies molli salsa peredit aqua'; Prop. 4, 5, 20, 'saxosamque forat sedula gutta viam'; id. 2, 25, 15; Ov. ex Ponto, 1, 1, 70; 2, 7, 40; Otto, 156. For the overfullness of expression in vomer aratri cf. solis annis, 311; ignis scintilla, 4, 605–606.—uncus as an epithet of the share begins with L.; Ov. prefers aduncus, Claudian obuncus (Archiv 3, 243).

314. Isid. Orig. 20, 14, 1, quotes the line with occulto, and adds sumitque per detrimenta fulgorem. M., following the suspicion of others, thinks these words may represent a line like sumitque ipse suum per detrimenta nitorem. Lachm. quotes two other attempts—sumitque semper per detrimenta nitorem and sumitque attritus per det. nit. Housman, J. Phil., 25, 226, conjectures sumitque e sulco per d. n., comp. 5, 208–209 and Georg. 1, 46. Verse 314 is quoted in part by Serv. on Georg. 1, 46 with occulto in arvo.—ferreus, 'although of iron'; but this does not justify Bock's ferreus! occulte; for uncus ferreus vomer cf. on 258.—occulte is classical, occulto antecld., occultum postcl. Hor. C. 1, 12, 45, 'crescit occulto velut arbor aevo,' where Bentl. would emend L., occulto . . . in aevo. Cf. Ov. Tr. 4, 6, 13, 'hoc (tempus) tenuat dentem terram fidentis aratri.'—in arvis occurs several times: 3, 785; 5, 129, 395, 806, 925; in every case at the end of the line.

315. strata viarum: 'paving of streets' = stratas vias; 4, 415, 'qui lapides inter sistit per strata viarum' (Aen. 1, 422 'strata viarum'); 4, 612, 'dum transit clausa domorum'; 6, 1283, 'suos consanguineos aliena rogorum | insuper extracta . . .

locabant.' This construction with participles in Lucretius is not so common as with adjectives. See Brenous, Hellenismes, 97; and on 86.—volgi, 'the crowd'; L. cares little for the common people; 945; 2, 623; 5, 1139, 'sub pedibus vulgi magnum lugebat honorem.'—detrita: notice the variety—decrescit, detrita, adtenuari, minui. He says detrita; dēteri is impossible here. The process is invisible, but the effect is seen.

316. saxea is virtually one epithet, as strata v. is one idea; see on 258. There is here one of his frequent allusions to city life.—tum, 'then again,' introducing a new thought, 492–493, 520; 2, 594, etc.—portas propter: propter, 'near by,' also in 5, 738; see on 1, 90. Anastrophe of prepositions with substantives without attributes is unknown before L. except with clam; Degering, Hist. Synt. 1893, 39 sq.; cf. 841, 937; 4, 223; 5, 31; 6, 549; and on 3, 24.

317. signa: Cic. Verr. 4, 94, 'ibi (apud Agrigentinos) est ex aere simulacrum ipsius Herculis . . . usque eo . . . ut rictum eius ac mentum paulo sit attritus, quod in precibus et gratulationibus non solum id venerari, verum etiam osculari solent.' Min. Felix Oet. 2, 'Caecilius simulacro Serapidis denotato, ut vulgus superstiosus solet, manum ori admovens osculum labii impressit.' Mayor in M. cites Varro LL. 5, 58, 'quas Samothracia ante portum statuit duas virilis species aeneas dei magni'; see Hartung, Religion der Römer, 175. Kelsey refers to Pausanias, 4, 33, 4 for the placing of statues near the city gates.—dextras: these were touched in supplication; various attitudes of veneration are described in Marquardt, Röm. Staatsverw.<sup>2</sup> 3, 188. There seems to be no proof that the right hands were kissed; it is merely inferred from osculation of other parts of statues; the hand may have been grasped in salutation (Serv. on Aen. 1, 408); Bern. understands 'grasping.' For the form dextras, see on 3, 651.—ostendunt: with acc. and infin.; 590, 'ostendant maculas corpore inesse.'

318. For the internal rhyme see on 3, 6. The passers-by stop to pay their respects to the deity.—saepe: used in a loose sense; it really means by the frequent touch of different persons; cf. the use equivalent to ut saepe fit; 3, 120 n.—praeterque meantum: Hor. C. 4, 3, 22, 'quod monstror digito praetereuntium.' For the tmesis, metr. gr., see on 3, 343.

319. minui: 'unde abeunt (corpora) minuant,' 2, 73. —cum is causal.

320. corpora decadent: 2, 72, 'quae decadunt corpora cuique.'

321. invida: 'niggardly,' here only in L.; Bock. irrita.—speciem: OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; spatium, Wakef. Lachm. Bern.; †speciem, Br. Lachm. says, 'speciem videndi nullam esse . . . nihil aliud inesse potuit, nisi naturam nobis videndi facultatem non tribuisse.' M. takes it 'nature of vision has jealously shut out our seeing'; Watson, following Lamb, and Creech, 'faculty of seeing,' and so Bern. Goebel in Rh. M. 15, 418 would write videnti. Br. in Phil. 14, 551 considered speciem improbable, and regarded Hertz's sperem more favorably; again in Phil. 23, 463 against Goebel he denied the construction videnti quae corpora decadant natura speciem (= oculos) praecclusit; Susemihl favored videnti there. Polle, Phil. 26, 300, reviewing the emendations, shows from Goebel that speciem = visum in 4, 236, 242; 5, 707, 724; and in 1, 975; 3, 524; 5, 373 praecludere has the dative. M. with Conington joins videnti with natura and makes speciem = visum rerum externarum, which Polle styles schr. gekünstelle; it has been recently defended by van d. Valk.

Earlier M. had proposed in J. Phil. 1, 39 spem omnem; but Polle prefers spatium, defending it by Ter. Hec. 374, ‘nam neque ut celari posset tempus spatium dabat.’ In J. Phil. 1, 117 Howard and Munro insist that natura videndi go together; ‘it is not time that is wanting but physical power;’ cf. also Keller, 29. Con. on Persius, 5, 101 compares natura medendi. Bentl. read videndo; Nencini, specimen (Jahresb. 24, 203). Giuss. interprets speciem as visum, but thinks natura praeclusis speciem videndi quae corpora is possible, species then being the equivalent of facultas; cf. 5, 1031, infantia linguae = infantia loquendi. Cartault, 81, defends speciem videndi by mobilitas meandi, 2, 65. ‘Natura poetæ quasi persona esse poterat, natura videndi nullo modo,’ Br. in Appendix. Is it possible that speciem videndi = rationem videndi by confusion with the favorite species ratioque? Or may we construe ‘invida videndi, natura praeclusit speciem?’—natura, ‘natural limitations’; 962, ‘sensus natura'; Q. Curt. 9, 4, 18, ‘quae mortalium oculis natura subduxerit’.

322. dies naturaque, ‘time and the natural course of things.’

323. moderatim, ‘within limits’ (189–190), is ār. lēy.; see on 20. L. has moderanter once, 2, 1096, and admoderate once, 2, 169; both ār. lēy.—cogens: with infin., 3, 197 n.

324. oculorum acies: the order is metr. gr.; 4, 691, ‘quae feriunt oculorum acies visumque lacesunt'; L. often uses acies alone in the same meaning, as in 4, 718; often acies is merely ‘pupil’; cf. on 3, 411.—contenta, ‘strained’; 4, 964, ‘in ea ratione fuit contenta magis mens'; 4, 807, ‘nonne vides oculos etiam, cum tenvia quae sunt | cernere cooperunt, contendere se atque parare'; Cic. Acad. 2, 80, ‘intendi acies longius non potest.’ The metaphor is from a drawn bow.

325. aevo macieque: hendiads.—senescunt: of things; 2, 74, ‘illa senescere et haec contra florescere cogunt'; a common classical use. The comma, instead of the semicolon after senescunt is Lambin's punctuation. See Stürenberg, 25.

326. Bock. writes et for nec. Br. (cf. Phil. 23, 464) now brackets this line, placing it after 327, following Susemihl Phil. 44, 62, who also infers a lacuna after it: ‘inepte universis rebus crescentibus cum decrescentes res universæ opponantur, unius rei decrescentis tantio adiungatur,’ Br. Prol. See also Neumann, 47, who thinks the line belongs with the examples in 305 sq. Bock. notices the parallelism: 322–323–324 relating to increase, 325–326–327 to decrease, and 328 to the conclusion. Br. in Phil. objects to examples of inorganic matter following the mention of organic things; Kannengiesser thinks 326 is in its original place, but that 311–321 were subsequently added with the intention of cancelling 326; Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 71, is opposed to any change.—mare inpendent: the acc. is uncommon; Ter. Ph. 180, te inpendent mala. Lucilius also has the construction. See Neue-Wagener, II, 352; Lindsay, LL. 422.—vesco: a puzzling word. Festus makes it = edax, Gell. 16, 5, 7, ex edendi intentione in Lucretius, but in Lucilius cum edendi fastidio; Serv. on Georg. 3, 175, siccas et teneras . . . unde et telae araneorum vescae nominantur. In Pliny, NH. 7, 81, corpore vesco sed eximiis viribus it means ‘slight’ Ribbeck, Lat. Part. 10, makes vescus = ve-escus, ‘nagend und abgenagt’; active in L. and Lucil.; passive in Virg., Afranius, and Ov. (F. 3, 446); cf. Klotz, Alträm. Metr. 96. ‘Vesco sale, id est, tenui et minutissimis partibus constante, atque ideo penetrabili,’ Bentley on Hor. S. 1, 2, 129. Caecus has frequently the active and passive sense.—sale saxa peresa: Conington, on Aen. 5, 866, ‘sale saxa sonabunt’;

regards the hissing sound as intentional. Sale, 'sea water,' as in 4, 438.—peresa: poet in Cic. Tusc. 3, 26, 'corpus macie extabuit: | lacrimae peredere umore exanguis genas.' See on 3, 413.

327. quoque: with tempore, as in 320.—cernere: Cic. Tusc. 1, 46, 'oculis cernimus ea quae videmus'; 268 n.—possis: potential subj.: 2, 384, 763; see on 3, 213.

328. corporibus caecis: as in 295, 277, there at end, here at beginning of the line for emphasis; hence igitur is the third word instead of the second.—igitur: 'sic rationari videtur poeta: omnia, quae quocumque sensu percipiuntur, sunt: venti non videntur, attamen eadem efficiunt, quae aquarum flumina, et tactu percipiuntur, ergo sunt: unde sequi videtur: atomi non videntur, attamen alio sensu percipiuntur, ergo sunt, quod aperte falsum est, quoniam omnino atomi nullo sensu percipiuntur,' Woltjer, p. 16; but L. has not discussed atoms yet; he is merely describing the original component bodies or first beginnings of things; cf. 483 sq.—natura gerit res: see on 3, 17. Natura is here 'governing nature,' as in 57, 224, 551; eighteen times in the poem.

329–369. 'There is void also; if there were not, things could not move, nay more, they could not have come into existence. Objects apparently solid are found to be more or less porous: water penetrates rock, food distributes itself in the body and sap in trees, voices pass through walls, cold to the bones; again, wool and lead have the same weight but unequal size, because the larger has more void within it.'

329. corporea: on 3, 162. Corporea natura = corpore, as M. remarks.—stipata: an expressive word, also in 345, 610, 664; 2, 67, 294 in a like context.—tenentur, 'kept in'; 2, 939, 'materies disiecta tenetur | aere'; 3, 572, etc.

330. inane, 'void'; satirically Pers. 1, 1, 'O, curas hominum! O quantum est in rebus inane!' L. often joins rebus to inane, e.g. 382, 511, 569, 655, etc., with varying connotation. Democritus had resolved the two conceptions of body and empty space into being and not being (Zeller, Stoics, etc., 440). 'The vacuum and plenum is the hypothesis of the discontinuity of matter, now generally adopted, with the difference that the vacuum is replaced by a very rarefied, elastic, vibrating medium—ether. Another hypothesis is that of continuous matter filling all space with different degrees of density; Descartes inclined toward the latter. Dimension (Qy. extension) being the essential property of bodies, there cannot be bodies without dimensions, which excludes the idea of indivisible particles,—that is to say, of atoms. There is no dimension without body, consequently no vacuum;' Wurtz, Atomic Theory, 306. 'They avoid making space substance, whence it will follow that it must needs be either itself a substance, or else a mode of some incorporeal substance; the modern Democratics are here more cautious, and make space to be no nature really existing without us, but only the phantasm of a body, and as it were the ghost of it, which has no reality without our imagination;' Cudworth, Intell. Syst. 1, 29. See in general Hoerschelmann, Observ. Alter.; Teichmüller in Rh. M. 33, 310; Giuss. p. 21 sq.—in rebus: i.e. there is such a thing as void; 270 n.; but Pascal (Riv. 31, 6), 'things have void in them': cf. 368–369.

331. cognosse: infin. as noun in nom. case, as in 4, 765; 5, 156, 165, 979, 1118, 1297–1298; Lane, 2208; Reichenhart, 460, thinks that in 331 cognosse depends on erit utile, like 3, 735; but the thought here is not 'it will be useful for you to know this' but 'the knowledge of this will be useful to you,' and sint, 332, needs a subject. — Edelbluth would transfer 331–334 to follow 369. Cf. 4, 765 n. — in multis rebus, ‘on many occasions.’ 3, 206, ‘quae tibi cognita res in multis, O bone, rebus | utilis invenietur et opportuna cluebit’; see n. there.

332. errantem: 2, 10, ‘errare atque viam palantis quaerere vitae’; see on 3, 105. — quaerere: 4, 969, of himself, ‘naturam quaerere rerum | semper.’ Manil. 1, 218, ‘sed quaerent helicen’ (and will not find it).

333. diffidere dictis: on 267.

334. Rejected by Bentley, Wakef., Lachm., Bern., M., Bail., Polle; placed after 345 by Winck., Goebel, Spengel; retained by Br., Giuss., and Pascal. Lachm. testifies that the verse is written in erasure by a corrector in O, and maintains further that quapropter cannot = igitur in this connexion; and again that the definition is neither necessary nor right: inane vacansque is intactile est, 1, 437, or intactum manet, 5, 358, or can be called locus ac spatiū, 1, 426, 955, 1074, spatiū vacuum inane, 523, 527; Ep. ad Herod. 40, δι τὸν κενὸν, (inane) καὶ χώραν, (locus) καὶ ἀναφῆ φύσιν, (intactus) δυομάζομεν; ad Pyth. 86, δι τὸν πᾶν σώματα καὶ ἀναφῆς φύσις ἔστιν. Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 771 notices that the correction is not in the Saxon hand which did most of the correcting; if it be interpolated, a line is none the less missing. Lotze, Kl. Schrift. 3, 103, would reject 334 and transfer 331–333, to follow 399, but at nunc of 340 would then lack force. Br. in Phil. 23, 465 proposed inani'vacansque, which he has now abandoned; as Goebel remarked, Observ. L., est is not a copula, which answers Lachmann’s objection in part; after quapropter, sc. ‘I repeat.’ Bernays in his commentary thinks the verse was originally a title reading ‘de inani, quapropter locus sit, intactum (437) inane vacansque (444)’; so the titles after 4, 114, quam parva sint animalia; 5, 323, quare natura omnia dicat. Polle, in Phil. 25, 269, and Everett, Harv. St. 7, 26, would eject the verse. — quapropter: 127, 557; with ellipsis of dico in 635; 2, 37; 6, 998; many examples in Dr. II. § 357, 9. — intactus: aestus intactus, 6, 1059–1060; cf. 5, 358. The three words are here substantives; the use is not too bold for L. — inane is always substantive in L. except in 1, 527.

335. esset: sc. inane. — moveri: middle as in 341, 375, and often. Sext. Empir. Math. 8, 329 (in Usener, Epicurea, 193), εἰ τοι κίνησις, τοι κενόν· δλλὰ μή τοι κίνησις· τοτιν ἄρα κενόν. Ep. ad Herod. 40, τόπος δὲ εἰ μή ήν . . . οὐκ ἄρα εἰχε τὰ σώματα διον ήν οὐδὲ δι' αὐτοῦ εἰκνέτο, καθάπερ φαλεται κινούμενα (cf. Woltjer, 18, for variation of text). — This argument from motion was used by Leucippus and the atomists: Arist. Phys. 4, 6, p. 213 b 5, οὐκ ἄρα δοκεῖν εἶναι κίνησιν, εἰ μή εἴη κενόν· τὸ γάρ πλῆρες δῶδεντον εἶναι δέξασθαι τι κτλ.

336. officium: of things, also in 362; Ter. Eun. 729, ‘neque pes neque mens satis suom officium facit’; Ov. M. 1, 744. Notice officium — officere, ‘office’ — ‘offset’; cf. 2, 643, parent — parentibus; 1, 667, parte reparcent. — corporis: abstract, ‘body’; 304, 524, etc. — exstat = est; on 3, 97. L. has not yet proved the existence of body, which he assumes in order to prove void.

337. officere atque obstarere: these verbs he joins together in 2, 784, and several times uses separately; prohibere obstarereque, 1, 973; contra pugnare obstarereque, 2, 280; cf. 1, 780; 2, 794. He frequently joins verbs of kindred meaning. Cic. Rosc. Am. 112, ‘meis commodis officio simulato officis et obstaras,’ M. Bock. well remarks that officere is used as a play on officium, and that obstarere gives the thought.

Arn. 2, 3, has obstaret atque officeret. — in is unnecessary; on 26. — Note elision after the fifth trochee of č, the usual vowel elided in this place, as in 26, 34, 41, 70, 160, etc.; elision of ā occurs fifteen times in this position; but of ā before a vowel other than a rarely. Virgil does not avoid this elision, as he does the one after the fifth ictus syllable; Ovid has such elision once in 266 verses; the statistics are given by Eskuche, Rk. M. 45, 402. L. has 195 examples of elision of a short vowel, and also two examples of elision of medial syllables; Virgil has 114 and 4 = 118; Ovid 81 and 2 = 83; or better stated there is one example of this elision in every 26 verses of Lucilius, 181 of Cicero, 38 of Lucr., 31 of Catull., 109 of Virgil, 266 of Ovid. Eskuche's figures for L. are not strictly correct, as he used Bock.'s edition.

338. Alliteration at the end of the line is very common: 323, 333, 347, 361, 388, etc. — procedere: as in 378.

339. principium : 2, 253, ‘faciunt primordia motus | principium quoddam.’ — cedendi, ‘yielding place to another’; 374; 2, 234. — Cf. 383. — nulla res: emphatic for nihil; but L. prefers nulla res when the singular is important: 304, 443, etc. — daret, ‘make’; 288 n.

340. maria ac terras: 30 n. — Caelumque is added in 5, 92, 594. — sublima: this form is quoted from Ennius, Accius, Sallust, by Neue-Wagener, 2, 150; see on 3, 714. L. does not use sublimis, but has sublime, e.g. 2, 206. — caeli: part. gen. like vera viai, 659; ponti profunda, 5, 417; ultima caeli, 651; caerulea mundi, 771; see on 86.

341. Note the alliteration. — multa modis multis recurs frequently, e.g. 1, 814, 1024; 2, 116, 660; 4, 128, 165, 725, 861; 5, 187, 422, 792; 6, 789; sometimes they are separated (as in 1, 814; 2, 116; 4, 1220), oftener together. On formulas of this class see Gneisse, 7. — varia ratione: 5, 528, 792, the latter = 1, 341 with exception of the last word.

342. anto oculos: on 3, 185. — quae refers to multa. — non goes with esset; nisi would be unmrical.

343. tam, ‘so much.’ For tam . . . quam cf. 265, 838–839, 2, 1088–1089; 3, 764; 6, 115–116, 1023; see Holtze, Syntax 32. — sollicito, ‘restless’; 6, 1038; Georg. 4, 262, ‘mare sollicitum stridit refluxibus undis.’ — motu: κίνησις τονική, Bern. — privata carerent: pleonastic; Aen. 6, 310, ‘lapsa cadunt folia’; see on 3, 30.

344. ‘Rather, they would never have come into being at all,’ since motion is necessary for the production of things.

345. undique goes with stipata. — quiesset: 2, 95, ‘nulla quies est | redditia corporibus primis per inane profundum.’

346. He now proves the porosity of visible bodies. — solidae is a frequent technical word. — Things are not really solid, for they have void in them.

347. There is a facsimile of O, verses 347–368, in Chatelain. — hinc, ‘from what follows’; on 149. — esse: sc. res. — raro, ‘porous’; on 3, 235. — cum: unnecessary: on 287.

348. in: 6, 942, ‘fit ut in speluncis saxa superne | sudent umore et guttis manantibus stilient.’ — permanat: L. uses this verb with an object in 494 only. — aquarum liquidus umor: on 3, 339.

349. liquidus: the first syllable is usually short, as in 373; it is long in 3, 427; in 4, 1259 both quantities occur; see on 3, 145. — uberibus: 6, 290, ‘gravis imber et uber.' — fleent: fient OQ; f and i are frequently confused: flat for fiat, 386; alunt for aiunt, 372 (M.). — Col. 10, 25, 'fons illacrimet putei'; Georg. 1, 480, 'maestum inlacrimat templis ebur'; Sen. Thy. 702, 'flevit in templis ebur.'

350. dissipat, 'distributes'; 2, 875, 'vertunt se fluvii frondes et pabula laeta | in pecudes, vertunt pecudes in corpora nostra | naturam'; 6, 946, 'diditur in venas cibus omnis.' — corpus omne, 'whole body,' i.e. every part. — animantum, in reference to assimilation of food, 194, 1038; 4, 645, 859. For elision after the fifth ictus syllable Eskuche, Rh. M. 45, 236 sq., shows that elision of ē is most frequent, then of ā, and of the latter only before a following a; there are only two places where another combination occurs: 2, 919; 4, 1040; see Müller, RM. 291. Of this form there are 95 cases in L. of a short vowel, and one (1, 97) of a long, 9 of a middle syllable, making 105 in all. The number of lines in which one example occurs is in Lucilius 27, Lucr. 70, Catull. 199, Virgil 429, Horace 105, Ovid 4423. Eskuche does not count 2, 88, tergo ibus which was not read by Bockemüller.

351. fetus: of trees, 193 n. Fructus is more common. — in tempore, 'in due season'; 'on time'; 5, 670, 'florescunt tempore certo | arbusta et certo dimittunt tempore florem'; 1, 805, 'nisi tempestas indulget tempore fausto | imbris.'

352. totas refers to arbores implied in arbusta (187 n.): 2, 995, 'genus humanum . . . omnia saecula ferarum . . . omnes'; 3, 235, 'eius natura . . . eum'; cf. on 3, 185. Lamb. at first wrote tota but later returned to the MSS., comparing 6, 757, quadripedes . . . mactata; M. compares 6, 188, lata . . . exstructa, referring to nubes. — imis: 3, 791 n. — Georg. 1, 319, 'ab radicibus imis,' of uprooted grain: cf. Archiv 6, 74.

353. omnis: acc.; on 7.

354. saepta is a noun; 'walls,' perhaps exterior or party walls; 4, 699, 'per saxea saepta | non penetrat.' But saepta domorum of the action of fulmen in 1, 489; 6, 228; of the sun's heat 6, 859. — intermeant is Plinian and late; L. has meo several times of things. — voces are material according to Epicureanism: semina vocis | ciciuntur, 3, 496 and n. — clausa domorum, 'enclosures of houses,' perhaps with reference to interior walls especially. 6, 951, 'per dissaepta domorum saxea voces | pervoltant, permanet odor frigusque vaposque | ignis.' — Br. in Phil. 23, 465 proposed claustra for clausa here and in 4, 612, but did not adopt the change in his edition. — For the genitive see on 315.

355. transvoltant is dr. Ley. — rigidum, 'stiffening'; rigidis pruinis, 2, 521; r. umbras, 5, 764. — frigus: 534, 'nec capere umorem neque item manabile frigus | nec penetrale ignem.' — ad ossa: so sensation postremis datur ossibus atque medullis, 3, 250; intima pars hominum vero flagrabat ad ossa, 6, 1168; see on 3, 123.

356–357. Munro reads possine for possent here and in 207, 593, 597, 645, and punctuates quod nisi . . . sint, transire? Gif., Faber, Creech, Br., Bail. retain possent, punctuating quod, . . . sint, . . . transire; Lachm. quod nisi . . . sint, qua possent . . . transire haud; Bern. quod nisi . . . sint, qua corpora quaeque valerent transire haud. For fieri 357, Q and the Gottorp. have valerent, which appears to M. to come from ulla twice written; O has fieri ratione, in litura by the Saxon hand. Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 669, favored Bernay's reading as giving a satisfactory explanation of valerent; but in Jahrb. 115, 273 he proposed quod nisi inania sint qua possint corpora quaeque transire haud ulla licet ratione videre; Polle, Phil. 26, 301, approved Bernays' suggestion, quod being the subject of fieri. Winckelmann proposed qua possint corpora quaeque . . . valeas ratione videre; Guebel, Obs. L. 5, qua possint . . . poterit rationes videri or via erit ratione parata. Creech explained 'haec vero neutiquam ferent, nisi essent inania, qua corpora permeare possent.' Postgate, J. Phil. 16, 124, favors M.'s punctuation, but not the change to possint, as videres is too near; for the present and imperfect he compares 5, 276, also the Ms. reading in 2, 1033 sq. Giuss. reads quae, nisi . . . possint . . . transire, haud. Pascal suggests that the readings may represent a hesitation by the poet between possent corpora quaeque and corpora quaeque valerent. Further discussion in Schroeter, Kond. Sätze, 20; Christ, 7; Br. Phil. 23, 466.

357. fieri: qua irent, Voss.

358. denique introduces the last argument with a question; see on 3, 476. — alias aliis and res rebus: M. comp. 816, 876; 2, 1166; 6, 1085. — videmus = manifestum est.

359. res rebus: on 3, 71. — nilo: 5, 577, nilo fertur maiore figura; 12 times in the poem as abl. of degree of difference: Polle, AV. 21. — figura: here simply of outward shape, as in 4, 298, figuram servet; it often has a technical meaning, referring to the atoms.

360. Note the spondees. — tantundem: sc. corporis. Tantundem . . . quantum is common: see lex. — glomere with long antepenult. — Lachm. has a long note on varied quantities in many words and authors; see also Stoltz, LG. § 40; Bentley on Hor. Ep. 1, 13, 14; Müller, RM. 353; and 3, 145 n. — 'Why do we see one thing surpass another in weight, though not larger in size? How can things be of various densities unless we admit empty pores in bodies?' L.'s proof is insufficient; but here again modern research has confirmed his conclusion so far as it affects gross matter only, and L. conceived no other. His explanation of varying density is that which is universally taught, and even the modern disbelievers in a vacuum do not deny that some space may be unoccupied by gross matter, but simply affirm . . . that all space is full of something, though not of ponderable matter,' Jenkin, Atomic Theory of L. in his Papers etc., 1, 177 = N. British Rev. 48, 211. — This argument of Democritus is criticised by Arist. de Caelo 4, 2; see the quotation in Bern. especially καθάπερ ἔριον χαλκόν p. 309, a, 2.

361. pendere: neuter, 'to weigh,' is poetical; primarily it means to cause to hang down; pendere, 'to hang down.' — par est: on 189. For the dependent infin. cf. 2, 125; 6, 1082.

362. corporis repeated, 300 n. — officium: on 336. — The principle is considered in 2, 184 sq. — deorsum: dissyllabic as in 2, 205; 4, 628; trisyl. 2, 202; cf. on 3, 286.

363. natura inanis = inane; on 3, 43. Ep. ad Herod. 44,  $\eta\tau\epsilon\gamma\delta\rho\tau\bar{\nu}\kappa\epsilon\bar{\nu}\bar{\nu}$  φύσις. Bernays quotes Plut. adv. Col. 11, p. 1112 b, κέροῦ φύσιν αὐτὸν τὸ κέρων . . . δημιᾶται (Ἐπίκουρος) εἰσθε. — manet is a loose synonym of est; 562; 5, 479, 861; usually with the added notion 'to be permanently in some state or condition'; see on 3, 341. — sine pondere: cf. the contrary expression 3, 201, 'quaecumque magis cum pondere magno | . . . inveniuntur.'

364. Note the spondees. Ergo is the first word, with well-marked spondaic rhythm, in 619; 2, 495, 519, 624; the first word, but with dactylic rhythm, in 72, 538; 2, 879.—aeque : the second member of the comparison must be supplied.—que, 'yet.'—videtur : again a synonym of est: 224 n.

365. inanis : genitive ; this construction is ordinarily confined to stems in -o ; Lane, 1250.

366. at : Flor. 31, etc. for aut.—at contra : 2, 392, 400, 404, 425, etc.

367. dedicat : on 3, 208.—vacui, Pont. Lamb. mod. edd.; vacuum, Q, Gott.; vacuum, O, Wakef. Lachm. Bern. Susemihl, Phil. 23, 468, thinks that vacui here might mean 'empty' as well as 'void' on account of 516. See Goebel, QL 28, and Grasberger, 46. Vacui is not found elsewhere in L. in the gen.; the nom. occurs in 394; the word is more common as an adjective, as in 339, 523.—intus habere : cf. 514, 536; it is unnecessary to supply a pronoun.

368. est, 'exists'; emphatic by position; some take it with admixtum.—ratione sagaci : on 130.

369. quaerimus : cf. 332, and quod sequimur, 156.—admixtum : cf. 382 and 655, 'si faciant admixtum rebus inane'; 5, 365, 'quoniam admixtumst in rebus inane'; cf. on 382.—inane is, then, his technical term and not vacuum.

370.—377. 'I shall anticipate an objection : some say that fish press onward through the water which closes in after them ; so other things can change places although all is full. This is wrong, for how can the fish move unless the water give way, and how can the waters retire if the fish cannot proceed ? There can be no motion, or you must have a void in which the beginning of motion can occur. Again, if two wide bodies suddenly separate, air rushes in and fills the void space between them ; if you think that the air is condensed and then expands, you are mistaken ; air cannot condense itself in such a manner, and if it could, void would be necessary for contraction.'

370. Illud in his rebus : on 80.—te : hardly Memmius ; rather the reader.—vero : 711, a vero derrasse.—On this refutation of the Aristotelian argument that motion takes place by one thing yielding up its place to another (Arist. Phys. 4, 7), see Reid's note on Cic. Acad. 1, 27. 'Οὐδεμία δ' ἀνάγκη, εἰ κίνησις (καὶ τόπος), ἔστιν, εἴραι κενὸν . . . ἀμα γὰρ ἐνδέχεται ὑπεξίεται ἀλλήλοις, οὐδενὸς δύντος διαστήματος χωριστοῦ παρὰ τὰ σώματα τὰ κινοῦμενα,' Aristotle.

371.  fingunt : 5, 713, 'ut faciunt, lunam qui fingunt esse pilai | consimilem.' See on 104, and cf. 842, 847, 1083.

372. cedere : emphatic by position. For Cederē sqa-, Müller, RM. 317, compares str- 4, 849; 6, 195; st- 4, 772; 6, 943; sp- 5, 47, 79; 6, 1188; sc- 4, 475; this license disappears after the Culex; cf. on 4, 475 and Lindsay LL. 131.—squamigeris interpreted by pisces, 373, 380. Squamigeri pisces, Cic. Arat. 328; see on 162. The example was used by Strato of Lampsacus, an opponent of Epicurus. Bern. quotes Simplicius on Arist. Phys. I. p. 659, 22, Diels, τὸ τοῦ Στράτωνος παράδειγμα . . . ἐαν εἰς ἀγγεῖον τις πεπληρωμένον ὕδατος ψηφίδα ἐμβαλὼν καταστρέψῃ τὸ ἀγγεῖον ἐπὶ στόμα ἐπέχων τὴν ἔκρουαν, ἡ ψηφίδις ἐπὶ τὸ στόμα τοῦ ἀγγείου φέρεται ἀντιμεθισταμένον τοῦ ὕδατος εἰς τὸ τῆς ψηφίου τόπον. τὸ δὲ αὖτὸν καὶ ἐπὶ τῶν τηχομένων συμβαίνει καὶ λχθός καὶ οὐτινοσοῦν. Cic. Acad. 2, 125, 'tunc aut inane quicquam putes esse, cum ita completa et conferta sint omnia, ut et, (qua) quodque movebitur corpus, (aliud) cedat et, qua quodque cesserit, aliud illico subsequatur' ?—latices explained by undae, 374; so 379—380.—nitentibus, as the fish press on.

373. Notice the dactyls.—liquidas vias, ‘paths in the fluid’; cf. vias apertas, 6, 1050; ὑγρὰ κέλευθα, Hom.—quia: with subjunctive; he does not accept the argument; the only example of quia with subjunctive in the list given by Holtze, Synt. L. 194.—post: adv.; cf. infra locum, 5, 1371.—‘And it does seem at first sight that, in a universe absolutely full, like a barrel full of herrings so shaped as to leave not a cranny between them, no motion whatever would be possible; but reflection shows us that what is called reentering motion is possible, even under those circumstances, provided we do not suppose our fish to stick to one another; there may be an eddy in which the fish swim round and round one after the other, without leaving any vacant space between them or on either side, and yet without enlarging, diminishing, or disturbing the barrel as they move. L. either fails to perceive this, or declined to admit the possibility that all the movements of gross matter could be of this class;’ Jenkin, Atomic Theory, l.c.

374. quo refers to loca; cf. 57.—cedentes undae: concedere . . . undae, 379–380. confluere: 994, quo quasi confluere (corpora).

375. moveri: middle; cf. 335.

376. et, ‘and so.’—omnia: concrete here, ‘all things,’ i.e. all things in the sum of things; omnis res, 56; ex omnibus omnia gigni, 172.—plena: 525, ‘nec plenum naviter extat | nec porro vacuum.’

377. scilicet: not ironical; on 3, 229.—id totum like quod totum, 3, 690 and 4, 1088. The interlocking id falsa totum ratione is Lucretian: 425, ‘confirmare animi quicquam ratione’; 545, ‘inmortali primordia corpora debent’; 549, ‘ratione queunt alia servata’; 622, ‘ex infinitis constabunt partibus aequae’; 123 n.—falsa ratione: on 3, 523.—receptumst, ‘accepted’ (ἐνδέχομαι), is common in other authors (lex. s.v. II, B, 1), but occurs only here in L.

378. quo: like 380 and quo ducit, 2, 258.—poterunt . . . dederint: see on 3, 636.—procedere: as in 338.—Stanley, Hist. of Phil., 1701, 552: ‘If there were no Vacuum there would be no motion, seeing the body that should be moved would not have any place to go into, all things being full and close packed together. Whence that which is apparent or manifest doth not contradict that which is unmanifest, since indeed there is motion.’ Teichmüller, Rh. M. 33, 312: ‘In L.’s system there is only body and void. Bodies move when they force themselves into the void, which cannot resist; this is not thereby filled up, but it retires like a physical fluid into the place where the body was before, and body moves in void as a fish in water: where the fish is, there is no water; where body is there is no void (except the void contained within the body). The fish can only move when the dislodged water takes the place earlier occupied by the fish; hence that the water itself holds vacuum is disregarded for the moment. L. had in a measure a horror vacui, since void is with him not only incapable of resistance, but a positive element of an altogether limited size, like body. Hoerschelmann (Obs. L. Att.) was right in proving the conception of space in L., wrong in believing that this conception belongs to the system; for H. cannot bring one verse where the idea of space is developed; he can only recount a lot of expressions which imply space.’

379. ni occurs also in 5, 207, 293. ‘Ni came to acquire the sense of nisi from its use in such phrases as si in ius vocat, ni it (XII Tables); if he summons him (and) he does not go,’ Lindsay, LL. 611.—spatium dederint: 2, 208, ‘in quascunque dedit partis natura meatum.' Spatium is here 'interval,' as in 389.—concedere: Bock. notices the order, concedere following procedere: pisces procedunt, latices concedunt. The important part of the explanation is omitted: how does the first interval come to pass, which leads to the release of the struggling bodies?

380. nequibunt: the form is cited only from this passage.

381. privandumst corpora: on 111.

382. aut and aut, 381: see on 300. Aut for aut potius is frequent; see lex. II, C, and cf. 2, 908-909.—rebus: dative; see on 3, 233, and Holtze, 44.

383. initum: exordia cepit, 5, 331; initium capere in prose, e.g. Cae. BG. I, I. Initium would be unmetrical; cf. principium cedendi, 339, and on 3, 271.—primum, 'very first'; on 3, 331.

384. de concursu, 'after meeting'; 6, 290, 'quo de concussu sequitur gravis imber et uber'; cf. 5, 651. For de 'immediately following a given moment of time,' after, see lex. and Roby, 1907. Howard would retain concurso instead of concursu of inf. MSS. and edd., and also offenso in 3, 941 (J. Phil. I, 118).

385. cita in the poets is often used instead of cito; see lex. B.—nempe: prosaic and conversational; also in 2, 908; 4, 1173-1174.—aer omne: aer is subject, omne with inane object.—omne necessest: Biese, De iteratis syllabis, in Rh. M. 38, 634 sq. has discussed this repetition of syllables. Serv. on Aen. 2, 27, Dorica castra, remarked 'mala est compositio ab ea syllaba incipere, qua superior finitus est sermo.' L. has examples in 27, 385, 515, 746; 2, 107, 111, 236, 765, 862, 1025, 1120; 3, 77; following on an infinitive ending in -re in 3, 342, 350, 360, 960, 1072; 4, 385, 764, 969, 1191; 5, 1261; 6, 55, 452; on nouns, 4, 31, 64; 5, 40, 282; 6, 146; all coming at the end of the verse with the exception of 1, 78, 359; 2, 326; 4, 695; 5, 272; re is most common. The occurrence is mainly due to the use of infinitives and the lack of short syllables; hence words like corpore, tempore, pectore are frequent. Isocrates objected to the use: μηδὲ τελευτᾶν καὶ δρχεσθαις ἀπὸ τῆς αὐτῆς συλλαβῆς, οὐλορ 'ειποῦσα σαφῆ, as reported by Planudes, Rhet. Gr. V, p. 469.

386. possidat: possideat in 5, 611; possideantur, 1, 390.

387. is refers to aer.—auris, 'currents'; cf. 3, 300.

388. Note the alliteration.—haud poterit: haud with posse and equivalents is not Ciceronian; cf. 237, 338, 1081; 2, 233; 3, 571, 1069; Holtze, 165.—uno tempore, 'one unit of time'; so 4, 794.

389. primum quemque, 'each successive'; Cic. Acad. 2, 49, 'me tibi primum quidque concedente,' and Reid there, who refers to Madvig on de Fin. 2, 105. M. comp. L. 5, 264, 284, 291, 304.

390. Note the pentasyll. ending also in 391.—omnia refers to locum, of which L. has the neuter more often than the masc. form in the plural.—possideantur, 'be mastered'; 3, 1079 n.

391. Note elision in the second foot; 270 n. Polle, Phil. 25, 270, thought that 391-397 was a first attempt, which should have been ejected from the finished poem because of the inaccurate expression of certainty in 393 sq.; Susemihl, Phil. 23, 468, after Creech, that something had fallen out after 392, and that tali ratione, 395, is unintelligible. Stürenburg, 25, differs from both: from Polle, because 384-390 would be unfinished, and because the conclusion, vacuum igitur tum fit, cum corpora dissiliunt, is really contained in 393-394. 384-397 contain one argument: 'si duo corpora dissiliunt, spatium quod fit non uno tempore expleri potest; haec igitur res non alia ulla ratione explicari potest, nisi ita, ut vacuum fieri concedamus.' Christ, 12, also inferred a lacuna: 'is qui poetae rationi oblocutus est, dicere debuit, aera ~~con~~currus corporum condensatum eo ipso tempore, quo corpora dissiliunt, nulla mora intercedente in ampliorem locum extendi. Itaque aliquis dixerit aut scribendum fuisse cum corpora dissiliunt, tum putat id fieri, aut cum corpora dissiliuerent, tum putat id factum esse.' But the free use of the present tense is well defended by 3, 681 and by other cases. Creech thought that something should have been said about condensation of air to prepare the reader for 392. 'Utrum tamen aliquid exciderit an poeta negligentius scripsit, non dixerim,' Br. in Proleg.

392. id fieri, 'that result occurs,' viz. the action in 387–390; cf. on 2, 771. Giuss. refers it to omnia possideri. — condenseat is διπλ. λεγ.; Virgil has densem in Aen. II, 650, addensent, id. IO, 432 R.; L. densemant, 5, 491; denserier, 1, 395, 647. See lex. denseo. Bernays quotes Arist. Phys. IV, 6, p. 213 a, 15, δεικνύοντις ὅτι οὐτε τοι κενός, οὐτε φαίνεται έντα συνέστρα καὶ πλούσια . . . ὡς εἰς τὰ έντα κενά συνέστρος τοῦ πυκνουμένου σώματος, and the refutation in 7, p. 214 b, 32, ἐνδέχεται δὲ καὶ πυκνουμέναι μή εἰς τὸ κενόν, ἀλλὰ διὰ τὸ τὰ έντα έκπυρηγίζειν οὐλούς οὐθλιβομένου τὸ έντα δέρα.

393. vacuum: between the two bodies which have separated (M.); the air cannot condense without a vacuum.

394. vacuum: on the outside of the two bodies.

395. tali ratione: in such a way as to produce such condensation and vacua by leaping apart and coming together. — denserier: on 3, 67.

396. iam: granting for the moment at the point now reached in the argument; see on 3, 540. — opinor: see on 3, 626.

397. trahere: intransitive as in 6, 1190 (like Eng. 'draw'); cf. turbare, 2, 126; reflexit, 3, 502. Cartault proposes ipsum se trahere. — conducere: see on 3, 534.

398–417. 'Many other proofs of void can be stated; these, however, are sufficient, for as a hunting dog follows a trail, so you can extract truth from its hiding place. But, Memmius, I can assure you, that old age will overtake me before I can pour out my whole store of proofs concerning any one principle of my philosophy.'

398. Note the alliteration throughout this paragraph. — causando: here only in L; not used in Ciceronian Latin. V. Ed. 9, 56, 'causando nostros in longum ducis amores.' — multa is object of causando; 5, 428, 'omne genus coetus et motus experiendo'; 5, 722, 'versandoque globum.' Bernays names some other arguments for void: the argument διπλ. τῆς αἴθησεως (Arist. Phys. p. 213 b, 19): 'quippe alimenta esse corporea, duo autem corpora in eodem loco comprehendendi non posse, reperiiri igitur inane in re crescente,' alluded to by L. in 350–353; again, διπλ. τῆς πυκνώσεως, touched on in 396 sq.; then, διπλ. τῆς δλκῆς, Simplic. in Phys. p. 652, 21 Diels; although L. does not mention the magnet here, yet in 6, 936 sq. he recounts the arguments for void before discussing magnetism. — Brandt, Jahrb. 131, 609, refutes Kannengiesser as to 398–417 being a later addition. — moreris: 5, 91, 'ne te in promissis plura moremur.' Examples of the meaning 'hold out' in lex.

399. Cf. 330, and note that he does not say inesse in rebus. — fateare necessest: see on 3, 470.

400. Note pentasyll. ending. — multa: emphatic by position; also argumenta

in 401.—possum: M. comp. Georg. 1, 176, ‘possum multa tibi veterum praecepta referre’; Cic. Sest. 7, ‘possum multa dicere de . . . sed. . . !’ Possum is the apodosis of a protasis implied in commemorando; cf. si pigraris . . . possum, 410–411; Lane, 2074.—commemorando: 6, 936, ‘nunc omnis repetam quam raro corpore sint res | commemorare.’

401. argumenta: rest on facts, ratio on reasoning.—conradere, ‘accumulate,’ is not found elsewhere in this meaning; ‘notat anxiam diligentiam,’ Bern. Bock. reads, after Gif., contradere, itself &w. λεγ.

402. animo sagaci: 130 n.—satis is predicate; cf. sat, 3, 238.—vestigia is often used metaphorically; 3, 309 n.

403. per: instrumental as in 634; 2, 242, etc.—tute: see on 3, 627.

404. canes: for the gender, see on 3, 750, and for the comparison Enn. Ann. 340, ‘veluti si quando vinclis venatica velox | apta solet, si forte feras ex nare sagaci | sensit’; Varius Rufus, Fr. 4, ‘ceu canis umbrosam lustrans Gortynia vallem, | si veteris potuit cervae deprendere lustra, . . . non ardua tardant,’ etc.; Aen. 12, 749; Ov. M. 1, 553, Tr. 5, 9, 27.—ferarum: O corr. Br. Bail.; ferare, OQ; ferai, Q corr. M. Bern. Bock. Giuss. Lachm. who cites ‘montivagum ferarum genus,’ 2, 597, 1081 (but there the reference is to these animals as a class; here the mountain-ranging dogs discover the lairs). Stat. Th. 1, 581, ‘montivago pecoris custodi mandat.’

405. intectas is more common as adjective than as participle; here concessive.—fronde: as collective singular, is rather archaic; see lex. and cf. 118.—quietes, ‘lairs’ is unexampled; cf. latebras, 408. Liv. Andron. (?) in Terent. M. 1938, ‘derige odorissequos ad certa cubilia canes.’

406. institerunt: for ē see on 3, 86.—vestigia: of the tracks of the beasts.

407. alid: 3, 970 n.—per te tute ipse: emphatic.

408. talibus in rebus, ‘in such cases as the present’; previously in 43.—caecasque latebras: Ov. M. 1, 388, ‘caecis obscura latebris’; Aen. 3, 424, ‘caecis . . . spelunca latebris.’

409. insinuare: for construction see on 3, 485.—protrahere: 4, 1188, ‘quoniam tu animo tamen omnia possis | protrahere in lucem.’ Elision after the fifth dactyl is rare. Virgil elides only que, sine, ibi, and ubi, and so Ovid also except once, male audit; it was avoided by Prop. and Catull, but allowed by Lucil. Hor. and Persius. In Lucr., according to Eskuche, Rh. M. 45, 236 sq., there are 76 exx., in Virgil 20, Ovid 20; one ex. in every 31 lines of Lucil, 724 of Cic., 100 of Lucr., 64 of Horace, 681 of Tibull., 1106 of Ovid, 643 of Virgil. Cf. also on 226.

410. pigraris: pf. subj., cf. locaris, 980; cognoris, 6, 534. Pigro is ante-classic.—recesseris: 4, 914, ‘vera repulsanti discedas pectore dicta.’ Cf. Georg. 1, 177.

411. Note the alliteration.—de plano: like de integro, de improviso, de transverso, an adverbial expression = ‘plainly.’ I can see no reference to the juristic de plano, ‘unofficially,’ nor to the frequent legal phrase unde de plano legi possit. It means ‘without formality,’ then ‘easily,’ and, if derived from the original juristic de plano, it has lost consciousness of its origin. J. F. Wilson conjectures pleno, comp. Plaut. Asin. 181, nam ibi de pleno promittur.

412. largos: cf. 282.—haustus: Ov. F. 3, 274, ‘exquis haustibus inde bibi’; Digest. 8, 3, 3, § 3, ‘haec de haustu ex fonte privato.’ L. 1, 927, ‘iuvat integros

accedere fontis | atque haurire.' — e·fontibu' . . . de pectore: M. comp. 2, 447; 4, 694; 6, 721, 1012; but in all these cases except in 6, 721, the same preposition is repeated. — fontibu': cf. chartis, 3, 10, referring to Epicurus. — magnis: O corr. Lachm. M. Br. Giuss. Bail.; magnes, O; amnes, Q; larginis haustos . . . amnis, Bentl. Bern., defended by Polle, Phil. 26, 301, by largus fons in 5, 281, 596. Winck. ceu fontibus amnis. Wilson cj. sanctis. Magnis of amnibus, 296.

413. meo diti: M. compares 38 for this archaism, perhaps imitated from Ennius; 2, 102, 730; 4, 394; 6, 417, 618. Catull. 61, 104, 'a tuis teneris volet | secubare papillis.' — suavis: nom.; here for adverb. — diti is poetical for diviti. — de is used metr. gr.; 50 2, 354; 4, 338; 5, 794; 6, 329 to avoid elision.

414. tarda senectus: 2, 392, tardum olivom. Tarda s. in Hor. S. 2, 2, 88; Tib. 2, 2, 19; Aen. 9, 610; Sen. HF. 853. — per, 'over'; 2, 40, etc. — Vell. Pater. 2, 89, 6, 'opera omne aevi sui spatium impensurum in id solum opus, scriptorem fatigent.'

415. serpat: Juv. 9, 129, 'obrepit non intellecta senectus.' — nobis: L. — vitali: in middle of line, see on 3, 83; cf. vitali claustra, 'fastnesses of life,' in 6, 1153; 3, 396, and n.

416. versibus: cf. 24. Other expressions of confidence in 400, 692, 698; 3, 105 n.

417. argumentorum fills the first half of the verse; 3, 907 n.

418–448. 'Nature consists of body and void: common sense declares the existence of the former, and it has also been proved that void is necessary for motion. There can be no third substance in addition, for if it be touched it will increase; if it be incapable of touch it will be void. Again, whatever exists will either act or suffer action; but these are characteristics of body, just as to give place is proper to void; there is no third substance, either sensible or rational.'

418. 6, 42, 'quo magis inceptum pergam pertexere dictis.' Emped. 169, αὐτὰρ ἐγώ ταλίπορος θλεύσομαι ἐς τέρος ὑμνων. — nunc: 6, 936, 'nunc omnis repetam quam raro corpore sint res | commemorare'; cf. 830; 2, 142. — cooptum: on 55. — pertexere: complem. infin., as with pergo, incipio; Dr. § 426.

419. Lachm. Bern. punctuate omnis, ut est, igitur, but ut est, 'actually,' is rather to be taken with per se. For igitur out of place M. comp. 4, 199–204, 862–865; see also Edelbluth, Conj. 42. The prose order would be omnis igitur natura ut est per se; the interlocking is in L's manner. Bern. thought omnis a genitive, perhaps rightly. Plut. adv. Col. II, τὸν τὰν παττός φύσιν δυνάζειν εἰσθεντὸν Ἐπίκουρος. — per se: on 3, 145. — natura: as in 950, 1116. Ep. ad Herod. 39, Δλλὰ μὴν καὶ τὸν τὰν ἔστι (σώματα καὶ τέρος); 68, καθ' ἀντίτάς εἰσι φύσεις.

420. constitit in: 'is made up of'; on 3, 167. For the tense see on 3, 178. — rebus: to call void res is 'propter egestatem linguae' (Woltjer, 21). L. does not deny the existence of things beside matter and void, but denies that they have independent existence. Probably, as M. implies, by rebus he means conceptions. Giuss. 21, understands inane here as the space within which things stand and through which they move.

421. haec refers to corpora. κερόν, ὅπου ἔστι τὰ σώματα. — diversa: cf. 428. — moventur, 'move about.' δι' οὐ κινέται, Ep.

422. communis sensus, 'general feeling,' M. Shaksp. a King Henry IV, 4, 2,

'The time misorder'd doth, in common sense, | crowd us'; explained by Hudson as feeling which we have in common. For the expression cf. Hor. S. 1, 3, 66, communi sensu plane caret, and Bentley there, and Juv. 8, 73, with Mayor's note. Ep. ad Herod. 39, σώματα μὲν γὰρ ὡς Κετιά, αὐτὴν ἡ αἰσθητικὴ ἐτι τάνταν μαρτυρεῖ, καὶ δὲ διαγκαῖον τὸ δόδηλον τῷ λογισμῷ τεκμαρεσθαι, ὥσπερ προεῖτον. M. quotes Cic. Orat. 2, 68, 'in sensu hominum communis, in natura, in moribus.' The 'common sense' of the Scotch philosophy, 'an acquired perception or feeling of the common duties and proprieties expected from each member of society,' quoted from Hamilton by Mayor i.c., is to be distinguished from this Lucretian meaning. Animi ratione, 425, is opposed to this communis sensus. The common sense of the Aristotelian philosophy, 'κοινὸν αἰσθητήριον,' signifies 'the faculty by which the various reports of the individual senses were reduced to the unity of a common apperception' (Hammond, APA 28, ix). See in general Reid, ed. Hamilton, 774.—dedicat: on 3, 208.

423. The first foot should be a dactyl, as the sense is broken after it.—cui: Howard, J. Phil. 1, 118, takes cui with fides, comparing Ov. Am. 2, 2, 38, 'in verum falso crimine deme fidem.' Susemihl, Phil. 44, 84, thinks it dependent on both fides and fundata (Aen. 5, 759, 'tum vicina astris Erycino in vertice sedes | fundatur Veneri Italiae'), 'das Vertrauen auf sie welches ihr zu Ehren gegründet ist,' which is forced; cf. also Bruns, 60.—prima fides: 4, 505, 'violare fidem primam et convellere tota | fundamenta quibus nixatur vita salusque,' etc., for trust in the senses as a criterion. Cf. also 1, 694. Cic. Fin. 1, 22, 'iudicia rerum in sensibus ponit, quibus si semel aliquid falsi pro vero probatum sit, sublatum esse omne iudicium veri et falsi putat.' L. does not mention the two other criteria of Epicurus, viz. προληψίεις and πάθη (Bindseil, 13): DL. 10, 31, κριτήρια τῆς διληθελαίστητης τὰς αἰσθήσεις καὶ προληψίεις καὶ τὰ πάθη. Bruns, 79, thinks 423–425 would have been changed by the poet: 'so ist die Stelle als ein Merkzeichen des allmählich geänderten Planes stehen geblieben.'

424. occultis rebus: cf. 145.—referentes: 699, 'quo referemus enim? quid nobis certius ipsis | sensibus esse potest, qui vera ac falsa notemus?'

425. confirmare: 2, 178, 'hoc . . . ausim | confirmare.'—animi ratione: on 448.

426. tum porro, 'then again'; on 298.—locus: 1, 1074, 'omnis enim locus ac spatium'; 954, 'item quod inane repertumst | seu locus ac spatium, res in quo quaeque gerantur'; cf. 472, 505. Inane is τὸ κενόν, locus is τόπος, spatium is χώρα. Sext. Empir. X, 2, διὸ προληπτέον τῇ κατὰ τὸν Ἐπίκουρον τῆς διαφούσιος καλουμένης φύσεως τὸ μὲν τι διομάζεται κενόν, τὸ δὲ τόπος, τὸ δὲ χώρα, κτλ.; cf. Polle, AV. 17, and see on 335. L. uses these words freely, not always restricting them to their exact meaning in Epicurus, as Polle, i.c. and Bindseil, 17, have pointed out.

427. foret: metr. gr.; on 182.—haut usquam = haud ullo in loco; L. wished to avoid the word locus here.—sita esse: cf. 421.—Cic. Orat. 2, 358, 'corpus intellegi sine loco non potest.'

428. quoquam: OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss. Bail.; quaquam, Ald. 1, Lamb. Br. Bock. Br. in Phil. 23, 469 says Haec (corpora) in quo sita sunt of 421 correspond to haud usquam sita corpora possent esse, 427, and qua diversa moventur, to neque omnino quaquam diversa meare; quoquam he regards as meaningless. Polle, Phil. 23, 469 favors quaquam; and recently Pascal (Riv. 31, 7), comparing 356. But M.

makes the reference to 378, not to 421, as meare is different from moveri; meare = procedere and concedere; cf. 378–379.

429. supera: 335–345, and perhaps the additional proof in 370 sq. The verse is repeated in 531 and 4, 672. Supera occurs several times in L., e.g. 5, 85, 1407; 6, 262. With supera cf. infera, extera, and Lindsay, J.L. 181. — ostendimus ante occurs also in 5, 355; 6, 774; paulo ostendimus ante, 6, 996. Bruns, 79, thinks that 429 sq. was put here by the editor; L., he thinks, would not have inserted a double proof of void.

430. praeterea: besides body and void; cf. 445. Caesar, BG. 3, 20, ‘auxiliis equitatique comparato, multis praeterea viris fortibus.’ — possis: potential. — Ep. ad Herod. 40, παρὰ δὲ ταῦτα οὐθὲν οὐδέ ἐπικονθῆναι δύναται οὐτε περιληπτικῶς οὐτε διαλύεις τοῖς περιληπτοῖς.

431. selunctum secretumque: cf. ‘seiungi seque gregari,’ 452, and for the repetition of the syllable, 3, 353 n. — Cudworth, 1, 128: ‘Whatsoever is is extended or hath geometrical quantity or mensurability in it; which if it be tangible then it is a body and fills up a place in the world, being part of the whole mass, but if it be intangible so that it cannot resist the passage of anything through it, then it is nothing but empty space or vacuum. There is no third space besides these two, and therefore whatsoever is not body is space or nothing.’ — Note the chiasmus.

432. quod refers to nil, and agrees with it instead of with natura; cf. on 3, 94. — numero: pleonastic; 6, 414, ‘at saepest numero factum ferique necessest,’ and lex. s.v. — natura, ‘element’; 446.

433. An unmelodious verse. — esse aliquid: εἶναι τι καθ' ἀντρό, Bern. Aliquo is read by Bock. Br. Bail., who do not transpose 434–435, and accept Creech's interpretation, as Lachm. expressed it, ‘quicquid enim est, quantitate aliqua, magna aut parva donatur,’ to which Lachm. rejoins ‘sed neque augmen quantitas est, neque tactus et intactile differunt inter se aut quantitate aut augmine.’ Όσα καθ' θλα φύσεις λαμβάνουν καὶ μή ὡς τὰ τούτων συμπτώματα ή συμβεβηκότα λέγομεν, Ep. ad Herod. 40. Winck. proposed aliqui. — debetib: cf. 441; 2, 482.

434 (435). 434 and 435 were transposed by Flor. 32 in marg. and by Lachm. M. and Giuss. We must either transfer these verses or change aliquid. Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 773, defends the Ms. order, arguing from 2, 482; 3, 268; 5, 1171; 6, 168 that augmen has some notion of quantity; he would read dum sit, with comma, i.e. ‘sive magna est quantitate sive parva, dummodo sit quod dicis.’ — tactus: cf. 241, and the opposite intactile, 437. L. has tactile, 5, 151. In 304 he stated the principle tangere enim et tangi, nisi corpus, nulla potest res. — levis: 3, 196, aura levis. exiguus is ‘slight.’

435 (434). augmine: almost a Lucretian word; it occurs also in 2, 73, 188, 495; 3, 268 (see note there), and in Arnob. 7, 24. Cf. frustramen, 4, 817, vocamen, 2, 654, and ebriamen, genimen, linteamen, spiramen; and see Rönsch, Itala und Vulgata, 27, and Roby, 850. — denique, ‘even.’ — dum sit: sc. augmen. Francken, Jahrb. 123, 769, would write tactile dum sit, or rather he would omit dum sit, leaving the verse imperfect. M. takes, apparently, dum sit with quodcunque; it might also be taken with tactus.

436. corporis numerum, ‘amount of body’; numerus frumenti, vini, pirata-
russ are cited in lex. L. would probably have written corporum, Polle, Jahrb.

101, 221, thinks, if he ever elided single dactylic words in -um; cf. on 1012; but here a single word is needed. Corporum was read by Gifanius, Havercamp, and many early editors, with necessary hiatus. Virg. Georg. 4, 227 has sideris in numerum, i.e. inter sidera. — summamque sequatur, ‘go with the whole.’ M. quotes Cic. Claud. 87, ‘cum ipsa pecunia . . . numero ac summa sua.’ L. I, 606, ‘naturam corporis explent.’ ‘Ex translatione hominis tardius venientis, et se tandem turbae comitum immiscensit,’ Wakef.

437. intactile (= drafé, Ep.) is ἀτ. λεγ. Intangibilis does not occur; tangibilis is found in Lact. and Jerome. — nulla de parte: emphatic by position, = nullo modo; cf. 667, 843; 2, 235. Jenkin, At. Th. I.c.: ‘Lucretius hardly adduces a single argument in support of this proposition [i.e. no third element], contenting himself with showing first, that no tangible thing but matter exists—a mere begging the question; and secondly, that properties and accidents are not entities distinct from matter, which is true, but little to the point.’

438. prohibere . . . transire: on 3, 86.—meantem: 2, 65, ‘reddita mobilitas magnum per inane meandi.’

439. scilicet, ‘you are to know’; on 3, 229.—vacuum inane seems pleonastic, but occurs in 509; 2, 151, 158, 202, 236; 6, 838, and Aen. 12, 906.

440. Note the monosyll. close.—per se erit: ‘have independent existence’; on 3, 145.—faciet quid: ‘act on something’; Cic. Acad. I, 24, ‘de natura autem . . . ita dicebant, ut eam dividenter in res duas, ut altera esset efficiens, altera autem quasi huic se praebens, ex eaque efficeretur aliquid,’ and Reid there. Ep. ad Herod. 67, καθ' ἐαυτὸν δὲ οὐκ ἔστι τοῦτο τὸ δούλωμα τὸ πλήν τοῦ κενοῦ. τὸ δὲ κενόν οὗτον τοῦτο πάθειν δύναται, δλλὰ κίνησιν μέρον δι' ἐαυτοῦ τοῦτο σώμασι παρέχεται. — aut: a triple aut is not uncommon in L.; see Holtze, 187.

441. fungi, ‘suffer,’ of passive action; see on 3, 168.—agentibus = facientibus, 440; ‘acting upon it.’ Ipsum is nom.

442. possint: Flor. 31, and most edd.; see on 3, 715; possunt, OQ, M.; defended by Howard, J. Phil. I, 118, who compares 2, 901, ‘ita ut debent’; possunt is intolerably harsh.—gerique: cf. 472, 482. For the inartistic pleonasm cf. 5, 139, esse et crescere, and Kraetsch, 15.

443. at: in rebuttal.—facere et fungi is a striking alliteration, but not intentional, as fungi = pati occurred above. The sentiment is thoroughly materialistic; ποιῆσαι and πάθειν happen also to be alliterative.—res: monosyll. ending.—Housman, J. Phil. 25, 227, nise corpora, following Goebel’s proposal nise conciliatum in 2, 936. He thinks sine corpore a non sequitur; a third thing might suffer in conjunction with body.

444. praebere locum, ‘give place,’ or ‘offer room.’—inane vacansque: subject. For vacans cf. 334.

445. tertia: emphatic.—per se: 419, n.

446. nulla: emphatic.—rerum in numero as in 691; Howard joined natura rerum.—natura as in 432.—relinqui: 658, ‘fugitant in rebus inane relinquere purum’; 743, ‘res mollis rarasque relinquont.’

447. sub sensus cadat: Cic. Inv. I, 48, ‘quod sub sensum aliquem cadit.’

448. ratione animi: cf. 425, and 4, 384, ‘hoc animi demum ratio discernere debet.’—apisci occurs also in 6, 1235; adipisci is more common.

449–482. ‘Things talked about are either essential properties or accidents of body and void: essential properties cannot be removed without destroying the substance: it is otherwise with accidents: time is an accident, and actions have no real existence as body has; events are really accidents of body and space.’

449. cluent: on 119. Here = ‘said to have existence.’—coniuncta for inherent qualities is Lucretian: τὰ ἀΐδιον συμβεβηκάτα as opposed to τὰ συμπτώματα = eventa (Ep. ad Herod. 40, 71). Munro thinks the Greek words are synonyms in Ep., as no doubt they were originally in the language; see his unconvincing note. Bern. says that the later Epicureans to avoid ambiguity spoke of ἀχώριστα συμβεβηκάτα, and that L. followed them here in using coniuncta. Lee comp. συμβεβηκάτα καθ’ αὐτὰ — (coniuncta) — ‘properties,’ and συμβεβηκάτα μὴ καθ’ αὐτὰ — (eventa) — ‘accidents,’ from the Aristotelian logic. See Francken, Jahrb. 121, 768, against M. and Woltjer, L. Phil., etc., p. 21; and for his position, Pascal, Stud. 16. Cic. ND. 2, 82, ‘corpora et inane quaeque his accidentum’ — duabus, body and void.

450. invenies: 2, 348, ‘invenies tamen inter se differre figuris’; cf. 2, 678.—horum, OQ, M. Lachm.; harum Bern. in comment., Bock. Br. Giuss. Bail. Br. Prol. xx compares 4, 60 lubrica serpens . . . illorum where he reads illarum, but the use of res coördinate with a neuter is common in L.—eventa, 458, 467, 481; Lucretian in this meaning. “Coniuncta are permanent and essential qualities, the ‘everlasting concomitants without which body cannot be thought’ as described by Epicurus himself; the latter are occurrences or phenomena by which bodies manifest their action at special times. Grammatically, coniuncta are adjectives, eventa verbs. ‘These,’ says Epicurus, ‘are distinguishable as aspects, but never exist separately from totality or aggregate which we know as body,’” Wallace, Epicureanism, 189. ‘The properties which never vary are called the Primary Qualities of bodies; the properties which are variable are called the Secondary Qualities,’ Lewes, Problems of Life and Mind, I, 2, 243.

451. nusquam, ‘on no occasion’; Aen. 2, 620, nusquam abero.—permittiali, OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; perniciali vulg. Permitties, the noun, is well attested; there seems to be no reason for doubting permittialis; see M.’s courageous note and cf. 3, 326 and Stolz, Hist. Gr. I, § 235.

452. discidio: 3, 342 n.—potis est: on 3, 1079.—seiungi seque gregari: for the repetition of the syllable, see on 431, and for the tmesis on 3, 343. Segregari is used but once in L.

453–454. saxis . . . ignist, Bock. Br. Giuss. Bail.; saxis . . . ignis OQ; saxist . . . ignis Lachm. Bern. M.—aquai, Marull., edd.; aquae, OQ. 454 is rejected by Lachm. and M.; retained by Bock. Br. Bail. Br. says in Prol. xxxvii, ‘sed primum dativo videtur esse, cf. v. 443 [i.e. 449], deinde cur L. ausus non sit hic Ennium imitatus (cf. Bücheler, Grundriss d. lat. Deklens. p. 53 [102]) dativum in -ai desinenter scribere? vocabulo intactus non inepte conferas Livianum illud per inculatum, 42, 12, 7, ubi Lachmanni per indulatum sententia pervertitur.’ M. approves Lachmann’s denial of intactus ‘and the datives are not consistent with the genitives of 453’ (but they may be regarded as datives). For a possible inconsistency between dative and genitive cf. horum eventa, 450, and the datives in 469–470. Polle, Phil. 26, 302, notices adversely Spengel’s intactile inani, which had been favored by Goebel. Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 771, would keep 454: Lachmann’s arguments do not hold, viz., that datives in -ai are not lawful [cf. Lindsay, Cl. R. 10, 425] and that intactus is not Latin. But grammarians [see KGL. 5, 555; 6, 449; 7, 57] cite Enn. Ann. (489) [cf. Vahlen, Enn.<sup>2</sup>, p. 88] and L. for this dative; the Lucret. cases, however, may be genitive, e.g. 1, 41, where W. takes patriai as dative with iniquo, comp. 182; there are many datives in -ai in inscriptions, e.g. CIL i, 191, 813; xiv, 4270; Corssen, Aussprache<sup>2</sup>, 677; Neue, Formenl.<sup>2</sup>, 1, 14. For intactus, δη. λεγ., read also by Heinze (on 3, 381), cf. petitus, 3, 172, intactile, 1, 437; and initum, 1, 13, etc., and the principle expressed in 1, 138. Woltjer would write pondus uti saxis, calor ignei, liquor aquai | tactus corporibus cunctis, intactus inani, but a verb is needed. Grasberger proposed quantumst corporibus cunctis intus sine inani (47) and Leo, Analect. Plaut. 1898, 35, ignibus liquor aquis est. Everett, Harv. St. 7, 26, thinks that Br.'s boldness in his treatment of 453–454 is 'titanic,' remarking that although Charisius [1, 7] says that Ennius uses the dative in -ai, no fragment of Ennius has one. Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 131, thinks 454 genuine: aquae (OQ) is genitive; read igni and aquae with stat at the end like 747. 'pausam stare fragori.' Housman, Cl. R. 14, 367, rejects the dative aquai; and modern grammarians also (e.g. Sommer, 355). Cooper, Sermo Pleb. accepts intactus (21); and Cartault thinks it a technical and scientific term and hence excusable (10). There are, then, four options: (1) to reject 454 (which appears to me to be genuine); (2) to regard aquae as an incurable corruption (but to me aquai is a satisfactory emendation); (3) to adopt one of the other proposed emendations (but none of them approve themselves to me). There is, then, nothing remaining but to accept, under constraint and not willingly, the dissyllabic dative aquai in spite of the overwhelming weight of opinion against it.

453. pondus: 'Accidēnt is a modification or, quality which does not essentially belong to a thing, nor form one of its constituent and invariable attributes, as motion in relation to matter, or heat to iron,' Fleming, Vocab. of Phil. 12. 'In those [i.e. atomists'] times the name of quality was applied only to those we call secondary qualities; the primary being considered essential to matter, were not called qualities,' Reid, Works, 2, 86.—liquor: but liquorem, the usual quantity, in 2, 847.

454. The allit. is in his style and also the play on words.

455. Notice the contrasts: servitium and libertas beginning the lines, and the other contraries placed together.—servitium: here only in L.—paupertas is 'poverty' in L.; not merely straitened circumstances: 6, 1255, 1282.—Egestas he has but once with this reference: 3, 65.—que: the arrangement is a, beque, d e f, asyndetically except for the pair paupertas divitiae. M. comp. for these hanging nominatives Catull. 86, 3, totum illud 'formosa' nego. Cf. Sen. Oed. 691. The words servitium, etc., would be placed within quotation marks in a modern composition.

456. cetera: qualities like servitium, etc. L. uses the word without a connective in summing up a catalogue; cf. 2, 859, 1085; 6, 244.

457. manet incolumis: see on 3, 341.—adventu, but aditu, 677, 'quorum abitu aut aditu.' L. elides ā after the fifth ictus syllable only before a following a; cf. 122, 194, 264, etc., and 350 n. Notice that the line begins with adventu and closes with abituque, the important words thus coming at the ends of the verse.

458. haec gathers up the qualities previously mentioned.—soliti sumus, 'we are in the habit'; 3, 623 n.—par est: ut accumst, 5, 226, and on 1, 189.—vocare: 59, vocare . . . suemus.

459. non est, 'has no independent existence.' Serv. on Aen. 3, 587, 'per se tempus non intelligitur, nisi per actus humanos,' and 7, 37, 'tempora nisi ex rebus colligantur, per se nulla sunt,' with reference to L. Kant's result: if space and time are the forms of our sensibility, and are not given in experience nor given in the material presented, we may at once assume that they have no existence out of our sensibility. Kant's reduction of space and time to formal elements of thought without corresponding objective reality has been refuted by Spencer (Princ. of Psychol. 52–58), who has shown that the experience hypothesis better explains the genesis of these conceptions . . . I [Lewes] will add my own conviction that space and time are objective realities in the sense that solidity, colour, etc., are objective realities; in other words, although as we conceive them they are purely subjective and do not exist externally, as the place and time which exist in us, nevertheless some external reality there is corresponding to our subjective state, Lewes, Biograph. Hist. of Phil. 646. 'Time is a necessary condition in the presentation of all occurrences to our mind. We cannot conceive this condition to be taken away. . . . Thus time is something distinct from the matter or substance of our experience, and may be considered as a necessary form which that matter (the experience of change) must assume, in order to be an object of contemplation to the mind,' Whewell, Phil. of Induct. Sciences, 1, 126. Ep. ad Herod. 72, touched on the question; see also the ref. in Usener, Epic. 379. Time to Epicurus was σύμπτωμα συμπτωμάτων παρεπέμπετον ἡμέραις τε καὶ νυκτὶ καὶ ὥραις καὶ πάθεσι καὶ ἀπελευθερίᾳ καὶ κινήσεσι καὶ μοράσι, Sext. adv. Math. 10, 219; Zeller, Phil. d. Griech. 3, 1, 401; Woltjer, L. Phil. 22.—ab is used partly of cause and partly of origin, as in 4, 551, 'asperitas autem vocis fit ab asperitate | principiorum.' This is cited in Archiv. 10, 487 as the first example of ab in the order, noun prep. adj.

460. consequitur, 'perceives'; see lex.—in aevo, 'in the past.'—sensus and ratio are synonyms in a wide sense.

461. quae res: but quid, 460.—instet, i.e. present. Cf. 3, 1086, quive exitus instet,—'impending.' Bernays comp. ad Heren. 2, 8, 'in tempora tria, praeteritum instans consequens.'

462. Notice the spondees.—nec per se, emphatic. Nec goes with quemquam, per se with tempus.—sentire, 'perceives.'—fatendumst: common in the older poets at end of hexameter; other elisions (or aphaeresis) of vowels or medial syllables in the sixth foot are very rare; Eskuche, Rh. M. 45, 390, 415.

463. semotum: with tempus. He uses only this participle of semoveo.—que: not 'but'; the thought is motion and rest.—placidaque quiete: 6, 73, 'placida cum pace quietos.' Placida quies occur also in Ov. M. 9, 469, F. 1, 205; 6, 331; Aen. 9, 187.

464–470. 'When you mention the rape of Helen remember that means merely that the rape occurred, not that it has independent existence (esse).'
Bock. and Br. bracket the passage.

464. denique, 17 n.; here it introduces a new example. Bock. denies that denique can stand in both 464 and 471, and he objects to the repetition of the same illustration, Tyndaridem raptam, 464, and Tyndaridis forma in 473, because they are proofs of the same principle: 469–470 and 481–482 being the same. No doubt L. would have made some change in revising.

465. Trojungenas, Q, O corr. Br. Bail.; Trojungenas, O, Lachm. M.; so Trojanis, 476, Grauiugenerum, 477. The original ii for later i occurred also in eiuis quoius; see Birt, Rh. M. 51, 79; Lane, 153, 2.—gentis probably means 'tribes,' not 'people,' in this stage of Latinity: Archiv 6, 344; but cf. on 2, 1036.—dicunt: e.g. Stoici.—esse, purposely far removed from the participles, as if it might be thought to mean 'exist.'

466. haec, neuter.—cogant esse: on 3, 197.—nos, people in general.—fateri, 'acknowledge,' as often.

467. saecla, 'generations'; on 3, 629.—quando: on 188.—fuērunt also in 4, 150, 1251; 5, 1283—all at end of line; fuere, 1, 234; 2, 298; 4, 1019; 5, 325 also at end; and in 3, 836; 4, 841; 5, 916, elsewhere in the verse; fuērunt, 5, 474, 677, 878; (Cartault).

468. Two dactyls contained in the first word—very unusual; see on 3, 907.—abstulerit, subj. due to the quoted thought.—iam with praeterita; 'finally elapsed.'—praeterita astas: 3, 854, 'temporis omne | praeteritum spatium'; 2, 1166, 'temporibus . . . praeteritis.'

469. †terris OQ; M. Teucris; Lachm. per sest; Bern. Giuss. Bail. saeclis; Lamb. rebūs; Wakef. terris . . . legionibus; Br. saeclis . . . ipsis.* Susemihl, Phil. 44, 61, favors saeclis and Purmann, QL. 1867, 1, objects to it. Stürenberg ejects the line, thinking the genuine verse has been forced out; but, as Susemihl remarks, an interpolator would not have been likely to set terris and regionibus over against each other. Stürenberg thinks the objection was haec facta sunt, ergo sunt 'facta,' which Susemihl regards as too sophistical. To him aliud . . . aliud means 'on the one hand . . . on the other hand.' Bock., Jahrb. 99, 267, remarks that historical occurrences retained in memory must become something real; they are not the eventa of these persons, because the persons do not exist, so they must be substantial themselves. The answer is: no, they are not per se, 'they have perished with their actors; but on the other hand the country exists, and they last as eventa of the country (ipsis regionibus). The dative is doubtful, Susemihl thinks, while holding to the authenticity of 454; the dat. aquaī there is permissible, while a change of construction is possible. Polle, AV 63, rejects all emendations and thinks 469–470 interpolated. Winck. defends the text: every happening is an event on earth, and also in the place where it occurred. Bouterwek proposed per se est . . . tempōribus; Bock. terris . . . redigentibus. Stürenberg, 267, discusses and rejects all emendations and would transfer 464–470 to follow 482, or bracket them. To my mind the passage is still unhealed, terris being corrupt. M. would have his Teucris correspond to Trojungenas, 465. Everett, in Harv. St. 7, 26, cannot find Teucris before Virgil; he would have terris = orbis terrarum; some occurrences belong to special parts of the earth—regionibus. Bock. prints terris . . . regnantibus. In AJP. 21, 186 aliudque colentibus (or cluentibus) ipsis was proposed by ed.

470. dici, 'spoken of': cf. dicunt, 465.

471. fuisse . . . accendisset: Schroeter, 16, finds the only other example in L. of this form of condition in 551–552.

472. locus ac spatium: on 426.

473. forma . . . amoris, Wakef. in notes, Bock. Br. Giuss. Bail.; forma . . . amore OQ; formae . . . amore Lachm. Bern. M.—confatus is said literally of ignis in Plaut. Rud. 765. Ignis is very common for the passion of love; Hor. Ep. 14, 13, ‘non pulchrior ignis | accendit obsessam Ilion’; Tennyson, ‘The fire that left a roofless Ilion.’—amoris: defining genitive.

474. Alexandri: Enn. Sc. 53, ‘quapropter Parim pastores nunc Alexandrum vocant.’—Phrygio: trajectio for Phrygii; on 10.—gliscens: on 3, 48o.

475. clara: with reference to the metaphor in ignis: 5, 295, ‘claraeque coruscis | fulguribus . . . taedae.’ Note the interlocking clara saevi cert. belli.—accendisset of war is frequent after L.: see Thes. I, 278, 33.—certamina belli: 2, 5; 5, 1296; cert. pugnae, 4, 843; cert. belli also in Aen. 10, 146; cf. reikos . . . πολέμου, Il. N 271, δύων μάχης, Soph. Tr. 20.

476. clam: if prep. with Troianis here only in L.; Caes. BC 2, 32, ‘nonne sibi clam vobis salutem fuga petivit’; with the accusative it is common in the comic poets. M. cites in addition Fronto ad Amic. 1, 12, ‘quod clam ceteris esse velim’; Bell. Afr. 2, 4, ‘clam hostibus.’ It is difficult to say whether Troianis is dative or ablative; probably L. did not distinguish.—durateus seems to occur only here: ίπποι δουράρεον, Odyss. θ 492-493.—Pergama: here only in L. and not certainly occurring in hexameter poetry before him; it is a poetic plural here, occurring in the fifth foot also in Virgil and Ovid; Homer has only Πέργαμος: Keller, Lat. Sprachg. II, 213.—partu: for the metaphor cf. Aen. 2, 20, ‘uterumque armato milite complent’; 237, ‘scandit fatalis machina muros | seta armis,’ etc. Enn. Sc. 76, ‘nam maximo saltu superabit gravidus armatis equus, | qui suo partu ardua perdat Pergama.’

477. equos: nominative. M. says that ecus or ecum occurs three times, equus once (5, 1074) in O and Q.—Graugenarum: a word used by Pacuvius, and later by Virgil and Statius.

478. perspicere: on 157.—funditus omnis: also in 572, 620, 673, 791, 854. Funditus occurs seventeen times in L.; in sixteen places it occupies the fifth foot. In funditus omnes it is impossible to say whether the adverb refers forward or back: it refers back ten times possibly; three times it is doubtful; in four places it looks forward.

479. non . . . neque: on 3, 92.—its, ‘in the same sense.’—corpus may be nominative or accusative; see on 3, 456.—constare neque esse is another example of his pairing of synonymous verbs; cf. 337 n. Constare corresponds to concilia, eae to primordia: see Pascal, Riv. 31, 10.

480. cluere, ‘are spoken of’; 119 n.—eadem: with synecdoche also in 4, 744, 786. 959, Aen. 10, 487, Prop. 3 (4), 6, 36; cf. on 306.

481. magis, sc. ita esse ut.—merito, ‘properly.’ 4, 160, ‘ut merito celer his rebus dicatur origo’; 6, 210, ‘ut merito rubeant ignesque profundant’; 2, 698.

482. Nearly = 505.—loci: locus ac spatium, 472.

483-502. ‘Bodies are either first beginnings or made up of first beginnings. First beginnings cannot be destroyed, for they are solid; although there are few things that are really solid, yet reason, through my verse, will convince you that first beginnings are solid and eternal.’

483. corpora: 420, ‘nam corpora sunt et inane.’—porro, ‘again’; another step in the argument; cf. 1008.—partim . . . partim: 4, 55, 736; 6, 20.—primordia rerum: here first L. distinguishes between simple and compound elements of bodies. Heretofore, except in the technical passage 55 sq., primordia might have been either atoms or molecules: they were the apparent elements of bodies. Ep. ad Herod. 40, καὶ μῆν καὶ τῶν σωμάτων τὰ μέν ἔστι συγκρίσεις, τὰ δὲ οὐ συγκρίσεις περιληπταὶ. See Tohte, Lucr. 1, 483–598.

484. concilio: on 183.—principiorum, a pentasyll. ending; metr. gr. for primordiorum: 55 n. ‘When the limit of mechanical separation is reached, we have the molecule,—an extra-sensible, but supposed to have all the properties of particles and masses,’ Lewes, Problems, etc. I, 2, 252.

485. Monosyll. ending, weak beginning, and prosaic rhythm.—quae: qua Bock, which he thinks is the reading of the Ms.

486. First word a dactyl according to rule, as a pause follows.—stinguere OQ, stringere O corr., Nic. Stinguere occurs in 666, ignis in coetu stinguere; also stinguere colorem, 2, 828, and ardorem qui membris stinguere possit, 4, 1098. Cic. Arat. Progn. 133, stinguuntur radii. Probably L. shows here Ciceronian influence. For the use of the simple verb for the compound, see on 3, 957.—solido: 488, 497, 512, etc. ‘Αὐτόχθον κεροῦ is said of the atoms by Aetius, 1, 3, 18 (in Usener Epic. Fr. 267), quoting Epicurus, adding τὰ σώματα διτείρα. —vincunt, ‘prevail.’ The lex. cites Cic. Claud. 64, vinco ab Oppianico, for its use absolutely. Winck. proposed instead cum sunt.—ea is nom.; cf. its use as acc. subj. in 500.—demum, 43 n. If it be taken with ea then ea demum means ea profecto; if with solido the meaning will be equivalent to that of omnino or perfecte. But M. explains ‘however long the contest, they in the end prevail.’

487. credere: subj. infin.: inferior Ms. have forsitan, and some old editions fors ita.

488. in rebus: in rerum natura (‘in existence’), Creech, as in 497.—posse with two infinitives; see on 3, 359.

489. transit: 6, 228, ‘transit enim validum fulmen per saepa domorum, | clamor ut ac voces, transit per saxa, per aera’; 2, 388, ‘lumen per cornum transit’; 6, 348, ‘incolumisque venit per res atque integra transit | multa,’ etc. Cf. in general for the penetrability of bodies, 6, 942 sq.—fulmen O corr. Q corr. edd.; fulmen OQ; caeli . . . ut OQ, edd.; caelum . . . it Lachm. Bern.; ac vulg. ad OQ. Lachm. appeals to 6, 951, ‘denique per dissaepta domorum saxea voces | pervolitant,’ and 1, 355, ‘inter saepa meant voces et clausa domorum | transvolitant,’ and maintains that the comparison between fulmen caeli and voces is absurd because fulmen ut vox incolumes domos non facile transeat, and that L. never says fulmen caeli, for in 5, 1244 he reads caelo fulmine misso. Susemihl, Phil. 14, 551, defends the Ms., following Goebel, QL.: caelum is not one of the several hard bodies. Polle, Phil. 25, 270, objects to the comparison of 6, 228 sq., for in the first book the subject is the nature of bodies which penetrate other bodies, in Book 6 the nature of lightning. Tohte, 4, regards 490 as interpolated, with Purmann, QL. 18, although it may have been added by the poet himself: there is thought to be an inconsistency with 492. See Feustell, 31 sq.

490. clamor, ‘noise,’ sc. transit; cf. on 6, 147.—ferrum: 6, 953, ‘ignis, qui ferri quoque vim penetrare suevit’; 6, 1031, ‘per crebra foramina ferri’; the iron is porous, hence glows by the interpenetration of heat.—candescit is a rare poetical word, here only in L. Cf. 6, 148, ‘ut calidis candens ferrum e fornacibus.’ The following verbs in -esco appear first in L.: aegrescit, 3, 521; albescere, 2, 773; ardescit, 4, 1090; clarescit, 1, 1115; candescit, 1, 490; haerescere, 2, 417; livescere, 3, 528; mollescere, 5, 1014; torrescere, 3, 890; valescat, 1, 942; vigescat, 1, 674; virescunt, 1, 252; patescit, 5, 613. Cf. Sittl in Archiv 1, 480.

491. dissiliunt: of primordia, 2, 87.—fero, ‘fierce.’—ferventia: Marull. edd.; serventi OQ; fere ferventi Wakef. Bock. Housman J. Phil. 25, 229. Cf. Georg. 3, 363, aeraque dissiliunt volgo. Cartault, 30, would keep serventi, because L. likes two epithets.—vapore, ‘heat’; on 3, 126.

492. tum: vulg., cum OQ and Bock.—rigor auri: a periphrasis; cf. vis, 3, 7 n.; 6, 948, frigus . . . transire per aurum. Georg. 1, 143 has ferri rigor.—aestu: ‘heat,’ 308.

493. glacies aeris is unexampled, hence Francken, Jahrb. 121, 770, writes acris; acris and aci were read in some inferior MSS. and in some editions before Lamb.—liquescit: of plumbea glans, 6, 179; of cera, 6, 516. Glacies suggests the shining surface of the bronze. Mart. 1, 49, 12, ‘Salone qui ferrum gelat’ contains a similar metaphor.

494. permanat: on 348.—argentum: 6, 949, ‘vaporem transire per aurum | atque per argentum, cum pocula plena tenemus.’—penetrale: cf. on 535. Georg. 1, 93, penetrabile frigus.—frigus: cf. 355.

495. utrumque: with short antepenult in 4, 503, 1212, and regularly. The word refers to calor and frigus.—manu retinentes: 2, 25, ‘lampadas manibus retinentia (simulacra).’—pocula: 3, 912, ‘tenentque pocula saepe homines.’—rite, ‘in the usual manner’; here only in L. Probably the cup was held with both hands; thus the sensation would be noticeable through the extended fingers.

496. sensimus: aorist; so excierunt, 4, 37 (Bern.).—infuso: sc. a servis.—lympharum: 6, 1174, ‘praecipite lymphis putealibus alte | inciderunt,’ the only other ex. of the word in L., and there nymphis is read by some.—rore: 771, roremque liquoris; 4, 338, rorem salis.—superne: probably with short ultima; 4, 439; 6, 544, 597; Hor. C. 2, 20, 11; doubtful in 1, 1105; 2, 1153; 3, 893; 4, 173, 445; 6, 192, 254, 264.

497. in rebus: as in 488.—solidi: noun; soliditas is metrically impossible.—esse videtur closes the verse in 692, 698; 3, 555, etc., at least fourteen times altogether.

498. sed quia: 657, 1024; 5, 422, 826, etc.—vera ratio: on 51. Tohte, 16, thinks it = ‘right argumentation,’ as in 513 and 623; cf. false rationi, 3, 523. Giuss., correctly, ‘scientific reasoning about nature.’—naturaque rerum: see on Title.

499. cogit: the verb is singular because the subject is singular in thought; cf. conficeret, 239; cogitur, 2, 152; effervescit, 3, 295, and note there. Cogere is often used of logical necessity.—ades, ‘give attention’; here only in L.; usually animo is joined to the word in this meaning; see lex. —paucis: percipe paucis, 4, 115.—dum, ‘while,’ with subj., hence by Latin idiom ‘until.’—expediamus: 2, 62, quo motu . . . resolvant . . . expediam; not in Cic. and Caesar with this meaning, but in Ennius and Pacuvius and other poets. The line is not musical, especially in the close: monosyl., trisyl., pentasyll.

500. solido, etc.: 486, 488.

501. docemus: didactic; 3, 31 n.

502. omnis rerum summa: on 235.—constet creata, 'was made and now consists'; on 3, 188.

503-550. 'Body and void have independent existence, and each excludes the other; bodies are solid, cannot be crushed, are eternal; out of them all things are made, and into them are dissolved. They must be of solid singleness and indestructible.'

503. Principio: on 271. Notice praeterea, 511; tum porro, 520.—duplex natura: 5, 879, 'duplici natura et corpore bino,' of the centaurs. Natura here forms a periphrasis as frequently.—duarum: corporis atque loci, 505.

504. longe modifies dissimilis, which is a predicate of reperta est. For the order cf. 2, 190, pondera . . . deorsum cuncta ferantur. Bentley read longe rerum.—constare repertast: 5, 59, reperta est . . . consistere; Dr. § 459.

505. The line is almost a repetition of 482; rejected here by Tohte.

506. esse sibi per se: ab hr̄ kaθ éavr̄, Bern. Cf. 3, 145, 'sibi solum per se sapit'; 3, 684, 'per se sibi vivere solam.'—puramque: purus, 'cleared,' was originally an agricultural term; 658, 'fugitant in rebus inane relinquere purum.'

507. quacumque is correlative to ea, 508; i. q. ubi . . . ibi.—vacat spatium: 6, 1030, spatium vacat; 2, 1053, spatium vacet infinitum; 1, 520, quod inane vacaret. See lex. for other examples of the absolute use of vaco.

508. qua . . . cumque: for tmesis cf. 873; 2, 21, 404; 3, 550 n.—porro, 'moreover'; 4, 649; 3, 166 n.—tenet se, 'maintains itself'; an expression afterward common in military language.

509. corpus: repeated from 508; cf. on 300.—vacuum inane: cf. 367. See Hoerschelmann, Observ. L. Alt. 35; Pascal, Stud. 28 sq.

510. solida, 'impenetrable'—sine inani is equivalent to an adjective.

511. genitis in rebus: 266, '(res) . . . genitas'; 2, 63, 'corpora res varias gignant genitasque resolvant'; 2, 566, 'res progigni et genitas procrescere.' Bodies are made up of matter and void; when they break up the matter remains, and if there were no void they would not break up. In = within.

512. circum: i.e. about the atoms. Circum is usually separated from the verb in L.; see on 3, 141, and cf. 387, 718, 1089; 2, 326, 618, 635, 745, 802, 1144-1145; 3, 404, 408, 411; 4, 316, 608; 5, 520; 6, 427-428, 686. Tohte, 12, suspects circum here.

513. probari, 'proved,' 'accepted'; on 3, 47. Dr. § 459, 2 cites probor, nom. with infin., only from Ovid, M. 2, 92, 'patrio pater esse metu probor,' and monstror in a like construction first in Arnobius.

514. corpore is ordinary body, not technical atoms. L. is careless about the repetition of words in differing senses.—celare: 2, 678, 'semina rerum | corpore celare'; but 4, 1220, 'modis primordia multis | mixta suo celant in corpore saepe parentis.'—intus: cf. 367.

515. si non: 'nisi negatives the entire protasis; si non negatives a single word,' Bennett, LG. 306; here relinquas is negated, and si non = nisi; on the other hand, nisi = si non in 1, 1012; 6, 591; see M. on the former passage.—relinquas, 'allow'; on 3, 40.

516. id: i.e. body. — porro, 'again.' — nisi, 'but' after nil; Lane, 2020.

517. concilium: cf. 484. — inane queat rerum: OQ, recent edd.: inane in rebus queat Lachm.; for rerum, tectum Lamb., verum Bern. (cf. 691). Br. in Proleg. abandons his former conjecture purum. Note the interlocking, inane with rerum and queat with cohibere, in L.'s usual manner. Inane rerum is the void contained in things — a bold and unexampled expression, for rerum is a possessive genitive. Roos, 14, thinks the expression is as good as cavitas corporum, which no one would question. Grasberger, 47, defends the MSS., and against Lachmann's objection that inane rerum might be misunderstood as vacuum a rebus well replies that the entire context forbids such a construction. Inane rerum is also retained by Winckelmann, Goebel, and Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 774, who says that inane is a substantive more than seventy times in L., and not once an adjective joined to a genitive or ablative. Purmann and Lotze would read circum; Polle, after Brieger, purum (cf. 658). See Br. Phil. 14, 553; Polle, id. 26, 302; Tohte, 12.

518. materies before a vowel, not materia: on 58. Giuss. brackets 518–519; he is refuted by van d. Valk, 58, and Pascal, Riv. 31, 12.

519. aeterna: on 239. — cum: concessive; cf. Holtze, 146. — cetera: i.e. complex matter. Kannengießer proposed coetus, opposed by Tohte, Giuss., and Pascal.

520. inane vacaret = inane vacuum esset, cf. 523. M. spells the word vocaret; see his note and Br. Proleg. xxxiii.

521. omne, τὸ νῦν; on 74. — certa, 'definite,' 'certain'; cf. 169, 526, 675, etc. = quaedam, Wakef. Pascal interprets 'a definite portion of matter' = ώπισμέτρα σώματα. Cf. the argument in 329–345.

522. tenerent, 'occupied,' or rather, 'might be occupying'; cf. 164.

523. Br. and Giuss. punctuate omne quod est spatium after Wakef. and Winck., M. and Bail. omne quod est, spatium with Lachm. and Bern. M.'s pointing means 'the existing universe would be empty and void space'; the other, 'all space which anywhere exists would be empty void.' Omne quod est spatium seems equivalent to spatium summi totius omne, 984: see Hoerschelmann, Observ. L. Alt. 38, who remarks that if there were no bodies omne spatium esset vacuum inane, just as, if there were no void, all space would be full. See also Kraetsch, 43. M.'s pointing makes an asyndeton necessary, which could be defended by 334. Omne quod est spatium occurs in 1, 969. Br. Phil. 14, 553 maintained that wherever vacuum and inane occur together in L. inane is used as a substantive; once spatium inane occurs in 1, 527; never inanis with another adjective bound to a substantive. Polle, id. 25, 270 insists that inane can only be joined to omne quod est. Susemihl, id. 44, 75, decided for omne quod est spatium, comparing 969 and 523.

524. alternis, 'in alternate layers'; 4, 790, 'mobiliter cum alternis bracchia mitunt'; 1, 767, 'alternis gignuntur enim mutantque colorem'; 1009, 'quae corpus inani et quod inane autem est finiri corpore cogit, ut sic alternis infinita omnia reddat'; 1066, 'alternis nobiscum tempora caeli dividere'; 3, 373, 'alternis variare,' and n. — inanis: abl.; cf. 527. — Bock. after Winck. inanist; Br. in Phil. 14, 553 could not decide between inanist and distinctumst; perhaps alternist should be read, if a verb be necessary at all.

525. distinctumst: Lamb. M. Br. Bail.; distinctum, Lachm. Bern. Giuss. Br. and Giuss. infer a lacuna between 524 and 525, and Br. supplies in his Proleg. p. xxxvii

inani (finitumst, et corpore item quod constat inane) distinctumst; Hoerschelmann, Observ. L. Alt. 31, also discovered a lacuna, which he would fill distinctum (est, itidem distinctum est corpore inane, omne quod est) quoniam. There seems no reason for requiring so detailed an expression; the sense can be understood readily.—plenum: probably adjective, as in 527; the understood subject is omne quod est. Discussion in Phil. 14, 553 and 23, 469.—naviter, ‘completely’; see on 3, 676.

526. porro, ‘on the other hand’; so in 529. Susemihl defends ergo following quoniam, 525, by 5, 260. (Phil. 23, 469). Polle, id. 26, 302, would punctuate after Goebel distinctumst, quoniam . . . exstat, nec porro vacuum : sunt ergo.

527. OQ have poena and inani.—pleno again an adj. (sc. spatio); Hoerschelmann would write plenum, retaining inani, thus keeping inane a noun in accordance with Lucret. usage. Polle, Phil. 25, 70 and Stürenberg would reject the verse entirely, and also Neumann, 49; Hoerschelmann (33) would keep it. Edd. quote Ep. ad Herod. 41 of the atom, πλήρη τὴν φύσιν οὐρα. Susemihl, Phil. 44, 75 acknowledges that inane is exceptionally used as an epithet for vacuum. See Tohte’s discussion, 7.—distinguere: 525 = ‘vary,’ M.; ‘durchsetzen,’ not ‘begrenzen,’ Susemihl.

528. plagis extrinsecus: 1042, ‘nec plagae possunt extrinsecus undique summam | conservare omnem.’—Extrinsecus = ἔξωθεν; penitus = ἕνδοθεν, cf. 222–223.—Neumann would read quaes for haec.

529. Note the alliteration.—penitus: M. translates ‘to the core.’ Cf. penitus temptata, 537; see on 3, 273.—retexti: metaphor from weaving; 5, 267, ‘radiisque retextens aetherius sol’; Cic. Orat. 2, 158, ‘reperiunt non modo ea quae iam non possint ipsi dissolvere, sed etiam quibus ante exorsa et potius detexta prope retextantur.’ L. has also textilis, textum, textura, textus. Cf. contextum, 243. With penitus penetrata cf. icimur ictu, 4, 1050. He likes to place in juxtaposition adverbs and verbs of related meaning; etymological similarity in addition he does not often have: but 2, 539, penitus penetrari; 6, 698, penetrare penitus. Retexi seems to be dependent on possunt.

530. temptata labare: cf. 537. Labare, ‘to give way,’ as in 6, 1153, vitai claustra lababant.

531. Br. puts this verse in brackets after 537, spelling superba. It is repeated from 429, where see notes. The reference may be to 511 sq., but there seems to be no passage strictly applicable; for this reason the line is bracketed also by Giuss. Gneisse, 8, rejects the verse after Stürenberg, who thought it nimiae garrulitatis. It is defended by Lohmann, 39, who would refer it to 222–225 (but can that be paulo ante?) M. makes the reference to 485; Bock. prints it after 537 and Bern. refers it to 518–519. Tohte discusses it, 11 sq., and rejects it, 14. Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 312, makes the reference to 221 sq.: 221–224 is the major premise quod non habet inania id perire non potest; 526–527, atomī non habent inane; 528–530, atomī non possunt perire; Ep., ἄτομος . . . οὐ δύναται τυγχῆναι . . . οὐσα . . . ἀμέτροχος κενοῦ (Aet. 1, 3, 18).

532. confidi seems to be used only here by L. The atoms would be more or less hollow if they could be crushed in.

533. findi, Flor. 31; edd., fundī OQ: L. has diffindens in 6, 584 and fissa in 4, 680. Cf. the etymological meaning of άτροψ. Scindi was read in Ald. 1, Bon.,

Juntine.—bina secando: 4, 449, ‘omnia quae tuimur fieri tum bina tuendo.’ For bina without a substantive cf. Cic. ND. 2, 49, ‘si bis bina quot essent didicisset.’—secando seems to have passive meaning here.

534. manabile is διπλός λέγεται. Cf. penetrale frigus, 494. Manare is a favorite word with L. For -bile, active, see II n.

535. penetrale: 2, 382, multo penetratior ignis.—quibus: frigus and ignis; possibly umor.—conficiuntur: on 239.

536. quo magis . . . tam magis: 2, 197–199; 4, 1005. L. never has quam magis . . . tam magis, as Lachm. has shown on 2, 586. In 6, 460 occurs quam quoque magis . . . tanto magis; cf. on 5, 452.—res is nom.

537. rebus: frigus, ignis, etc. Rebus is abl. of means; cf. quibus, 535.—penitus temptata: 529, penitus penetrata; 530, temptata labare.—labascit is ante- and postclassic. 4, 1285, ‘vincitur in longo spatio tamen atque labascit.’

538. Cf. 510.

539. ita uti: cf. 479.

540. fuisset, ‘had been from the beginning.’—Ep. ad Herod. 41, ταῦτα δέ ἐστιν ἀποταμαὶ διατάβλητα, εἰπερ μὴ μέλλει πάντα εἰς τὸ μὴ ὅν φθαρήσεται ἀλλ' ισχὺει τι ὑπομένειν ἐν ταῖς διαλύσεσι τῶν συγκρίσεων κτλ.

541. res quaesque, ‘things severally’; quaesque is not an exact equivalent of omnes.

542. de niloque renata: 674, 757.

543. supra: 149 sq.—nil posse creari, etc.: cf. 265.

544. Cf. 266.

545. debent: said of primordia in 789; 2, 750, 854; of corpora, 2, 972; of semina rerum, 1, 895.

546. quo: i.e. primordia; cf. 57.—supremo tempore: highly poetical; see on 93 and 3, 595.

547. subpeditet: on 3, 10.—rebus reparandis: cf. res reparare, 550; such assonance is very common in L.; 80 n.

548. This line is repeated in 609; 574 is nearly like it, and also 2, 157; cf. also 1, 612. Gneisse, 74, thinks 548–550 are interpolated; refuted by Lohmann, 40.—simplicitate, in the sense ‘singleness,’ is Lucretian. He means that the atoms cannot be impaired in their integrity. Solidam simplicitatem = soliditas; but Giuss., Note L. 10, makes it = continuità materiale senza composizione sostanziale. Pascal, Stud. 42, well explains that the atoms to ισχύοντα ὑπομένειν ἐν ταῖς διαλύσεσι τῶν συγκρίσεων must be πλήρης τὴν φύσιν ὄντα (stressed, solida) and ἀδιάλυτα. Giuss. imagines a lacuna before 548, because 547 finishes the argument paucis versibus (499–500). Cf. Tohte 17; van d. Valk 60; Pascal, Stud. 39.

549. per aevom: also in 583, 952; 5, 61; ‘through the ages,’ ‘forever.’—servata: 1029, ‘summa . . . multos etiam magnos servata per annos.’—ratione alia: because they are solida simplicitate.

550. infinito: assumed; cf. 558, 991, etc.

551–576. ‘If nature had set no limit to the destruction of bodies, all bodies would have long since been destroyed; but now a definite limit is set, since we see things renewed. If the primordia were soft, how could hard things like stones be formed? There are then bodies of solid singleness.’

551. The arrangement of the lines from 503–599 has caused much discussion.

Polle, Phil. 26, 302, reports Sauppe's arrangement as follows: 503-539, 565-576, 584-598, 577-583, 540-564, 599 sq. Christ, QL. 13, proposed 565-576, 584-598, 577-583, 551-564. Susemihl, Phil. 23, 623, arranges in detail: I, 503 principio, 511 praeterea, 520 tum porro, 565 huc accedit, 584 denique; II, 540 praeterea, 577 porro, 551 denique; III, 599 tum porro, 615 praeterea, 628 denique. M. remarks: 'the Juntine puts 577-583 after 627, and 551-564 after 583; Lamb. puts 577-583 after 627; all these transpositions are utterly wrong; the misapprehension of 599-634 is at the bottom of such causeless changes.' Br. in his edition places 577-583 after 550, then 551-576, 584 sq. Bock. prints 551 after 546, and after 564, 548-550. Frerichs, 9, defends the received order: A, I, 1, principio (503-510); 2, praeterea (511-519); 3, tum porro (520-527); 4, haec (528-539); II, praeterea (540-550); III, denique (551-564); B, I, huc accedit (565-576); II, porro (577-583); III, denique (584-598); C, I, tum porro (599-614); II, praeterea (615-627); III, denique (628-634). Gneisse, Jahrb. 123, 502, cannot accept the transition 564 to 565, and objects to porro, 577, as an improper connective. Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 316, defends the Ms. order. Giuss. arranges: 551 Denique, 577 porro, 565 Huc accedit, 584 denique.—This is another sign of the incompleteness of the first book. L. would doubtless have made some change.—Denique, 'again.'—natura parasset recurs 6, 31; natura parat, 4, 785.

552. frangendis rebus: opposite of rebus reparandis, 547. Note rebus, not corporibus.—iam, 'by this time'; 5, 278, 1026.—materiai: at end of the line, as commonly.

553. usque redacta: 4, 374, usque secuta. Redigere occurs also in 791, 2, 752, and elsewhere; it seems to be rare without the preposition in or ad.—aevo priore: 3, 486, aevo futuro.—frangente: cf. 559, 561.

554. a certo tempore, 'within,' i.e. since some fixed time (Frerichs, 5); 767, 'mutantque colorem | et totam inter se naturam tempore ab omni'; 5, 548, 'pariter prima concepta ab origine mundi.' The order is ut nihil, conceptum ex illis, posset. L. is the first to establish a rule by using ab before d, n, r, s, but a before all other consonants; Rolfe, Archiv 10, 470; Woltjer, id. 11, 250; cf. Hertz, 1. Ab before n was not used by the classical poets.

555. conceptum: 2, 545, 'unde ea progigni possit concepta.'—ad summum . . . finis: Br. Giuss.; ad auctum M.; summum . . . finis O, fine Q, finem Q corr.; summa . . . finis Lachm. Bern.; summum . . . florem Lamb., vulg.; in summam . . . finis Bock. explaining finis as ad florem; primum aetatis . . . limen Lotze (Kl. Schrift. III, 1, 105); summum . . . robur Hidén; rursum Frerichs. Finis is probably not masc. in L.; see on 107. Lachm. says summa = universo vivendi actu: aetatis pervadere finis = per omne vitae spatium vadere. The present ed. proposed floris in AJP. 21, 186. Finis is sing. in 953, summai quaedam sit finis eorum, and elsewhere; but L. does not appear certainly to use the gen. sing. Francken, Jahrb. 121, 770, writes fini in the sense usque ad, and also summae: summae is more in L.'s manner than summum. Keller, 39, proposed ad summam . . . finem; Br. formerly (Phil. 23, 471) ad summae . . . finis. It is possible to take finis as gen. sing. in 5, 309, sanctum numen fati protollere finis. Christ, 13, defends summam . . . finem by 2, 1121. Tohte, 22, followed Br. in Jahresb. 7, and Susemihl in Phil. 44, 72, in reading ad summum . . . florem, comparing 564. Ellis,

J. Phil. 15, 10, summum . . . fini: ‘nothing could reach through the crowning point of life with an end.’ M. defends his ad auctum by 2, 1121 and 5, 846. Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 775 thinks that finem was the Ms. reading, and compares cacumen, 2, 1130; aetas adulta is not finis aetatis, but finis crescendi. W. likes ad summum . . . florem, cf. 2, 1116; 1, 564; 5, 847, but suggests summum . . . culmen; culmen is not Lucretian; cf. on 6, 296. Polle, Phil. 26, 303, thinks Lachmann’s summa indefensible; Susemihl, id. 14, 554, favored summam finem, but id. 23, 470 recommends ad summae . . . finis; Everett, Harv. St. 7, 26, proposed ad oram or horam with summam. Bail. regards the verse as corrupt. No satisfactory emendation has yet been made. ‘Retinemus tamen donec melius quid invenietur,’ as Bern. says of the reading he prints. — aetatis, ‘development’; cf. 2, 1120. — pervadere occurs but once in L.; the usual construction has a preposition when the verb means ‘to reach.’

556. nam refers back to redacta forent. Christ (14) objects and would write iam. Susemihl thinks nam refers to rursus refici, 557. Cf. also Edelbluth, 29.

557. rursus: ‘reversing the operation.’ L. is fond of pleonasm with rursus; see on 3, 848. — refici: cf. 562. — qnapropter: cf. Plaut. Amph. 815, qua istae propter, and Lindsay, LL. 569. — longa, etc.: a remarkable example of interlocking; the order is longa infinita aetas omnis diei anteacti temporis. Cf. 2, 1168, ‘tristis item vetulae vitis sator atque vietae’; 5, 52, ‘cum bene praesertim multa ac divinitus ipsis | immortalib[us] de divis dare dicta suerit,’ and on 123. Kraetsch, 54, explains infinita longa temporis aetas superiorum saeculorum omnium. Polle, Phil. 26, 303, thinks the Ms. reading is hard to defend. Giuss. makes diei aetas = aetas; the asyndeton of the adj. is softened by distance. Cf. Ennius, Ann. 401, longinqua dies confederal aetas. — diei: 233, ‘infinita aetas consumpsa anteacta diesque’ Faber and Madvig conjectured dies et for diei; Sauppe, longa dies in infinita aetate, showing that et does not come at the end of the hexameter in good poets. Cf. Br. Jahresb. 9, 154. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 118, would join longa diei = longaevi. Tac. Ann. 1, 20, vetus operis ac laboris, with which may be compared 2, 650, nil indiganostris; 2, 843, secreta temporis; 6, 69, alienaque pacis in L.

558. See on 233. Omnis is nom.; see on 7. Cf. ante acta vetustas temporis aeterni, 3, 972.

559. adhuc, ‘up to the present’; 5, 378, ‘ex infinito . . . tempore adhuc,’ 1027, ‘nec potuisset adhuc perducere saecula propago.’ — disturbans dissoluens: for the assonance see on 3, 353; other examples of repetition of dis in 2, 953, ‘discutere ac dissolvere’; 1, 651, ‘disiectis disque supatis’; 5, 360, ‘discedere dissoluique’; Kraetsch, 5. Note the basic meaning of frango, disturbo (turba), dissolvere (solvo).

560. relicuo reparari: note the assonance. — posset: the subject is the omitted antecedent of quod: id was supplied in the old vulgate from inf. MSS. — relicuo: for the length of re- see on 228; for the four syllables on 3, 648 and cf. 4, 976; it occurs only in these three places in L.

561. Cf. 577. — reddita . . . manet = reddita est et manet; cf. 203.

562. manet: variation for est; cf. on 363.

563. Note a kind of interlocking: finita tempora and generatim rebus go together. — finita tempora: 5, 314, aevi . . . finiti. — rebus: dative; cf. 844, corporibus finem esse secundis.

564. Punctuation within the first foot is a blemish.—stare = esse: 5, 199, ‘tanta stat praedita culpa’; 1, 747, ‘pausam stare fragori.’—aevi: 3, 1008, ‘aevo florente’ and note there.—contingere: 5, 847, ‘aetatis tangere florem’; 5, 391, ‘contingere finem.’

565. huc accedit uti: one of his prosaic formulas: 192 n. Br. brackets 565–576: ‘argumentum neque cum eis quae praecedunt neque cum eis quae sequuntur ullo vinculo continentur,’ Proleg. xxxviii. I can see no objection to this addition: why should not L. guard against misapprehension of bodies apparently soft? Bern. calls the argument a corollary.—solidissima: the superlative occurs also in 951 and in Ov. M. 15, 262. Bock. thinks its use vulgar; cf. parvissima, 615, etc.

566. M. absurdly reads and punctuates possit tamen, omnia, reddi. He is liberal enough with his pointing when he forces a meaning. MSS. and edd. possint. Br. interprets (Proleg. xxxviii), ‘omnes res, quae molles fiunt, possint probari atque ostendi quo pacto ex solidis primordiis fiant molles,’ quoting Bern. Praef. viii. Epic. ad Herod. 55, βέλτιον γάρ . . . τὰ καὶ τὰ πάθη . . . διοδοθήσει. See Duff in Cl. R. 13, 170; Polle, Phil. 26, 303. — cum constant: cf. on 3, 363. — reddi: i.q. rationem reddi ‘explained’; 2, 179, ‘confirmare aliquis ex rebus reddere multis.’ Cf. ratio reddi, 572. Bock. strangely makes reddi = refici.

567. An unmusical verse.—aer aqua terra vapores: a reference to the traditional four elements; cf. 714–715.

568. Lachm. puts this verse after 585; Bentl. rejected it; Marull. and Juntine read fiunt . . . geruntur, and fiunt in 567. Lamb. cumque gerantur. Creech wished to eject it; discussion in Phil. 14, 555; 23, 627; 26, 303. Bock. puts it after 571.

569. admixtum: on 369. Cic. Acad. 2, 121, ‘qui asperis et levibus et hamatis uncinatisque corporibus concreta haec esse dicat interiecto inani.’—semel: see on 3, 647. Goebel and Bock. read simul, as Pius did before them. Giuss. comp. Epic. ad Herod. 57, ἐνεδίπλα τῷ εἴρη ὅτι κτλ.

570. The third foot does not often end in a dactyl: cf. 4, 493, et quaecunque coloribus sint. L. Müller, RM. 217, cites these two verses and Hor. Ep. 1, 18, 52; 2, 3, 41 as the only classical examples of spondee or dactyl closing the third foot.

571. validi silices: 2, 449, ‘validi silices ac duri robora ferri.’ Validus is an epitheton ornans: see on 3, 126.

572. funditus modifies carebit: see on 478. The assonance funditus . . . fundimenti is in his manner, although Bentley preferred solidamentati.

573. principio fundamenti, ‘beginning of a foundation,’ i.e. ‘a foundation to start with’ (Lee); ‘a principle of solid stability,’ Giuss. Cf. principium cedendi, 339.

574. Note the alliteration.—solida simplicitate: cf. 548, 612.

575. condenso magis conciliatu: 2, 100, ‘quaecunque magis condenso conciliatu’; 6, 100, ‘magis denso sunt agmine’; 4, 57, ‘partim contexta magis condensaque.’ For the position of magis cf. 2, 385, ‘suptilem magis’; 5, 111, ‘multo certa ratione magis.’—conciliatu is a Lucretian word, a translation of σύνθετος, and occurs only in the ablative singular. The classical word is conciliatio, metrically impossible in the ablative.

576. artari is used this once by L.; it is not in Cic. L. has the adverb; 610 n.—ostendere, ‘manifest.’

577-598. If no limit has been set for the breaking up of bodies, yet elementary bodies do survive; they cannot survive if they are fragile: but since things have a limit of growth and development, there must be unchangeable elements, or progeny would not be faithful to its progenitor.

577. Br. puts 577-583 after 550; Giuss. after 564; Bock. ejects the lines altogether. The older editors put them after 634. Van d. Valk, 64, shows that the passage contains the second (infrangibility) of three arguments; the first (hardness) being contained in 565-576, and the third (immutability) in 584-598.—Thales, Aristotle, Chrysippus, Descartes supported the infinite divisibility of matter; the Epicureans denied it.

578. The third ictus syllable may be a monosyllabic disjunctive or copulative conjunction, or a preposition.—tamen, 'nevertheless,' even in this present time; cf. on 3, 553. Si may be taken, also, as = etiam si of a supposition granted for the sake of argument. Heinze (Comment. on Book 3, p. 132) explains ex tempore quamvis longo.—ex aeterno tempore: as if from a terminus a quo; cf. 550, 991.—quaerque corpora, 'various bodies,' constituents of things; cf. on 129.—Lamb. Lachm. quaedam.

579. nunc etiam also in 5, 40, 797; etiam nunc, 5, 884.—superare: of primordia, 790, 'immutabile enim quiddam superare necesset, | ne res ad nilum redigantur funditus omnes'; 672, 'aliquit superare necesset incolume.' Superare = superesse and used in the infin. in this sense, as M. remarks.—rebus, dative. M. explains superare cuique rei sua corpora.

580. clueant = sint; on 119. For its use with a participle cf. 4, 53, cluet fusa vagari; 2, 351, nota cluere, 525, infinita cluere.—temptata: cf. 537.

581. quoniam: 'if,' for quoniam refers back to si, 577; 'since on this (false) supposition.'—praedita constant: 236, 'sunt natura praedita'; 2, 758, 'sunt praedita'; 972, 'esse ullo praedita sensu'; 5, 199, 'tanta stat praedita culpa'; 1, 625, 'praedita partibus extent,' 848, 'praedita constant natura'; 5, 144, 'constant divino praedita sensu'; 6, 219, 739, 'natura praedita constent.' These verbs are all verbs of existence.

582. discrepat: only here in L. It is the contrary of convenit, 881; 3, 455. The construction with infin. seems unexampled: other writers use it with a relative clause and quin: see lex. In 4, 766, dissentit takes an infin. being, like discrepat, in effect a verb of narration.

583. For the metrical structure see on 3, 907.—vexata per aevom: servata per aevom, 549.

584. denique iam: 915; 2, 431; 'finally now.' Note the unusual assonance iam quoniam.—generatim, 563.—finis: finita, 561. Giuss. places 584 sq. after 576.

585. crescendi, edd.; crescendis OQ; 2, 1116, crescendi finem.—vitamque tenendi: 3, 257, vitam retinere. Ald. 2 and Junt. tuendi; Cic. ND. 2, 134, 'nam cum tribus rebus animantium vita teneatur.'

586. queant: it is unnecessary, as Kelsey remarks, to supply facere. Bacon, 'the best condition is not to will, the second not to can.'—foederata natura: there is law in nature, and this law has the character of a compact; both principles are assumed. Manilius uses the expression.—'Not what we understand by laws of nature; that is, uniformities of causation underlying all phenomenal differences, to understand which is an exaltation of human dignity . . . but the limiting possibilities of existence, the barriers against which human hopes and aspirations dash themselves in vain . . . an objective logic which guards us against fallacies instead of enabling us to arrive at positive conclusions,' Benn, Greek Philosophers, 2, 101.—See on 3, 416.

587. sancitum: i.e. per foedera naturai. Elsewhere he uses only the pf. part. of this word, in its contracted form. Sancitum is quoted from Cass. Sev.—quandoquidem: 3, 457 n. There is but one other example of elision of a middle syll. in this place, viz. in 226, where see n.

588. constant, OQ, M. Bock. Giuss.; constent Lachm. Bern. Br. Bail. Lachm. says Lucr. does not use the indic. with quin except with quin etiam (731) or quin ipse; but here quin does not mean 'but' in the sense of 'that not' or 'without' joined to an English participial clause; it is corroborative, meaning 'really,' 'verily,' 'but,' as in Ter. HT. 581, 'credo: neque id iniuria: quin mihi molestumst.' Faber was right in interpreting imo constant; the old reading quando shows that the difficulty was felt early. Giuss. would have quin = quin etiam.

589. variae volucres: a phrase repeated at 2, 145, 344; 4, 1007; 5, 801, 1078. It is interpreted in 5, 825, 'volucres variantibus formis,' and means there 'painted'; see on 3, 315, and cf. Georg. 3, 264, 'lynxes Bacchi variae' (spotted); Aen. 4, 525, 'pictaeque volucres.' But variae may mean 'different' (3, 32 n.), referring to species, when in ordine would refer to the genus. Varius is often ambiguous in L.—in ordine: i.e. generation after generation; cf. 4, 973, 'dies multos ex ordine ludis.'

590. generalis, 'generic,' is very rare. It is cited from Cic. Inv. 1, 10, constitutio generalis. In the meaning 'general' it is common from the Aug. period.—corpore inesse: see on 3, 634.

591. inmutabili', Lachm. for inmutabiles. Bock. alone of modern edd. keeps inmutabile of the old vulgate, taking corpus as 'flesh.' Winckelmann would read inmutabile materies . . . debet. The s was so weak that these three forms were carelessly sounded alike: 2, 623 n.

592. debent: sc. omnia (588) or res (585).

593. possent, OQ edd.; possint M. Winck. Dr. II, § 550 c defends the MSS., explaining constet 'um die Behauptung zu mildern (denn dürfte sich auch nicht bestimmten lassen)'. He also compares 5, 1056, 'quid in hac mirabile tantoperest re, | si genus humanum . . . notaret.' See also Schroeter, Conditionalsätze d. L. 21, 'folgte nun constaret, so würde dem negativen Urtheil, das auch dem Hauptsatze dann zu Grunde läge, der Charakter der Bestimmtheit aufgedrückt sein, die Folge als ganz unzweifelhaft aus der Bedingung sich ergebend hingestellt werden.' Goebel would write constat 594, possunt 597.—revicta: 5, 409, 'cadunt vires aliqua ratione revictae.' The re- is merely intensive here.

594. quid possit . . . haerens, 596; see on 75–77, where the same words occur. Gneisse, 65, thinks incertum . . . haerens is all interpolated; refuted by Lohmann, 19.

597. possent, OQ, edd.; possint M.—generatim: 20, generatim saecula propagent. Saecula is here subject.—referre: 4, 1218, 'fit quoque ut interdum similes existere avorum | possint et referant proavorum saepe figuram,' 1224, 'maiorumque refert voltus vocesque comasque.'

599—634. 'There is an extreme point of each atom, which cannot have independent existence: atoms are then again of solid singleness. If there were not such least parts, then the smallest bodies would consist of infinite parts, and what difference would there be between the largest and the smallest? Again, if there were resolution into these least parts, the latter could not have the qualities which birth-producing matter has, i.e. combination, weight, strikings, and the-like.'

599. See Munro's note, who says among other things, 'L. therefore seeks to maintain at the same time that cardinal point in the epicurean physics that atoms are impenetrable and indestructible, and yet possessed of weight, shape, and extension, and to shew how particles thus endowed are incapable of further division: atoms have parts, but these parts are minima, the ἐλάχιστα of Epicurus, not able to exist alone, abiding therefore in the atom from all eternity in unchangeable juxta-position,' Munro infers a hiatus after 599 i.q. corporibus, quod iam nobis minimum esse videtur. | debet item ratione pari minimum esse cacumen | corporis, etc. Lachm. changes quoniam to quia nam, Bern. to quod iam; Br. follows M. except in writing quoniamst. Woltjer, Lucr. Ph. 26, thinks the MSS. are sound, and there is no necessity of hiatus; so Goebel, and Albert in Phil. 56, 251; L. is not bound to consider everything suggested by Epicurus. Stürenberg has a long discussion, p. 32. Lotze, Kl. Schrift. 3, 1, 106 sq., would write tum porro quoniam extremum est quoiusque cacumen. Winck. proposed quod iam est extremum cunque cacumen. Susemihl and Br. defended quod iam in Phil. 14, 555, and Bouterwek, Vict. 16, quoniam. Woltjer later in Jahrb. 123, 772, while favoring quoniam and illius thinks four verses are missing, corresponding to Epic. ad Herod. 58, τὰντη τῷ ἀναλογίᾳ νομάστεον καὶ τὸ ἐν τῷ ἀτόμῳ ἐλάχιστον κεχρήσθαι. μικρότητι γάρ ἑκένο δῆλον ὡς διαφέρει τοῦ κατὰ τὴν αἰσθησιν θεωρουμένου, ἀναλογίᾳ δὲ τῷ αὐτῷ κέχρηται. Susemihl, Phil. 44, 75, is not satisfied with M.'s supplement. — quodque, 'a kind of.' — cacumen: cf. 749. Epic. ad Herod. 59, ἔτι τε τὰ ἐλάχιστα καὶ διωγῆ πέρατα δεῖ νομίζειν τῶν μηκών. Creech and Lotze explained cacumen by the mathematical point, an unfortunate comparison; see Polle, Phil. 26, 303. Epic. wrote Περὶ τῆς ἐν τῷ ἀτόμῳ γωνίας.

600. corporis, 'atom,' with Woltjer, Lucr. Ph. 26; but Susemihl, Phil. 14, 555, thinks the discussion is too long to justify that meaning. — illius: Lachm. and Bern. ullius, cf. Grasberger 47; Winck. and Br. illius; defended by Christ 14. Lotze ullerius quo. Br. and Susemihl, Phil. 14, 555, defended ullius formerly. Bouterwek changed to cuiusvis because he regarded ullius without a negative as not Lucretian: but see on 3, 640, and Polle, Phil. 26, 303. — cernere, 'distinguish': 2, 312, 'omnis enim longe nostris ab sensibus infra | primorum natura iacet: quapropter, ubi ipsa | cernere iam nequeas,' etc.

601. iam, 'on and on,' in a series, 'quite'; i.e. 'finally the senses cannot discern.' Cf. 2, 314, 333. — nequeant, Lachm. writes as an interrogative. — id, cacumen.

602. minima: cf. Aet. 1, 3, 18 (p. 286 D.), εἰρηται δὲ ἀτομος οὐχ ὅτι ἔστι δλαχτοῦ, ἀλλ' ὅτι οὐ δύναται τυγχῆναι, ἀνάθης οὐσα καὶ ἀμέτοχος κενοῦ. — natura, 'substance'; 3, 137 n. — fuit, 'has never existed.'

603. valebit: 3, 257 n.

604. alterius: for alīus, as usual: 3, 97 n. — ipsum: sc. cacumen. — primaque: M. translates 'and so a first.' — una, 'single,' M. The old vulgate was īma; favored by Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 273. Epic. ad Herod. 58, ἔξης τε θεωροῦμεν ταῦτα ἀνδρῶν πρώτου καταρχόμενοι. The cacumen is the first part of the atom and so leads the atom in a manner, as the beginning of the atom must be the angle of its sides. There are several variant readings of this difficult line: see Forbiger's note. Winck. translates primaque et una 'the first and only part,' which Polle, Phil. 26, 303, favors.

605. Notice the harsh elisions. — inde: join with ex ordine. — ex ordine: in order one after the other, without intermission of void. Cf. 5, 418, 679. — partes: i.e. cacumina.

606. agmine condenso, 'in close ranks.' Cf. Georg. 1, 322, agmen aquarum; in L. agmine dulci of water 5, 271; 6, 637; denso agmine nubes, 6, 100. Cartault, augmine. — corporis, 'atom.'

607. constare, 'exist,' as in 480 and often.

608. haerere unde: the antecedent of unde must be supplied. M. cites Hirtius BG, 8, 14, 5, 'aciemque eo loco constituit unde tormento tela conici possent.' — nulla: Flor. 31, edd., for ulla: ut nequeant ulla Q corr. Lamb. Roos, Lotze. — revelli he has only here (metr. gr.?); avelli occurs several times: e.g. in 613.

609 = 548. Gneisse (73) regards the verse as genuine here.

610. cohaerent . . . arte: 6, 1010, arte conexa cohaeret.

611. illarum: Preiger, Oppenrieder, Winck. Lotze, Purmann (Jahrb. 115, 273), recent edd.; illorum OQ; ullorum old vulg. Lachm. Bern. It refers to partibus (if not to cacumina). Illarum occurs nowhere in O and Q: Br. has introduced it at 5, 1187 and 4, 62, and Giuss. in 4, 1199. Possibly illorum was a feminine form in L.'s time. Harum does not occur in our MSS.: e coni. in 1, 450. Earum in 3, 900; 5, 532. — conventu: a word L. avoids, using it only here and in 4, 784.

612. sed magis = sed potius: 2, 97; 3, 819, 982, etc.; so previously in 481. — pollentia: cf. 574.

613. iam: as in 601.

614. natura: as in 224. Here is the usual weakness of appeal to a first cause or governing principle, which appears so often in the poem. — semina: for if the seeds were to be destroyed things could not grow.

615. parvissima is used because minima is restricted to its technical meaning: see on 3, 199. Rönsch, Itala und Vulgata, 279, quotes the form also from Vegetius, Celsus, Acron ad Hor. C. 2, 15, 14, and other late authors. — Hildebrandt, De primordiis, 19, discusses the question of the minima.

616. There is infinite divisibility of matter, still the minimae partes cannot be divided. The modern atom cannot be divided. Epic. ad Herod. 56, πρὸς δὲ τοῖς οὐ δεῖ νομίζειν ἐν τῷ ὠρισμένῳ σώματι ἀπέρρους ὕγους εἶναι οὐδέ ὄπηλικους οὐδὲ οὐ μόνον τὴν εἰς ἀπειρον τομήν ἐν τοῦλαττον ἀναρπέτον, τὰ μὴ πάντα διθερῆ ποιῶμεν καν ταῖς περιλήψεσι τῶν ἀθρόων εἰς τὸ μὴ ὃν ἀναγκαῖώμεθα τὰ οὐτα θλίβοντες *καταραλίσκειν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὴν μετάβασιν μὴ νομιστέον γενέσθαι εὐ τοῖς ὠρισμένοις εἰς ἀπειρον μηδὲ ἐπὶ τοῦλαττον. οὐτε γὰρ θητα, ἐπειδὸν ἀπαξ τις εἶτη δὲ τοις ἀπειροις ὄγκοις τοις ὑπάρχουσιν, οἱ ὀπῆλικοι οὐτε, ἵστι νοήσαι· τῶς τ' ἀντὶ τοῦτο πεπαρασμένον εἴη τὸ μέγεθος; ex partibus: before p L. writes e except before pars, and sometimes even with it; Hertz, 5.*

617. quippe ubi: cf. 182 n.—partis pars: for repetition see on 3, 71. Pars = half; lex. s.v. II, G; Lucr. 2, 200.—habet, ‘must have.’ Lane, 1624.

618. praeſiniet: only here in L. Wakef. explains ‘prae illa, quasi in eius fronte scilicet, finem ponet, quem transgredi et perrumpere non liceat.’ The old vulgate had perfiniet.

619. Evelyn translated: What difference would there be | Betwixt the least and greatest quantitie?—inter . . . escit: perhaps a case of tmesis, but L. does not join this preposition closely to verbs. Cf. inter saepa, 354; inter cursant, 3, 262; inter iecta, 3, 860; inter saepit, 4, 948; inter rumpere, 5, 287, 289; inter currere, 5, 1374; inter fugit, 6, 332; in Müller, RM. 370. Ennius, Ann. 494, has superescit. Eſco is the inceptive of ves; see Lindsay, LL. 479. Erit would be unmetrical here; Bock. reads minimumque quod hincit.—minimam: i.e. minimam partem rerum.

620. dilstet, OQ, Giuss. and most edd.; distant old vulgate, Winck. Br.; see on 3, 715. Bock. reads haut distant after Wakef., who proposed haut distet.—funditus omnis: 478 n.

621. summa: sc. rerum.

622. infinitis: edd. notice the fallacy of Kanada that all infinities are equal, and the refutation by Newton: see M.’s note.—aequo, ‘in the same manner’; pariter, ‘in the same degree’; Död.

623. Note the alliteration.—quod, ‘which fallacy.’ The thing believed sometimes is put in the acc. with credo: see lex. s.v. II, C. 2.—quoniam: as often (2, 95, 478, 522; 3, 791) the second word metr. gr.; cf. on 4.—ratio vera: on 498.—reclamat negatque: L. uses reclamo but once. See on 337.

624. victus fateare necessest: also in 5, 343; fateare necessest, 3, 470 n.

625. Note the alliteration.—ea, ‘atoms,’ which cannot be mathematical points, since points have no extension.—iam: 601 n.—praedita, 581 n.—extent, expuere, 2, 1041; exurgendi, 3, 174; extat, 3, 194; expirant, 3, 720; exurgendi, 3, 174; exanguis, 3, 721; extiterint, 5, 70; exilit, 6, 163; extractis, 6, 268; exultant, 6, 550; existit, 6, 660; exotvit, 6, 878; 3, 97 n.

626. constant, M. Ald. edd.; constant OQ.—quaes quoniam sunt: the order is metr. gr.; sunt quoniam quaes would have been worse.

627. Too many elisions.—illa, the atoms.—solida atque aeterna: 500.—fatemendum (est): see on 111.

628. si, OQ, M. Br. Bail. Lotze, Oppenrieder, Winckelmann; ni, Lamb. Lachm. Bern.; see Br. Proleg. x; Hildebrandt, 23.—minimas partis: sc. atomorum.—resolvi, 1055.—‘We do not assert that there is an absolute limit to the divisibility of matter: what we assert is, that after we have divided a body into a certain finite number of constituent parts called molecules, that any further division of these molecules will deprive them of the properties which give rise to the phenomena observed in the substance,’ Clerk Maxwell in Masson, At. Th. 22.

629. natura creatrix: 2, 1117; 5, 1362. ‘quid est aliud quam deus ipse Sto- corum?' Hignard, De Phil. Poem. cond. apud. L. 35. — Sen. NQ. 6, 32, 6, 'rerum natura te quae genuit exspectat.'

630. iam nil: 'nothing whatever'; present as regards valeret, in comparison with consuisset. — ex illis reparare: cf. 3, 965. — eadem: sc. natura.

631. quia: when the second foot ends in a word, the foot is regularly a dactyl; so 632. — nullis, OQ, Wakef. and recent editors; defended by Purmann (Jahrb. 67, 669), Oppenrieder, Lotze, Winck.; multis Lamb. Lachm. Bern. — aucta: 3, 626 n.

632. ea is probably nom., but may be acc. — debet: Lotze proposed debent, genitialis habere | materiae varios. — genitalis materies occurs only here: see on 167.

633. varios in thought goes with all the nouns. — conexus: a Lucret. word, used also by Varro and Vitruvius; see on 3, 557. — pondera: 2, 725, 'semina cum porro distinet, differre necessum | intervalla vias conexus pondera plagas | concursus motus.'

634. res quaeque geruntur: 472, 482, etc. — concursus: (concursio, Cic. Fin. I. 20) σύγκρουσις. — motus: rō d̄uepēs oīk t̄vōt̄xeraū k̄neūt̄bāi, Arist. Phys. 6, 10, I (Pascal, Stud. 56). — quae, Marull. edd.; cf. 567; quas, OQ; quos, Pascal.

635–644. 'So those who, like Heraclitus, think that primal matter is fire are mistaken; but the foolish Greeks are easily deceived by his obscure statements.'

635. materiem: subject, not predicate. Verses 635–636 recur at 705–706, and because quapropter usually introduces a conclusion, not a transition, Gneisse, 30–32, thinks they do not belong here; he is refuted by Lohmann, 14, who yet rightly thinks the poet would have made some change if he had had the opportunity. 'Quapropter positis et stabilitis Epicuri principiis, aliorum sententias convellit,' Creech. Giuss. infers a lacuna before 635.

636. atque for et, metr. gr.—igni: 'It is clear that we must not interpret this to mean that Heraclitus regarded fire as the original material or fundamental element of things, after the manner of the Ionics. If he ascribed reality only to the becoming, it is impossible that he should have set by the side of this becoming, yet another elemental matter as a fundamental substance. . . . We might name fire, in the Heraclitic sense, the symbol or the manifestation of the becoming, but it is also with him the substratum of movement, i.e. the means with which the power of movement, which is antecedent to all matter, serves itself in order to bring out the living process of things;' Schwegler-Seelye, Hist. of Phil. 33. 'Das ewige Weltganze identifiziert Heraklit mit dem Feuer selbst, das bald erlischt, bald sich wiederum entzündet. . . . Die Stoiker haben in ihrer Naturphilosophie und Theologie die Lehre Heraklits wieder aufgenommen'; Ueberweg-Heinze, Gesch. d. Phil.<sup>6</sup> I, 47, 49. 'Das Feuer ist ihm nicht eine unveränderliche Substanz, aus der die abgeleiteten Dinge zusammengesetzt wären, die aber in dieser Verbindung qualitativ unverändert bliebe, wie die Elemente des Empedocles, oder die Urstoffe des Anaxagoras, sondern es ist das Wesen, welches unaufhörlich in alle Elemente übergeht, der allgemeine Nahrungsstoff, der in ewigem Kreislauf alle Theile des Weltganzen durchdringt, in jedem ein antere Beschaffenheit annimmt, die Einzeldinge erzeugt und wieder in sich auflöst. . . . Unter dem Feuer oder dem Feuerstrahl verstand Heraclit nicht blos das sichtbare Feuer, sondern überhaupt das Warme, den Wärmestoff, oder die trockenen Dünste, wie er spätere bezeichnen, wie er denn aus diesem Grund statt des Feuers auch geradezu den Hauch, die ψυχή setzt;' Zeller, Phil. d. Gr.<sup>6</sup>, 1, 647. 'Perverse L. Heraclitum intellexit ignem statuisse tamquam vulgare ignis elementum. Huic enim ignis esse videbatur summa vis caelestis et divina, quae et subtilissima esset et semper in motu, omnia penetrans et per omnia vigens, denique summa causa omnis vitae, omnis motus, omnis intellectus. . . . Nur neuere, in den Sinn der griechische Lehre nicht eingedrungene Berichterstatter fassen das heraklitische Feuer als das in die Dinge sich verwandelnde Element und lassen diese durch Verdichtung und Verdünnung aus ihm hervorgehn. Wie verbreitet diese falsche Auffassung schon zu Lucretius Zeiten war, sieht man aus seiner Kritik der heraklitischen Lehre; Hildebrandt, 24 sq., quoting Brandis, Gesch. d. Philos. 1, 67. The opposition to Heraclitus was traditional. Diogenes of Enoanda, 18, c 9, κακῶς, Ἡράκλειτος, πῦρ εἶναι στοιχεῖον λέγει· οὐδὲ γὰρ ἀφθαρτὸν ἔστιν, ἐπει φθειρμένον δρῶμεν αὐτὸν, οὐτανά γεννᾶν. . . .

637 is repeated in 2, 176. See on 3, 105.—videntur, a true passive: 3, 182 n.

638. Note the alliteration at close and the interlocking.—Heraclitus of Ephesus, younger than Pythagoras, older than Parmenides: his two cardinal principles; τάρτα ρέι and πύρος ἀρραβεῖται τάρτα καὶ πῦρ ἀτάρτων, ὥσπερ χρυσοῦ χρήματα καὶ χρημάτων χρυσός: see Ueberweg-Heinze,<sup>6</sup> I, 44 sq.—init proelia, ‘enters the lists.’ Georg. 4, 314, ‘prima leues ineunt si quando proelia Parthi’; Aen. 7, 647, ‘primus init bellum.’—quorum refers back to qui, 635.

639. clarus is opposed to obscuram in his manner.—ob, added by Festus.—obscuram: Tert. de Anima 2, ‘ut merito Heraclitus ille tenebrosus vastiores caligines animadvertens apud examinatores animae.’ Cic. Fin. 2, 15, ‘quod (i.e. ut non intellegatur) duobus modis sine reprehensione fit, si aut de industria facias, ut Heraclitus, cognomento qui σκορεὺς perhibetur, quia de natura nimis obscure memoravit, aut cum rerum obscuritas, non verborum, facit, ut non intellegatur oratio, qualis est in Timaeo Platonis; ND. 1, 74, ‘nec consulte dicis occulte, tamquam Heraclitus.’ ‘His enigmatic philosophy is addressed to the fit and few, without regard to the multitude ‘baying like curs at a stranger’;’ Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, I, 61.—inanis, like the Stoics (‘empty headed’).

640. quamde: ‘quamde pro quam usos esse antiquos, cum multi veteres testimonio sunt . . . Lucretius,’ Festus, 261 M. The de is a suffix seen in inde, ἐνθέδε; Lindsay, LL. 570, 607.—gravis, ‘serious,’ ‘sensible,’ like the Epicureans. Graios: on 66.—vera requirunt: veritas is not quoted before Cicero and would hardly be good Latin in the sense here demanded.

641. Note the effect of the alliteration.—stolidi is used in 1068, where a Stoic doctrine is discussed. Such people persist in their error: stulti (3, 1023) have no capacity for sound judgment.—magis: with the verbs.—admirantur: Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 58, mirantur amantque.

642. inversis, ‘perverted and involved.’ Ter. HT. 372, inversa verba.—latitania of things is poetical.—cernunt: their vision is so sharp.

643. constituant, ‘set up’; 743; 2, 419.—belle tangere, ‘prettily tickle,’ M. Belle occurs only here in L. Wakef. compares Pers. I, 107, ‘teneras mordaci radere vero | auriculas.’

644. lepidio occurs only here in L., but lepos is one of his favorite words. For its use with sonore, cf. I, 934, etc., musaeo lepore.—fucata he has only here: the underlying metaphor is ‘dye’ or ‘paint’; here ‘embellish.’ Cf. I, 936 sq., where the bitter draught of doctrine is sweetened. Cf. the English expression ‘tone color.’

645-689. 'How can things be made of fire? Condensation and rarefaction would not avail, for temperature would vary; and they even deny void, which is necessary for this condensation. But if they think fire is extinguished, then all things will come from nothing. There are certain bodies of constant nature which make up fire and other things too.'

645. possent, OQ, edd., except M. and Bock., who write possint. The same considerations apply here as in 356, 593, 597; cf. also 5, 185-186. Requiero is parenthetical and does not affect the tense of possent.—cur, 'how.'

646. ex . . . creatae: cf. 763; 2, 790, etc. Roos proposed et vero si sunt igni vereque creatae: OQ have uro, O corr. and inf. MSS. vero, Q. corr. uno.

647. nil prodesset is one idea, hence enim is regular in its position.—calidum: see on 3, 126.—denserier: on 3, 67. Ηὗται εἴραι στοιχεῖον, καὶ πύρος ἀμορθῆ τὰ πάντα, δραίσθει καὶ πυκνώσθε γύρωμένα, DL. 9, 1, 8.

648. rarefieri: a Lucretian word; see on 3, 442.

649. naturam, 'natural quality'; eight times in the poem.—super, 'as well,' M. For the adverb cf. 6, 514, Aen. 10, 488, and on 1, 39.—haberent, Flor. 30, edd.; haberet, O, habere, QG.

650. conductis: 3, 534 n. The abl. abs. represents a protasis.

651. languidior, 'fainter'; 5, 758, 'solque suos etiam dimittere languidus ignis.'—porro, 'on the other hand.'—disque supatis: for the tmesis see on 3, 343. For the u instead of i cf. lubido, 4, 1046; instead of o, Acherunte, 3, 984, rutunda, 4, 502; for e, dicundumst, 1, 382; all archaisms. For the assonance with disiectis see on 1, 559.

652. The order is nil est quod amplius hoc rearis posse fieri. Hoc is abl.

653. causis: by rarefaction, etc., of fire.—nendum, 'not to mention.' Ter. HT. 452, 'satrapa si siet | amator, numquam sufferre eius sumptus queat: | nendum tu possis'; see Richardson, De Dumi particula, 15; Walden, Nendum, in Harv. St. Vol. II.—variantia, 3, 318 n.

654. rarisque: not ve, because the final result comes from both qualities.

655. id quoque is absolute. Vahlen, Berlin Index, 1881, 4, compares Plaut. Men. 107, 'id quoque iam cari, qui instruontur, deserunt' of the MSS., where Ritschl reads 'sed quoniam' but Leo retains the MSS.; and L. 6, 145, where Lachm. reads id quoque for Ms. fit q.; and also Ov. Tr. 5, 3, 53, 'id quoque, si vestrum merui candore favorem,' where Merkel reads idque ita si. Cf. quod, 221 n.—faciant, 'assume,' 783; 3, 878; 4, 825; 5, 1187; eight times in the poem according to Reichenhart, Inf. 504.—rebus: dative.

656. denseri: cf. 395 sq.—rarique here = rarive.

657. contraria, 'contrarities.'—rursum, Winck. Br. Giuss.; nasci M. Ritschl; muse O, mu QG; mussant Flor. 31; multi Lamb. I, Itali; adesse Lachm.; amussim Bern., who, in Rh. M. 8, 159, would interpret contraria amussim 'gerade entgegen-ge-setzt'; cf. Polle, Phil. 26, 305; in usu Bock. Palmer; mixta Pascal (Stud. 66).

658. fugitant is intensive, as in 4, 324, 'splendida porro oculi fugitant vitantque tueri.' Its use with inf. is poetical: Dr. § 424, 5.—inane purum, 'unmixed void.'

659. Note the alliteration.—ardua: here only in L.; see lex. for ardua montis, terrarum, Alpium, from poets and late authors. The climbing of mountains is avoided; the reward is noticed in 2, 7.—dum is here apparently causal.—vera viai: 315 n. For the gen. ending, 29 n.

660. rursum, 'on the other hand.'—cernunt, 'geistige Wahrnehmung bezeichnet das Verbum nur 1, 660 und 2, 985,' Reichenhart, Inf. 485.—rebus is probably abl. as the dative is rare with eximo.

661. que, 'and so.'

662. corpus, 'solid body.'—mittere: for emittere: 5, 593, 'queat tantum sol mittere lumen.'—raptim, Pontanus, edd.; raptis OQ; natum, Marullus. M. translates 'briskly.'

663. aestifer: 3, 11 n.—iacit: 2, 675, 'ignem iacere et lumen summittere.'—atque: metr. gr.; on 636.—vaporem, 'heat'; 3, 126 n.

664. The ictus after the principal caesura comes on e in 3, 1001; 5, 949. The third ictus syllable may be a copulative or disjunctive conjunction or a preposition; cf. 835, 836, 854, 857.—ut videas: cf. 2, 269; 3, 348.—e esse, 'consists of.'—stipatis: cf. 329.

665. quod si forte: a common formula; see on 3, 533.—alia: i.e. than by admitting void. MSS. have mia or perhaps onia; late edd. since Lachm. alia; Polle in Phil. 25, 271 aliqua, appealing to 1, 593. Br. in Jahresb. 24 calls the use a grecism.—credunt: Stoicks; the present is real, as in 658.—potesse: 3, 319 n.

666. ignis for ignem, metr. gr. Keller, Lat. Sprachgesch. II, 315, says that acc. ignis is found 17 times in L., ignes 5 times.—coetu (Pontanus, edd.), as in 2, 920, coetu concilioque; coetus, OQ, is retained by Pascal (Stud. 69).—stingui: 486 n.—mutareque: que is not usually added to a short final syllable in e according to the best poetical usage; yet Cic. in prose has docereque, cohibereque; see Reid on Acad., p. 210, and Reisig, Sprachwissenschaft 3, § 233. In L. videreque, 2, 983; obstarereque, 1, 973; penetraleque, 1, 494; lacrimareque, 2, 420, etc.—corpus, 'substance.'

667. scilicet, 'I mean'; on 3, 229.—facere represents either stingui mutareque, in which case the subject of reparcen is ignes; or more probably credunt, when the subject of reparcen will be Stoici. The general thought seems to be 'I mean if at all times and circumstances they insist on the changing of fire into everything.'—parte reparcen: for the assonance see on 3, 71. Reparcent 'if they shall abstain'; only hère in L.; it is ante- and post-classic. Cf. the assonance in terras terminal, 1000; vi . . . viscera viva, 2, 964.

668. funditus: a favorite adverb in L.; 478 n.—ardor: as in 650.

669. e nilo: because heat or fire would disappear. E was added by Lachm., edd.

670, 671 repeated at 792; 2, 753; 3, 519, where see n.

672. proinde, 'so then'; see on 3, 870.—aliquit: 977; 4, 1134; see on 3, 1083.—superare: cf. 579.—ollis: 2, 64, 1003; 3, 271 (where see n.); 4, 177, 5, 382, 1291, 1390; 6, 208, 475, 687; all but twice in the sixth foot. In 4, 719 illis is read in the sixth foot, Q corr., for ilis. As the forms from the stem ollo- do not occur in the comic poets, Sommer, 458, regards the use as a conscious archaism of the dactylic poets.

673 is repeated at 797; 2, 756, 864. See on 248.—tibi, 'you have'; ethical dative; 3, 197 n. List in M. on 1, 797.

674. vigescat: 757, 'de niloque renata vigescere copia rerum.' — de niloque: so de terraque. 6, 884; L. avoids de que, which was used by Livy; see lex. 'que' vii. — copia rerum, 'store of things,' i.e. things in their abundance. In 5, 1008 the expression means 'wealth.'

675. Note the alliteration. — nunc igitur: 3, 203 n. — certissima: only here in L. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 273, would write parvissima, but the question is not about the smallness of bodies but about the certainty of their existence.

676. semper is almost an adjective; cf. tamquam partu, 2, 933; tum tempore, 3, 863; see on 3, 662.

677. Note the alliteration. — abitu aut aditu: adventu abituque, 457. — mutato ordine: 686, 801; 2, 769, 'ordo | principiis mutatus et addita demptaque quedam.'

678. convertunt, into new substances. — sese: metr. gr. for se; so in 2, 250, 435; 4, 323, 472, 497.

679. scire licet: on 3, 229. — ignea: predicate.

680. enim: in the third place; Hor. S. 2, 7, 105, tergo pector enim; Cic. Att. 14, 6, 1, odiosa illa enim; cf. on 219. — decidere: edd. for descendere OQ; discedere — Q corr. Decedere abire corresponds to abitu aut aditu, 677; cf. 320. Grasberger, 48, would read adire with some older edd.; Bock. ab igne; Goebel, decidere dempta; Polle, de corpore abire (Phil. 25, 271); Pascal, discedere ab igni. For the asyndeton cf. 3, 395 n.

681. alia, Marull. edd.; also OQ, Lachm. Bern.: see Phil. 26, 305. — attribui: 3, 242 n.

682. naturam, 'natural property'; 687; 2, 533; 6, 219, 755.

683. omnimodis: 2, 489; 3, 406; 5, 1024, etc.; see on 3, 115. — crearent: edd. since Lamb., sc. corpora; OQ have crearet, sc. corpus (Bock.), which may be right.

684. verum, 'but in truth,' 'really'; 822, 895, 902; 5, 330. — opinor: 3, 626 n. — itast, 'this is the way of it'; 4, 489, non, ut opinor, ita est.

685 is repeated at 2, 1021. Other notable cases of asyndeton in 633; 2, 670, 726; 3, 156, 217; 4, 458, 784, 1013, 1132; 5, 261. — figurae: this word is used by L. and Catullus only at the end of the line: Jessen, L. u. Catull. 14. M. cites Arist. Met. VIII, 2, p. 1042, b 11, διαφέρει δὲ η̄ ρυσμῷ δύοτι σχῆμα, η̄ τροχῷ δύοτι θέσις, η̄ διαθέγγει δύοτι τάξις, from Democritus.

686. ignis: hence fire cannot be an element; cf. 697.

687. naturam: sc. rerum creatarum.

688. praeterea approximates to an adjective. — rēi: on 2, 112.

689. Note the alliteration at the end. — sensibus: tibi missa, 416–417; manibus mittunt, 3, 52–53. — adiectu: 4, 673, adiectus odoris; a Lucret. word. Rönsch, Itala u. Vulg. 91, cites adactus, adjectus, algus, comptus, coortus, offensus from L. and some of these from ante- and post-classic authors. — tangere tactus: cf. exactuat aestus, 2, 1137; fulgere fulgor, 4, 190; voce vocare, 4, 711; cecidere casu, 1, 741. For tactus cf. 2, 816, variantes edere tactus.

690–704. 'It is folly to maintain that fire is the original element, for this is against the evidence of the senses; and if the senses cannot be trusted, what criterion is there? Why not deny fire, and affirm the existence of something else?'

690. Dicere: subject infin.; see on 3, 731. — porro sends the reader back to the main argument. — igneum: predicate.

691. veram, 'real.' — numero rerum; 446 n. — nisi = praeterquam: see Zumpt, L.C. § 735.

<sup>692.</sup> facit = dicit; cf. 667 n.—hic: Heraclitus. Hic idem is classical: Reisig-Schmalz, § 216. L. has hic (i.e. hicc) before a vowel 16 times, hic 4 times; Cartault, Flexion, 68. Sommer, 453, cites hicc est from CIL 9, 60.—perdelirum, ‘altogether off the track.’ Bock. calls this ‘unparliamentary language’; see on 3, 105. The word itself does not seem to occur elsewhere except as cited by the grammarians.—esse videtur: a favorite cadence; cf. 698 and on 3, 105.

693. ab sensibus, 'on the side of the senses.' 4, 482, 'quid maiore fide porro quam sensus haberi | debet ? an ab sensu falso ratio orta valebit | dicere eos contra, quae tota ab sensibus orta est ?' Cf. 4, 473-481, and on 1, 423. Lamb. and Faber take ab sensibus as pro sensibus; Creech as sensuum ope; Havercamp, ab iis sumens argumentum; the grammarians mostly explain it as instrumental abl. with inserted ab, as commonly in L. (cf. on 3, 323). For ab, meaning the party with which one stands or fights, see Dr. § 285, 3, and many examples in Thes. LL. 1, 22, 41 sq.

694. labefactat: 4, 435, ‘labefactari undique sensus’; 3, 593 n. — unde = e quibus, the usual construction with pendere. — credita = quae credimus. — This principle is Lucretian, not Heraclitean: DL 9, 1, 7, τὴν δραστικὴν φύσεων θεοῦ (Θεύ) of Heraclitus.

695. cognitus: especially of knowledge gained through the senses: 2, 742; cognoscere corpora tactu. — ipsi: Heraclito. — ignem: attracted to case of quem; 3, 94 n.

666. vere, 'aright.' Zeller, Phil. d. Griech.<sup>5</sup> 1, 715, doubts Lucretius' fairness in this remark: Arist. Met. 1, 6, ταῖς Ἡράκλετοις δόξαις, ὡς τῷν αἰσθητῷν δει πεπτωταὶ τυπτήμενοι περι αὐτῷν οὐκ οἴσσει. See Munro's note.

697. clara, 'plain' (to the senses), as fire.
698. cum . . . tum: the second member is emphatic: 3, 374-376.

699. referemus: 424. — enim: postponed; 704, 680 n.
700. qui stands for quibus in 4, 615; 5, 233, 854; Lindsay, LL. 446; here it = quo referring to quid. — vera: 640 n.; 4, 764, ‘falsum veris convincere rebus’.

704. dementia: only here in L.
705-733. 'So they who think that fire is the primal substance, and those also who make air or water or earth, or who by a combination of these make things to exist, are all wrong. Empedocles, the great Sicilian, held the last opinion, and Sicily with all its wonders has produced nothing greater than the man who unfolds his philosophy with such divine song that he appears scarcely human.'

<sup>705.</sup> Quapropter: 334 n. — qui: like Heraclitus. — materiem: see on 58.— Lohmann, 15, quotes with approval Tohte's opinion that 635-704 were a later addition, and that the poet would have changed the form of 705 sq. into something like ‘quoniam qui ignem constituerunt principium, demonstravi errasse, etiam ceteros, qui umorem aera . . . posuerunt, lapsos esse expediam.’

706. Harsh elision : cf. 636.—summarum : 235 n.

707. qui: like Anaximenes.—principium: the only example of the sing. of this word in the meaning ‘element.’—gignundis: L. prefers -undis to -endis: 2, 855; 5, 181; see on 3, 409.

708. constituere: as in 643.—umorem: as Thales. ‘Ardebat Heraclitus, uetus Thales, circumstans atomis Democritus videbatur.’ Mart. Cap. 2, 212.

709.  fingere: probably with an underlying suggestion that the action is vain, as elsewhere in L. There seems to be no other ex. of  fingere = fabricari in L. unless 5. 3 be so interpreted.— ipsum per se; cf. ex igni solo, 636.— terramve: as Pherecydes.

710. naturas: the plural occurs here and in 3, 315, 320. See on 3, 43.—
vertier: middle; cf. 4, 402 (pueri) desierunt verti. For the ending, see on 3, 67.

711. Cf. 637. — derrasse: on 43. Longe derrasse, Vat. 3275, edd.; longi errasse OQ.

712. adde: 3, 829 n. — conduplicant: metr. gr. for duplicant; cf. 3, 71.
713. aera . . . igni: as Oenopides of Chios. — terramque liquori: as Xenophanes; see Ueberweg, Gesch. Phil.<sup>6</sup> 1, 64. Parmenides united fire and earth; Hippo of Rhegium fire and water.

714. quattuor: 'It is well known that Empedocles was the first philosopher to adopt the four elements, which since his day continued to rule supreme over natural science until modern analysis revealed a far simpler and broader basis. . . . The four elements appear to have been suggested to him partly by his familiarity with contemporary speculation and partly by his observation of nature. They held their ground so long in scientific theory, because they answered so exactly to a superficial view of the world: earth with everything of a solid quality, water including every kind of fluid, fire that burns or emits light, air that can be breathed, appear to constitute an exhaustive division of the universe; ' North British Rev. 45, 436. Antony and Cleopatra, v. 2, 'I'm fire and air: my other elements | I give to baser life.' K. Henry V, iii. 7, 'He is pure air and fire; and the dull elements of earth and water never appear in him.' Firm. Mat. 1, 'quattuor elementa esse principia creaturarum nemo est qui dubitet, id est, ignem, aquam, aerem et terram.' (Ovid) Ibis, 111, 'nec se vulcanus, nec se tibi praebeat aer, | nec tibi det tellus, nec tibi pontus iter.' Lucil. 28, 4, 'ἀρχαῖς hominem et ὁρούχειος simul | privabit; igni cum et aqua interdixerit, | duo habet ὁρούχεια — ad superat anima et corpore; | γῆ corpus, animast τρέψα.' Varro, RR. 1, 4, 'principia sunt eadem, quae mundi esse Ennius scribit, aqua, terra, anima et sol.' Aetius, 1, 3, 20 (see Hildebrandt, De primordiis, 25), translated by the North British Rev. writer, 'First learn what are the four chief roots of everything that is: fiery Zeus, and Hera, source of vital breath, and Aido-neus and Nestis with her tears who is the fount of moisture in the world.'

715. igni terra atque anima . . . et imbri: this copulation may be expressed by the symbols ab atque c et d; other irregular copulations are ab atque c dque, 2, 511; ab et c dque, 2, 1063; a'atque b cque, 5, 1241; cf. on 17.—anima: variant from aera, 713, and imbri from liquori, in his manner. V. Ecl. 6, 32, 'semina terrarumque animaeque marisque'; Cic. Tim. 5, 'quem ad modum ignis animae, sic

anima aquae.—procrescere: an archaic word: 2, 546, 566; 6, 664.—im bri: for the element, 784; 6, 149; but uncommon in L. Aen. 1, 123, ‘accipiunt inimicum imbre ramisque fatiscunt’; id. 1, 743, ‘unde imber et ignes.’ Enn. Ann. 522, ‘cui par imber et ignis, spiritus et gravis terra’: see lex. for other examples. The abl. in e is more frequent. Serv. quoting from memory gives, on Ed. 6, 31, nascuntur et igne; on Aen. 1, 123, nascuntur et imbris.

716. quorum has the same antecedent as qui in 714.—Acragantinus: from Acragas, a mountain and city of Sicily, the birthplace of Empedocles. The adjective seems to occur nowhere else. The Romans usually called the city Agrigentum. Ἀκραγαντῖνος is cited from Herod. 7, 170.—cum primis: 638, ‘quorum dux proelia primus’; the construction is plainly cum primis quorum.—Empedocles: see Introd. p. 40. Grasberger, 12, notices that L. praises Empedocles alone; Heraclitus he blames, Anaxagoras he refutes (830); twice he mentions Democritus, once in refutation, once in stating probability. Cf. also Eckman’s Controversial Element in L.

717. triquetris: also of Sicily in Hor. S. 2, 6, 55. L. uses the word in its primary meaning in 4, 653, triquetra aliis, aliis quadrata.—terrarium with oris: terrarium oras, 721; 2, 555; 4, 215.—gessit: 6, 790 (semina) gerit tellus; Georg. 2, 70, steriles platani malos gessere valentes.

718. circum: there is no verb circumfluitans; for the postposition of the prep. see on 26.—magnis: longis, Wakef.—anfractibus, ‘bights,’ ‘bays’ (‘cranklings,’ M.); 5, 683, currens anfractibus of the sun’s wanderings; Sil. Ital. 11, 22, Ionio litora curvata profundo.—Bentley queried whether anfractibus refers to shore or sea.

719. Ionium: between Sicily and Crete.—glaucis: only here in L.; Aen. 12, 888, glauco amictu of water.—asparginit: but aspergunt, 3, 20: see on 3, 539. A dative is understood from quam for the indirect object of asparginit.—virus, ‘saltiness’; 2, 476; 5, 269; 6, 635.—ab with asparginit; not virus ab undis, as suggested by Städler, 47: see Holtze, 53, Hertz, 15.

720. undia, OQ, M. Bail.; undans Lachm. Br. Giuss.; almae Bern. M. translates ‘divides by its waters’; Cic. Verr. 2, 5, 169, perangusto fretu divisa, a passage cited by Gellius, 13, 20, 15, and compared with manifesto peccatu as an example of elegance: ‘erat enim crassius iam vetustiusque perangusto freto dicere.’ Fretus occurs again in 6, 364. Cf. Catull. 64, 178, ‘ah, gurgite lato discernens ponti truculentum ubi dividit aequor’ where the reading is disputed. Grasberger, 48, thinks that undans is as faulty a repetition as undis, since fluitans occurred in 718; he proposes intrans. Ennius, Ann. 302, has ‘Europam Libyamque rapax ubi dividit unda.’ Goebel proposed dividit oris | Italia terrarum oras affinibus eius. Wakef. gives the order: mareque, rapidum angusto fretu, dividit oras undis, i.e. mare, quod rapidum efficitur, vel celeratur, angustis freti. Sen. Ep. 71, 1, mari dividi. Avienus Descr. 398, Europam et Libyam rapido disternat aestu. Perhaps undis carelessly repeated has displaced a word like aequae.

721. Italiae, Flor. 30, edd.; Haeliae OQ; Hacoliae O corr.; Aeoliae, Heins. Voss. M. quotes Gerard Voss, ‘puto olim sic dictam eam partem Italiae quam inhabitavit Iocastes Aeoli filius qui ad fretum Siculum habitabat: vid. Diod. Sic. lib. 5 (ch. 8).’ Italiae is probably a gloss, and the correct reading lies concealed in Haeliae.—eius: we should have expected a relative coming earlier in the sentence. Munro in his long note compares 2, 87, ‘durissima quae sint . . . neque quicquam a tergo ibus obstet'; 4, 962, 'et quo studio . . . aut quibus in rebus . . . atque in ea ratione.'

722. Of all the mighty phenomena of nature none is greater than Empedocles.—vasta, 'destructive.' Catull. 64, 156, vasta Charybdis, where Ellis quotes Odys. μ 428, δλοην Χάρυβδιν, also Aen. 7, 302, where the verse of Catullus is appropriated; beluam vastam et immanem, Cic. Div. 1, 49. Prop. 3, 32, 54, vasta Charybdis aqua.—Aetnaea: 6, 669, ignis Aetnaeus; 2, 593, impetus Aetnae.—minantur . . . colligere: the future would be expected from the meaning of the verb, after the analogy of spero; but cf. 5, 386–387; 4, 403; Schmalz, Synt. § 226, 4. With minantur murmura cf. minitanti murmure, 68; minaci murmur, 276, and n. there.

723. Note the tone color of the repeated m.—flammarum iras: i.q. 'angry fires.' Irarum flamas occurs in Arnobius, ed. Reiff, p. 123, 4; 135, 24; 249, 16.—rursum . . . iterum, 724, are synonymous. Preiger changed rursum to sursum.

724. faucibus: of a mountain, 6, 639, 702.—eruptos: OQ, edd., except Br. Giuss. who read eructans, comparing 3, 1012. The order is ut vis vomat ignis eruptos faucibus. Cf. 6, 582, post incita cum vis | exagitata foras erumpitur. For the passive, 4, 1115, se erupit; 5, 598, erumpere lumen; examples from Cic. in M. The prolepsis is not too bold for one who likes to join participles to finite verbs.—vis ut vomat: Lamb. ed. 3, and most edd.; vis ut omnia, OQ; ut vis evomat, old vulg. 6, 828, vita vomenda; Ov. Her. 12, 125, quaerque vomit totidem fluctus totidemque resorbet, of Sylla.

725. Note the alliteration, which is more frequent in the descriptive passages.—ad caelumque: que is not joined to ad in L. and perhaps not in classical Latin: Plaut. Capt. 369, Schoell, has ad te atque ad illum; others read ad que; see Schmalz, § 170, and Thes. 1, 473, 7.—flammai: Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 776, favors flammarum of Q corr.; flammai is the corr. of O; the corrector of Q is older than the corr. of O; W. compares flammarum in 723 and the plural ignis in 724. Flammai occurs in 900 and in 5, 1099, but in 1, 900 it is a correction, as here, of flammae.

726. Note the repeated m.—cum . . . tamen: cf. 1, 566; 2, 859, 309–310.—magna: Wakef. takes magna miranda for magnum miranda like the Virgilian rauca fremens; M. quae magna videtur multis modis miranda; Kraetsch, 42, correctly regards magna and miranda as asyndetical, comparing 2, 1028, nil adeo magnum neque tam mirabile quicquam, and such was Lambin's opinion.—modis multis: 759; cf. multimodis, 2, 1060, etc.

727. gentibus humanis: 2, 595; 5, 161; cf. 119. Gens humana is poetical for genus humanum: Madv. on Cic. Fin. 5, 65.—visendaque fertur, 'is said to be worth visiting'; L. had probably never seen it. Visenda is often used in this sense; Cic. Verr. 4, 132, 'ei, qui hospites ad ea, quae visenda sunt, solent ducere et unum quidque ostendere, quos illi mystagogos vocant.'

728. rebus . . . bonis: 3, 1004 n.—opima he uses only here.—multa virum vi: cf. 2, 326, and see on 3, 8. Cf. multa vi munit Albam, Aen. 1, 271, for form, not sense.—virum instead of hominum is due to the desire for alliteration.

729. praeclarius, 'a more brilliant product.'

730. magis: because he does not use the anteclass. mirius.—carumque, of value: here only in L. in this sense; once in another (3, 85). M. cites Livy 35, 21, 16, sancta caraque.

731. divini: elsewhere said only of Epicurus and his productions. Democritus' opinion is sancta, 3, 371.

732. vociferantur: on 3, 14. The long word makes a bad beginning of the verse. Reid on Cic. Acad. 2, 14, Empedocles . . . mihi furere videatur, quotes this passage and Lael. 24, where vaticinari is said of him. — exponunt: 121 n. — reperta: 5, 2 n.

733. vix humana: cf. the praise of Epicurus: deus ille fuit, 5, 8. M. quotes Emped. 392, ἔγω δ' ὑμῖν θεὸς ἀμβρότος οὐκέτι θυητὸς | πωλεῖμαι μετὰ πᾶσι τετράνος, δαστερὲς λούκα. Cicero, of Archimedes, Rep. 1, 22, 'plus in illo Siculo ingenii quam videretur natura humana ferre potuisse indicavi fuisse.' — stirpe, 'stock': Aen. 10, 543, 'Vulcani stirpe creatus'; Ov. M. 1, 760, 'caelesti stirpe creatus.'

734—762. 'Yet Empedocles and the other philosophers I have mentioned, although right in much, yet went astray in their theory of first beginnings; first by denying void, second by allowing indefinite division and denying the least parts, third by making the first beginnings soft and destructible.'

734. Hic: Empedocles. — tamen . . . quamquam . . . tamen is uncommon. — supra: 705 sq. — inferiores, nom. probably, but may be acc. agreeing with the antecedent of quos.

735. Note the alliteration. — partibus multis: 4, 317, 'multis partibus hic est | mobilior'; 3, 1026, 'melior multis rebus'; see lex., pars, 7. — egregie modifies inferiores as multo modifies minores. Faber cites a passage from ad Heren. 3, 35, where egregie modifies turpe. Gell. 20, 1, 13, egregie homo improbus.

736. Note pentasyll. close. — multa, 'many single points' (Reisacker). — inveni-entes: 4, 970, '(naturam) inventam patriis exponere chartis'; cf. 5, 13, 'divina aliorum antiqua reperta.'

737. adyto is an accepted correction from Niccoli of adiō; here only in L. and not cited elsewhere in this figurative meaning, carrying out the suggestion of divinitus. Lucan, 9, 564, 'ille deo plenus, tacita quem mente gerebat, | effudit dignas adytis e pectore voces,' cited by Preiger. Wakef. quotes Ov. M. 15, 145, 'reserabo oracula mentis,' and other passages. Cic. Rep. 5, 1, 'tamquam ex oraculo mihi quo-dam esse effatus videtur'; Pers. 2, 73, 'sanctosque recessus | mentis.' — responsa:
of weighty opinion as given by oracles and jurisconsults.

738. This and the next verse are repeated at 5, 111—112. — certa ratione: 2, 94,
'certa ratione probatum.'

739. Note the alliteration. — quae may be accusative, although it is generally taken as nom. In 5, 112, it may refer to fata. — tripodi: Lachm. compares Cilici, 2,416; Heliconi, 3, 132 (see n. there); Troezeni and Clitori in Vitruvius, and the common Acherunti, Sicyoni, Lacedaemoni, Sidoni. — lauro: 6, 154, Phoebi Delphica laurus. With the thought cf. Ter. And. 698, 'non Apollinis magis verum atque hoc responsumst.' Cic. Tusc. 1, 17, 'nec tamen quasi Pythius Apollo, certa ut sint et fixa, quae dixerit, sed ut homunculus unus e multis probabilitia coniectura sequens.'
Ad Brut. 1, 2, 6, 'haec ex oraculo Apollinis Pythii edita tibi puta: nihil potest esse verius.' Callim. in Del. 5, 94, δλλ' ἔμπης ἐρέω τι τοπώτερον ή ἀπὸ δάφνης. Aristoph.
Plut. 39, τι δῆτα Φοῖβος Θλακεύς ἐκ τῶν στεμμάτων. Ov. AA. 3, 789, 'sed neque
Phoebei tripodes, nec corniger Ammon | vera magis vobis, quam mea Musa canet.'
See Otto, Sprichw. 30. — a: Grasberger, 49, says that L. never postpones a after a noun unless an adjective follows, and hence doubts the reading. Rolfe, Harv. St. 12, 255, says that genuine anastrophe of ab is very rare and occurs only in early Latin.

740. tamen: 'as I was saying'; it recalls tamen of 734.—fecere ruinas: dare is more common, e.g. 2, 1149; dedere would be unmetered here; so ruinas | in patinam fecere, Hor. S. 2, 8, 55.

741. graviter: 6, 758, graviter concidere. Aen. 5, 447, ipse gravis graviterque ad terram . . . concidit.—magni magno: for the juxtaposition see on 3, 71. Magni, great as they were. Hom. Σ 26, μέγας μεγαλωστὶ τανόθελοι. —cecidere casu: on 689.

742. exempto rebus inani: 660. Orelli quotes Emped. 63, οὐδὲ τι τοῦ παρόντος κερέος τελεῖ οὐδὲ περισσόν. Empedocles acknowledged pores.

743. mollis rarasque: 2, 860, 'molli lenta, fragosa putri, cava corpore raro.'—relinquent: see 446. For the o cf. vivont, 2, 665; dissoluont, 6, 356.

744. rorem, Bock. Br. Giuss. Bail. after Christ, comparing the enumeration of the four elements in 567, 'mollia quae sunt, aer aqua terra vapores,' and 776, 'mixtusque videbitur aer | cum terra simul atque ardor cum rore manere'; 771, 'aeras auras roremque liquoris.' Solem OQ, Lachm. M.—frugis, OQ, M.; fruges, Lachm., who reads voces in 4, 577 and 992 also against the MSS. See notes of Lachm. and M.

745. nec tamen, 'and yet for all that'; 3, 231 n.—admiscent: 369, 655. For the construction with in cf. Cic. Phil. 12, 16, 'ad consilium admiscear'; Pliny, NH 26, 104, 'admixtis in heminam . . . coclearibus duobus,' and Thes. 1, 746, 3.

746. finem, 'limit'; so 844 and 2, 1116, crescendi finem; 1, 577, frangendis redditia finis | corporibus. So gignundis, 204, 707, has an implication of futurity. The dative is one of purpose.

747. faciunt: 655 n.—pausam: 3, 860 n.—stare: synonym of esse; 564 n. 'The rejection of endless divisibility is the keystone of the doctrine of atoms and void space;' Lange, Materialism, 2, 135.—fragori, 'breaking,' seems unexampled; but cf. 5, 317.

748. nec prorsum: 3, 45 n. and Munro's note here, where he shows it = omnino now.—minimum: 602 n.—consistere: another synonym of esse; 235 n.—in rebus: cf. 511. M. quotes Cic. Acad. 1, 27, 'cum sit nihil omnino in rerum natura minimum,' as a prose translation of 748; Cicero there does not acknowledge that infinite division will lead to complete destruction: 'eaque etiam interire, non in nihilum, sed in suas partes quae infinite secari ac dividiri possunt'; see Reid's note there. Polle, AV. 21, compares also Fato, 9, 18, Div. 2, 37, Phil. 7, 27 for stylistic similarity. quicquam, Mar. edd.; qui OQ, quire Pascal, inferior MSS.

749. cacumen, 'limit,' 599 n.

750. ad sensus, 'according to the standard of our senses.' 2, 281, ad arbitrium.—M. thinks it is used instead of the dative with videtur.

751. conicere, 'infer'; here and in 2, 121 with this meaning; see lex. For the spelling see on 3, 639.—cernere, 'distinguish.'—non quis: see on 3, 554. There is no form nequis. Creech's interpretation was: 'et inde facile possimus colligere id extremum rerum quod nos videre non valemus, esse in rebus minimum.' Lambinus: 'conicere ut possis ex hoc extremo cacumine quod iam cernere non potes, et quod ad sensus nostros videtur esse minimum, id extremum esse in rebus minimum, quod extreum ipsae res habeat; or with the reading quae: ‘conicere ut possis ex hoc extremo quod extreum habent ea, quae cernere non quis, esse aliquid minimum in rebus.’ Quae cernere non quis, M. says, are atoms: 600, ‘corporis illius quod nostri cernere sensus iam nequeunt.’ Quae is the reading of OQ; quod Veron. and old vulg.

752. This line is so long that the end is lost, as in 748. Rebus was read before Lachm., who supplied prorsum, and is followed by Bern. and Giuss.; M. and Bail. in illis; Br. after Winckelmann vere; Bock. id horum; van d. Valk, rerum. Postgate, J. Phil. 24, would add et illis. — quod: the conjunction.

753. item, OQ, M. Giuss. Br. Bail.; ut ei Lachm.; item ut, Edelbluth. — huc accedit item: 6, 1022; see on 1, 192.

754. nos, ‘observers.’ In 749 it was omitted.—nativa: 3, 417 n. — videmus: plainly mental. M. quotes Empedocles, 178, αλφα δε θρη' εφόρτο τὰ πρὸ μάθον θεραρ' ελα. L. is hardly fair here.

755. mortali cum corpore: 232 n. Cum is unnecessary; 276 n. — funditus probably looks forward, as commonly; instead of funditus omnes we have here funditus summa. — ut qui, OQ, M. Br. Bail.; usque Lachm., who did not understand ut qui, which was discovered by the American N. P. Howard, a Virginia lawyer; see on 3, 738, and J. Phil. 1, 118.

756. debeat is dependent on accedit ut qui. Cf. 673 for the thought.

757. Nearly the same as 674.

758. utrumque: reverti, renata. Reichenhart, Jahrb. 121, 846, noticed that uterque occurs 6 times immediately after the relative (1, 758, 975; 2, 565; 4, 1212; 5, 1101; 6, 365); in 3, 421 the demonstrative is separated far from utrumque; once only, 5, 729, quod pugnat utrumque. — iam goes with habebis, as appears from the sense. For the broken order cf. on 6, 158. — distet: 620. — habebis: O corr. for habet; 3, 831 n. Cartault would write habemus.

759. veneno: O vene; Q veneni; O corr. venena; veneno Wakef. edd.; venena, old vulg. Wakef. noticed that L. does not use venenum in the plural. Faber and others quote Varro, RR. 1, 218, ‘quaedam enim pecudes culturae sunt inimicae ac veneno.’ With inimica . . . veneno cf. 6, 1094, ‘quae sint vitalia nobis, | et contra quae sint morbo mortique necessari | multa volare.’

760. ipsa sibi inter se: pleonastic; cf. 2, 1092, ipsa sua per se sponte. Naeke on Valerius Cato, p. 318, noticed that L. used inter se in 14 places in Book 1 and 2 in the second foot; Virgil also used the preposition in the same place. Thielmann, in Archiv 7, 380, shows that here we must interpret ipsa sibi and inter se, like mutuo and inter se. — congressa peribunt: 2, 549, congressa coibunt, also closing the line.

761. diffugient: 2, 457, ‘diffugere, ut primum nebulas flamasque’ — coacta Probably ablative; 6, 196, ‘venti cum tempestate coorta complerunt’ Lamb. wished to read coorta here.

762. fulmina atque . . . que: not two members but three; 5, 1241, ‘aes atque aurum ferrumque repertumst'; 5, 1428, ‘purpura atque auro signisque’.

763-781. ‘If all things are made and dissolved into four elements, how can you tell which are the first beginnings, whether the elements or the things they make? But if you think the four elements come together in such a way that in union no one of these is unchanged, you cannot make anything out of them, for each element will appear in the product; you must have first beginnings of a secret and hidden nature, which will not appear nor prevent the proper existence of the thing created.'

763. Denique: as in 551.—ex: metr. gr. Bock. transfers 763–769 to follow 770–781.

764. rursum has its proper meaning.—dissoluuntur: on 223.

765. qui: 2, 917, 'qui poterunt igitur rerum primordia dici?' 5, 648, 'qui minus illa queant.'—illa: to quattuor ex rebus, 763; see on 3, 185.—rerum primordia: a similar order in 55.—dici, 'called'; 3, 100 n.

766. contra, as in 521, 'on the other hand.' Contra . . . retroque, cf. 3, 108.—res illorum: sc. (queunt) primordia dici.—retroque putari, 'the supposition being reversed,' M. translates; putari is in the same construction as dici.

767. alternis: on 524.—enim: postponed metr. gr. —mutantque colorem: 2, 1005, mutentque colores.

768. tempore ab omni: on 554.

769 = 762.

770. coire: 2, 549, congressa coibunt (corpora), and elsewhere. Ignis is gen. Bock. reads terrasque coire in.

771. aerias auras: 3, 222 n.—roremque liquoris: on 496. Notice the chiasmus.

772. ut nil eorum in concilio mutet naturam. nil, 'no one'; cf. 854. Cartault proposed natura.—concilio: 183 n.

773. nulla . . . res: variation from nil, 772.—tibi, 'I tell you'; ethical dat.—ex illis: not a variety for the gen., but to be taken with creata.

774. animans: this form occurs only here and 3, 573 in L.; of course an adjective. OQ, animas; cf. libes for libens, and Lane, LG. 902.—exanimos: on 3, 714.—cum is here unnecessary; 276 n.—arbos: the same form in 6, 786 at end of line; arbor, 3, 784, etc. Arbos at end also in V. Ecl. 3, 56; Georg. 2, 57, 81; Aen. 3, 27; 6, 206; he does not have arbor at all. Colos occurs in third and fourth feet in 6, 208; vaposque at close in 6, 952. Polle, AV. 23, after Purmann, would reject this line: (1) the mention of arbos merely fills the verse; (2) the added example is unnecessary. Polle maintains that exanimus cannot mean anima carent (inanimus) but anima privatus, mortuus. Still L. for the moment regards a tree as dead in comparison with higher animal life; cf. the inexact statement in 3, 74. Bock. reads exsanguis, and interprets 'no living thing, especially a tree.' Br. seems to favor ex animo for the metre, in Jahresb. 24, 128.

775. quippe: 3, 190 n.—variantis: 5, 71, variante loquella. This participle = varius.—acervi: not homogeneous.

776. ostendet: 5, 355, naturam ostendimus.—videbitur: passive; 3, 182 n.

777. ardor corresponds to ignis, 770; cum to mixtus, 776; rore to roremque liquoris, 771.—manere = esse; 363 n. OQ et quodam; Lamb. edd. atque ardor. Bock. simile atque idem.

778. oportet, MSS. and edd. except Lachm. Bern. who read necessest. Lachm. says L. does not use the word, and that it is avoided in general by all poets except the comic ones. Bock. apertumist.

779. clandestinam: 2, 127, 'tales turbae motus quoque materiali | significant clandestinos caecosque subesse.'—caecam: on 3, 247.—adhibere: cf. 828.

780. emineat: 3, 284 n. — pugnet: 2, 794, 'qui contra pugnet et obstet.'

781. The order is quoniam quodcumque creatur quaest esse proprie; 'have its proper existence.' — proprie: 6, 985, 'quisque suam proprie rem percipit in se.'

782-802. 'They make a constant interchange of fire, water, air, earth, but first beginnings cannot thus change, for an unchangeable element must survive to prevent total destruction; by the adding or taking away of such elements they can make fire or any other thing.'

782. repetunt, 'go back to'; see lex. The subject is no doubt Stoici, i.e. Heraclitus. The insertion of this passage in the refutation of Empedocles has led Haller to regard it as addressed to the followers of the latter; but see Pascal, Stud. 76. — eius: closing the verse in 219, 721, 731, 965; 2, 490; 3, 208, 328, 440, 734; 4, 185, 261, 356, 372, 960; 5, 629; 6, 421, 694, 916; within the verse, 2, 736; 3, 235, 357; 4, 51, 236, 780, 934, 1152, 1231; 5, 4, 459, 686, 709; 6, 128, 234, 965. Not in Virgil, twice in Horace's Odes; see Bentley on Hor. C. 3, 11, 18, and Archiv 11,

783. faciunt: 5, 713, 'ut faciunt, lunam qui fingunt esse.' — vertere: cf. 710. — auras aeris: 3, 222 n. M. quotes a Stoic opinion in Cic. ND. 2, 84, 'cum quatuor sint genera corporum, vicissitudine eorum mundi continuata natura est. nam ex terra aqua, ex aqua oritur aer, ex aere aether; deinde retrorsum vicissim ex aethere aer, inde aqua, ex aqua terra infima. sic naturis eis, ex quibus omnia constant,ensus deorsus ultro citro commeantibus mundi partium coniunctio sustinetur.' Cf. also Ov. M. 15, 239 sq., where the Pythagorean doctrine is explained. — Pascal, 84, with great probability, makes the reference to cosmic periods; cf. Aet. I, 3, 11.

784. hinc, auras aeris. Wakef. quotes Sen. NQ. 3, 20, 'ex spiritu qui in aquam transfiguratus est'—imbrem: 715 n. The MSS. have here ignem . . . igni; the change to imbrem . . . imbri by Marull. is accepted by all except Pascal. M. notes the same corruption in Catull. 62, 7.

785. The caesura falls between retro and que; see Meyer, Gesch. Hex. 1045.—
retro . . . reverti: 2, 283, retroque residit; 2, 516, retroque remensumst; 5, 269, retroque remanat; 6, 573, retroque recellit; Georg. I, 200, retro'referri.

786. umorem: variation from imbri, calorem from ignem.

<sup>787.</sup> mutare: absolute, according to Ellis on Catullus, 22, 11; but for inter se ~~mutare~~, 'to change with each other,' see lex. 'sui' III; tertia, direct object, is not usually expressed. Sall. J. 18, 9, mutare res inter se instituerunt. — meare: 354.

788. a, 'away from'; de, 'up from'; there is oddō dñw and kárw; usually the prepositions mean just the opposite, a, 'away from upwards,' and de, 'down from'; de is probably used here for metrical convenience to avoid hiatus. Thes. I, 17, 40, quotes Plaut. Pr. 1224, 'auferen' tu id praemium a me . . . ? de improbis viris auferri . . . decet.'—sidera mundi: at end of verse 5, 433, 514; 2, 328; Aen. 9, 93. L. and Catullus have sidera and sidere only in the fifth foot: Jessen, L. u. Catull. 6.

790. Cf. 579 and 672.—immutable: 591.

791. Cf. 673.—redigantur: 553 n.

$$792 = 670.$$

793 = 671.

794. quae paulo diximus ante: 907; 4, 383, paulo quod diximus ante.—quae: mentioned 783 sq.

795. commutatum: metr. gr., for commutationem, like mactatus, summatus, aductus, disiectus, intactus, transpectus, etc.; see Wolff, 24, and on 689 and 3, 525. Cic. ND. 3, 31, ‘haec tum intereunt cum in naturam aliam convertuntur quod si cum terra in aquam se vertit et cum ex aqua oritur aer, ex aere aether, cumque eadem vicissim retro comeant.’

796. aliis: the true elements.—ea: the so-called elements.—convertier: the same form in 4, 317: see on 3, 67, and cf. 1, 710.

798. quin potius, ‘why not rather?’

799. constitutas: 2, 418, ‘neve . . . simili constare colores | semine constitutus’ For the subjunctive, Morgan in Harv. St. 12, 232, compares Pl. Mil. 426; Ter. Ph. 1015, Eun. 811, and other passages.—crearint: velarint, 930; violarint, 2, 614; suerint, 4, 303; exsuperarint, 5, 384; cererint, 5, 782.—Bentley missed an ut and proposed ignem us si forte, but tali posse = tali ut possint.

800. Notice the alliteration and chiasmus. Müller, RM. 456, criticises the association in this verse, comparing 2, 552, ‘sed quasi naufragiis magnis multisque coortis’; see on 677.

801. ordine mutato: 827, permuto ordine; cf. 677, 686; 2, 1021, concursum motus ordo . . . permulanter.

802. alias aliis rebus: for the ellipsis cf. 2, 471, ‘aspera levibus esse principiis’; 1, 822, ‘aliis aliquo modo.’ Faber read res vertier for mutari.—mutari, ‘changed into,’ lit. ‘exchanged with’: see lex.—omnis: emphatic by position.

803–829. ‘Fact shows, you say, that things grow into the air from the earth, and that moisture and heat are necessary for their development. True, because many first beginnings are mixed in various things, and the arrangement in different ways makes up different objects.’

803. manifesta: on 3, 690.—indicat: 4, 396, res indicat ipsa.—inquis: cf. 897. Earth, air, heat, moisture are necessary for the growth of things, hence are elements; no, says Lucretius, they are alimenta, not primordia.

804. res: in different sense from 803; such repetitions are common with L.—alique, 191 n.

805. tempestas: on 178.—indulget: 5, 1368, ‘terram . . . indulgendo blande- que colendo.’

806. imbribus: abl. of means; the indirect object of indulget is rebus understood.—ut, Prisc. edd.; Lachm. keeps et of OQ and transfers 806 and 807, changing arbusta to ambusta; Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 670, thinks ambusta cannot be defended by arbusta pruinis.—tabe: 3, 553 n. Priscian (768 P.) quotes this passage as an example of ē, and also Lucan 10, 158, Juv. 15, 102, famē; cf. Aen. 6, 421; all under the ictus: see on 3, 734. The clouds dissolve into rain; nimbi rigantes, 6, 521.—arbusta: 187 n. M. translates, ‘that the trees reel beneath the soaking storms of rain.’—vacilient is not often used of concrete subjects, except of parts of the body; Archiv 4, 238.

807. pro parte sua: 5, 257; cf. 4, 550.—fovet: 1032, solis terra vapore feta.

808. possint: following indulget; cf. 5, 211, cimus . . . nequeant; Schroeter, 19; Dr. II, § 548, A, e.—animantis: -is in nom. pl. is an archaism; cf. 2, 577, visentis; 955, vitalis; 4, 397, montis, 1221, parentis; 5, 216, imbris, and Lachmann's note, p. 56. M. admits 14 cases into his text.

809. scilicet et, 'yes, and'; 901; 4, 848, 1126; 6, 674.—cibus aridus: 864, 'cibus omnis, et aridus et liquor, ipse.' The adjective brings out the opposition of solid food to liquid moisture; the moisture is 'soft' in contrast to the 'hard' dry food. Tener umor also in Georg. 2, 331.

810. adiuvet; cf. adiutamur, 812. Roos, 22, would read adiuvat after indulget following Preiger and Wakef.—corpore, 'substance,' M.; 4, 535, 'quid corporis auferat . . . perpetuus sermo'; 1, 1038, 'privata cibo natura animantium | diffuit amittens corpus.'

811. nervis: see on 3, 217. 3, 697, 'omnibus e nervis atque ossibus articulisque.'—exsoluatur: on 223. Aen. 11, 829, 'exsolvit se corpore.'

812. adiutamur: a popular word; see lex. and Wölfflin in Phil. 34, 157.—dubio procul: 2, 261; 5, 258; 6, 249, 719, 1039; said in lex. to be very rare. Schmalz, Synt. § 144, says procul first appears as a preposition in L., then in Hor., Livy, Tac.; but Roby, 2082, cites it from Ennius: see on 3, 433.

813. certis: 521.—ab: 3, 323 n.—aliae atque aliae, 'other things in succession'; cf. 605; 2, 776; 5, 303, 1090, 1367, and lex.—res: sc. aluntur.

814. multa modis multis: 341 n. Note the alliteration and assonance of m.—communia in fifth foot, cf. 824; 2, 689, 695; 4, 1195.

815. rerum: the commentators notice the repetition of res here, 6 times in 4 lines; cf. 893 sq. Livy, 4, 61, has arx in various cases 6 times in §§ 6–9; cf. on 128.

816. ideo: 1089; 3, 535 in the same metrical position; not in 4, 330.—res rebus: 3, 71 n.

817. magni refert: 2, 760; 4, 984; 5, 545. 817–819 are nearly = 908–900; cf. 2, 760–762, 1007–1009. Gneisse, 58, thinks they are interpolated here; refuted by Lohmann, 20. Adverbs are more common than genitives with interest and refert; Dr. Synt. I, § 201, 3.

818. positura: metr. gr. for positione.

819. inter se: 760 n. Here first appears the doctrine that the atoms within bodies are in motion, and mutually cause and receive motion; defended in 2, 308 sq.: see Masson, 37.

820. Asyndeton; 685 n. The first catalogue is of prominent natural objects, the second of the living beings produced in or by them.—eadem: sc. primordia.—funmina: such words naturally come in the fifth foot; cf. pectora, 19.—820–821 are almost = 2, 1015–1016. On the inadequacy of this conception, see Martha, 247 sq.

821. constituunt: as in 2, 104, 671 (670); 6, 226.—fruges arbusta animantis: 808.

822. verum: 684.—aliis commixta: Kühn, 21, sees a dative here; Holtze, 19, an abl. Bock. alias.—moventur: middle.

823 = 2, 1013 nearly; 2, 688 exactly.—nostris versibus: 949; 4, 24; meis versibus, 3, 36.

824 = 2, 689.—elementa: 197 n. Kelsey calculated that the 24 letters of the Latin alphabet could be arranged in 620,448,401,733,239,439,360,000 combinations.

825 = 2, 690.—cum tamen: 2, 29; 6, 140.—inter se: 760.—versus ac verba: Fronto, p. 161 N., has versu et verbo.—necessitat confiteare: 269.

826. -are et re et : cacophonous, and elision in second foot; see on 150.—re, 'meaning.'—-r'et r'et -son. -son.: remarkable assonance. Cf. exhaustual aestus, 2, 1137; anxious angor, 3, 993, and n. there.—sonanti occurs also in Aen. 1, 246 and Ov. M. 12, 46.

827. ordine: 801: e.g. latum, altum, ultam, latam (Bock.); Roma, amor (Giuss.).

828. rerum: contrasted with verbis, primordia with elementa.—plura: i.e. combinations. Plura is the classical form; pluria anteclass. Bentl. proposed adhiberi.

829. Cf. 157.

830–874. 'Anaxagoras' theory of homoeomeria is wrong also, for he allows no void, and his elements are too weak to survive. Again, food must by his theory have in it bodies of blood and bone; and whatever things grow from the earth, if they are previously in the earth, make earth heterogeneous; so smoke and fire in relation to wood.'

830. et, OQ, edd.; ut Lachm., who will not tolerate et = etiam: see on 3, 234.—Anaxagorae: of Clazomenae, born about 500 B.C.—homoeomerian: the word occurs first in Epic. and L.; Aristotle has τὰ διοιομέρη; διοιομέραι, plural, comes first in the later writers like Plutarch and Sextus: Zeller, I<sup>4</sup>, 982. Arist. states the view as substances 'consisting of parts like to themselves,' but L. evidently calls the principle itself homoeomeria (Gow's Comp. to School Classics, 305). 'Anaxagoras asserted that the primary elements of everything were similarities of parts, for as we say that gold consists of a quantity of grains combined together, so, too, is the universe formed of a number of small bodies of similar parts;' Diog. Laert. II. Anaxag. § 4. 'This singular opinion is intelligible when we remember his theory of knowledge. The sense discerns elementary differences in matter, and reflection confirms the truth of this observation. If nothing can proceed from nothing, all things can only be an arrangement of existing things; but when in this arrangement certain things are discovered to be radically distinguished from each other—gold from blood, for example—either the distinction observed by the senses is altogether false, or else the things distinguished must be elements; Lewes, Biog. Hist. of Phil. 75. Cf. Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, 1, 173, and Hildebrandt, T. L. de Primord. 26. M. quotes Epic. Περὶ Φύσεως, 28, 6, Gomperz, τὸ γέ [στοιχεῖον] ἡδη τὴν διοιομέριαν τῷ φαινομένῳ κεκτημένον, to show that the term does occur before L. Cic. Acad. 2, 118, renders the word by 'particulas similis inter se minutias.' The verse is quoted with ad for et by Serv. Aen. 4, 625.

831. Grai memorant: i.e. it is a Greek word; there is no implication here that the term was unknown to Anaxagoras.—lingua should perhaps be written dingu to alliterate with dicere.

832. concedit with inf. is poetical and late; Dr. II. §§ 393, 419.—patrii sermonis egestas: Tac. Ann. 4, 45, sermone patrio; see on 3, 260. Latin has no combination like homoiomeria.

833. sed tamen, 'yet in spite of it.'—ipsam rem, i.e. rem de qua loquor; cf. 864; 3, 1041; Hermann, Opusc. I, 308.—exponere: 121 n.

834. quam, OQ, edd. Goebel, Polle (Phil. 26, 306). quom Lachm. B. M.—principio: on 271; early edd. principium . . . quam.

835. videlicet, 'he means.'—e: Pont.; 664 n. OQ have the unmetrical de.

836. hic: Anaxagoras.—pauxillia: for the repetition see on 3, 822.

837. visceribus viscus, 'flesh'; 3, 566 n.. The sing. viscus is quoted from Ov. M. 15, 365 and from Celsus. For the repetition, 3, 71 n. The verse is quoted in full by Nonius and in part by Servius.—sanguen: 853, 860; anteclass. for sanguis. L. does not have sanguinem.

838. coentibū: 3, 52 n.

839. auri . . . aurum: Bentl. proposed, followed by Wakef. and Bock., aurae . . . auram (cf. 853), but Simplicius (Arist. Phys. 27, 2) πάρτα τὰ δύοιομερῆ οἷον ὕδωρ ή πῦρ ή χρυσόν, and terra, ignis, umor are not parts of the body; and although they are elements, yet aurum is a stock illustration in this matter. Arn. 2, 49, 'aut esse auream terram, quod in verrucula collis unius insint exiguae miculae.'—ex aurique, not exque; but eque 37 and n.—micis, 'grains'; here only in L.—consistere posse: 706.

840. terris terram: cf. the juxtaposition in 837 and 841.

841. ignibus ex: 316 n. Br. prints ignibus exiguis, following Susemihl in Phil. 44, 77, cf. 23, 461, and infers a lacuna after 840; Vict. corr. and Juntine had exiguis. The singular umorem seems out of place, and the omission of a preposition with umoribus is strange. Neumann, 48, rejects the verse with Polle, Phil. 25, 272. Lamb. ed. 2 had ignibus ex ignem humorum ex humoribus, favored by Roos, 22.

842. fingit putatque: pleonastic, after his manner.

843. ulla idem ex parte: Lachm. and most edd.; ulla idem parte OQ; ulla parte idem Preig. M. Bock. Lachm. will not allow omission of the prep. unless a gen. is added, to which M. replies that in rebus is the equivalent of one. The verse is clumsy at the best, but probably Lachm. is nearer right than Munro here. Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 318, writes nec tamen ex ulla parte idem rebus inane, which has a Lucretian rhythm; Polle, Phil. 26, 306, thinks it 'sehr ansprechend.' Roos, 23, objects to the metrical effacement of idem, if transposed. Holtze, Synt. 9, cites 4, 328 (304), quae parte interiore latebunt; Hertz, Praep. 5, proposes ulla idem parte in rebus. M. cites Livy, 10, 14, 10, nulla ex parte, 16, nec parte ulla.

844. Cf. 746–747. Woltjer, L. Phil. 29, discusses the relation of Anaxagoras and Epicurus, and compares with this passage Anaxagoras Fr. 3 D., οὗτοι τοῦ συκροῦ γέ τε τὸ εὐλάχιστον δλλά θλασσον αἰτι; cf. Zeller, I.c.

845. utraque ratione, 'both theories': (1) denial of void, (2) acceptance of infinite division with imperishability.—mihi: here only in L.; elsewhere mihi; notice that here it is under the ictus. For mihi, etc., see Cramer, Jahrb. 155, 101.

846. supra, 734 sq. The reference is to Heraclitus and Empedocles with their followers. Wakef. reads illis iuxta; O has illis vira quod, Q quo. The accepted reading is the vulgate, that of Flor. 32 in marg.

847. adde quod: 3, 829 n.—nimis: the only occurrence in the poem; elsewhere

nimis; s was weak; the next occurrence in hexam. verse of nimir is in Cicero's translation of the Iliad in Div. 2, 64. Cf. Leo, Plaut. Forsch. 268.

848. si primordia, 'if they can properly be called primordia.' — praedita constant: 581 n.

849. Notice the spondees; a monotonous verse. — atque, 'as': 4, 756; 5, 350, 1260—1261. — res, 'things which they constitute.' — que . . . et: 1106; 2, 652—653; 4, 509; 6, 1102. — laborant: 3, 176 n.

850. refrenat: a picturesque word: 6, 568, 'vis nulla refrenet | res neque ab exitio possit reprehendere euntis.' — For the form of the sentence cf. 721 n.

851. oppressu: here only in L.; cited from Sid. Apoll. once. Oppressio was the common word; see on 795. The order is oppressu sub ipsis dentibus leti, as Howard says, J. Phil. I. Cf. lapis oppressus, 3, 694. — durabit, 'hold out.' — eorum, separated from quid for metrical convenience.

852. Highly poetical. — dentibus: Cic. has faucibus fati, Arnobius, mortis in fauibus. Everett, Harv. Sl. 7, 72, wonders if Dante thought of this passage in Purg. 7, 32, dai denti morsi della morte.

853. ignis, 841; umor, 841; aura, not previously mentioned in this discussion, but one of Empedocles' elements; sanguen, 837; ossa, 835 and 860. — aura: Neumann, 48, thinks this word a certain proof of an interpolated verse; aura he thinks an ignorant plural of aurum (839). — an ossa, marg. Flor. 32, edd.; os aurum Lachm.; sanguis an os OQ. 'Argumentis non levibus impugnat versum Stürenberg, p. 424, sed videtur ferri posse, ut in opere imperfecto. certe aurum poeta in rebus, quae in valido oppressu durare non possent, potuit non sine ratione omittere'; Br. Proleg. xxxix. — Karsten, Mnem. 18, 30, proposes the unmetrical ignis an umor an aurum? terram an sanguen an ossa, thus bringing in six examples but omitting viscus; so he would reject the verse as a gloss on eorum, 851. Goebel and Bock. read sanguinis an ros; there are several other attempts; see Havercamp. Polle, Phil. 26, 306, favors osa, as in 835, plural, where other singular substantives follow. — sanguen: as he writes sanguis, 4, 1050, etc.

854. nil, 'no one.' — ex aequo: 3, 125 n. — funditus omnis: 478.

855. mortalis: as in 3, 532. — manifesta, adj. = φανέμενα, evident to the senses; 4, 504, manibus manifesta suis emittere. Cf. on 188.

856. ex oculis perire: the lex. cites abire ab oculis from Plaut. and Sen., ab oculis concedere from Cic., recedere from Pliny the Younger, ex oculis abire from Livy and also ex oculis elapsa. — vi victa, Cic. Milo 30; vi victimum, Livy 3, 49, 6.

857. reccidere, cf. reddere, relligio, reducere; reccidere 1063; 5, 280, and in Propertius, Ovid, and Juvenal; see lex. and cf. on 1, 228. — Lamb. comp. Cic. Phil. 7, 27, ad nihilum recidere. — neque autem is unclassic for neque vero; cf. Dr. II, § 335, and cf. 4, 152; 5, 366; 6, 103, 779.

858. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 273, says L. wrote crescere de nilo res ulla ante probatum; the Ms. reading res ante probatas is to him unintelligible, and so is testor. Goebel objected to the repeated res, and the use of res, 858, which occurs, he says, only in 1117 in this book with this meaning; to which Polle, Phil. 26, 304, replies that res is used in different meanings in 803 sq.; 849 sq. in different cases; and he thinks the second res has the same meaning as res in 416, 833; 2, 1024; 3, 47, 206, etc. Goebel proposed testaberis ante probatum. — crescere de nilo: cf. 185. — rently used here only in L.; the construction is regular.—res: as in rem e nilo gigni; 216, neque ad nilum interemant res.

1: 6, 946, ‘deditur in venas cibus omnis auget alitque | corporis extrebas’; cf. 1, 873. —‘The process of nutrition is not a selection merely, but n; the organized system does not find, but make, the additions to its N'hewell, Phil. of Ind. Sc. 1, 581.

licet: on 3, 229. —venas: 3, 217 n. —There is a lacuna after 860: ed a makeshift verse, ‘et nervos alienigenis ex partibus esse’; Goebel, ‘alienigenis consistere rebus’; Lachm. and M. approve Lamb.’s stopgap he argument, but Susemihl, Phil. 23, 631, infers a greater gap, missing a eat what is not contained in the body and do not eat what is contained as ossa). Roos, 24, would emend 860, sive licet nervos venasque et san-

Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 777, proposes nervosque . . . ex alienigenis et; ‘cibus ex alienigenis consistere debet quoniam corpus, i.e. venas sa nervos augit alitque'; the construction is not easy. Lohmann, 59, s no lacuna. Karsten would have nervos for nobis.

vare sine . . . core . . . esset: the reading in the text is the received ossos: 2, 879, natura cibos in corpora viva.

orum: first mentioned here in this discussion.

= corpora ossium; L. does not use ossum, probably for metrical rea-no: in a catalogue; Cic. Inv. 2, 161, ‘vis aut iniuria et omnino omne’; 1 with omne; see lex. —cruoris: cruor in a catalogue 2, 670, ‘ossa alor umor viscera nervi.’

ix. ipse, Br. Giuss. after Lohmann, 59; liquor ipse edd.; liquor cor- merum in 809; here = liquidus. —ipse: join with cibus; M. makes Punctuation as in 873, 645.

iigenis, ‘heterogeneous,’ is Lucretian: 869, 874; 5, 880. —‘Blood can blood, gold can only become gold, mix them how you will; if blood one then does bone become something out of nothing, for it was not is bone now. But as blood can only be blood and bone only be bone, y are mingled it is a mingling of two elements, homoeomeriae’; Lewes,
h. 76. L. replies that food must be heterogeneous if it contains partietc.; hence cannot be of like nature to itself.

sque, OQ, M. Giuss. Bern. Polle (Ph. 26, 207); cf. Postgate, J. Phil. 24, ie Avanc. Lachm. Br. (who favors sanieque in Append.), Susemihl, Phil.
does not use sanie elsewhere, but cf. Ennius, Sc. 363, sanie et sanguine tes Arist. Part. anim. 1, 1, p. 487 a 1, where in the enumeration of bones, n relation to homoeomeria, alua, reūpor, ðστροῦ are mentioned with ιχώρ, ording to Celsus 5, 26, 20. —mixtim, Politian, marg. Flor. 29, Bern. Br.; Lach. M. Bail.; mixta OQ. Mixtim occurs at 3, 566 in the sixth ora = res.

s, i.e. the particles of earth as in 840; but terram, ‘earth as a whole.’
tr. 67, 320, would read, ‘si sunt e terris, terram constare necessest | ex quoniam constare fatendumst ex alienigenis) quae terris exoriuntur’;
dly necessary.

869. quae: such as trees, plants.—exoriuntur: with simple abl. in 2, 152; 4, 1172.

870. transfer, 'take other cases'; cf. Cic. Orat. 1, 133, 'sermonem alio transferamus.' M. quotes Sen. Ep. 65, 3, 'quod de universo dicebam ad haec transfer.'—totidem: here only in L.; he means 'the same remarks will apply.'—Item totidem is an inelegant assonance.—utare licebit: for subjunct. with licet see on 3, 46. Lotze, Kl. Schrift. 3, 1, 104, rejects the verse.

871. lignis: pl. in L. except in 912, and 4, 148, materiam ligni. In classical authors the word in its literal sense (firewood) is used only in the plural; here it means particles of wood.—si flamma: then wood having flame within it is heterogeneous.—que . . . que: poetical, and silver prose; cf. 2, 557.

872. consistant: variation from constare, 868.

873. After this verse M. suggests a lacuna to be filled up 'ex alienigenis quae tellure exoriuntur. | sic itidem quae ligna emittunt corpora, aluntur, | ex,' etc. Br. would have no lacuna, but transfers 873 to follow 869 where he brackets it; cf. Phil. 23, 633 sq. Lachm. Bern. have no lacuna. The verse is rejected with 874 by Marullus, Bergk, Goebel, Christ, Siebelis, Roos, Susemihl; Wakef. rejects 873. The verses lost were so similar in form to some of the lines in 867–872 that the copyist overlooked them. Susemihl, Phil. 44, 78, transfers 873 to follow 860; he regarded it as another recension of 867. Giuss. brackets it with no lacuna. Polle, id. 25, 272, puts 870 after 874, and reads lignis exoriuntur.

874. M. added his; Lachm. Bern. quae alienigenis oriuntur. L. Müller, RM. 284, objects to the elision of a monosyllabic diphthong before a short vowel. Lamb. Wakef. Br. Giuss. Bail. read lignis exoriuntur, with Flor. 31, for oriuntur OQ. Woltjer in Jahrb. 119, 778 and 123, 773 would put 873–874 before 861, supplying after 860 nervosque . . . ex alienigenis consistere debet; oriri is not used elsewhere by L. with the simple abl.; this arrangement is opposed by Susemihl, Phil. 44, 78. Woltjer later, in Mnem. 24, 318, approves Lachm. reading, and against Müller cites Plaut. Trin. 7, quae abiit.

875–896. 'Anaxagoras avoids a difficulty by supposing all things to lie concealed in all things, but the most prominent element appears; if this were so then grain when ground would show blood, and grass would exude milk, and clods grain, and the like; but none of these results occur, and the supposition is incorrect.'

875. Linguitur: in the discussion.—latitandi, 'evasion'; 642 n. The word in juristic Latin means a hiding from justice.—copia: fugae copia, 983.—tenuis, 'slight.' For v, see 3, 232 n.

876. sumit: 974, 'alterutrum fatearis enim sumasque necessest'; 2, 547, 'sumantur uti.'—omnibus omnis: 3, 71 n. See the citations from Aristotle in Zeller 15, 987. This principle was no evasion to Anaxagoras, but in controversy with Epicureans it would serve his followers as a logical escape. L. strangely ignores the poëts.

877. inmixtas: in . . . mixtas, 894.—latitare, 'lie concealed,' 890; cf. 892, 895, differing in meaning from the word in 875.

878. plurima: sc. corpora.

879. magis in promptu, 'more ready to hand,' M.—primaque in fronte locata: 4, 71, 'sunt prima fronte locata,' 97, 'est in prima fronte locata.'

880. 2, 645, 'longe sunt tamen a vera ratione repulsa'; 5, 406, 'quod procul a vera nimis est ratione repulsum'; 6, 767, 'quod procul a vera quam sit ratione repulsum'; cf. 1, 637 n.

881. conveniebat, 'it were fitting'; cf. decebat below, and for the tense Holtze, 137, and for the construction, 3, 56 n.—fruges: 2, 655, 'cereremque vocare . . . fruges. — minaci, 'formidable'; Aen. 8, 668, minaci pendentem scopulo.

882. robore saxi: 2, 449, duri robora ferri. Pac. 11, fruges frendo sola saxi robore. Saxum is the millstone.—signum, 'trace'; 3, 521, mortalia signa mittit.

883. aliquid for corum quae; Plaut. Men. 192, 'quam quisquam qui impetrant.' —aluntur, OQ and most edd., to me seems suspicious. 2, 674, tamen haec in corpore condunt (?). But perhaps aluntur is simply 'grow.'

884 (885). herbis OQ, M.; herbas, vulg. Br. Giuss. Bail. Harder (WKP. 19, 166); cf. for herbis manare, 259.

885 (884). in, OQ, M. Giuss. Harder; om. vulgo. Howard and M. transposed 884–885. Br. aluntur. || * cum lapidi . . . cruorem. || consimili, etc.; this he apparently withdraws in Jahresb. 24, 128 and Appendix to his edition. Transposition, a lacuna or emendation is necessary here. Bergk in Jahrb. 67, 318 would read cum que lapi lapidem terimus manare cruorem, comparing Ennius, Ann. 398, occumbunt multi letum ferroque lapique. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 122, advocating transposition, says the construction is 'consimili ratione decebat herbas quoque, cum eas lapidi terimus in lapidem, saepe manare cruorem, et mittere dulces guttas', etc. Grass when cut should distil blood and emit fluid similar in taste to sheep's milk. M. does not change herbis, and makes cruorem subject of manare, and latices = 'water they drink.' Bock. accepts the transposition in his edition, withdrawing his opinion expressed in Jahrb. 99, 266, that the verse was a gloss on minaci robore saxi; the verse was rejected by Faber, Creech, and Bentley; Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 274, regarded it as an interpolation; Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 773, favored the transposition, but in Mnem. 24, 319 defends the Ms. order and reading, comparing Pliny, 24, 174, haec (herba) inter duos lapides trita, and supplying herbas from herbis; the meaning to be 'cum lapide herbas in lapidem terimus manare sanguinem consimili ratione ex herbis quoque oportebat, nam si herbae mechanica ratione ita sunt compositae ut sanguis in iis insit, qui ex iis transit in venas animalium, mechanica ratione fieri poterit, ut sanguis secernatur' Harder transposes, and reads liquorem for cruorem. —lapidi: 3, 132 n. The millstone of course is meant. —terimus: Plaut. As. 31, ubi lapis lapidem terit.

886. latices, OQ, M. Bock. Roos, Harder; laticis vulg. Giuss.; salices Bruno, Br. Bail.; favored by Susemihl, Phil. 44, 78, and by Postgate, J. Phil. 16, 126; cf. 2, 361. —similique sapore: qualitative to guttas understood. Bock., after Wakef., similesque, the reading of Q corr.

887. lanigerae: elsewhere pecudes is written. Pius, laniger; but laniger occurs Ov. M. 7, 312. Br. after Bruno reads lanigeris in 6, 1132. —quali, Q; qualis O; quales O corr. The construction according to Lachm. is guttas mittere tales quali oves sunt lactis ubere. —ubere lactis: ubera lactis, 2, 370. 'Simili sapore quali sapore est lac ovile. ubera lactis id est lac, lanigerae id est ovis seu ovi,' Lamb. 'Herbas ita debere mittere humorem similem illi quem lanigerae pecudes ubere lactis continent,' Preig. Ubere = sapore uberis, M. Wakef. hesitates between quales sunt guttae lactis in ubere lanigerae and quales guttae sunt lanigerae in ubere lactis. Postgate, J. Phil. 16, 126, qualis (acc. pl.) dant lactis (gen. sing.). Br. (Proleg.) quali (sapore) sunt (guttae in) ubere lactis; ubera Lamb. Bruno, Giuss., but Br. Append. says 'ubera non habent saporem nisi cum cocta edimus.' He interprets quali sapore guttae lactis sunt in lanigerae ubere.

888. scilicet: scire licet, 894. — glebis terrarum: 5, 142. — friatis, 'crumbled'; rare and technical; especially in Pliny the Elder.

889. herbarum genera: 5, 921; gensus herbarum, 5, 783. — fruges frondesque: alliterative, but rare combination. — videri, 'found'; so in 891; both dependent on decebat.

890. inter (Lachm.), 'within'; 3, 236 n. OQ in. — minute: 6, 353. 'Anaxagoras reduced chemistry to mechanics, and stripped physiology of every taint of mysticism till it was likewise brought within the purview of mechanics. . . . The theory . . . was an experiment . . . to conceive all material occurrences as effects of mechanical motion;' Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, I, 212.

891. lignis: 871.

892. foret: metr. gr. Roos, 27, would reject 891 and 892: (1) postremo offends as there is no enumeration; (2) praefracta in literal sense, when it ought to mean perfrecta = vi magna fracta; (3) cinerem fumumque is an unnecessary repetition; the verses are made up of 872-873. But praefracta means 'broken off,' and the repetition is justified in refutation.

893. quorum: videri, etc.

894. rebus res: 3, 71 n. — ita: as Anaxagoras teaches.

895. semina: primordia. — multimodis: 3, 115 n.

896. Notice the interlocking order; the grammatical would be semina multimodis innixta, multarum rerum communia, in rebus latere debent. Cf. 814, 815.

897-920. 'But tree-tops burst into flame through mutual friction; yes, still the fire is not latent in the wood, but seeds of fire meet together and produce flame; otherwise the woods would have burnt up long ago. It is of great importance how elements are arranged, just as it is with letters in words. It is ridiculous to explain phenomena by imagining first beginnings of like nature with their substance; you really lose your first beginnings by such reasoning; they themselves would laugh at you (for they would, by the hypothesis, be miniature men).'

897. At introduces an objection: 803; 6, 673. — magnis montibus: 201 n. — inquis: 803. Surely he is not addressing Memmius. — altis: 2, 20; 5, 935, 1393.

898. arboribus: 5, 1006, 'et ramos tamen cum ventis pulsa vacillans | aestuat in ramos incumbens arboris arbor, | exprimitur validis extritus viribus ignis | et micat interdum flammam servidus ardor, | mutua dum inter se rami stirpesque teruntur.' Manil. I, 857, 'cum silva sibi collisa crematur'; Thucyd. 2, 77; Actna, 365; Vitruv. 2, I.

899. validis austris: validis ventis, 3, 509 n. — facere id refers back to terantur; 667 n. — cogentibus: 6, 718, (aqüilones) cogentes.

900. Note the alliteration. — donec: 222 n. — flammai flore: flammas arbos; 4, 450, 'florentia lumina flammis'; Naev. Tyr. 48, 'ut videam Volcani opera haec flammis fieri flora.' — coorto: 2, 382, ignis . . . e taedis . . . ortus.

901. scilicet, 'yes'; 809 n. — et tamen: 3, 51 n.

902. semina ardoris: 5, 660, 'semina multa | confluere ardoris.' The seeds of heat finally produce flame.—terendo: 312 n.

903. silvis: abl.

904. facta foret abscondita, 'had been made and stored up'; cf. inmixta latere, 895; concussa cachinnant, 919; there is no necessity for taking facta as 'finished,' an adjective to flamma, which is not Lucretian. The position of facta is emphatic. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 274, reads caeca for facta.—abscondita: Thielmann, Archiv 6, 164, notices that this participle in the hexameter poets has this metrical position.—flamma: not heat.

905. A monotonous verse.—tempus: cf. 582.—celarier: in fifth foot and before a vowel; 3, 67 n.

906. conficere, 'destroy'; 238, volgo | conficeret.—arbusta: 187 n. For the asyndeton cf. 3, 156; owing to the harshness Bock. reads conficere et; MSS. have conficeret changed by Q corr.

907. iamne vides igitur: 2, 277, 883; 4, 214; cf. 5, 561; 'do you finally see then (from my explanation) ?'—paulo quod diximus ante: 794 n.; ante, i.e. 817 sq.

908. Cf. 817, 'atque eadem magni refert primordia saepe.' Gneisse, 56, thinks there is an interpolation here as far as 914, from 2, 1008–1009, on account of saepe, where the sense demands semper, and he also thinks that the comparison between ignis and lignum is not due to the author; refuted by Lohmann, 21, as lignum and ignes are paulo inter se mutata in respect to their letters; cf. 902. Cf. Feustell, 24.

909 = 818.

910 = 819. Notice the varying position of inter se in 910, 911, 913.

911. mutata: in position.

912. pacto: 84 n. For the comparison, see 823 sq. Cf. Arist. Met. 1, 4, διαφέρει τὸ μὲν Α τοῦ Ν σχῆματι, τὸ δὲ ΑΝ τοῦ ΝΑ τάξει, τὸ δὲ Ζ τοῦ Ν θέσει. Faber illustrated by amor, mora, roma; kouros, kerob, kerobs. M. translates 'fires and firs.'

913. sunt elementis: 3, 216 n. Tetrasyll. at close, but word accent retained.

914. notemus, OQ, edd.; notamus Br., but cf. 519. Good translates, 'as flue and fuel, terms of different sound.'

915. denique iam: 584.—rebus apertis: cf. 297 n.; 4, 54, 811; 5, 1062.

916. fleri: the subject is the omitted antecedent of quaecumque.—materiai | corpora: 565, 951.

917. consimili: 842; cf. 848.

918. hac ratione, 'on this theory.'—tibi pereunt, 'you lose your first beginnings,' because they will be concrete and animated substances. Br. in Proleg. translates, 'du hast in ihnen keine Urkörper mehr.'

919. 2, 976–977, 'scilicet et risu tremulo concussa cachinnant | et lacrimis spar-gunt rorantibus ora genasque,' of primordia; 4, 1176, famulae c.; always of scornful laughter in L.—concussa: Juv. 3, 100, 'cachinno | concutitur.' Vss. 919–920 were suspected by Forbiger (Diss. 47), and rejected by Polle, Artis Vocab. 26, who after stating Forbiger's objection that they are abrupt and out of place, and Purmann's opinion that they would have been rejected on the revision of the poem, rejects them on the ground (1) of the asyndeton, (2) of the inconsistency in the connection here and in Book 2, there hominum primordia, here rerum primordia are described. Gneisse, 76, rejects them also on the ground of pereunt, because concussa cachinnant, not pereunt; and Neumann, 23, also, as an annotation of Lachmann's lector philosophus. Lohmann, 27, defends them. It is not necessary to presume that Anaxagoras gave his elements these qualities; L. means that they might have had them by the doctrine of homoeomeria. Br. Prol. cites a similar asyndeton in 4, 940 (959); the poet might have written nam pars certe eorum fleret et cachinnaret, if he had wished.

920. salsis: 125 n.—umectent: Aen. 1, 465, 'umectat flumina voltum'; Ov. M. 9, 656, 'umectat lacrimarum gramina rivo.'—ora genasque: on 3, 1094. M. remarks on L.'s custom of closing a long discussion with a short argument appealing to common sense as in 701, 759, 998. Cf. also 4, 1286; 5, 561, 602, 646.

921–950. 'Now for the rest listen; I know the obscurity of the subject, but great hope of praise has inspired me to tread these untrodden byways of the muses, and to seek there an illustrious crown, because I teach great things and relieve the mind from religion, touching all with the charm of poetry. For as physicians sweeten the wormwood, so I set forth this doctrine with the honey of the muses, that I may hold your attention until you see the shape and frame of nature.'

921. quod superest: 50 n. Bock. superent, sc. primordia.—cognoscere: 403.—clarius: of hearing; see lex. Cf. Bruns, 7, for the relation of this passage to the invocation at the beginning of the book; and on verse 1.

922. Br. infers a lacuna between 921 and 922, on account of the use of quod superest as object; but cf. 2, 183 and the contrast between clarius and obscura. See Phil. 14, 564, and Polle, id. 26, 307.—fallit: 136 n.—acri: 3, 461 n.

923. percussit: 2, 886, 'animum quod percutit'; 3, 159, 'quae (anima) cum animi vi | percussast'; Hor. Epd. 11, 2, 'amore percussum gravi,' and Bentley there; Georg. 2, 476 '(Musarum), quarum sacra fero ingenti percussus amore'; Aen. 9, 197, 'mago laudum percussus amore.'—thyrso: 'goad'; Ov. Tr. 1, 43, 'sic ubi mota calent viridi mea pectora thyrso'; id. Am. 3, 1, 23, 'tempus erat thyrso pulsum graviore moveri.'—laudis modifies spes.

924. incussit amorem, 19 n.—mi in: legitimate elision; Müller, RM. 283. Mi for meum as tibi, 948, nobis, 3, 120; Archiv 8, 42.

925. instinctus: classical only in pf. pass. part.

926. avia: 2, 145, nemora avia and elsewhere.—Pieridum: only here and in the repetition in Book IV, 1–25 in L. Grasberger, 31, and Forbiger think the passage is interpolated here. Quintilian quotes the first four words as an example of allegory (8, 6, 45).—peragro: 74 n.—nullius: 3, 97 n.—For his boast see Introd., 21.

927. integros: V. Ecl. 4, 5; Hor. S. 2, 2, 113.—accedere, 'draw near'; 5, 1199, 'omnes accedere ad aras.' Cic. and Caes. do not have accedere with direct object, and L. only here; cf. Thes. 1, 271, 52.—fontis: 412, 'largos haustus e fontibus magnis.'—For the thought cf. Georg. 2, 175, 'sanctos ausus recludere fontis'; id. 3, 289, quoted on 136; Stat. Silv. 2, 2, 38, 'resereturque arcana pudicos | Phemonoe fontes.' Nem. Cyn. 8, 'duciturque per avia, qua sola numquam | trita rotis. iuvat aurato procedere curru.' In Hor. C. 1, 26, 6, 'O, quae fontibus integris | gaudes,' integrī is 'pure.' Parody in Hor. S. 2, 4, 93, 'at mihi cura | non mediocris inest, fontis ut adire remotos | atque haurire queam vitae praecepta beatæ.'—Ov. M. 15,

143. 'et quoniam Deus ora movet, sequare ora moventem | rite deum, Delphosque meos ipsumque recludam | aethera et augustae reserabo oracula mentis. | magna, nec ingenii evestigata priorum, | quaeque diu latuere, canam. iuvat ire per alta | astra ; iuvat terris et inertis sede relicta | nube vehi.' — Hor. Ep. 1, 19, 21, 'libera per vacuum posui vestigia princeps, | non aliena meo pressi pede.'

928. haurire: Prop. 3, 1, 5, 'dicite, quo pariter caram tenuastis in antro ? quo pede ingressi ? quamve bibistis aquam ?' Lucil. 30, 2, 'quantum haurire animus Musarum ec fontib' gestit.'

929. insignem: 6, 95, 'te duce ut insigni capiam cum laude coronam.' — inde, 'from the place where' ; but Bock. thinks it means Epicurus' philosophy, as it does metaphorically.

930. nulli: dat., as in 3, 971. — tempora, 'temples' ; 6, 1194, cava tempora ; Hor. C. 1, 7, 7, undique decerpitam fronti praeponere olivam.

931. primum . . . deinde: notice the reasons given. — magnis, 'important' ; 4, 1018 ; 5, 393, 1164. — doceo: 3, 31 n. — rebus: cf. 127, 'cum superis de rebus habenda | nobis est ratio.' — artis: 70 n.

932. religionum nodis: L. evidently felt the connexion of religio with ligare, whose root is found in Eng. 'oblige.' For the etymology see on 109. Lact. Inst. 4, 28, 3 sq., rejects Cicero's derivation (ND. 2, 72) from religendo: 'eo melius ergo id nomen Lucretius interpretatus est, qui ait religionum se nodos solvere.' Lact. quotes this line of L. in Inst. 1, 16 (reading animos . . . pergo) with the remark, 'qui quidem hoc efficere non poterat, quia nihil veri afferebat.' — pergo: 16 n. Roos keeps porgo of OQ.

933. deinde: dissyllabic, as necessarily when in this metrical position. — obscura . . . lucida: 136 n. sq., where obscura and inlustrare are opposed ; cf. also on 639. — pango: 25 n.

934. musaeo lepore: 947, musaeo melle ; 2, 412, musaea mele. — contingens: 938 ; 4, 407, '(montes) contingens servidus igni,' of the sun ; 6, 1188, 'croci contracta colore' ; Catull. 64, 408, 'nec se contingi patiuntur lumine claro.'

935. id : i.e. contingens lepore. — ab : 'ab originem exprimit, quasi : non ab nulla ratione profectum,' Holtze, 53. Cf. 5, 604, solis ab igni . . . ardor and Hertz, 17. Cf. on 693. — ratione: 215 times in all ; ratio, 44 ; rationis, 7 ; rationi, 2 ; rationem, 17 ; ratione, 139 ; rationes, acc. 3 ; rationibus, 3. Metrical position: 1st and 2d feet 29 times, 2d and 3d, 38 ; 3d and 4th, 49 ; 4th and 5th, 84 ; 5th and 6th, 15.

936. veluti: sic, 943. — pueris: 3, 87 n. — absinthia: pl. metr. gr.; Quint. 3, 1, 4, quotes these lines, adding, 'sed nos veremur ne parum hic liber mellis et absinthii multum habere videatur, sitque salubrior studiis quam dulcior.' Quint. reads ac veluti . . . aspirant mellis. Cf. Sir Philip Sidney's Defence of Poetry, ed. Cook, p. 23, 'Even as the child is often brought to take most wholesome things by hiding them in such others as have a pleasant taste,— which, if one should begin to tell them the nature of the aloes or rhubarb they should receive, would sooner take their physic at their ears than at their mouth.' Hor. S. 1, 1, 25, 'ut pueris olim dant crustula blandi | doctores, elementa velint ut discere prima.' Pius quotes Jerome, in Ruf. I, § 463 M. 'te veneni calicem circumlinere melle voluisse ut simulata dulcedo virus pessimum tegeret,' and Aus. Ep. 17, 'tum absinthium meum resipit et circumlita melle tuo pocula deprehendo.' Cf. also Sen. Suas. 6, 16, 'decipere vos cogar veluti salutarem pueris datus potionem absinthiati poculi'; Pliny, Ep. 1, 8, 12, 'medici salubres sed voluptate carentes cibos blandioribus adloquuis prosecuntur.' Something similar in Plato's Laws, 659 e, καθάπερ τοῖς κάμρουσι τε καὶ ἀσθενῶς ισχουσι τὰ σώματα ἐν ἡδεῖ τιοὶ στροφοὶ καὶ πωμασι τὴν χρηστὴν πειρῶνται τροφὴν τροσφέρειν κτλ.—taetra, of viri 2, 476, veneno 4, 685. It evidently = 'bitter' from 1, 940; 2, 400.—medentes, 'healers,' poet. and post Augustan.

937. conantur, 'purpose'; 25 n.—oras, 'rims.'—circum: anastrophic, 316 n.

938. Spondaic monotony.—mellis: mellis lactisque liquores, 2, 398.—flavo: Mart. I, 55, 10, flavaque de rubro promere mella cado.

939. aetas: 2, 1071, enumerare aetas animantium non queat omnis.

940. tenuis: usually with abl.; with gen. rarely: Cic. Arat. 83, and L. here furnish the earliest examples; Dr. Synt. I, § 295. Peck, APA. 28, 68, notes that Cic., Lucr., and Catull. (64, 18) each use tenuis but once with the gen., the noun being in the plural, denoting bodily organs, and placed at the beginning of the line. Lane, LG. 1420, explains the word here as a substantive, 'the length' = 'up to.' Cf. also Archiv 1, 426, and 9, 15.—perpotet: per, 'up'; an unexampled meaning except in the Vulgate; Rönsch, Itala, 375.

941. absinthi: L. contracts ii in the gen. sing. of nouns; Cartault, 16; cf. on 313 and on 5, 1006.—deceptaque non capiatur, 'though beguiled yet not betrayed,' M. For the oxymoron see on 3, 779. M. compares Ant. and Cleop. 5, 2, 40, 'Who are in this | Relieved, but not betrayed,' and Fairfax, 'They drink deceived and so deceived they live.' Sen. de Clement. 1, 17, 'citius meliusque sanaturus remediis fallentibus.'

942. pacto, edd., facto OQ; furto Bock. (Jahrb. 99, 267); tactu Lamb. Lachm. shows that facto refers to the subject of the verb and would refer to aetas if read; in 3, 850, the sense is ambiguous; hoc facto, tali f., quo f. are not used by good poets (in cultiore poesin non admittitur). Cf. the same corruption in 789.

943. ratio, 'doctrine,' philosophy; 51 n.

944. tristior, 'rather bitter'; tristia centaurea, 4, 125; sapore tristia, 6, 780; triste et amarumst, 4, 634, opposed to suavis et almus. Livy 42, 40, 3, 'medici cum causa salutis tristiora remedia adhibent.'—quibus: dat. of person concerned; 'for whom it is an untried theme,' Holtze, 43. L. does not use the dat. of agent with the pf. part.; that the person interested is the agent is only an inference: Gild.-Lodge, LG. 354.

945. Note the dactyls.—vulgus: 315 n.—abhorret, 'shrinks back from'; rare in this sense.—suaviloquenti: L. is fond of such compounds; cf. suavidicis, 4, 180; horrisono, 5, 109; altivolans, 5, 433; the first and third had been used by Ennius. Gellius (12, 2) says Ennius' suaviloquens (ἡθυετής) was criticized in Cicero by Seneca, and also breviloquentia.

946. carmine: with two adjectives; 258 n.—exponere: 121 n.

947. melle: poetica mella, Hor. Ep. 1, 19, 44 and Schmid, Hor. Ep. 1, p. 93.

948. animum . . . tenere: 4, 972, 'in somnis animos hominum frustrata tenere.'

949. possem, 'in the hope that I might,' etc.; si = (to see) whether.—dum: 5, 769, 'cur nequeat (luna) certa mundi languescere parte | dum loca luminibus propriis inimica per exit.' Richardson, 'De Dum particula,' 61, gives many examples of dum, 'until,' with pr. ind., e.g. Plaut. Curc. 227, 'hic dum abit, huc concessero'; Ter. Ad. 196, 'delibera hoc dum ego redeo.' Cf. Dr. II. § 507; Lane, 2006.

950. qua: 'of what shape it is made up'; i.e. its shape and frame, as M. puts it. — compta: 3, 259 n. For the synonymous verbs, 3, 30 n. figura, 'shape'; cf. on 3, 190.

951—957. 'The next question is whether there is any limit to the sum of first beginnings; and as to the void, whether that is limited or unmeasurable.'

951. docui: 486 sq. But strictly speaking, he has not discussed the constant movement of atoms yet, and does not until in the second book. See Braun, L. de atomis doctr. 34.—solidissima: 565.

952. perpetuo: 5, 161, 'perpetuo aevo.'—volitare: 3, 33 n.—invicta: cf. 612.

953. summai: 2, 338, 'nam cum sit eorum (principiorum) copia tanta | ut neque finis, uti docui, neque summa sit ulla.' Bock. thinks summai a dative; cf. 453. There is some ambiguity as to whether the poet means that there is a limit to the sum, i.e. the number of the atoms; or that there is a limit to the universe which is the aggregate of atoms, disregarding the void; the former is more likely. Watson's tr. 'whether there be a limit to their aggregate,' keeps the ambiguity.

954. necne: 4, 381, eadem vero sint lumina necne.—evolvamus: metaphor common in this period but here only in L.

955. seu: 6, 1003, semina sive aestum; Dr. II, § 346.—locus ac spatium: 472 is almost the same as 955.

956. pervideamus: 2, 90.—funditus: 478.

957. immensum: adj. agreeing with omne.—vaste, 'enormously'; cited in lex. from Mela, I, I, 4.

958—983. 'The universe is unbounded, for it has no outside. A thing cannot have an outside unless there is a boundary there; there is nothing outside of the universe. If there were an extreme border, one might throw a spear and it would go on or something would stop it; whether it goes or stops, in either case, you have not reached the end.'—On this argument see Hörschelmann, Obs. L. Alterae, Susemühl, Phil. 44, 78, Woltjer, L. Phil., etc., 31 sq.; Gneisse, Jahrb. 121, 837. Susemühl and Hörschelmann hold that there are but two parts of the general discussion, viz. 958—1007 and 1008—1051. Most scholars find a threefold division; 958—983 illimitability of the universe, 984 sq. illimitability of space, and finally 1008 sq. illimitability of the atoms. Susemühl would bracket 958—967. Br.'s last arrangement is 958—967, 1008—1013, 998—1001, 968—983, 984—997, 1002—1007 (Jahresb. 30, 161).

958. omne quod est, the existing universe (cf. 523, 969) made of body and void; τὸ τὸν ἀτερπός ἔστι, Ep. ad Herod. 41.—igitur seems to refer back to locus ac spatium, etc., in 955 and omne in 956. Igitur is sometimes used to introduce a disquisition ('well, then').—regione, 'direction'; 2, 249 '(recta) regione viarum declinare'; 4, 1272, 'recta regione viaque vomeris'; Aen. 1, 737, 'regione viarum', cf. 7, 215, etc.; Livy 21, 31, 9, 'recta regione iter instituit'; Roby, 1173. In general, 2, 1048, 'principio nobis in cunctas undique partis | et latere ex utroque (supra) superque per omne | nulla est finis.' M., 'take whichever of the roads through the universe you please, at no point in any of them will you reach its bound.'

959. finitumst: cf. 961, 998, etc.—debebat is Lucretian; 3, 187 n. Bock.

982. fiet uti: a prosaic formula forming a periphrasis.

983. effugium fugae: assonance; fugae modifies copia; cf. 875.—prolatet, 'extend'; in this meaning in Tacitus and Columella.

984–997. 'Again, if all space were shut in and bounded by fixed borders, the store of matter would have run together at the bottom as a mass by settling down; but, as things are, there is no rest to atoms because there is no bottom to which they may sink.'

984. spatium: the space which the universe (summa) occupies. Cf. Ep. ad Herod. 41, καὶ μῆρ καὶ τῷ πλήθει τῶν σωμάτων ἀπειρόν εστι τὸ τάν καὶ τῷ μεγέθει τοῦ κενοῦ.

985. consisteret . . . confuxet: Dr. Synt. II, § 550, knew of but four examples of this form of conditional sentence: two from Terence and one from Cic. Lane (2095) adds one from Plautus.

986. copia materiali: 3, 193 n.

987. undique, 'from all directions.'—ponderibus, 'by reason of the weight of the atoms'; 6, 837, 'in terram delabi pondere cogit.'—solidis: with ponderibus in 2, 88.—confuxet: rare contraction; cf. vixet, Aen. 11, 118.—imum: 993.

988. geri: as in 129.—caeli tegmine: 2, 663; 5, 1016; Cic. Arat. 47, whence L. may have got it.

989. caelum, etc.: a necessary correction of the previous statement.

990. quippe ubi: 182 n.—cumulata, 'in a heap,' through the force of gravity, which causes the settling (subsidendo). Lucretius' notion, as Mallock says, that weight is the tendency of every substance to be ever falling downward is unthinkable; for how in infinity can there be an up or down? (Lucretius, 153.)

991. ex infinito tempore: cf. 550.—subsidendo: 5, 495, 'terrae . . . pondus | constitut atque omnis mundi quasi limus in imum | confuxit gravis et subsedit funditus ut faex.'

992. at nunc nimirum: 561; cf. 169 n.—requies: metr. gr. for quies; so in 4, 227; 6, 94, 933, 1178. Cf. 2, 95, 'nimirum nulla quies est | reddit corporibus primis'; Aen. 6, 600, 'nec fibris requies datur ulla.'

993. nullast: see Lachmann's exhaustive note here on the prodelision of est.—funditus: as usual, in the fifth foot and modifying an adjective following: 1, 478 n.—There is no bottom upon which the atoms may rest.

994. quasi confluere: in 987 there was no apology for confuxet, and in 5, 496, the quasi seems to excuse limus and not confuxit; imum in both places seems not to be apologized for; probably, then, sedes ponere rather than confluere is the occasion of quasi. Aen. 3, 88, has ponere sedes.

995. semper emphasizes the thought in nulla requies.—adsiduo motu: cf. 2, 97, and 4, 392.

996. e: added by Mon. Lachm. edd.; in Marull., old vulgate, Br.; cf. 217. Tr. 'on all sides.'—infernaque, OQ, M. Br. Giuss.; aeternaque Lachm. Bern. Br. explains as etiam inferna, cf. 2, 1010 sq., noticing the alliteration with infinito. M. translates 'from beneath.' Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 133, would read inferneque (now favored by Br. in Appendix); see on 666 for -eque, but L. does not add this to adverbs with short e. Haupt and Siebelis proposed eque in 997, interpreting inferna as inferna loca.—'L. unconsciously assumed the world as his basis by which to measure direction and velocity,' as M. quotes from Jenkin (see on 360), 'thus inferring motion upwards from the clashing of the atoms.' Cf. Purmann, Beiträge, 33; Polle, Phil. 26, 307; Br. id. 23, 635.

997. ex infinito, 'out of infinite space'; so in 1036, but in 1025 the reference is to time.—cita, 'stirred to action'; cf. 2, 85.

998–1001. 'Finally there is a boundary line to objects in nature, but nothing limits the universe.'—M. and Bailey transfer this passage to follow 983; it is certainly unharmonious here, and another proof of the unfinished state of the poem. Br. after Hörschelmann, Obs. L. all. 21, brackets it in his text as interrupting the argument, but removes the brackets in his Appendix. Goebel, who is followed by Giussani (see Note Lucret. 14), arranges: 1002–1007, 998–1001, 1008 sq.; 1013 *; Bindseil, 998–1001, 1008–1013 * 984–987, 1002–1007 * 1014. See on 958–983 for Brieger's last (1902) arrangement. Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 323, agrees with Hörschelmann that from 951 to 1007 L. 'de eo quod omne est et universo spatio coniunctum disputat,' and that 998–1007 should not be removed elsewhere, but maintains that they do not interrupt the argument.

998. ante oculos, 'visibly'; 3, 185 n.—res rem: for the juxtaposition, 3, 71 n.

999. dissaepti: a very rare word; dissaepita in 6, 951.—montes: not a mere variation from collis, but intentional; the mountains bound a wider space, inasmuch as they bound the view in all directions, thus limiting the air.

1002–1051. 'Space, then, is illimitable, and nature compels the universe to be also unlimited, since both body and void alternately bound each other, thus permitting the world to be made and to remain in being; for the first beginnings in constant motion have come into the relations through which the world is made up, and by which the sea, rivers, beasts, and men are able to remain in existence by supplying their lost substance. Blows merely from the outside cannot keep together the world, for then some atoms will give way; many atoms are necessary and blows also, and so a boundless store of matter.'

1002. natura loci spatiumque profundi: 5, 370.—profundi: noun, 2, 1051, 1095; 6, 485, all gen. sing.; but ponti profunda, 5, 417.

1003. quod: acc. with percurregere.—clara fulmina: cf. 6, 84.—percurrere: cf. 6, 324.—cursu: cf. 6, 345.

1004 is repeated at 5, 1216.—labentia: of lightnings, 6, 334; cf. 1, 2 n.

1005. nec prorsum: 3, 45 n.—facere ut: cf. on 4, 273.—restet minus: 3, 547.—ire: Holtze, 125, says consilium sive necessitatem exprimit; 5, 227, 'cui tantum in vita restet transire malorum'; cf. 3, 86 n.—meando: join with facere; nec meando facere (possint) ut restet minus ire.

1006. passim: 2, 688; 5, 824.—copia: sc. spatii; 5, 359, nulla loci fit copia.

1007. finibus: sc. spatii.—in cunctas undique partis: cf. 2, 93, 131, 1134; 4, 165, 725; 5, 469 with 4, 226, 240; 6, 932. L. likes to put undique, a convenient dactyl, the next to the last word in the verse between two closely related words: 256; 2, 916, 990; 3, 434, 356, 833.

1008. M. Bock. Bail. make a new paragraph here.—modum, 'limit,' 964.—summa: 235 n., and M. here on the vagueness of the term; as Bock. remarks,

232, 'hae faciunt magnos longinqui temporis annos, | cum redeunt ad idem caelū sub tegmine signum.'

1030. ut, 'when.' —convenientis: 2, 712, convenientis | efficiunt motus; cf. 2, 941 —

1031. largis: cf. 230, 282. —avidum: Hor. C. 1, 28, 18, exitio est avidum mar- naus. —fluminis undis: 4, 421, amnis undas.

1032. integrat: 2, 1146, omnia debet enim cibus integrare novando. —terra = 5, 796, e terra quoniam sunt cuncta creata. —vapore, 'heat': 3, 126 n.

1033. fota: 807. —fetus: 193 n. —summissa: 8 n. MSS. have summa; Br- formerly summaque ut.

1034. floreat: 5, 1279, floretque repertum; id. 214, omnia florent. —vivant = 5, 476, of planets, sunt ut corpora viva | versent. Cf. 1, 231 and n., and Masson, At. Th. 148. —labentes: 2 n. —aetheris: 5, 585, aetheris ignes.

1035. pacto: 307 n.

1036. infinito: sc. spatio. Bock. infinita. —suboriri: 1049; 2, 1138, suborir- ac suppeditare; found only in L., Pliny, and Arnob. The preposition implies motion from below as well as assistance; cf. summissa, 1033. Giuss. makes it merely synonym of suppeditari, comparing 5, 303; 2, 1138.

1037. amissa: cf. amittens corpus, 1039, and on 810. —reparare is used by the poets and late writers particularly of loss and damage. Cartault would have repar- rari, cf. 5, 734. —in tempore: cf. 351. —quaeque with amissa, objects of reparare. Inferior readings are omissa, reparari, quoque.

1038. cibo: 4, 859, 'natura cibum quaerit cuiusque animantis.' See Masson, 290 and cf. I, 194.

1039. difflit: 4, 860, 'fluere atque recedere corpora rebus.' —omnia: sc. i- summa.

1040. defecit suppeditare, 'failed to be at hand.' The infinitive with deficere is quoted from Paneg. ad Mess. 191; Prop. I, 8, 23; Sil. 3, 112. Brenous, Hell. 312, regards it as a grecism.

1041. ratione: regione, old vulgate, favored by Cartault, 4. —viai: Q corr. edd.; via OQ: viaque Lachm. Bern. Ennius Ann. 202, quo . . . sese flexere viai, where viai perhaps goes with quo. Purmann, 34, compares Tac. Ann. 14, 26, aversos animi; Hidén, Synt. II, 43, takes viai with ratione, comparing iter . . . viai, 5, 1124. Polle proposed aversa meatu (Phil. 26, 309).

1042. plagae, impact of uncombined atoms on things; Masson, 230. —extrin- secus: 528 n.

1043. conservare: cf. servata, 1029. —conciliata: 3, 865 n.

1044. cudere is not classic. —crebro, adv. —morari, 'keep'; these blows are preservative, not destructive; pressure from without sometimes keeps things together. 2, 233, rem quamque morari.

1045. veniant: i.e. subveniant. —aliae: sc. plagae principiorum and hence the primordia themselves. As L. does not use atomi, it cannot be understood with aliae. —queatur: cf. potestur, 3, 1010 and n.

1046. una, adv.; 3, 146 n.

1047. fugai: possibly dative: 453 n. The impact of atoms keeps things together by pressure, yet the pressure is not constant and uniform, for if it were, things would continually grow. At times the atoms are in opposition, so that things in being may keep from entanglement with other things and from atoms outside of their own body. There must be an infinite supply of atoms to replace wear and tear, but they must sometimes rebound, so as not to destroy the separate existence of things. Other atoms go free because they are incapable of union.

1048. Note the spondees. — possint: sc. primordia rerum, which may be free from combination with other atoms. — a occurs 178 times in L.; Polle Jahrb. 101, 217. — libera; 3, 568, primordia possunt | libera dissultare.

1049. quare etiam atque etiam: 3, 228 n. — multa: sc. primordia. Winckelmann puts 1049 after 1051, adding 1102–1113; opposed by Polle (Phil. 26, 309).

1050. et tamen: cf. 5, 1096 and on 3, 51. Besides blows, atoms are necessary. — suppetere: only here for his more common suppeditare.

1051. opus: 3, 967 n.

1052–1082. ‘Do not believe that all things tend to a centre, and so the world can endure without external blows and the upper and lower parts need not separate; that heavy bodies under the earth press upward and are upside down on top of the earth; that living beings walk head downward and so do not fall off into heaven, and that they see the sun while we see the night. There is no centre to an infinite universe; void always gives way in all directions, and there is no place where bodies lose weight, and therefore rest; nor can void support bodies; a centre cannot hold things together.’ See Masson, 149; Lange, Materialism, 2, 136.

1052. fuge credere: Cic. Orat. 3, 153, neque enim illud fugerim dicere; Hor. C. 1, 9, 13, fuge credere; Blase, Hist. Gr. 3, 255, and cf. on 1, 658. — Memmi: on 42. The word comes unexpectedly, as if it had displaced something else.

1053. medium is technical for centre. — quod: the antecedent is illud and omnia nisi is epexegetical of both: cf. quod dico, 2, 870; quod aiunt, 3, 754 and n. there. — dicunt, sc. Sloici, although the opinion was held by the old Academics and the Peripatetics. — Cic. ND. 2, 115, ‘omnes enim partes eius (mundi) undique medium locum capessentes nituntur aequaliter. maxime autem corpora inter se iuncta permanent, cum quasi quodam vinculo circumdato colligantur.’ — niti: nixa, 1056; 6, 335 natura pondera deorsum | omnia nituntur.

1054. atque ideo; 3, 535 n. — stare, ‘stays in position’.

1055. externis: cf. extrinsecus, 1042. — quoquam, ‘in any direction’; rare; cf. on 428. — resolvi; cf. 628.

1056. summa atque ima: 2, 488, summa atque ima locans. — nixa: cf. 5, 909; L. does not use the participle nitus.

1057. Br. and Bailey place this verse within parentheses; it is of course parenthetical. Creech thought the parenthesis included all to videmus, 1060. Oppenrieder, 13, would read ni in this verse and nam et in the next, transferring 1060 to follow 1061. — ipsum goes with se in thought, but with quicquam in syntax, according to Latin usage. — in se sistere, ‘rest on itself’; 2, 603, ‘neque posse in terra sistere terram.’ — credis: i.e., the reader; 4, 366, ‘aera si credis privatum lumine posse | indulgredi’; cf. 3, 927.

1058. et: Wakef. proposed aut. — pondera, ‘heavy bodies’; 2, 190, ‘pondera, quantum in se est, cum deorsum cuncta ferantur.’ — sunt, OQ; sint Br. Giuss., see Phil. 23, 638; against the change see M. The construction returns to credere after the parenthetical remark. — sub terris, ‘below the surface of the earth’; the motion

'those which are contained in earthy substances, so to say'; whether water or solids, it is impossible to decide; more likely the reference is to solids, yet qua may refer forward to umorem. Bentl. thought the verse spurious. Pascal, Stuc 121, with great probability makes the references to animal and vegetable formation that are made of the earth mostly (quasi); Arist. de Caelo, IV, 4, ὅτα γῆς ἔχει πλεῖστος

1086. umorem ponti: 5, 261, umore novo mare . . . abundare.

1087. tenuis aeris auras: 2, 232, naturaque tenuis | aeris, and cf. on 3, 222.

1088. calidos ignes: 3, 126 n.

1089. tremere, 'quivers.' 5, 587, tremor (ignium) est clarus: 5, 697, tremulus iubar ignis.—aethera: 231 n.; here used loosely for the atmosphere, as ether above the stars.

1090. caeli caerulea: 6, 96; Enn. Sc. 292, 'lumine sic tremulo terra et cava caerulea carent'; Ann. 49, 'ad caeli caerulea templa'; the blue of heaven. For the gen. see on 315.

1091. se ibi: for the elision see on 136.

1092. arboribus: for the dative see on 3, 257.—A spurious verse, quippe calcivesci e terra mortalia saecula, is inserted here in inf. MSS. and some old edition. Bentl. wished to reject 1092 and 1093. Bouterwek rejected 1092 as foreign to the argument, and thought frondescere not Lucretian; but such a word is Ennian at L. may well have used it.

1093. terris: terra would be metrical here.

1094-1101. Here is a gap in the MSS. corresponding to the mutilated verse 1068 sq. The early editors, unwilling to acknowledge the lacuna, tried various changes: the old vulgate had a spurious verse, terra det et supra circumtegere omnem caelum, continuing with 1102; Lamb. changed 1093 to quisque cibetur. M. thought the lacuna contained something like the following: 'diffundat truncum ac ram natura per omnis | scilicet incerto diversi errore vagantes | argumenta sibi prorsus pugnantia fingunt. quae tamen omnia sunt falsa ratione recepta. | nam quoniam docui spatium sine fine modoque | inmensum patere in cunctas undique partis, | parili ratione necessest suppeditetur | infinita etiam vis undique materiali.' Brieg stopgap may be found in Ph. 23, 639; Goebel's in id. 14, 565.

1102. volucri: volans ignis, 6, 87, 383; volucri lumine, 6, 173; flammarum volantes, 5, 1191.—ritu: introducing a comparison, 5, 117.—moenia mundi: 7

1103. diffugiant: 3, 222 n.—soluta: Sen. Ep. 9, 16, resoluto mundo.

1104. cetera: in addition to moenia.

1105. tonitralia, Lamb. Wakef. and late edd.; tonetralia OQ; penetralia N. Lachm. Bern. M.—Br., Proleg., maintains 'caelum quod avido complexu caelum saepit nullo modo penetrale dici potest'; cf. Ph. 23, 641 and Everett, Harv. S. 7, 27. Tonitrum occurs in 6, 164, from which tonitralis could be formed. Netship in J. Ph. 20, 181 defends tonitralia by the analogy of tonitruum, adj., given by Asper in Hagen's Anecd. Helv. 41, 26. The regular adjective would be the unmetrical tonitralis, which occurs in Cic. Div. 1, 72 and Apul. de Mundo 75, 6. Those who read penetralia explain it as referring to the abodes of the gods (3, 18 sq.—cf. Wolff, De L. vocabulis, p. 8. Porta tonat caeli, Georg. 3, 261).

1106. raptim: 6, 605, 'ne pedibus raptim tellus subtracta feratur | in barathrum rerumque sequatur prodita summa | funditus et fiat mundi confusa ruina.'—om.

ed. and MSS.; omnia Lachm., who cites Aen. 6, 33, where omnia comes at the end of the line, and other cases not so certain; omne Bern. Cf. on 2, 719. Omnis goes with abeat. Bock. omnes, referring to a supposed homines in the gap.

1107. Note the spondees. — rerum, ‘nature,’ ‘world,’ the whole, of which caeli is a part; but, as M. thinks, it may mean things on the earth merely as opposed to those in the sky.

1108. corpora, combinations of atoms; 6, 235, soluens differt primordia vini. — solventes, ‘decomposing’; with ruinas. — abeat, Bouterwek, edd.; abeant Lachm.; aveant OQ. — inane profundum, 2, 96, 222.

1109. temporis puncto: 4, 164, 193; but tempore puncto, 2, 263, 456, etc., only in L. Cf. 1, 1016. — reliquiarum: M. cites Cic. Fam. 12, 4, 1, reliquiarum nihil fruisset.

1110. Note the spondees. — primordia caeca: 3, 247 n. On the easy destructibility of a chance-made world which is like a many-sided crystal, subject to the slightest flaw, see Masson, p. 32 sq.

1111. parti: 3, 611; 4, 515; 5, 511, 721; 6, 694, 721; Pl. Men. 479; see on 978 and Neue, s.v. — desse: 43 n.

1112. constitues: 643 n. — ianua leti: 5, 373, of caelum; see on 3, 67.

1113. Note the dactyls. — turba: 3, 928 n. — foras dabit: foras prodita, 3, 603; from the world to the universe.

1114–1117. ‘Let my work lead you on to increasing knowledge, that you may see the secrets of nature.’

1114. sic, OQ, Br. Bail.; sei M. Giuss. with inferior MSS. and Itali; scio Lachm.; siz Bern. — pernosces . . . perductus: cf. on 3, 937. With pernosces cf. pervideas, 1117. — perductus, OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; perdoctus Lachm. Bern. Br.; perfunctus Lamb. M. and Giuss. postulate a lacuna after this verse which M. would fill cetera iam poteris per te tute ipse videre. Winck. wrote sic . . . productus; Polle thinks it impossible for L. to look back on eleven hundred verses with a cold sic; and if he did so, the word should be emphasized; he proposes haec nunc pernosces. Caesar BG. 5, 23, naves incolumes perduxit. See discussion by Bruns, Lucres Stud. 14; Ph. 23, 641; 25, 273. — opella, ‘fond work’; Hor. Ep. 1, 7, 8; the usual form, but late, is operula.

1115. alid: 5, 1456, ‘namque alid ex alio clarescere corde videbant | artibus ad summum donec venere cacumen.’ See on 3, 970. — ex: i.e. ope; Hertz, Praep. L. 39. — nec, Madvig, Cic. Fin. p. 809, denies that nec = ne quidem here. — caeca nox: Georg. 3, 260; Ov. M. 10, 476.

1116. ‘Midnight shall no more thy path obstruct; but Nature’s utmost depths shine as the day!’ Good.

1117. accendent: Georg. 1, 251, accendit lumina Vesper.

14. Cf. Parmenides, Fr. 6, D. (48 M.), ol δὲ φορεῦται | καφοὶ ὅμῶς τυφλοί τε, τεθητῆτες, ἀκριτα φῦλα; 5, 1194, O genus infelix humanum.—miseras: Lact. Inst. 1, 21, quotes with stultas.

15. tenebris: 3, 77 n. Tennyson, Geraint and Enid, speaks of the 'feeble twilight of this world.'

16. degitur: 3, 509 n.—quodcumque, 'this little span.' 'This lease of being that so soon must end,' G. Smith; 'Our little life, poor little life,' Tennyson, Lucr.; Aen. 1, 78, tu mihi quodcumque hoc regni, and Forb. there.—videre: several examples of this infin. of indignation—rare in classical poets—are given by Lachm.; cf. Dr. I, § 154, 3, and Lane, 2216. Cic. Claud. 15, O audaciam singularem nonne [alii, non] timuisse si minus vim deorum, etc. Reichenhart, Inf. 458, suggests non videre, videre being pf. ind.; the vulgate was nonne videtis.

17. For the elision see on 1, 409.—naturam: as in 23. Manilius, 4, 8, imitates L.: cumque sui parvos usus natura reposcat, hence sibi cannot refer to hominem, subject of videre, as proposed by Giussani. Lucan, 4, 377, discite quam parvo liceat producere vitam, | et quantum natura petat.—latrare Ennius pro poscere posuit, Paul. ex Fest.; Enn. Ann. 584, animus cum pectore latrat; Hor. S. 2, 2, 18, latrantem stomachum; Cic. de Fin. 1, 42, quid natura postulet non intellegunt; Hom. v 13, κράδη δέ οἱ θύσοι θάκτει.—utqui: 3, 738 n.; ut cui, Lachm.

18. seiunctus: usually with the preposition, as in 648; 1, 431.—dolor absit: dolore omni privata, 649.—mensque, Marull. Vulg. Bock. Br. Giuss. Woltjer; mente, OQ, M., Susemihl, (Phil. 24, 422); menti, Lachm. Bern. Bail.; cum . . . mente. . . semota (natura), Goebel; cum corpori mente. . . semota, Winck.; cum . . . menti? (nom.) . . . semota, Bergk, Jahrb. 83, 506; mentis, Polle, Phil. 26, 309; coniunctus, Woltjer, Serta. Leo, Pl. Forsch. 275, says mente stands for mentis, a mere orthographical variant.

19. iucundo sensu: 399 with linguae.—cura metuque: Cic. Fin. 1, 49, ista sequimur ut sine cura metuque vivamus; id. 1, 59. Cf. L. 5, 45.—semota, OQ, M.; semotu before M. through misunderstanding of utqui. See on 1, 51.

20. corpoream: cf. on 1, 302.

21. esse opus; opus ad, 6, 365; Cic. Fam. 16, 4, 2, quod ad valetudinem opus sit.—quae . . . cumque: 3, 550 n.; here explanatory, 'namely, such as,' etc.; Caes. BG. 1, 31, 11, fortunamque quaecumque accidat experiantur.—demand dolorem: maerorem demet, 3, 908.—Dolorem, delicias, M. Br.; cf. Phil. 24, 422, Bail.; dolorem, delicias, Lachm. Bern. Giuss. Woltjer; dolorem. | . . . possit, interdum neque, with natura apparently subject of possit, Kannengiesser, Phil. 43, 536.

22. delicias: 5, 1449, 'arma vias vestes et cetera de genere horum | praemia, delicias quoque vitae funditus omnis, | carmina picturas,' etc.—uti . . . possint: the subject of possint is apparently pauca or its representative. Possint gratius M. Bail.; possint, gratius Br.; possint, gratius Lachm. Bern. Giuss. Br. in Phil. 24, 422, interpreted 'granted that men can provide for the bodily nature many pleasures, yet at times it is more pleasant, and nature herself misses nothing, if pleasures are lacking'; he thought that Siebelis (QL. 8) was right in referring delicias quoque to the preceding. Postgate, J. Ph. 16, 126, reads possit; neque is 'on the one hand' to correspond to nec in 34: 'although you may pillow a man on a multitude of luxuries so as to produce occasionally a greater satisfaction, yet,' etc. Masson, Cl. R.

9, 210, rejects this and approves possint with subject implied in aurea simulacra, etc., being the ordinary Lucretian inversion whereby the subject of both the leading and the dependent clause is placed in the dependent clause (see on 1, 15). Francken, Jahrb. 121, 770, gratus interdumst; neque natura ipsa requirit delicias quoque uti . . . possint, to follow 33. The meaning seems to be 'that these few things (which are to be named) may be able to provide at times pleasure more gratifying to a man, neither does nature ask, if they (viz. golden statues, etc.) are not in one's house and the mansion does not shine with silver,' etc. No one of the suggestions and interpretations is altogether satisfactory. M. translates: 'Nay [?], though more gratefully at times they can minister to us many choice delights, nature for her part wants them not [?], when [?] there are no golden images . . . when [?] the house shines not with silver,' etc. Giuss. makes simulacra subject of possint; Br. [App.] homines.

23. interdum, neque, M. Br. Giuss.; inter dum neque Lachm. Bern.; interdumst Francken. Lohmann makes neque natura ipsa requirit a parenthesis. — neque M. takes as = non, comparing 3, 730; probably it is a particula pendens; the corresponding thought might have been 'nor does philosophy demand'; ratio he does not expressly mention until 53. Faber made interdum neque = numquam; Giuss., neque enim. — requirit: Cic. Tusc. 5, 23, quid requirat ut sit beatior; Sen. Ep. 4, 11, ad supervacua sudatur.

24. simulacra: figures bearing lamps; Odyss. η 100 χρύσειοι δ' ἀρά κοῦροι ἔνδυτης τὴν βασιλέων | ἑταῖροι, αἰθουέρας δαῖδας μετὰ χειρὶς ἔχοντες | φαίνοντες νόκτας κατὰ δώματα. The candelabra were sometimes ornamented with the figures of animals: see Guhl and Koner, 92, and Dict. Antiq. 'candelabrum.' — aedes, 'mansion,' 3, 1060 n. — Culex 58 sq. is an imitation and Georg. 2, 461.

25. lampadas: cf. lampada, 79; lampade, 5, 610. — retinentia: metr. gr. for tenentia; cf. 1, 495. — dextris : 3, 651 n.

26. For the pentasyllabic ending see on 1, 251.

27. argento is silver plate as well as ornamentation of walls and furniture: Hor. C. 4, 11, 6, ridet argento domus. Wakef. quotes Livy, 41, 20, 9, Antiochiae Iovis Capitolini magnificum templum, non laqueatum auro tantum, sed parietibus totis lamina inauratum. — fulget, OQ, M. Bail.; cf. sciret, 5, 1049 (under ictus); fulgenti Lachm. Br. because argento fulgere is not Lucretian. Macr. Sat. 6, 2, 5, has fulgens (approved by Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 318) and renidens; L. has fulget nitore in 5, 768, lumine, 5, 708, colore, 5, 785; Culex 62, fulgent colore vellera; Cic. Paradox. 1, 13, marmoreis tectis ebore et auro fulgentibus. For fulgère and fulgère see Sen. NQ. 2, 56, 2, where he remarks that fulgère was said of lightning. — renidet: Hor. C. 2, 18, 1, non ebur neque aureum | mea renidet in domo lacunar; Sen. NQ. 1, 6, contempnere porticus et lacunaria ebore fulgentia.

28. citharae: dat. with reboant; Macr. has citharam in Sat. 6, 2 and cithara in 4; reboat bombum occurs in L. 4, 544. Kiessling on Hor. C. 3, 10, 5, quo nemus . . . remugiat ventis, defends ventis as a dative by this passage. — laqueata templo: OQ have templo, retained by Wakef. Bock. Giuss.; others tecta, a more common expression; see lex. Macr. 6, 4, 21, has tecta, but in 6, 2, 5, tempe, i.e. templo. Giuss. cites Festus, 'templum significat et tignum quod in aedificio transversum ponitur,' and Vitruv. 4, 2, supra cantherios templo ita sunt collocanda. Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 318 would have arcuata. — aurataque, OQ and recent edd.; ornataque was proposed by Lachm.; arquataque Bern. Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 670, says Q has auroata (arquata). Culex 62, si nitor auri | sub laqueare domus animum non angit avarum.

29-33 = 5, 1392-1396, with a few changes. cum tamen, 'while in spite of their absence'; 3, 107 n. — inter se: cf. on 1, 760. — Epicurus valued friendly intercourse. — prostrati: 6, 785, siquis eas super iacuit prostratus in herbis. 'Lying at random, carelessly diffused,' Milton, Samson. Hor. C. 1, 1, 21, nunc viridi membra sub arbuto | stratis; nunc ad aquae lene caput sacrae. — molliti: 4, 849, lecti mollia strata; V. Ecl. 3, 55, in molli consedimus herba; Ov. M. 10, 513, mollibus herbis impositum; Fasti 6, 328, pars iacet et molli gramine membra levat; Hor. Ep. 2, 23, libet iacere modo sub antiqua tilice, | modo in tenaci gramine. Epic. in DL 10, 120, φίλαγρφειν (τὸν σοφὸν Ἐπικόρῳ δοκεῖ). Culex 69, saepe super tenero prosternit gramine corpus.

30. propter: 1, 90 n. — Culex 390, rivum propter aquae viridi sub fronde latenter; Hor. Ep. 1, 14, 35, cena brevis iuvat et prope rivum somnus in herba; Tib. 1, 1, 27, sub umbra | arboris ad rivos praeterireuntis aquae; V. Ecl. 8, 86, propter aquae rivum viridi procumbit in ulva; Aen. 7, 108, corpora sub ramis deponunt arboris altae | instituuntque dapes; Livy 5, 44, 6, prope rivos aquarum . . . sternuntur; Hor. C. 2, 3, 12; 2, 11, 13.

31. 'Feasting cheerfully | On simple dainties,' G. Smith tr. 'No larger feast than under plane or pine | With neighbours laid along the grass, to take | Only such cups as left us friendly-warm,' Tennyson, Lucr. Epic. ad Men., 131, καὶ μάχας καὶ ὥδωρ τὴν ἀκροτάτην ἀποδίδωσιν ἡδονήν. — corpora curant: particularly by eating and rest: Livy 21, 54, 2, nunc corpora curare tempus est; see lex. 'curo' for many examples, and cf. L. 5, 939. A variant in Livy 27, 13, 12, cibo corpora firmare.

32. praesertim cum: this prosaic expression occurs in 315; 4, 67; c. p. 54, 1058; 4, 786; 5, 52. Lex. quotes it from Prop. 1, 2, 27, and Hor. Ep. 1, 18, 50. — tempestas: 1, 178 n. — adridet: Enn. Ann. 457, tempestatesque serenae | riserunt. — anni tempora: 5, 220; cf. 5, 1184.

33. viridantis: 5, 785, florida fulserunt viridanti prata colore.

34. decidunt, 'leave.' — Hor. Ep. 1, 2, 47, non aeris acervus et auri | aegroto domini deduxit corpore febres, | non animo curas.

35. textilibus picturis, 'brocade.' These 'picturae' were made by the needle. Aen. 3, 483, picturatas auri subtemine vestes. — Hor. C. 3, 1, 41, quodsi dolentem nec Phrygius lapis | nec purpurarum sidere clarior delenit usus. Porphyrius in Usener Epic. 163, 4, κρέπτον δέ σοι θαρρεῖν ἐν τιθάδος κατακειμένῳ η ταράττεσθαι χρυσῆν ἔχοντι κλίνην καὶ ποιτελῆ τράπεζαν.

36. iacteris: 3, 491 n. — veste: 5, 1427, at nos nil laedit veste carere | purpurea atque auro signisque ingentibus apta, | dum plebeia tamen sit quae defendere possit; so in 2, 52, vestis has reference to wearing apparel; often it refers to coverlets (stragula): Ov. M. 8, 658, vestis erat lecto non indignanda saligno; Mart. 14, 94, 1, plebeia toreumata, id. 9, 92, 3, dat tibi securos vilis tegiticula somnos, | pervigil in pluma Gaius, ecce, iacet. — cubandum, 'lie sick'; Ov. Ep. 19, 164, haec cubat, ille valet. — Sen. Ep. 5, 12, nihil differt utrum aegrum in ligneo lecto an in aureo conloces . . .

37. nostro, 'a man's'; 406 and osten. — gazae: Hor. C. 2, 16, 9, non enim gazae neque consularis | summovet lictor miseros tumultus | mentis; Varro Menipp.

36. non sit thesauris non auro pectu' solutum; | non demunt animis curas ac religiones | Persarum montes, non atria diviti' Crassi.

38. proficiunt: often used of remedies; Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 149, herba proficiente nihil curarier; see lex. for other examples.—nobilitas: cf. 11.—regni: rerumque potiri, 13.

39. quod superest: ‘advancing farther’; 1, 50 n.—quoque: mind as well as body.—putandum: without est, 1, 111 n.

40. si non forte: ironical supposition with effugient; 3, 781 n.—tuas: the reader’s. Bock, of course thought of Memmius, Munro of Caesar, Martha of Sulla.—legiones: on 3, 1030.—campi: any plain, possibly the Campus Martius; Marquardt, Staatsv. 2, 381 (6).

41. fervere: 6, 442; ‘swarming.’ Lucil. in Quint. 1, 6, 8, servit aqua et servet: servit nunc, servet ad annum. Aen. 8, 676, totumque instruto Marte videres | servere Leucaten.—cum videas: 3, 422 n.—belli simulacra: ‘mimicry of war,’ M. Cf. 324. Aen. 5, 585, pugnaeque cinct simulacra sub armis; id. 674, belli simulacra ciebat.

42. equom vi: 329, circumvolitant equites, and on 1, 477.—Magnis et ecum vi, M. opposed by Everett, Harv. St. 7, 28; magnis epicuri OQ; magnisque elephantis Lachm.; magnis et equom vi Br.; magnis hastatis Bern. favored by Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 671, rejected by Bergk, id. 329. Bock places this verse after 53, quid dubitas, etc., reading Epicuri constabilitate, with Winckelmann; Bouterwek, equitus constabilitas. Bern. thought Epicuri represented ērōkopou, a gloss on subsidiis; Polle, Phil. 26, 310 regarded subsidiis as a gloss on Epicuri.

43. Q has a lacuna of three verses, where O has 42 and 43 in red letters; therefore, says Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 781, three verses are omitted, and the verse quoted by Nonius (43 b) is the third in the lacuna. O has ornatas armis itastuas tariterque; Gott. itasivas; this Woltjer regards as a corruption of institutas written over ornatas, the interpolated word forcing out some other word; W. proposes, followed by Giussani, the reading printed in the text. Readings of inf. MSS. (statua staritaesque; orituras armisita statua starilaesque) are given by Polle, Phil. 26, 310. Bouterwek proposed ornatas armis studio pugnaeque animatas; Br. Phil. 24, 424, armis hastis pariterque. The verses were usually omitted before Lachm.; M. has ornatasque armis statuas (the verb) pariterque animatas; Br. in his text ornatas armis pariter pariterque animatas, **servere*, etc.; in prol. he says OQ have istatuas; Lachm. gives the reading of O as istatuas and reads ornatas armis, validas, pariterque animatas; he says plainly that Q omits them (p. 78). Bern. has a. p. p. a.; in his praefatio, p. xi, he reports the reading of O as itastuastariterq. Ellis, J. Ph. 14, 90, writes statuas (noun), which Albert, Phil. 56, 251, thinks closest to the Ms. but ‘durchaus unpassend.’ Astu pariterque (cf. Enn. Ann. V. 102) has been proposed. The passage is yet unhealed.—pariter pariterque occurs in 3, 457.—animatas: Pl. Bacch. 941, milites | armati atque animati probe.

43 b. This verse, quoted by Nonius from Lucre. II, is placed by Roos, M. Bail. after 46; by Lamb. and other edd. before 44.—classem: Gell. 10, 15, from Fabius Pictor, ‘classem procinctam’ . . . id est exercitum armatum. Br. thinks a possessive pronoun is missing to correspond to tuas in 40.

44. his tibi: cf. on 3, 28.—timefactae, ‘craven,’ cited only from Cic. Off. 2, 24, timefacta libertas.—religiones: 1, 109 n.

45. effugient animo: 4, 37, animas Acherunte effugere.—Cic. Fin. 1, 43, sapientia enim est una . . . quae nos exhorrescere metu non sinat.—pavidæ, O, Bentl. Wakef. Bail.; pavide edd. since Lachm.; pavide Q according to Woltjer, who notices that L. does not use the adverb; Polle, Jahrb. 133, 80, remarks that lexicons cite pavide once only from Livy and once from Quintilian. Pavidæ in its extravagance well agrees with timefactæ; there is strong personification.—timores, 'ost recurring fear'; so Ladewig on pelle timores in Aen. 5, 812.

46. Note the repeated m.—pectus: Lamb. edd. for tempus. M. notices that in Aen. 1, 44 Probus read tempore for pectore; see Serv. there.—cura solutum: 4, 908, curas e pectore solvat.

47. esse videmus: 2, 149, 246, 536; 3, 927.

48. re veraque: vera re, 659. Cf. on 3, 3.—sequaces: 3, 315 n. Hor. C. 3, 16, 17, crescentem sequitur cura pecuniam.

49. sonitus armorum: Georg. 1, 474.—fera tela: cf. on 1, 29.—Hor. C. 2, 16, 22, cura nec turmas equitum relinquit.

50. que . . . que, 'but . . . and.'—rerumque potentis: 3, 1027 n.

51. versantur, 'walk'; cf. 4, 223.—fulgorem ab auro: i.g. the gleam that comes from gold. Georg. 2, 243,  dulcesque a fontibus undæ, and Forbiger there; Cic. ND. 2, 129, calor a sole; L. 6, 148, ferrum e fornacibus olim stridit; Thes. LL. 1, 28, 36.—Val. Fl. 5, 242, falso fusi ab auro currere per summi fulgor laquearia tecti. But Seneca, Ep. 48, 11, auri fulgor.

52. vestis splendorem: 4, 1029, Babylonica magnifico splendore.—purpureai: 3, 83 n.

53. dubitas: 3, 603 n.—omni' is nom.—Francken, Jahrb. 121, 771, unae haec sit. Marull. Lamb. and others read omne sit hoc rationis egestas; Hörschelmann, Obs., p. 29, egestas for potestas. Omni' may be compared with communi', 4, 1207; otherwise apocope of s of nominatives in -is is not certain in L.

54. cum in: harsh elision; cf. 3, 101, 159.—tenebris: 3, 77 n., and Masson, p. 192.

55–61 = 3, 87–93, where see notes.—Gneisse, p. 19, thinks that 55–58 were interpolated here; he is refuted by Lohmann, p. 46, Feustell, p. 34.

62–79. 'I shall now explain how first beginnings produce and dissolve things and how they have motion and velocity; for it is plain that matter is continually withdrawn and added while the sum remains constant.'—'The second book contains,' as Professor Jenkin remarks, 'what may be called the kinetics of the atomic theory,' Masson, p. 35.

62. Nunc age: 1, 265 n.—motu, 'we must go back to the very origin of atomism to find this conception of atoms in motion. . . . According to Democritus they are in perpetual motion from their very nature; the force which animates them acts inevitably'; Wurtz, Atomic Theory, 305.—genitalia materiai corpora: 1, 167 n.

63. res varias: varia would be ambiguous, and res, 'bodies,' is important. He does not seem to use the neuter of varius as a substantive, except possibly in 2, 791.—gignant genitasque: cf. fessa fatisci, 5, 308; such repetitions of the verb are frequent.—resolvant, 1, 57 n.

64. facere id represents the action of the preceding verb: 1, 667 n.—quaeque: i.e. et quae, 1031; quoque = et quo in Aen. 5, 23, Sall. Jug. 30.—ollis: 1, 672 n.

65. Note the alliteration. — mobilitas: velocitas and celeritas are unmetsrical. He has velocibus once (6, 688). Mobilitas with dolus and virtus protect animals : 5, 858. Celeri motu occurs in 4, 176. — magnum inane : 1, 1018 n. — meandi : 1, 428 n.

66. expediam : 1, 499 n. — tu te: tute tibi, 441 ; 4, 1150 ; se sibi, 3, 684 ; sibi se, 3, 886. — 4, 931, expediam : tu fac ne ventis verba profundam ; cf. Bruns, p. 10. — dictis : 1, 28 n.

67. stipata cohaeret : cf. 1, 610.

68. minui : 1, 319. — rem quamque videmus : 1, 562.

69. Leonine rhyme ; 3, 6 n. — quasi modifies fluere. — fluere, ‘ebb,’ 1139, rarefacta fluendo sunt ; Aen. 2, 169, fluere ac retro sublapsa referri | spes Danaum. cernimus : metr. gr. for videmus, as often. — aevo: here only with longinquo ; more often with no adjective, as in 3, 451.

70. The trochaic ending within the second foot with hepthem. caesura is bad : L. Müller, RM. 214. — ex oculis nostris : 1, 856 and n. — vetustatem : cf. 1, 225.

71. cum tamen : 3, 107 n. Cum is here concessive. — incolumis . . . manere : 3, 341 n. — summa : 1, 235 n.

72. decedunt : 1, 320.

73. augmine donant : augmina sumunt, 2, 188 ; augmine adempto, 2, 1133.

74. senescere : of things, 1, 325 n. — florescere is contrasted with aetate senecta in 5, 895. Wakef. cites Vell. Pat. 2, 11, 3, nunc florere fortunam, nunc senescere.

75. remorantur, 'stay' : remorari in concilio, 564. — ibid : length retained under the ictus ; so 1046 ; 5, 346, 811. — novatur : 5, 194, haec rerum geritur nunc summa novando.

76. Note the alliteration. — mortales suggests res mortales, as well as homines, although contrary to his usage. — mutua : 3, 801 n.

77. aliae : said by Hermann, Elem. Doctr. Metr. 344, because an anapaest, to be faulty before a tetrasyllabic ending. There are fifty-five cases in L. — In general cf. 5, 828–836. — gentes, ‘nations,’ as in 1, 119, rather than ‘generations,’ with Bock., although his quotation is suitable of Ov. M. 15, 421, illas assumere robora gentes, concidere has. Eurip. Ino, Fr. 419, κύκλος γάρ αὐτὸς καρπίμοις τε γῆς φυροῖς | θνητῶν τε γένη | τοῖς μὲν αὐξεται βλος, | τῷν δὲ φθίνει τε καὶ θερίζεται πάλιν.

78. saecla : on 3, 629.

79. lampada : Plato, Leges, 6, 776 b, καθάπερ λαμπάδα τὸν βλον παραδίδνεται δῆλος ἐξ δῆλων : Persius 6, 61, cur me in decursu lampada poscis? See the manuals s.v. ‘Lampadedromia’ or ‘Torch race’ ; Otto, Sprichwörter, 185 ; Sterrett, AJP. 22, 408, who shows that it was usually conducted on horseback.

80–141. ‘All atoms are carried along by weight or by impact with others ; they leap apart after collision because they are hard, and there is nothing behind them except space illimitable. They are in constant motion through smaller or larger spaces according as they are more or less hindered by mutual entanglement ; those closely entangled make dense things like stone, those less so form air and light. Many of them vibrate through the void forming no union, as may be seen from the motes dancing in the sunbeam; this also illustrates the constant hidden turbulent movements of the atoms : single atoms make small bodies, and these larger ones, and so on until they are finally visible.’

80. Si: on 3, 170. — cessare: 4, 391, sidera cessare aetheriis adfixa cavernis | cuncta videntur. — Epic. ad Herod. 43, κινούσσει τε συνέχως αἱ ἀρουραὶ τὸν αἰώνα; cf. 95, nulla quies est. Cessare means ‘to be at rest’ and is contrasted with succeeding motion — novos motus, 81, as Hörschelmann, Obs. 30, has shown. Discussion in Phil. 24, 425; 26, 311; Jahrb. 111, 625.

81. progignere is a rare word, but used four times by L. — motus: Francken, Jahrb. 121, 771, would read coetus = concilia atomorum unde res existunt, an unnecessary change.

82. avius, etc.: for similar phrases, cf. 229, 740, and see Introd., p. 21.

83. nam: for they do not stop when they meet, but rebound; hence motion is constant. — vagantur: cf. 105, 109. Notice the use of vagaris in 82, and vagantur, 83, in different meanings; Bock. has vacat via for vagantur. — cuncta: probably metr. gr.

84. gravitate: instead of the usual pondere; cf. 190, 231; 1, 359. ‘And it is all one as if Epicurus should have said, that all atoms moved downward by an occult quality, he either betaking himself to this as an asylum, a sanctuary, or refuge, for his ignorance; or else indeed more absurdly, making his very ignorance itself (disguised under that name of a quality) to be the cause of motion’; Cudworth, Intell. Syst. 2, 75. — Cic. de Fato, 46, ‘aliam enim quandam vim motus habebant a Democrito inulsionis, quam plagam ille appellat, a te, Epicure, gravitatis et ponderis.’ The movement downward Epicurus called κατὰ στάθμην: Actius, apud Usener, Epicurea, 199, 18, κινεῖσθαι δὲ τὰ ἀροματὰ τοτὲ μὲν κατὰ στάθμην, τοτὲ δὲ κατὰ παρέγκλωσιν, τὰ δὲ δικῶ κινούμενα κατὰ πληγὴν καὶ ἀποταλμόν.

85. cum, Wakef. edd. — cita: 1, 997. — saepe, ‘as often happens’; 3, 120 n.

86. obvia confixire: cf. 4, 1216. — diversa: 3, 105 n.

87. sint: causal subj. — mirum: est is often omitted; cf. 338; 5, 1238; 6, 130.

88. ponderibus solidis: cf. 1, 987. — tergo ibus: edd. after Voss for tergibus. Ibus is introduced by Lachm. at 4, 934; 6, 755, and by Munro at 6, 1012. Eskuche objects to it here on metrical grounds; see on 1, 97. Goebel and Bock. extra quibus; cf. 155.

89. Note the interlocking: the prose order would be quo magis omnia corpora materiae iactari pervideas. — Leonine rhyme. — iactari: 122, 548.

90. reminiscere: with acc. and infin. also in 6, 649; a rare poetical construction; Dr. II, 438, 3. — totius: 3, 97 n. Summai totius, 1, 984; 6, 650; summam summai totius, 6, 679. — imum: cf. 1, 984 sq.

91. habere ubi, cf. 591, 595; 6, 1052. — corpora prima: 1, 61.

92. consistant: cessare, 80. — sine fine modoque: 1, 964; cf. 2, 1053. Cicero and Caesar prefer infinitus to sine fine on account of the rhyme: Archiv I, 364.

93. inmensum patere: 1, 957. — in cunctas undique partis: 1, 1007 n.

94. certa ratione: 1, 738.

95. constat, ‘is the case’; constare often = esse; 3, 235 n. — nimirum, ‘undoubtedly’; 1, 277 n. — nulla, Flor. 30, edd.; multa OQ.

96. reddita: 1, 203 n. — inanе profundum: 1, 1108 n.

97. magis: (= potius) with resultant and veruantur. — adsiduo: 1, 995 n. — vario motu: 5, 1210. — exercita: 2, 120; 4, 862, 1128; Georg. 3, 529; all in fifth place.

98. partim . . . pars: partim . . . nonnulli, 6, 1208–1210. — intervallis magnis: cf. 101, 107. ‘Leaving great spaces between,’ M. Epic. ad Herod. 43, καὶ αἱ μὲν εἰς πακρὰ ἀτ' ἀλλήλων διστάμεναι, αἱ δὲ αὐτὸν τὸν παλμὸν ισχουσίν, θραν τόχωσι τῷ περιπλοκῇ κεκλιμέναι ἡ στεγαῖδεν παρὰ τῷ πλεκτικῷ. — confulta: Δῆμος λεγόμενος = conferta; fulcire pruinas. Prop. 1, 8, 7. Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 671, and 115, 274, reads compulta, comparing 2, 563, objecting to Lachmann’s translation of confulta; Postgate, J. Ph. 16, 127, thinks that confulta means ‘rebounds when pressed together.’ Everett, Harv. St. 7, 28, consultata, with Ven. and Gif.

99. vexantur: 1, 583, plagis vexata, hence ab ictu = ictu: 5, 358, neque ab ictu fungitur hilum; cf. Thes. 1, 29, 8. M. would have it = post ictum, cf. 6, 968.

100. magis condenso: no comparative of condensus occurs. — conciliatu: 1, 575 n.

101. exiguis, ‘minute’; 3, 399 n. — convecta, ‘after they have been brought together.’

102. indupedita: perplexis indupedita, 459; see on 1, 240. Perplexus does not occur in Cicero or Caesar. — figuris is abl. of means.

103. validas: 1, 571 n. — radices: Ov. M. 14, 713, saxo quod adhuc viva radice tenetur. — fera ferri: Tib. 1, 10, 2, quam ferus et vere ferreus ille fuit.

104. corpora: like corpus in 232. — constituant, ‘make up’; 1, 821 n. — de: (Flor. 31) 3, 481 n.

105. paucula quae, edd.; paucula quae . . . vagantur * Br.; paucula OQ; paucula Itali; parvola Hörschelmann, 33. Lachm. M. vagantur cetera, etc. Francken transposes 105 and 106. Lotze, multum per inane. Polle and Purmann reject the verse; Susemihl defends it (Phil. 26, 311); Giuss. brackets it as a variant of 109; Cartault proposes transfer to follow 102, but compares 2, 522 sq. Br. formerly filled his lacuna with praedita corporibus mage levibus atque rutundis. Paucula is opposed to multa in 109: comparatively few in proportion to the many extra-mundane bodies; Giuss. ‘dispersed,’ ‘isolated,’ like paucia in 4, 71. The word is not used elsewhere by L., but is by Fronto, a professed antiquarian.

106. cetera, OQ: set quae, M. in small ed.; he goes too far in translating cetera ‘all others.’ Christ proposed concita, Grasberger extra, Lamb. Lotze et cetera; Hörschelmann, Bail. corpora. L. is describing three classes of atoms (I) exiguis intervallis, produce saxa ferrum; (II) cetera, magnis intervallis, make aer lumina; (III) extra-mundane, consociare motus non possunt. — dissiliunt: 106. — longe longeque: 3, 69 n. — recursant: poet.; here only in L. He is describing motion κατὰ πληγὴν.

107. in: omitted in 98, 101. — aera rarum: 230; 3, 444; rarior aer, 6, 1024; cf. on 3, 235.

108. sufficient: 3, 704. — lumina solis: 1, 5.

109. que, ‘but.’ — praeterea: ‘more,’ besides those named previously.

110. conciliis: abl. of separation. The word has occurred frequently; cf. Mason, p. 43. A occurs with reiciat in 5, 641. — nec usquam: neque usquam, 5, 328; see on 3, 531.

111. consociare and sociare he has but once. — potuere recepta: on 1, 385.

112. memoro means ‘telling’ by Lucretian usage, but ‘which I am telling’ is hardly in the Latin here in spite of Munro’s citation of Pl. Amph. 738, recte dicit ut

commeminit, where he would have ut = quae; cf. 6, 1031. — rēlī: cf. 548; 6, 918; 7 times in verse; 2 in Pl.; 5 in L., 2 of which are datives (1, 688; 2, 236); cf. Roby, 360; Lane, 127. — simulacrum: L. has the form but once elsewhere, in 4, 149, the plural being quite frequent.

113. anta oculos: 3, 185 n. — semper: perhaps on account of the sunny climate of Italy, as Bock suggests. — versatur et instat: 3, 1080 and n.

114. contemplator: 6, 189, contemplator enim; Georg. 1, 187, c. item. Democritus had noticed the particles in the sunlight (Arist. repł ψυχῆς, 1, 5) and Epicurus also (Stob. Ecl. p. 924); cf. also Sen. NQ. 5, 1, 2; Lact. Ira, 10, 3. — cumque: lumina and radii are in the same case, as is shown by Lact., radios ac lumen (sol) immiserit, hence cumque = et cum and fundunt is absolute, an unexampled use. For cumque cf. Cic. Fin. 1, 33; 5, 83; Off. 2, 51; 4 times in Acad. 1, 38; Lucil. 4, 5; 27, 24. Siebelis and Munro took it with cum as forming quomocumque; cf. ut . . . cumque, 5, 583; Lamb. = quandocumque. Roos proposed quoque = quoquaversus, but finally decided on fundunt as = se fundunt. See Munro, in J. Ph. 4, 123. Ellis, id. 3, 267, thinks that cumque qualifies the verb in 6, 85, 738; 4, 737; and possibly in 2, 21, and 721. 4, 259, cum verberat et cum . . . fluit, and 4, 939.

115. fundunt: 4, 375, nova se radiorum lumina fundunt. Aen. 3, 152, se . . . per insertas fundebat luna fenestras. — opaca: Aen. 2, 725; ‘per opaca locorum,’ 1, 315 n.

116. multa modis multis: 1, 341 n. — inane: the (apparently) empty space of the air.

117. ipso: 3, 483 n.

118. proelia pugnas: similarly in 4, 1009. Cf. the asyndeton per membra per artus, 2, 282 and 6, 945, and Kraetsch, p. 40. The old vulgate had pugnasque.

119. edere: dant proelia, Georg. 3, 265. — turmatim is used by Caesar and Livy. — certantia with corpora. — dare: here as frequently = facere; 1, 288 n.

120. discidiis: discidium parere et nexus exsolvare, 1, 220. — exercita: 97; ‘kept going’.

121. conicere . . . hoc: 1, 751.

122. quale sit: 4, 255, quale sit ut videamus; 4, 118, quale esse putandumst. — magnō inani: 65, etc.

123. dumtaxat, ‘so far’; 3, 377 n. — magnarum parva: mark the opposition; 3, 765 n.

124. exemplare: here only in L., probably for metrical convenience; other writers have exemplar. Lachm. quotes scholiast on Lucan 9, 563, hic exemplar posuit, Lucretius exemplare posuit, nos in usu exemplum (exemplarium, Lachm.) dicimus: adeo omnia sunt Latina. See Roby, 431. — vestigia: 3, 309 n.

125. hoc: abl. — haec: with corpora. — animum advertere: 3, 46 n. — par est: 1, 189 n.

126. turbare: absolute; 3, 493 n.

127. motus: acc.

128. significant: 1, 13 n. — clandestinos caecosque: cf. 1, 779. — subesse: 3, 273 n.

129. multa: i.e. corpora, in the sunbeams (ibi). — plagis percita: 1, 1025.

130. retroque repulsa reverti: 3, 353 n.; retro reverti, 1, 785 n.

131. nunc . . . nunc: this use of nunc as a correlative begins with L., and was introduced into prose by Livy; Dr. II, § 329, 5; Archiv, 2, 242.—in . . . partis: 1, 1007 n.

132. scilicet: 3, 229 n.—a: of origin; see Hertz, Praep. Lucr. 18.—omnibus: dative.—error: physical; 4, 692, errabundus (odor) tarde venit.

133. prima corresponds to inde in 134; 4, 275, primus enim citra postes tum cernitur aer, inde; 1, 931, primum . . . deinde. Primum is not so easily managed metrically as primus and prima.—moventur: plainly middle.

134. Notice the interlocking.

135. A dactylic word in the second foot is rare.—quasi, ‘so to say’; 3, 131 n.—proxima . . . ad: 5, 711, propius . . . ad ignem labitur; prope ad and propius ad with esse do not occur in L.

136. cientur: cf. 85.

137. ipsa: the bodies of 134.—proporro: an emendation by Turnebus for porro, OQ. See on 3, 275.—lacessunt: 4, 1039, alias aliud res commovet atque lacessit.

138. a . . . ascendit, ‘mounts up from,’ starts with these first beginnings, which cannot be perceived; cf. 4, 111–112.

139. ut is not a correlative to sic; it introduces a result clause explaining the movement of the particles in the sunbeam (= ut moveri illa videamus).

140. cernere quimus: 1, 300–301.

141. aperte: here only in L.; probably due to alliteration with apparet.

142–166. ‘The swiftness of the atoms: the sun rising sends its complex light everywhere, but it does not pass through empty void, wherefore it is hindered and obstructed; but atoms uncompounded and simple are carried through void with far more swiftness than light, and traverse space in the time that sunlight traverses the sky.’

142. Nunc: cf. 1, 418 n.—mobilitas: 65 n.

143. paucis: cf. 1, 499.—licet hinc cognoscere: 4, 44, id licet hinc quamvis hebeti cognoscere corde; 5, 285, id licet hinc cognoscere possit; 6, 167.

144. novo lumine: ‘secundum Epicureos qui stulte solem de atomis dicunt constare et cum die nasci cum die perire,’ Serv. on Aen. 4, 584; cf. 5, 663 n.—spargit: Aen. 4, 584, et iam prima novo spargebat lumine terras; Il. Ω 695, ‘Ηώς δὲ κροκότειλος τελθαρο τάσσαν τέ’ alar.

145. variae volucres: 1, 589 n.—nemora avia pervoltantes: repeated in 346; avia per nemora, 5, 1386.

146. aera tenerum: 1, 207 n.—liquidis vocibus: 5, 1379, liquidas avium voces; 4, 981, liquidum carmen.—opplent closes a most melodious line also in 5, 740.

147. ortus has its perfect force; Hor. Ep. 2, 1, 112, orto sole; Cic. Fin. 2, 23, solem orientem.—tempore tali: cf. 1, 93.

148. ‘Pouring over all the mantle of his light.’—perfundens: 4, 32, haec perfusa lepore | omnia conrident correpta luce diei.—convestire: Cic. Arat. 60, quem cum perpetuo vestivit lumine Titan; Aen. 6, 640, lumine vestit (see Norden there). Wordsworth, Laodamia: ‘And fields invested with purpureal gleams’; Milton, P.L. 3, 10, ‘As with a mantle didst invest | The rising world of waters’; Psalm 104, 2, amictus lumine sicut vestimento.

149. in promptu . . . videmus: repeated 246. See on 3, 106.
150. vapor, 'heat,' as usual in L.; 3, 126 n.—lumen is nomin.
151. inane vacuum: cf. 1, 509.
152. dum, 'while'; cf. 4, 280, 358.—diverberat, Q, Br. Giuss. Bail.: diverberat O; diverberet Lachm. Bern. M.; see Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 782. The word has occurred in 1, 222 without apology; hence the quasi here goes with aerias undas. Aen. 5, 503 has diverberat auras.—undas: the word is used in Aen. 8, 257 of smoke.
153. singillatim is emphatic through position.—corpuscula L. has but 5 times. Cicero used it, and Amatinus (Acad. 1, 6).
154. complexa: passive; cf. 5, 922; Cic. Rosc. Am. 37.—conque globata, 3, 343 n.
155. inter se, 'mutually,' as frequently.—retrahuntur: Prisc. for trahuntur.—extra: because they do not pass through empty void.
156. officiuntur: offecti, 4, 763; offecto, 5, 776. The verb is usually intransitive. See Dr. I, § 99 for usage of other authors.
157. Cf. 1, 574, 609.
158. remoratur occurred in 75.
159. foris balances extra, 155.—ipsa (primordia).—suis e partibus: cf. 3, 545. Bindseil, sine partibus.—unum, OQ, Lachm. Bern. Br. Bail.; una M., Hörschelmann, Bindseil, Giuss. For the epanalepsis unum | unum see on 3, 12; yet the thought is 'a unity made up of their parts'; the singular unum emphasizes strongly this unity, far more so than una, which means the same thing.
160. The order is in quem unum locum coepere ferri (in eum) conixa feruntur.—conixa, edd. for connexa OQ: Livy 31, 21, 10, in unum locum conixi.—Vnum is rejected by Lotze and Hörschelmann; Lotze wrote sui sine partibus una | priva; priva corresponding to singillatim; Hörschel. illum; see Polle, Phil. 26, 312.
161. debent: often of physical necessity; 3, 187 n.
162. lumina solis: closing the line, as in 108.
163. 163, 164 = 4, 207, and 208 in part.—multiplex: usually multiplex. The word is used in implied comparisons by Livy, e.g. 22, 7, 3, multiplex caedes . . . tradita, i.e. far greater.—loci spatium: cf. spatium profundi, 1, 1002.—transcurrere: 4, 192, per spatium transcurrere.—These verses were regarded as spurious by Gneisse, 72, because lumina occurs in Book 4 and fulgura in Book 2; refuted by Lohmann, 38.
164. pervolgant: 346, volucres quae pervolgant nemora; Pac. 393, litus pervolgans feror.—fulgura: fulgor of the sun's rays also in 4, 190.
165. There is a hiatus assumed before this line by most edd., which was filled by Marullus with nam neque consilio debent tardata morari and by Goebel nam certe neque consilio possunt remorari (see Susemihl, Phil. 24, 429; Madvig, Opuscula, I, 317). These are unsatisfactory, and as we are ignorant of what has been lost, there does not seem to be sufficient justification for marking off 165–183 with Lachm. as interrupting the argument. Bern. prints persectati with no gap but in the order 164, 167, 165, 166, 168; Giuss. 164* 166 sq. 165, 168; Grasberger transferred 165–166 to follow 176; Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 774 thinks four vss. are missing.—persectari: of accipitres, 4, 1010. The same verse-ending in 396. Persectari is the reading of Plaut. Mil. 430 in the principal MSS. and is retained by Ussing; Goetz-Schoell regard it as corrupt; perscrutari Ritschl, etc., in ed. maior.

166. quicque geratur: cf. 1, 129.—qua . . . cum ratione: this use of cum between the relative and noun was avoided by the early writers and is used sparingly by classic authors; cf. Cic. Sest. 24, Phil. 5, 26; Degering, Hist. Synt. 24.

167–183. ‘Some think, not knowing matter, that the aid of the gods is necessary for human affairs; but even with ignorance of first beginnings it is plain that the world is not divine, since it is faulty; this point will be elucidated later.’

167. quidam: probably the Stoics.—ignari: 5, 88, miseri credunt, ignari quid queat esse; 4, 436, maris ignaris.—materiae: everywhere else in L., where this case form of materiae occurs at the end of the line, a modifying word either precedes or follows it; hence Hörschelmann, 16, proposes 167, (corpora sponte sua volitare invicta per aevum), 165, nec persecuti, etc., 166, 168 naturam, etc. Br. formerly supplied a line corporibus cæcis res nasci dissoluique. Cf. 1, 58 where materiae = genitalia corpora.

168. naturam: natural causes; cf. 1058.—rentur: Marull. vulg.; 1, 154, fieri divino numine rentur; reddi OQ, Wakef.; credunt Pontanus, M. Bail.

169. rationibus: 4, 1191, humanis rebus. For the dative with adverbs see Lane 1200.—admoderate, ἀπρόσκοτες λεγόμενοι; cf. moderanter, 1096. Accommodate would have been unmetrical.

170. tempora annorum: cf. 32.—fruges: 1157, nitidas fruges ipsa creavit.

171. et iam, ‘and . . . too’; also in 3, 481.—cetera: cf. 859, 1085. He means other arrangements.—quae: acc. pl.—suedet adire: 1, 141 n.

172. ipaa: in person.—deduct, ‘escorts’; cf. 1, 96.—dux vitae: Cic. Tusc. 5, 5; Sallust, J. 1, 3.

173. res per Veneris: 437; 5, 848.—blanditur: blandum amorem, 1, 19; blanda voluptas, 2, 966, etc. For the subj. M. comp. Livy 21, 1, 4, blandientem ut ducetur.—sæcla propagant: 1, 20.

174. quorum: referring to genus; 3, 185 n.

175. fingunt: frequently of vain imaginings; 1, 104 n.—omnibu' rebus: cf. multis rebus, 3, 1026.

176 = 1, 637. 177–181 nearly = 5, 195–9. They are rejected here by Gneisse, p. 32–35; defended by Lohmann, p. 29 sq.

177. quamvis: cf. 1, 398.

178. caeli rationibus: 5, 1183, caeli rationes ordine certo | et varia annorum cernebant tempore verti. Cf. rationibas, 169.—ausim: the form occurs 5 times in L.

179. confirmare: cf. 185.—reddere, ‘prove’; 1, 566 n.

180. nequaquam: emphatic.—divinitus: 1, 150.

181. quanta stat: tanta stat, 5, 199, and most edd.; quamquam predita OQ; quae tanta est praedita old vulg. Hermann, Phil. 3, 511, quoniam sint or quoniam sunt haec; Roos, quae qua non; Postgate, J. Ph. 16, 127, quanta stat, favored by Masson, Cl. R. 9, 210, as explaining Ms. quamquam.—stat: 1, 564 n.—‘But atheists can be no fit judges of the world’s being made well or ill either in general or respectively to mankind, they having no standing measure for well or ill, without a God and morality, nor any true knowledge of themselves and what their own good or evil consisteth in,’ Cudworth; 2, 322.

182. posteriorius: 5, 155, quae tibi posterius largo sermone probabo. The reference is to 5, 195-234. — faciemus aperta: āpēriemus or āpēritimus are both unmanageable in the hexameter. L. uses only the inf. act. and perf. part. of this verb. Sen. NQ, 2, 3, 2, quid sit hoc apertius faciam, possibly under Lucretian influence.

183. quod superest: 1, 50 n. — expediemus: 1, 499 n. — Gneisse, p. 33, rejects this verse because he rejects 165 sq. and also because to him nunc is not Lucretian, being usually used at the beginning of a new discussion; but it is plainly needed here for the sense. Lamb. and Faber doubted its authenticity.

184-215. ‘Nothing can move upwards by its own force: flames and plants do not rise of their own accord any more than boards rise up from water; stars often fall to the earth, and lightnings when a passageway is made for them; all of these naturally fall downwards.’

184. Nunc: Bentl. proposed nam, Wakef. iam. — locus, ‘right place’; 966; 3, 585; 4, 1242; Georg. 2, 177.

185. nullam rem: instead of nihil, 1, 339 n.

186. sursum: 1, 1058.

187. ne: sc. dico, which is implied in confirmare, 185. — dent, ‘cause’; cf. on 1, 288. — eo refers to the action of the verbs in 186. — flammarum corpora corresponds to fruges, etc.; so = flammae. — fraudem, ‘error,’ as in 6, 187, ‘ne tibi sit frudi’.

188. sursus: but sursum, 186, 189; see on 3, 1001. — Sursus versus apparently occurs only here in L. — enim: as you might be deceived, because, etc. — augmina sumunt: 5, 681, sumant augmina noctes. Augmina, 1, 435 n.

189. Br. brackets this verse: Phil. 24, 133, Prol. xvii. (cf. Polle, Phil. 24, 433) as one which should have been removed by the editor; but as Woltjer, Mn. 24, 324, remarks, there is a simile between fire and grain, the upward tendency of the latter having been noticed, in 1, 803: cf. Pascal, Stud. 125. Neumann, p. 41, rejects it. Winckelmann changed et to ut to make the simile more apparent. Feustell, p. 16, would arrange 188, 194, 195, 189, which is ingenious, but unnecessary. Bock. places this verse after 195. — nitidae fruges, 1, 252 n.

190. quantum in se est: cf. 201, 205, 247. — deorsum ferantur: 202. — 1, 362, corporis officiumst quoniam premere omnia deorsum; cf. 2, 84.

191. subsiliunt: not in Cicero. M. notices that he uses subvölient in Tusc. 1, 40.

192. celeri flamma: 6, 223, accendunt quoque tecta domorum | et celeri flamma dominantur; 5, 301, celeri origine flammae; 6, 688, flammis velocibus. — degustant: cf. 1, 231, and Aen. 2, 684, lambere flamma comas. — tigna trabesque: also in 196 and 6, 241. Wölfflin did not find it elsewhere as an alliterative compound. Tigna are always of wood; trabes may be of other material; Blümner, Tech. 2, 304.

193. Note the alliteration and five dactyls. — subigente, Lamb. and most edd.; subiecta OQ; subeunte Bern. Br. Lachm. approved subiectante. Postgate, J. Ph. 24, 134, would keep subiecta as a neuter, comparing Georg. 4, 385; but that is too harsh. Nencini, subitaque, i.q., sine vi quam subeunt, but, as Br. Jahresb. 24, 139, remarks, subire means ‘undergo,’ and -que in the fourth place is not Lucretian. Nencini later (Jahresb. 24, 204) sine vi subiecta opū tandem est, which is unintelligible. — 277, vis . . . pellat et . . . cogat.

194. quod genus = velut; 3, 221 n. — e: est Lachm. Bern. Kannengiesser, Ph.

43, 542, favors cumst missus. — missus: 'let.' Celsus, 2, 10, sanguinem incisa vena mitti novum non est.

195. emicat: 4, 1050, emicat in partem sanguis unde icimur ictu; Ov. M. 4, 121, cruor emicat alte. — spargitque: 5, 1201, aras sanguine multo spargere. — cruorem, strictly, is blood streaming from the body, gore, while sanguis is the blood circulating or shed from wounds.

196. nonne vides: this appeal to experience occurs below in 207, 263, and in at least nine other places. Georg. 1, 56, nonne vides croceos ut Tmolus odores, | India mittit ebur; Ov. M. 15, 362.

197. respuat: 6, 1054, quo pacto respuit ab se | atque per aes agitat of magnetic repulsion; 2, 388, imber respuitur. — umor aquae: on 3, 339. — quo magis: 1, 536 n. — ursimus: notice the tense. O corr. urgimus; Lamb. mersimus.

198. derecta: OQ and most edd.; deiecta, Lachm. Bern. See Br. Phil. 24, 433. M. translates 'sheer down.' The word occurs only here and is probably an ablative; directo, 'straight,' is more common. Viis derectis occurs in 4, 609; derigit 6, 823. Br. thought of piles driven into the water, mentioned by Caesar, BG. 4, 17, 4; cf. 7, 23, 1.

199. remittit: 1126, ut multa remittant. — revomit, most edd.; removet OQ, retained by Bock.; removit, Lachm. Vomo and its compounds are Lucretian; cf. 1, 724; 6, 447, 894. Yet removet may be right.

200. parte: Ov. Tr. 3, 3, 16, et plus in nostro pectore parte tenes; Georg. 1, 35, caeli iusta plus parte reliquit. Strictly parte is here 'more than the usual part,' but 'half' is colloquial in such statements. See 1, 617 n. — foras, 'out'; 1, 979 n.

201. haec goes with cuncta. — opinor: 3, 626 n.

202. vacuum inane, 1, 509.

203. 1, 290, sic igitur debent venti quoque flamina ferri. — auras aeris: 3, 222 n.

204. quamquam . . . pugnant: 2, 277, quamquam pellat; cf. quamvis with indic. 3, 403 n.

205. in sest, deorsum deducere: Itali and recent edd.; inest d. ducere OQ; est in se, d. ducere, Lachm.; in se est, deversus ducere, Bern.; in sest, d. decedere, Suse-mühl Phil. 24, 434; quantum in sest, sua deorsum ducere, Winck. — deorsum: 1, 362 n. — deducere: poetical inf. of purpose; cf. on 3, 86.

206. faces: 5, 1191, noctivagaeque faces caeli flammaeque volantes. Fax is said of the sun in 5, 976. — sublime: 6, 97, sublime volantes aetheriae nubes; Aen. 10, 662, sublime volans; Lucan, 1, 527, caelique volantis | obliquas per inane faces. For the adjective used as adverb, see on 3, 801.

207. ducere: Aen. 5, 528, crinemque voluntia sidera ducunt. — tractus, 'trains'; Georg. 1, 367, flammarum longos a tergo albescere tractus.

208. meatum: 1, 128 n.

209. non: 5, 306, non lapides quoque vinci cernis ab aevo? id. 599, 1073, 1222, 1229; 6, 1078. — cadere: because saepe refixa, Aen. 5, 527. — terram: singular of the planet, perhaps. — sidera: there is no passage cited to show that constellations as differing from stars were thought to fall from the sky, hence sidera here must be pleonastic, in the usual manner of L., or refer to heavenly bodies in general. Sen. NQ. 1, 1, 9, stultissimum est existimare . . . decidere stellas, but Phoen. 431. delapsa caelo stella; the poets generally accept the phenomenon.

210. caeli: Bern. and recent edd. from Cic. Arat. 297, caeli de vertice; summo old vulg., Lachm.; surgens Bock.; mundi Stürenberg, Hörschelmann. As Polle remarks, Phil. 26, 210, summo de vertice might mean summo de vertice solis. — dissipat: I, 350 n.

211. lumine conserit: Catull. 64, 207, mentem caligine . . . consitus. [Epic.] ad Pyth. 101, τοῦ ἀνδρῶν δέσποτων κατεσπειραμένον φωτὸς. Wakef. quotes Milton in P.L., 'Morn . . . sowed the earth with orient pearl.' — arva: the plowed fields are sown.

212. terras: prob. metr. gr. for terram; yet cf. 215. — quoque is out of place; it would follow solis ardor in prose. The tendency of fire downward is thus proved. — vergitur, in the active sense, is poet. and very rare; quoted from Lucan, Ovid, and Statius.

213. transversos, 'straight across'; 6, 190, nubila portabunt venti transversa per auras; 4, 422, transversum ferre. Sen. Thy. 359, obliqui via fulminis. — volare: 6, 87, volans ignis; Aen. 5, 319, fulminis octor alis.

214. abrupti nubibus: 6, 282, fulmen percindit nubem. Aen. 3, 199, ingeminent abruptis nubibus ignes; Aetna, I, rupti . . . ignes.

215. vis flammæa: 5, 1252, flammea ardor. For vis in periphrasis, see on 3, 8.

216-224. 'There is an important principle here: bodies falling swerve the least possible distance; if they did not, they would fall like raindrops and never touch, and the world would never have been made.'

216. Illud in his: cf. 184. — quoque goes with illud. — cognoscere avemus: 4, 778, exponere avemus.

217. rectum has the force of an adverb, cf. 226 and the use of sublime 206 n. Forty-one per cent of the lines of Book 2 have a diaeresis after the first foot. — feruntur, ponderibus, Lachm. Bail. feruntur ponderibus M. Br. (see Phil. 24, 434), Giuss., Howard, J. Phil. I, 123, Winck.; Cic. ND. I, 69, ait atomum cum pondere et gravitate directo deorsus feratur declinare paulum.

218. M. and Winck. insert se before incerto, unnecessarily. Cic. Fato 22, si gravitate feruntur ad perpendicularum corpora individua rectis lineis, ut Epicuro placet. — incerto ferme: i.q. incertissimo.

219. locis spatio depellere, OQ and recent edd.; loci spatiis decellere Lachm. Bern.; locis spatio decellere paulo Hörschelmann, 34; decedere Marull.; se pellere Avancius; Lachm. invented decellere. Cic. ND. I, 110, quae etiam si essent, quae nulla sunt, pellere se ipsa . . . possent. Depellere is not neutral elsewhere, but as Everett, Harv. Stud. 7, 28, says "depellere, neuter, 'push aside,' why not?" — spatio: Cic. Iael. 40, deflexit . . . de spatio curriculoque consuetudo maiorum; Div. I, 17, certo lapsu spatioque feruntur, from his poem on his consulship. L. 4, 1196, spatum decurrere amoris. — paulum: 'This clinamen or παρέκκλισις is so little a thing that courtesy requires the yielding,' says Royer, Essai, 53. 'Lucretius' conception of Declination as a movement so exceeding slight, the tiny soul-atom swerving from the straight line not more than the least possible degree at the impulse of its own free will, does not this come pretty near to Herschel's no greater force than is required to remove a single material molecule from its place through a space inconceivably minute?' Masson on Lucretius, Tyndall, and Others, in Brit. Quart. Rev. 75, 324 sq. 'In the atom Epicurus assumes the existence of a similar incalculable and unpredictable element . . . which impels the atom from its previous direction an amount infinitely small,' Wallace, Epicureanism, p. 100. 'Epicurus assumed this irregular deviation because of his aversion for anything like a force of necessity; here we trace the influence of his ethical system on his physical theory,' Ritter, Hist. of Anc. Phil., tr. Morrison, p. 435. Gomperz, Neue Bruchstücke Epicurs (Wiener Akademie, 1876, 95) shows plainly that Epicurus was an opponent of fatalism, not of determinism: he avoided the use of the word necessity. The sources of our knowledge of declination are given in Usener, Epicurea, p. 199 sq. Cf. also Plut. de Sol. Animi 7, ἄτομος παρεγκλίναι μέτραν ἐπὶ τούλαχιστον, θέως . . . τόχη παρεισθεῖ καὶ τὸ ἑφ' ἡμᾶν μῆδαπόληται, quoted by Hildebrandt, T. L. de primordiis doctrina, p. 32, who gives other quotations. This doctrine of Epicurus was generally ridiculed; per paulum quo nihil posset fieri minus, Cic. Fin. 1, 19, Ἐλάχιστον, Fato, 22; see Masson, At. Th. 123.

220. tantum quod is quoted in lex. for nearness in point of time; M. quotes it from Livy, 22, 2, 9, tantum quod extaret aqua; quod is of course a pronoun.—momen: 3, 144 n. Cic. Fato, 46, 'quae ergo nova causa in natura est qua declinet atomus? aut num sortiuntur inter se, quae declinet, quae non? aut cur minimo declinent intervallo, maiore non? aut cur declinent uno minimo, non declinent duobus aut tribus?'

221. declinare: always technical in L. and used similarly by Cic. in the same connexion.—omnia deorsum: L. was thus familiar with the first law of motion; 'when a body moves, not acted upon by any force, it will go on perpetually in a straight line, and with a uniform velocity,' Whewell, Phil. Induct. Sciences, I, 216.

222. inane profundum: 1, 1108.

223. offensus: 438; 4, 359; 6, 333. Offensio is the classical word; see on 1, 689.—natus: 6, 172, concursu natus eodem of tonitrus.

224. principiis: for primordiis, as frequently.

225-250. 'Heavier bodies do not overtake lighter ones in falling and so produce generative movements: this may occur in water or air, but not in void; hence the swerve is necessary, but not so much of it as to make an oblique movement.'

225. credit: 1, 1057 n.—potesse: 3, 319 n. This objection, that the atoms would not meet, was borrowed from Aristotle by Epicurus (Zeller, Stoics, etc., 445). Epicurus first corrupted the doctrine of Democritus, who taught the mechanical necessity of all movement without rule in unending void without direction, by postulating movement from above to below and then the swerve; see Windelband, Gesch. d. alten Philosophie, in Müller's Handbuch, 5, 1, 304 sq.

226. feruntur, OQ, Lachm. Bern. M.; ferantur, Vict. Bock. Giuss. Bail. Polle Phil. 26, 313; 'negat enim graviora corpora citius cadere,' Br.; cf. sunt, 1, 1058. The indic. is harsh, yet seems justified by 217; it is not the fact of the falling, but the wrong deduction, that he is about to oppose.

227. incidente is construed with the dative here and elsewhere; with preposition in 6, 145, etc.; once with the simple accusative 4, 568.—ex supero: Plautus writes de supero, which is read by some in 6, 512.

228. gignere: cf. 241. No doubt the idea of life steals into the meaning of this word, as in the case of semina; but cf. on 3, 173.—genitalis motus: cf. 571.—reddere, 'produce'; 890.

229. Cf. 82.
230. atque, 'or'; 3, 793 n.—aera rarum: 107. Martha, p. 250, comments on Lucretius' doctrine of the resistance of air before the air pump was invented Gassendi identified the weight or gravity of atoms with their inherent capability of self-determined motion. It is a question, says Lange (Hist. Materialism, 2, 27) how far Epicurus or Lucretius may have assisted Galileo to the conclusion a priori that all bodies fall equally fast in empty space (cf. Whewell, Hist. Induct. Sciences 2, 34).
231. celerare is used by Virgil with fugam, iter, etc.
232. corpus aquae = aqua, as natura aeris = aer; cf. on 187.—tenuis: for see on 3, 232 n; for nom. case on 3, 8.
233. morari, 'delay,' 'resist'; cf. on I, 1044.
234. cedunt: I, 374 n.
235. nulli: separated in his manner from rei.
236. I, 1079, nec quod inane autem est ulli subsistere debet.—rei: 112 n.
- 237 = I, 1080.
238. inane quietum: the void is inactive, and so offers no resistance; cf. Aen 5, 216, aere quieto, and on I, 345. 'Epicurus rightly enough refers the various speed with which bodies fall in air or water to the resistance of the medium, as for instance atoms move with greater speed than the sun's rays. But is this a standard of speed? Obviously not; for in fact any given space must be traversed in infinitely little time, and as space is absolutely endless, motion, so long as there are no object by which it may measure itself, will be quite indeterminate; but atoms which move in parallel lines and with equal rapidity are relatively in complete rest. This Epicurus does not seem to have realized'; Lange, Materialism, 2, 140 sq. In general cf. Epic. ad Herod. 61, καὶ μῆρ καὶ λεσταχεῖς ἀναγκαῖον τὰς ἀπόμονες εἶναι θταν διὰ τοῦ κεροῦ εἰσφέρονται μηδὲν ἀντικείμενος. οὐτε γάρ τὰ βαρέα θέττονται τῶν μικρῶν καὶ κούφων, θταν γε δὴ μηδὲν ἀπαντᾷ αὐτοῖς. οὐτε τὰ μικρά (βραδύτερα) τῶν μεγάλων, τάντα πέρον σύμμετρον ἔχοντα, θταν μηδὲν μηδὲ ἑκίνειν ἀντικεῖται.
239. ponderibus: cf. I, 1076.
240. haud igitur: I, 262. Notice the separation of haud . . . umquam, and cf. 3, 916 n.—levioribus incidere: 227.
241. per se: Br. formerly porro (Phil. 24, 436).
242. qui is probably abl. as in I, 700. Creech took it as nom., which is simpler.—varient motus = varios motus efficiant.—natura gerat res: I, 328 n.
243. etiam atque etiam: 3, 228 n.—inclinare: metr. gr. for declinare; Lamb clinarie with an inferior Ms.
244. minimum: see on 219.
245. obliquos: 800, recta aut obliqua luce.—refutet: cf. 867, neque id manus festa refutant | nec contra pugnant.
246. Cf. 149.
247. quantum in seest: cf. 190.—obliqua meare: cf. sursum meare, 186.
248. quod, 'so far as' = quoad or quantum; see Lachm. on 5, 1033 and less, E.
249. recta: added by Flor. 30 and recent edd.; nulla Lachm. and Purman

Jakrb. 115, 274; cf. 235. Recta regione is the straight course; rectis regionibus exit, 4, 514; see on 1, 958 and 2, 198.

250. possit cernere sese, OQ, M.; poscat c. sese Br. Winck.; praestet c. s. Lachm.; possit c. sensus Bern., susse Nencini, sensu Giuss. The Ms. reading is defended by Siebelis, p. 43, as the separation of declinare and sese is in Lucretius' manner. For declinare with object cf. poet in Suet. Aug. 70, omnia se a terris tunc numina declinarunt, and 259 below; Cic. Fato, 46, quae declinet atomum. Discussion in Phil. 24, 437; Jakrb. 115, 274. Possibly dicere vere should be written, the corruption being due to repetition from 248.

251-293. 'If there be no swerve, whence does free-will come? Men follow their desires, race horses, too; for the body obeys the mind. There must be in the seeds something besides blows and weight, for the mind is not bound to these, and this something is the power of turning aside.'

251. conectitur: of dependent union, like conexus; cf. on 3, 557.—omnis is emphatic.

252. semper was added by Flor. 30 and edd., but Lachm. vitere exacto exoritur.—ordine certo: 5, 732, 1183, 1439.

253. nec, 'and if . . . not.'

254. fati foedera: cf. on 1, 586. Cic. Fato, 22, 'sed Epicurus declinatione atomi vitari fati necessitatem putat,' 23, 'Epicurus rationem induxit ob eam rem, quod veritus est ne, si semper atomus gravitate ferretur naturali ac necessaria, nihil liberum nobis esset, cum ita moveretur animus, ut atomorum motu cogeretur.' Guyau, Morale d'Épicure, 72, remarks that fatum is the modern determinism.—rumpat: foedera rumpi, Aen. 12, 582; f. rumpam, Ov. H. 4, 17

255. causam causa: 3, 71 n.

256. libera: emphasized by position, and widely separated from its noun in his manner; cf. 1091.—animantibus, 'living beings,' animals and men; 3, 97 n. "Haeckel has said, 'every atom possesses an inherent sum of force, and in this sense is animate (beseelt). Without this assumption of an atomic soul the commonest and most general phenomena of chemistry are inexplicable; . . . for the movements of atoms which must take place in the formation and dissolution of a chemical compound can be explained only by attributing to them Sensation and Will.' You must bespeak a soul within your atoms, or you will never get it out of them; nor can we help admiring the naive avowal that this exigency alone prompts the assertion of sentient and volitional atoms, and not anything of the nature of evidence; they are wanted in the interests of a foregone conclusion; so nature is bound to supply them;" Martineau, Types of Ethical Theory, II, p. 399. Fate is nothing else, says Lamb., than συμπλοκή αλτεῶν τεταγμένη, so that if cause follows cause, fate necessarily results.

257. Lamb. exchanged voluptas and voluntas in 257, 258, favored by Bock. Giuss. and Susemihl Phil. 24, 437; cf. 261, 270, 276, 265, 268; potestas, Lachm. and most edd.; cf. 286 and Phil. 26, 314.—inquam: 3, 341 n.—avolaa: a strong expression.—'It is hard to understand how it can have been supposed that this doctrine of "freedom of will" constitutes a superiority of L. over Epicurus and a result of his stronger moral character, for leaving out of view that the point also occurs in Epic., we here find a serious inconsistency with physical theory, which lends no support whatever to a theory of moral responsibility. On the contrary, we might also regard the unconscious arbitrariness with which the soul-atoms decide this way or that to determine the direction and operation of will as a satire on the equilibrium arbitrii, since no image could make it clearer how any intimate connexion between the atoms of a person and his character is destroyed'; Lange, Materialism, II, 141. Martha, Poème, etc., 177, calls the explanation bien enfantine. There is no more precious homage to human liberty than that offered by philosophers who give it a place in a system where it has no right to enter, and who prefer inconsistency to denying a necessary fact. See Masson's general discussion in his criticism of Guyau, At. Th. 209 and also Cl. R. 16, 452.

258. progedimur: 4, 877, nunc qui fit uti passus proferre queamus, | cum volumus. For the rhythm cf. V. Ecl. 2, 65, trahit sua quemque voluptas. Giuss. notices that the alliteration defends avolsa voluntas in 257, and the Virgilian imitation voluptas in 258.

259. tempore certo: this occurs 10 times within 20 lines, 5, 638-759.

260. regione loci: 6, 823, ut cadat e regione loci; not much different from loco. Cf. 5, 807; 6, 832; 2, 293.—ubi: 'when and where.'—tulit mens: 3, 44, si fert ita forte voluntas; 6, 745, si forte ita fert natura locorum.

261. dubio procul: 1, 812 n.

262. principium dat: 1, 339.—rigantur, 'welled'; M. 4, 907, somnus per membra quietem | inriget; 5, 281, sol inrigat adsidue caelum. Arn. 2, 2, a quo omnia terrena cunctaque caelestia animantur motu irriganturque vitali.

263. tempore puncto: 1, 1109 n.

264. carceribus: 4, 990, quasi carceribus patefactis.—prorumpere: 6, 436, prorumpitur in mare venti vis.

265. vim cupidam, 'eagerness'; 3, 8 n.—tam de subito: ita de subito, 3, 643 n.—mens: animals have mens: 3, 299 n.—Georg. 3, 103, nonne vides, cum praeceps certamine campum | corripueru ruuntque effusi carcere currus.—mens avet: Catull. 46, 7, iam mens praetrepidaans avet vagari; Hor. Ep. 1, 14, 8, istuc mens animusque | fert et amat (avet, Bentl.) spatis obstantia rumpere claustra.—Some time must elapse before the mind can act on the body; cf. 4, 886 sq.

266. materiai | copia: 3, 193 n.

267. conciri, OQ edd., demanded by concita; conquiri O corr. Gott. Lamb. M.—concita: but concita, 239.—artus, 'body'; 3, 342 n.

268. studium mentis: 3, 647, in pugnae studio quod dedita mens est.—conixa: Gif. edd. cf. 160; conexa OQ, Br. Bail. Br. defends conexa in Phil. 24, 438; the union of the parts is not in point here, but the working together; cf. on 160 and Polle, Phil. 26, 314.

269. initum motus: 3, 271 n.—corde: frequently for animo: 4, 44, quamvis hebeti cognoscere corde.

270. ex animique: cf. eque, 1, 37.—voluntate id, OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; voluntate Housman, J. Ph. 25, 228; voluntati, Bock. Br. because motion, not beginning of motion, is imparted. Animi voluntate, Cic. Fam. 5, 20, 8; velit mens, L. 2, 1046.—id: sc. moveare from motus; cf. 1, 383, initum movendi.—procedere primum alliterates with corde creari in the preceding line; so 6, 741, contraria cunctis, 742, venere volantes.

1. porro, 'then,' as the second action; cf. 4, 645; 5, 1278.—corpus et 3, 151, membra atque artus and n. there; id. 737, corpora et artus. Car., p. 28, places 271 before 270.
2. similest ut cum: Cic. CM. 17, similesque sunt ut si qui . . . dicant, where compares several passages; here cum seems to be equivalent to si; but as sman, J. Ph. 25, 232, says, L. may be avoiding ac before a guttural. Edelbluth, 71, would have et cum, to agree with Lucretian usage.
3. coactu: here only in L., and found elsewhere only in this case form; so us for petitio, 3, 172.
4. omnem: emphatic; cf. on 3, 218.
5. ire rapique: cf. ferre patique, 291.
6. refrenavit: 1, 850 n. The mind can stop, as well as cause, motion.
7. quamquam: with subj.: 204 n.—externa: res externa, 435.
8. invitos: because driven by exterior force.
9. praecipiteaque rapi: trahi, agi, are more common.—pectore nostro: 3, idque (consilium, animus) situm media regione in pectoris haeret.
10. pugnare obstanteque: cf. 1, 780.
11. Giuss. inserts 281–283 between 276–277.—arbitrium: here only in L.
12. interdum, 'at times'; 3, 61 n.
13. Alliteration and assonance with repeated re-; see on 3, 353.—The store latter is regarded as a spirited horse, and again is likened to the subsidence wave. Crouslé compares Racine, Celui qui met un frein à la fureur des flots. troque residit: cf. on 1, 785.
14. quoque: in atoms as well as human beings: Masson, p. 128.—idem: ; item Winck., Lohmann, Tohte Jahrb. 117, 123. On this sentence see Masson 243.
15. aliam causam: declination.—plagas: cause of motion up; pondera, of on down.
16. potestas: of will.
17. Cf. 1, 150 n.—'He reasons thus: I cannot account for free-will appearing in all beings, the highest product of atomic evolution, unless it were there from the If man have free-will, then Matter which they come from must have free-will since nothing can come from nothing'; Masson, p. 128. Tohte regards this line a interpolation.
18. pondus: weight is regarded as an internal property, as opposed to an external force. The impact of blows is not sufficient to produce things, as weight is causing things to fall; the weight of atoms, then, permits them in a sense to fly the effect of these blows.
19. quasi: as if from without each atom.—necessum: here only in L. with re; with esse, 468 and elsewhere. The addition of an adjective is otherwise tampered.—mens: Lamb. edd. for res, which is retained by Bock. perhaps ectly: res, 'product' of the atoms: men and animals.
20. intestinum: this adj. is used several times by Cicero.
21. devicta: devincta Bock. and Br. formerly (Phil. 24, 438). Hoc was supplied after quasi by M.; id by Lachm. Br. Giuss. Bail. supply nothing, thus reading si, which is unexampled in class. Latin; see L. Müller, RM. 335; ubi, 3, 728 n.

Christ and Bouterwek defended quasi; see also Br. Phil. 24, 438. Quasi id occurs in 5, 729.

292. id: sc. ne . . . habeat; Lohmann, officit. — exiguum: cf. 1, 434. — climamen: here only; probably invented by L. Cic. Fin. 1, 19, ‘deinde ibidem homo acutus, cum illud occurreret, si omnia deorsum e regione ferrentur et, ut dixi, ad lineam, numquam fore ut atomus altera alteram posset attingere, itaque attulit rem commen-tiam, declinare dixit atomus perpaulum, quo nihil posset fieri minus: ita effici complexiones et copulationes et adhaesiones atomorum inter se, ex quo efficeretur mundus omnesque partes mundi quaeque in eo essent. quae cum res tota facta sit pueriliter, tum ne efficit quidem quod vult; nam et ipsa declinatio ad libidinem fingitur . . . ait enim declinare atomum sine causa, quo nihil turpius physico quam fieri quicquam sine causa dicere . . . et illum motum naturalem omnium ponderum, ut ipse constituit, e regione inferiorem locum petentium, sine causa eripuit atomis, nec tamen id, cuius causa haec fixerat, adsecutus est.’ Cf. ND. 1, 69.

293. regione loci certa: cf. 260. — ‘It is for this reason, because his atoms act as if they were alive, and because a dead will is an absurdity, that we formerly said that L. virtually conceives Matter as living, and that really his theory of Matter involves — certainly in a very low form, perhaps in the very lowest form possible — Pantheism’; Masson, 139.

294–307. ‘Matter has never been more compressed than now, so the motions are constant, and the same things have been and will be produced and grow to maturity. The sum of things cannot be altered, for there is no place of escape for matter and no new force can be introduced to change motion.’

294. stipata: 1, 329 n. — It is a participle here.

295. intervallia: cf. 98.

296. adaugescit: here only in L.; Cic. Arat. Progn., 181, stridor . . . ortus ad-augescit scopulorum saepe repulsus. L. has adauctu, 2, 1122; adaucta, 2, 564; 6, 508; adaugmen, 6, 614. — Epic. ad Herod. 39, καὶ μῆν καὶ τὸ πᾶν δε τοιότον ἡνῶν νῦν ἔστι, καὶ δε τοιότον ἔσται. οὐδέποτε γάρ ἔστιν εἰς διαταβαλέι. Plutarch adv. Colot. 13 p. 1114 a (Usener, Epic. 296), καὶ γάρ Ἐπίκουρος θεαν λέγει τὸ πᾶν διπειρον εἶναι καὶ διγένητον καὶ διφθαρτον καὶ μήτ' αὐξόμενον μήτε μειούμενον, ὃς περὶ ἑνῶν διαλέγεται τὸν πανταρτόν. 5, 361, sicut summarum summa est aeterna neque extra | qui locus est quo dissiliant neque corpora sunt quae | possint incidere et valida dissolvere plaga. ‘If matter in motion be conceived as the sole ultimate form of energy, L. must be allowed great merit in having taught that the motion of matter was as indestructible as its material existence, although he knew neither the laws of momentum nor of vis viva. If energy, as he believed, be due solely to motion, then his doctrine is true’; Jenkin apud Masson, 55.

297. motu: cf. 1, 995.

298. ante acta aetate: 1, 234.

299. post haec: L. appears not to use posthac. — ferentur: technical; cf. 1, 1076.

300. consuerint: consuerunt, Br. with old vulg.

301. erunt, ‘will come into existence.’ — vique, Pont., edd.; viquo OQ; inqve old vulg.

302. foedera naturai: 3, 416 n. — Note the spondees; there are seven such verses in the poem, the 1st, 3d, and 5th feet being spondees, viz. 1, 586, 1077; 3, 253, 545; 5, 971, 1156 (Kühn, p. 47).

303. Note the spondees, except in the fifth foot; there are 410 verses of this form in the poem; Kühn, ibid.—summam: 1, 235 n.—Epic. ad Herod. 39, οὐκ ὄττων εἰς & διελένετο . . . οὐθὲν γάρ ἔστιν εἰς θ μεταβαλεῖ. παρὰ γάρ τὸ πᾶν οὐθὲν ἔστιν, δὲν εἰσελθεῖν εἰς αὐτὸν τὴν μεταβολὴν ποιήσαι.

304. genus: class of atoms.

305. immenso effugere, Br. after Polle, Phil. 25, 270, because of the mutilation of 331; so 227, 279 are mutilated; several pages of the archetype were torn in the upper inside corner. est extra, Giuss. Bail. after M., who comp. 1, 963; omne seorsum Lachm.; set usquam Bern.; neque rursus old vulg.; quisquam locus est Lotze, cf. 1, 1077; neque in omnibus extans Bock. A young scholar proposes exortum to correspond to coorta, since there is parallelism between the two clauses.

306. coorta: usually at end of line; cf. 3, 15.—nova vis: praeter gravitatem et voluntatem, Bock.

307. mutare and vertere are synonyms: 2, 876, vertunt pecudes naturam; 4, 949, mutatis motibus.

308–332. ‘Although everything is in motion, yet, naturally, the sum appears at rest, for atoms cannot be seen nor their motions. Sheep grazing on a distant hill move about, yet the flock appears still; soldiers perform their evolutions, yet the army appears not to move.’—Giussani makes 308–332 follow 141, regarding this discussion as a later addition which properly belongs there. See his Note L. 19.

308. mirabile: 465, 1028, 1035; 4, 256, 898; 5, 666, 1056, in like connexion.

309. The first word is a dactyl, the fourth foot closes a word, the whole line is spondaic with three words in 5th and 6th feet: ‘non malus est versus, sed nullus, si aut quintus pes aut sextus spondiaco verbo seu continuis monosyllabis continetur’; L. Müller, RM. 223.—M. thinks inmotu one word metrically, after Lachm. (on 615) who also proposed a rearrangement: omnia cum sint in motu primordia rerum.

310. summa . . . summa: repetition in his manner, with change of rhythmic accent.—videatur, ‘appears.’—stare = manere: 3, 409.

311. siquid: nom.—dat motus: cf. 1, 819.—The exception is the movement of planets and the like, whose motion is evident.

312. ab: with iacet longe.—infra was questioned by Lamb.; M. comp. 4, 112, sunet infra nostros sensus.

313. primorum: 1, 55 n.—ipsa, Gif. edd. for ipsum which would refer to primum.

314. iam: cf. on 1, 601.—surpere: other syncopated forms are surpīte, surpūt, surpuerat, in Pl. and Hor.; see Lindsay, LL. 178.—The verb is transitive (‘withdraw from sight’).

315. Note the close with inf. and finite verbs, and in the preceding verse also, in his manner.—celest: cf. 1, 514 n.

316. spatio locorum: cf. 163.—diducta: when separated from the observer.

317. nam: sc. ‘an example is the following’; M. translates ‘thus.’—tendentias, ‘cropping’: 661 (660) tendentias gramina campo.—pabula laeta: 1, 14 n.

318. lanigerae: 3, 11 n. and cf. below, 343, 368.

319. invitant: 5, 524, quo cuiusque cibus vocal atque invitat euntis.—herbae:

5, 461, gemmantis rore per herbas. It is a morning scene. Culex 69, florida cum tellus gemmantis picta per herbas | vere notat dulci distincta coloribus arva. Milton, P.L. 5, 746, 'Stars of morning, dew drops, which the sun | Impearls on every leaf and every flower.'

320. ludunt: 1, 261.—blande, 'fondly,' as in 5, 1067.—coruscant: rare in this meaning ('brilliant').

221. longe. 'at a distance.'

321. longe, 'at a distance.'

322. velut in: edd. for veluti in, because uti is never found before a vowel.— candor: this flock is white. Georg. 3, 387, aries candidus; a rare adjective in such a connexion: Blümner, Farben 25.

323. magnae: 5, 1304, magnas Martis catervas; cf. on 3, 1028.—loca cursu: cf. 2, 40 sq.—Aen. 12, 763, explent cursu.

331 bellum simulacra: 3-41 p.

324. δεῖν εἰπιλασία: ζ. 41 π.
325. Hom. B 457, ὁς τῶν ἐρχομένων ἀπὸ χαλκοῦ θεσπεστοιο | αἴγλη ταμφανθωσα
δὶ αἰθέρους οὐρανὸν Ικεν; ἐξ 267 πλήθο δὲ πᾶν πεδίον πεζῶν τε καὶ ἵππων, | χαλκοῦ τε στρεουότις.

327. clamoréque: 1, 666 n. — Aen. 12, 445, pulsuque pedum tremit excita tellus. Note that 327-330 all begin with spondees, an unusual monotony.

328. reiectant: a rare word, cited from Silius and Spartianus. — sidera mundi: L. 788 n.

329. et beginning the verse is not uncommon in L.; cf. 283, 291, 299, 300, 320, 344.—circumvolitant: used once each by L., Virg., and Hor.—The German edd. separate the compound.

331. et tamen: 3, 51 n.—unde (Flor. 30): the standpoint; cf. longe, 321.
332. camps: plural as in 324.—consistere fulgor: c. candor, 322.
333-380. ‘Atoms differ in form, being many in number; so men differ in appearance, and animals; thus the mother knows her child, the cow her calf; so grain differs from grain; so atoms, not being made according to a pattern, differ from one

333. iam: as we have reached this point; 1, 601 n.—deinceps: dissyllabic like

<sup>334</sup> = 3, 32, nearly; see notes there. Woltjer (in Serta Rom.) transfers it to follow 346. Tothe, Jahrb. 117, 124, thinks the verse is borrowed from Bk. 3; it is probably Ciceronian, as is also the whole Bk. I, ch. 3.

335. percipe: 3, 135 n.—multigenis: here only; cf. on 3, 115 and alienigenis, omnigenos, cacigeni, etc.—quam: Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 275, quom.—variata, differentiated by funaria (cf. 162).

Herod. 42, (Δύτομα) ἀπερίληπτά ἔστι ταῖς διαφοραῖς τῶν σχημάτων; Plut. Plac. 1, 3, 27 (Usener, 270), τὰ σχήματα τῶν ἀτόμων ἀπερίληπτα, οὐκ ἀπειρα; cf. Braun, L. de Atomis, 43 sq.

337. vulgo: 1, 238 n.—omnibus omnia: 340; 3, 71 n.—constant, Flor. 31, vulg.; constat OQ; constant Lachm. See 3 n.

338. nec mirum: 6, 130, 375; neque mirum, 2, 87; non mirum, 4, 768; 5, 192. Nimirum is more frequent.

339. docui: 1, 953 sq.—summa, ‘definite sum.’

340. omnibus omnia is translated ‘one and all’ by M.—prorsum modifies pari, as Creech took it; M. takes it with omnia, cf. 6, 528, but there omnia is repeated. I can see no ground for taking it with non.

341. filo = textura (Bock.), a development of the meaning crassitudo, and thus a synonym of figura in his usual manner: 5, 572 (571), forma . . . filumque; cf. Kraetsch, 53, Lachm. on 5, 571 and lex. s.v.

342. praeterea, Nonius, vulg.; praetere OQ; parturient Lachm.; praeter- et M.; praestat rem M. formerly; praetereast Winck. Br. defends the vulg. as an anacoluthon, Prol. p. xxi; Polle, AV., 44, thinks with Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 672, that there was a lacuna before this verse, which is implied by debent and praeterea; this is approved by Susemihl, Phil. 24, 439 and Giuss., but opposed by Hörschelmann, p. 11. Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 782 gets a verb by transferring 334 to follow 346.—mutae: 1082, hominum genitam prolem, sic denique mutas | squamigerum pecudes et corpora cuncta volantum.—mutae natantes: 1, 258 n.

343. squamigerum pecudes: Plaut. Rudens 942, squamoso pecu. Pecudes = animals used for food; here loosely synonymous with pecora.—laeta, ‘fat’; Georg. 2, 520, glande sues laeti redeunt; 1, 14 n.

344. variae volucres: 1, 589.—laetantia ‘pleasing,’ seems unexampled; but see lex., laeto.—loca aquarum: cf. loca camporum, 323–324.

345. concelebrant: 1, 4 n.

346. pervolgant: cf. 164.

347. quorum: horum Marull. and old vulg.—quidvis: Lachm. edd.; quodvis, OQ, 4, 126, quorum unum quidvis.—generatim, ‘according to its class’; cf. 372.—sumere: cf. 1, 876.—perge: 3, 948 n.

348. tamen: yet, although of the same kind, etc.—differre, OQ; distare inf. MSS.; cf. 685.

349. nec: thrice repeated 856–858.—proles: cf. 1, 259.—cognoscere: V. Ecl.

↳ 60, incipe parve puer risu cognoscere matrem.

350. quod, ‘whereas’; 1, 221 n.—posse videmus: as verse ending in 1, 562; 2, 287, 709; 3, 165, 511; posse videtur, videntur also occur. The subject of posse to be supplied from mater and prolem, i.q. animalia.

351. minus: for aliter; Aen. 3, 561, minus ac iussi; id. 236, hanc secus ac iussi.—cluere = nominari = esse; 1, 119 n.

352. nam: ‘thus’—saepe: 3, 120 n.—delubra: always with deum in L.

353. turicremas: first in L. and only here; afterwards in Virg. and Ov.—Propter: 3, 653 n.

354. Aen. 9, 414, vemens calidum de pectore flumen. Ilias Latina, 411, fun- dentem calidum de pectore flumen.

355. mater: Tib. 1, 1, 31, fetumve capellae | desertum oblita matre referre domum; Ov. F. 4, 459, ut vitulo mugit sua mater ab ubere rapto, | et quaerit fetus per nemus omne suos; Stat. Th. 6, 189, nunc vallem spoliata parens, nunc flumina questu, | nunc armenta movet vacuosque interrogat agros; | tunc piget ire domum, maestoque novissima campo | exit et oppositas in pasta avertitur herbas.—viridis saltus: 3, 11, floriferis saltibus.

356. noscit, Lachm., edd.; nonquit O, Bail.†; nonquid Nicc.; oinquit Q; linquit Q corr., old vulg.; novit Duval and Br. formerly (Phil. 24, 440); mugit Spengel; sagit Grasb.; unguit Bock.; urget Polle (Phil. 26, 315); quaerit Bail. Cl. R. 16, 330. Creech thought that quit might come from quio, i.e., facit quietem. No satisfactory emendation has yet been made.—Tac. Ann. 4, 62, 5, per diem visu, per noctem ululatis et gemitu coniuges aut liberos noscebant. Sil. 15, 707, pecus e pastu cum sese ad tecta referret, | noscentes matrem spectabat ovibus agnos. Shaksp., K. Henry VI, 2d part, III, 1, ‘And as the dam runs lowing up and down, | Looking the way her harmless young one went | And can do nought but wail her darling’s loss.’ vestigia pressa: cf. 3, 4. Ov. F. l.c., et pressam noto pondere vidit humum.

357. convisens: 1, 145 n.

358. fetum: 1, 193 n.—complet: 5, 992, nemora ac montis gemitu silvasque replebat; 5, 1066.—‘In L.’s readiness to realize by imagination and to feel for the suffering, the pain, and the fear which must exist alike among men and among animals, all over a world like this . . . there is an almost modern note’; Masson, 158. Ov. F. 4, 481, quacumque ingreditur miseris loca cuncta querellis | implet, ut amissum cum gemit ales Ityn; Georg. 4, 512, amissos queritur fetus.

359. adsistens (‘stopping’), Q corr., vulg., Bouterwek, Giuss.; cf. Susemihl, Phil. 29, 431; cows usually stop to low. adsittens OQ, Bail.†; absistens M.; adidueis Lachm.; nemu subsistens Br.; atque sidens Nencini; adsitiens Everett, Harv. St. 7, 29.—crebra: adj. for adverb. Draeg. seems to take it as an acc. instead of nom. in Synt. I, 66; cf. 3, 21 n.—revisit ad: 6, 1239, visere ad aegros, cf. 5, 636 and Trans. Amer. Phil. Assoc. 25, 6.

360. stabulum does not necessarily imply feeding.—perfixa: 3, 305 n.

361. salices: V. Ecl. 3, 83, lenta salix fetu pecori; id. 8, 15, cum ros in tenera pecori gratissimus herba.

362. illa, ‘yon,’ M.; cf. 389; Br. formerly, alma; Macr. ulla; Winck. alta.—labentia of rivers in Hor. Ep. 1, 2, 43, labitur et labetur in omne volubilis aevum; id. Epod. 2, 25, labuntur altis interim ripis aquae; altis ripis in Quint. 12, 2, 11.

363. subitam, OQ, M., Giuss. Bail.; sumptam, M. 1860; solitam, Lachm.; subito Br.; dubiam Bern., Susemihl Phil. 24, 439. M. translates ‘care that has entered into her.’ Nencini here and in Aen. 12, 862, altis in parvae subitam conlecta figuram (Heyne subitam for subito) and in L. 3, 694 (subitis MSS.) thinks the adjective is used for the adverb; so Howard, J. Phil. I, 124, interprets ‘sudden’ and compares postremis for postremo, 3, 250. ‘On the analogy of obitus, interitus, exitus, praeteritus, discensus, successus, recessor and Plautus’ puppis pereunda est probe, L. may surely have said subitam curam for curam quae subiit; M.; but this is unexampled. Wakef. interprets id curiae quod eam subiit; so Woltjer. Georg. 3, 520 is compared by editors: ‘non umbrae altorum nemorum, non mollia possunt | prata moveare animum, non qui per saxa volutus | purior electro campum petit amnis; at

ima | solvuntur latera, atque oculo's stupor urget inertis,' etc. Bährens, Archiv 3, 278, proposed subidam, 'burning.' Bailey, Cl. R. 16, 330 interpreted subitam as 'sudden,' of the recurrent pang of care (solicitude). Subitus meant originally that which has come unexpectedly, and L. probably keeps this wavering meaning of the word, a union of the etymological and the developed meaning. Cf. Val. Fl. 6, 154, 'nunc subitam tripodis Maeotin solve re plastris' when Langen makes subitam = subito, so also in 8, 306, 'cum subitas videre rates.' Cf. also Aen. 12, 566; Juv. 13, 167.

364. vitulorum aliae species: aliae in sense goes with vitulorum. — species means forms.

365. derivare: here only in L. Lamb. conjectured alio for animum.

366. usque adeo: 3, 254 n. — proprium: 3, 357 n.

367. praeterea, 'moreover.' — teneri: Hor. C. 3, 18, 5, tener haedus; 1, 179 n. — tremulus: 3, 7. — cum is unnecessary; 1, 287 n.

368. cornigeras: 3, 11 n. — petulci: stumbling from weakness, and so pushing with the head.

369. balantum: pigris balantibus, 6, 1132; in Ennius, Virgil, and Juvenal. — reposit: at close of verse, metr. gr., also in 4, 655; 6, 920, instead of poscit.

370. fere, 'commonly.' Bock. thinks the word shows the author's fidelity to truth, because sometimes the lambs make mistakes. Bentl. Wakef. feri. — ubera lactis: cf. 1, 887.

371. frumentum may depend on sumere perge understood from 347, or it may better be regarded as a suspended nom.; cf. 342. 'Stoicorum est istud quidem nec admodum credibile, nullum esse pilum omnibus rebus talem, qualis sit pilus aliis, nullum granum,' Cic. Acad. 2, 85 and Reid there. Wex (Tac. Agri. p. 324) inferred a lacuna after frumentum, and Bruno (Harburg progr. 1872, p. 1) proposes non ita Memmi; Bährens, Jahrb. 123, 407, non ita in uno | quoque. — tamen corresponds to quodvis; tame et, Woltjer.

372. quique: abl.; quidque OQ. See Lachm. here, and cf. 3, 700 n. For the attraction of quique to suo, see Roby, 2288, Dr. I, § 32, 2.

373. quin: Roos proposed quum. — distantia: cf. 525; 4, 636.

374. concharum: 501; 4, 936. — parilli: 1, 1067 n. — Ov. Am. 2, 11, 13, nec medius tenuis conchas, pictosve lapillos, | pontus habet; Prop. 1, 2, 13, litora nativis praefulgent picta lapillis.

375. gremium: 1, 251 n. — mollibus, 'soft,' hence 'lapping.' Aen. 9, 817, mollibus extulit undis.

376. incurvi: here only in L., perhaps for metrical convenience; curvo is not infrequent with litore from Virgil on, and also occurs in Accius; see Archiv 3, 123. — pavit, OQ, edd.; lavit Nonius, old vulg. Woltjer.

377. etiam atque etiam: 3, 228 n.

378. natura constant, 'are of natural origin.'

379. unius: sc. some word for atom: seminis, corporis primi. For unius, 3, 97 n. — formam, 'pattern.'

380. volitare: 3, 33 n. — quaedam: quadam Winck. Bock. Wakef. But some may be like one another as well as different.

381-397. 'In the same way by reasoning it may be shown why the fire of lightning penetrates where ordinary fire does not, and why light goes where water cannot; again oil is slower than water; in all these cases the size of the atoms gives the explanation.'

381. est animi, OQ, Bail.; est tali Lachm. M.; est parili Bern.; est iam animi Lamb.; * persfacilest animi Giuss. with Br. Phil. 24, 441, see Susemihl there who supports Lamb.; Polle, Phil. 26, 315, rationem exsolvere, and porro for animi; Hörschelmann, p. 12, itidem rationem exsolvere nobis (cf. Br. Jahrb. 111, 613). Bock. proin facile est animi ratione exsolvere nobis. Bentl. nodos. Van d. Valk, exim rationem.—exsolvere, 'explain'; lexicons give no other examples; M. comp. resolvi, 5, 773.

382. penetralior: 1, 535, penetralem ignem. The comp. seems δραξ λεγμένος. Suet. p. 224, R., 'Lucretius autem dicit fulmina ex minutis seminibus constare, ideo penetrabilia esse.'

383. noster, 'common,' 387; 5, 435.—fuat, Faber, edd.; fuat OQ; cf. 4, 367. Wakef. and Bock. retain fuat, comp. permanare, perfusere, etc.—e in caesura, 3, 858, 1001; cf. de, 390.

384. caelestem ignem: 5, 1094, caelestibus flammis.

385. suptilem: 6, 225, subtilem cum primis ignibus ignem | constituit natura minutis mobilibusque | corporibus.—constare figuris: 682.

386. atque ideo: 3, 535 n.—foramina: 3, 588 n.

387. hic: 1066; 4, 921; 6, 9. L. Müller, RM, 343 (425 ed. 2), gives examples from Virgil, Tibullus, and some late writers, and says the usage is 'rarissimum apud dactylicos.' In early Latin hic (pr.) is regular: Lane, 2466. Cf. 1, 692 n.—ortus, OQ, edd. Winck. Polle, Phil. 26, 316; ortu Lachm.—creatus, 'produced.'

388. cornum: Mart. Epigr. 14, 61, has the lemma laterna cornea. The form cornum is to be referred to a nom. cornum. Pl. Amph. 341, quo ambulas tu qui Volcanum in cornu conclusum geris.

389. illa refers to luminis.

390. de quibus est: 3, 216 n.

391. vina: the form occurs again in 6, 231, vina repente, metr. gr.; so in V. Ecl. 5, 71, before novum; Hor. C. 1, 11, 6, vina lique; in Ov. M. 8, 274, sua vina Lyaeo, it is plural in signification.

392. cunctatur: cf. 3, 192.—olivom: poet. for oleum. Molière speaks of 'la paresse de l'huile,' in La Gloire du Val-de-Grâce (Crouslé).

393. nimirum in sense should precede aut quia.—est elementis: 3, 244; 2, 402, 451, 458, etc.

394. hamatis: Cic. Acad. 2, 121, qui ex asperis et levibus et hamatis uncinatisque corporibus concreta haec esse dicat interiecto inani.—perque plicatis: for tmesis see on 3, 343. 'Since the atoms are only the masses "writ small," we may call this Quantitative atomism to distinguish it from Qualitative atomism, which assigns other qualities to the atoms than those known to belong to masses—qualities which are not feelings, but purely speculative fictions, invented to assist calculation and justified in proportion to the assistance they furnish. Of these the ring vortices of Helmholtz and Kelvin may be taken as a good example.' Lewes, Problems, etc., I, 2, 284. Perplexis is found in 102, 459, 463.

395. diducta: 316; Lamb. deducta.

396. Cf. 165.

397. cuiusque: coli usque, Bruno, but the reference is, as M. says, to several elements of any oil in relation to the several openings of any particular strainer. Bock. would have the reference to any object.

398—407. ‘Moreover milk and honey taste sweet, and wormwood and centaury bitter; it is the smooth shape of the atoms of the one and the hooked of the other which cause the difference.’

398. Huc accedit uti: 1, 192 n. On taste in general see 4, 633 sq., and cf. 4, 615.—liquores: for liquor in periphrasis cf. 390 and 1, 938.

399. sensu linguae: i.q. cum lingua sentit = sensation; not a common usage. 4, 617, sacrum sentimus in ore.—tractentur: 4, 623, suaviter omnia tractant.

400. taetra, ‘loathsome’ (because bitter, 1, 936 n.), said of sapore, 6, 22, and again of absinthi, 4, 124.—feri: tristia centaurea, 4, 125. The plant may have been ‘wild’ or used by the half-wild centaur; an epithet corresponding to taetra is demanded.

401. centauri: fel terrae propter amaritudinem, according to Isidor., Orig. 17, 9, 33, cited by Regnier.—foedo offends natural feelings and excites loathing and aversion; taetra excites fear or shuddering, like ‘hideous’, ‘shocking’; Död.—per-torquent: Georg. 2, 246, ora | tristia temptantum sensu torquebit amaror. Grasberger corrects to pertorqueat. M. comp. Milton, P.L. 10, 569, ‘With hatefullest disrelish writhed their jaws.’ Cf. on 3, 559.

402. facile agnoscas: cf. 462.—levibus atque rutundis: 3, 205.

403. sensus tangere: 4, 224, cum tuimur absinthia, tangit amaror; 4, 674; 1, 643, 689.

404. quaē amara: qui in, 617; sī abest, 4, 1061; sī ut, 5, 7; qui in, 5, 74; qui tressas, 6, 716; sī odoratast, 6, 796; all in the unaccented part of the foot; L. has 20 elisions in the ictus syllable; see Maurenbrecher, Hiatus, 168 and Müller, RM. 307 (372 ed. 2). Stanley, Hist. Phil. p. 588, quotes from Theophrastus: ‘He therefore does not define the thing amiss who saith That the atoms which make a sweet savour are round and of a convenient size; those which a sower, large; those which a harsh, multangular and nothing round; those which a sharp, acute conical crooked, not slender nor round; those which an acid, round slender crooked; those which a salt, corned distorted aequicrural; those which a bitter, round smooth distorted little; those which a fat, slender round little.’—videntur: to any sense; cf. English ‘appear sweet’ and the like; cf. 5, 1073.

405. Cf. 394.

406. rescindere: Georg. 3, 453, ferro . . . rescindere . . . ulceris os.

407. sensibus is a terminal dative.—introitu: exitus introitusque, 6, 494.

408—443. ‘All pleasant and disagreeable sensations are dependent on the shape of the atoms; so of music, of odors, of things pleasing to the eye; smooth atoms produce a pleasant sensation; rough, unpleasant. Some atoms have hooks with bent points; these tickle like some herbs; atoms producing a sensation of cold and heat are dentate. Touch is the criterion in all cases, and atoms which produce different sensations must be of varying forms.’

408. tactu: probably an ablative; cf. 434—435. The construction is bona et mala

tactu sensibus, as Roos says, p. 34. This seems better than with Wakef. and M. make tactu and sensibus synonyms. Giussani thinks tactu is supine; Cartault, p. 4 ablative, but sensibus dative.—Georg. 3, 416, mala tactu | vipersa.

409. Cf. 671 (672), dissimili perfecta figura principiorum.

410. ne: cf. 414, 418. Ne forte putes, 718; ne forte . . . credas, 5, 890.—follows the use of the comic poets and is not emphatic: Woltjer, Mnem. 17, sq. It is contrary to Lucr. usage; cf. 1, 80 and below.—serrae: Cic. Tusc. 5, 11 on the compensation for deafness, ne stridorem quidem serrae tum cum acutitur a grunditum cum iugulatur suis (audiunt).—acerbum: of sound ‘harsh’; ad Herc 60, vocem mittat acerbissimam; Georg. 3, 149, acerba sonans. Sounds are corpore as he will prove in 4, 524 sq.

411. horrorem: horridus is more frequent in this sense of physical roughness cf. on 3, 291.

412. musaea mele: 505, cycnea mele. There are many Greek words in 4, 111 sq.—organici: 3, 132 n. M. quotes Quint. 12, 10, 33, ‘itaque tanto est sern Graecus Latino iucundior ut nostri poetae, quoties dulce carmen esse voluerint, ill rum id nominibus exornent’; and Juvenal’s parody, 3, 68, et ceromatico fert niceiter collo.

413. expergefacta: Hor. C. 2, 10, 18, cithara tacentem | suscitat Musam.—figurant: 4, 549, mobilis articulat verborum lingua | formaturaque labrorum p parte figurata.

414. penetrare: 6, 777, multa per ipsas | insinuant naris.—forma: abl. quality. On the sense of smell see 4, 673 sq., especially 4, 678, dissimiles propt formas.

415. taetra: 510, aliud retro quoque taetrius esset | naribus auribus atque ocul.—cadavera: acc.—torrent: 3, 872 n.

416. et is regarded by some as = ac, ‘as,’ but this passage shows how the co junction changed its meaning. Consimile . . . et, 3, 8; cf. 420 and see Dr., § 31 18, and on 1, 281.—croco: on the aspersion in the theatre with perfumed wat see Marquardt, Staatsv. 3, 534, and the references there to Ov. AA. 1, 104; Se Ep. 90, 15; Pliny 21, 17; and Mayor on Juv. 14, 267.—Cilici: Culex 401, Cili crocus editus arvo.—recens: 6, 791, nocturnumque recens extinctum lumen. Rec is limited commonly to phrases like recens natus, dominus, editus, acceptus, et Wölfflin, Rh. M. 37, 113, sees here an extension of use by L.

417. Panchaeos: Panchaea, the fabulous island east of Arabia, is not mentioned in Latin before L.—exhalat: 3, 432, exhalare vaporem altaria.—propter: 653 n.

418. bonos colores: Cato, RR. 109, vinum . . . bono colore; Ov. Am. 2, 7, sive bonus color est; Bock. comp. bona sensibus, 408.

419. constituas: 1, 643.—oculos pascere: 1, 36 n.

420. conpungunt aciem: 4, 716, pupillas interfodiunt acremque dolorem | pra bent . . . cum tamen haec nostras acies nil laedere possint.—cogunt: with inf., 197 n.

421. foeda: ugliness as affecting the mind is transferred to the eyes.—dir Lachm. edd.

422. mulcet: 3, 142 n.—figura: Schneidewin, Phil. 3, 538, edd.; videnti

OQ, and Br. † because he considers figura inconsistent with the discussion of sounds, odors, etc. (but cf. 409); he proposes quaeque iuvat res; iuvatque was read by the Juntine with other changes. Postgate, J. Ph. 24, 134, tibi res; Roos, videntes; Wakef. videntum.

423. principiali: 5, 246, principiale aliquod tempus; only in these places apparently. Principialis is very common; cf. alsius and alsus.—levore: 4, 551 (542), asperitas autem vocis fit ab asperitate principiorum et item levor levore creatur. The elision is harsh, and the repetition of the syllable al unpleasant.

424. quaecunque: sc. figura.

425. squalore L. has only here; squalida, 469 and 5, 956. Note levore creatast, 423; squalore repertast, 425.

426. iam: 1, 601 n.—putantur: the subjunct. might have been expected.

427. flexis mucronibus unca = hamata, like fishhooks.

428. magis, ‘rather’; cf. 869.—angellis: only here and in Arnob. 7, 49, angellis prominentibus.—prostantibus, ‘standing out,’ seems  $\Delta\omega\delta\lambda\kappa\lambda\eta\gamma\mu\pi\sigma\tau\omega\sigma$  in this sense.—utqui, added by N. P. Howard and edd.; et quae, old vulg.; quaeque, Lachm.; unde, Bern.; hisque, Polle. See on 3, 738.

429. titillare: a translation of the epicurean  $\gamma\alpha\rho\gamma\alpha\lambda\eta\zeta\pi\tau\omega$ .—possint, O, edd.; possunt Q, Lachm. Bern.

430. fecula, ‘tartar’ ‘lees.’—iam; ‘now at hand.’ The repetition of iam in the next line is inartistic.—inulæ, ‘elecampane’; called acid and bitter by Horace (S. 2, 2, 44; 8, 51). For the order—noun and periphrasis—see on 3, 201 and cf. 449, below.

431. pruinam: called acri in 3, 20, gelida, 2, 514; 5, 216; 6, 529.

432. dentata: plural neuter.

433. tactus uterque, ‘touch of each’; the adjective represents a modifying genitive. Cic. Acad. 2, 5, utramque vim, and Reid’s note, and Munro’s note here. Hor. C. 2, 17, 8, ille dies utramque ducet ruinam.

434. tactus . . . tactus: variation in accent as usual.—pro divum: 1093, pro tactu deum pectora. ‘Poetice, non philosophice,’ Faber says.

435. corporis sensus: 1, 304, tangere et tangi, nisi corpus, nulla potest res.—extera, examples in 410 sq.; the opposite of quae in corpore natast, 436.

436. insinuat: 3, 485 n.

437. aut separates laedit and iuvat.—genitalis: acc.; cf. 571.—Veneris is a poetical pleonasm like Chaldaicum, 5, 727, Babylonica C. doctrina; cf. fera saecula ferarum, 3, 753, and Kraetsch, 58.

438. aut, OQ, edd.; atque Lachm. with a period at close of 437. The third alternative is sensation within the body, due to disturbance of atoms. Susemihl, Phil.

24, 442, supports atque, but Christ and Polle (Phil. 26, 316) keep aut as marking three divisions: 436, pain; 437, pleasure; 438, blow from without, disturbing the inner body. M. thinks aut is used by attraction instead of vel to correspond to vel, 435 and 436; and so Giussani, who compares Ov. M. 15, 602, vel si dignus erit gravibus vincite catenis, aut finite metum fatalis morte tyranni. See also Edelbluth, Conj. 25, and Archiv 11, 288. I think the division is: A, vel, 435; B, vel, 436–439. B is divided into 1, laedit; 2, iuvat; 3, confundunt sensum. He could not well write vel aut in 436. The sensations of pleasure and pain might occur under conditions of A, and B 1 and 2.—offensu: 223 n.—turbant: 3, 493 n.—corpore in ipso: 3, 483 n.

439. confunduntque, vulgate; confundunt OQ, Lachm. Confundere sensus, 946.

440. ut si: 4, 993, ut vestigia si teneant inventa ferarum.—iam, ‘straightway.’

441. atque, ‘and so.’

442. quapropter, etc.: cf. quare, etc., 377 sq.

443. edere sensus: 816, variis formis variantes edere tactus.

444-477. ‘Hard substances are made up of compacted, hooked, and branching atoms; liquid of smooth and round; gases and flames of sharp, not closely united; bitter fluids of smooth and round mixed with round and rough.’

444. spissa: 6, 127, spizzo corpore.

445. M. quotes Newton’s Optics, 251, ‘the parts of all homogeneal hard bodies which fully touch one another, stick together very strongly. And for explaining how this may be some have invented hooked atoms, which is begging the question.’

446. ramosis: r. arbor, 5, 1096; r. nubila, 6, 133.—alte compacta: alte exultans, 195; alte sumpta, 4, 1182.

447. quo genere: 3, 296 n.—iam, ‘now for example.’—adamantina: L. is the first to use the adj., and Virgil the noun adamas. Paley in J. Ph. 2, 150, shows that adamas = basalt, originally.

448. prima acie: military metaphor.—ictus contemnere: 5, 379, aevi contemnere vires.

449. silices: 1, 571 n.—duri robora ferri: cf. 103; 6, 1011, validi ferri natura; Aen. 7, 609, ferri robora.

450. aera: the brazen hinges or pivots; claustris, the sockets; see Rich s. v. claustrum and cardo. Aen. 2, 480, postesque a cardine vellit | aeratos. I take the illustration to be from the turning of the door on the hinge, not from the pushing back of the bar or lock; because the door may not have been locked at all, and the weight of the door would not make a louder creak. Aen. 1, 449, foribus cardo stridet aenis; Milton, ‘on their hinges grate harsh thunder’ (Wakef.).—restantia, ‘resisting’; cf. 1, 110 n. Christ proposed reseratis, Bentl. restantibus. Faber took restantia as = sustinentia.—vociferantur: 3, 14 n.

451. debent: of physical necessity, as often.

452. fluvido: this form occurs in Sedulius and Seneca; fluvida, 464, 466.—liquida: 1, 349 n.

453 (454). retinentur: cf. 468.—glomeramina: the round bodies, σύκοι; the lexicons cite the word only from Serenus Sam. in addition to L. 2, 686; 5, 726.—Gius. refers the word to particles of water; Br. to poppy.

454 (453). This verse is transferred by Goebel and Giussani to follow 454 of the codd., keeping percuslus in 455; so Edelbluth, Conj. 32. The verse is rejected by Lamb. and Munro. See van d. Valk. p. 78.—quasi, Haupt, Lachm. edd. for quod OQ. M. says: ‘Does it refer to poppy seeds or poppy juice? In the former case it is untrue, in the latter unmeaning.’ Why unmeaning, since poppy juice and water are both fluid? Or if Ov. M. 13, 526, can say haustus arenae, why not, referring to the seed, haustus papaveris? Cf. L. 3, 196-197.—facilis: ‘easily moved.’

455. percuslus, OQ, Br. transferring this verse to follow 453 of codd.; he would make it refer to papaver; procursus old vulg., Lachm. M. Bail. Roos, p. 36, regards percusus as a noun, as it is used by Tert. Anima, 52. L. often uses rare words together; one seems suggested by the other.—proclive as an adverb he does not use elsewhere; Cic. Fin. 5, 84, proclivi currit oratio; see Madv. there. Proclivis, 6, 728.

456. Bock. Br. Giuss. transfer 456–463 to follow 477, with Hörschelmann, who held that 444–450 treats of solids, 451–455 of liquids; and as 464–477 also treats of liquids, the last passage should not be separated; 456 sq., then, treats finally of gases, etc. But why should L. be held to that order? See abstract of 444–477.—puncto tempore: 1, 1109 n. Lotze, iuncto corpore.

457. diffugere: cf. perfume, 3, 222. — que: a b cque, 2, 1060; 5, 302.

458. omnia OQ, Br. Giuss.; omnibus Muretus, Lamb. edd.; omnino sint levibus, Pont. Junt. Omnia, ‘in all respects’; such a change of meaning of a repeated word is in his manner.

459. esse depends on necessest. — perplexis indupedita: cf. 102 and n.

460. saxa, OQ, Br.; vesca M.; laxa M. formerly, approved by Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 274; sese Lachm.; vexans Susemihl. Phil. 24, 442. Polle, Phil. 26, 317, was troubled by uti, not deciding whether it was final or concessive; he would expect pungere enim possunt, and perhaps vestes for saxa. Lotze, tungere for pungere, nexa for saxa, after Schneidewin. Christ, supra; Giuss., terebrareque saxa; Albert, Phil. 56, 249, penetrareque sensus. Saxa I keep for the present; he may be thinking of the action of fire or heat on rock walls, cf. 1, 491. Polle would transfer 460 to follow 463; opposed by Hörschelmann, 22. Lamb. rejected 460–462; Bentl. 461–462. Everett, Harv. St. 7, 29, saeva or ad ossa or ad ima or summa. In general see Br. in Jahrb. 111, 619 sq.; Giuss. Note L. 24; van d. Valk, 80.—6, 953, ferri vim penetrare.

461. videmus, OQ, edd.; venenumst, Lachm. Grasberger.

462. * sensibus esse datum: Giuss. Br., filling the lacuna with ventis differri ~~rapidis nostrisque veneno. Sedatum~~ OQ, M.; sic latum M. formerly; sed rarum Lachm.; ventis esse datum Bern.; sentibus esse datum Faber; sensibus hamatum or desertatum Grasberger; sensibus dilatum Polle, Phil. 26, 317; inter se, quo quodque videmus | ventis esse datum Lotze; sursum esse datum Christ; ignibus esse datum Purmann; quod quisque videmus | sensu ibus esse datum Hörschelmann; quaecumque videmus sensibus e. d. Nencini; ollis e. d. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 274; sentibus e. d. Housman, J. Ph. 25, 234; sensibus seductum van d. Valk. The passage is still corrupt.

463. Br. Giuss. read elementis* Quod quoniam (478). ‘Ante v. 478 plura exciderunt id quod illud rursum v. 481 declarat, docuerat hic poeta non quantalibet magnitudine atomos esse posse’; Br. Prol.

464. Placed after 454 by Br.; after 455 by Giuss. — fluvida: cf. 452.

465. sudor: Empedocles, 206 sq., ἄλις ἐπάγη βικῆσιν ἀσμένος ἡλοιο | γῆς λαρῶν θάλασσαν. Arist. Meteor. 2, 3, διοιώς δὲ γελοῖον καὶ εἰ τις εἰπὼν ἰδρῶτα τῆς γῆς εἴω την θάλατταν οἰται τι σφές εἰρηκέναι, καθάπερ Ἐμπεδοκλῆς quoted by Hildebrandt, 34. Probably through Empedocles' influence L. felt justified in using the metaphor sudor maris for the saltiness of the sea, although in Empedocles the sea is sudor terrae; cf. also 5, 487. Bentley here has udor. — debet* nam: Bern.

Br. Giuss.; habeto M. Bail.; habebis Lachm.; debet OQ; habendum Itali; id escit Goebel; Lachm., even, thought a lacuna possible and suggested esse quod expressus terrai corpore primumst, from 5, 487.

466. quod: conjunction. — fluvidus: (sudor).

467. est, et squalida sunt illiae admixta doloris: Bern. Polle, Giuss.; est, et squalida multa creant admixta doloris M. Br., and Bail. with dolores; est et levibus atque rutundi admixta doloris OQ; est et levibus sunt aliunde admixta doloris Lachm.; dant aliis Everett. — squalida doloris: the rough atoms produce pain.

468. retineri: cf. teneri, 446. — necessumst: Lachm. edd.

469. scilicet esse: 1, 210 n. — globosa: here only in L.

470. provolvit: because round; laedere sensus: because rough.

471. quo putes magis: cf. 1, 196, ut potius . . . putes. — aspera levibus: juxtaposition; 3, 765 n.

472. unde, 'of what kind.' Neptuni: 6, 1076, non si Neptuni fluctu, and 3, 221 n.

473. secernendi: i.e. separating sweet from bitter.

474. Lachm. and Hörschelmann place this line after 476. — The subject, umor dulcis, stands outside of its clause in L.'s manner. — dulcis: 6, 890, dulcis aquai; 1, 886, latices dulcis; 6, 894, quod dulcis inter salsa intervomit undas. Goebel would have salsus. — ubi: 3, 728 n. — terras: plural of extent.

475. A bad spondaic line on account of ac; cf. 1, 1077; 3, 191, 417. — ut = 'how.' — mansuescat: Sen. NQ. 3, 5, amaritudinem ponit et pravitatem saporis in tanta soli varietate exuit et in sinceram aquam transit.

476. superat: 1, 429 n. — taetri: 400 n. — viri: 1, 719 n. — Serv. on Georg. ■■■ 129, 'sane virus hodie tristis tantum habet casus: hoc virus, hoc virus, o virus. At tiqui huius viri dicebant, L. 2. 476'; the stock quotation by the grammarian M. quotes Manil. 5, 684, ponti secernere virus.

477. quom, 'inasmuch as'; Roos, M. Br. Bail.; quo OQ, Lachm. Goebel, Giuss. — haerescere: quoted only from L. here and 4, 742, and once in Paulinus Nol. 10, 267. — possint, OQ, edd.; possunt old vulg. Goebel, Giuss. See Polle, Phil. 2 ■■■ 317, and Kraetsch, p. 6.

478–521. 'Atoms are limited in shape; if this were not so, some atoms would be immense in size through accretion, and the best colors and odors would be surpassed. Heat and cold are also limited in degree, as appears from the changes of the season.'

478. Double monosyll. ending as in 522 and often. — Quod quoniam docui: 1, 951, and 2, 522. — Gneisse, p. 23, would reject 478–479; refuted by Lohman p. 17. — M. notes that Democritus taught that atoms ἀτομά καὶ τὸ πλῆθος εἶναι τὰς μορφάς; Arist. de Gen. et Corr. 1, 1, p. 314 a 22; Epic. ad Herod. 42, ταῦτα διαφοράτις οὐχ ἀτλῶται ἀπειροί ἀλλὰ μέντοι ἀπερίληπτοι. — pergam: 1, 16 n.

479 = 523. ex hoc apta, 4, 829, braccia . . . ex apta lacertis.

480. finita ratione: abl. abs. Ratione, 'number,' is rare; see lex. Probab. figurarum ratione is a periphrasis for figuris, 'shapes'; cf. 514.

481. rursum: M. refers to 1, 615; Bock., more probably, to 2, 312 sq. — For the meaning of rursum cf. 1, 660.

482. corporis auctu: 5, 1171, mirando corporis auctu.

483. in eadem . . . iam brevitate, Br. Giuss. Bail.; in eadem una . . . ■■■

Q; in eodem, una . . . in M.; eadem unius . . . in Lachm. Siebelis changed imque in to namque ut; Roos kept the Ms. reading; Lotze, namque in eadem una unitis brevitate remensa, refuted by Susemihl, Phil. 24, 445 sq. Hörschelmann, 38, proposes endem unaque unius iam. See discussion in Phil. 26, 317; Jahrb. III, 9; Lotze, Kl. Schrift. 3, 1, 124. In eadem una, ‘in one and the same.’—brevitate, i.e. ‘smallness’ of the number of parts.

484. corporis is the atom, as M. says, made up of least parts. L. rarely has occasion to mention an atom in the singular.

485. minimis partibus: 1, 599 sq.

486. tribus: presumably the smallest number of least parts in an atom.

487. nempe is colloquial; 1, 385 n.—Join eas partis omnis.

488. summa atque imma locans: locating the top and bottom; i.e. placing the parts at top and bottom of an order; e.g.  $\begin{matrix} a & a \\ b & \end{matrix}$  or  $\begin{matrix} & a \\ b & \end{matrix}$  or  $\begin{matrix} a \\ b & \end{matrix}$ , or from right to left,  $\begin{matrix} bac \\ cba \end{matrix}$ , c.—dextera: 3, 651 n.—laevis: L. does not have sinister, which is not poetical.

489. omnimodis: 3, 115 n.—quam: with speciem.

490. Join formai speciem; 4, 69, formai figuram. The sense, as Roos says, 36, is quaenam sit sua forma cuique partium dispositurae.—corporis is again the om.

491. quod superest: 1, 50 n.—si forte voles: 494.

492. addendum partis: 1, 111 n.—The changes of form produced by permutation of a limited number of parts would be few.—sequetur: 3, 665 n.

493. alias (partes).—postulet: once only elsewhere in L.: 6, 542, res postulat ha.—ordo: the new (third) order.

494. etiam, ‘again,’ idiomatic; M. comp. Cic. Verr. 3, 175, dic, dic etiam clarius, here Kayser rejects the first verb.

495. novitatem: cf. 3, 964.—augmen: cf. 73 n.

496. est ut possis = potes: 3, 715 n.

497. distantia: cf. 334 and 480.

498. Note the spondees and the pentasyllabic ending.—inmani: so great as to be hideous; 3, 460 n.—maximitate: here only in L.; cited also from Arnobius. lāgnitūdine is inadmissible metrically; cf. differitas, 4, 636; pestilitas, 6, 1098, &c. Ovid has proximitas.

499. Cf. 528.—supra docui: 1, 615 sq., Munro; but Bock. thinks the reference not special: Giuss. would refer to a supposed lacuna before 478. Br. and Giuss. imagine a lacuna after 499.

500. iam tibi, ‘moreover I tell you,’ M.—barbaricae, once only in L. It means hyrcian here: Enn. Sc. 94, vidi ego te astante ope barbarica; Aen. 2, 504, barbarico hostes auro.—Meliboea: Aen. 5, 251, purpura . . . Meliboea cucurrit. Meliboea is a town in Thessaly, as is hinted in 501.—fulgens: Aen. 9, 614, fulgenti murice vestis.

501. Thessalico: for the traiectio see on 1, 10.—concharum: 6, 1074, purpureusque colos conchylii iungitur uno.—tacta, Lachm. M., after Oudendorp; ecta OQ; infектa Winck. Bock. Br. Bail.; tincta old vulg. Purmann Jahrb. 115, 173; Everett, Harv. St. 7, 29; imitata Housman, J. Ph. 25, 235. For tacta see on

1, 934. — M. thought a verse lost after 501 like et quos ostendunt in solis luce colores; Giuss. also notes a lacuna; but it does not seem necessary in spite of the harshness.

502. aurea: OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss. Bail.; caudaque Bern. Br.; pepla Burmann, Wakef.—ridenti: V. Ecl. 4, 20, ridenti acantho.—imbuta: imitata Lachm.; cf. 734.—Raumer, 36, proposes pavonum et; Jessen, QL., 34, aut quo pavonum rident imbuta.

503. saecla: OQ, edd.; caeca Bern. Br. Saecla is here 'brood'; 3, 629 n.—novo: new and superior.

504. contemptus: 5, 1418, pellis item cecidit vestis contempta ferinae.—smyrnae, 'myrrh'; the word may have been confused with murrha through the name of the city, as Sayce thought; or more probably smyrna is cognate to 'schmiere,' 'smero,' fat; see Muss-Arnolt, APA, 23, 119. Creech quotes from Athenaeus, p. 668, μύρρα γὰρ η σμύρνα ταρ' Αἰολεῦσιν, ἐπειδὴ τὰ τολλὰ τὸν μύρων διὰ Σμύρνης ἐσκευάζετο. Smyrna is cited only from here and from the Digest.—sapores (iacecent).

505. καὶ κύκρεια μελη Φοίβεια τε δαίδαλα χορδαῖς.—mele: 412 n. Phoebea occurs first in L.; 'intellige quae cithara canuntur,' Lamb.—daedala: here πενοικιλμένα, Lamb.; cf. 412, and on 1, 7.

506. consimili ratione: 3, 74 n.

507. exoreretur: 1, 180 n.

508. cedere retro: cf. 999.

509. ut diximus (progredi posse).

510. retro: cf. 1, 766 n.

511. The combination a b atque c dque seems unexampled elsewhere in L. Atque naturally connects auribus and oculis; cf. mare ac terras, 4, 203, when caelumque follows: see Thes. 2, 1056, 75.—orisque sapori: cf. 4, 487, 494.

512. quae quoniam: 1, 4 n. Cf. for the sense the common quae cum ita sint.—sed: Lachm. edd.—rebus redditia certa: 1, 203 n.

513. utrimque: 5, 512, tenere et claudere utrimque; the two extremes of excellence and inferiority.—summam: i.e. the whole range within which they move; M.

514. materiem: materiam is admissible metrically and occurs in 4, 148.

515. ignibus: of summer; cf. flamas, 521.—gelidas pruinias: 2, 431 n.—iter usque: Lachm. edd.; hiemisque OQ; hieme usque Hörschelmann, 40; hiemum usque proposed by M., adopted by Bailey; Haemi usque Nencini. Howard, J. Ph. 1, 125, would keep hiemisque, taking que . . . que as = et . . . et.

516. remensumst: here only in L.; note the passive sense; examples in lex.

517. omnis, OQ, edd.; extima M. formerly; ambit Lachm.; finis Itali; finit, Lamb.; see Jahrb. 67, 673; Phil. 24, 448. Omnis means 'every degree,' as was shown by Howard. Ignes and pruiniae are the extremes of all temperatures, as Purmann remarked.—teporis: secreta teporis, 843.

518. interutrasque, OQ, and recent edd.; interutraque Lachm., and also in 3, 306; 5, 472, 476, 839; 6, 362, 1062. Interutrasque is an adverb, 'between both,' like alias in form; originally an adverbial genitive; see Bücheler-Windelkinde, Lat. Deklension, § 157.—ordine summam: i.e. filling all grades of heat and cold.

519. Cf. 480.

520. ancipiti quoniam: 6, 377. Ancipiti is always the first word in the verse in L.

Notice the position of quoniam due to the metre, as often. Ancip. mucroni = 'by two points.' — mucroni: 3, 132 n. Elsewhere the word in L. has its literal meaning.

521. rigidis pruinis: 1, 355; rigidum frigus. — infesta: 5, 760, loca flammis infesta; Mela, 3, 44 tellus infesta frigoribus (M.).

522–528. 'Atoms of like shape are infinite in number or the sum of things would be finite. Animals, for instance, which are rare in one part of the earth are plentiful elsewhere. Supposing there were but one specimen of a thing in existence, yet an unmeasured supply of matter is necessary to produce it; suppose again that atoms are finite, they will not meet together to form an object any more than the scattered parts of a wrecked ship can unite again.'

522–523 = 478–479. Lachm. brackets 522–528; opposed by Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 659. Goebel and Neumann propose violent changes.

524. perfecta: 3, 246, parvis perfecta figuris.

525. cluere = esse; 1, 119 n. — distantia: cf. 373.

526. Note the monosyllabic ending preceded by an anapaest; 41 in the poem, according to Kühn, p. 56.

527. Aut is to be supplied before esse; cf. 793; 4, 1024.

528. probavi: 1, 1008 sq.

529. Lachm. begins a new paragraph here and reads protinus for versibus. Bern. and Br. find a lacuna before the line, with Lohmann, p. 16, and Lachm. admitted the possibility: the old editions insert quod quoniam docui, nunc suaviloquis age paucis. OQ, Lachm. have ostendam; M. Giuss. Bail. ostendens; Br. ostendi. Susemihl in Jahrb. 133, 777, would reject 529–531; Christ, QL, 17, reads nec secus ostendam, bracketing 522–528 and supposing a lacuna. Neumann, p. 27, would supply after 528 Quapropter simili quae sunt perfecta figura. Gneisse, pp. 14, 24, approves Br.'s former opinion (Ph. 24, 449) that 529–531 are repeated from the first book after 1013. Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 659, finds a lacuna before 529; Bock. reads etenim (distantia . . . probavi) versibus ostendam, etc. I admit ostendens with some hesitation: osten-
~~dam~~ may be due to the unfinished state of the poem. — versibus: M. comp. 1, 416. — corpuscula: 2, 153 n.

530. infinito: 1, 997 n. M. makes the reference to time, Giuss. to space. — Tenere: 1, 239 n.

531. protole: 4, 190, quasi protole stimulatur fulgere fulgor. — The word here means the continued succession of blows; originally the continued pull of a team of oxen arranged 'tandem': the blow stands for the result, 'viz., the supply of fresh matter, which, without these atomic collisions, could not rise upwards to feed the world'; Masson, At. Th. 30.

532. nam : refers back to 525. — quod: 3, 41 n. — rara magis: 6, 1024 n. — Quaedam: 'some species.'

533. minus, Lamb. edd.; magis OQ, but the confusion may have been L.'s own. See on 4, 1225. — naturam: here again productive nature.

534. regione locoque: 4, 786.

535. genero in eo: 'of that kind,' 567; 6, 1061, ligneas materies in quo genere esse videtur; 5, 59, quo genere in primis animi natura reperta est. — numerum: the full number; see lex.

536. sicut: 5, 361 n. — quadripedum: with genere.

537. anguimanus: 5, 1302, boves lucas turrito corpore taetras, | anguimans the word is found only in L. and Lactantius. — Cic. ND. 2, 123, manus etiam d' elephanto est, quia propter magnitudinem corporis difficiles adiutus habebat ad pastu Q. Curt. 8, 14, 27, cum manu arma virosque corriperent (elephantis); Plin. 8, haud improprie appellata manu.

538. Note the alliteration. — e: ‘made out of.’ — eburno: Plin. 8, 31, ‘sed tan in extremis Africae, qua confinis Aethiopiae est, postium vicem in domiciliis praeb saepesque in iis et pecorum stabulis pro palis elephantorum dentibus fieri Polyb tradidit.’ In ‘quae loca fabulosus lambit Hydaspes’ it is not clear whether a bar of elephants defended the boundary or a literal wall of ivory.

539. penitus penetrari: 1, 529 n. — ferarum: wild beasts to a Roman.

540. vis: ‘supply’; 1, 1051, etc. — exempla: ‘specimens.’ — The principle equal distribution is referred to by Cic. ND. 1, 50, hanc loorular appellat Epicur id est aequabilem tributionem, going on to state that by this principle the number gods must equal the number of men; also ND. 1, 109, confugis ad aequilibritat (sic enim loorular, si placet, appellemus). Rusch, Jahrb. 133, 777, thinks that had not this principle in mind as a law; Br. Jahresb. 18, 223, with Hirzel, thinks possible.

541. id: what follows; unicum as well as rarum. — uti: ‘supposing’; 4, 4 et tamen hoc quoque uti concedam scire. — quamlibet: 5, 1116; 3, 987 n.

542. unica: 1077, res nulla sit una, | unica quae dignatur et unica sola que erat; 1086. — nativo corpore: 1088; 5, 60, 238, 241; 3, 417. — The abl. of qual is coördinate with the nom. adjectives.

543. cui similis: ‘the like of which.’ — non sit in orbi, Q corr.; n. s. in o. Vict. vulg. Bailey; sit orbi OQ; nulla s. orbi Lachm. edd. 5, 74, in orbi; 1, 978

544. 1, 1051, infinita opus est vis undique materiai.

545. prognici: 81 n.

546. quod superest: ‘what is more’; 1, 50 n. — procrescere: 1, 715 n. alique: 1, 191 n.

547. sumantur uti, Winck. Br. Giuss.; si sumantur finita Giuss., by error (Note L. 26); sumant oculi OQ; sumam hoc quoque uti M. Bail.; si mantua Lachm.; sumant ollei Wakef.; sumamus uti Purmann, Ph. 7, 734; si iam h velis Br. formerly; sume ante oculos Goebel; si qui sumant Polle; sumas poti Susemihl; sumam vocuum Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 330; ut sumam magnum finita Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 275. Br. Phil. 24, 451, denies the use of sumere as an assumption against the writer’s side. Sumantur, although harsh, is nearest the MSS. — omn cf. 305.

548. iactari: 89. — rei: 112 n.

549. vi et: for the elision cf. 5, 162, and on 1, 136. — coibunt: 1, 770.

550. aliena: 1, 181 n. Here of atoms of different forms.

551. rationem, ‘manner,’ ‘way’; cf. on 1, 110. — conciliandi: 3, 865 n.

552. quasi . . . sic: 3, 147 n. — naufragiis: the sea and ships to L., as to the Romans writers, excited unpleasant comparisons: 5, 222, ut saevis projectus ab un | navita; id. 1000, nec turbida ponti | aequora lidebant navis ad saxa virosque. For the assonance see on 1, 800. — coortis was suspected by Marullus, who chang multisque to ventisque. The use seems unexampled, and is a poetical extension of such a phrase as tempestas coorta, 5, 436.

553. disiectare: 3, 501.—magnum mare: on 1.—cavernas, Q corr.; caverna 00; guberna Lamb. Lachm. M. Br. Cavernas was read by Wakef. Bock. Giuss. and Bailey, and defended by Ellis, Cl. R. 11, 205, who appeals to Serv. on Aen. 2, 19, 'alii fustes curvos navium . . . cavernas appellarunt.' Cartault, p. 46, proposes cavernam; carinam was read before Lamb., who comp. 4, 439 for guberna. Ellis comp. Cic. Orat. 3, 180, 'quid tam in navigio necessarium quam latera quam cavernae quam prora quam puppis quam antemnae quam vela quam mali?' In describing the parts of the boat L. would not be likely to omit the ribs; note also that transtra suggests naturally cavernae—quibus tabulae adfiguntur, Serv. The rudder was little more than an oar, and hence is included in tomas.

554. proram: the wreck of one ship only is described.—que: 5, 69 n.—natantis: Aen. 1, 118, apparent rari nantes in gurgite vasto | arma virum tabulaeque.

555. terraram oris: 4, 215, aetheris ex oris in terrarum accidat oras.—aplustra: 4, 437, navigia aplustris fractis obnitiundis; Cic. Arat. Fr. 27, navibus absumptis fluitantia querere aplustra; Aen. 10, 306, fluitantia transtra. Madvig, frustra (Advers. Crit. 2, 23).

556. videantur: pass., as often.—mortalibus: 1, 65 n.

557. infidi: Georg. 1, 254, quando infidum remis impellere marmor | conveniat. The treachery of the sea is a commonplace in classic literature. Prop. 3, 7, 37, natura insidians pontum substravit avaris.

558. vitare: as in 918, leti vitare vias.

559. subdola: 5, 1004, nec poterat quemquam placidi pellacia ponti | subdola pellicere in fraudem ridentibus undis.—ridet: 1, 8 n. 'Cheered with the grateful smell old Ocean smiles,' Milton, P.L. 4, 163.—pellacia, 'witching,' is very rare and occurs elsewhere only in Arn.—Aen. 5, 849, 'mene huic confidere monstro?'

560. tibi . . . constituies: 6, 73; tibi fingere, 1, 104.

561. sevom: masc.; 3, 605 n.—debebunt: cf. 482; 1, 433.—Aestus is subject.

562. aestus: 'currents'; 5, 507, mare certo quod fluit aestu. Cf. pelago, 550.—diversi: turned in different directions.

563. For a contrary supposition cf. 3, 847 sq.—compulsa: here only in L.—coire: technical.

564. remorari: 75 n. He does not use remanerē.—adaucta: perhaps for metrical convenience, to avoid hiatus; see on 296. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 275, adauctu; cf. 1122.

565 = 1, 893.

566. procrescere: 1, 715. With progigni . . . genitas, cf. 63.—Neumann, P. 51, strangely regarded the verse as an interpolation.

567. igitur goes back to 525.

568. palam est with subject clause is quoted in lex. from Pliny the Elder, Suetonius, and Livy.—omnia = omnes res.

569-580. 'The conflict between the forces of destruction and preservation is constant: now one and now the others win; the cry of birth and the wail of death are constant.'

569. Nec . . . neque . . . nec: 5, 958–959.—superare: 'prevail,' 575.—etiales: 6, 566, exitiale tempus.
570. perpetuo: 'unceasingly.'—sepelire salutem: Cic. Tusc. 2, 32, sepeli dus dolor.
571. nec porro: 1, 194; 4, 497; 5, 370.—genitales motus: 228.—auctif dra<sup>ξ</sup> λεγμενον.
572. servare: praeservare is not classical.
573. aequo: neither wins permanently.—certamine: said of the contest betw the sun and sea, 5, 382. Cf. also 2, 118 sq.
574. contractum bellum: 4, 968.
575. nunc hinc . . . nunc illinc: 214.—vitalia rerum: vitalibus rebus, 3, 8: the gen. is partitive ('vital principles'); 1, 340 n.—The primordia, as Giuss. marks, are in themselves neither vitalia nor exitialia.
576. funere: i.e. funeral wail.—vagor: used by Ennius for vagitus, the class word; cf. 579; 5, 226, infans vagitu locum lugubri complet.
577. pueri: 'children'; 3, 87 n.—tollunt: with querellam, 4, 546 (548); morem, 4, 1014.—visentis luminis oras: 1, 5, visit lumina solis, and 1, 22 n. the form visentis see on 1, 808.
578. M. quotes, 'Every minute dies a man, | Every minute one is born.'
579. L., says Giuss., has not the serenity of Epicurus.—aegris: Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 673, acris; Br. formerly (Ph. 24, 452) aegros, with Wakef.—'Never morn wore | To evening, but some heart did break'; Tennyson.
580. mortis and funeris are probably synonyms here; so Kraetsch, p. 54 comites: Raumer, 16, shows that Plautus had used comes figuratively; Amph. voluptatem ut maeror comes consequatur.
- 581–599. 'Nothing is made up of one kind of atoms; the more powerful a thing is, the greater variety it possesses. The earth has first beginnings which produce sea, fire, plants, and so she is properly called mother of gods and men.'
581. obsignatum: M. quotes Ov. Her. 13, 66, signatum memori pectori non habe. Arn. 2, 6, obsignum memoria continetis. Animo or animis in this metaphor is usual: Cic. Acad. 2, 2, in animo res insculptas habebat; other examples Archiv 2, 517. Catull. 64, 232, tu vero facito ut memori tibi condita corde | et vigeant mandata.
582. memori mente: 3, 859 n. Aesch. PV. 789, ἣν ἐγγράφου σὺ μήδε δέλποις φρενῶν.—mandatum tenere: 4, 1206, vinctos tenere; 5, 763, oppress solum tenere.
583. in promptu: 3, 106 n.—quorum natura: periphrasis.
584. Nothing is made up of one kind only of atoms.
585. This verse merely repeats the thought of 584.
586. quodcumque: Lachm. edd.; quaecumque OQ.—magis: 'to a greater degree.'—Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 276, quo quicque magis.—vis: for vires, 3, 26;
587. Note the alliteration.—potestates: 5, 1239, potestatis magnas miras relinquent | in rebus viris divum.
588. docet: with res, 1, 893, etc.; ratio, 3, 162; figura, 4, 341 (317); entia, 5, 1452.
589. tellus: for terra, metr. gr.

590. mare: acc.; with immenso, Cic. Tusc. 1, 73; Georg. 1, 29.—The earth must, then, contain vast quantities of water.—volventes frigora: a bold expression for aquam frigidam fundentes.—fontes: 1, 230 n.

591. habet (corpora): cf. 1, 229.

592. succensa: ‘on fire below.’—sola terrae: 1, 212 n.

593. eximiis: Avanc. edd.; ex imis OQ, Giuss., who may be right in spite of the same corruption in 607.—impetus Aetnae: 6, 281, gravis ignis | impetus accessit.—Aetnae: 6, 669; 1, 722.

594. nitidas fruges: 1, 252.—arbusta laeta: 699, 994; 5, 921.

595. gentibus humanis: 1, 727 n.

596. fluvios frondes: cf. 875; a formula.—pabula laeta: 1, 14 n.

597. montivago: 1, 404.

598. magna mater: 1, 251 n. Cic. Paradox. 14, tu cum tibi sive deus sive mater, ut ita dicam, rerum omnium natura dederit animum; Aen. 6, 595, terras omnipotentis; Ov. M. 1, 393, magna parens terra est; Livy, 1, 56, 12, terram osculo contigit, scilicet quod ea communis mater omnium mortalium esset.—deum: the Homeric hymn to Cybele calls her mother of both gods and men.

599. genetrix: 1, 1 n. Preller, Röm. Myth.<sup>3</sup> 2, 3, quotes CIL 8, 8309, Telluri Genetrici res publica Cuiculitanor. templum fecit.—Cic. Cluent. 193, nemo quin terram ipsam violari, quae mater est omnium, vestigiis matris putaret. Nemes. 1, 36, corporis et genetrix tellus.—una: ‘alone.’

600–660. ‘The earth mother with her various attendants is celebrated in Greek poetry, but wrongly so, for the gods take no thought of men; but just as one may call wine Bacchus, so he may call the earth mother of the gods, provided religion is not brought in. The earth possesses many atoms, and so brings forth much into life.’

600. veteres: Homer, Pindar, Sophocles, Euripides, Telestes, etc. See Ellis on Catullus, 63.—poetae: 6, 754, Graium ut cecinere poetae. Doctae poetae has the force of a compound noun, hence the asyndeton with veteres.—Latin description in Ov. F. 4, 179 sq., cf. Livy, 29, 10; allusions in Hor. C. 1, 16, 5; Aen. 6, 784, etc.

601. Edd. miss a verse which Lachm. supplied: magnifice divam ex ipsis penetralibus vectam. Lamb. changed sedibus to sublimem; Everett, Harv. St. 7, 30, suggests invectam for sedibus in; Albert, Ph. 56, 245, segnius in currus; Paulson, sedibus in currus. A lacuna is indicated in Q, which Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 780, thinks was sufficient for two verses.—Aen. 10, 252, alma parens Idaea deum, cui Dindyma cordi | turrigeraque urbes biungue ad frena leones. Crouslé refers to the painting by Lebrun in the Louvre.—This polemic was traditional; Philodemus, pp. 23, 42.

602. pendere: Vulg. Iob, 26, 7, appendit terram super nihilum.—docentes: possibly of a reason for some statement given in the lacuna.

603. sistere: 1, 1057, si quicquam posse in se sistere creditis.

604. adiunxere, ‘yoked.’—Varro apud Aug. CD. 7, 24, ‘leonem adiungunt solutum ac mansuetum, ut ostendant nullum genus esse terrae tam remotum ac vehementer ferum quod non subigi colique conveniat.’ Ov. F. 4, 215, ‘cur huic genus acre leonum | praebeat insolitas ad iuga curva iubas. | . . . feritas mollita per illam | creditur.’—feras, the wildness is in point.

605. molliri: 5, 1014, genus humanum primum mollescere coepit, 1017, pueri- qui parentum | blanditiis facile ingenium fregere superbum.

606. Note the alliteration.—corona: Varro, l.c., ‘quod tympanum habeat, significari esse orbem terrae; quod turris in capite, oppida; quod sedens singatur, circa eam cum omnia moveantur, ipsam non moveri.’ Ov. 219, ‘at cur turrifera caput est ornata corona? | an primis turres urbibus illa dedit? | annuit.’ M. quotes Spenser, F.Q. 4, 11, 28, ‘Old Cybele arayd with pompous pride, | Wearing a diadem embattild wide | With hundred turrets like a turribant.’

607. eximiis locis: e.g. an arx, acropolis. CIL 7, 759, 2, urbium conditrix. OQ have ex imis.

608. insigni: 5, 1138, et capitum summi praeclarum insigne cruentum | sub pedibus vulgi magnum lugebat honorem; Livy, 45, 19, 10, quod unus nomen regium et praecipuum capitum insigne gerat.—magnas terras, ‘wide earth.’ The procession at the ludi Matris Magnae, which began on the 4th of April at Rome, is described by Ovid, l.c.

609. horrifice, ‘in dread state.’ 5, 1165, unde etiam nunc est mortalibus insitus horror | qui delubra deum nova toto suscitat orbi, and 623 below.

610. variae gentes: 4, 413. —sacrorum: cf. 1, 96; Aen. 3, 408, hunc socii morem sacrorum, id. 12, 836.

611. Idaeam matrem: Cic. Legg. 2, 40, (stipem) quam ad paucos dies propriam Idaean Matris exceperimus.—Phrygias: because there was a Cretan Ida also. Owing to the identification of Cybele and Rhea the legends were confused.

612. primum . . . coepisse: cf. 4, 113; 5, 1014.—edunt: 1, 121 n.

613. coepisse creari: coepitas esse creari would be regular; some think creari may stand for nasci; see Dr. 1, 92, 2. Cf. the story in Herodotus, 2, 2, of Psammitichus' discovery that the Phrygian word for bread was the oldest.

614. gallos attribuunt: parallel to dant comites, 612, Varro, l.c., ‘quod gallos huic deae ut servient fecerunt significat qui semine indigeant terram sequi oportere; in ea quippe omnia reperiiri.’—The festival of the Magna Mater and Attis (not the Megalesia) occurred on March 22–27, but was not legalized until the time of Claudius; Preller, Röm. Myth. 2, 388.

615. Spondaic and monosyll. ending; Lachm. sint inventi. Cf. on 309.—et, ‘that is.’—genitoribus, ‘parents’; Catull. 63, 59, patriae bonis amicis genitoribus abero.

616. significare: 1, 13 n.

617. qui in: 404 n.—oras lumiinis: 577.

618. Note the alliteration.—tympana: tympanum, tubam Cybelles, tua, mater, initia, | quatiensque terga tauri teneris cava digitis, Catull. 63, 9. Impulsaque tympana palmis | concavaque aera sonant, Ov. M. 4, 30. Ibunt semimares et inania tympana tudent, id. F. 4, 183. Plangebant aliae proceres tympana palmis, | aut tereti tenues tinnitus aere ciebant; | multis raucisonos efflabant cornua bombos | barbaraque horribili stridebat tibia cantu, Catull. 64, 262 sq. Georg. 4, 64, closes with cymbala circum.—tenta: M. quotes Ausonius, Ep. 25, 21, tentis reboant cava tympana tergis.—palmis: abl. of means with tonant, with which circum (about the goddess) is to be taken.

619. raucisono: of birds' voices, 5, 1084.—A reminiscence in Aen. 8, 2, et rauco strepuerunt cornua cantu.

620. Phrygio numero: Ov. Ibis, 456, and Tib. 1, 4, 70, ad Phrygios modos. Cf.

637 below. Τῆς Φρυγίου [ἀπονείας] τὸ θέατρον, Lucian, Harmon. 1. — mentis: M. Vol. I, p. 35, says the MSS. have mentes 5 times, mentis once, gentis 6 times, never gentes, dentes 4 times, never dentis.

621. tela: probably sickles. — furia: Catull. 63, 44, ita de quiete molli rapida sine rabi, of Attis; Ov. F. 4, 246, reddita quaesiti causa furoris erat; cf. id. 364-366.

622. impia: 1, 81 n.

623. numini', edd.; numine OQ; cf. 614. — Numinis and numine are mere orthographical variants: 18 n.

624. invecta: Ov. F. 4, 185, ipsa sedens molli comitum cervice feretur | urbis per medias exulata vias; id. 345, ipsa sedens plaustro porta est invecta Capena.

625. munificat: ἀτὰξ λεύθευεν. — tacita salute: 6, 1179, mussabat tacito medina timore. — If the stone were carried about in the procession, it could hardly be otherwise than mute. The contrast is strong between the silence of the divinity and the noise of her attendants. For tacita . . . muta cf. Aen. 2, 255, tacitae per amica silentia lunae.

626. iter viarum: 5, 1124, iter infestum fecere vias.

627. largifica: the word was used by Pacuvius (414), but seems not to be used by others. — stipe: Cic. Legg. 2, 22, praeter Idaeae matris famulos eosque iustis diebus ne quis stipem cogito; Ov. F. 4, 350, dic, inquam, parva cur stipe quaerat opes. | contulit aes populus, de quo delubra Metellus | fecit, ait; dandae mos stipis inde manet. — ditantes: irony again; but Vollmer on Stat. Silv. 3, 1, 16, ditavit scopulos, would have it 'adorning.' — ningunt seems ἀτὰξ λεύθευεν. Pindar had used the metaphor. Chaucer, Prologue, 345, 'It snewed in his hous of mete and drynke.' — roarum: assonance with viam; 3, 52 n.

628. umbrantes: Aen. 6, 772, umbrata gerunt civili tempora queru. — cater- vas: Ciris, 142, matrum comitumque catervam; cf. 611. Some inferior MSS. have catervam here.

629. Curetas: Ov. F. 4, 194, pandite . . . gaudeat assiduo cur dea magna sono, recounts the noise made at the birth of Jove, and adds, 210, hoc Curetes habent, hoc Corybantes opus; the confusion between the two was common. Strictly, the Corybantes were Phrygian, but the Curetes were not placed in Phrygia, although the Corybantes were transferred to Crete. Germanicus, Phaen. 38, has Dictaei Corybantes. Showerman, The Great Mother, p. 297, says that the confusion between Rhea and Cybele was all but complete. — Graii memorant; cf. 3, too.

630. forte: non semper, sed interdum, Lachm. — quod armis: Lachm. edd.; catervas O, catenas Q. Frerichs, p. 10, memorant, Phrygias inter qui forte catervas | pendunt. — quod, 'in that.'

631. numerumque: caesura between noun and enclitic; cf. 1, 785 and n. — For the acc. cf. V. Ecl. 6, 27, tum vero in numerum Faunosque ferasque videres | ludere; L. 4, 769, brachiaque in numerum iactare; Lucan, 2, 111; Pers. 5, 123; and 637 below. — sanguine laeti: old vulg. and recent edd.; sanguine fleti OQ; sanguine solenti Bentl. Lachm. M.; sanguine pleni Lane, Harv. St. 9, 16. Sanguine laeti is nearer the MSS.; the enthusiasm of the Galli is well expressed by the words, and the pentasyllabic ending is not used so frequently by L. that it should be unnecessarily introduced. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 126, defends sanguine fleti by Hom. X 491.

632. numine, 'nodding'; 4, 179, diverso numine tendat; Catull. 64, 204, annuit invicto caelatum numine rector, and Ellis there; 5, 1315, terrificas capitum quatenus undique cristas. numine OQ, M. Giuss.; cf. Conington on Aen. 2, 123; numine Lachm. Br. Woltjer. See Eusebius, De vocabulo numen, p. 5; Wagner, Ph. Suppl. I, 400.

633. referunt, 'represent.' — illum, 'that fabled.'

634. vagitus, 'infant cry'; 5, 226. Ov. F. 4, 207, ardua iam dudum resonat tintinnibus Ide, | tutus ut infanti vagiat ore puer. A reminiscence in Arn. 3, 41, modo Curetas illos, qui occultasse perhibentur Iovis aeribus aliquando vagitum.

635. pueri: kouphres. — pernix: 5, 559, saltu pernici. Culex, 119, quantum tependit, remorantur, Diva, chorea. — See on 1, 1013.

636. 'armat et in numerum pernix chorea,' a combination of 635 and 637, and omitted by edd.

637. armati: 3, 97 n. — aeribus aera: for assonance see on 3, 71. — Hor. C. I., 16, 7, acuta | sic geminant Corybantes aera; Ov. F. 4, 184, aeraque tinnitus aere repulsus dabunt.

638. malis: 3, 888, malis morsuque ferarum; Acc. 229, ipsum horiatur me frater ut meos malis miser | manderem natos; Sen. Thy. 779, artusque mandit orfunesto suos.

639. aeternum volnus: 1, 34 n. — daret: as commonly for faceret.

640. magnam matrem armati: Q, Bern. Br. Giuss. Woltjer; magnam armatam matrem O, Lachm. M. Bail. — comitantur: cf. comitum, 628.

641. significant: cf. 616.

642. Note the alliteration and assonance in this line and the next. — velint defendere: 'veteris elegantiae est haec periphrasis cum verbo velle,' Ruhnken on Ter. Hec. 4, 1, 48. — patriam: here adjective; cf. on 3, 9.

643. praesidio, decori: predicate datives; see Roby, 2, pp. xli, li; cf. 3, 89 Hor. C. I., 1, 2, o et praesidium et dulce decus meum. — parent esse: 5, 1269, faceret haec parabant.

644. disposta: 1, 52.

645. 1, 880 and n.

646. omnis divom natura: like genus omne animantium, 1, 4. L. usually places the adjective in agreement with natura instead of using the gen.; cf. on 3, 2.

647. This locus classicus about the gods is quoted either in whole or in part by Lactantius, the scholiast on Statius' Thebaid, Servius, Nonius, and the Commentator Cruquianus, as Lachm. states. It was interpolated at 1, 44. — inmortali: Epic. ac Men. 123 πρῶτον μὲν τὸν θεὸν ἔσω ἀφθαρτὸν καὶ μακάριον νομίσων; id. Κύρ. Δλ 1 (DL. 10, 139), τὸ μακάριον καὶ ἀφθαρτὸν οὐτε αὐτὸν πράγματα ἔχει οὐτε ἀλλαπέχει, οὐτε οὐτε δργαῖς οὐτε χάρισι συνέχεται. Hor. S. I., 5, 101, namque didicidi securum agere aevum; L. 5, 82, nam bene qui didicere deos securum ageret aevom; id. 2, 1093; cf. also 3, 18 n.

648. Mark the spondees and the assonance semota . . . seiuncta, for which see on 3, 353.

649. privata, 'exempt'; 1091; 3, 905; 5, 317. — periclis: 3, 83 n.

650. indiga: first in L. for indigens; also in 5, 223; cf. violentus for violent — Serv. on Aen. 12, 794, connects Indigetes with this statement 'quod nullius re-

egeant.' Wakef. comp. Claudian, de Consulatu Fl. Mallii Theodori, 4, nil opis externae cupiens, nil indiga laudis.

651. Note the chiasmus. — capitur: capta lepore, 1, 15; Aeneas capiturque locis, Aen. 8, 311. — tangitur: Sen. Benef. 4, 4, 1, of the deity, nihil agit nec magis illum beneficia quam iniuriae tangunt.

652. quidem vero: 1, 1001.

653. potitur is the usual measure. For the case of primordia see on 3, 734.

654. 5, 795. linquitur ut merito maternum nomen adeptia | terra sit, e terra quoniam sunt cuncta creatura.

655–659 M. Br. Bail. place after 651; Lachm. keeps the Ms. order and also Giuss. who brackets 655–660 (680) as a later addition. Woltjer changes hic to hinc and does not transpose. Van d. Valk, 85, is right in recalling the order of the MSS.: itaque in 661 (660) refers back to the main argument, as in 3, 106.

655. Neptunum: 3, 221 n.; cf. 2, 472 and on 5, 15.

656. constituet, OQ, Goebel, Giuss.; constituit, edd.; L. was careless in his expression. Cf. Blase, Hist. Gr. 3, 122. — abuti: Cic. Or. 94, subiungit et abusionem quam κατά χρησιν vocant, ut cum minutum dicimus animum pro parvo, et abutimur verbis propinquis; Archiv, 7, 429. The word is used frequently of tropes; see Thesaurus, 1, 241, 26. Aetna 13, ipse suo flueret Bacchus pede.

657. laticis: 5, 14, liquoris | vitigeni laticem. — vocamen: used by Arnobius and Solinus; cf. on 1, 435.

658. dictitet, 'keep calling'; here only in L. Krebs-Schmalz, Antibarb., 1, 23, says the use of the names of deities for things is not common in good prose.

659. vera re: 48. — ipso is referred to animum by M., since the reflexive refers the nom. to the acc. case, but it may just as well take up the quis of 655. Polle, and Br. formerly, ipsa; Lamb. ipse, perhaps rightly.

660 (680). Transferred by Lachm. and edd. It was the last verse on p. 73 of the archetype, and was misplaced by the scribe.

661–669. 'So in one field sheep and oxen and horses feed and drink, but retain their forms and habits, such is the virtue of the grass and water; so any animal you may take is made up of bone, blood, and the like, but the shapes are different; so things which burn contain sources of fire; so things which have smell and color consist of varied seeds. Even in our verses the letters differ; so the sum is unlike, and the human race and plants and trees are made up of different elements.'

661 (660). itaque: because the earth is an arsenal of different elements; Bock.

662. lanigerae: 318. — duellica: Pl. Epid. 450, arte duellica; L. 4, 968, legere duellum, Bergk, Br. Ennius and Plautus also have duellum. Duellius, consul 260 B.C., changed his name to Bellus. See Lindsay, LL. 268. Eng. 'duel' is possibly from duellum. Aen. 3, 540, bello armantur equi, bellum haec armenta minantur. Wakef. quotes Justin, 18, 5, 16, equi caput repertum, bellicosum poteritque populum futurum significans. See Preller, RM. 1, 338.

663. buceriae: a Lucretian borrowing from βούκεψ; bucera, 5, 864; 6, 1237; Ov. M. 6, 395, lanigerosque greges armentaque bucera pavit. — greges: Lucilius also has fem. gender in 4, 32, grege concita. — eodem: on 1, 306. — tegmine caeli: 1, 988 n. They breathe the same air.

664. Br. formerly (Phil. 25, 67) put this verse before 662; approved by Hörschelmann, p. 21.—sitim sedantes: cf. 4, 850; 5, 945.—flumine aquai: Wakef. comp. Aen. 11, 495, aqua perfundi flumine.

665. vivont: 1, 743 n.

666. mores: sc. parentum; but Giuss. makes generatim = suos.

667. materiai: closing the line, as usual.

668. dissimilis ratio, 'diversity,' M.—quoque, 'every.'

669. hinc porro, 'hence, too,' i.e. for this reason again.—quamvis unam animantem ex omnibus (animantibus).

670. ossa: cf. the catalogue in 3, 217 and n.—calor: cf. 3, 128.

671. quae: i.e. ossa, etc.—porro: Giuss. formis, objecting to the repetition of porro.—distantia: cf. 497.

672 = 722, with constare for perfecta.—figura: 3, 190 n.

673. flammata cremantur: like congressa coibunt, 549; 3, 30 n.

674. haec: sc. corpora.—condunt, M. Giuss. Bail.; traduntur OQ; celant Lachm. Br.; cludunt Bern.; aluntur Voss.; cobent Schneidewin, Phil. 9, 645. Lotze, Kl. Schrift. 3, 127, dislikes in corpore and proposed something like communia tradunt.

675. iacere . . . summittere: cf. 1, 662–663.

676. Note et . . . que . . . ac.—agere: see lex. I, F.—differre favillam: 6, 690, longe favillam differt. Favilla here is the fire itself, as in Prop. 4, 4, 69.

677. mentis ratione: 4, 384, hoc animi demum ratio discernere debet.—peragrans: 1, 74 n.

678. invenies: cf. 3, 207.—igitur: in apodosis, peragrans being protasis; cf. on 1, 419.—semina rerum: 1, 59 n.

679. corpore: cf. 589 and 1, 514 n.—celare: sc. ea (cetera).

680 (679). color et sapor: 3, 267, est odor et quidam calor et sapor.

681. reddita: for gender see on 3, 66.—cum odore: 3, 1082 n.—dona, that is, the offerings (placed on the altar). M. comp. 4, 1237; 6, 752. Bern. and edd. find a lacuna after this verse; Lachm. privis pluraque; Br. odore in primis, pluraque; Bern. odore, in primis pleraque; Polle, odore, in primis . . . pleraque. Bruno, Bock., poma for dona. The misplacing of 680 may well have excluded a line here. Goebel saw no lacuna, but read cum odore in primis, pluraque dona, and Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 774, has no lacuna. Discussion in J. Phil. 4, 243, and Cl. R. 9, 210. Naturally the reference is not clear, owing to the loss of a verse

682. constare: often in next to the last place; 691, 698.

683. The 5th foot is uneuphonious; cf. 3, 180.—nidor: nidoris odores, 6, 989.—penetrat: cf. 414.—fucus: 'color': 745. MSS. have sucus also in 684, which is out of place. Sol. 22, 12 (20), ut per . . . cicatrices plurimum fuci artus bibant. Thes. 2, 715, 32.—artus: cf. 267.

684. sorsum: here only in OQ for seorsum; cf. on 6, 527. The second sorsum was added by Voss.—insinuatur: 3, 485 n.

685. primis, OQ, edd.; privis Lachm. Primis figuris, 'shapes of their first elements,' M.; something like the use of hic = huius when modifying a noun. Cf. 6, 776, primasque figuras. Polle, and Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 276, defend primis.

686. formae, i.e. figuræ, i.q. primordia. The use is uncommon.—glomeramen, 'molecule,' 453 n.

687. permixto semine: cf. 585.

688–691 = 1, 823–825; 692 = 2, 336 in part, and 2, 723; 694 = 2, 338; 691 = 1, 826, with confiteare. With alia sc. verba. In 692 an example of communis littera would be musa, suam.—These verses are rejected by Gneisse, p. 51, and Bruno, p. 5; they are defended by Lohmann, p. 25, and Feustell, p. 26 sq. Giuss. transfers them to follow 724.

693. isdem, Lamb. edd. for idem; cf. 5, 349; nulli . . . idem Lachm. M. translates, 'not that but few letters which are in common run through them or that no two words or verses one with another are made up entirely of the same, but because as a rule they do not at all resemble one the other.' Discussion in Jahrb. 119, 770, and by Goebel, Lotze, and Polle.

695. Cf. 1, 814.—alias: i.e. other than words.—communia: with gen., 1, 896.

696. Note the assonance of m.—verum, Pontanus, edd.; rerum OQ; corum Br.; longe Flor. 31, Giuss. which may be right. Verum . . . tamen = verumtamen.

697. dissimili summa, 'of an unlike whole.'

698. merito, 'properly'; 1, 481 n.—aliis, 'different'; 1, 116 n.—feratur = dicatur; 3, 42 n. For the number cf. 3, 18; 5, 741, 1136; Holtze, Synt. 149.

699. Cf. 5, 921, herbarum genera ac fruges arbustaque laeta, and 2, 594–595, with notes.

700–729. 'But all things cannot be joined together in all ways or there would be portents—half men, half beasts, chimaeras, and the like: things follow a fixed law of assimilation, and unsuitable matter is rejected by nature, both in animate and inanimate things; they are made up of different elements whose action differs, so that living bodies and earth, sea, and heaven are kept distinct.'

700. omnimodis: 3, 115 n. Cf. 5, 849, multa videmus enim rebus concurrere debere | ut propagando possint procedere saecula.

701. volgo, 'commonly,' i.e. an everyday occurrence, everywhere.—portenta: that is, androgynum, orba pedum partim, manuum viduata vicissim, etc., 5, 837 sq.

702. semiferas: perhaps invented by Cicero (Arat. Ph. 59).—species: cf. 4, 733, Cerbereasque canum facies; Aen. 3, 216, virginei volucrum voltus. L. 5, 838, mira facie. He is thinking of centaurs.

703. egigni, ἄταξ λεγμένον. Fgigni corpore vivo = gigni e corpore vivo; cf. Hor. S. 2, 2, 105, tanto emetiris acervo; id. Ep. 1, 6, 21, ne plus frumenti dotalibus emetat agris. The older editors mention the grafting of a tree in the body of a man: 'de Insitione arboris cum homine legitur in vita Peireskii, circa pastorem Tarraconensem qui cum forte in prunulum incidisset, ita illa radices egit in thorace medio ut flores et fructus tulerit'; so Faber.

704. terrestria . . . marinis: 5, 892, canibus succinctas semimarinis | corporibus Scyllas.

705. spirantia ore: 5, 30, Diomedis equi spirantes naribus ignem. Brenous, Hellen. 228. comp. Xen. Hell. 7, 5, 12, ol πῦρ πνέοντες, to show that the construction is a grecism.—Chimaeras: 5, 905, prima leo, postrema draco, media ipsa, Chimaera | ore foras acrem flaret de corpore flammam; Hor. C. 2, 17, 13, Chimaerae | spiritus igneae.

706. omniparentis: first in L., 5, 259, omniparens eadem (terra) verum commune sepulcrum; cf. Aen. 6, 595.

707 = 1, 188.

708. Note the chiasmus due to bringing certis certa together.—certis: 1, 189, semine certo | crescentesque genus servant. Mater certa, 1, 168.

709. posse: can, but do not always, as there are occasional monsters.

710. ratione necessust: on 1, 385.—necessust: 725; 4, 1006; 6, 206; necessust A, necessum est P, Pl. Stich. 219; necessus Ter. HT. 360, Eun. 988. The development was perhaps necessus est, necessu' est, necessust. But necessus is certainly a neuter in S. C. De Bac., qui sibi deicerent necessus esse bacanal habere. Büch-Wind. 17, compares tempust for tempus est (Pl. Tr. 432, etc.); see also Leo, Pl. Forsch. 256, who cites onust, opus, and usust. Molestust and moriundust, both neutrals, occur in Carm. Epig. 1, 118 Büch., redeudus, 120, moriendust, 241. Cf. also Skutsch, in Archiv 12, 198; Neue-Wagener, Formenlehre, 2, 181; Maurenbrecher, Hiatus, 100. Sommer, 321, says that -ust, not -umst, is regular in inscriptions. Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 319, thought this verse interpolated.

711. sua cuique, 'suitable for each thing,' M.; but cuique grammatically refers to artus, 'frame.' — cibis: 1, 861.

712. corpora: particles of food.—conexa, 'joined in close union' (by assimilation); 3, 691.—convenientis motus: 1, 1030.—The particles are incorporated with the frame and engage in harmonious action with it.

713. aliena: opposite of sua, 711.—videmus = manifestum est, as frequently.

714. reicere: cf. 110, and on 3, 58.—terras: terram is metrically permissible, and the assonance terram naturam would be according to his taste, but he prefers the plural; 1, 3 n.—caecis, 'unseen,' as in 1, 328.—He is thinking of expiration and perspiration.

715. corporibus . . . corpore: 3, 206 n.—percita plagis: 1, 1025.

716. quoquam, 'anywhere,' i.e. 'to any part.'—intus, 'when inside'; cf. 711 = intus Lachm. edd.; inte OQ; inde Br. Phil. 25, 68, Bail.; in se Bern.; inter Q corr. Wakef. Bock.; intra old vulg. Giuss. hesitates about inter. Br. thinks the movements are on the surface as well as in the interior of the body; but they have to be within first in the food.

717. vitalis motus: 3, 99 n.—consentire: 916 (915), vitali ut possint consentire undique sensu; cf. 3, 153 n. The word apparently takes the acc. here because imitari governs motus; Holtze, Synt. 36.—imitari: defended by Oppenrieder, QL 14.

718. sed . . . putes: 3, 533 n.

719. legibus his quaedam ratio disternat omnis O hisce Bern. M. Br. Giuss. Bail. Roos; ea res M.; quidam Q; eadem ratio Lamb. Bern. Br. Giuss. Bail. Cartault; disternat M. Giuss.; terminat Lamb. Bail.; disternat had been used by Cic. Arat. 94; omnis edd.; omnia Junt. Lachm.; omne Bern.; omnis * Br. Giuss.; his quaedam ratio Lachm.; quaedam ratio res terminat omnis Lohmann. Giuss. regards eadem as indispensable, but ea ratio is just as good and avoids the necessity of a lacuna; yet eadem can be easily deduced from quaedam. Lamb. Bail. Goebel eadem ratio res terminat omnis; Polle, AV. 33, eadem . . . res terminat omnis: Bouterwek, his, mundum ratio disternat omnem; Nencini, res terminat

unis. It is possible that eadem ratio distinguit omnis is right; omnis = omnes as omnia would be referred to animalia, 718.

720. natura, 'constitution'; cf. 1, 768. — Gneisse, p. 55, rejects 720–727 as an interpolation; cf. Lohmann, p. 23.

721. genitae res quaeque includes all living things; cf. on 1, 511.

722. Note the fem. caes. and pentasyll. ending. — figura: cf. 672.

723–724 = 336–337: omitted by Br. It is one of L.'s recurring formulas.

725 = 4, 649, with necessitatem. — Giussani transfers hither 688–699. — semina, of course, are the atoms.

726 = 5, 438 (441). vias, 'paths' of atomic movement; 4, 650, intervalla asque. — conexus pondera plaga | concursus motus: 1, 633–634; 5, 438–439.

727. animalia: possessing life.

728. Note the rhyme solum . . . totum; 3, 717 n. — seiungunt, 'keep them distinct.' — mare totum: cf. caelum omne in 729.

729. retentant: 'keep back'; synonym of secernunt, for which cf. 5, 446.

730–756. 'First beginnings have no color: colors change, but atoms are changeable.'

730. dicta: 3, 135 n. — dulci: 3, 419, conquisita diu dulcique reperta labore.

731. albis ex: 1, 26 n.

732. ante oculos: 1, 62. — quae candida cernis: what you distinguish as white you are not to think is white because of white atoms: the customary abundantia locutio. Cf. alba . . . candida 790–793.

733. Note the alliteration. — nigrant in the neuter sense, and its opposite, albeo, is uncommon except in the part. pr.; cf. Blümner, Farben, 54.

734. nive: 3, 286 n. — colorem, Flor. 30, edd.; colore OQ; quo . . . inbuta labore, Lachm.; induta Lamb. Br. Goebel; cf. Phil. 25, 68; alio quovis . . . imbuta labore Winck. M. defends colorem by Georg. 3, 307, vellera . . . Tyrios incocata ibores; Tac. H. 5, 5, nec quicquam prius inbuuntur quam contemnere deos; Stat. H. 4, 267, pictus praetitia. Haase, Vorles. 2, 92, thinks the construction possible in the older Latinity and in L.

735. gerere: Forb. on Georg. 2, 122 regards as = habere; έχειν. — hunc: sc. lorem.

736. consimili eiis: 5, 813, consimilem lactis. — tincta: cf. 776, 747; 5, 721.

737. nullus color: DL. 10, 44, a scholion on Epic. ad Herod.: φησι . . . μηδέ κάτηγορά τινα περὶ τὰς ἀτόμους εἶναι πλὴν σχήματος καὶ μεγέθους καὶ βάρους. τὸ χρώμα παρὰ τὴν θέσιν τῶν ἀτόμων διλάττεσθαι ἐν ταῖς δώδεκα στοιχειώσεσι πολ.

738. rebus are the things composed of atoms. — denique: 'at all.'

739. He means, if it seems to you that the mind cannot comprehend such colors as atoms.

740. animi injectus: έπιβολὴ τῆς διαρροᾶς, DL. 10, 31. Iactus animi, 2, 1047; cf. Giuss. Vol. 1, 171 sq. — Cic. ND. 1, 54, in quam se iniciens animus, uses also the technical language. — avius erras: 82 n.

741. nam: the blind cannot discern color, but they recognize things by touch. — ecigeni: ἀπαξ λεγόμενον.

742. dispexere: used particularly of sight in darkness; see lex. — Aen. 6, 733,

neque auras | dispiciunt clausae tenebris et carcere caeco, and Forbiger and Conington there. Desp. OQ; disp. edd.

743. Placed after 748 by Bentl., Lachm., Hörschelmann, Obs. p. 4 sq.—~~ex~~ inuncte aeo: 'inde a pueris' Br.; cf. on 3, 344, and see Jahrb. III, 609.—coniuncta: because to the blind there is no color.—The construction with the abl. ~~is~~ rare.

744. corpora: atoms as well as other bodies.

745. vorti: but vertitur, 767.—notitiam: 124; 4, 476, 854; 5, 124. Notitia: 4, 479; 5, 182, 1047. In the meaning 'comprehension' it = πρόληψις; cf. Brunc—38, and Woltjer, L. Philos., etc., 97.—circum lita is most frequent in part. pf.—fuco: 683.

746. nos ipsi: opposed to caecigeni.—caecis tenebris: 55. For tenebris ~~se~~ I, 115 n.

747. haud logically should go with sentimus.

748. quod quoniam: 1, 4 n.—vinco: 5, 735, docere et vincere verbis; 6, 49—vincam consurgere; examples from Hor., Plaut, and Cic. in Drakenborch on Li—27, II, II. In the lacuna M. proposes corpora quae constant nullo coniuncta color. A lacuna is necessary unless 743 is transferred.

749. omnino: 3, 496.—in, Flor. 31 edd.; et OQ, Br. Giuss. who suppose second lacuna after the verse: res dum aliam capiunt, mutari ipsae quoque debent. See Br. Prol. xxv, Phil. 25, 69, Jahrb. III, 710. With Hörschelmann, p. 7, I can see no objection to omnes (colores). Bock. retaining et explains 'und zwar gänzlich'. See Polle, Phil. 26, 321.

750–754 = 1, 789–793; and 753–754 = 1, 670–671. Gneisse, p. 59, rejects ~~the~~ five lines; refuted by Lohmann, p. 37.—facere: i.e. mutare.

751. Epic. ad Herod. 54, τούτης γὰρ τάσα μεταβάλλει· αἱ δὲ ἀτομοὶ οὐκέτι μεταβάλλουσιν.

755. proinde: 3, 870 n.—contingas: 1, 934 n.

756 = 1, 673.

757–787. 'Color is due to the change of form and position of the atoms; for that reason the color of the sea changes. The water does not contain many colors as a square contains various shapes.'—Plut. adv. Colot. 7, p. 1110 c, in Usener, Epicurus, p. 102, 'Επίκουρος . . . οὐκ εἶται λέγων τὰ χρώματα συμφυῆ τοῖς σώμασιν ἀλλὰ γεννᾶσθαι κατὰ τοὺς τίνας τάξεις καὶ θέσεις πρὸς τὴν οὐσίαν.'

757. coloris natura = color.

758. formis: here 'shapes.'

759. omne genus: acc.; 3, 221 n.

760. 'For that reason, because it makes a great difference, you may be able to explain,' etc. Notice the interlocking of propterea quod and magni refert in the manner of L.—magni refert: 1, 817.

761, 762 = 1, 818–819. Gneisse rejects them here (p. 58); defended by Lohmann, p. 21 sq.

763. perfacile: always at beginning of the line: 381, 1171; 6, 532.—~~extem~~ ple: edd.; facile exempli, 4, 742; 6, 898; exempli OQ, which (or exempli) Goebel would keep.

764. ea: 'those things.'

765. marmoreo: 'marble white,' is mostly poetical; Arn. 4, 22, ulnarum nivei marmoreique candores. Candidus is properly the opposite of niger, as albus of ater: Blümner, Farben, 19; yet cf. 771 and 731–732 for synonymous use.—candore: canos 767, candescit 1, 490 n.

766. aequora: 1, 'turbantibus aequora ventis.'—Cic. Acad. 2, 105, 'mare illud quod nunc Favonio nascente purpureum videtur, idem huic nostro videbitur, nec tamen adsentetur, quia nobismet ipsis modo caeruleum videbatur, mane ravum, quodque nunc, qua a sole collucet, albescit,' etc. Naturally the change in the color of the sea was discussed by the philosophers.

767. marmore must mean here 'marble whiteness'; Ennius had used the word of the sea; mare marmore flavo, Ann. 384. The pleonasm canos candenti is Lucretian; cf. 771, candens et album.

768. dicere enim possis: 384.—quod refers to illius, 769.

769. materies: 1, 58 n.

770. addita dempta: 1, 800, demptis paucis paucisque tributis. This change in position might be made by the wind; 766, and 5, 266, validi verrentes aequora venti | clemensunt.

771. id fieri: 'that result comes to pass'; cf. 1, 392; 2, 710; 5, 621.

772. caeruleis: 5, 481, ponti plaga caerulea; cf. nigro, 764.

773. albescere: cf. Cic. quoted on 776.

774. perturbes: cf. commorunt, 766.

775. migrare: 3, 757 n.

776. alio: i.e. if one atom has one color, another another. Cf. 5, 303.

777. nitorem: 'color'; cf. 819; Prop. 2, 18, 24, externo tincta nitore caput.

778. alia formis: 5, 440, propter dissimilis formas variasque figuras.

779. figura: abl. of quality; for position see on 1, 685. OQ, figuras.—He means one shape is made, for example, a square.

780. conveniebat: 1, 881 n.—ut: MSS. uti; 322 n.

781. dissimiles: triangles, rectangles, etc., could be inscribed within the square.—cernere: 'distinguish'; at a distance many colors might coalesce into one, but the separate ones could not be distinguished on close examination.

782. aut implies any example other than the sea, to show that the principle holds in case of simple colors.

783. dissimiles longe: colors slightly different might not be distinguished.

784. officiunt obstantque: 1, 337 n.

785. extra, OQ, edd.; ex his Lachm. It means 'on the outside' (cf. 1, 1001); the interior may be made of triangles, etc.; 5, 361, summa est aeterna neque extra | qui locus est; cf. 3, 577.

786. inpediunt prohibentque: pleonasm as in 784.

787. Br. imagines a lacuna after this verse 'quibus id demonstratum fuit ad quod in vv. 785 sq. et 792 respicitur.'—res tota: cf. omne, 785.

788–794. 'The reason for attributing color to atoms falls then, for white things will come more easily from no color than from black or any other (as is plain from the example of the sea).' Housman, J. Ph. 25, 236, objects to a new paragraph here.

788. quae . . . causa: the wide separation is Lucretian.—ducit et inlicit:

pleonasm. — tribuamus: L. identifies himself with his audience, hence Bock's tribuantur is unnecessary.

789. Alliteration at close, which is very frequent. — nonnumquam: in popular experience. (Br. formerly filled in a supposed lacuna as follows: colores, quod nisi par rebus color ipsis materiae sit | corporibus, nequeunt rebus constare colores) occidit. Cf. Phil. 25, 72. Hörschelm. refutes him.)

790. ex albis seminibus non alba (albae res): Creech, Giuss. and Br. Jahrb. 111, 612, and Hörschelm. 9. M. seems to join non with ex albis, which is approved by Housman, J. Phil. 25, 237.

791. Note the monosyllabic ending; see on 4, 617. — client: 1, 119 n. — variis — ex: Wakef. edd.; ea OQ; variantur Marull. See on 3, 839 and 1, 26.

792. proclivius: 3, 311 n. Join candida nata exorientur de nullo.

793. candida: variation from alba, as in 731–732.

794. pugnet et obstet: 1, 780.

795–816. ‘Again, there can be no color without light, and atoms do not come into light. Color, too, changes according to the direction of the rays of the light as is seen in the case of peacocks’ feathers and doves’ plumage, because the impact of light changes and causes color; the eye distinguishes color by the shape of the atoms, not by their color, hence first beginnings have no color; this is caused by touch, and by it is ultimately perceived.’ Br. transfers this section to follow 82 following Susemihl in Phil. 25, 70 sq.

795. nequeunt: non queunt, non possunt would be inconvenient metrically.

796. esse is emphatic by position. — in lucem existunt: the lex. gives no example of this construction. L. has it again in 5, 212, existere in auras. Giuss. interprets ‘to be subject to the action of light,’ since the question is not as to the visibility or invisibility of the atoms.

797. velata: a strange metaphor. Wakef. proposed violata.

798. Epicurus in Plut. adv. Colot. 1.c. (Usener, Fr. 30), οὐκ οὖτος θπως δεῖ τὰ σκήτει ταῦτα ὥρα φῆσαι χρώματα έχειν. Serv. on Aen. 6, 272, rebus nax abstuta atra colore: ‘tractatur ab Epicureis rebus tollere noctem colorum varietatem.’

799. mutatur (color). — quin: 1, 588 n.

800. obliqua: 5, 693, obliquo lumine. — percussus: luna solis radiis percussus — 5, 705; luminis ictu, 2, 808.

801. columbarum: Cic. Acad. 2, 19, *nec vero hoc loco exspectandum est dum remo inflexo aut de collo columbae respondeam: non enim is sum qui quidquid videtur tale dicam esse quale videatur; id. 79, tu autem te negas infracto remo negas columbae collo commoveri; DL. 9, 85, 86, τὰ δρόμα κεκλασμένα . . . περιστεράς τράχηλος; Sen. NQ. 1, 7, 2, falsi coloris qualē columbarum cervix et sumit aponit; other citations in Reid on Cic. — quo pacto: 1, 84 n. — in sole: 5, 292, πέρι sole videri; 1, 306 n.*

802. cervices: cervicem Br. (and Phil. 25, 73) and Giuss. L. seems to use the sing. elsewhere (1, 35 n.), but notice the metrical position. Winck. quaest. — coronat, ‘makes a ring about.’ The order is quaes circum sita, cervices collumque coronat. Bock. quotes Colum. 8, 2, 10, iubae deinde variae vel ex auro flavie vel per colla cervicesque in humeros diffusae. Br. insists that the order with the Ms. reading must be quaes cervices, sita circum eas, et collum coronat.

803. pyropo: a precious stone like garnet; artificially, a compound, of copper three fourths, gold one fourth; see Blümner, Techn. 4, 185.

804. sensu: †sensu, Br. 'non quodam sensu, ut id, de quo L. 4, 430 sqq. (447) dicit, sed quodam luminis ictu, v. 814 (808).' Faber interprets 'in a certain sense'; M., 'by a certain way of looking at it.'

805. caeruleum: OQ; curalium Wakef. edd., 'red coral.' Wakef. quotes Ser. Sam. 951, curalium vero si collo nectere males | ne dubites illo virides miscere smaragdos, but the text there is uncertain. Forb. makes caeruleum cobalt or lapis lazuli, and Blümner, Techn. 4, 500–504, seems to show that caeruleum = κεραβος = lapis lazuli; hence the Ms. reading should be restored. Giuss. hesitates, but prints curalium. — zmaragdos: 4, 1126, viridi cum luce zmaragdi. — micerē zmaragdos: the poets sometimes neglected position before such Greek words beginning with zm or sm; Müller, RM. 318 sq.

806. pavonis: cf. 502, and Mayor on Juv. 7, 31; Sen. NQ. 1, 5, 6, variis coloribus pavonum cervix, quotiens aliquo deflectitur, nitet. — larga: Q corr., edd., for largo. Lux is sometimes masc., but there is no other example in the Lucretius. MSS. — repleta: with luce or lumine, 4, 319 (344), 378.

807. obversa: turned about in luce; 4, 166, speculum obvertimus.

808. gignuntur (colores): 759. — Sen. NQ. 1, 5, 7, positione lucis quam prout rectam vel obliquam receperunt, ita colorantur; . . . 9, ad hoc opus est radiorum idoneus ictus.

809. scire licet: here equivalent to, and with the construction of, scilicet. — posse: cf. on fieri, 3, 183.

810. plagae: ictus would be unmetrical. — excipit: 6, 313, res excipit ictum. — se: probably acc.

811. pupula: 3, 408; pupillas, 4, 249, 716.

812. cum et: harsh elision.

813. ea is subject of sint.

814. verum magis, 'but rather.' — apta, 'fitted'; 3, 839 n.

815. principiis . . . colores: 4, 1268, opus sunt motus uxoribus, and on 1, 206. — Colore (OQ) is retained by Goebel and Bock. Nonius quotes the verse with colores, the more ancient and unusual construction.

816. variantes: predicate of tactus. For rhythm cf. 5, 722, variantis edere formas.

817–825. 'Moreover if no determinate color is given to determinate atomic shapes, and shapes of atoms can be of any color, why are not things, if made up of colored atoms, variously colored? For then crows might be expected to be sometimes white, and swans to be black.' Br. inserts this passage after 794; see Jahrb. 111, 610.

817. certis certa: common juxtaposition. Goebel would have quoniam iam; Christ, praeterea quoque iam nisi; Susemihl, Phil. 25, 71, quoniam = 'wenn hiernach doch,' but would transfer 817–825 to follow 787. Giuss. shows that quoniam, 'since,' of a reason to be refuted, is in L.'s manner, e.g. 1, 581. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 276, praetereaque age iam nisi. — figuris = generibus: 'praeterea si non certis atomorum generibus (shapes, i.q. squares, triangles, hooked, rough, etc.), certe colores sunt, sed singulae eiusdem generis atomi colore inter se discrepant,' Hörschelmann, p. 8.

818. natura coloris = color, as often.
819. formamenta is quoted also from Arnobius. — nitore: variation from color, but with connotation also of 'sheen.' Br. formerly proposed a lacuna: sic quoque si esse putas primordia tincta colore; see Hörschel. p. 8.
820. constant ex: 3, 167 n. — illis (figuris): 'the different species of things which are the result of the different combinations of atomic forms'; Giuss.
821. omne genus: 3, 221 n. — genus . . . genere: his usual indifference to the same word in different senses. — perfusa: Aen. 5, 111, ostro | perfusae vester.
822. conveniebat: 1, 881 n.
823. albis album: his usual fondness for juxtaposition. Crows, by the hypothesis, ought to be white as well as black, i.e. there should be white crows. — iactare: 4, 95, membrana coloris | cum iacitur.
824. de: for ex, metr. gr.; 3, 750 n. — cynchos: 3, 7 n.
825. alio quovis colore: uno vel vario. For que = ve see on 3, 284. For birds to be ordinarily of the same color would be remarkable, if certain shapes of atoms should have certain colors.
- 826-833. 'Divide a thing up into small particles and color is lost; hence, again, seeds have no color.'
826. Quin etiam: 3, 463 n.
827. est ut cernere possit: periphrasis for cernere potes; 3, 715 n.
828. stingui: 1, 486 n. — Note that the first and second feet are contained in one word; 1, 109 n.
829. discerpitur: nil est quod eam (membranam coloris) discerpere possit; 4, 96. — austrum: edd., Goebel, Kraetsch, p. 35, after Wakefield, ostrum; aurea, Lachm.; usu, Bern. Cf. ostro, 35. In 3, 835 oris: auris O, — as Q. The word is used by Virg. and Hor. for purple cloth, as M. shows. — Winck. partis discerpitur ad iam | filatim cumst distractus dispergitur omnis.
830. poeniceus color: again in 5, 941. Strictly poeniceus means scarlet, as distinguished from the darker purple. Giuss. and Br. are perhaps right in explaining ~~the~~ hendyadys, 'punic, brightest color of purple,' and such an interpretation makes the singular verb easier; but the purple and scarlet would separately lose ~~the~~ color.
831. filatum: 1, 20 n. — dispergitur, OQ. Br. Giuss.; dispergitur Lachm. ~~the~~ Bail.; see Phil. 25, 72. L. Müller, Jahrb. 93, 864, quotes perditus from Prosper, ~~the~~ bis perderis ipse tuus; Vulg. Prov. 2, 22, impii de terra perdentur; and some of ~~the~~ best edd. keep perditur in Hor. S. 2, 6, 59. Lachm. denies its Latinity. — Br. formerly ~~the~~ distrahitur; Howard, J. Phil. I, 126, suspects the verse as interpolated.
832. efflare: 5, 652, effavit languidus (sol)ignis.
833. particularis: 4, 776, copia particularum ut possit suppeditare.
- 834-841. 'All bodies do not emit voice or smell, so all do not have color; ~~the~~ mind can distinguish those deprived of color, as well as of other qualities.'
834. vocem corresponds to sonitus in 836.
835. mittere: 4, 694, (odor) emittitur ex re; 4, 795, vox emittitur; cf. 2, 856; 5, 1028, sonitus natura subigit | mittere. Probably the simple verb is for metrical convenience.
836. adtribuas: cf. 3, 242 n.

837. oculis cernere: 1, 268 and n.—cernere quimus: 140.

838. orba, 'bereft' poetically, really 'without'; so 5, 840, orba pedum partim (abnormally deprived) manuum viduata vicissim. Cf. remota, 839; privata, 841; spoliata, 842; secreta, 843; sterila, 845; all implying abnormal deprivation. For the gen. cf. Brenous, Hellénismes, p. 131.

839. quaedam: some others.—sonitu remota: 5, 125, vitali motu sensuque remotum.

840. haec: sc. sine colore.—animum sagacem: 1, 130 n.

841. aliis rebus: i.e. odor, sonitus.

842–864. 'Atoms are also wanting in heat, sound, moisture, odor; they are like the oil, which absorbs perfumes from other things; they are not hollow or pliant or fragile, for then they could not serve as immortal foundations of the safety of things.'

842. Sed ne forte putas: cf. 3, 533 n.

843. manere = esse, 'stay'; 1, 363 n.—secreta: 1, 194 n.—teporis: uncommon in L.; cf. 517.

844. sunt: beginning the verse with thought continued from preceding line, as in 1, 403, 676, 816; 2, 1140; 3, 619; 6, 270; a blemish. So vis, 3, 271. Kühn, 53.—calidi vaporis: 3, 126 n.

845. sterila: sterilam is cited from Festus. See on 3, 714.—ieuma with abl. is not quoted elsewhere.—feruntur, 'are said to be,' i.e. are.

846. iacunt odorem is uncommon; iactaret odorem, Georg. 2, 132.—proprium, 'of its own'; 3, 357 n.; cf. suum, 855. proprium OQ, M. Br. Winck. Goebel, Polle; proprio Juntine, Lachm. Bern. Giuss.

847. amaracini: 4, 1179, unguit amaracino (postes); Ellis on Catull. 61, 7.—blandum liquorem: Tib. 3, 3, 2, blandaque cum multa tura dedisse prece. The comparison is poetical and not scientifically exact: the oil is the vehicle of the odors, but the odors are themselves creata principiis, 4, 698. The atoms are without odor just as the oil is without perfume; both serve as a basis.

848. florem: 3, 221 n.—nectar: 6, 971.—naribus: terminal dat.; cf. 851.—halat: trans.; cited only from L. 6, 221, 391, and Mart. 10, 48, 4.

849. cum instituas: indefinite second person; 3, 422 n.—par est: 1, 189 n.

850. quoad: 5, 1213, 1433. Schmalz, Syntax, 293, says the word was avoided by the poets, except the writers of comedy.—possis, OQ, M. Br. Giuss. Bail.; potis ei, Lamb. Lachm. It is, of course, a subjunctive of the indefinite second person. Cf. quoad possem et liceret, Cic. Lael. 1.—inolentis, ἀταξ λεγύμενος.

851. auram: M. quotes Mart. 3, 65, 2, de Corycio quae venit aura croco, and Georg. 4, 417, spiravit crinibus aura; cf. L. 4, 1180.—Plato, Tim. 50 e, διὸ καὶ τάρρων ἐκτὸς εἰδῶν εἰραι χρεών τὸ τὰ πάντα ἐκδέξμενον ἐν αὐτῷ γένη, καθάπερ περὶ τὰ διλειμματα δικτυα εἴνωδη, τέχνη μηχανῶνται, πρώτον τοῦτον τὸν διάρχον, ποιοῦσι τὴν μάλιστα δώδη τὰ δεξέμενα ὑγρὰ τὰς δομάς, κ.τ.λ., quoted by Shorey, Harv. St. 12, 204.

852. ut syntactically precedes quam minime.

853. concoctos, 'boil together,' is rare.—contractans: 6, 854, sol nudum contractans corpus aquai. Cf. on 3, 539.—Nonius quotes: concoctasque suos servare et perdere viro; Priscian, contractosque suo contractans p. v.; OQ have contractas; edd. follow Priscian. Hermann, Phil. 3, 101, servare atque suo contactos.—viro: abl.

also in Serenus Sam. L. 6, 805, odor viri; Mart. 6, 93, 7, virus ut hoc alio fallax permutet odore (M.).

854. rem, added by Lachm.—debent: the atoms must not bring their own proper odor; the oil has none.

855. adhibere: 1, 778, at primordia gignundis in rebus oportet | naturam clandestinam caecamque adhibere.—rebus: sc. olentibus.

856. nil ab se mittere: 1, 613, unde neque avelli quicquam neque deminui iam | concedit natura reservans semina rebus.

857. denique, 'at all.'—quemquam goes with saporem; 3, 234 n.

858. calidum: 3, 126 n.—tepidum: less in degree than calidum.

859. cetera: for the asyndeton (removed by some early edd.) cf. on 1, 456.—quae is harsh; if the text be sound, it means quae corpora, with these qualities, or perhaps the qualities themselves, color, sapor, etc. Bock. explains 'quae sunt in rebus, ita tamen sunt, ut mortalia constent.' Purmann rejects the verse. Wakef. vaporem, cetera, etc. Howard, 'these qualities being such that the things made up of them are mortal,' i.e. ut mortalia constent ex iis. Bouterwek, quae cum sint ita uti.—cum ita sunt, OQ, edd.; vaporem, * cetera; quae, Giuss.; comitant, Br., and Phil. 25, 73, cf. 1, 97; cetera * cumque ita, Dittel, Innsbruck Pr. 1874, 4. Cum sunt is causal, compared by Reichenhart with 4, 1135; 4, 84; cf. Br. in Jahresb. 9, 162; 3, 363 n.—tamen, 'whatever they are, yet,' etc., M., who compares Cic. Att. 4, 15, 2, cum illis tamen, cum satvi venerint, Romae vivere licebit. Br. 'yet so that,' comp. Hor. Ep. 1, 20, 25. Edelbluth, Conj. 21, would join tamen to ita: 'da diese sicher (wenigstens) so sind (mögen sie sonst sein wie sie wollen), dass.'—Cf. 3, 961.

860. Note the chiasmus.—lenta, 'pliant.'—fragosa: here only in L. and not cited from an earlier author. Here only in the sense 'fragile.'—putri, 'crumbling'—raro, 'porous.'

861. seiuncta: 1, 431.

862. First and second feet again in one word.—subiungere, 'lay under' is unexampled; it is suggested by seiuncta.

863. nitatur summa salutis: 3, 324 n.

865–885. 'Whatever has sense must still be made up of insensible atoms; that fact that living beings are produced from them supports this principle; worms come from filth, rivers and pastures change to herds, and sheep to the substance of human bodies. Nature turns all food into living bodies which have sensation, as she changes wood to fire. The order and motion of first beginnings is important.'—See Masso 109.

865. sentire: absolute also in 3, 843.

866. A bad verse; insensilibus . . . confiteare.

867. manufesta: elsewhere manifesta; cf. maxuma, 5, 481.

868. contra pugnant: 1, 780 n.

869. magis: for potius, as often.—manu ducunt: Aen. 3, 372, manu multo suspensum numine ducit.

870. quod dico: 1, 1053 n.

871. Alliteration (vvv) ; there is nothing pathetic here, as there is in 5, 993.—
vermes : 3, 719 n.

872. putorem : 6, 1101, ubi putorem umida (terra) nactast | intempestivis plu- viis. Putor is quoted from Cato, RA, Varro, Apuleius, Arnobius, etc.

873. intempestivis : always in L. of rain. In 5, 986, he has intempesta, the word preferred by Virgil.

874. cunctas : Bock. sumptas. — vertere sese : cf. 1, 710 n.

875. et : cf. 596, and for the thought, 1, 350 sq.

876. pecudes : 343 n.

877. ferarum : 5, 990, unus . . . quisque . . . deprensus . . . pabula viva feris
praebebat.

878. Pentasyllabic ending. There are 20 examples of this type — pentasyll. at the close and a long word at the beginning of the line. In 28 cases the entire verse is composed of a pentasyll. preceded by three long words, as in 2, 672. In 37 cases there is a pentasyll. close preceded by a number of short words, as in 5, 192 ; in 47 two long words at the close are preceded by several short ones, as in 2, 450 ; and in 22 cases there is a long word in the middle as in 2, 1002. There are 157 verbal endings, 18 with que ; and 141 with nouns and adjectives, 20 with que. In all of these types the verse is unwieldy and inelegant ; cf. on 1, 251. — pennipotentum : 5, 789, quadripedum membris et corpore pennipotentum. The word is not cited from any other author ; cf. on 1, 33.

879. corpora viva : 703.

880. hinc : i.e. cibis. — sensus : cf. 938, 943 ; 1, 303.

881. alia longe : 5, 1030, non alia longe ratione atque ; 1070, longe alio pacto . . .
a. The contrast is between the food and wood, and sensation and flame. Lachm.
 M. write adque, Br. atque ; M. says Q has adque 6 times, O not at all. — arida ligna :
 Hor. C. 3, 17, 13, aridum | compone lignum.

882. versat : but vertit above.

883–885 = with slight changes, 1, 907–910.

886–930. ‘Every element cannot produce sense ; but only certain atoms of definite shape. Elements must be soft, if sense comes only from what has sense ; then they must be mortal like the whole animal. Sense can come from what has no sense.’

886. percutit : 3, 159, anima cum animi vi | percussast. — ipsum : i.e., animum seum. Wakef. Bock. Giuss., percutit ipsum, quod ; Br., percutit, ipsum, quod ; Lachm. M. Bail., percutit, ipsum quod. — ‘The two great difficulties which adhere to the theory of Materialism and which must ever prove insurmountable are these : first to account for the power of thinking by means of material atoms which are individually destitute of it ; and secondly, to account for the unity and continuity of human consciousness by means of material atoms which are constantly undergoing flux and mutation’ ; Buchanan, Modern Atheism, 234. ‘Life and sense could never possibly spring out of dead and senseless matter as its only origin ;’ Cudworth, Intell. System, 1, 149.

887. movet : 4, 722, qua moveant animum res accipe. — sensus expromere : ‘express feelings,’ after the analogy of expromere sententiam. Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 135, would read fetus, comparing Catull. 65, 3.

888. insensibus and sensile are Lucretian words. Insensibilis and sensibilis are later, but not common.

889. nimirum . . . quod: unusual separation.—lapides: latices, Giuss. But lapides is used to signify inanimate objects: ‘ye stocks, ye stones, ye worse than brutish things.’

890. vitalem sensum: cf. 941 sq. and on 3, 99.

891. meminisse decebit: 4, 643, m. decet.

892. omnibus: all elements.—quaecumque creant res: quae iuncta, Bock.; quaecumque carent res | sensu iam, Br. formerly.

893. sensilia: OQ, Br. Giuss. Bail. Winck.; sensile et Itali, Lachm. M.—ex templo: Itali, edd.; et templo O, et templo Q. Sensilia, such as ligna, terra, etc.

894. quantula: not too large for sense-giving impressions.

895. sensile: ‘the sensible thing.’

896. quae sint: OQ; quis sint, Faber, Bentl. Br. Quae = qualia.

897. quarum refers to the conditions implied in the preceding lines.—glaebis corresponds to terra, 889.—videmus: not videmus esse: we cannot see these conditions; they may be there.

898. et tamen: 3, 51 n.—quasi putrefacta: the verb is not quoted earlier than L., but occurs in Varro, RR; I. has it only here.—imbres here only in L.; imbris 9 times; Keller, Sprachgesch. 2, 318.

899. Notice the dactyls.

900. antiquis: 6, 871, in antiquas redeunt primordia sedes.

901. conciliantur: = in concilium coeunt; frequently of atomic union.—ita debent gigni: ‘necessary for the production of.’ M. shows that the indic. is idiomatic here: cf. Cic. Att. 15, 4, 1, scripsi ita ut te probaturum existimo; Giuss.: conciliatur ea ratione qua debent animalia gigni.

902. ex sensilibus, OQ, edd.; ea, seninibus Lachm. Bern.

903. sueti, OQ; suetis Lamb. Lachm. Bern.; suetis* Br., see Prol. xxv, Giuss. Bail.; suetis (principiis constare putant mortalibus sensus) mollia cum faciunt Christ, p. 17; prima ex aliis . . . sueti | mollia item faciunt Winck.; (semina constituunt illi mortalia rerum) Goebel; (ipsi sensilibus, mortalia semina redditum) M.; (qua constant, mortalia dant his semina rebus) Susemihl. Frerichs makes qui of 902 interrogative and writes suetis, . . . faciunt? Polle thought ex sensilibus a gloss for ea debilitant. M. translates ‘accustomed thus to derive their own sense from element— (which are sensible), in their turn, (do thus render their own seeds mortal), when the — make them soft.’ See Hörschelmann, p. 19, and Polle, Phil. 26, 323. In the uncertainty any change of sueti seems inadvisable.

904. cum faciunt, OQ, edd.; confaciunt Voss; conficiunt Bern. For cum wit— indic. cf. 831 and Madv. LG. 358, 2; Roby, 1727.—Lachm. Goebel iam; othe— tum or qua.

905. cumque, OQ; cuncta Lachm. Br. Bail. Hörschelmann, p. 19, ‘quia ad re— demonstrandam multum valet omnia quibus sensus iungitur mollia et mortalia esse’; cuique M.—Frerichs, p. 11, keeps quaecumque ‘monens omnem sensum non nisi mollibus atque mortalibus rebus iungi'; Giuss. interprets as in 2, 21.

906. corpore creta: 4, 1226; 5, 1116, corpore creti; 5, 60, nativo primum corri- sistere corpore creta; 5, 6, mortalis c. cretus.

907. esto: ‘suppose’; 4, 1171, sed tamen esto iam quantovis oris honore . . . nempe alias quoque sunt; 3, 735.—iam: 3, 540 n.—haec: sc. mollia corpora.

908. sensum partis: ‘the sense of some part,’ M. The sensations of the separate primordia are parts of the sensation of the whole body; e.g. the sensation of the ear is also the sensation of the man. See Roos, p. 43.

909. simili, Lachm. edd.; similis OQ. Lachm. explains simili totis animalibus sensu esse putari.

910. per se: the eye, for instance, has no sensation if separated from the body. Cf. 3, 631 sq.

911. namque, OQ, Lachm. M. Br.—alios, OQ, †Br. and Giuss.; alio Lachm. M.—respuit, OQ, Br.; respicit Lachm. M. Giuss. Nam ratio sensus membrorum respuit omnis Hermann, Phil. 3, 511, Bern. Bail. Winck. explains the Ms. reading as ‘denn die Gesammtempfindung lässt nicht zu, dass die einzelnen Theile des Leibes von ihr verschiedene Empfindungen haben,’ but omnis cannot bear this meaning. Polle, AV. 37, sensus enim sensus membrorum respuit, regarding namque alios as a gloss. Giussani suggests animum for alios. Susemihl, Phil. 25, 78, namque alios . . . respicit. Nencini imagines a lacuna: natura atque tenent ea toto corpore iuncta | secreta ab nobis nequeunt sentire neque esse.

912. potia est: 3, 1079 n.; 3, 551, et veluti manus atque oculus naresve seorsum | secreta ab nobis nequeunt sentire neque esse.

913. tenere: because finally reliquias animai reddidit omnes, 3, 656.

914. linquitur: 5, 795, linquitur ut merito maternum nomen adopta | terra sit. 915 (923), transferred by Bern. M. Br. Bail.; Lachm. Giuss. place it after 915. Lamb. thought it spurious. Van d. Valk retains it with sicut denique of Q corr. See Polle, Phil. 26, 324.—sentire: sc. partes.

916 (915). vitali sensu: 5, 125, vitali motu sensuque remotum. See on 3, 99.—consentire: 717 n.

917. qui: ‘how.’

918. leti vias: 10, viam vitae; Georg. 3, 482, via mortis; Ov. M. 11, 792, letique viam; Tib. 1, 3, 50, leti mille viae.—animalia: ‘living beings’

919. animalia sint, Lachm. edd. for animalibus, OQ.—mortalibus: dative; 3, 1038 n.—una: plural; 3, 616 n. For the unusual elision of a before a vowel other than a in this foot cf. 4, 1040, una hominis vis; Müller, RM. 291.

920. quod refers to leti vitare vias.—ut: ‘supposing’; 4, 473, et tamen hoc quoque uti concedam scire, at, etc.—at coetu: Monac. edd.; ab eoretu, OQ; Lachm. insists that L. always has a before c.—coetu concilioque: also joined in Cic. CM. 84, Fin. 2, 77; Livy, 2, 38, 4: Kraetsch, 21.

921. faciant: ‘make.’—volum: ‘multitude’; here only in L. with this meaning, with no reference to people; see lex.; Aen. 1, 190, of deer.

922. nequeant, OQ, edd.; nequeunt, Lachm. (Giuss. by oversight—Note L. 27). The understood protasis is si periculum faciant, Br.—armenta: 5, 228, pecudes armenta feraeque; 4, 1197; volucres armenta feraeque.

923. inter se conveniendo: cf. 941–942; Plaut. Miles, 139, qui amantis una inter se facerem convenas. See Polle, Phil. 26, 324.—ullam: unam, Susemihl.

924. corpore: lay aside their sense from their body in combination with other primordia; Giuss. ‘in the body.’ Howard, corpora, J. Phil. 1, 127.

925. Notice the elision; 1, 409 n.—alium (sensum).

926. quod, OQ, edd.; quo, Wakef. M.; diximus, Giuss.; vidimus, Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 276, Br. Bail.; fugimus, OQ, ‘had recourse,’ viz. 870, according to M.;

but that is too far away and 'had recourse' is confugimus, as in 3, 766, although M. cites Petronius, 132, ad verba fugi. Hörschelmann, 13, interprets 'quod supra omisi'; hardly possible; Lambinus, quod supra negavimus, 897. A locus insanabilis; something like diximus or vidimus is needed.

927. quatenus: causal; 3, 218 n.—animalis: 'living.'—vertier: as commonly, the ending comes in the fifth foot before a vowel; 3, 67 n.

928. alituum: 5, 801, 1039, 1078; 6, 1216, metr. gr. for alitum; first in L. then in Virg. (Aen. 8, 27), Manilius, Statius; Müller, KM, 381. Sommer, 435, quotes a late Latin form fratruum.—effervere: Georg. 4, 556, apes . . . effervere costis.

929. intempestivos: 873.

930. ex non sensib⁹ sensus: i.e. animals possessing sense from things without sense.—non sensib⁹: 1, 1075 n.

931–943. 'A refutation of the position that sense comes from no sensation by change or by birth; birth implies a union of elements, and change, a joining together. No body can have sensation until the body itself is begotten, for its elements are previously scattered throughout nature.'

931. dumtaxat: 3, 377 n.—aliquis: the Stoicks held that new-born animals do not really live as animals until they reach the outer air: Plut. Stoic. repugn. 41, τὸ βρέφος ἐν τῷ γαστρὶ φύσει τρέφεσθαι νομίζει, καθάπερ φύτον· οὐαν γέ τεχθῆ ψυχόμενον ὅπο τοῦ dépos καὶ στομόμενον τὸ πνεῦμα μεταβάλλειν καὶ γίνεσθαι ζῶον. But there is no proof that L. was combating this particular doctrine.

932. ex: Lamb. edd.; ea, OQ; a, Q corr. Wakef. M. Ex is nearer the MSS.—sensus, OQ, Lachm. Br.; sensum Lamb. Bern. Giuss. M. L. does not have sensum before initial m, but sensus, as in 911.—mutabilitate: here only in L., but once in Cic.; cf. μεταβάλλειν.

933. quo proditur extra: Br. (see Phil. 25, 86), Bail.; quod proditum extra, OQ; quod proditus extet, M., Polle, Phil. 26, 325; quod protinus extet, Lachm.; quod proditum extra, Bern., Giuss.; quom proditur extra, Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 326.—proditur: 3, 603, extra prodita corpus of the anima; partum, 935.

934. illud: 'the following.'—planum facere is technical for probare; Mommsen, Röm. Strafrecht, 429.

935. coacto: 1, 1020 n.; 4, 1229, semper enim partus duplice de semine const—

936. sine conciliatu, OQ, edd.; nisi conciliatum, Goebel; nisi concutiat—Christ. See on 1, 575.

937. Br. brackets 937–943. 'In his versibus inest petitio principii. puto L. h— versus damnaturum fuisse'; Prol. xlviij. Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 329, grants that the passage is obscure and that the poet would have added something corresponding 891 sq.; the bracketing of 937 sq. increases the obscurity. Possibly a lacuna shou—l be indicated before 937 and following 943, but it is unnecessary. Principio cor—c—spends to praeterea in 944; Woltjer, i.e., and Giuss. Lachm. makes it = praecep—t, cf. 3, 119.

938. naturam animantis = animantem.

939. disiecta: 1, 1020.

940. terraque, OQ, edd.; Polle, Phil. 26, 325; aethraque, Marull. Lachm. The reference is to trees, fruits, etc. Everett, Harv. St. 7, 30, proposes flammis for terris in order to get the four elements; but L. has not these in mind necessarily.

941. nec, OQ, edd.; haec, Pont. Christ. — congressa: cf. 1, 760. — modō: always in L.; 1135; 1, 158; 4, 1181, etc. So in Cic. Arat. 56. — vitali: Br. Bail. Goebel, Winck.; vitalis, OQ, edd.; convenientes, OQ, Lachm. Br. Bail.; convenienti, Lamb. M. Giuss. Convenientis motus, 2, 712. Yet vitali modo is unusual, and vitales motus common, occurring in 948.

942. omnituentes: edd. for omne tuentes; omnicientes, Bern. Omnituens does not occur before L.

943. animantem quamque tuentur, OQ, Br. Giuss. Bail. Winck.; animante in quaque cidentur, Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 673, M., Goebel, Polle; animantum concuterentur, Lachm. But omnituentes ('all-seeing') — tuentur ('protect') — is Lucretian; 1, 128 n. — accensi: 3, 335 n.

944–962. 'A mighty blow prostrates because the positions of the atoms are disturbed and vital arrangements destroyed; a lesser blow can be overcome and death be avoided.' (Life and sensation then depend on the arrangement of the atoms.)

944. grandior ictus: 3, 485, paulo si durior insinuarit | causa, fore ut pereant.
3, 1144.

945. patitur natura: cf. 1, 224, in a different sense.

946. corporis atque animi: the whole system; cf. 3, 846.

947. dissoluuntur: 3, 330 n.

948. penitus: 'to the core.'

949. concussa per artus: 3, 392, primordia concussa animai | semina . . . mixta per artus.

950. nodos: 6, 356, dissoluunt nodos omnis et vincula relaxant. Aen. 4, 695, quae luctantem animam nexosque resolveret artus.

951. caulas: 3, 255 n. — elecit: present; 3, 513 n.

952. ictum is subject of posse.

953. discutere ac dissolvere: 1, 559 n.

954. soleant . . . saepe: 4, 606, saepe solet. Dittel prefers valeant.

955. reliqui: 3, 648 n. — vitalis: cf. omnis, 6, 936; duplicis, 4, 452; nominives; 1, 808 n. — vincere saepe, | vincere: 3, 12 n.

956. ingentis: with tumultus. Roos, 46, recalled an old reading, ingenitos flagae, on the ground that ictus minus acriter oblatos could not produce ingentes tumultus, but cf. 3, 241 sq. Aen. 11, 897, ingentem tumultum. See Cartault, 40.

957. quicquid = quidque, as often in L.; cf. 4, 145; 5, 131, 264, 284, 304, 772; Ter. Ad. 590. Madv. Cic. Fin. 8 p. 645. Cf. on 3, 619.

958. quasi dominantem: 3, 397, dominantior ad vitam and on 3, 256.

959. accendere: 943.

960. nam qua re = qua alia ratione Lamb.; Roos changes to namque hac re, i.e. hac sola ratione. — potius: setius, Goebel. — leti limine: 3, 681 n.

961. possint, OQ, edd., referring to animantes (Phil. 25, 88); animantem in 944 is collective; possit, Lachm. M. Hörschelmann, 41, keeps possint with general reference to 944 sq.; Winck., following Wakef., to sensus. Giuss. makes the reference general. — conlecta mente: Lamb. edd. for coniecta comp. Cic. Tusc. 4, 78, quid est seipsum configere nisi dissupatas animi partes rursum in suum locum cogere.

962. decursum siet: cf. decurso lumine vitae, 3, 1042; Cic. Tusc. 1, 15, nunc

vides calcem ad quam cum sit decursum nihil praeterea sit extimescendum. — slet: 3, 101 n. — ire et abire: remarkable assonance.

963–972. ‘Again, pain occurs when atoms are disturbed from their proper places, pleasure when they return; hence the atoms themselves are subject to neither affection, and so are devoid of sensation.’

963. Praeterea, OQ, edd.; propterea, Lachm. — materiai | corpora: 3, 193 n.

964. viscera viva: 5, 993, viva videns vivo sepeliri viscera busto; viscera, alone, means living flesh. — per artus: ‘throughout the frame,’ occurs several times in the third book, but not asyndetically as here.

965. sollicitata: 4, 1037, sollicitatur id . . . semen. — sedibus: 5, 162, sollicitare suis ulla vi ex sedibus; 6, 798, animam labefacant sedibus intus.

966. blanda: 1, 19 n.

967. scire licet: 3, 229 n.

968. temptari: 3, 147 n.

969. non sunt ex: ‘they are not made up of,’ etc.; 3, 216 n.

970. motus: gen. — novitate: abl. of cause.

971. fructum dulcedinis: 5, 1410, capiunt dulcedini? fructum.

972. debent: ‘must.’

973–990. ‘Again, for the living beings to feel, their elements must have sense — then these may be shaken with laughter and may institute philosophical discussion about their composition and the nature of the elements of elements; speaking and laughing things may be made up of speaking and laughing atoms. But if the position is crazy, why not make rational beings of irrational elements?’

973. uti possint: purpose clause. — animalia: including men; Tac. Ann. 1—47, hominum aliorumque animalium.

974. si lam: 3, 540 n. — ‘L. says if human atoms could laugh and ask what were their constituent parts. . . . It is here overlooked that developed human sensation must also be a whole composed of various lesser sensations through a peculiar combination of influences: but the essential difficulty remains unsolved’; Lange, Materiamism, 2, 144.

975. proprietim seems dw. λεγ. — de quibus auctumst: OQ, recent edd.; quibus factumst, Lamb. Lachm. M. Br. explains (Prol.) ‘ex quo atomorum genere = ceteras atomos, quae hominibus cum animalibus rationis expertibus communis sunt aliquid accessit, unde ratio oreretur?’ Of course, as M. remarks, after Lam., one ordinarily says auctus re aliqua and factus de re. Giuss. thinks the construction is analogous to ex se res auget, 5, 322, and it seems better to take it as solecism.

976–977 = 1, 919, 920, nearly. — scilicet: ‘yes.’ ‘After having reduced the whole universe to atoms, he makes merry, with somewhat ghastly laughter, over the idea of these little particles having life’; Masson, 138.

978. mixtura, callent: here only in L.; probably selected for irony. — Mixtura is not classic. Callent, ‘are sharp enough.’

979. Alliteration (spqspq), and yet unconscious. — sibi: with sint. — proporro: 3, 275 n.

980. A heavy verse. — quandoquidem: 3, 457 n. — totis mortalibus: ‘to men as a whole.’ Cf. totis animantibus adsimulentur, 914.

981. aliis elementis: sc. totis mortalibus adsimulatis. Elementis here are parts of atoms, not technically atoms themselves.

982. inde alia: inde haec, Lohmann; ali, OQ.

983. sequar: 1, 980 n.—riderēque: 1, 666 n.

984. eadem: sc. logai, etc.

985. cernimus: 1, 660 n.

986. potest: potes, Goebel, Bock.—non ex ridentibus: 1, 1075 n.—auctus: OQ, recent edd., sc. homo; factus, others, as in 975.

987. doctis dictis: 5, 113, multa tibi expediam doctis solacia dictis; Ennius, Ann. 270, haut doctis dictis certantes.—rationem reddere: 3, 178 n.

988. non: sc. auctus.

989. qui minus queant = cur non possint.

990. undique, ‘wholly’; cf. 916; 4, 435; and lex.

991–1022. ‘We are sprung from celestial seed; heaven is the father, earth the mother; death destroys the union of matter, and part goes back to heaven, part to earth; the arrangement of atoms is all important, and the various forms of things are due to position and combination.’

991. caelesti: ‘Epicurus shared with the Stoics the principle of the heavenly origin of man; there is a nobler and a lower substance in the composition of man’s nature, and this is a materialistic expression of the difference between matter and spirit’; Zeller, Phil. d. Griechen, 3<sup>8</sup>, 1, 421; but the statement is not accepted by Lucretian scholars: Lohmann, e.g., notes that aether is pater of animals and plants as well as of men; L.’s attitude here is like that in 1, 250 sq., and is purely allegorical. Edd. quote the fragment of Euripides’ Chrysippus, Γαῖα μεγίστη καὶ Διὸς

*Αἰθήρ | δὲ μὲν ἀνθρώπων καὶ θεῶν γενέτωρ | οὐδὲ δὲ ὑγροβόλους σταύρων ποτα-
μεξαμένη τίκτει θητῶν, | τίκτει δὲ βοὸν φῦλά τε θηρῶν. | οὐδὲν οὐκ ἀδίκως | μήτηρ τάρτων νερόμοται. | χωρὶς δὲ διτῶν | τὰ μὲν ἐκ γαλας φύντεις γαῖας, | τὰ δὲ απ’
αιθέρους βλαστῶντα γονῆς | εἰς οὐράνον πάλιν ἡλθε πέλον.*—oriundi: Lachm. says that this suppression, or possibly change, of i to a consonant without lengthening the syllable preceding is most rare. He cites Ennius, Androm., atque ἄβιτε crispa and examples, principally from the scenic poets, which have been controverted by other scholars: L. Müller, RM. 249, cites dominia, op̄eriuntur, m̄elius from Lucilius, Laevius, and Varro.

992. ille agrees with pater, but refers to aether implied in caelesti.—liquentis: acc.; 3, 8 n.

993. umoris guttas: imbris guttae, 222.

994. nitidas . . . laeta: cf. 189.

995. sæcœla ferarum: 3, 753 n. Empedocles, 26, 4 D. (141 K.), γῆγονται διθεντοι τε καὶ διλλωτοι θεοι θηρῶν, and Eurip. I.c.

996. pabula præbet: 1, 229 n.—cum: the reason is poetical rather than logical; it is a mother’s part to nourish as well as bear. Hörschelmann would write tum; and also Pascal (WKP. 17, 693).—omnes: sc. genus humanum, sæcœla ferarum.

997. dulcem vitam: 3, 66 n.—propagant: 1, 20 n.

998. maternum: 5, 821, quare etiam atque etiam maternum nomen adepta | terra tenet merito; 5, 795, linquitur ut merito maternum nomen adepta | terra sit.

Pliny, NH. 2, 154, terra cui usi rerum naturae partium eximia propter meritum cognomen indidimus maternae venerationis; cf. also 2, 598. Gneisse, 30, regards 998 as spurious; refuted by Lohmann, 42, Edelbluth, 48.

999. de: on 1, 283. Lact. Inst. 7, 12, 'quod ex terra fuit id in terram resoluit: quod ex caelesti spiritu id constat ac viget semper . . . denique idem Lucretius oblitus . . . hos versus posuit: cedit item retro,' etc. Edd. quote Eurip. Supp. 534 διελθεῖν, πνέμα μὲν τρὸς αἴθρα. | τὸ σῶμα δὲ εἰς γῆν; Epich. 258, κάτηλθε οὐκ ἔλθει τάλιν, γὰ μὲν εἰς γῆν, πνέμα δὲ διον; the commonplace can be found in other authors also.

1000. terras . . . terra: 999; metr. gr. — missumst, edd. after Lactantius, but missus, OQ, may point to an archaic neuter missut. — aetheris oris: 3, 835; 4, 215; 5, 143, 656, 683.

1001. rursum . . . receptant: for pleonasm see on 3, 848. — caeli templā: 1, 1004 n. — rellatum: but rēlatus, 5, 686; cf. reducit, 1, 228 n.

1002. interemit: 1, 216 n.

1003. dissupat: 1, 651 n. — ollis: 1, 672 n.

1004. aliis coniungit: cf. 1, 449. — coniungit et efficit, OQ, edd.; coniungitur et fit, Lachm.; coniungit et effit ut, M. Efficit, sc. mors, a poetical personification. Cartault, 83, proposes coniungit se et fit.

1005. ut: Itali, edd.; ita, OQ, Lachm. M. — mutentque colores: 1, 767.

1006. capiant sensus: cf. 925. — puncto tempore: 1, 1109 n.

1007. eadem: edd.; earum, OQ; harum, Bock. Cf. 1, 817.

1008-1009 = 1, 818, 819.

1010. aeterna goes with corpora prima = primordia. 'A most strange conjunction of terms — eternal atoms, but life fleeting and superficial'; Masson, 121. — penes: here only in L. — residere: 3, 398 n. — potesse: 3, 319 n.

1011. quod: for id quod, i.e. color. Quod is a pronoun; see Polle, Phil. 26, 326; Br. id. 25, 69. — summis: OQ, edd.; cunctis, Lachm. — fluitare: 4, 80, cognitumque suo fluitare colore; id. 74, de summis ipsum quoque saepe colorem.

1012. nasci, perire: in reference to sensus.

1013 = nearly, 1, 823. Lachm. brackets 1013-1104; Br. and Giuss. 1013-1022; Gneisse, 48 sq., rejects 1013-1022, and also Neumann, 51; defended by Lohmann, 23, and van d. Valk, 90.

1014 = nearly, 2, 884.

1015 = 1, 820; rejected by Lachm. M. Bail.; retained by Br. Giuss. and Hörschelm. (27), who places 1015 and 1016 after 1018.

1016 = nearly 1, 821; rejected by Lachm. M. Bail.; retained by Br. and Giuss.

1017. si non: 3, 406 n. — omnia: i.e. elements (of words and things).

1018. discrepant res: cf. 6, 1105; discrepant is unmetrical; cf. discrepat, 1, 582; so nominal, 1, 695, but nominitant, 6, 703, Archiv, 4, 221. Res, the things (words made up of letters). — consimilis: he might have said eadem, as Creech interprets, but the examples in 1015-1016 do not have in view the same letters necessarily; yet a considerable number of them, as may be seen by count: 4; e, i, u, 2; f, m, r, 2; s, 2; t, as Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 775, Mnem. 25, 316, counted. Br. thought the comparison referred to a complex of words; Jahrb. 111, 623.

1019. rebus: real things, although res above had a different meaning; 3, 206 n.

1020. 'intervalia vias conexus pondera plagaes' = 726; an interpolation, as the cases are wrong. Woltjer, Mnem. l.c., would retain the verse, and explain away the wrong cases by blaming the copyist. Against the verse, see Lachmann, and Gneisse, 50. Cf. Diels, Elementum, 7.

1021 = 1, 685.

1022. permuntantur: twice elsewhere; 1, 827; 5, 185, permutato ordine.

1023–1047. 'Now listen and receive this new truth; new truths are difficult to believe just as old ones are not appreciated. But consider my argument and accept or refute it; for the mind desires to know what is beyond the infinite boundaries of the world.'

1023. adhibe veram ad rationem: 1, 51.

1024. vementer: Lachm. shows that the quadrisyllabic form was unknown to basic writers. It has been suggested that vehemens may be due to the analogy of nō (Jahrb. 145, 194). — molitur: of struggling toil, 5, 934.

1025. accidere: although accedere is the Ms. reading retained by M., I do not feel justified in retaining the archaism. Cf. 3, 239 n. For ad auris accidere, see ex. accido, 1 C. See also Thes. 1, 253, 70 and 291, 1 for passages where accedere and cidere are confused.

1026. res: but nil magnum, 1028.

1027. magis: sc. than afterward.

1028. magnum . . . mirabile: this alliterative grouping is found in Sallust, l.c., Augustine, Lactant., and Cyprian, according to Wölfflin, Allit. Verbind. 67. — 5, 1239, potestatis magnas mirasque.

1029. mittant: Lachm. edd.; minuant, OQ, M. Bail.; linquunt, Richards, Cl. R. 13, 17. 6, 1056, illud in his rebus mirari mitte; 4, 471, mituam, OQ, for mittam. — Pliny, NH. 7, 6, 'quis enim Aethiopas antequam cerneret credidit? aut quid non miraculo est, cum primum in notitiam venit? quam multa fieri non posse si quisquam sint facta iudicantur?' Cic. ND. 2, 96, 'sed adsiduitate cotidiana et consuetudine oculorum adsuescant animi neque admirantur neque requirunt rationes carum rerum quas semper vident,' etc. Seneca, NQ. 7, 1, has a page of such moralizing.

1030. principio, OQ, Br. Bail.; suspicio, Bern. M. Giuss.; percipito, Lachm. M. hesitates about principio, and suggests a lost verse cuius uti memoro permulta exempla videmus. It is another case of anacoluthon, as Roos remarked years ago, 18; cf. on 342. Suspicio gains some defence from 1039, but although L. might well have written suspicio, the supporters of that conjecture have given no adequate explanation of the reading principio.

1031. quaerque: viz. sidera, lunam, solis nitorem. Aen. 9, 21, palantisque polo tellas, where the reference is to the stars, not to planets alone. — palantia sidera, lūrræ dærēper.

1032. solis nitorem: 5, 668.

1033. extent: Orelli, edd.; essent, OQ, Bern. M.; adsint, Itali. Extent seems the easiest correction, as one is necessary either in this or the next verse. Bern. objects to extare = existere as not Lucretian; see Phil. 25, 276; J. Phil. 16, 24.

1034. sint: OQ, edd.; nunc, M.; visu subiecta, Bern.; essent, Polle; allata atque obiecta, Nencini.

1035. poterat: Lane, LG. 1495.

1036. gentes: 'people,' for gentes humanae. — The order is aut quod gentes ante minus auderent credere fore.

1037. species: 'sight.'

1038. quam appears to be exclamatory, cf. I, 104. Roos, 49, takes it with videndi, apparently as a pronoun; so Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 276, and Giuss.; but the construction thereby is too involved. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 128, proposed quam for quam, as Havercamp read after Faber (quom). Ellis, J. Phil. 3, 261, would have quam dependent on suscipere, and in caeli templo epexegetical; there is to him a compression of quam nemo dignatur suspicere and nemo dignatur suspicere in caeli templo. — tibi: 'I tell you.' — lam: how little are the wonders appreciated now! — fessus: apparently nemo, but really omnes; idiomatic; 3, 610 n. — satiata, 5, 39, 1391. The word occurs usually in the nom. in ante- and post-classic writers; not at all in Cic. and Caes. Säkretas is impossible metrically.

1039. lucida templo: I, 1014 n.

1040. exteritus: stronger than territus, which L. does not use. — ipsa: 'mere' Hörschelmann, ipsam, but the novelty itself is important; see Br. Jahrb. 111, 613.

1041. expuere: 6, 68, quae nisi respuis ex animo. — aci iudicio is common in the writers on rhetoric and oratory; Thes. I, 359, 28.

1042. videntur: 'are shown.'

1043. dede manus: 'throw up your hands'; military metaphor. Plaut. Pers. 854, manus vobis do; Cic. Lael. 99; Otto, Sprichw. 211. — Manus dandum est, 2, 1129. — falsum: 3, 525 n.

1044. Lamb. thought this sentence spurious. — summa loci: space.

1045. haec: deictic. Giuss. says = extra moenia huius mundi. — moenia mundi: I, 73 n.

1046. ibi porro: 'there in turn.' Note ibī under ictus. — mens: cf. I, 72 sq.

1047. animi iactus: a. insectus, 740 n. — ipse: of its own motion, independently. 1048–1066. 'Now, first, I have already shown that space is unlimited and that there are atoms innumerable; this world, then, cannot be the only one in existence; there must be others formed by the union of matter.'

1048. Principio: I, 271 n. — nobis: ethical dative. — in cunctas undique partis: I, 1007.

1049. latere ex: for ab; 6, 1057, valet e lapide hoc alias impellere item re. — supra, Lachm. edd.

1050. docui: I, 958 sq. — res ipsaque = resque ipsa; 3, 662 n.

1051. vociferatur: 3, 14 n. — natura: the nom. is harsh.

1052. veri simile: here only in L. — Kannengiesser, Phil. 43, 536 sq., proposes transferring 1070–1076 to this place and putting 1052–1066 there. Br., Jahrb. 12, 184, shows that the change is unnecessary.

1053. undique vorsum go together: see lex. undique. — spatium vacet: I, 507 n.

1054. in numero numero: cf. 1086 and 3, 779 n. — summāque profundū: 'vast in their sum'; Orelli took profunda as an ablative. Profundus to L. means unmeasurable; cf. I, 957.

55. multimodis: 1060; 3, 115 n. — volitent aeterno percita motu: 3, 33 n.
 56. unum: ‘single.’
 57. nil agere: sc. et. — foris: ‘without this world’; 1, 979.
 58. natura: not by divine power. — et: OQ, edd.; ut, Roos, M. Bail. — ipsa:
edd.; ipse (sc. mundus), Br. (Phil. 25, 89); Giuss.
 59. offensando: cf. 6, 1053. Lachm. and most edd. insert ut before semina like a caesura according to Lachmann’s doctrine of legitimacy; see on 3, 258.
is the ut needed for the sense: the contrast in 1056 and 1057 of the world and toma is continued. But I am tempted to write illa for ipsa in 1058.
 60. temere incassum frustra: 5, 1002; incassum frustra, 5, 1430; incas-
2, 1165; 5, 1131. — coacta: cf. 935.
 61. coluerunt: Lachm. edd.; colerunt, OQ; colarunt, Itali, M.; coierunt, Q;
; confiarint, Nencini. For coluerunt, i.q. coaluerunt, see 6, 1068, colescere, o, RR. 1, 41, 2, colescat; L 6, 491, coperiant; see Lachm. — coniecta: OQ, ius; cf. 1, 284; 2, 1108; convecta, Lachm.; cf. his emendation of conventa, 9; concreta, Br.
 62 = 5, 430, nearly. — semper: constantly when they meet, which is without ose (repente). — exordia: vulg. emendation of ex ordine, explained by M. from cl. 6, 33, ut his exordia primis omnia, etc.
 63 = 5, 431. For the conjunctions see on 1, 715.
 64. etiam atque etiam: 3, 228 n. — fateare necessest: cf. 1074 and 3, 470 n.
 65. congressus materiali: cf. 941 and 5, 67. Epic. ad Herod. 45, ἄλλα μη- βουις ἀτερποι εἰσὶν οἱ δύοιοι τοῦτοι καὶ οἱ δύοιοι.
 66. hlc: 387 n. — avidō complexu, 5, 470, omnia sic avidō complexu cetera
it; cf. id. 201.
 67-1076. ‘Again, having matter and space and no opposing force, there must be motion and combination, hence there must be other worlds inhabited by men and beasts.’ — This argument differs from the preceding in making more prominent the ability of inhabiting other worlds. Of course the two arguments might have been thrown together with more artistic skill. Giussani thinks the first refers to the ability of chance combination, the second to the necessity of certain effects under certain conditions.
 67. parata: ‘ready.’
 68. locus est praesto: 1099 and 3, 777, esse . . . praesto; 5, 1412, quod adesi- sto; Catull. 64, 137, tibi nulla fuit clementia praesto. — res: vis, Goebel.
 69. geri: 1, 442 n. Cartault prefers geni.
 70. nunc: in assumption, 3, 203 n. — et: OQ, edd.; ex, Lachm.; at, Goebel.
minibus: for seminum, metr. gr.
 71. aetas: ‘life,’ not ‘generations.’
 72. visaque eadem et: Itali, M.; quis eadem, Lachm.; vis, OQ; *omnis * sique*, see Phil. 25, 90). The correlation of et . . . que was condemned by Lachm., Madv. on Cic. Fin. 5, 64 defends it. Postgate, J. Phil. 24, proposed hisque on ; Schoene, Jahrb. 93, 760, et si. Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 776, infers a lacuna.
I agrees with M., but makes a lacuna; Bail. follows Br. with no lacuna. L not bound to consider all three conditions — materies, locus, nec causa moratur me.

1073. conicere: cf. 1061.
1074. (simili) . . . atque: 5, 1260–1261.
1075. partibus: i.e. of space. This Epicurean doctrine of infinity of worlds in infinite space profoundly influenced Bruno, who combined it with the Copernican system that all fixed stars are suns; Lange, Materialism, 2, 213.—terrarum . . . orbis: also separated in 543, 655; 5, 74; 6, 629.
1076. hominum gentia, saecula ferarum: saecula hominum, 1, 467; generi ferarum, 2, 597, 1081.
- 1077–1089. ‘In the sum of worlds there is always more than one specimen of all things which are born and grow; and so also there are more than one earth, sun, and moon, because these also are born and die.’
1077. accedit ut: ‘furthermore’; he usually has uti, which does not precede a vowel; see on 322 and 1, 192.—res nulla una: emphatic for nil unum; cf. 3, 263.
1078. unica: emphatic by position. See on 542, where it is also used with sola. For the repetition see on 4, 623.
1079. siet: 3, 101 n.—saecli: ‘class,’ here synonymous with genus; 4, 122; muliembre saeculum; 6, 722, nigra virum saecula; 5, 855, animantum saecula.
1080. in primis: ‘first.’—inice mentem: Lipsius, Creech, Winck. Br. Giess. Bail.; cf. animi inictus, 740; indice mente, OQ; inlute Memmi, Gronov. Lachm. M.; adice mentem, Tothe, Jahrb. 117, 127, cf. adice mentem, Ov. M. 14, 319; animalia sint documenta, Polle, AV. 28. Everett, Harv. St. 7, 30, maintains that inice mentem means ‘inspire a purpose,’ as in Cic. Mil. 84. I had thought of id (or et) documentum; documen, 6, 392.
1081. sic: i.e. such to be the case.—montivagum: 1, 404 n.
1082. genitam: vulg.; geminam, OQ, which may be right; cf. Aen. 1, 274; Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 276, defends it, following some of the older commentators.—mutas: 342 n.
1083. squamigerum: 343 n.
1084. simili ratione: ‘by like reasoning.’
1085. cetera quae sunt: ‘and the rest’; 1, 456 n.
1086. numero innumerati: 1054 n. Innumeratis is d̄r. λεγ.—magis: ‘rather’; cf. 428.
1087. depactus, used literally of a deep driven stake, appears to occur only here in a figurative sense.—terminus: 1, 77 n.
1088. Notice the anaphora and alliteration.—manet: transitive; 3, 1075 n.
1089. hic generatimst rebus abundans: M. Giuss. Bail.; his generatim rebus abundans, OQ, est., Lachm.; hic . . . abundat, B.; hinc generatimst . . . abundans, Br.; est generatim in rebus abundans, Cartault.—generatim rebus: ‘in things (or examples) after its kind.’—est abundans: 3, 396 n.
- 1090–1094. ‘Nature, then, is free from haughty lords, and acts without divine supervision. How can gods who live a serene life attend to the manifold phenomena of nature? How can a god hurl bolts which pass by the wicked and kill the innocent?’
1090. cognita: cf. 1, 331.—teneas: 3, 213 n. Cf. the auxiliary use of this verb in Spanish.
1091. continuo: with libera; continenter would have been unmetrical.—domi-

nis: 5, 87, dominos acris adsciscunt, omnia posse | quos miseri credunt. Cic. Tusc. 1, 48, liberatos enim se per eum dicunt gravissimis dominis terrore sempiterno et diurno ac nocturno metu. (On Cicero's knowledge of L. see Giusiani, I, xvii, Hirzel, Unters. I, 9, Introd. 19.)

1092. Notice the emphatic pleonasm.—dis expers: 6, 1181, expertia somno. The abl. occurs in Sallust, and in Plaut. and Catull.—For the thought cf. 646 and 3, 18 sq.

1093. pro: cf. 434.

1094. degunt: 3, 509 n.; 5, 82, qui didicere deos securum agere aevom.

1095. regere: 'guide'; cf. 1, 33.—immensi: 1, 74, omne immensum. Wakef. quotes Justin, 41, 1, 11, non immensa tantum ac profunda camporum. —profundi: the contents of all space; 1, 1002 n.

1096. indu: 1, 82 n.—moderanter: dw. Ley. in class. Latin; cf. on 1, 323.—habenas: Cic. Lael. 45, quam laxissimas habenas amicitiae; Aen. 7, 600, rerum reliquit habenas.

1097. caelos: the various heavens accompanying each earth. Caelus occurs in Enn. Ann. 546 and in Petronius. The plural—always masc.—is mainly ecclesiastical and a Hebraism.

1098. terras: here a literal plural.—suffire, 'warm,' is unexampled; cf. 4, 1175.

1099. inve: here only in L.; should we therefore write inque with old vulgate?

1100. tenebras faciat: 6, 410, cur tenebras ante et fremitus et murmura concit? —caeli serena: 1, 340 n.; Ter. Eun. 589, at quem deum! qui templa caeli summa sonitu concutit. The thunder is produced in the clouds and affects the heaven; 6, 96, 387.

1101. sonitu: 'thunder'; 6, 99, 131, 285, etc.—aedis: 6, 417, cur sancta deum delubra suasque | discutit infesto praeclaras fulmine sedes. An historical example is given in Livy, 28, 11; and Lact. Inst. 3, 17, quoting this passage, says, Capitolium quod est Romanae urbis et religionis caput summum non semel sed saepius fulmine ictum conflagravit; and quotes also (Cic. De Consulatu in Div. 2, 45), ipse suos quondam tumulos ac templa petivit.

1102. disturbet: 5, 119, disturbent moenia mundi. —deserta: 1, 164 n.; 6, 396, cur etiam loca sola petunt.

1104. indignos: Hor. S. 2, 2, 103; cur eget indignus quisquam. —inque merentes: 3, 343 n.; Hor. C. 3, 2, 29, saepe Diespiter | neclectus incesto addidit integrum; Sen. Thy. 1081, manuque non qua tecta et immeritas domos | telo petis minore.

1105–1143. 'Since the world began much has been added to it from without, and finally it will reach the limit of its growth and begin to decay, when it loses more than it gains.'

1105. mundi tempus genitale: 5, 65, mortali consistere corpore mundum | nativisque.

1106. primigenum occurs also in Avienus, Arat. 13.—coortum: 1, 689 n.

1107. extrinsecus: from infinite space.

1108. iaculando: 'tossing'; 1, 1024, nulla modis multis mutata per omne | ex infinito vexantur percita plagis, etc.—omne is subject; cf. on 1, 74.

1109. unde: from the atoms.

1110. appareret spatium: 'might amplify its expanse.' Appario apparenti occurs nowhere else.—caeli domus: 6, 358, concutitur caeli domus; Prop. 3, 5, 26, quis deus hanc mundi temperet arte domum; Aen. 10, 1, domus omnipotentis Olympi. Caeli modifies spatium also: 4, 202, caeli spatium; 6, 452, in caeli spatio; 820, spatium caeli.

1111. terris: 5, 490, altaque caeli | densebant procul a terris fulgentia templa.

1112. plagis: 1, 1025.

1113. saecula: 'classes,' as earth, fire, etc. Notice the judicious passive distribuuntur.

1114. umor: sc. recedit. He means the atoms suitable for forming water. There is, then, a reference to the four elements. M. quotes Empedocles, 270 (p. 196, 37 D.): τυπλ δ' αὐξήσεται τύπον | αἴτει δὲ χθὼν μὲν σφέτερος δέμας, αἰθέρα δ' αἰθήρ.

1115. aetheraque aether: M. Giuss. Bail.; aether was added by Flor. 31; aeraque aer Lachm.; Br., who maintains non licuit aera silentio praeterire, and Lachm., that there is no difference between aether and ignis. But L. is here speaking as a poet, like Empedocles: cf. on 1, 250.—procudunt: 5, 856, procudere prolem; 3, 1081 n.

1116. donique: also in 5, 708, 723; 997, e coni. The form seems confined to L.; instead of the older form donicum, from which donique and donec were shortened. Notice donec, 1130. Lindsay, L.L. 610, thinks L. may have coined donique after the analogy of nec and neque. See Draeger, § 508, and M.'s note on the possible later occurrence of donique in post-class. Latin.—extremam finem: Lachm., edd.; extremum, OQ. This is the only place where finis is masc. in L. in the MSS.; cf. on 1, 555. Perhaps crescendi ad perfica should be written.—perfica is cited only from Arnobius and L. here; 'with finishing hand,' M.

1117. perduxit: potuisset . . . perducere saecula propago, 5, 1027.—creatrix: 1, 629 n.

1118. At maturity income and outgo are equal.

1119. venas: cf. 1125.

1120. hic: Christ, edd.; cf. 1089 and 1121; his, OQ, Lachm.—aetas: 'life-growth,' M.; cf. 1, 555. On L.'s physiology see Martha, 253.

1121. natura: i.e. gubernans.—refrenat: cf. on 283.

1122. hilaro: a Plautine form; hilar, OQ; the older form is more likely to be Lucretian; 3, 714 n.—grandescere: 1, 191 n.—adauctu: 296 n.

1123. gradus aetatis: Quint. 3, 7, 15.

1124. adsumunt: 4, 1001, cibus atque humor membris adsumitur intus.

1125. inditur, OQ, edd.; diditur Lamb. Goebel, Br. Inditur occurs nowhere else in L., while diditur is frequent; cf. 6, 946, and 1136 below; but L. likes variety.

1126. dispessa: M. edd.; cf. 3, 988, dispessis membris; dispersa, OQ, Lachm.

1127. dispendi faciant: commercial metaphor; here only in L. 'The single i in dactylic poets occurs only when the double i is impossible,' Maas, Archiv 12, 510. Cf. on 1, 313.—vescitur aetas: i.e. than what life uses as means of subsistence.

1128. fluere atque recedere: cf. 1119; 4, 695; 4, 860, quippe etenim fluere atque recedere corpora rebus. For the infinitives see on 3, 766.

1129. Note the alliteration.—manus dandum est: 1043 n. and 1, 111 n.

1130. alescendi: here only in L. : used also by Varro. — cacumen: 'pitch'; 5, 1457, ad summum donec venere cacumen.

1131. inde minutatim: 5, 710, 725, 1293, 1384. — vires occurs in L. 4 times, in Virgil 15; viris, L. 12 times, in V. 11; Keller, Zur lat. Sprachgesch. 2, 316. Vires et robur, Tac. H. 1, 87; robur viresque, Georg. 3, 235; roburque virium, Livy, 27, 46; see Kraetsch, 37. — robur adultum: 4, 1038, adulta aetas, cum pri- mum roboret artus.

1132. peiorum: here only in L. — liquitur: Arn. 2, 16, morborum incommodita- tibus frangimur et senectutis destruimur tibi, quoted by Wakef.

1133. augmine adempto: cf. 188. — The involved construction is Lucretian. Cartault, augmen adepta.

1134. in cunctas undique partis: 1, 1007 n.

1135. modō: 941 n. In the meaning 'directly' or 'straightway' it is uncommon. Perhaps it means 'merely,' as Lee thinks. — dispargit: 3, 539 n.; 6, 922, fluere ac mitti spargique necessest | corpora. — a se, OQ, and in 4, 1122, a stirpe; 6, 1047, a saxo. Woltjer, Archiv 11, 250, says there are 18 cases of ab and 4 of a before s; 16 of ab before s purum, exceptions 2, 1135; 6, 925, 1047; before s impurum 6, 720; 4, 1122, 288; cf. Archiv 11, 477, and Hertz, Praep. 2. Ab se. Lachm. M. Bail.

1136. ei: prosaic; 3, 556 n.

1137. proquam: 3, 199 n. — exaestuat aestus: 6, 816, hos igitur tellus omnis exaestuat aestus, | expiratque foras. The transitive verb is rare. Aestus of atomic exhalations occurs in the sixth book.

1138. tantum: sc. cibi; it is correlative to proquam. — suboriri: 1, 1036 n. — subpeditare: 3, 10 n.; and for the repeated preposition see on 1, 559.

1139. iure: cf. 426 and 3, 963. — igitur . . . quandoquidem: this order is defended by 1, 295; 2, 963, 1084; 3, 455, 470, 830, as noticed by Woltjer, Mnem. 25, 318. — fluendo: cf. 1135.

1140. externis plagiis: ictibus externis, 1, 1055. — omnia: subject in minor clause; 1, 15 n.

1141. grandi aevo: cf. 1164. — cibus: cf. 1, 1038 sq.

1142. tuditantia: 'hammering'; cf. 1, 1044, cudere enim crebro possunt partem- que morari. See on 3, 394.

1143. infesta goes with corpora: cf. dies infesta, 3, 899.

1144–1174. 'This same principle holds with all that lives in the world. Even now the earth is weak and exhausted; it brings forth with difficulty what it once produced generously; the husbandman mourns over his lost labors, because all tends to the exhaustion of death.'

1144. moenia mundi: 1, 73 n.

1145. dabunt labem: 6, 801, des ruinas; Aen. 2, 310, dedit ruinam; 1, 288 n. 5, 347, darent late cladem magnasque ruinas.

1146–1149 were transferred to follow 1138 by Goebel, M., and Bailey; Br., after Kannengiesser, leaves them after 1145 in brackets, and places 1141 after 1138, reading 1138, 1141–1143, 1139, 1140, 1144, etc. Woltjer, Mnem. 25, 319, objects to any change: omnia includes the world as well as other things. Giuss. keeps the Ms. order, bracketing 1146–1149, but he thinks the ancient order was 1121, 1146–1149.

1139 sq. Hörschelmann, 25, places 1141 between 1138 and 1146; general discussion by van d. Valk, 133 sq. The necessity for transposition does not seem to have been proved.

1146. integrare: 1, 1032 n.

1147. fulcire: 4, 867, capitur cibus ut suffulciat artus; and Bentl. on Hor. S. 2, 3, 154. Gif. rejected this verse.—(cibus): Voss, edd.

1148. nequiquam: 4, 464 n.—perpetiuntur: 'endure (to receive) what is sufficient'; an uncommon usage. (There may be corruption here.)

1149. ministrat: cf. 5, 297, ardore ministro.

1150. adeo goes with iam, 'now verily'; cf. Aen. 2, 567; 5, 268 (M.).—fracta: cf. 1131–1132.—effeta: 5, 826, sed quia finem aliquam pariendi debet habere | destitit (terra), ut mulier spatio defessa vetusto. Col. 2, 1, falsamque sententiam repudiaverim censemtum longo aevi situ longinqui iam temporis exercitatione fatigatam et effetam humum consensisse; id. 1, 1.

1151. There is a facsimile of Schedae Vindob. 2, 1151–3, 66 in Chatelain, Paléographie.—animalia parva: such as vermiculi, 899.

1152. dedit: cf. Aen. 12, 69, talis virgo dabat ore colores and Landgraf in Jahrb. 125, 469. Wakef. comp. Aen. 1, 274, geminam partu dabit Ilia prolem.—ferarum ingentia corpora: eg. elephants; cf. 537.—Georg. 1, 497, grandiaque effossis mirabitur ossa sepulchris.

1153. mortalia saecula: for generations of men; 5, 1169, 1238, etc.—superne: 1, 496 n. It is equivalent to desuper here and in 1, 1105; 4, 173; 6, 254; 3, 893.

1154. demisit: 'send down a rope' is sailor-English; 6, 257, ut picis e caelo demissum flumen.—funis: Gell. 13, 21, 21 quotes this line to show fem. gen. of funis.—Hom. Θ 19, σερφή χρωεῖν δὲ οὐπαρθένες κρείσαρτες. — Probably the golden chain was a Stoic allegory of some kind. Lee quotes Tennyson, 'For so the whole round world is every way | Bound with gold chains about the feet of God'; and Wordsworth, 'A lasting link in Nature's chain, | From highest heaven let down.'

1155. crearunt: sc. saecla.

1156. tellus: again metr. gr. 5, 805, tum tibi terra dedit primum mortalia saecula.—alit ex se: 5, 322, nam quodcumque alias ex se res auget alitque.

1157. nitidas fruges vinetaque laeta: cf. 994; segetes v. l., 5, 1372.

1158. sponte sua: Georg. 1, 127, ipsaque tellus | omnia liberius nullo poscente ferebat.

1159. fetus: 1, 193 n.—pabula laeta: 1, 14 n.

1160. grandescunt: 1, 191 n.

1161. conterimus . . . conficimus: transposed by Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 136. Agricolarum, conficimus, Lachm. M. Bail.; a. c., Orelli, Br. Giuss.

1162. suppeditati: OQ, M.; 'we are sufficient,' but this is unexampled; †Bail.; suppeditat iam, Christ, Br. (cf. Phil. 25, 90), Woltjer in Serta Romana, Giuss.; suppeditat vi, Siebelis; ferri vix arvis suppeditati vis, Bergk; ferro vix arvis suppedanti, Roos; suppetiati, Ellis, J. Phil. 7, 259, comp. Cic. Att. 14, 18, 2; ferrum: vix . . . suppeditati usque . . ., Cartault, 12. M. hesitates between 'our wants scarcely supplied by the tilled lands,' and 'we are scarcely supplied in sufficient numbers,' cf. 6, 1066. Br. insists that a deponent suppeditari is impossible; but all the conjectures proposed are inadmissible. Cf. on 3, 10. Cic. Fin. 2, 111, quibus (bestiis) ipsa terra

fundit ex se pastus varios atque abundantes nihil laborantibus, nobis autem aut vix aut ne vix quidem suppetunt multo labore quaerentibus.

1163. parcunt: sc. arva. It is ante-class. with acc.; see lex.—laborem: Pius, Goebel, Br. Woltjer, Giuss. Bail.; a necessary correction; cf. 1160; labore, OQ, Lachm. M.

1164. iamque: and things have gone so far that, etc.; cf. 1150.—caput quassans: Aen. 7, 292, tum quassans caput haec effundit pectore dicta, and Forbiger there.—grandis suspirat: 3, 952, grandior . . . si . . . queratur.

1165. There is a facsimile of O, 2, 1166–3, 9, and of Q, 2, 1165–3, 40 in Chatelain.—incassum: 1060 n. Sen. Brev. Vit. 11, quam incassum omnis labor ceciderit cogitant; Plaut. Poen. 360, omnia incassum cadunt; Tacitus avoided the phrase (Archiv 2, 14).—magnum: OQ, Br.; manuum, Voss, edd.—laborem: Goebel, Br. and early edd.; labores, OQ, M. Giuss. Bail. Manuum labores was a reminiscence from the Bible (Gen. 31, 42; Psalm 127, 2; Tobit 2, 19).

1166. temporibus: dative. For the juxtaposition see on 1, 358.

1167. laudat: Hor. AP. 173, laudator temporis acti | se puero.

1168. Alliteration (vvv); here pathetic, cf. 5, 993.—vitis sator: Col. RR. 3, 15, satoris officium est . . . vitem totam exputare.—vietae: Heins. edd.; fatigat, OQ; see on 3, 385. Pius and Orelli, fatiscens. The supplement must necessarily be uncertain. Lamb. rejected this and the following verse.

1169. momen caelumque: edd.; nomen saeculumque, OQ. Postgate, Cl. R. 14, 353, proposes mores saeculumque.—momen: 3, 144 n.—fatigat: 4, 1239, divom numen fatigant, cf. Tac. H. 1, 29.—Pascal, Riv. 31, 556, points out an imitation of the close of the second book in Cyprian, ad Demetrianum, 3 (1, 353 ed. Hartel).

1170. 1170–1172 were transferred to follow 1167 by Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 319, and Goebel, Polle, M. Br. Giuss. Bail. Kannengiesser, Phil. 43, 536, regarded them as a later form of 1166 sq., and hence thought they should not be transposed, and Woltjer, Mnem. 25, 321, saw no valid reason for the transfer. It is Lucretian that the complaints of the farmer and vine-dresser should be approximately equal, and there is a climax in caelumque fatigat of the latter.—crepat: Hor. Ep. 1, 7, 83, ‘fit rusticus atque | sulcos et vineta crepat mera.’

1171. tolerarit: Caes. BG. 7, 77, vitam toleraverunt.—Manius Curius maintained that the possession of more than 7 iugera (=3½ acres) was dangerous to society. Latisundia perdidere Italianum, Pliny, NH. 18, §§ 35 and 18.

1172. Note the alliteration.—modus: Hor. S. 2, 6, 1, modus agri non ita mag- nus; Cic. Flacc. 80, magnum agri modum.

1173. tenet: 3, 649 n.—ire: 3, 526 n.

1174. copulum: edd.; scopulum, O, which Lamb. explained of a shipwreck, Salmasius as equivalent to metam or scopum; also Bergk, Jahrb. 83, 500; they comp. Suet. Dom. 19. Copulus was probably vulgar Latin for ferestrum; cf. Serv. on Aen. 11, 64. Copulum, Q.—aestatis . . . vetusto: 3, 774 n.

BOOK III

1-30. Praise of Epicurus as father and guide, whose philosophy has banished fear and made Nature intelligible.—Epicurus is praised also in 1, 66 sq.; 5, 1-13; 3, 1042; 6, 1 sq.

1. E: 'out from,' i.e. 'amid'; cf. on 218.—tenebris: the darkness of ignorance and superstition, 91; in tenebris vita iacebat, 5, 175; cf. 2, 15; 5, 11.—tantis: Cic. Sulla, 40, vos denique in tantis tenebris erroris et inscientiae clarissimum lumen menti meae praetulistis; Aug. Civ. Dei, 1, 32, animos miserorum tantis obcaecant tenebris.—clarum lumen: cf. on 1, 144. Lumen is here the source of light, like nocturna lumina, 5, 295; it is the torch of science. Epicurus, hoc enim vestrum lumen est, Cic. Fin. 2, 70. Colotes, VH.<sup>2</sup> 1, 123, ή πάπει, Τίταν, τὰ σκληρά πρα (τέκ)δηγλών, in Usener, Epic., p. 145. Extollere flammam occurs in 6, 699, iubar, 4, 404; Eurip. Medea, 482, ἀνέσχον φῶς αὐτῆποι. In general compare Torquatus in Cic. Fin. 1, 14, quem ego arbitror unum vidisse verum maximeque erroribus hominum animos liberasse et omnia tradidisse quae pertinerent ad bene beataque vivendum.

2. primus: cf. 5, 9, qui princeps vitae rationem invenit; 1, 66, primum Graius homo mortalis tollere contra | est oculos ausus primusque obsistere contra. Giuss. thinks primus means primus inlustrire commoda vitae, a justifiable statement; but the ascription in 9 cannot be so defended. On the general question see Introduction, p. 40.—inlustrire: strictly applicable to the torch, not to the torchbearer; sol omnia lustrans, 6, 737; sol illustrat oras, Hor. C. 4, 14, 5.—commoda vitae: cf. 937 and Catull. 68, 21, tu mea tu moriens frigisti commoda; Ov. ex P. 1, 8, 29. The expression was in common use; see Reid on Cic. Acad. 2, 23. 'Make Life's Benefits appear,' Stanley quaintly translates (Hist. Phil., p. 544). Commoda = 'res quae commoda sunt vitae, quae pertinent ad beate beneque vivendum,' Bock. Epic. distinguishes between δύαδα and αυτιφέροντα; 4, 1074, sed potius quae sunt sine poena commoda sumit, and 6, 26, exposuitque bonum summum quo tendimus omnes | quid foret.

3. Graiae: on 1, 66. Virgil regards Graius as the epic word.—decus: Aen. 11, 508, O decus Italiae virgo. Heinze thinks Epicurus is not named because the mention of a name would have been trivial.—inquo: 314, 826; 2, 78, etc.; so L. has perque, 587; eque, 1, 37; but in terraqe, 1, 1059; 6, 398; ex unoque, 2, 664; in caeloque, 5, 1188; de terraque, 6, 884. In classical prose -que is ordinarily added to monosyllabic prepositions only when the prep. is repeated; Kühner LG. 113, Dr. Synt. 314, Lex., que, vii; Archiv 13, 195.—nunc: monosyllabic ending of the hexameter is not uncommon in L.; cf. 8, 17, 29, etc.; 39 times in Book 3, res and vis occurring most frequently. The canon of polysyllabic close was established after L.; clausula unius syllabae non usitata, Quint. 8, 3, 20. The accented syllables of the fifth and sixth feet agree with the word accent in the developed hexameter; see L. Müller, RM., 219; Meyer, Hex. 1035. The underlying principle is a matter of debate; cf. Havet, Métrique, 59, Edmiston, APA. 34, xxviii. Manitius, Rh. M. 46, 622, found in 7392 verses in Bernay's recension 278 monosyllables (113 improper, i.e. two monosyllables) making the proportion of strict monosyll. endings, 1 to 45; in Catullus the proportion is 1 to 122; in Virgil 1 to 293; in Horace 1 to 26; in Ovid 1 to 1748; in Juv. 1 to 32. This shows that, excepting satiric poetry, the use decreased; it increased again in the Christian Latin. La Roche, Wiener St. 19, 9, counted 271 monosyll. endings in L. and 115 in two monosyllables; the variation from Manitius is due to difference in the text. The word and verse accent conflicts in the fifth and sixth feet 142 times in Horace's Satires, 90 in his Epistles, and only 12 in the Georgics. (Thompson, APA. 23, lx).

4. ficta: archaic for fixa, 'firmly fixed'; the literal meaning is rare. Ficta occurs in Varro, RR. 3, 7, 4, confictus in Scaurus, defictus in Varro, id. 3, 7, 7. Cartault, 117, thinks ficta is from fingo, although Diomedes KGL. 1, 377, testifies to fictus and fixus from figo. — Cic. Sest. 13, vestigia non pressa leviter . . . sed fixa. — pedum vestigia occurs also in 389, in Cicero's poem on his consulship, quoted in Div. 1, 20, and in Aen. 11, 573. — vestigia: 5, 55, cuius ego ingressus vestigia dum rationes | persequor; of a cow, 2, 356, pedibus vestigia pressa bisulcis, cf. 6, 27; Aen. 6, 159, paribus curis vestigia figit; Ov. M. 3, 17, subsequitur, pressoque legit vestigia gressu; Tac. H. 4, 81, ut pede ac vestigio Caesaris calcaretur orabat. — pono: cf. 390; 4, 342; Ov. M. 2, 871, pedum vestigia ponit in undis; Hor. S. 2, 6, 101, ponit umerque | in locuplete domo vestigia; Hor. Ep. 1, 19, 21, libera per vacuum posui vestigia princeps, | non aliena meo pressi pede; Petron. 126, ne vestigia quidem pedum extra mensuram aberrantia. — signis: Ov. M. 4, 543, secutae signa pedum.

5. Epicurus need fear no rivalry. — non ita . . . quam: 4, 1147; non tam . . . quam is more common. — certandi cupidus = quod cupio certare, corresponding to quod aveo: Livy 42, 5, 6, seu mutationis rerum cupidi seu quia; id. 9, 6, 4, incerti . . . et quod.

6. te imitari: for elision see on 1, 136. L. does not pretend to independence in material, but in form and style; Epicuri enim sunt omnia quae delirat Lucretius, says Lactantius de Opific. Dei 6. — aveo . . . hirundo: the assonance is probably unintentional; similar case-endings rhyme frequently, as in 55, 60; in 934 indulges . . . fles occurs. Virgil was more careful: cf. tuens . . . serpens, L. 5, 33 with Georg. 3, 149 and Aen. 9, 794. Cf. Birt, Hist. Hex., 50; Wölfflin, Archiv 1, 352 sq. — contendat: sc. cantu probably, not volatu. Theoc. 5, 136, οὐδὲ πεπτός, Λάκων, τορ' ἀγθόντα κλοσας ἐπλόειν | οὐδὲ έπωτας κύκνοισι. L. nowhere else uses the interrogative in comparisons; Feustell, 40.

7. cycnis: a poetical dative introduced by Catull. and L.; Prop. 1, 14, 7 ista meo valeant contendere amori. Brenous, Hellenismes, 145, maintains that it is a гречизм: est Graecum pugno tibi, nam nos tecum dicimus; Serv. on Aen. 4, 38. Jessen (QL. 17) proposes lusciniis aut quid; Q has cintiis, O cyniis. L. compares his song to the swan's in 4, 181, 910; as with us, swans, being Μοῦσας ὄρνιθες, δουλοτάραι πετενηών (Call. Del. 252), had a conventional but undeserved reputation, V. Ecl. 8, 55, certent et cycnis ululae; but their excellence had been denied, even in antiquity, by Lucian, Aelian, and Pliny; see the discussion in Athen. 9, 49; and Lamb. on Hor. C. 4, 3, 20, Otto, Sprichw. 104. In 2, 505 cynnea mele rank with mellisque sapores. Heinze does not appreciate Roman self-respect in imputing to L. a conscious φωνή βάρβαρος as opposed to that of the Graius homo. — tremulis artibus: in Enn. Ann. 35; artibus infirmis, 1, 260. / For the spelling of artibus cf. on 620.

8. et connects haedi and equi vis. — fortis equi vis: Enn. Ann. 374, sic ut fortis equus, spatio qui saepe supremo | vicit Olympia. Forti equo, Aen. 11, 705, f. equi, Prop. 3, 3, 40; equos fortis in L. 4, 987. Fortis = celeris, according to Nonius, who quotes this passage (4, 306); but it rather = validus in contrast to tremulis. Fortis equi vis = fortis equus, again in 764; 2, 264, equorum vim cupidam; 6, 1222, fida canum vis; 4, 681, promissa canum vis; Aen. 4, 132, odora canum vis; in this book in 277, 296, 397, 499, etc.; see Spangenberg, 36. Analogous in some degree are Πατρόκλοιο βήν, Homer P 187, Πολυφέννοιο βία, Aesch. Sept. 443; 'Might of Gabriel' in Milton.

9. Giuss. punctuates tu, pater es, rerum inventor, tu thus bringing out the correspondence of pater and patria; but it is inconsistent with L.'s plainness. — pater: pater Chrysippus, Hor. S. 1, 3, 126. It is not a predicate here, but merely a vocative. — inventor: Cic. Fin. 1, 32, quae ab illo inventore veritatis . . . explicabo of Epicurus. Rerum is the philosophic system contained in the praecepta. Stanley, 'From thee, O Father, everything receives Invention.' — patria: adj. as in 260; patriis chartis, 4, 970; voces, 5, 337. Paternal precepts would command a Roman's obedience; Ov. F. 3, 197, indolui, patriamque dedi tibi, Romule, mentem, where also patrius = paternus. — nobis: Epicureans, shading into humanity at large; cf. I, 75.

10. suppeditas: because this is the office of a pater. The verb is transitive in 23; 1, 996; 2, 568; 5, 298; absolute in 1, 1040; 2, 1138; 3, 731; see Meissner, 67. — tuis ex chartis: because he is rerum inventor; L. often follows this order; 1, 22 n. — include: 1, 40 n.

11. Stanley; 'As Bees skip up and down and sweetly suck | In flowery Groves we Golden Sayings pluck.' The comparison was common in Antiquity; see edd. on Hor. C. 4, 2, 27 and cf. Aen. 6, 707, Georg. 4, 54. — floriferis: a word perhaps coined by L., who is fond of such compounds; cf. frondifer, 1, 18; aestifer, 1, 663; laniger, 1, 887; ignifer, 2, 25; **corniger*, 3, 751; semifer, 2, 702; **senifer*, 3, 240; **falcifer*, 3, 642; horriser, 3, 1012; signifer, 5, 691; lucifer, 5, 726; **barbiger*, 5, 900; glandifer, 5, 939; mortifer, 6, 819; **rorifer*, 6, 864; squamiger, 1, 162; **sacriger*, 5, 970; **spuniger*, 5, 985. Those starred occur first in L. Stoltz, Hist. Gram. 1, 373, says that before the death of L. and Catull. there were 31 forms in -fer and 16 in -ger; Ovid invented 29 in -fer and 9 in -ger; Virgil 12 in -fer and 2 in -ger; Horace avoided them. There are in the entire literature about 170 compounds in -fer and 80 in -ger (Weise, Character. d. lat. Sprache, 91). — libant: edd.; limant, OQ; Ov. M. 10, 653, celeri pede libet arenam.

12. For the repetition aurea dicta | aurea (called ἐπαναστροφή, ἀναστροφή, ἀντιτονή = revocatio) cf. 4, 789, mollia membra movere | mollia; 5, 298, ignibus instant, | instant; 5, 950, umida saza, | umida; 2, 955; 5, 1189, 1327. Examples from various literatures are given by Grasberger, 36, and Hertzberg, Propert. 1, p. 109 sq. A dactylic word naturally would be found in the 5th and 1st feet; a trochaic word would be repeated from the 6th; Ov. F. 4, 483, clamat, | clamat; see Wölfflin, Gemination, 431. The φωνα, or dicta, of Epicurus remind one of the χρυσά ἔπη of Pythagoras. — depascimur: pascuntur of bees, Georg. 4, 181.

13. aurea, 'all golden, I say,' and hence dignissima. — perpetua vita: p. aevo, 5, 161. — aurea perpetua dignissima vita: L. is fond of thus interlocking words (synchysis); in 20, 124–125, 292, 345, and often. — semper is joined to adsiduo in 1, 995, to aeterna 5, 325. — dignissima: cf. 322. — vita: i.e. in the mouths of men.

14. nam: the praise is justified, for, etc. — ratio, 'reasoning,' 'doctrine,' 'philosophy,' as in 1, 54; rationes vitae, 1, 105; rationem v., 5, 9; r. verissima, 6, 80; rationem vivendi quaerere, Sen. Dial. 8, 2; Epicuri ratio, Cic. Fin. 1, 13. — coepit: tantum esse satis admonere, Cic. Fin. 1, 30; coepit thus has independent force. For the verse ending cf. posit conglomerari, 210; pentasyllabic endings also in 26, 54, 71, 83, 131, 148, etc.; see on 1, 251. — vociferari, 'utter forth clearly,' used of the poem of Empedocles, 1, 732; of the facts of nature, 2, 1051; of the creak of hinges, 2, 450. Epicurus' gospel cries aloud for reception. Clamare and βοῶντα are often said of Epicurus; Cic. Fin. 1, 57; 2, 23, 51; ND. 1, 86; Athen. 7, 280 a.

15. naturam rerum, 'nature'; cf. on Title. — divina mente, 'the divine intellect' of Epicurus; so divini pectoris, 1, 731, of Empedocles; deus ille fuit, 5, 8, of Epic., who even in his lifetime received nearly divine worship. Colotes fell at his feet in reverence, and Metrodorus speaks of the god-revealing sacramental service (orgia) of Epicurus (Wallace, 70). — Cic. Cons. 2, Fr. 10, divina mente notata. — coorta, 'arising from,' Orelli, edd.; coortam O, Bergson; coartam Q; 6, 579, vis . . . aut extrinsecus aut ipsa tellure coorta. Jessen thinks reperta should be read instead, which likewise occurs frequently at the end of the line.

16. Ιαρκή μὲν σώματος νόσους ἀκέται, σοφῆ δὲ ψυχὴν παθεῖν ἀπαιρέται, said Democritus, Mullach, 80. (Epicurum) quem ego arbitror unum vidisse verum maximisque erroribus animos hominum liberavisse, Cic. Fin. 1, 14; sapientia est sola quae nos a formidinibus terrore vindicet, id. 46. Deis ille clamat omnium mortaliū mentes esse perterritas, ND. 1, 86. And Virgil, Georg. 2, 490, felix qui potuit rerum cognoscere causas, | atque metus omnis et inexorabile fatum | subiecit pedibus strepitumque Acherontis avari. — moenia mundi: 1, 73 n. The φυσιολογία removes terror by explaining natural phenomena.

17. discedunt, 'open'; discedere caelum, Aen. 9, 20; discessisse caelum, Cic. Div. 1, 99; the uncommon primary meaning. — geri res, 'the working of things'; cf. 27. — Natura gerit res, 1, 328; 2, 242; qua ratione quaque geri possint, 6, 60. Gero is a favorite word with L. to express this administration of cosmic forces.

18. Note the effect of the spondees and the logical succession diffugunt 16, discedunt 17, apparet 18. Cruttwell (RL. 228) says that this description is perhaps the most beautiful in Latin poetry. — sedes: 5, 146, non est ut possis credere sedes | esse deum sanctas in mundi partibus ullis; these abodes of the gods were in the μετακόσμια = intermundia, as Cicero translates. — quietae: nisi quietum autem nihil beatum est, Cic. ND. 1, 52. Aen. 1, 205, sedes ubi fata quietas | ostendunt. L. 2, 646, divom natura necessit | immortali aevo summa cum pace fruatur | semota ab nostris rebus. 'Nor ever falls the least white star of snow, | Nor ever lowest roll of thunder moans, | Nor sound of human sorrow mounts to mar | Their everlasting calm'; Tennyson, Lucr. 'Philodemus imagined the gods to be a society of Epicurean philosophers who have everything that they can desire—everlasting life, no care and perpetual opportunities of sweet converse'; Zeller, Stoics, etc., 468.

19. Hom. 5 43, of Olympus, οὐδὲ φασὶ θεῶν έδος ἀσφαλὲς αἰεὶ | έμενεται· οὐδὲ

ἀνέμοισι τινάσσεται, οὐτε ποτ' ὑμέρῳ | δεύεται, οὐτε χιὼν ἐπικλίνεται · ἀλλὰ μόλις
αἴθρῃ | πέπταται ἀνέφελος, λευκὴ δὲ ἐπιδέδρομεν αἰγλη | τῷ δὲ τέρπονται μάκαρες θεοὶ ἥματα τάντα. — neque . . . nec . . . neque occur also in 517-518; 5, 129;
neque . . . neque . . . nec, 243-244; neque . . . nec . . . nec, 1, 68; 6, 1250-1251;
neque twice, nec . . . neque twice, 631-632; neque . . . nec, 467, 686-687, 711-712, 894-895; nec . . . neque, 252, 383; nec . . . nec . . . neque, 785-786, 337-338; there are other combinations also; L. does not seem to follow any law in his use. — nubila: on 1, 6.

20. acri: ‘biting.’ — concreta, ‘congealed.’ Cf. 4, 133, ut nubes facile interdum concrescere in alto | cernimus et mundi speciem violare serenam; the word is used of melted metal in 5, 1257, and of anything which is brought together through natural growth or exterior force. The construction appears from 5, 798, et calido solis concreta vapore; other pass. part. of intransitive verbs are suela, 2, 448; consueta, 5, 208; adultae, 2, 1123. Georg. 2, 376, frigora nec tantum cana concreta pruina.

21. cana cadens, ‘with hoary fall,’ M., comparing Georg. 4, 370, saxosusque sonans Hypanis; Aen. 8, 559, inxpletus lacrimans, where Serv. remarks ‘nomen pro adverbio.’ Cana is a standing epithet of nix; Blümner, Farben, 79. ‘The island valley of Avilion | Where falls not hail nor rain nor any snow | Nor ever wind blows loudly’; Tennyson, Passing of Arthur. — que, ‘but,’ after the negative; 2, 50; 5, 325; cf. 3, 411, 882; Madvig LG. 433, 2. — innubilus, ἀπ. λεγ. = ἀνέφελος. — aether: here Homeric rather than Lucretian; ‘the daylight is serene’; largior hic campos aether et lumine vestit, Aen. 6, 640; 5, 500, liquidissimus aether; 1, 231 n.

22. integrit: cf. intectas, 1, 405. Integer ridit, Wakef. — large: 2, 806, larga cum luce repleta est. — diffuso: 1, 9, nitet diffuso lumine caelum. — rident: sc. sedes; so aequora ponti, 1, 8. Rident, Lachm. mod. edd.; ridet, OQ, retained by Giuss., who compares 1, 9; but 1, 8 defends rident, which the scribe here made singular to agree with integrit. Wakef. comp. Chaucer, Knights Tale, 1495, ‘And fyry Phebus ryseth up so bright, | That all the orient laugheth of the light.’

23. suppeditat: sc. illis. Giuss. notices the absence of the pronouns, which may be intentional; men, too, may live as gods. — porro, ‘too.’ — natura, ‘the natural order of things’; 1, 216 n. The gods are examples of eternal peace, with no wants, since these would disturb their calm; yet Nature supplies their needs, and since they are anthropomorphic with bodies (5, 154), the bodies must necessarily demand attention, which in turn calls for the support that nature gives.

24. animi pacem: Ovid, M. 11, 624, calls sleep pax animi quem cura fugit. — delibat: 6, 70, delibata deum per te tibi numina sancta | saepe oberunt. — tempore in: the preposition is not really necessary and was probably inserted here for metrical convenience; cf. 114, 863; Hertz, 65. In follows the noun in 140, 390, 463, 483, 506, 590, 640; cf. on 1, 26.

25. apparent, ‘are visible’ to the mental sight of a disciple of Epicurus. In 1, 878 the word is opposed to latitare. There are no abodes of the departed. — Acherusia templa: also in 1, 120; 3, 86. Templa means ‘spaces’ or ‘quarters’; see lex. for its connexion with the science of augury; 1, 1014, caeli templa, and often. Ennius, Sc. 107, Acherusia tempia alta Orci; Pacuvius, 309, scrupea saxa Bacchi tem-

pla; Accius, 529, Volcania templa; Plaut. Mil. 413, locis Neptuniis templisque turbulentis. Acheron may be connected with Hebrew 'axaron, 'the west,' the place of the going down of the sun (Muss-Arnolt, APA, 23, 56).

26. nec: there is no obstruction to the vision of the mind, hence the earth creates no obstacle; ratio obstantia omnia pervadit. — tellus is often used by the hexameter poets where terra would be metrically impossible or inconvenient. — dispiciantur, 'seen clearly.' 26–27 were bracketed by Br. Woltjer, Mnem. 24, 323, quotes Epic. Sent. 13 in DL, 10, 143, οὐδὲν δέρλος ἡν τὴν κατ' ἀνθρώπους δοφάλειαν κατασκευάζεται τῶν ἀνθρώπων ἀνθεστάτων καὶ τῶν ὑπὸ γῆς καὶ ἀπλῶς τῶν ἐν τῷ ἀνθρώπῳ, where τὰ ἀνθρώπων = moenia mundi; τὰ ἐν τῷ ἀνθρώπῳ = totum per inane res; τὰ ὑπὸ γῆς = sub pedibus quaeque . . . geruntur. Woltjer thinks that 23 and 24 are a later addition, and that 18–22, 25–27, is a neater arrangement. Giuss. keeps 26–27, because something is needed to balance 25, so that the reader may not place 17 sq. in opposition to it.

27. infra is hardly necessary; cf. foras, 591; deorsum, 1016.

28. ibi: Pont., edd.; ubi, OQ; tibi, Junt. Lamb. Br. (see Phil. 27, 28), which does not harmonize with tua; sub, Winck. Bock. Heinze would have ibi correlative with simul ac in 14, but that is too far away; it is rather the conclusion to this part of the prooemium. Eo tum tempore occurs in 863. — divina is not merely complementary; cf. 15.

29. horror, 'awe,' such as Proculus Julius felt at seeing Romulus; perfusus horrore venerabundus adstisset, Livy, 1, 16, 7. Stat. Theb. 1, 493, laetusque per artus | horror iit; Petr. 83, Protagonis rudimenta . . . non sine quodam horrore trac-tavi. — tua vi: tui ingenii viribus; in the introduction to Book 5 the services of Epicurus are compared with the mighty labors of Hercules.

30. patens reecta est: L. often joins a participle (usually perfect) to a verb of kindred meaning; so 335–336, 429, 439, 539, 920, 940. For the two secondary predicates, cf. cana cadens, 21; ita reecta ut tam manifesta pateat, Bock. — reecta, 'unveiled'; Voltaire, Épître, 43, 'Le compas de Newton mesurant l'univers, lève enfin ce grand voile, et les cieux sont ouverts'; quoted by Patin, Poésie Latine, 1, 204.

31–33. Plan of the third book: the explanation of the nature of the soul and the dislodging of the fear of death,—a fear which is apparent in the conduct of men, although they think at times that they are released therefrom.

31. docui: the didactic purpose of the poem is shown not only by the frequent use of this word (423, 426, 500, 522), but by expressions like cognoscere possis, 117; tu percipe dicta, 135; tibi pergam rationem reddere, 178; o bone, 206; crede, 437; invenies, 4, 478; tu mihi da tenuis auris, 4, 912. The special reference here is to the doctrine contained in the first and second books. — exordia: cf. 380; cunctarum exordia rerum, 2, 333; for the various words for atoms, see on 1, 55. Giussani thinks the original prooemium of Book III began here; otherwise the fear of Acheron would not have been noticed twice, viz. in 25 and 37; rather 31 sq. introduces the special object of this book, and is the second division of the prooemium.

32 = 2, 334, with longe for variis. — qualia = quam diversa, the meaning being colored by distantia; Aen. 2, 274, qualis erat! quantum mutatus; see Forbiger there. — variis: the atoms have different shapes: hooked, round, pointed, etc. Variis formis occurs in 2, 816, v. figuras, 2, 679. Quapropter longe formas distare necesset principiis, varios quae possint edere sensus, 2, 442. — distantia is a participle.

33. 2, 1055, nullimodis volitent aeterno percita motu. — sponte sua: their motion is self-determined at the start. The expression occurs in 1041 and repeatedly; 1, 214 n. — volitent: 1, 950, solidissima materiali corpora perpetuo volitare invicta per aeum; cf. 2, 380. — percita: p. plagi, of atoms, 1, 1025; 5, 188. The reference is to the discussion at 2, 80 sq.

34. 1, 157, unde queat res quaeque creari. Natura is the creator; 1, 56. — quoque is used for quoque, which would be ambiguous; so 5, 71, 184, 776; see M. on 1, 56. The reference is to the argument in 2, 990 sq. — res quaeque means all material objects taken severally; it is a favorite expression with L., e.g. 1, 536; 2, 68; 4, 225.

35. secundum, 'next in order,' here only in L., — animi is the mind, anima the soul. Aug., CD. 7, 23, quotes Varro's distinction of anima and animus (V. of course was not an Epicurean); 'tres esse adfirmat animae gradus in omni universaque natura: unum qui omnes partes corporis, quae vivunt, transit et non habet sensum sed tantum ad vivendum valetudinem; . . . secundum gradum animae, in quo sensus est; hanc vim pervenire in oculos, aures, nares, os, tactum; tertium gradum esse animae summum, quod vocatur animus, in quo intelligentia praeminet; hoc praeter hominem omnes carere mortales.' Servius on Aen. 10, 487, 'animus consilii est, anima vitae.' Pseud. Fronto de diff. KGL. 7, 531, 'animus qualitas viventis, anima causa vitae'; Pseud. Cic. de diff. KGL. 8, 283, 'anima qua vivimus, animus quo regimur'; Nonius, p. 10 M. 'animus est quo sapimus, anima qua vivimus.' — natura, 'the constitution'; so 161, 167, 175, 208, etc.; 1, 112 n.

36. atque connects animus and anima constantly, for metrical convenience: 10131, 136, 161, etc.; animum animamque, 167, cf. 212, 418. — claranda: 4, 778, multaque nobis clarandum. He likes these forms of cogency: agendum, 37; timendus, 41; fatendum, 166; putandum, 310; habenda, 532; faciendum, 626; cadendum, 836; quaerendum, 909; manenda, 1075. — versibus: so versibus ostendens, 2, 529.

37. ille: the great terror; cf. 1029. — foras: 122, 539, 772; literal in 1060. — praeceps agundus = praecipitandus. Praecipitem dare is more common. — Acheruntis: 6, 763 (ne) post hinc animas Acheruntis in oras | ducere forte deos manis inferne reamur. 'Liberatos enim se per eum dicunt gravissimis dominis, terrore sempiterno et diurno ac nocturno metu. quo terrore? quo metu? quae est anus tam delira quae timeat ista quae vos . . . timeretis? Acherunsia templa,' etc., Cic. Tusc. 1, 48.

38. One of the excellencies of the gods is quod mortis timor haut quemquam vexaret eorum, 5, 1180. — funditus turbat: 5, 1435, commovit funditus. — ab imo: pleonastic also in 1, 993, funditus inum.

39. suffundens: cf. 304; 6, 479, suffundunt caelum caligine. — nigrore, 'sable,' is a poetical word.

40. esse . . . relinquit: poetical for esse sinet; quidvis esse relinquat, 1, 703; Hor. S. 1, 1, 52. — liquidam: Suet. Aug. 95, liquido ac puro sereno. Cic. Fin. 1, 58 calls voluptas liquida. Sellar (370) maintains that L. exaggerated the influence of the fear of death, a confirmation of his living a secluded life.

41. quod: 'whereas'; cf. 2, 532, and on 1, 221. — homines, namely, those who

efer to die rather than suffer disease, to die rather than suffer infamy, who set up popular theory of the mortality of the soul; all of these are shown to be weak ien the test comes. Such men need Epicurus' teaching.

42. infamem: Gellius, 6, 18, 11, says that some persons made infamous by per- y were driven to suicide by the weight of public opinion. Infamy was legally annexed with certain vocations, and was a consequence of conviction for certain mes, such as swindling, embezzlement, etc., and a result of certain dishonorable s (Willems, Droit,<sup>5</sup> 104). Infamous persons had no vote and could not hold ice.—ferunt expresses talk carried about from man to man, often boastfully;

754. The acc. and inf. construction with a definite object is rare: 'quos . . . ferunt illum . . . intulisse,' Cic. Harusp. resp. 20.—Tartara leti: leti is probably a possive gen.: Soph. OC. 1389. Taptápolo tpebos: Georg. 4, 481, 'domus atque intima i | Tartara, and Conington there, who personifies leti; CIG. 5816, els rōv dneidōn- rāprapov 'Atēbew. M. calls it a gen. of quality. For the heteroclite, cf. Ismara opler, 5, 31, and for the case of Tartara, see on 456.

43. animi, O, Br. Heinze, Giuss. Woltjer; animae, Q, Lachm. M. Bail.; cf. 117. olzter, Jahr. 119, 784, compares for the gen. Cic. Div. 1, 98, 'saepe lapidum, san- inis nonnumquam . . . imber defluxit' with Div. 2, 60, 'lapideus aut sanguineus ber.'—animi naturam = animum. L. is very fond of this periphrasis with natura, which occurs 58 times in the poem; cf. 130, 191, 203, 212, 228, etc. Lachm., and olzter, 42, reading animae, regard that as a dative, but L. has the construction cui est natura but once, 2, 817.—sanguinis is gen. of material; Roby, 1304. Impedocles animum esse censem cordi suffusum sanguinem, Cic. Tusc. 1, 19; yet, Heinze says, L. has lay people in mind who looked on blood or breath as the life- element, because life ceases with their loss.

44 (46). venti, i.e. πνεῦμα, ἄρεpos.—fert: 2, 260 n.—ita, 'in that direction.' voluntas: 'fancy,' unscientific indifference as to which error is embraced.—Aen. 675, 'si fert ita corde voluntas.' Lact. Opif. Dei, 17, 'nonnulli (e.g. Anaximenes, Iogenes of Apollonia) animam dixerunt esse ventum, unde anima vel animus nomen cepit, quod Graece ventus ἄρεpos dicitur.' Sailors often call wind air; here we ave the opposite. Wörpel, WKP. 19, 365, would keep the Ms. order, interpreting enti as aurae popularis; Lamb. and others made it inanis gloriae causa. All modern edd. transpose verse 46, with Bentley.

45 (44). nec prosum, 'and not at all'; so 1087: prosum for prorsum, as in 14, introsum, 534, rusum, 1001, 4, 309 (333), rusus, 5, 749; susum does not occur O or Q. Cf. Stoltz, Gr. § 65, 3, b, Hist. Gr. I, § 330; Sommer, 271. Sen. Ep. 1, 7, 'haec quidam putant ipsos etiam sine philosophia repressisse; sed, cum securos iquicun casus expertus est, exprimitur sera confessio.'

46 (43). hinc: for the reasons to be stated in 48 sq.—licet: with the infinitive times, with subj. 8 in the poem.—advertis animum = animadvertis, which is actically confined to prose writers: Thes. 2, 74, 42. L. has animum advertere in 1; 2, 125; 4, 812.—laudis: 'vain glory,' 'brag.' Ciris, 1, 'vario iactatum laudis iore.'

47. res ipsa: the principle that death is better than dishonor and that there is Acheron.—probetur: of conviction by proof; 2, 94, ostendi et certa ratione obatumst.

48. extores: 'extorrem patria, domo, inopem et coopertum miseriis,' Sall. J. 14, 11 (Wakef.). Banishment or exile meant immeasurably more to a Roman than to the cosmopolitans of the present day: Cic. Tusc. 4, 106, 'exsilium quod in maxima miseria ducitur; ' Sen. Dial. 3, 16, 2, 'tibi fortius aliquid et quod sentias inurendum est: in exilium et loca ignota mitteris.' — There is no evidence that Memmius in his exile either gained or desired any comfort from the poem. See Introduction, 24. Extores is usually construed without a preposition; Roby, 1211. — idem = icalem, as in 1, 165. — longe: Cicero was banished 400 miles from Rome.

49. conspectu ex: ex conspectu would have been metrical, and L. frequently begins the verse with a monosyllable. — crimine: crime of which flight was evidence.

50. aerumnis: morbi, vita infamis. The word occurred in 1, 108; it occurs in the early poets and was not common after Cic., who uses it to express aegratudo laboriosa, dolor being agritudo crucians (Tusc. 4, 18). Aerumnas quid opus est? tamquam parum sit, si dicatur labor, Quint. 8, 3, 26. See Krebs-Schmalz, Antibarb. 1, 110. — adfecti: cf. 496, 853, 922. — denique goes with adfecti, introducing the climax; so Heinze, Br., and Creech in his interpretatio; cf. 157; Giuss. takes it with vivunt, i.q. tamen vivunt et parentant. — vivunt, 'they still continue to live;' if their philosophy were sound, they would seek the peace of death; cf. 6, 1208. They agree with Maecenas 'vita dum superest bene est: hanc mihi, vel acuta si sedeant cruce, sustine' (Sen. Ep. 101). Aug. CD. 11, 27, 'unde enim mori metuant et maluant in illa aerumna viveret, quam eam morte finire, nisi quia satis appareret quam refugiat natura non esse?'

51. et . . . tamen: and yet in spite of their professed principles; cf. 103, 267, 923; in 4, 1252, 5, 1006, the words are separated. The expression is elliptical, as with Eng. 'notwithstanding.' — venere: L. uses the ending -ere for metrical convenience; cf. 73, 122, 133. Quint. 1, 5, 44, 'sed quem potius ego, quam M. Tulliam, sequar? qui in Oratore [157] Non reprehendo, inquit, scripsere: scripserunt esse verius sentio; ' see on 1, 291 and Lachm. on 1, 467. But Cicero, in his poetry, has -erunt 4 times and -ere 8 (Peck, APA. 28, 66); he never shortens -erunt. — parentant: it was customary to make offerings at the graves of deceased relatives from time to time, more especially on the anniversary of the death. These superstitious people offer sacrifices elsewhere, wherever they go. The Parentalia (Feb. 18-21) were appointed for observance by the whole people. Such sacrifices were, of course, an acknowledgment of some kind of immortality. Moreover, these departed spirits might work mischief if not placated.

52. nigras, 'diis infernalibus semper nigra offerri debent,' Pseud. Acron, Hor. C. 3, 8, 6. — pecudes: nec maiora veto, says Ovid, F. 2, 541; it was not absolutely necessary to offer sacrifice of animals; parva petunt manes. The supererogation in sacrifice increases the inconsistency of the braggarts. — Georg. 4, 545, inferias Orhei Lethaea papavera mittes | et nigrans mactabis ovem. — manibu' divis: Cic. Legg. 2, 22, deorum manium iura sancta sunt . . . leto datos divos habento. For the apocope, cf. 905, 1016, 1025, etc. This disregard of final s to avoid a cretic was common in the early poets, and is said by Jessen (QL) to occur in L. 77 times; by Bouterwek, 72, 51 at close of the fifth foot, the discrepancy being due to text variation. In the MSS. there are but 43 cases, plus 2 corrupt; there are 35 cases due to emendation in Lachmann's text; Randall, APA. 34, lxvi. L. retains s 98 times (Maurenbrecher, ratus, 103). Cicero, Orat. 161, testifies to the practice as an ancient elegance, which in his day was looked upon as ‘subrusticum’; he had, in his translation of ratus, followed the earlier custom. L. Håvet, L's Latin caduc, 326, noticed that mainly confines his practice to forced prosodies in the fifth, second, and third feet; cf. 1, 454, 662; 2, 54, etc., and 1, 203, 304, 424, etc., where he follows the later usage; his omnibus and rebus are no longer living forms, but archaisms, like aquai. ut in the fourth foot L. occasionally has this license: 3, 905; 4, 1035; 5, 456; 6, 72. He elides most frequently in the dat. abl. ending, occasionally with -us and is, but perhaps not in the third declension nom. of nouns; cf. on 6, 550; even in the first foot quominus occurs in 1, 978. See the list in Jessen, 23 sq., and the discussion by Lachm. on 1, 186; Müller, RM. 344. Seelmann, Aussprache, 361, says that the occurrence in the older inscriptions is almost wholly confined to the -us ending of the nom.—The assonance divis, 52, acerbis, 53, is accidental, but cf. 186–187, 299–300, 888–889, 989–990; 4, 978–981.

53. rebus acerbis: used especially of bereavement; see on 889. Mitto occurs with inferias in Ov. M. 11, 381; usually affero and the like are used.

54. animos: the plural, and the preposition, with advertere are unusual: Thes. 1, 74, 40; 75, 13.

55. dubiis, ‘critical,’ cf. 1076; Sen. Benef. 6, 35, 1, et in dubiis et in adversis et in lactis; dubios casus, Catull. 64, 217.—spectare, ‘judge.’—Crousè quotes Racine: ‘Hommage que toujours rend un coeur effrayé | Au Dieu que jusqu' alors il avait oublié’.

56. convenit: 455, 462; conveniebat, 682.—noscere: ‘ascertain.’—qui sit: his real character: Cic. Fam. 6, 1, 7, qui sim autem hoc tempore intellego; see Reisig, 1, 276. For the double monosyllabic ending cf. 96, 115, 137, etc., and on 3. Three monosyllables close the verse in 4, 33, 234; 5, 279.

57. voces, ‘words,’ occurs in 467; 4, 549; 5, 337. Here it has the additional meaning ‘sentiments,’ as is shown by verae, ‘sincere,’ ‘heartfelt’; 496 n.—tum demum, ‘then only,’ ‘not until then.’—ab is probably pleonastic here to prevent hiatus. Pectore ab imo is a natural expression and occurs in Aen. 1, 485; 6, 55; cf. 2, 288, and Ov. M. 10, 402; Catull. 64, 198, verae nascuntur pectore ab imo. But imo in all authors is usually placed outside of the prep.—Sen. Ep. 82, 5, magna verba excidunt cum tortor poposcit manum, cum mors propius accessit.

58. eliiciuntur, OQ, Bern. and recent edd., voces eliciente deo, Ov. F. 1, 256; eliiciuntur, Lamb. Lachm. M.; 497, eliiciuntur edd., eliiciuntur, OQ; Fronto ad Anton. de Eloquent. 1, latentia (verba) eliciemus.—et, Itali, edd.—eripitur, OQ, edd.; deripitur Br., but eliiciuntur deripitur is contrary to Lucretian rhythm: he permits close of a polysyllabic word at the end of the second foot when the verse begins with a dactyl and spondee or two spondees, only when a monosyll. follows; 3, 527 is an exception for a special reason.—persona: Mart. 3, 43, 3, non omnis fallis, scit te Proserpina canum; | personam capiti detrahet illa tuo. Crousè quotes Rousseau, ‘Le masque tombe, l’homme reste, et le héros s’évanouit.’ Sen. Clem. 1, 1, 6, nemo enim potest personam diu ferre. facta cito in naturam suam recidunt.—manet res, Itali, edd.; manare, OQ, † Heinze, Bail.; mala re is suggested by Heinze: a connective before manet is missed. Res is ‘reality.’

59. denique, ‘then again,’ introduces a new example; cf. 526; 4, 222.—avari-

ties: the lexicons quote another occurrence in Claudian; cf. Thes. 2, 1178, 71, and 1, 58 n.—honorum, ‘public office.’—caeca, ‘reckless.’—Sen. Dial. 11, 9, ‘omnia ista bona, quae nos speciosa sed fallaci volupitate delectant, pecunia, dignitas, potentia . . . ad quae generis humani caeca cupiditas obstupeasit, cum labore possidentur.’

60. miseros homines: like miseris mortalibus, 5, 944; it agrees in tone with the cry of the babe, cui tantum in vita restet transire malorum, 5, 227. Note that L has the peculiar faults of an upper class Roman in mind.—cogunt, ‘push.’—transcendere: uncommon metaphor in Latin: trēppalere.

61. iuris: τοῦ δικαίου.—interdum means ‘at times,’ as in 381, 465; 2, 282; 5, 603: the classical meaning.—socios is a predicate of homines.—scelerum refers to both socios and ministros, which produce a pleonasm like fine modoque, 1, 964, uxuras . . . figuræ, 4, 158. The plural of scelus does not occur elsewhere in L.—Cic. Phil. 12, 17, in eius socios facinorum et ministros sum semper invictus.—‘What he denies, as a spur to vicious energy, is in reality a spur to all energy. Every passion, good or bad, is compressed and intensified by the contracting limits of mortality;’ Benn, Greek Philosophers, 2, 94.

62 = 2, 12. Cf. 5, 1120, at claros homines voluerunt se atque potentes | ut fundamento stabili fortuna maneret.—niti with infin. is unusual: cf. 5, 1132, angustum per iter luctantes ambitionis. All this effort is opposed to quietes.

63. ‘The gods from above the mad labour behold, | And pity mankind that will perish for gold,’ Dryden.—ad summas emergere opes is repeated from 2, 13; 5, 698, emergere ad ortus.—opes: wealth and honor generally go together; rerumque potiri closes the verse in 2, 13.—vulnera: cf. other figurative uses of vulnera in lex. and L. 5, 1197; here the result of avarities, honorum cupido.—Certamina diviciarum, Hor. Ep. 1, 5, 8.

64. partem: adverbial, cf. 6, 1249.—aluntur, ‘supported.’

65. ferme, ‘as a rule’; ‘invariably’: 5, 242, haec eadem ferme mortalia cernimus esse: 2, 218; 6, 10, etc.—contemptus and egestas correspond chiastically to avarities and honorum cupido, 59. Hor. Ep. 1, 1, 42, vides quae maxima credis | esse mala, exiguum censem turpemque repulsam; Sen. Dial. 12, 6, the incommoda of exile are paupertas, ignominia, contemptus; id. 12, 13, 8, scio quosdam dicere contemptu nihil esse gravius, mortem ipsis potiorem videri; Cic. Tusc. 3, 82, si paupertas mormordit, si ignominia pupugit, si, quid tenebrarum obfudit exsilium. But to an Epicurean neque enim est umquam penuria parvi, 5, 1119; so λαθεῖν is Epicurean retirement; these people fail to comprehend the dulcis vita with its retirement and frugality.—acris, ‘pinching.’

66. semota would regularly be neut. pl. like coniuncta, 136; diducta, 287; fessa, 458; haec, 506; integra, 705; sopita, 920. Yet in 416 vincti takes its gender from animus and in 283 commixta refers to three masc. nouns with grammatical gender.—dulci vita: 2, 997; γλυκὸς αἰών, Hom. ε 152.—videtur, OQ, Heinze, Bail.; videntur, Lamb. edd. The sing. is used because the action of contemptus and egestas is separated for the moment.

67. leti portas: leti ianua, 5, 373; 1, 1112; leti limine, 2, 960; ianua Orci, 6, 762; ianua Ieto, Aen. 2, 661, and Hertzberg, Prop. 4, 11, 2. Arn. 2, 65, hanc vitæ ut ita dixerim ianuam, and 2, 30, si animae leti adeunt ianuas Epicuri ut sententia definitur.—cunctarier: for cunctari; so secernier, 263; cohiberier, 443;

gignier, 623; 48 times in L. according to Reichenhart and Lange, but Proll, 34, gives 36 verbs in -ier, not counting duplications. Cartault, 103, says that the form occurs 9 times in Book I, 2 in II, 5 in III, 9 in IV, 14 in V, 9 in VI; the distribution is accidental. Infinitives metrically like mutari occur 81 times, the same words in -ier 27 times, always making a dactyl in the fifth foot except in 5, 166; he gives statistics of other metrical forms. The word following this form always begins with a vowel. It rarely occurs in the second and fourth feet, occasionally in the first. Horace has it 9 times and Ovid once; statistics in Reisig, I, § 149. Lachmann would give cunctarier here the force of a neuter noun in the nominative (4, 765 n.), but it is more natural with Lambinus and Heinze to take it as a simple infinitive, 'they wait before the gates of death'; Virgil was perhaps influenced by L. in placing Luctus et Curae vestibulum ante ipsum primisque in faucibus Orci, Aen. 6, 73; Psalm 88, 3, vita mea inferno appropinquavit.

68. unde = a quibus, egestas and contemptus: therefore close to death. Vnde is frequently equivalent to a preposition and relative pronoun: 272, 177, 467; 6, 704, duris, unde una sit.—se: Sall. Cat. 1, homines qui sese student praestare.

69. effugisse volunt: see Lane, 2223.—longe longeque: 2, 106, dissiliunt longe longeque recursant, cf. 6, 690; pariter pariterque, 457; seorsum seorsumque, 286.—remosse: sc., if necessary, ea, from unde, as removeo is theoretically transitive. Br. in BPW. 25, 538 points out that se is really its object. For the contraction, cf. abstraxe, 650; cresse, 683; consumpe, 1, 233, etc. Variant readings are refugisse, remoti, remotae, recesse, remasse, remanse. Heinze follows Vahlen in taking the two verbs with unde, and would have remosse intransitive or reflexive, as in 881. Giuss. insists that se is the subject of the two infinitives, and that remosse needs an object. Lucretius was not conscious of syntax when he wrote the line.

70. sanguine civili: Cic. Fin. 1, 43, cupiditates enim sunt insatiabiles, quae non modo singulos homines, sed universas familias evertunt, totam etiam labefaciant saepe rem publicam; cf. Sallust's account of Roman degeneracy in Cat. 11 sq. '(The poem) was composed in that hopeless time when the rule of the oligarchy had been overthrown and that of Caesar had not been established, in the sultry years during which the outbreak of the Civil War was awaited with long and painful suspense;' Mommsen, RH. 4, 698.—rem: 5, 1113, res inventast aurumque repertum; Hor. Ep. 1, 1, 65, rem facias, rem, si possis recte, si non quocunque modo rem.—confant: cf. 335. Cladem conflare, 6, 1091.

71. Note the alliteration.—conduplicant: 1, 712 n. Cf. Juv. 14, 229, patrimonia conduplicare; Pers. 6, 78, rem duplica.—caedem caede: cf. vapore vapor, 233; lumina luminibus, 364; partem pars, 399; res rem, 622; insignibus insignis, 1015; kuorar kwar, Aesch. PV. 689; Archiv 5, 162. This parataxis is frequent and intentional in L. 6, 1238, cumulabat funere funus; Cic. 1 Cat. 14, incredibili scelere hoc scelus cumulasti; Hor. C. 1, 28, 19, densemur funera.

72. Macr. first compared Georg. 2, 510, gaudent perfusi sanguine fratrum. The brothers' death increases the fortune of the survivor.—in: Prop. 2, 4, 18, gaudet in puer, for de. Note the contrast of gaudent . . . tristi.—funere usually means death in L., e.g. 712.

73. consanguineum: properly eodem patre nati fratres (§ 1, Inst. 3, 2). There is fear of poisoning; 5, 1009, illi imprudentes ipsi sibi saepe venenum | vergebant; Cic.

Fin. 1, 49, ut enim mortis metu omnis quietae vitae status perturbatur . . . & eamque debilitatem animi multi parentes, multi amicos, nonnulli patriam, plerique autem se ipsos penitus perdiderunt; Hor. S. 2, 3, 131, cum laqueo uxorem interimis matremque veneno.

74. consimili ratione is not uncommon in L., e.g. 282; 5, 297; 6, 881; Wölfflin, Phil. 34, 159, regarded the adjective as vulgar; it is not in Virgil. Probably metrical convenience influenced L.—ab, ‘arising from,’ ‘by effect of,’ of the mental reason, is colloquial and was not taken into the literary language until Livy (Schmaltz, Synt. § 136).—saepe, ‘likewise’ (M.). Having given the consequences of eguis, the poet now passes to the results of contemptus.

75. macerat: cf. 826.—invidia overthrew the first kings in primeval society; 5, 1127, invidia quoniam, ceu fulmine summa vaporant. Invidia: ante, old vulg. Heinze, Woltjer; invidia ante, Br. Gius. Bail.; invidia. ante, Lachm. M.; what follows macerat invidia is the ground of complaint resulting from envy. For the rhythm, cf. 5, 285,—ante oculos: here somewhat stronger than ‘visible’; there is intentional parade. The pomp of processions, attendance of lictors, etc., would mark the difference between the magistrate and private citizen.—illum . . . illum (76) probably refers to the same person, yet it is possible that different persons may be intended: cf. hunc 82–83; see Wölfflin, Gem. 434. The subject acc. depends on queruntur, 77. Invidus alterius macrescit rebus opimis, Hor. Ep. 1, 2, 57.—esse: the infn. expresses the cause as in 613, 1045; 2, 1165.—potentem: reges rerumque potentes, 1027.

76. incedit implies a stately progress, as in a procession: Aen. 1, 405, incessu patuit dea.—honore: the dignity which office gives; not restricted to dress alone.

77. ipse se: for ipsos se, like sese conficit ipsa, 4, 639.—tenebris: 2, 15, tenebris vitae; Aen. 2, 92, vitam in tenebris luctuque trahebam.—caeno has always the notion of loathsomeness. Plato, Phaed. 69 c ἐπ βορβόρῳ κεῖσθαι; Salvian. Gub. Dei 6, 8, 43, quasi in caenum proiciantur; Lact. Inst. 7, 6, animas . . . tanquam luto caenoque demerserunt; Otto, Sprichw. 63.

78. partim, ‘some’; 4, 57; 5, 840, 1083; 6, 1172.—statuarum: the erection of statues at both public and private expense was a common honor: thereby nomen aedificabant (Enn. Ann. 412). In the time of Theodosic there were said to be as many statues as there were inhabitants at Rome: Marquardt, Privateben, 615. Elephas τ' ἀράθετει εἰ ξοι, δίαιφόρως λέγειν δι μὴ σχολή was an opinion of Epicurus (DL. 10, 121 (?)).—ergo as a preposition is not found in Plaut. and Ter. and occurs chiefly in laws and maxims: Roby, 1934.

79. Pliny the Younger, describing the famous eruption of Vesuvius, says erant qui metu mortis mortem precarentur (6, 20). Democritus in Stob. F1. 4, 75, ἀρρώμενοι τὸν ὥστην στρυγότερος, τὴν ἔθελοντα δειπναὶ Ἀΐδεω (Phil. 29, 612); Ov. M. 7, 604, mortisque timorem | morte fugant. Lee quotes Hudibras: ‘And when they’re out of hope of flying, | Will run away from death by dying.’ Sen. Ep. 24, 23, quoting Epic., ‘tantam hominum imprudentiam esse, immo dementiam, ut quidem timore mortis cogantur ad mortem’; cf. Dial. 10, 16, 2; Ep. 70, 8.

80. percipit = occupat, comprehendit, as in 29: cf. 4, 729; 5, 605. Oodium ne percipit, Ter. Eun. 972.—humanos: cf. 837. Natura humanis omnia sunt paria, Varro in Non. 81, 10.—lucis: 4, 35, simulacra luce carentum; Aen. 4, 452, lucem

relinquat. Burton, Anatomy of Melancholy, I, 4, 1, has much on the general principle.

81. Epic. in Sen. Ep. 24, 22, ridiculum est currere ad mortem taedio vitae, cum genere vitae, ut currendum ad mortem esset, efficeris. — pectore as a convenient dactyl, occurs in 896 and often; laetanti pectore, Catull. 64, 222. It fills the 5th foot 18 times, the 1st foot 3. — letum: leti secura quies, 211, is the object. Consciere letum occurs in Plaut. Mil. 1241; c. mortem is the common phrase.

82. oblii represents a causal clause. — curarum: 2, 45, mortisque timores | tum vacuum pectus lincunt curaque solutum. He has shown that the fear of death is the ultimate cause of these cares.

83–84. Suadet in 84 has been suspected by many scholars and in its stead fundo has been written by Lamb., fraude by Lachm., clade by Bern. Giuss. and Christ, sua vi by Stampini. Hermann proposed (Phil. 8, 180) summas . . . vertere fraudes; Bock. and Woltjer favored ut for et. Bergson would change hunc . . . hunc in 83 to hic . . . hic: Munro retains the Ms. reading without change, but infers a lacuna before 83 — qui miseros homines cogens scelus omne patrare. Br. and Bail. impale suadet as corrupt. Postgate, Phil. 24, 136, would arrange with no change of words: 37–40, 83–86, 41 sq. Heinze places a full stop after 82 and retains the Ms. readings. In 83 hunc . . . hunc may mean 'this man . . . this (another) man'; cf. Archiv 12, 249. Appeal is made to Aen. 10, 9, quis metus aut hos | aut hos arma sequi ferre amque lacessere suasit, and to Georg. 2, 505, hic petit excidiis urbem miserisque penates | . . . hic stupet attonitus rostris; hunc plausus hiantem | . . . corripuit, with 510 an imitation of L. 72. With hesitation I follow Heinze, for hunc, 83, differing from hunc, 82, is very harsh, and et in 84 is hard to explain. Sen. Dial. 3, 16, 4, has pro cuiusque morbo medicina quaeratur. hunc sanat verecundia, hunc peregrinatio, hanc dolor, hunc egestas, hunc ferrum.

83. vincula: passim in Cic. Laelius, of friendship. L. usually writes vincla, seæcla, periclis; cf. 55, 599, 775, 1076. He uses the longer form pericula but once — 5, 44. Plaut. always has vehiculum, sometimes populus: Kühn, 29, Lindsay, LL. 146. Periculum is the earlier form: Sommer 151. L. was the first to use the shorter form in hexameter poetry; Virgil has it 15 times and always at the end of the verse: Wiener St. 8, 137. — amicitiae: for the old genitive ending cf. on 1, 29. L. uses the form less as he advances in the poem. Yet the form in -ai is a later invention after the analogy of the -o-stem. Gellius (13, 26, 4) says that Nigidius approved -ai; see Lindsay, 386. Cartault, 8, counted in L. 166 occurrences of -ai against 153 in -æ, but animai is found 30 times, aquai 20, materiai 41, viae (always) 8.

84. Note that pudorem has reference to one's self, amicitiae to friends, and pietatem, which really includes the other two, to parents, kinsmen, and country. — in summam, 'in fine'; ad summam is more commonly used. Polle, Phil. 26, 328, denies that it is Lucretian and Giuss. doubts it. For the case, cf. on 295. — everttere: Cic. Sest. 1, eos qui omnia divina et humana violarint, vexarint, perturbarint, everterint . . . alacres lactosque volitare (Heinze). — suadet: sc. timor; cf. 6, 1282 and togunt, 60.

85. iam, 'ere now.'

86. prodiderunt: so transtulerunt, 134; occidérunt, 1028; adnuérunt, Hor. S. 1, 10, 45; stelérunt, Aen. 2, 774. This shortening was a metrical device to avoid a cretic ; but dederunt, 6, 4, and fuērunt, 5, 474, are not metrically necessary, and in 6, 2-5 long and short occur alternately, pointing probably to a shortening in popular speech ; cf. sumpsērunt in a popular song, Suet. Jul. 80. See Lindsay, 532 ; Keller, Lat. Sprachg. 2, 262. Originally -ērunt was a form entirely independent of -ērunt ; Sommer, 619 : cf. Lane, 857. — vitare petentes : a poetical inf. of purpose ; cf. sedare vocabant, 5, 945 ; occurrent praeripere, 3, 895 ; dedit ire, 1030 ; the two latter Br. regards as Hellenisms ; see also Brenous, Hellenismes, 275. Brenous, 294, maintains that petere with infin. means 'desiret,' with subj. 'demander' ; L. does not have it with ut or the bare subj. ; Reichenhart, 466.

87-93 = 2, 55-61 = 6, 35-41 (nearly) ; and 91-93 also = 1, 146-148. L. repeats these verses because they concern his purpose so closely. Goebel thought 87-90 interpolated here and unnecessary after 35 sq. (Obs. L. 28) ; but Polle, Phil. 26, 328, well appeals to poetic feeling for their justification ; they are rejected also by Gneisse, 20, and defended by Neumann, 29.

87. nam : all the preceding is due to ignorance, for . . . — pueri, 'children,' 447, 762 ; 5, 222, 884, 1017, 1021 ; 2, 576, vagor | quem pueri tollunt visentis luminis oras ; Archiv 7, 86. — trepidant : Lucil. 15, 7, ut pueri infantes credunt signa omnia athena | vivere et esse homines. — caecis tenebris : also in 2, 746 and 798 ; tacitura silentia, 4, 583. Lee quotes M. Arnold : 'Once read thy own breast right, | And thou hast done with fears ; | Man gets no other light, | Search he a thousand years, | Sink in thyself. There ask what ails thee at that shrine.' Bacon : 'Men fear death as children fear to go into the dark : and as that natural fear in children is increased with tales, so is the other.' Fragm. Herc. 26, col. 14, 5, kal rapárreσθαι . . . ἀλογα τῶν ζῷων τὰ . . . παιδία probably in a like connexion. Plato, Phaedo, 77 e, τερ τις καὶ ἐν ἡμῖν παῖς, δότις τὰ τοιαῦτα φοβεῖται ; cf. Sen. Ep. 24, 14.

88. nos : we grown men ; notice that the word has the metrical accent.—in luce : notwithstanding the light ; children may be excused, men are cowards. Cf. 5, 11 sq. where fluctibus . . . tenebris . . . tranquillo . . . luce are contrasted. Hobbes, Leviathan, 1651, p. 52 : 'This perpetual feare, alwayes accompanying mankind in the ignorance of causes, as it were in the Dark, must need have for object something. And therefore when there is nothing to be seen, there is nothing to accuse either of their good or evil fortune but some power or agent invisible.' Sen. Ep. 110, 6, 'non omni puer stultiores sumus, qui in luce timemus ? sed falsum est, Lucreti, non timemus in luce : omnia nobis fecimus tenebras . . . sed lucescere, si velimus, potest : uno autem modo potest, si quis hanc humanorum divinorumque notitiam acceperit.' Notice the individualism in this treatment. The highest point a Greek could attain to was to conduct himself according to just principles ; he never troubled himself about others (Lewes, Biogr. Hist. Phil. 338).

89. nilo : 1, 150 n.

90. Note the alliteration. — pavitant as transitive is poetical and anteclass. — fingunt : 1, 104 n. Quint. 12, 2, 3, fortis erit qui metus doloris, mortis, superstitionis nulla ratione purgaverit ? 'The atomistic theory appeared well calculated to promote the object of Epicurus' ethical doctrine ; its tendency is to counteract the fears which are the attendants of superstition, since by dissolving all things into the minutest particles it leaves nothing behind powerful enough to threaten or alarm the human mind' ; Ritter, Hist. Phil., 3, 430.

91. animi is to be taken with both nouns, although its position is irregular; cf. 95.—necessitat with the subj. 241, 282, 470, 677, 766; with the infin. 175, 204, 216, 235, 798, 965. These words of necessity—necessitate, debeo, cognoscere, and the many gerundives which appear constantly in the poem, call to mind the remark of Martineau (Types of Ethical Theory, I. ix) concerning the tone of plump assurance in which the ancient Epicurean was accustomed to propound and argue the principles of his system; as if to doubt were to be disgraced, and he had freshly arrived from the council of the gods (Cic. ND. 1, 8). ‘Upon the supposition of a God, the immortality of souls can hardly be kept out, but it will crowd in after it; and then the fear of eternal punishment after death will unavoidably follow thereupon, perpetually embittering all the solaces of life and never suffering men to have the least sincere enjoyment’; Cudworth, Intell. Syst. 1, 149. Dryden translates, ‘These bugbears of the mind, this inward hell.’ Shakesp. King Lear, 2, 2: ‘O purblind race of miserable men . . . here, through the feeble twilight of this world groping.’

92. non . . . neque: cf. 124–125; 194–195; 1, 479. ‘Why then,’ says Hume, ‘does Lucretius so highly exalt his master for freeing us from these terrors? Perhaps the generality of mankind were in the disposition of Cephalus in Plato, who while he was young and healthful could ridicule these stories; but as soon as he became old and infirm began to entertain apprehensions of their truth’; Nat. Hist. of Relig. Sect. 12.—lucida tela diei are the same as radii solis; so in 1, 479, consolare neque esse, the verbs are synonymous (M.). Lucida tela in the literal sense occurs in 4, 845. Cf. τοκεψαρα θερμὰ ἡλίον; Gray, ‘glittering shafts.’

93. naturae species ratioque, ‘systematic observation of nature,’ φύσεως θεωρία and φυσιολογία. Other interpretations are: le spectacle de la nature et la science (qui l’explique); examination and interpretation of nature; study of nature and use of philosophic reasoning; right reasoning about nature; looking at nature and using our reason; the outward spectacle and the moving principle of Nature; aspect and law of nature. Here natura comprises all phenomena; see on Title. The use to which L. wishes this knowledge to be put shows its ancillary position; the knowledge of nature is desirable as a means of freedom from the fear of death; Cic. Fin. 1, 63, omnium rerum natura cognita levamur superstitione, liberamur mortis metu, non conturbamur ignorantiae rerum.—The syllable bearing the ictus in the 5th foot should not close a word; there are 37 cases in the poem according to Meyer, Lat. Hex. 1037.

94–135. ‘The mind and soul are parts of the body and are not a harmony of its different elements, for the mind may be sick when the rest of the body is well, and the soul may remain when much of the body is taken away, and a few bodies of heat and air may keep life.’

94. Primum, ‘in the first place’; so the argument of Book 6 begins with Principio, 96. For primum alone cf. 2, 144; the deinde is represented by nunc, 117.—animum . . . mentem, ‘animus frequently called mens'; cf. 139, 142, 398, 402; mens animi, 615. The Epicurean terms were λογικόν and διλογον; for the former the Lucretian term is animus, for the latter anima; when he means ψυχή he uses animus and anima together, or one as including the other. Strictly, animus is the whole of which mens, the thinking faculty, is a part; Cic. Rep. 2, 67, quaerque pars animi mens vocatur; mentis animus is impossible. In the Epicurean fashion he avoids definition; the exact meaning of these terms will appear later.—quam, Charisius, edd.; quem OQ; cf. 100; 4, 132, caelo qui dicitur aer. For the principle see Madv. LG. 316, Hand, Lat. Stil. 211, and Lachm.

95. consilium: another synonym; cf. 139, 615. Animum vero esse rō ἡγεμονίαν animae, sine quo vivere non possumus, Serv. on Aen. 10, 487.—regimen: Sen. NQ. 7, 25, 2, animum cuius imperio impellimur . . . animus ille rector dominus que nostri.

96. partem, 'organ'; partibus et membris, 6, 1118. Sen. Dial. 6, 25, ossa cincrasque non magis illius partes quam vestes. For the consequences of this principle cf. 548 sq.

97. oculei: nom. pl.; 1, 230 n.—animantis: cf. 266, 388, 417. Polle has shown (AV) that animans is used by L. to designate living objects in contrast to lifeless (573); as a synonym of animal where there is no such opposition (5, 80); to express characteristics of living beings like sense, motion, etc. (2, 938); and, finally, to describe living beings as a class, as in this verse.—totius: 275, 280, 989; 16 times in the poem; totius, 2, 274, 490; 6, 682 (6, 1156 dubious); so illius, 4, 1062; 6, 707, 824, 1085; illius, 13 times; nullius, 1, 224, 926; nullius, 1, 960; unius, 2, 379; 3, 1073; unius, 5 times; utriusque, 4, 503, 1212; ipsius, 3 times; alterius, 6; ullius, 2, 937. The ending -ius in L. frequently forms the 4th foot, and -ius closes the 5th most frequently, occasionally the first. Cicero may have pronounced illius in Orat. 3, 183, where he gives some cretins. Si Quirites minas illius. Extra carmen non deprehendas, Quint. 1, 5, 18, says of unius. Solius and neutrius are not found: Bücheler, Grundriss<sup>2</sup>, 78; statistics in Cartault, Flexion, 86. Ritschl's canons (Opusc. 2, 677 sq.) were: -ius and -ius in the 6th and 7th centuries; -ius, illius least often, in Cic. period; -ius, least often unius, alterius in Quintil. period: in Priscian's time -ius, but alterius.—extant: but exstat, 243, 977, 987; so exsanguis, 596, exanguis, 721; 1, 625 n.

98. Between 97 and 98 one or more lines are missing. Quamvis multa quidem sapientum turba putarunt was supplied by early editors; at least some expression like quidam dicunt is needed for the esse in 98. Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 776 thinks 7 verses are missing.—sensum animi: 104, 578 parallel with sensu linguae, 2, 399; corporis, 2, 432.—in: notice the omission in 104.

99. habitum, 'condition,' like good health.—vitalis implies a condition necessary to life: ventus vitalis, 128; auris, 577; motus, 345, 560; sensum, 215, 527.—Cicero, Tusc. 1, 19, writing on the constitution of the soul says, Aristoxenus musicus idemque philosophus (censem esse) ipsius corporis intentionem quandam, velut in canto et fidibus quae harmonia dicitur, and Lactantius, Inst. 7, 13, 9, also mentions Aristoxenus as holding sicut in fidibus ex intentione nervorum offici concordem sonum atque cantum, ita in corpore ex compage viscerum ac vigore membrorum vim sentiendi existere. Socrates, in Phaedo, 92 sq., confuted this view as held by Simmias, and it is also refuted by Aristotle; cf. the references in Usener, Epicurea, pp. 378–379; it goes back to the old Pythagoreans, probably to Philolaus, and doubtless had wide currency. Epic. probably attacked it as rife among contemporary Peripatetics.

100. harmoniam: Sen. translates by concentus in NQ. 7, 25, 2.—dicunt: cf. 4, 239, nunc ea quae dico rerum simulacra. Other interpretations of Greek words in 1, 831; 4, 132, 369; 6, 424, 908.—quod, 'something'; so Heinze; Creech and Gius. make it a conjunction. The ambiguity is something like that noted in 1, 82 and due to the same cause.—faciat . . . vivere: faciunt existere, 301; gigni, 5, 662; surgere, 5, 703; flecti, 5, 1187, etc. The construction is rare, and is found but once in Cic. (Dr. § 442). Sometimes the inf. with facere is used to avoid a double ut clause, or some other double construction; cf. 6, 267, 176; Archiv 3, 182.

101. sensu: absolute, as in 113, 238, etc.—cum introduces a quoted clause: 'without any.'—siet: this old form for sit occurs also in 2, 962, 1079, e connect. 5, 531; cf. Skt. syāt.

102. valetudo itself is a word of neutral meaning.—esse, 'belong to' (M.). Cartault, 82, punctuates esse, corporis et.

103. valentis: a person in health and strength; its rather uncommon use as a substantive is excused by valetudo. Valeo elsewhere in L. is a synonym of polleo.

104. certa: Epic. put it in a definite place; cf. 140.

105. With this expression of confidence, cf. 353; 4, 913, ne fieri negiles quae dicam posse; 5, 23, longius a vera ratione ferere; 6, 767, quod procul a vera quam sit ratione repulsum. Cic. ND. 1, 18 of Velleius, fiderent sane ut solent isti, nihil tam verens quam ne dubitare aliqua de re videretur.—magnō opere: cf. 1, 637, magnō opere a vera lapsi ratione videntur; 1, 711, magnō opere a vero longe derrasse videntur. Magnopērē occurs in 6, 1230. —mi occurs also in 1, 924; mihi, 1, 845; see n. there.—diversi: they wander because they are turned in the wrong direction; 2, 86, diversa dissiliant.—errare of a wrong opinion in 1, 393, 846.—L. likes to close a verse with the infinitive and videtur or videntur; cf. 333, 338, 555, etc.; 1, 497 n.

106. M. interprets: 'To prove what I say, often,' etc. Probably there is some reference to what is missing after 97.—in promptu, 'visible,' is a common expression in L., cf. 185; 1, 879; 2, 149, 246; 6, 941, and often used by Cicero, e.g. Off. 1, 105. Promptus is used in no other case. Jessen, QL. 26, would have a lacuna after 106; refuted by Edelbluth, 45.—aegret, Lachm., edd., after a quotation in Macr. Excerpt. Bob. in KGL. 5, 650, 34; aegrūm, OQ. Aegreo is peculiar to L. and is written e connect. in 824; he uses aegresco in 521 and 5, 349. Others use aegroto, which L. has once—4, 1124.

107. cum tamen occurs also in 645; 2, 29; 4, 718; 5, 16, but tamen cum, 5, 479, 518.—ex indicates the source, and also the locality of the joy. 2, 968 is Plainer: voluptatem capere ex se.—laetamur: from good health; 'while yet we have pleasure in another hidden part,' M.—latenti implies animus; cf. 273, 280; 4, 925, latens animai pars.

108. contra, 'otherwise.' Notice the pleonasm of the verse.

109. miser ex animo is common in the colloquial language: Plaut. Tr. 397, Ter. Eun. 225; for miser, 'sick,' see 4, 1076. Facit ex animo, 4, 1195; ex animo dicant, 3, 914, where see n. Many examples in Thes. 2, 99, 43 sq.—corpore is abl. of specification; see on 149; so Meissner, 39, but Hidén, 12, would have it local; it is suggested by 107.

110. The assonance animo . . . pacto in 109–110 is accidental, but is paralleled by impositum . . . situm, 890–891; aeternum . . . desiderium, 921–922.—aegri: OQ, edd. He means that the suffering of mind and body is as distinguishable as pain in various parts of the body.—Aeger, Bock. Br., but a sound foot would not be in pain.

111. dolore always means 'pain' in L. not 'grief'; 147, 460, etc. 'Can honour take away the grief of a wound?' Shaksp. 1 Henry IV, 5, 2; 'Weaken'd with grief, being now enraged with grief,' id. 2 Henry IV, 1, 1.

112. praeterea: besides there can be no dreams according to this theory of harmony.—mollis: m. quiete, 4, 999; Georg. 2, 470, molles somni.—membra, limbs > members > body; cf. 478; 4, 1261.

113. effusum: 4, 757, somnus membra profudit; Cic. Verr. 5, 28, of the end of a banquet, ut fusi sine mente ac sine sensu iacerent, perhaps a reminiscence of Ennius. — iacet: 4, 923, namque iaceret | aeterno corpus perfusum frigore leti if the entire soul should leave the body in sleep.—honustum: so gravis, 1066; quoniam non est quasi quod suffulciat artus, 4, 950. Honustum retinet aspiracionem, Serv. Aen. 1, 289. L. connects food and sleep closely together in Book 4. Duff compares Spenser, FQ. 1, 7, 7, 'Pour'd out in looseness on the grassy ground.'

114. in, after tempore, is used for metrical convenience; see on 24. Cic. Div. 1, 115, viget enim animus in somnis liber et sensibus omnique inpeditione curarum, iacente et mortuo paene corpore.

115. multimodis occurs 15 times in L.; rarely in other writers. It is an adverbial compound equivalent to multis modis, and regarded as analogous to true compounds like multigenis, multiplex; so mirimodis and omnimodis are explained; Stoltz, Hist. Gr. 1, p. 407.

116. motus, 'sensations,' 'feelings'; sensiferos motus, 240, 245, 273, etc. An Epicurean knew no other way by which sensation could be produced.—curas inanis: 5, 1431, in curis consumit inanibus aevom, 'trifling cares.' So he speaks of inanis metus, 982; imperium, 998. This all goes to show that the mind can work when the body is at rest, consequently the mind cannot be a condition of the body. There is no contradiction here with 4, 907, somnus per membra quietem | inriget atque animi curas e pectore solvat, since sleep is sometimes restless and troubled.—cordis: 6, 14, anxia corda; 6, 1233, maesto corde.

117. Having proved that the animus is no harmony, he will now show that the anima also is not.—quoque: anima as well as animus.—membria, here, as often, is an equivalent of corpore; cf. 120, 219, 346, 439, 717, 778; 4, 763, corporis sensu | per membra quiescent; usually corpus occurs in the immediate vicinity or there is metrical convenience in using the word. L. is proving the soul to be pars membrum corporis, hence the interpretation in numero membrorum of Bock. et al. others is not justified; cf. hominis pars, 96.—cognoscere possis occurs also in 2, 462; 4, 642, 749; 5, 285; 6, 113; noscere possis, 3, 418, 588; per noscere possis, 3, 181, all having a plain didactic purpose, and all occurring at the end of the verse. L. likes to close a verse with an infinitive and finite verb: 158, 257, 261, 370, etc.

118. esse: synonymous with vivere in 785.—harmonia is an instrumental abl.—sentire, Wakef. edd.; interire OQ; corpus munire, Christ; sonere interiore, Bergk; spirare, Ribbeck; in corpus se inferre, Bock.; see Phil. 26, 238. Sentire is absolute, as in 334, 625; in 2, 865 it implies life rather than mere sensation. The verse-ending with two infinitives is unusual except with posse; 239, 319, 359, 509, 723.

119. principio has no corresponding deinde, hence Lachm. would have it =  $\alpha\pi\chi\tau\nu$ , ante omnia; but probably the arguments are fused together as in 2, 937; 5, 92, where the word has its common meaning. Possibly rursum, 121, represents the second motive.

120. saepe, 'again and again,' saepe numero; 487, 649, and frequently.—nobis, 'we shall find,' etc.—vita moretur, repeated in 127; cf. 402, 407 for related expressions.

121. eadem: vita = anima.—corpora caloris like corpora venti, 1, 277; ferri, 2, 104; aquae, 2, 232; 1, 483, corpora sunt porro partim primordia rerum | partim concilio quae constant principiorum.—caloris, 'the vital heat'; so 128, 269, etc.—Caloris corpora = vaporis semina, 126–127. This heat is one of the constituents of the anima, 233; but here like Epic. ad Herod. 63, L. names the two most apparent constituents of the soul—calor, aer,  $\tau\omega\beta\mu\alpha\tau\iota \theta\epsilon\rho\mu\delta \tau\alpha\kappa\sigma\tau\iota$  χορτι.—pauca: not merely few, but trifling; opposed to multo, 119.

122. diffugere: 222 n.—foras: 2, 949, 'donec materies, omnis concussa per exitus, | vitalis animae nodos a corpore solvit | dispersamque foras per cavales eiecit omnis'. Cf. on 37.—que, 'I mean when,' Bock.—os: the dispersion also occurs through the pores as will appear later.—aer: the soul was popularly thought to be exhaled with the last breath, hence the name anima: here he appeals to common experience. In 234 sq. the real Epicurean theory is unfolded.

123. Notice the chiasmus and the amplitude of the expression; cf. 155.—deserit, 232.—ossa means here little more than the inmost parts of the body: 1, 355, 'permanat frigus ad ossa,' 811, 'vita omnibus e nervis atque ossibus exsoluator,' and 3, 171.

124. noscere ut possis occurs also in 2, 832.—aequas omnia partis corpora: for the word order, cf. on 1, 81. Probably the statement is directed against the position of Dicaearchus (Cic. Tusc. 1, 21).—partis, 'functions.'

125. ex aequo, 'equally'; 1, 854; so ex improviso 2, 1034.—fulcire: Plin. Ep. 9, 4 'corpori . . . cuius fulturis animus sustinetur.'—salutem is 'life,' 'existence'; 2, 863, 'fundamenta quibus nitatur summa salutis,' cf. 3, 324, 821.

126. Alliteration (susv), but probably unconscious. This kind of alliteration occurs 319 times in the poem, i.e. corresponding to a scheme abab, where a and b represent any two initial letters.—sed magis = sed potius as in 1, 612 where see n.; Gius. inclines to having magis mean 'to a greater degree.'—venti = 'aer': Enn. 148, 'vento quem perhibit Graium genus aera lingua.' Later it has its technical meaning.—vaporis = 'caloris' 121. Vapor is frequently used by L. with the meaning 'heat': so 215, 233, 339; in 432 only it means 'steam,' and in 6, 275 it is interpreted by igni 276. L. writes calidum vaporem usually just as he writes seruidus dor, 5, 204, gelidus rigor, 5, 640, caecae caliginis, 3, 304, validis viribus, 451, imis calcibus, 791.

127. semina, 'seeds' from which things grow, not by the unfolding of vital force, but by aggregation of other seeds; there is no interior development in the atom.—curare of the action by things is poetical: 5, 1015, 'ignis curavit ut . . . non . . . possent'; 4, 822 (826); 6, 231.

128. ipso: see on 483.

129. corpore: here the human body as in 119, but in 121 and 125 the atoms. L.

does not avoid such variations of meaning within a brief compass; cf. 364. — qui is singular because the constituents are inseparable and make but one soul. — nobis is dative like 169, 336, 364, 375, 679; this extension of the dative of reference (Madv. LG. § 241, 3) is remarkable: while often it serves metrical convenience yet it shows poetical preference for the dative over the genitive. See Archiv 8, 42. — moribundos, 232, 653, 1033; moribundis, Faber, Bergl. Jahrb. 67, 320; see Phil. 26, 328. — artus, 'frame,' is here another synonym for corpus; cf. 245, 283, 393, 398, etc. Artus first stands for membra as in Catull. 64, 304, 'flexerunt artus,' then membra for corpus.

130. reperta: as following on proof, also in 203, 237.

131. quasi, 'so to say,' 138, 265, 280, 440. The apology is for pars: the anima being diffused through the body would not be a visible part in the sense that a leg or arm would be. — redde: give up, cf. 656. This 'harmony' was symmetry or equipoise; see Reid on Cic. Acad. 2, 124.

132. organicos: not merely Aristoxenus: 5, 334, 'modo organici melicos peperere sonores,' cf. 2, 412. Musicos is inadmissible metrically. — alto, Voss, edd.; altus O., salta Q. — Heliconi: Arat. 216, καθ' ὑψηλοῦ Ἐλικῶν. For the antique form, cf. lapidi, 1, 885; mucroni, 2, 520; luci, 4, 235; Cilici, 2, 416; labi, 5, 930; tripodi, 1, 739; rationi, 6, 66; cf. on 1, 978.

133. aliunde porro: if not from Helicon, then wherever the musicians themselves in their turn (porro) derived it. The philosophers had transferred a musical term, but musicians had also transferred it from the general meaning 'agreement' to signify musical harmony before unnamed.

134. proprio: 2, 654, 'laticis proprium vocamen.' Epic. ad Herod. 38, διάγκυ γὰρ τὸ πρῶτον ἐνόημα καθ' ἔκαστον φθεγγον βλέπεσθαι. Words should be used in their simple sense.

135. tu is the reader; so 421, 1024, 1045; 'tu percipe dicta,' 4, 880, 'tu mihi da tenuis aures,' 912, 'tu fac ne ventis verba profundam,' 931. L. constantly refers to his arguments as dicta; see on 1, 28. — percipe is an injunction to the reader in 2, 335, 731; 11 times in the poem. — habeant: 'keep it'; the name is of no consequence. Note the arrogance.

136–160. 'The mind and soul make up one whole. The mind is in the breast and governs all; the soul pervades the entire body and sympathizes with the mind in violent emotion.'

136. Nunc: 1, 418 n. — dico, 'I maintain; cf. 94. — coniuncta teneri: this verse ending — participle and infin. — is very common: 188, 378, 458, 571, etc.

137. naturam, 'substance': 231, 237, 241, 270, etc.; 21 times in the poem; see APA. 22, xxxiv. — ex se L. always has, and more often ex than e before s: 704, 718; Hertz, 6.

138. caput: τὸ ἡγεμονόν; in 616 he says expressly that it is not in the head. — dominari, again in 281, 709; cf. regimen, 95. — in is inserted, although unnecessary even for metrical reasons, also in 227, 799; 2, 543. While ordinarily omitted with totus by L. as well as by other authors, in Livy, at least, it is omitted or inserted indifferently; see Tücking and Weissenborn on Livy, 22, 20, where Madvig brackets it.

139. quod is regular in gender since there are two pronouns: Lachm. p. 146. Mens consiliumque occurs in 615, and animi natura consiliumque, 5, 127; Aen. 6, 11, 'mentem animumque | Delius inspirat.'

140. situm haeret: 548, 'mens . . . loco fixa manet certo'; 2, 279, 'in pectore nostro | quiddam quod contra pugnare obstareque possit'; 5, 103, 'humanum in pec-~~tus~~ templaque mentis.' Τὸ δὲ λογικὸν ἐν τῷ θώρακι, ὡς δῆλον ἐκ τε τῶν φύσιων καὶ τῆς χαρᾶς, Schol. Epic. ad Herod. 66; 'principale istud . . . nec in tota lorica pectoris, ut Epicurus,' Tert. de Anima, 15. Plautus gives the popular view: 'Nam istic meus animus nunc est, non in pectore,' Pseud. 33, istic referring to a letter. — media reglone, 'middle region'; media is not partitive; 6, 732, 'ad medium regionem diei.' — in is syntactically unnecessary; cf. 610.

141. exultat: elsewhere in L. of physical motion; Hom. K 94, κραδίη δὲ μου ξένω | στηθέων ἐκθρώσκει. For the singular cf. nixatur vita salusque, 4, 506. Atque (cac) is used in all stages of the language to bind synonyms together, rather than que or et; Dr. § 315, 7. — pavor is physical, metus intellectual. — loca, plural, refers to regione. — circum, preposition; 353 n.

142. laetitia: the plural is used sparingly by Cic.; by L. only here. — mulent: absolute; cf. 5, 1390, 'haec animos . . . mulcebant.' — mens animusque: 402, mens animusque remansit; cf. 398; 1, 74; Aen. I, 304, 'accipit in Teucros nimum mentemque benignam.'

143. Alliteration (cccc); this form occurs 310 times, the scheme being abba; see on 126. — cetera pars: again in 150, and cetera tellus, 6, 862, for reliqua, a word he does not use except in certain case forms; cf. on 1, 560. — Notice animus is apparently part of the anima; he has no term to describe the whole. — dissita: Epic. l.c., τὸ μὲν τι ἀλογον αὐτῆς, δὲ τῷ λοιπῷ παρεσπάρθαι σώματι; Serv. on Aen. 10, 4-87, 'secundum Epicureos animam per totum corpus divisam esse volunt.' — S. Thos. Aquinas taught that the soul is not potentially, but actually, present in every part of the body with its own indivisible essence; cf. Lange, Materialism, I, 205.

144. Note the assonance. — paret, 'yields obedience,' as in 5, 1129, 'ut satius multo iam sit parere quietum.' — ad numen: ad arbitrium, 2, 281; properly said off the dominus of the body. Manil. I, 111, 'omniaque ad numen mundi moveri.' — momen, 188-189; 4, 1068, is used by Manil. and Arnobius; L. does not use momentum. The metaphor is from the balance: Iamblichus in Stob. Ecl. I, p. 916, πυρεῖσαι καὶ βοῆσαι. — In prose mentis, as modifying both numen and momen, would either precede or follow them; Gild.-Lodge, Gr. 680. — movetur: middle; cf. 569, 571, torquetur, 490; tortari, 661.

145. The alliteration is unexampled. — idque, 140. — sibi . . . sibi: cf. liquidis . . . liquidā, 4, 1259; pātribus pātres, 4, 1222; prōpagando . . . prōpagando, 5, 850, 856; prōeheat . . . prōpellat, 6, 1027; sācra . . . sācra, 5, 1163-1164; totius . . . totius, 6, 679-682; vācillans . . . vācillans, 3, 479-504; sūbus . . . sūbus, 5, 970, 974; see Jessen, QL 14, Müller, RM 314. — per se, 'by itself,' 'independently'; 337, 554, 565, 633; per se sibi, 684; sola per se, 561. — sapit: technical (σογίζεσθαι); 2, 987, 'sapere et doctis rationem reddere dictis.' Tohte, Jahrb. 117, 128, would read pavet. — id is supplied by edd. after Wakef.

146. res may be strong enough to move the animus, but too weak to move either the anima or the body. — commovet: 152, and 4, 746, 'uno commovet ictu | qualibet una animum nobis subtilis imago.' — una is an adverb as in 168, 445, 759, 800, 901; 222, Giuss.

147. quasi . . . sic (149) occurs also in 2, 552-560; 4, 161-163, but was avoided by the Augustan writers: Dr. § 516, 5. Quod genus . . . sic, 276-279. — temptante dolore: 2, 967, 'dolore | temptari'; 6, 1251, '(quem) nec luctus temtaret'; the verb is common for the attack of disease, see lex. — The comparison between the head or eye in pain with the rest of the body undisturbed, and the animus affected by emotion with the anima unmoved; but with greater emotio the anima is disturbed, so the conclusion in 158-159 is proved. — 147-151 is digression by way of illustration.

148. laeditur: Hor. Ep. 1, 2, 38, 'quae laedunt oculum.' — concruciamur, & λεγ. = συμάθειαν.

149. corpore is abl. of specification: cf. numero, 376; corpore, 109; dictis, 90 — ipse, 'alone by itself,' as in 564.

150. laetitia: abl. of cause. — que, 'or'; 284 n.

151. per membra atque artus is a cumulative expression for the entire body 703 and 291. — novitate, 'a new sensation': 2, 970, 'quorum motus novitate laborent of evil; 'gaudet novis rebus,' 5, 170, 'novitatis,' 5, 173, indifferent. — cietur, lit moveo, is used frequently by L. to express sensation, since that is due always to motion or change in the atoms; cf. 246, 378; 2, 943.

152. vementi: so prendere for prehendere, nemo for **nehemo*, mi for mih Quintilian, 1, 5, 20, cites vehementer and comprehendere as survivals of aspiration i his time. See Stoltz, LG. § 119, Lindsay, LL. p. 57.

153. consentire = concruciari, 148; 2, 717, 'vitalis motus consentire atque imtari.' It means 'feel in unison'; cf. 169, 801, 'Consentientem, id est, qui rebis idem moveatur,' Cic. Lael. 65; 'qua ex coniunctione naturae et quasi concentatque consensu, quem συμάθειαν Graeci appellant,' Div. 2, 34. — videmus is often used by L. in appeal to common experience, and is in effect equivalent to manifestum est; cf. 157, 165, etc.; videntur, 326, has the same force.

154. sudores, like salivae, 4, 1108, and sputa, 6, 1188, is an unusual plural. — it 'therefore.' — existere, 'come over,' as in 301. — The polysyndeton and asyndeton are expressive. The first que introduces the list and is not coördinate with the second one.

155. infringi linguam: infracta loquella, 5, 230; Sen. Ep. 90, 18, 'mollesqui cantus et infractos.' Editors compare the ode of Sappho translated by Catullus i his 51st poem, especially καὶ μὲν γλῶττα λαγύει; 'lingua sed torpe,' Catull. — Speech is first inarticulate and then lost entirely. — aboriri, 'dies away'; 5, 733, aboris (e connect.) is opposed to reparari, 734. The lexicon cites Varro, LL. 5, 7, 66, 'inimus aer, ubi omnia oriuntur vel aboriuntur.'

156. Catull. i.e. 'sonitu suopte | tintinant aures: gemina teguntur | lumina nocte' — For the asyndeton cf. 480, 1017, and Holtze, 153; 1, 685 n. — sonere ant classical parallel form of sonare; cf. 873 and fervere, 2, 43 b.; lavere, 5, 950; fugere, 5, 1095; scatit, 5, 40; tuimur, 6, 930. — Howard, J. Phil. 1, 130, quotes Bart on Stat. Th. 4, 633, who would write canere auris. — succidere, 'give way': I Curec. 309, 'tenebrae oboriuntur, genua inedia succidunt'; Hom. λύτρο γούρα. — artus = membra.

157. denique introduces the climax. Cf. the symptoms of dissolution, 6, 1182 s. — concidere, 'vitulus mactatus concidit,' 2, 352. — ex is similarly used of cause: 5, 1146, 'ex inimicitiis languebat'; 5, 1148, 'ex ira . . . parabat'; cf. 3, 593, 105.

158. quivis, 'any man.' — hinc, 'from these facts,' as in 124.

159. cum animo coniunctam: cf. 5, 562, 'coniuncta cum corpore.' — vi, Marull. ~~et~~; vis Nonius, defended by Kannengiesser, Phil. 43, 541; lacuna in OQ.

160. exim like olim, interim; exinde is more common. See Lindsay, LL. 570. — icit: icta, 1, 528; 3, 429, 663; 4, 1050, icitur ictu. Creech: 'vehementi metu ~~con~~cuesso animo, laborat anima, fateor, sic tremente Citharoedo debitos tonos cithara non reddit.'

161—176. 'The soul and mind are material, for they could not move the material body without physical contact; being material they are affected by material influences.'

161. ratio, 'reasoning,' as in 665 and 5, 55, 'dum rationes | persequor.' The doctrine is the same (eadem) because the argument rests on sympathy; this is made the more evident by the repetition of propellere.

162. corpoream, 'of body,' 'material'; a technical word: 167, 175, 176, etc. Epic. ad Herod. 67, ωσθ’ οι λέγοντες δούματον εἴραι τὴν φυχὴν ματήσουσιν. οὐδὲν γάρ εἰδύντο τοιεῦν οὖτε πάσχειν, εἰ δὲ τοιαῦτη. Lactantius, Inst. 7, 12, where he refutes the arguments in the third book of L., says 'anima in se nihil concreti, nihil ponderis habet.' 'Concerning human souls,' says Cudworth (Intell. Syst. 1, 170), 'their being undoubtedly substances incorporeal which therefore could never be generated out of matter.' — propellere membra: 4, 825, 'ut proferre queamus | Proceros passus.'

163. corripere: 'correptus homo ex somno,' 925; 'corripio e stratis corpus,' Aen. 3, 176; cf. 4, 572. — L. 4, 997, 'catulorum blanda propago | . . . corpus de terra corripere instant.' — mutareque, 1, 666 n. The change of expression in the face is a striking proof of the influence of soul on body.

164. regere, 'guide,' 1, 33 n. — videtur is passive, see on 182. 4, 899, 'tantum corpus corporacula possunt | contorquere et onus totum convertere nostrum,' of the power of the will.

165. The mind cannot act on the body without contact, and as the body is material, the mind must also be material; how mind acts on matter is an unsolved problem ('a mystery' before which Tyndall 'bowed his head'). The defect in the argument lies in videmus; things constantly happen which are beyond the range of human observation and experience. But in Book I he had discussed the question: 304, 'tangere enim tangi, nisi corpus nulla potest res.'

166. porro, 'moreover'; 1, 508 n. — corpore, technical.

167. animum animamque: animos animasque, 418. — naturā ānimū: such an elision of a long vowel in the unaccented part of the third foot was avoided by careful metricians; Kühn, 43, noted 17 examples in L. — constare without a preposition also in 180, 186, 204, 209, 425; with in, 1, 420, with e, 3, 375, and elsewhere — the Ciceronian usage; Roby, 1217. — Constare is the verbal expression of the meaning of naturam, 161.

168. Alliteration (ppcc); this form occurs 333 times. — fungi, 'suffer,' παθεῖν of Epicurus; 1, 443, 'farcere et fungi sine corpore nulla potest res'; cf. 3, 734, 801; 5, 358, 'neque ab ictu fungitur hilum.'

169. With the fulness of expression in fungi and consentire, cf. effugisse . . . remesse, 69, intererant . . . solvant, 287. — nobis as in 129.

170. minus offendit, 'has failed to strike out.' The at tamen, 172, makes the si minus clause almost concessive = licet non; cf. 2, 458 and 3, 406. Masson, At. Th. 164, thinks this description is so vivid as to imply personal experience in battle; Lambin, on the other hand, thought it interpolated, partly because of the abrupt beginning with si, which Munro has shown to be Lucretian; cf. 406, 946, 1053.—tell, edd. for leti.

171. ossibus ac nervis are joined in 1, 866; cf. 3, 697.—intus: 1, 222, 'vis quae res diverberet ictu | aut intus penetret per inaniam dissolutaque.' Intus adacta Lambinus considered bad Latin; it is possible, although harsh, with M. to take intus with disclusis: Aen. 9, 431, 'viribus ensis adactus | transabiit costas.' L. uses intus several times as a kind of locative adverb.

172. at tamen, 536; 6, 322; sed tamen, 261; et tamen, Br.—insequitur, 'follows speedily,' cf. 400; 6, 285. 'Nudum militem ad insequentes ictus praebebat,' Livy, 21, 8, 12.—petitus: 1, 92, terram genibus summissa petebat.—languor: languentia membra, 5, 1007. Montaigne (Essays II, 6), in an accident, 'took pleasure in languishing and letting himself go, as if falling into slumber' (Heinze).

173. suavis, OQ, Bock. Heinze who quotes Sen. Ep. 77, 9, 'non sine quadam voluptate quam adserre solet lenis dissolutio non inexperta nobis, quos aliquando liquit animus'; defended also by Lotze, Grasberger (= lenis), and unchallenged by the earlier edd. Polle, Phil. 26, 328, objects to the word but not to the thought. Lachm. would have suppus, Bern. saevus et, after Jones, and is followed by Giuss.; Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 674, objects to saevus, and Munro to the position of et that it is not Lucretian. Br. changes to segnis fit, interea with interrogation after voluntas,

174. Munro segnis, apologetically. Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 321, saevus et in febi; Winck. petitum | suadet et. Bailey regards suavis . . . terra as corrupt. The effect of anaesthetics is not altogether unpleasing, and sentiments of pain or discomfort are not usually expressed by Latin writers in their mention of fainting.—in: on the ground; cf. 644.—mentis aestus, the ebb and flow resulting in 'mental confusion,' also in Val. Max. 2, 5, 6; 6, 826, quasi quendam concit aestum ('dizziness'); cf. the metaphor in Ructus, 298. Aestus animi occurs in Ciris 340; cf. Thes. I, 1122, 11.—gignitur is frequently used of inanimate objects, as colores, 2, 759; simulacra, 4, 131; dolorem, 4, 306; fulmina, 6, 239; morbus, 6, 1115.

174. quasi qualifies incerta voluntas. Cf. 504 with the entire line, and for the caesura, on 624.

175. corpoream is predicate.

176. corporeis (corporeo) goes with ictu as well as with telis: ignibus . . . calidis . . . flammis, 890.—laborat, 'suffers,' as in 507, 733, and frequent in the medical writers: Scrib. Largus, 198, 'fungis venenatis cum quis laborat.' The mind works through the body, and if the body is in trouble the mind of course is affected, but this is not enough to prove the mind material unless the fundamental materialistic Epicurean principle is granted.

177-230. 'The animus is formed of very fine particles, smooth, round, and exceedingly minute, as they must necessarily be in order to be moved by a little force; and when the animus and anima are withdrawn from the body nothing is lost in weight or appearance at their departure, since they are formed of minute seeds like the bouquet of wine.'

177. tibi: 4, 572, 'rationem reddere possis | tute tibi atque aliis.' — animus includes anima; see Br. Seele, 13, and cf. the conclusion of the argument in 228. After eius, 208, L. names both in the discussion. Their mutual relation will be explained later.

178. constiterit = constet. Hor. C. 1, 9, 4, 'flumina constiterint acuto' . . . 'have stood still,' 'stand still.' — pergam: cf. 420, 422. — rationem reddere dictis occurs also in 2, 987; 4, 175; verbis 5, 1168.

179. principio: cf. 425, and on 5, 251. — aio L. has only here (aiunt 1, 372, etc.) ; like dico, 94: the person of the verb shows his earnestness. — persuptilem: cf. suptilem, 195; but subtilis, 4, 747; optutus, 1042; optunditur, 4, 613; super, 5, 626; opsticere, 6, 331; apsiliebat, 6, 1217. — minutis is a favorite word: cf. 187, 226, 279, 425. He could not conveniently write perquamque minutis as in 187. Schol. on Epic. ad Herod. 66, ἐξ ἀτόμων (ἢ τὴν ψυχὴν) συγκεισθαι λειοτάτων καὶ στρογγυλωτάτων, πολλῷ τινι διαφεροντων τῶν τοῦ πυρός. Democritus had taught that the soul consists of fine, smooth, round atoms, like those of fire. See Lange, Materialism, 1, p. 28.

180. perquam: also in 187, 204, 229, and 4, 169; 5, 590; L. does not use admodum, valde, and sane, as intensive particles with or without quam. — factum constare, pleonastic in his manner. — id ita: 2, 481, quod si non ita sit, 'if this should not be the case'; 4, 489, non, ut opinor, ita est. Id constantly refers to the substance of a clause as in 512, 676, 864. For the elision in the 6th foot, see on 1, 462, and after the 5th ictus syllable, on 1, 350.

181. hinc: from what he is going to say: 1, 149 n.

182. celeri ratione: for celeriter; so of the quickness of sight in 4, 254, 773. L. writes ratione alia, nulla, eadem, tali, qua, aliqua, simili, pari, frequently. — videtur is passive, as in 185, 523, 644, etc.; in the entire poem Reichenhart classes 34 out of 120 occurrences as passive (Inf. 524). For the assonance, fieri . . . celeri, Kühn compares 152, 327, 439, 767.

183. quam: sc. id quod; cf. 867 (illum fieri). — sibi: Wakef. edd. for si OQ. — inchoat, 'starts': mental activity precedes other action, 4, 883. The swiftness of thought is a commonplace: Hom. η 36, νέες ὠκεῖαι ὥστε πτερὸν τὴν φύην; Thales, τάχιστος οὐν, διὰ παττός γὰρ τρέχει: Cic. Tusc. 1, 194, 'nihil est animo velocius.' Shakesp.: 'Fleeter than arrows, bullets, wind, thought, swifter things,' LLL. 5, 2, 261; 'With wings | As swift as meditation,' Hamlet, 1, 5; Cowper: 'How fleet is the glance of the mind!'

184. animus: sc. se perciet; 6, 154, 'nec res ulla magis quam Phoebi Delphica laurus . . . crematur.' — Perciet occurs again in 4, 563, but percit, 3, 303. — ergo animus: for elision of this character occurring in the second foot, cf. 356, 359, 404; 14 cases in this book, 28 in all; Kühn, 42.

185. ante oculos is little more than 'visible,' cf. 995; 2, 112. With in promptu there is his usual pleonasm. — quorum, referring to res, is a construction according to sense like eius natura . . . eum, 235-236; genus humanum . . . quorum, 2, 174; nil . . . quorum, 2, 583; 1, 57 n. — natura probably means 'constitution' as in 35, but this is one of several places where that meaning coalesces with the use of natura in Periphrasis — quorum natura = quae.

186. at: note also at contra, 191, 198, 201, in continuing the argument. —

mobile: mobilitas, i.e. celeritas, is an endowment of the atoms, 2, 65 (n.) and of exceedingly small bodies, 3, 200, 428. — tanto opere is the usual form in L. (cf. 688, 768, 1076), but tantopere is written in 5, 380, 1056. Cf. on magnō opere, 105. — rutundis assimilated from rotundis, cf. 195, 205. Lachm. on 2, 402, testifies that the form in u is the only original one in O and Q; cf. iucundus, soboles, lucunas 6, 538. Rubustis is the spelling of O and Q in 449. See Keller, Lat. Sprachg. II, 252, Stolz, Gr. I, § 141, Lindsay, LL. p. 201. Τῶν δὲ σχημάτων εὐκυργτήτατον τὸ σφαιροειδὲς λέγει (Δημόκριτος), Arist. de Anima, 405 a 9, quoted by Heinze.

187. debet, 'must,' is used by the poets and especially by L., of logical or physical, as well as of moral, necessity: 368, 537; 5, 1157, etc.

188. Note the chiasmus in momine . . . moveri . . . movetur . . . momine. Ter. And. 266, 'dum in dubiost animus, paulo momento hoc vel illuc inpellitur.'

189. tantillo occurs only here in L. and is not used by Cicero. Terence also has it in an absolute sense — 'ever so little' — Ad. 563, 'puerum tantillum . . . gestavi.' — momine is a causal abl.; cf. 494. — flutat is contracted from fluitat, like flutant (e connect.) 4, 77. Varro seems to be the only other writer who uses the contract form. Br. brackets 189–195 with Bock., who objected to the two groups of illustrations; Br. also because the particles of water are invisible (Prol. I.). But as Woltjer remarks, Mnem. 25, 326, the comparison is between the invisible animus and a visible fluid; 196–205 between a fluid whose atoms are invisible, and poppy, whose single parts are seen; 189–195 is thus needed to bridge over the argument, as Heinze remarked. Van d. Valk noticed the symmetry of 182–188, 189–195, 196–202. See also Wörpel, BPW. 19, 1340.

190. quippe, 1, 775; 4, 530; 6, 546. — volubilibus, 'rolling.' The modern illustration would probably be from shot or mercury rather than from water. The quality of lightness is reserved for the second illustration, 196 sq. — figuris: primarily the shapes of the atoms, but here the atoms themselves, as frequently. The argument would have been sounder if L. had used glomeramina, 'molecules,' rather than figurae: cf. on 2, 453.

191. constantior, 'more sticky,' probably first compared by L. like concretus, distractus, divisus, dominans, minutus, cunctans, superans; Dr. § 13. For the verse containing but one dactyl, in the 4th foot, cf. 5, 1265, 'mucronum duci fastigia procudendo.' A spondee in 5th foot occurs 31 times; 25 verses end in a tetrasyllable, 5 in a trisyllable; 1 in a monosyllable closing the 5th foot, 2, 309; Kühn 47. The flow of the verse here corresponds to the sense.

192. pigri, 'sluggish'; mare pigrum, Tac. Agric. 10. Mella tenacia, Georg. 4—57. — pigri magis et cunctantior: 396, 'magis coercens et dominantior,' 243–244; = 'maioribus et solidis magis,' 5, 927; 'quid magis est saxo durum, quid mollius unda,' Ov. AA. 1, 475. L. has rarior in 6, 1024, rarus magis in 3, 444; pigriores may have been excluded by the metre here; the form occurs in other authors. Wölfflin-Archiv 1, 100, notes the avoidance of mirior, and Cicero's use of dirius but not of dirior and of simile veri for uerior but not simile verorum, decentior for decorior, cf. Lindsay, LL. 95. — latices: the form latex was avoided. — cunctantior: 2, 392. — 'tardum cunctatur olivom.' — actus, 'driving,' 'progress.' Aen. 12, 687, 'fertur . . . mons . . . actu,' also in the 6th foot; actio is a prose word.

193. haeret inter se, 'cohere together more'; cf. 325; 2, 461. — materiā copia,

* 'store of matter'; the words are distributed between two verses in 1, 1017–1018, 1035–1036; 2, 267–268, 294–295; otherwise in 1, 986; 2, 281.

194. nimirum quia is frequent; cf. 226, 492, 566; nimirum alone, 978; with ~~et~~ sod, 2, 889; 6, 861; see on 1, 277.—extat = constat = est. Heinze prints constat; see on 216.

195. suptilibus: a quality of fire, 2, 385, of wind, 4, 901, of primordia, 4, 115, of an imago, 4, 747. The word does not occur in Cicero.

196. papaveris: chosen because smooth and round. The word is separated for emphasis from its noun acervus; so omne, 1, 975; natus, 5, 177; qua, 5, 110.—ura suspensa may be compared with suspensis dentibus, 5, 1069: that which is suspended touches lightly. The breath is 'held in'; Giuss. thinks the reference is to a game played by Italian children, who attempt to swallow a pile of poppy seed held in the hand, without at the same time blowing any away.

197. cogere ut: the infin. is the prevailing construction in L.: 42 inf., 5 subj.; Reichenhart, 470.—tibi: ethical, as in 279.—acervus: Robson, Cl.R. 14, 398, interprets as the capsule of the poppy, and translates 'the poppy's uplifted (altus) store of seed,' but altus is merely 'high,' and height is relative. Ap. M. 6, 10, 'papavere et cicere et lente et faba commixtisque acervatim confusis in unum ~~rumulum~~.'

198. conlectum is also read in 4, 414, after Muretus here, Lambinus there, for coniectum, OQ, which should perhaps be restored here; cf. 5, 600, in spite of Lachm. on 4, 414. Conlectus does not occur in the MSS. of L., and he could easily have extended the meaning of his favorite coniectus. Other interchanges of i and l by Lachm. are dubious, e.g. 58.—spicarumque, OQ, Br. Giuss.; spiclorumque Lamb., spiritus acer Lachm., Cauru' mouere Bern., Euru' mouere M., spicea runa Bergk, coniectu vincere acervum Frerichs, rumpere spira Hermann (Phil. 8, 180), coniectus percitus aer Grasberger, disiecere umquam Purmann, vis Aquilonis Bouterwek, and there are others. Heinze and Bailey leave it as corrupt. Br. defends spicarum by frugem spici ordine structam in Cic. CM. 51. For the verse closing in 3 (4) spondees—not otherwise occurring in L. (cf. on 612)—there is only one such in the Georgics, 3, 276, and but two in the Aeneid, 3, 74; 7, 634. Note again the chiasmus: lapidum with cum pondere, 201, and spicarum with aspera, 202. See Br. Prol. xviii, and Polle, Phil. 26, 328.

199. noenu: perhaps for 'noenus' representing ne unus as noenum 'ne unum'; Lindsay, LL. 615. It occurs also in 4, 712 and in Lucil. and Varro.—Duff remarks that noenu 'potest' and potest, 196, must have the same subject, thus disproving the conjectures of M. and others.—igitur here only stands at the beginning of the sentence in L., a position it has occasionally in other authors; Dr. § 355, 10.—parvissima occurs also in 1, 621, 615 (n.). The English of it is perhaps 'littlest' (Where love is great the littlest doubts are fears, Shaksp.). L. has multesima, 6, 651; Paulus quotes minerrimus.—proquam seems confined to L.; cf. 2, 1137, 'Satis est, proquam . . . exaestuat aestus'; 6, 11, 'et, proquam posset.'

200. et connects parvissima and levissima.—fruuntur here is a synonym of poliuntur, 'habent'; 6, 856, 'lumen fervore fruatur.'

201. cum pondere magno asperaque = pōndērōsa, etc. For the arrangement sensus animi atque animam, 578–579; 615. Another favorite order is the periph-rasis following as in 600, mens animaeque potestas; cf. 269, 587, 629, 645. F the cum see on 1, 276.

202. aspera characterizes some atoms, 2, 477; the spicae are entangled by the beards.—inveniuntur = videntur; 2, 404, 'quae amara atque aspera cumque vide tur'; cf. 1, 297 and n.

203. nunc igitur introduces the assumption also in 434; 1, 675; 4, 752.—e was inserted by Marull.

204. egregie, 'eminently'; 'egregie multis', 1, 735 (n.); 'eximie disposta', 644. Möbilissimus is impossible.

205. atque emphasizes rutundis for Democritus certainly, and Epicurus probably considered the round atoms to be the smallest; Masson, 112.

206. Cf. 1, 331. Epic. ad Herod. 83, καὶ ἀνὰ ταῦτα τὸ μνήμην τιθέμενα συνεχ βογθῆσει. — res, 'fact,' 'principle'; cf. 208, 355; 6, 740, 'id ab re | inpositumst, qui' L. has no hesitation in using the same word in different meanings in the same or succeeding lines, as res . . . rebus here; 364, 379, 403–404; 2, 310, summa tamen summa . . . stare quiete.—bone: the reader, certainly not Memmius.

207. opportuna, 'timely'; 6, 892, 'praebet . . . aequor | utilitatem opportuna scientibū nautis.'—cluebit occurs several times in the 1st and 2d books, but only once in the 4th and not at all in the 5th and 6th. As a synonym of esse the word does not occur in other authors. Cf. on 1, 119.

208. quoque . . . etiam: etiam . . . quoque, 292; 5, 153, 517, 604, etc.; ite quoque, 5, 751. Etiam quoque and quoque etiam are no longer read in Cic.: Reisi Schmalz, 3, 840, § 458; see also Dr. § 319, 3.—dedicat is an emphatic 'declares' 1, 422, 'communis dedicat esse | sensus'; not classic in this sense.—eius refers animi, inferred from animi natura, 203, and that to animus, 177.

209. textura: so the simulacra, or patterns of things, are textura praedita raro 4, 196. Textura here is warp and woof of the soul; cf. on 1, 529.

210. parvo: Gassendi expresses it, following L., 'If you can conceive the whole of the soul to be gathered into one mass, it would occupy a mere point almost, the very tiniest space'; Masson, 112.—si possit, 'supposing it possible,' for the anima is dispersed through the body (143): 540, 'si iam libeat concedere falsum et dare posse animam conglomerari in corpore'; 374, 'elementa animai . . . rara p artus dissita sunt'.—conglomerari is cited once from Ennius, Celsus, and L. F the verse-ending see on 14.

211. quod: 5, 285, 'id licet hinc cognoscere possis | quod.'—leti: signifying the destruction of the body.—secura: death is omni somno securius, 977; the going to securum aevum, 5, 82, and secura quies is the natural end of every mortal, 93 Byron, 'The rapture of repose that's there,' is quoted by Lee.

212. indepta, 'has laid hold upon,' 4, 761, 'iam mors et terra potitast.' The word is not classic. For the inde, indu, etc., cf. on 1, 82.—recessit of the departure of the soul in 439, 716, 725; 4, 917, 'foras eiecta recessit'; Aen. 4, 705, 'ventus vita recessit.'

213. ibi, probably 'then,' which is not good prose usage. Cf. 4, 677; 6, 27 etc.—libatum: cf. 716, and Livy, 21, 29, 6, libatis viribus; a poetical usage. F de cf. 991, 223, 608.—cernas is subjunct. of the indefinite second person; cf. possit 370, 856, 960, 1024, and Hale-Buck, ZG, 542.

214. ad, 'in respect to,' as in 397, 926; 5, 569, 'nil ad speciem contractior ignis'; cf. on 144. M. cites ad speciem from Cic., Livy, and Mela. The soul-atoms are too small to be seen.—praestat, 'makes good.'

215. vaporem is technical for 'heat'; see on 126. This heat could not well be cold, so calidum is pleonastic; nor could sensus be otherwise than vitalis.

216. animam totam, animus and anima.—esse with the abl. is equivalent to constare. It occurs without a prep. also in 5, 241, 'corpore nativo ac mortalibus esse figuris,' cf. 5, 377; and with e in 3, 244, 858, etc.; with de, 2, 390.

217. seminibus: note the variety: he begins with corporibus, 180; then follow seminibus, 187; figuris, 190; corporibus, 195, 199, 205; seminibus, 217, 226, 230; this is in his usual manner.—nexam, 'intertwined'; so inter se nixa teneri, 2, 405, and inter se nervi . . . induplicata, 1, 240. Wakef. comp. Juvencus, 2, 668, 'ius-torumque animas redidivo corpore necti' and Amm. Marc. 14, 11, 'solutus enim corporeis nervis animus.'—venas, viscera, nervos is an enumerative asyndeton and is a poetical way of describing the body taken distributively; he mentioned the bones in 123. The complete catalogue may be found in 2, 669.

218. quatenus in the causal sense seems first used by L., who was followed by Horace and Ovid; Val. Max. leads the prose writers; Lindsay, LL. 557. It occurs also in 424 and 2, 927.—omnis: sc. anima, and so all its atoms. Omnis and toto accentuate each other also in 1, 984; 2, 274; 6, 679.—e . . . cessit: L. does not use excedere. Cic. says, 'animos cum e corporibus excesserint,' Tusc. 1, 24, but the use is rare. The preposition is used here for the sake of clearness, although ordinarily L. omits e and ex with verbs compounded with that preposition. Cf. 48, 329, 519, 719, 772, 1012. The preposition is used in 327, 697. See Hertz, 36–37.

219. Cf. 4, 647, 'extima membrorum circumcaesura coerct.'—extima, 'outermost,' is not so common as extrema. Extera occurs in 2, 277, 435.—circumcaesura is like repakorū, used by Polybius as 'outline' or 'general form.' Cic. has circumscriptio instead in Tusc. 1, 45. Arnobius, 3, 13, quoted by Wakef., says the divine nature, 'neque ullas formarum effigies possidere, quibus extima circumscriptio membrorum solet coagamenta finire.'

220. incolumem, 'unimpaired,' as in 341, 409, etc., a favorite word.—nec hilum, 'not a hair,' 'not a bit'; neque . . . hilum, 518; aut . . . hilum, 514. Nihilum, nihil are the final forms. Hilum is nom. here; acc. obj. 514, 1087; acc. subj. 518; acc. adv. 783, 830, 867; hilo abl. 5, 1409.—Nec hilum is better Latin than et . . . nihilum; Madv. LG. 458.—defit is not classical; cf. 2, 1141.

221. quod genus est = qualiter est; with est, 597; without est, 266, 276, 327, 431; ~~omne~~ genus, 1, 1026, and n. Quod is a connecting relative. The acc. here stands for an attributive gen. (cuius generis) sometimes called acc. absolute; it belongs to the older and common language. See Lachm. p. 85; Archiv 5, 393; Lane, LG. 146.—Bacchi for wine: cf. 2, 655, 'siquis mare Neptunum Cereremque vocare | constituet fruges et Bacchi nomine abuti | mavolt'; Hor. C. 3, 16, 34, 'bacchus in amphora.' L. here tacitly accepts the Stoic metonymy opposed by Epicureans; cf. Philod. 71, Cic. ND. 1, 118; Pascal, Gr. Capt. 61.—flos, 'bouquet'; nardi florem, 2, 848. He regards flos as something possessing weight.—'Flos vini naribus meis obiectust,' Plaut. Cure. 96; 'florem anculabant Liberi ex carchesiis,' Liv. Andr. 30.

222. suavis goes with spiritus according to Lucretian usage; cf. fortis, 8, cure cordis inanis, 116; there are many such cases.—diffugit is said of the escape of the soul in 122, 255; of the evaporation of wine by lightning in 6, 232; cf. fugiens, 23 and 1, 761 n.—auras is a frequent word for 'atmosphere,' as in 400, 436, 544 sometimes aeris follows pleonastically in the next line, as in 571, 751; less often precedes, as in 456, 591: auras usually in hexameter poets closes the verse who having this meaning; exceptions are 1, 771; 5, 810, etc.

223. cum iam shows that L. was unconscious of the original temporal force of quoniam = quom iam which appears frequently in Plautus; et cetera had the same development. So Shaksp. has 'since,' meaning 'when.'—sucus, 'flavor,' vulg 'goodness'; 6, 986, 'penetrare aliquo saporem | cernimus e sucis'; 2, 845. Pisa . . . celantia sucum, Hor. S. 2, 8, 28.—de corpore cessit: the simple abl. wit decido occurs in 2, 34; 4, 1042; dēcessit was not metrically convenient.

224. nilo, a necessary and easy change by edd., after Heinsius, for nil OQ retained by Lachm. M.; see Polle, Phil. 26, 329.—oculis is dative; cf. 607; 1042. It corresponds to cernas, 213; praestat, 220.

225. detractum, sc. esse videtur: the prep. is omitted in 442; cf. 514.

226. Note the alliteration.—multa: if all the odor-particles should be withdrawn there would still be no apparent decrease in weight.—sucos: in 4, 615 sq. the particles of flavor are forced out like water from a sponge; id. 698 sq., particles of smell are small, but larger than those of voice.

227. in toto corpore: these odors are bodies within objects: 4, 695.—For i see on 138.—rerum, OQ, and recent edd.; rei Lachm. because of toto corpore an res ipsa, 224; but the reference is to things in general, of which the qualities are properties which may be expressed in the singular.

228. quare etiam atque etiam: sc. inquam or translate 'most positively'; of course there is no real ellipsis, but quare etiam atque etiam ut dico occurs in 4, 120 Livy, 41, 19, 6, 'iussit ut etiam atque etiam curaret'; see Fabri on Livy, 22, 13. L. often closes a paragraph in this manner: 1, 295, 1049; 2, 243, 377, 1064; 3, 57 691; 4, 216, 289, 856; in 5, 821, at the beginning of a closing argument.

229. scire licet and scilicet are both used by L.; the latter is not ironical; it 'plainly enough.' So videlicet, 1, 210 (n.); videre licet, 2, 871. Sci- and vide- are probably imperative; Stolz, Hist. Gr. I, § 93.—pauxillis is mostly anteclassical.—creatam: construed like esse, 216 n. It is used with ex, 34; with de, 278; without preposition, 190, 708.

230. fugiens: diffugiens, 122, 222. Perhaps aufugiens should be written here and in 5, 810.

231–257. 'The fourfold constitution of the animus. It consists of spirit, heat, air and a nameless substance of surpassing fineness. With this fourth substance sensation begins, and injury to it brings ruin to the whole.'

231. Nec tamen offsets a wrong inference; the animus is not uncompounded like an aroma. Cf. 238, 738, 859.—haec = huius (animi, 237); Madv. LG. 314.—simplex: simplice natura, 1, 1013; duplex, 1, 503; triplex, 3, 237, multiplex spiritum, 2, 163.—'The human soul having no parts must be indissoluble in its nature by anything that hath not power to destroy or annihilate it,' Locke, Phil. Works, 1 238.—putanda: putandos, 2, 616; frequently putandumst, 310, 668, etc.

232. tensis: also tenuis, 243; tentia, 383; extenvantur, 4, 1262.—aura, ‘spirit,’ is the ventus of 247. Plutarch, adv. Col. 20, says that according to the Epicureans the soul was constituted ἐκ τινος θερμοῦ (vapor, calor) καὶ πνευματικοῦ (aura, ventus), καὶ αέρθδους (aer); and Aetius, 4, 3, 11, that the soul was κράμα ἐκ τετράρων, ἐκ τοιοῦ πυρώδους, ἐκ τοιοῦ αέρθδους, ἐκ τοιοῦ πνευματικοῦ, ἐκ τετάρτου τινὸς ἀκατορύπατου· τοῦτο δὲ ήταν αὐτῷ τὸ αἰσθητικόν; Usener, Epic. p. 218, with more extensive quotation.

233. mixta: here with the unusual simple abl.; cf. 842; with cui, 234; inter se, 258; corpore miscet, Aen. 6, 727.—vapore vapor: see on caedem caede, 71. — porro, ‘in turn,’ as in 4, 487, ‘an aures | tactus? an hunc porro tactum sapor arguet?’ 5, 1278; 6, 352.

234. With the variation vapor, 233, calor, 234, cf. vaporis, 4, 871, calor, 874; alba . . . candida, 2, 731–732; seiungunt . . . secernunt, 2, 728–729; colores . . . nitore, 2, 786–787; orba . . . remota, 2, 838–839; vaporis . . . teporis, 2, 843–844; dapidem . . . saxi, 4, 265–266; potestas . . . uis, 4, 489–490: many others might be quoted. — quisquam = ullus in 875, and 1, 1077, quisquam locus; 2, 857, saporem quemquam. Except with appellatives it is not used as an adj. in the best prose; cf. Reisig, § 204.—sit: the subj. is like that in the relative clause that follows general expressions of existence and non-existence. 4, 74, ‘ostia sunt qua contendant’ at first sight might seem to come under the same category, but it is rather like Cic. CM., ‘illo extincto fore unde discerem neminem.’ It is difficult to feel the subjunct., especially in the former passage.—et for ‘also’ is regarded by Lachm., who changes to mixtus non siet aer, as a ground for suspected corruption, and purists still dispute it in other classic writers; but it is well attested in Cic.: Dr. Synt. § 312. For L. cf. 290; 1, 830; 5, 610; 6, 749.—‘L. seems to have drawn this conclusion from what he saw of fire and its mode of operation’; M.

235. rara, ‘with interstices between its parts,’ is said of aer, 2, 107; textura, 4, 196; ignes, 1, 654; corpus, 1, 347, and often. Tac. Agric. 37, ‘rariores silvas’; Milton, PL. 2, 948, ‘through dense or rare.’—enim: postponed; cf. 560 and on 2, 219.—constat = est as in 440, 671, 794; probably 38 instances in the poem; existare perhaps 10 times; other synonyms of esse are stare, manere, reddere, vivere.

236. inter with verbs of motion often means ‘through.’—eum refers to eius natura; 185 n.

237. animi, OQ, edd.; animae, Br. after Susemihl, Phil. 27, 23, but cf. on 177. Sensus comes from animus, not anima. This is one of several signs that this discussion as far as 322 was drawn from a different source than the rest of the book. Note (with Heinze) that 323 might have followed on 230.

238. sat: elsewhere L. writes satis; perhaps sati should be written here; cf. Enn. Ann. 410.—cuncta, ‘all taken together,’ from coniuncta.

239. recipit, ‘admits,’ ἔρθεται, λέγοις αἵπει, Epic.; cf. ratio reclamat, 1, 623.—mens, OQ, Giuss. Bail., † mens, Heinze; res, Bern. M. Br.; quem, Lachm.: see Jahrb. 115, 276, BPW. 15, 1133.

240. nendum quae mente volutat, Giuss., volutas, Postgate (J. Phil. 24, 137); quidum quae mente volutas, Lotze, Phil. 7, 721, nendum for quidum, Polle, id. 25, 276. The repetition mens . . . mente is Lucretian although harsh: mens in relation to volutat is equivalent to homo, as Giuss. says. Quaedamque mente volutat, OQ, regarded as corrupt by Bailey, and quaedamque mente by Heinze; Lachm. quaedam vis menti; Bern. quidam quod manticulantur; M. et homo quae mente; Purmann, quibus' constat cumque voluntas or aut quae quis mente; Winck. quaecumque elementa; Grasberger, qui tanquam mente; Goebel, et quae mens cumque; Albert, animae elementa minuta; Frerichs, et mens quaecumque. The passage is still unhealed. For nendum, see on 1, 653.

241. quarta: 'This last, which is the differentiating constituent of mind, suggests that it is postulated by the feeling that there is more in the psychical than physical analogies altogether explain,' Wallace, Epic. 103. 'Individual atoms do not feel or their feelings could not be fused together . . . since void . . . cannot conduct sensation, and still partake of it. We must therefore constantly fall back on the solution that motion of atoms is sensation. Epicurus and Lucretius seek in vain to veil this point by saying . . . that there is . . . still a fourth constituent,' Lange, Materialism, I, 146. 'Life and perception can no more result from any mixture of elements or combination of qualities . . . than from unqualified atoms,' Cudworth, 2, 149.

242. adtribuatur, 'annexed'; 2, 836, ut non omnibus adtribuas sonitus. Act. 4, 3, 11 (Usener, Epic. Fr. 319) τὸ δὲ ἀκατονήμαστο τὴν ἐν ἡμῖν ἐμποιεῖν αἰσθησιν . . . ἐν οὐδεὶ γάρ τῷν ὄντομαζομένων στοιχείων εἴραι αἰσθησιν. Cic. Tusc. 1, 22, 'Aristoteles . . . quintum genus [e qua sit mens] adhibet vacans nomine'; the English derivative 'quintessence' shows the relative victory of the Aristotelian philosophy.

243. Lactantius seizes this admission, Opific. Dei, 17, 'nec ideo tamen immortalem esse animam non intellegimus, quoniam quidquid viget, moveturque per se semper, nec videri aut tangi potest, aeternum sit necesse est.' The tanta celeritas animorum is one of Cicero's arguments (CM. 78) for immortality.

244. e . . . est, Wakef. edd.; e . . . ex, OQ, Heinze; et . . . est, Lachm. 6, 330, 'adde quod e parvis et levibus est elementis.' — elementis is another occasional word for atoms (19 times); cf. 374; 5, 599. L. has used it several times for the letters of the alphabet; e.g. 2, 689; but this is the earliest passage where he has it for technical atoms; Quint. 3, 3, 13, interprets elementa as στοιχεία, corpora inseparabilia.

245. didit is an anteclassical word frequent in L. It is a synonym of dividit, 271. Epicurus appears to have supposed, in sharp contrast to the theory of conservation of force, that a subtle body may pass on its own movement to a heavier, independently of bulk, and this to a still heavier; so that the sum of mechanical work done, instead of remaining stationary, goes on multiplying from step to step, Lange, l.c. — prima: thought according to Epic. was caused either by simulacra of wonderful fineness, which, being given off from things, penetrated through and set in motion the fourth substance of the mind; or, in the absence of any exterior impulse, by the self-determined motion of the atoms of the mind. These matters are discussed at length in Books 4 and 2.

246. perfecta, like constare (167 n.), is construed both with and without a preposition; cf. 268. Here the participle implies the cause or reason. L. does not intend to discuss psychology in this book; his intention is to prove the mortality of the soul. It is his custom to treat ancillary questions in this offhand manner, when his principal aim at the time demands a partial treatment of a related subject. — figuris: on 190.

247. inde, 'next'; 1, 14 n. — calor: heat in 2, 150 sq. is delayed in its progress by air, hence would be nearer in mobility to the quintessence than to the air. — motus is object of accipit; the two = movetur; so motus accipiant = moveantur, 2, 885; dare dicta = dicere, 5, 53. — venti = aura, 232, 290, cf. 269. The exact difference between this ventus and aer is not known: aura is said to be frigida in 290, and aer temperate in 292. Wind is air in motion, and so may have more void in it. — caeca, 'invisible'; 316, 874; 1, 277, corpora caeca and often. Aen. 1, 356, — caecumque domus scelus omne retegit. — potestas is often used in periphrasis in this connexion, as in 277, 334, 558, 600, 674; 5, 1242. For the order, see on 201.

248. mobilitantur is anteclassical and rare.

249. concutitur is a synonym of ciere; cf. 391–392. The desire for variety of expression is seen in these synonyms — cietur, motus accipit, mobilitantur, concutitur, persentiscunt. — sanguis: as the fluid parts are more readily moved than the solid flesh, viscera. — persentiscunt, 'feel throughout' is anteclassical. Notice the chiasmus.

250. postremis, for postremo. L. sometimes uses an adjective where an adverb might be expected; cf. 4, 478, and on 2, 363. — atque: because ossa and medullae naturally belong together. Ribbeck, Rh.M. 30, 633, would read momina for omnia, but omnia with viscera is emphatic in meaning and position.

251. contrarius, opposite to voluptas, implies that the ardor might be painful; dolor is reserved for use in 252. — ardor is said of love, 4, 1086; of thirst, 4, 1098; but in itself is a neutral word like 'passion'; in Catull. 2, 8, 'gravis acquiescit ardor,' it means grief. In Aen. 9, 66, 'dolor ossibus ardet,' and id. 1, 660, 'incendat reginam atque ossibus implicet ignem.' Voluptas and ardor and all that lie between form the range of sensation. L. has the word several times in its original sense — heat or fire; cf. 1, 650.

252. temere, 'carelessly,' 'lightly,' 'without serious consequences.' L. always uses the word with a negative or in sentences having a negative coloring; cf. 2, 1060; 5, 1002, 1178; 6, 319, 1219, and always before an initial vowel, as do all the hexameter poets probably a sign of a short ultima; see Archiv 4, 51; 9, 8. But in Sen. Phaed. 394, temere iactae. — huc, to this nameless substance. Heinze and the older edd. refer it to medullis, but is injury to all bones and marrow fatal? Although mere sensation always begins with the fourth substance, dolor and acre malum will destroy it, just as extreme emotion sometimes kills. — Huc usque is uncommon. — Penetrare: of disease, 471, with in; of wine, 476; penitus penetrari, 2, 539; here of pain resulting from some outer disturbance. Notice the five dactyls; there are 172 such verses in the poem (Kühn, 46).

253. permanare: cf. 699, 701. — Percolatur also occurs, e.g. 2, 475. — quin introduces a consecutive clause; cf. 328, 330, where haut facile, 'it is impossible,' corresponds to nec temere here; 6, 319, 'nec temere . . . esse potest . . . quin veniat.'

254. usque adeo usually begins the line: 391, 523, 622; see Archiv 6, 62. — ut: added by Lamb. edd. — vitae: identified with the quintessence which is the ruler of the soul (280); the anima retires from the body as soon as the animus ceases to control. There is no real inconsistency with 120 sq.—locus: 'room.'—animai: possible dative; 1, 453–454 n.

255. caulas: (προτι), etc., repeated at 702, cf. 707. This is his explanation of death: 6, 839, 'dispergunt animas per caulas corporis omnis'; 2, 948 sq.

256. summo corpore, 'surface': 4, 31, 'membranae summo de corpore rerum' and frequently. Bergk would have tempore for corpore, but quasi would then be unnecessary.—quasi = paene, cf. 2, 958; Ter. HT. 145, 'mercedem quasi talenta ac quindecim.' L. is trying to explain nervous shock; when it penetrates to the citadel of life the soul residing there in greater density is dislodged; ordinary agitations do not reach this centre. Cf. 2, 944 sq.

257. motibus, 'agitating disturbances.'—retinere valemus, O corr. edd.; reti- nemus valemus OQ; retinemus valentes Lachm.; but retinemus is not Lucretian.
Valemus occurs but three times in L. in positive clauses; against six with negative the prevailing use; Reichenhart, 464.

258–322. 'These four elements are joined in close union and may not be separated, but the quartessence remains in the inmost parts of the body, and is the soul of the whole soul. The other three constituents are present and their varying amounts explain the difference of temperament which is also seen in animals.' Yet this variation need prevent no man from leading a life worthy of the gods.'

258. sese is thought to be more emphatic than se; Kühner, LG. § 128, 6, Anm.
3. Se is far more frequent in L.—inter sese mixta is the reading of OQ, but Br. changes to immixta (or se sint mixta; see Phil. 27, 35). The caesura falls within inter as in 6, 1067, Sil. Ital. 5, 497; 10, 308; a development from the separation of compounds as in 3, 612, 715; 5, 165; 6, 197. M. (on 2, 1059) followed by Giuss. would have it within sese; discussion by L. Müller, RM. 461; Christ, Metrik, § 216; Meyer, Hexam. 1047; Lachm. p. 413.

259. compta, in the sense 'unite' or 'bring together' is Lucretian: 1, 950, 'qui constet compta figura'; 4, 27, of the soul, 'quibus e rebus cum corpore compta vige- ret.' The noun comptu occurs in 845. For the inserted p cf. hiemps, 5, 747, sumpta, 4, 1182.—vigeant, 'show their powers'; cf. 283.—rationem reddere is a common didactic formula: 1, 59; 2, 763; 4, 572.

260. abstrahit, 'keeps me back,' 'forbids,' a rare meaning. Thes. 1, 201, 3, cite
Codex J. 3, 28, 36, 1 c, 1, 'omnem moram esse abstrahendam.'—patrii sermoni
egestas: Cic. Caec. 51, disputes the common charge against Latin qui dicitur inop- and in Tusc. 2, 35, is jubilant because dolor and labor correspond in his opinion to only one Greek word, probably πόνος. Pliny, Ep. 4, 18, quotes this passage of L. because he found it difficult to write Latin epigrams when Greek was easy, and Virgil, Georg. 3, 289, has trouble in describing humble things in poetic language. But the complaint of L. is due to the lack of a philosophical vocabulary in Latin which Ciceron so largely created; in 1, 136 sq. he brings this out, especially 139, multa novis verbis—praesertim cum sit agendum; in 1, 831, he could find no Latin word for Anaxagora's homoeomeria. Seneca, Ep. 58, complains also that he cannot translate adequately οὐσία, τὸ δύναμις, εἶδος: cf. Manil. 3, 40; and Quintilian, 1, 5, 58, says, 'Graecis utimur verbis, ubi nostra desunt, sicut illi a nobis nonnumquam mutuantur.' Sergius Flaccus introduced ens and essentia, and many others which failed to meet critical approval; deplored by Quint. 8, 3, 33. Probably 3, 419, 'conquisita diu dulcique reperi-labore,' and similar statements elsewhere, have reference to this difficulty in vocabulary as well as to the abstruse nature of the subject. Yet he thought that he was in a measure successful: 1, 933, 'obscura de re tam lucida pango | carmina, musaeo contingens cuncta lepore.' See Weise, Character. d. lat. Sprache, 139, Bernhardy, Rom. Litt. 32, and Introd. p. 42.

261. tamen: sed tamen also in 553, 735; 1, 833. — summatis attingere: Quint. 10, 1, 44, 'summatis . . . attingam,' id. 12, 9, 1, 'pauca attingam'; Suet. Aug. 85, 'poetica summatis attigit'; M. absurdly punctuates after every word but sed and ut. Sometimes L. was unwilling to stop for a full explanation, as in 6, 1082, 'nec me tam multam hic operam consumere par est'; so to the impatient reader he promises paucis verbis, 1, 499; 2, 143; and in 5, 155, he postpones — posterior largo sermone probabo. In 4, 180, 909, he will explain suavitudinis potius quam multis versibus; cf. 3, 316. — attingere tangam: cf. gigni gignentur, 2, 300, sentimus sentimus, 6, 949; decidere cadentque, 3, 969. Bruno would have pergam for tangam.

262. inter . . . cursant: so inter . . . iecta, 860; praeter . . . ire, 4, 388; inter . . . saepit, 4, 948; there are many other cases. L. separates verbs compounded with dissyllabic prepositions 13 times, monosyllabic 15 times (Städler, 5). After Ovid tmesis occurs only with dissyllabic propositions and only such as may stand syntactically independent of the verb; Müller, RM. 368. — principiorum motibus, 'with regular atomic movements.'

263. nil unum, 'no one element,' but strictly, unum remains an adjective like aliud in nil aliud, 4, 434, cf. 3, 285, and 2, 1077, 'res nulla sit una.' Heinze would have unum proleptic to secernier, but nec . . . potestas is a parallel construction.

264. 'Nor if separated by space can it exercise its own peculiar properties.' — fieri is an emphatic esse as in 347. — potestas has its ordinary meaning as in 490.

265. quasi apologizes for vis = δύναμις, νοιότητες, Plut. adv. Col. 20 (Usener, Fr. 314). — vis = vires, the original form dislodged by the latter. Vis multas, 2, 586. It occurs in the fragments of Sallust and Messala. — corporis, 'substance.' — extant: sc. primordia e quibus constat animus, as in 262; Frerichs, extent.

266. quod genus: on 221. — in: because odors are regarded as bodies. — viscere: sing., is poetical (1, 837; 3, 719), but used also by medical writers.

267. The fivefold alliteration occurs elsewhere in L. only in 1, 200, with p, and 5, 94, with t. — calor, OQ, Lachm. Giuss.; color Lamb. M. Br. Heinze, Bail., because calor is out of place with living flesh; but viscus in normal condition has quidam calor, which is material to Epic.; cf. 2, 670. Again, color is existent only when visible in the light.

268. augmen: here a synonym of moles, 'bulk.'

269. Cf. 247.

270. mobilis illa vis is separated from the other three constituents, first for emphasis, and secondly, to bring it near the relative clause.

271. initum: 2, 269, 'ut videoas initum motus a corde creari'; 1, 383, 'initum . . . movendi.' — ab se: 4, 468, animus quas ab se protinus addit. — dividit: 'imparts' = didit, 245. Hor. Epd. 11, 16, 'ut haec ingrata ventis dividat.' — ollis: archaic for illis; see on 1, 672. Ab ollis, 6, 687; elsewhere the abl. form is illis; vis, dat., twice.

272. oritur is said of variantia rerum, 318; animi natura, 788; alid, 970
quid, 1, 75; also of saeclum, 4, 1227; ignes, 2, 591; ratio, 4, 521; venarier, 5, 1250
risus, 5, 1403; magnes, 6, 909.

273. nam explains why the quartessence works through the other components. Notice the amplitude of statement.—penitus modifies both latet and subest. It is a frequent word whose exact sense appears in 4, 73, ‘non solum ex alto penitusque . . . verum de summis’; 199–200; cf. 3, 582, ex imo penitusque.—subest: cf. 284, 4, and 2, 127, ‘motus quoque materiali | significant clandestinos caecosque subesse’— a good match for fulness of expression. For the two synonyms, cf. tollit et eicit, 877; versamur . . . atque insumus, 1080; cunctatur et haeret, 407.

274. magis infra = inferius. Infra means ‘below the surface’; it continues the thought of penitus latet subestque. Intra was an early emendation approved by Christ, Polle, Woltjer, and Bock. Infra = infra nostros sensus, 4, 112, is not in point here. To understand infra together with latet and subest as meaning ‘remote from view’ in the sense of escaping analysis until the last, seems to be a violent interpretation, justified, if at all, only by patrii sermonis egestas.

275. proporro, ‘furthermore’; pro is intensive. The word occurs in 281; 4, 890, etc. The quartessence has evidently the same relation to the soul that the mind has to the body; the quartessence is the life of the soul, 254. As the soul excels the body in the smallness, quickness, etc., of its parts, so the nameless part exceeds the soul.

276. membris et corpore is cumulative for corpore alone; so corpus et viscer, 4, 375; cum corpore . . . cum membris, 682–683; corpora et artus, 737; corporibus inmixta per artus, 393.

277. latens is predicate. 273–275 were said with reference to the position of the quartessence; 276–281 bring out the concealment.—est: sing. with double subject; cf. 295, 436, and 142.

278. parvis occurred in 205, 244, 246; perparvis, 216; minutis, 179, 187, 229; but nothing has been said about paucis. This fewness may perhaps be inferred from 121, 209–220; but it is more probable that as paucis and rara are frequently synonymous, paucis here represents rara, 235; cf. 376.

279. facta: cf. 427.

280. quasi: it is difficult to see why the word should be inserted here and omitted in 275. Lamb. read animai totius instead. Meleager, AP. 5, 156,  $\psi\chi\chi\tau\eta\varsigma\ \psi\chi\chi\eta\varsigma\ \alpha\tau\delta\varsigma\ \pi\lambda\alpha\sigma\tau\varsigma\ \mathbf{\Gamma}\mathbf{E}\mathbf{P}\mathbf{w}\mathbf{s}$ .

281. Cf. 138.

282. In the same way the other three components are mixed together, but in equal proportion; one of them is preëminent, and this explains difference in temperament; the safety of sense lies in their union.

283. inter se commixta: he has the two other usual constructions: c. igni, 6, 276, c. semina seminibus, 4, 1257–1258.

284. aliis: alias, Br., who yet maintains (Jahresb. 28, 153) that aliis is an abl. It is of course a dative. — emineatque: 1, 780, ‘emineat nequid contra pugnet,’ the only other occurrence in L. Quo is plainly ‘or’ as in 1, 656; 2, 825; 4, 56, 98, 518, 652; 5, 335, 1237; see Munro’s index.

285. unum: cf. 263 and quiddam proprium, 2, 366. This unity is important;

there is but one compound. Now one, now another component is apparent.—ab for usual ex.

286. ni, OQ = ne, Br. Heinze; cf. 2, 731 ne, 734 nive. The form survives in inscriptions and occurs occasionally in Plaut. See Lindsay, LL. 614.—seorsum seorsumque: for repetition see on 69. L. always has this synesis with seorsum except in 500, 551; cf. 334, 564; 4, 489. Cf. anteactam, 672, 935; deerrarunt, 861, aranei, 383, and on 1, 362.

287. interemant is the old spelling like peremit, 1, 226 n; cf. neglego, intello. Statistics in Archiv 4, 315.—solvant: 701, 'dissolvitur, interit ergo'; 1, 1103, 'diffugiant subito magnum per inane soluta.' Dissolution as an euphemism for death and destruction has come over into English. 'Immediate dissolution, which we thought | Was meant by death that day.'

288. etiam, OQ, Lamb. Wakef. Heinze, Giuss. and Woltjer, Mnem. 27, 53, who declares est etenim un-Lucretian: cf. 294; here of the special (ille) heat which is displayed when a man is angry. Etenim, Faber, Lachm. M. Br. Bail.—sumit: cf. robora sumunt, 5, 820, conamen sumit eundi, 6, 326 and the frequent arma sumere.

289. fervescit: effervescit in ira, 295, servescunt undae, 494.—acrius, OQ, Br. Giuss. Bail.; acribus, Lamb. Lachm. M. Heinze; in spite of Acn. 12, 102, oculis micat acribus ignis, the change does not seem necessary. The comparative expresses, as often, the considerable degree: Sen. Dial 4, 3, 2, 'oculos subito acriores.' Enn. Ann. 473, 'micant oculi'; Ov. M. 3, 33, 'igne micant oculi.' Hand on Stat. Sitv. 1, 47, acrius attollit vultus, retains acrius, comparing Theb. 9, 805, acrior . . . petebat. The ardor is the calor which is always present, though varying in degree and visibility.

290. est: sc. animo.—et, 'also'; ea, Lachm.: 'et pro etiam displicet.'—frigida: we first learn here that the aura is cold; this is his way . . . pedetemtim progredientis, 5, 533.—multa: perhaps because the body is so subject to cold, and the anima being dispersed through it, much aura would be necessary for the sensation. For the omitted et cf. 6, 1203–1204, 'multus . . . corruptus sanguis.'—comes, of lifeless things, 2, 580 n.

291. horrorem, 'shivering'; 6, 593, of the wind causing earthquakes: 'dispertitur ut horror et incutit inde tremorem; | frigus uti nostros penitus cum venit in artus'; Pers. 3, 115, 'alges, cum exussit membris timor albus aristas.'—membbris: 378, cire . . . motus in corpore; 151, per membra.—concitat: cf. 300. For the two verba cf. vertit . . . versat, 2, 880–882; evellere . . . extrahere, 3, 327–330; ruat . . . concidat, 4, 507–508; transt . . . travolat, 4, 601–602; contorquere . . . converttere, 4, 900; properant . . . instant, 5, 297–298; transire . . . meare, 6, 991–992; appellare . . . usurpare, 1, 60. Concutit, Wakef. Tohte (Jahrb. 117, 128), but 743, 'pavor incitat artus.'

292. etiam quoque, 'there is still also,' on 208.—pacati, cf. placido, 302, probably a constant epithet, rōv ḍāpa ṭhepearl . . . ḥuroicīr, Act. I. c. (Usener, Fr. 315).—aeris is the aer of 233; the gen. is epexegetical = status aereus, Heinze.

293. tranquillo: an Epicurean ideal: the gods have tranquilla pectora, 2, 1093; tranquilla pax is the proper condition of the worshipper, 6, 78, and this calm is one of the gifts of philosophy which Epic. discovered, 5, 12. For the abl. cf. 331, 466, 1000.—qui fit, Lachm. edd.; fit qui, OQ, M. Giuss., but the order is unexampled.—voltu: but vultum 163, vulta 4, 1213; elsewhere vol- as in 467, 655, 595. Cf. sorsum . . . seorsus, 5, 447-448, vortex . . . vertex, 6, 277-298; cum . . . quom, 5, 1077-1082; glaebis, 3, 327; glebis, 1, 888; linquuntur . . . lincuntur, 3, 713-714. ‘L. and his contemporaries undoubtedly allowed themselves much latitude,’ M. Introd. I, 37, cf. Br. Prol. xxxii.

294. corda = animi, 1, 923, and often; canum corda, 5, 864.—quibus: dative as in 479, 1046. The poets of the Ciceronian and Augustan ages decidedly preferred the dative of the relative and demonstrative pronouns to the genitive, and L. probably introduced the use; cf. on 129.

295. mens: animo and corde occur together in 6, 1233; Aen. 5, 643, ‘arrectata mente stupefactaque corda.’—effervescit: for the number cf. 6, 1204, ‘vires corporisque fluebat,’ and 1, 499 n. Cf. Cic. Brut. 246, ‘effervescens in dicendo stomacho saepe iracundiaque vehementius.’—in ira, 288; in dolore, 111; in frigore, 401; in metu, 826; in odore, 581; in sensu, 537; so in summa, 84 can be explained.

296. quo genere: 4, 855; 5, 59, ‘quo genere in primis;’ 2, 447, ‘in quo generis in primis;’ 4, 185, ‘in quo . . . genere.’—vis in periphrasis, on 8.—violentia: lions to L. are saevi, 306; 4, 1016; 5, 862; rabidi, 4, 712; tristes, 3, 741; validi, 5, 1310; acres, 5, 862. Vis violenta is a pairing like anxius angor, 993; sonitudo sonanti, 1, 826. ‘Violentus aper’ occurs in Ov. M. 8, 733. Arist. Hist. Anim. 488 b, 13 uses the ox, stag, and lion to illustrate temperament in animals; traditions examples.

297. Note the tone color of the repeated m and cf. 5, 1063.—rumpunt: Aen. 12, 527, ‘rumpuntur nescia vinci | pectora’; id. 7, 15, ‘gemitus iraeque leonum’; Val. Flac. 3, 737, ‘genitum . . . lea . . . dedit;’ Culex, 182, ‘spiritibus rumpit fauces.’ Wakef. comp. Avianus, 37, 13, ‘gravem gemitu collectus in iram’.

298. Lachm. transfers to follow 295, and Br., Phil. 23, 464, regarded it as a fragment of another form of 297, but in his edition finds after 297 a lacuna which he brackets with 298. Woltjer, Mnem. 25, 328, makes nec = neque enim or quonia non as in 1, 263, 690; 2, 158; 3, 264. The verses come in pairs, 292-293, 294-295, 297-298, 300-301. Giuss. think that the lion is slighted and inclines to a lacuna.—capere, ‘contain’; Ov. M. 6, 466, ‘nec capiunt inclusas pectora flamma,’ χωρέιν. Aen. 7, 466, ‘nec iam se capit unda.’—fluctus: 6, 34, ‘volvere curarum tristis in pectore fluctus,’ 74, ‘irarum volvere fluctus;’ Catull. 64, 62, ‘curarum fluctuat undis;’ Aen. 4, 532, ‘irarum fluctuat aestu;’ 12, 831, ‘irarum . . . volvit is sub pectore fluctus.’

299. ventosa, having ventus, 269 = aura, 290. Tutatasi . . . fuga cervos, 5, 863.—mens here and in 295 does not commit L. to a belief in the reasoning power of animals. The word is used loosely to express the part in animals corresponding to the mind of men, i.e. the complexus of calor aer ventus, and even the quartessens needed to begin sensation which animals must have (271); but in 753 he says of improbability ‘desiperent homines, sapient ferri saecula ferarum,’ and Cicero, N.D. 1, 48, gives the Epicurean principle nec ratio (potest) usquam inesse nisi in homine is figura; Aet. 5, 26, 3 ‘Ἐπικούρεοι οὐκ ἔμψυχα (τὰ φύτα). Reason, then, is confined to man, but how, L. does not say.—frigida because of the ventus; so frigida passa vitai, 930.

300. gelidas is a variation from frigida, like gelidos from frigore, 401; cf. 892;

6, 1171—1172. But gelidos is not necessarily 'icy'; 6, 149, 'candens ferrum . . . stridit ubi in gelidum demersimus imbre.' — auras, 'currents of air,' as in 1, 387, celerantibus auris constitutus.

301. tremulum motum is explained by horrorem, 291. The action is purely mechanical, as in 487; motum is the usual 'sensation.' — faciunt existere, on 100 and 154. — membris, like corpo, 155.

302. natura boum = boves. — The meaning is that the calm air gives the life-characteristic to oxen; that is, a different state would be eventually fatal to them. — magis heightens placido as with ventosa, 299; calidi plus, 294. — aere is a bold ablative; cf. vesci vitalibus auris, 5, 857.

303. nimir, Flor. 31, edd.; minus, OQ. — fax subdita is used literally in 6, 1285, subdebantque faces; Aen. 6, 593, 'faces nec fumea taedis | lumina'; Pers. 3, 116, nunc face supposita servescit sanguis. — percit: 5, 399, 'ira tum percitus acri.'

304. caecae: noctis caligine caeca, 4, 456, noctis ad umbram, 537. 'Caeca mente caligine Theseus | consitus,' Catull. 64, 208; 'inter caliginis umbras,' Ov. 4, 455. — umbram, O, Br. Heinze, Giuss. Bail.; umbra Q, Lachm. M. Suffundit has an abl. and acc. in 3, 39; 5, 482; 6, 479; here one is missing and umbram, resting on the authority of O, has the preference.

305. torpet: formidine torpens, 981. — perfixa: 2, 360; 6, 392; cf. on 6, 350; only in L.

306. interutrasque sitast, Br. Giuss. Bail.; † sitas, Heinze; inter utrasque sitas, OQ; inter utrosque sitast, M.; interutraque secus, Lachm., secat, Bern. Sitas is metaphorical also in Cic. Tusc. 5, 94, 'voluptates in medio sitas.' Cervos is in apposition with the thought contained in interutrasque: this led Heinze to regard sitas unsatisfactory. Br. (Proleg.) regards interutrasque as a prepositional phrase like adversum (aliquid). See on 2, 518.

307. sic is also predicate in 921. Cf. ita, 180; misere, 862. L. never writes sic siam; cf. 6, 895, and Lachm. p. 397. — hominum genus, as in 5, 1430; usually genus humanum, as in 2, 174; 4, 594; 5, 71. He has genus omne animantium, 1, 4; terarum, 1, 163, etc.; herbarum, 5, 783; agricolum, 4, 586; alituum, 5, 801. — doctrina: 'nil dulcius est bene quam munita tenere | edita doctrina sapientum templaque serena,' 2, 7. This teaching and learning were possible to Epicurean optimism: 1, 1115, 'namque alid ex alio clarescat nec tibi caeca | nox iter eripet quin ultima naturai | pervideas.' L. could have no sympathy with such Stoic total depravity as was afterwards expressed by Persius (5, 121), 'sed nullo ture litabis, | haereat in stultis brevis ut semuncia recti.' But cf. Introd. 23. — politos: the primary meaning appears in 5, 1451.

308. constitutus: 1, 643 n. — pariter modifies politos; there is a levelling up of culture. — illa is emphatic, taking up doctrina; ordinarily no pronoun would be inserted. Cic. Acad. 2, 74, 'Parmenides Xenophanes, minus bonis quamquam versibus, sed tamen illi versibus increpant,' and Reid's note. M. makes illa neut. pl. — relinquit: 5, 801, 'ova relinquebant volucres'; 3, 320, 614.

309. naturae: naturarum, 320. — animi: animae, Susemihl, Phil. 27, 34; 'recritis ita scripsisset sed facillime potuit errare,' Br. — vestigia: 5, 1447, 'ratio vestigia monstrat'; 4, 1140, 'vestigia risus.' Sen. Dial. 3, 3, 6, 'si dissensio et concordia quorum aliqua in illis (mutis animalibus) quoque extant vestigia.' — prima, 'original': of course natura, not vestigia; but adjectives are not uncommonly construed with nouns to which they do not properly belong. Cf. 1, 1102, 'volucri ritu famarum'; see on 1, 10.

310. mala, 734. The reference is to the infirmities of the mind.—Hor. Ep. 1, 10, 24, 'naturam expelles furca tamen usque recurret.'

311. quin, ita ut non, Crouslé.—proclivius decurrat: 2, 455, 'proclive volubilis exstat,' cf. 792. Terence noticed the same truth of human nature: Hec. 308, 'saep est quibus in rebus aliis ne iratus quidem est | quom de eadem causast iracundus factus inimicissimus.'—iras: the plural implies the recurrence: 6, 753, iras Pallidis acris; and in 5, 1195 the word refers to divis; in 6, 74, irarum fluctus is also said of the gods. In 5, 1195, the pl. is probably due to the metre.—Anger to an Epicurean was not always a fault: Cic. Legg. 1, 21, 'solent enim, id quod virorum bonorum est, admodum irasci'; Philod. col. 41 (p. 137 G.) συνχεθήσατο τοσιν δργάτι δρόπη; the fault lies in proclivius and acres. Cic. Fin. 2, 12, 'etsi satis clemens sum in disputando, tamen interdum soleo subirasci'; Sen. Dial. 4, 20, 'natura quedam proclives in iram facit.'

312. ille (secundus).

313. accipiat quaedam: Cic. Off. 1, 33, 'a quibus iniuriam acceperis.'—clementius aequo, 'more calmly than is right,' for δέσις οὐδὲ δργίζεται τονηπλα τυτὸς τυμφρού φέρει, Philod. col. 38 (Heinze). The adverb is used only here by L. He has aequo in 953; 4, 557, 1244, but does not use iusto; recto was introduced by Sidonius; see Archiv 6, 464.

314. rebus: psychological matters that are not mala, 310.—differre . . . varias is a pleonasm like 6, 834, 'claudicat . . . pinnarum nitus inanis'; 4, 451, 'binaque . . . geminare supellex'; 3, 463, 'avius errat.' Differre in is not common.

315. 'The manners which follow on the natural gifts.'—Hor. Ep. 1, 1, 57, 'est animus tibi, sunt mores.'—The verse is unmusical because of the assonance with as and the hissing s.—naturas: there are three plural occurrences of this word in L against 233 of the singular; 1, 710 n. Rerum naturas occurs in Cic. Acad. 2, 122.—varias: Cic. Fin. 2, 10, 'varietas enim Latinum verbum est, idque proprie in disparibus coloribus [L. 2, 825] dicitur, sed transfertur in multa dispartia, varium poema . . . variii mores.'—sequacis seems to mean 'resulting.' In 2, 48, the only other place where L. uses it, the form of the verse is not unlike: 'metus hominum curaeque sequaces' ('pursuing').

316. ego is not needed even for the metre, any more than nos in 4, 369. And as Woltjer, Mnem. 17, 64, finds that ego or nos occurs 24 times and tu 19, he thinks that L. agrees with Plautus and Terence in using them unemphatically.—nequeo only here in L.; Cic. always non queo in prose; but in Arat. 234, 'quarum ego nunc nequeo tortos evolvere cursus.'—The nunc is important; he cannot stop to explain now; the difficulty of the language makes the task too great. So in 1, 400, 'multaque praeterea tibi possum commemorando | argumenta . . . verum . . . satis haec'; 2, 182, 'posteriori . . . faciemus aperta. | nunc id quod superest . . . expediamus.'—caecas, 'unseen,' on 247. The word represents both δόηλος and δόπατος.

317. reperi = inventire, 'invent,' is on the whole poetical and post-Augustan.—figurarum is here used of the shapes of the atoms, as frequently in Book 2.

318. variantia seems to occur only here and 1, 653; vāriētas was impossible.

319. video, OQ, Heinze, Bail.; videor, Faber, edd.—Heinze compares 4, 456, 470; 5, 390, for omission of the subject (me) of the infin.—firmare = affirmare as in 6, 940. Ausim confirmare, 5, 196, and 2, 178. The simple verb and both compounds occur in the meanings ‘corroborate’ and ‘declare’ in prose writers from Cicero to Tacitus, interchanging their signification. So lingui in 320 is the equivalent of relinquit, 308; tenetur, 323 = continetur.—potesse for posse, also in 1, 665; 2, 225, 1010.

320. usque adeo, with parvola.

321. parvola: also in 6, 305; but parvula, which was the Augustan spelling, in 4, 1162; 6, 651.—ratio, ‘reason.’ 5, 1447, ‘ratio vestigia monstrat’; id, 1455, ‘ratioque in luminis erigit oras.’—nobis, Lachm. edd.; noctis, OQ, doctis, Br. after Lamb. ed. 3; but, as Heinze says, ratio must also work on indicti; dictis, Marull.

322. impedit degere: 4, 921, ‘sopor impedit esse.’—dignam dia, without passion, serene, tranquil, apathetic; like the life of the Indian princes deposed by the English, says Martha (Poème, 102).—‘Consistent with this belief is L.’s keen conviction of the misery brought by guilt to the sinner—the criminal, though his sin be not found out, cannot live a happy life.—Acherusia fit stultorum denique vita (1023), Masson, 187–188. Cic. ND, 1, 52, ‘nos autem beatam vitam in animi securitate et in omnium vacacione munerum ponimus’; Epic. ad Men. 135, ταῦτα οὖν καὶ τὰ τούτους συγγενῆ μελέται τρόποι σεαντὸν ἡμέρας καὶ νυκτὸς τρόποι (τε) τὸν δρομον σεαντῷ . . . ἔσθεις δὲ ὡς θεος ἐν ἀνθρώποις· οὐθὲν γάρ τοικε θητῷ σψφις ξώντων διαβατάροις ἀγαθῶις.

323–349. ‘The soul is contained in the body, and cannot be separated from it without the destruction of both; and being closely entwined together and joint Possessors of life, body and mind cannot feel separately: sense is due to both. The body does not continue after death; body and soul began life together, their Conditions of life are the same.’

323. natura: the reference is to 231.—tenetur = continetur; 567, ‘tenentur Corpore ab omni.’—ab: used similarly to express the agent, although not a person, in 429, 522; 5, 306. But in 4, 920, nam dubium non est animai quin opera sit | sensus hic in nobis. See Hertz, 20; Meissner, 21.

324. custos: ‘vitai claustra coercens,’ 396.—causa salutis: cf. 348, 486; causa leti, 1, 241. 4, 237, ‘in imaginibus quapropter causa videtur | cernundi,’ the means or occasion. Livy, 21, 21, 1, ‘Hannibalem causam esse belli.’—salutis, ‘life,’ 3, 125 (n.); 4, 506, of the senses quibus nixatur vita salusque.—Ov. Her. 10, 143, ‘si non ego causa salutis, | non tamen est, cur sis tu mihi causa necis.’

325 is repeated at 5, 554, where communibus radicibus is said of the union of the earth and sky. As Creech says, the body was the warp and the soul the woof.—haerent: sc. corpus et animus.

326. Cf. 1, 451, ‘quod nusquam sine permittiā | discidio potest est seiungi.’—videtur, apparently = manifestum est; 153 n. For verse ending, cf. 1, 556, ‘dissolvi posse videmus’; 5, 853, ‘coniungi possit habere’; 1178, ‘convinci posse Putabant.’

327. quod genus, on 221.—thuris glaebis: there was a reference to unguentum in 222, and to marjoram, myrrh-oil, and nard in 2, 847. Add to these the illustrations from tearing purple cloth (2, 830), the Meliboean purple (2, 500), the hanging lamps (5, 295), the reference to silver ware (1, 494; 6, 949), and we have undoubtedly a hint of the social position of L. ‘Scena croco Cilici persusa recens et araque Panchaeos exhalat propter odores’ (2, 416) does not prove that the theatres and temples were his sources of information.

328. natura, ‘identity.’ The drug was burnt and the ashes contained no perfume; so the soul leaves the body and both perish. Pliny, 21, 38, ‘quaedam videntur nisi uita, sicut tura murraeque.’

329. Note that both animi and animas correspond to haec, 323.

330. extrahere, dissoluantur, evellere 327, intereat 328: note the variation and see on 291.—haut: haud, 328; haut is the usual spelling in OQ; cf. 571, 7 737, 1057, 1069.—dissoluantur for dissolvantur, cf. 455, 578, 594, 903; dissolvi 612; dissoluti, 613. As the verse-ending with three spondees is rare (cf. on 198 in 706; 1, 559; 6, 446 the edd. print u (there is no spondaic verse otherwise) in Book 6); in other places sol may or may not be long, but it is regarded as short for consistency. The quantity of the vowel o is of course short (Sommer, 145).

331. inplexia principiis is an abl. abs. of cause; the verb is poetical, and used only here by L.—ab origine prima is repeated in 5, 678; 3, 771, ‘consors in origine prima.’ The pleonasm is not unpleasant.

332. ‘Are endowed in common in partnership of life.’ Note the interlocking; in this case expressive of the sense.—consorti: the poetical use of this word to indicate that which is shared (sors) instead of the sharers occurs in Ciris, 15, ‘quae heredibus est data consors’; Georg. 4, 153, ‘consortia tecta | urbis habent.’

333. nec sibi quaeque = nec sibi utra, ‘each for itself,’ quaeque = utra with suum or sui: Madv. 495, 2. ‘Yet the negative nec quaeque seems harsh,’ M. Nec sibi altera would express the thought with greater clearness.

334. sentire, absolute, 118 n.—potestas in periphrasis, 247 n.

335. eas (Lachm. edd.) refers to potestates; eos, OQ.—confatur is used only here by L. of sensation, accendo, which he here uses as a participle in his accustomed manner of using two verbs for one, being said of the senses in 2, 943, 959; 4, 927, ‘unde reconflari sensus . . . posset.’ Possibly the assonance accensus . . . sensus, 336, may have determined the arrangement of the verbs.—utrimque, ‘on both sides’ = of both; cf. 5, 839.

336. viscera is little more than a variation for ‘body.’ See on 217. Epic. ad Herod. 63, καὶ μὴν καὶ ὅτι ἔχει ἡ ψυχὴ τῆς αἰσθήσεως τὴν πλειστὴν αὐτὰς, δεῖ κατέχειν· οὐ μὴν εἰλήφει διὸ ταῦτην, εἰ μὴ ὅτῳ τοῦ λοιποῦ ἀδρούσματος ἀστεγάσθει τοι. τὸ δὲ λοιπὸν ἀθρούσμα παρασκευάσαν ἐκείνη τὴν αὐτὰς ταῦτην μετεληφει καὶ αὐτὸν τοιούτου συμπτώματος παρ' ἐκείνης, οὐ μέντοι πάντων ὡν ἐκείνη κέκτηται.

337. praeterea introduces a second quasi-proof, as in 4, 168, 528; 6, 406, 888. Heinze changes to propterea, cf. 2, 760. Br. brackets 337–349 as interrupting the argument; Giuss. suggests the order, 337–349, 331–336. Woltjer, Mnem. 25, 329, defends the Ms. order.

338. durare videtur: Lactantius disputes this statement by the fact that the body is often preserved by spices after the soul’s departure (Inst. 7, 12). L.’s purpose is to show that body and soul are vitally united, so if the body dies the soul must. ‘It is not in the metaphysical doctrine of the soul’s immaterial nature, but in the practical evidence of its moral and religious capacities that we find the most ictory natural proof of its immortality,' Buchanan, Mod. Atheism, 237. Λυομένου τὸν ἀθόποιατος ἡ ψυχὴ διατελεῖται, Epic. ad Herod. 65.

3. umor aquae, 2, 197; 6, 968; aquai, 3, 427; 1, 307; 6, 633, 874; aquarum, 1-349; saporis, 4, 222. Lacteus umor for milk, 1, 258, and pluvius u. for rain, 1. Woltjer, Mnem. 27, 57, would read non ut enim umor, because the second le of enim is not elsewhere found in the unaccented part of the foot in L., the harshness of such a change would be intolerable. For the rare elision in the syllable of the dactyl, cf. quidem u., 6, 80 and 3, 904. See Müller, RM. 299. nittit, 'lets go,' as in 356. Cf. 6, 876, (umor aquai) quaes semina cumque habet dimittat.

4. qui datus est: the heat is artificial, not natural.—convellitur: cf. 343 and i, 326. These verbs are particularly applicable to compound substances, but li usually refers to the wrenching away of something firmly implanted in er: 4, 505, convellere fundamenta. — ipse (umor).

5. manet incolumis: also 1, 457; manere incolumis, 2, 71; mansit i., 3, 09; i. durare, 5, 61; incolumi remanent res corpore, 1, 246.—inquam L. when he is very much in earnest: 5, 620, 'non, inquam, simplex his rebus a causast'; 2, 257, 'unde est haec, inquam, fatis avolsa voluntas.'

6. discidium: discindo is a synonym of convello, 340; discidium is a Lucretord, and uncommon in its primary meaning in other authors; cf. 347, 581, —artus is a variety for corpus; cf. 580, 'cum corpus nequeat perferre animai ium.' Such personification of the body and its parts is frequent: 'praesagit s,' 4, 1106; 'oculi fugitant,' 4, 324; 'cetera pars paret,' 3, 143; 'animam' 457; 'sensus . . . gubernant,' 550; 'agitat . . . moribundus . . . pes,' 653.

7. Probably convulsi instead of divulsi (divelli, 326) is due to alliteration; convellitur, 340.—penitus is joined with pereunt also in 1, 262; cf. pen. tit, 1, 226.—conque putrescant: praeterque meantum, 1, 318; seiungi seque ri, 1, 452; disiectis disque supatis, 1, 651; complexa . . . conque globata, 2, perque plicatis, 2, 394; indignos inque merentes, 2, 1104; inque pediri, 3, 484, inque tueri, 4, 713; inque gredi, 4, 887; praeterque feruntur, 5, 634; conque ntur, 6, 456; protracta . . . proque voluta, 6, 1264; inque ligatus, Aen. 10, inque salutatam, id. 9, 288; inque cruentatus, Ov. M. 12, 497. L. has putres, twice only short; here he avoided the close with 3 spondees (convulsi et tressunt).

8. ex ineunte aevo is repeated in 2, 743; 3, 745; 5, 555, 859, 537 'ex aevo coniunctam atque uniter aptam.' It always stands at the beginning of rse.

9. mutua contagia, 'mutual connections,' is the subject. Contagia is poetical sed only in the pl.; cf. 471, 740; 6, 1236. Ov. Tr. 5, 13, 3, 'aeger enim contagia corpore mentis.' Contagia is confined to L.; cf. 734; 4, 336; 6, 243; contagio, contamen, and contactus he does not use—the last two are orms. Cic. Div. 1, 63, 'cum ergo est somno sevocatus animus a societate et a gione corporis.' Cic. Fato 5 and 7 translates συμάθεια by 'contagio naturae, um' (Heinze).—vitalis motus, on 99.—discunt: of inanimate objects; V. , 42, 'discet mentiri lana colores.'

10. reposta: syncopated also in 1, 35; cf. posta, 1, 1059; 3, 857, 871; 6, 965;

disposta, 1, 52; opposta, 4, 150; inposta, 5, 543; praeposta, 6, 999. Positā is metricaly difficult. Virgil contracts reposta and composta only, Tibull. and Propert. not at all, and Horace has repostum once (Epid. 9, 1). Catull. has posta in 68, 39, a doubtful passage. Positis occurs in 4, 1267; dispositis, 5, 695; circumpositus, 6, 1028; dispositum, 3, 787, etc.; inpositum, 3, 890; 6, 741.—membbris, 'body,' cf. 5, 789; 4, 1261; and on 117.

347. ut : added by Marull. edd.—fleri, 'occur'; on 264.—peste maloque is equivalent to pernicie, 326; the expression is then a hendiadys, which is all the more probable because L. uses pestis but once elsewhere (5, 26). Malum, of physical trouble, 253, 646; and 6, 1158, 'malis erat anxius angor | adsidue comes.'

348. videas of mental vision also in 635, 885, 1020; videant animo, 902; 5, 183; 1049. Quint. 10, 1, 14, 'nec sicut de intellectu animi recte dixerim video ita de visa oculorum intelligo'—coniunctast : 'lies in their joint action,' M. Cf. 136, 424, 579. The Greek word is συμράθη.

349. quoque is out of place, as it modifies naturam, not coniunctam; cf. 638, 1055; 4, 85; Holtze, 183.—consistere is another synonym of esse (est 348), as in 1, 168, 'qui posset mater rebus consistere certa?'

350–358. 'It is a mistake to hold that the body does not feel and that the soul only has sense. But the body has no sensation after the soul's departure, because sensation is an accident only of the body.'

350. 350–395, a refutation of erroneous opinions, is bracketed by Lachm. as a subsequent addition, but Woltjer (L. Phil. 64) has shown that L. here agrees with the order of Epic. ad Herod. 63 sq.—Quod superest, 'furthermore,' 1, 50 n.—refutat with an object clause is poetical. It rarely means 'denies' or 'brings up in denial,' so that renuntat was read by Lambin. Cf. 2, 245, 'et id res vera refutet.'—The present is probably conative here; so Blase, Hist. Gr. 3, 112.

351. credit, 'holds as a principle'; cf. 508, 724; 2, 225, 'si aliquis credit.' Hor. Epid. 1, 14, 19, 'quae deserta et inhospita tesqua | credis, amoena vocat mecum qui sentit, et odit | quae tu pulchra putas.' Strato and the Stoics held the doctrine attacked here by L.; cf. Cic. Tusc. 1, 46 (Heinze).—permixtam has the construction of the simple verb; 233 n. The per is intensive, cf. 749.

352. suscipere motum : cf. suscipere auras, 405; morbos, 460; laborem, 366. On motum see on 241.—Lotze would have hinc for hunc.—nominitamus means always in L. 'to give a name to'; it occurs first in L. and is not classic. Nominal occurs once, 1, 695. Nōmināmus would be unmetrical; cf. imperitarunt, 1028.

353. Note the allit. and assonance and cf. 'dementit . . . deliraque,' 464; 'disturbans dissoluensque,' 1, 559; 'refrenatur retroque residit,' 2, 283; 'leti lege,' 3, 687; 'semine seminioque,' 746, 'tenero tenerascere,' 765; 'saepsit se tectis rerumque reliquit,' Aen. 7, 600; see on 1, 80.—vel, 'surely'; 5, 621; 6, 1238.—manifestas res : cf. 2, 867, 'neque id manifesta refutant | nec contra pugnant in promptu cognita quae sunt.' The meaning is "not only true but manifestly true" (ἐπαργῆ) M.—L. Müller would have clarasque for verasque, Phil. 15, 158, but cf. 2, 245.—contra: anastrophic. L. introduced dissyllabic prepositions in this position: cf. 6, 1210; Aen. 12, 638. The use is rare; not in Horace: Degering, Hist. Synt. 38.

354. corpus sentire, 'what the body's feeling is,' is predicate of sit; 4, 475, 'unde sciat quid sit scire.' Br. reads quid adferet for quis a., but the sense would then be ambiguous; Bruno would have quippe etenim corpus. — adferet, 'to give a reason,' occurs here only in L. and is not usual without causam or rationem. L. has reddere, his usual word, absolutely in 1, 566, 'possit tamen reddi'; Cic. Tusc. 1, 70, 'et cur credam adferre possum.'

355. si non : sc. adferet; si non = nisi, as often. — ipsa res : 1, 803, 'manifesta palam res indicat'; 2, 565. — palam dedit is a synonym of docuit just as dedere is equivalent to divisere in 5, 1110, 'agros divisere atque dedere.' So augit alitque, 1, 859, planum facere atque probare, 2, 934. Palam dedit = palam fecit, dare = 'put,' as in condo, abdo, and the juristic forms pauperiem, damnum, legem, tutorem dare; see Lex. s. v. II E; Kalb, Jurist. Lat.<sup>2</sup> 7; Thielmann, Das verbum Dare, 42; Klotz, Altröm. Metrik, 96.

356. at introduces an objection assumed by the author, but is so abrupt here that Lotze wished to eject the verse. — undique, as in 833; 2, 916.

357. perdit, 'loses'; 4, 814, 'animus si cetera perdit'; 5, 304. — proprium, 'its own,' 991. Cicero has cuiusque proprium in Fam. 7, 30, 2. — The body has sensation through the action of the soul; its sensation is not independent. Epic. ad Herod. 64, διὸς ἀπαλλαγεῖσης τῆς ψυχῆς οὐκ ἔχει τὴν αἰσθησιν. οὐ γάρ αὐτὸς τὸν ταῦτα τούτην ἐκέπτητο τὴν δύναμιν. Proprium is used like coniuncta in 1, 449 to express essential property, and eventa (cf. multa 358) to denote accidental properties. Ter. And. 959, 'ego deorum vitam eapropter sempiternam esse arbitror, | quod voluptates eorum propriae sunt' (Heinze). Proprius and perpetuus are often found together. — aevi, 'life' cf. 486; 5, 1431; cf. in vita, 979, 982, 995, 1014.

358. cum expellitur aevi : Flor. 31, edd., sc. corpus; Bern. brackets the verse and Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 777, ejects it: Lamb. and others reject 357. Perditum expellitur aevi quam, OQ; Lachm. nullaque for nullaque in order to agree with 213 sq., where the poet is discussing a different matter. M. quam ex. ante, Br. *in aevi* multaque . . . perdit quam pellitur ante*; formerly cum expellitur illa (Phil. 27, 37). Lotze nullaque . . . quam . . . aevi; Goebel fuit eius in aevom | m. p. p. cum pellitur aevi. Polle, Phil. 26, 357, postulates a lacuna before the verse. Undoubtedly the poet would have omitted either 357 or 358 on revision.

359–369. 'The analogy between the eyes and doors is false. If the eyes were only doors for the mind, the mind could see better without them.'

359. Dicere : subject; cf. 5, 156 and 3, 800. — The connexion with the previous argument is : (1) the body has sensation as well as the soul, (2) the eye as part of the body has sensation as well as the mind. — posse with the inf. occurs about 80 times in L.; 14 times with another inf. as here and 319–320, 541, 801, 866–867; a usage to be avoided, cf. Dr. § 455.

360. spectare means to fix the eye upon an object that strikes the understanding, but cernere to perceive by the organ of sight, Död. Cf. 369. — reclusi : ostia reclusa, 366. — Seeing through doors explains the optics of mirrors in 4, 271 sq. This illustration was used by Heraclitus (Sextus adv. Math. 7, 130), and Strato and Aenesidemus probably followed him. Cic. Tusc. 1, 46, 'animum et videre et audire non eas partes quae quasi fenestrae sint animi.' L. cites it as a prevailing opinion which probably goes back to Plato, Theaet. 184: cf. Shorey, Harv. St. 12, 210. Epicharmus said νόσος δρῦ καὶ νόσος δρῦει, τάλλα κωφά καὶ τυφλά. Q. Cic. Pet. 44, '(frons) est animi ianua.'

361. difficilest, OQ, M. Br. Giuss.; desiperest, Lamb. Lachm. Heinze, Bail. Desiperest occurs in 802; 5, 165, 1043. But 5, 1168, 'non ita difficilest rationem reddere,' 226, 'ponere certum difficilest'; haud facile est above, 328.—sensus eorum, i.e. 'eyes.'—ducat, OQ, Wakef. Christ; dicat, Lamb. edd. Cf. 2, 479, 869; 4, 593, with 4, 484 and on 4, 682.

362. Lachm. places this verse after 363, Bern. brackets, and Lamb. rejects it; Br. postulates a lacuna after it. There is no expressed object to the verbs, although Wakef. and M. supply animum, van d. Valk oculos = palpebras, Heinze nos: all that L. means is that sensation works on the eyes. Very probably trahit and detrudit are technical, for in Vol. Herc. 7, 17 (Usener Fr. 313) is μάλισθ η κείησις καὶ τὸ πόθος θλεῖ· φανερῶς γὰρ ἐπὶ τὸν θώρακα η δλεῆ γείνεται. Sensation indicates that we see with the eyes, not with the mind. The verse is discussed by Raumer, Goebel, Woltjer (Jahrb. 123, 777), Purmann (Jahrb. 67, 665), Reisacker, and Polle (Phil. 26, 330).—Cf. on I, 397.

363. fulgida, 'glaring,' is not classical. 4, 324, 'splendida porro oculi fugitan vitantque tueri.'—praesertim cum is also used with the indicative in 2, 32, a pur temporal clause; elsewhere with the subj.; here 'particularly as.' L. has cum cause with the indic. elsewhere: 2, 859 n. and Holtze, Synt. 141.—saepe = ut saepe fit on 120.

364. lumina luminibus, 'eyes by lights.' This antithetical use of a noun in different meanings and cases is uncommon in L.; there are several occurrences with adjectives as omnes (trees), omnia (fruit), 1, 166; multa (primordia) multarum rerum, 2, 695. See on 71. Perdebat lumina occurs in 6, 1211; it occurs more often with oculorum as lumina oculorum clara, 4, 825.—praepediuntur, because splendor adurit oculos, 4, 329. Praepediuntur is used with crura in its proper sense in 478, but like impedio it was often used figuratively.

365. foribus is abl. but would be dat. by English idiom ('happens to'). Doo are not troubled by dazzling light. 1, 981, quid telo denique fiat.—neque, 'nor,' anacoluthon. Cf. 730.—qua, OQ, Br. Giuss. (Note L. 31) Bail.; i.e. via videtur; Br. App.; per quae ostia, Lamb. Quia, Lachm. M. Heinz. Qui would be plainest.

366. ostia: variety for fores according to his habit; postibus, 369.—labore capere, 5, 1182; ferre, 5, 1214.

367. pro foribus: 4, 466, 'pro visis ut sint.' As M. remarks, it is L.'s habit close with an appeal to common experience, which here takes a sarcastic form li 1, 915 sq.

368. exemptis: Lact. refutes this argument in Opif. Dri, 8, and rivals L. in sarcasm: 'nimur ipsi (Lucretio) vel potius Epicuro qui eum docuit effosi oculi erant viderent.'

369. res is regularly used for the object of sense: 4, 522, 'sensus quo pa quisque suam rem sentiat.'—postibus: as Lact. l.c. says, 'quoniam evulsae cum postibus fores plus inferant luminis,' the word has its original meaning. If the postibus are removed with the door, the opening would be wider.

370–395. 'Democritus was wrong in teaching that the atoms of body and mind are arranged alternately, for the elements of the mind are much fewer and finer, with spaces between them. Hence, we do not feel light things like dust, feathers, etc., because the elements of the soul are not stirred up thereby.'

370. sumere: of an opinion, 1, 876 n. In 5, 248, sumpsi is construed with inf. nd acc.—possis: subj., on 213.

371 is repeated, 5, 622.—Democriti sententia: for the periphrasis, cf. inquit sententia dia Catonis, Hor. S. 1, 2, 32; Valeri sententia dia, Lucil. Incert. 136; caveral ens provida Romuli, Hor. C. 3, 5, 13; sententia Messalini strepebat, Tac. Agric. 5. Ratio coepit, 3, 14.—sancta, 'revered,' is elsewhere said of the gods or their temples; he implies a similar respect for Democr. in 1039, and speaks of Empedocles as sanctus in 1, 730. Epicurus, on the other hand, says, Δημόκριτος Ληρόκριτος, which was characteristic of his attitude to his predecessors: DL. 10, 8; Cic. ND. 1, 5. In prose Democritus, vir sanctus would be expected, but the periphrasis excuses the use of viri without a qualifying word. Cf. also in pia rationis elementa in 1, 81.

372. privis, Bentl. edd. for primis, is a synonym of singulis; cf. 389, 723; 5, 4; 4, 260, 'non privam quamque solemus | particulam venti sentire.' Veteres priva

xerunt quae nos singula dicimus, Gell. 10, 20, 4.

373. adposita, 'matched.'—alternis, 'alternately,' not in Cic.; 'quae eunt alterni' Sen. Ben. 6, 22. See on 1, 524.—variare is intransitive: 2, 480, 'primordia variare,' etc. This peculiar dogma of Democr. that between every two atoms of body soul-atom is inserted is known only from this passage. Heinze quotes Alex. Shrod. de Mixt. p. 214, 18 b. Δημόκριτος μὲν οὖν ἦγουμενος τὴν λεγομένην κράσιν σύσθαι κατὰ παράθεσιν σωμάτων, διαιρουμένων τῶν κυραμένων εἰς μικρὰ καὶ τῷ παρ' ἀγηλα θέσσαι τὴν μίξιν ποιουμένων.—nectere membra, cf. 217 and n.

374. Lachm. read elementa minora animai, objecting to the hiatus animatē mēnta; cf. 6, 716, 'etesiāē esse'; 6, 743, 'remigi oblītae'; 6, 755, 'loci || opus'; Ed. 7, 53, 'castaneāē hirsutae.' The remarkable thing here is the retention of the long quantity of ae, which he would not elide; see on 1, 139; Wagner, Q. Vergil. xi; Oltz, Altröm. Metrik. 121. L. has no objection to elision in the accented syllable in dat. and nom.; e.g. 1, 605, 813. Three times only in the unaccented syllable: 305, 306; 6, 331; Maurenbrecher, Hiatus, 181 sq.—elementa: variation from imordia, 244 n.—minora, 'smaller,' cf. 205 sq.

375. quibus e: sc. ea; for the ellipse, cf. on 69, and for the anastrophe of the ep. on 839.—corpus et viscera: cumulative, 276 n.

376. concedunt, 'yield': Tac. Ann. 11, 24, 'nec amore . . . nobis concedunt.' rara continues the thought almost tautologically; cf. 235.—artus: variation from pūs as in 151.

377. dissita: on 143.—dumtaxat hoc, 'just this'; in 2, 123, dumtaxat means 'as far as it goes,' leading the sentence, and in 2, 931, 'surely,' also with reference to what follows. Editors, except Heinze, follow Lachm. in referring dumtaxat to rara. general, on dumtaxat, see Archiv 4, 325.—promittere: 1, 412, 'hoc tibi possum omittere' (assure).

378. quantula prima: correlative to tanta. The bodies are as small as the spaces between the soul atoms.—prima, OQ, edd.; priva, Bentl. Lachm. Br. (Phil. 27, 39) d in 378.—ciere: of sensation, 151 n.

379. corpora: are objects like cretam, 382; nebulam, 383. The word is separated from prima, so that it may not be taken as = primordia.—in corpore: the human body, 206 n.

380. intervallia: the space between two mental atoms. Cf. loca tenerent, 1, 522.

—exordia, when used for atoms, occurs only in the phrases cundarum exordia rerum, 2, 333; 3, 31; 4, 114; magnarum r. e. 2, 1062, so that without prima it would mean merely 'beginnings.'

381. nam : subordinate to nam of 374; so 1, 1017–1021; 2, 83–85, 1122–1128; 3, 85–87; 4, 61, 65, 72; Woltjer, Mnem. 25, 327.—sentimus is energetically repeated in 384, 389.—adhaesum : Lucretian for adhæsionem. So he speaks of the gathering of moisture — umoris adhaesum, 6, 472 — on clothes hung by the seashore, using illustrations drawn from common life as is his custom, like the illustrations from poppy seeds in 196, and the lights in 364. See Introd. p. 44. Masson (157) remarks that 'when we come to examine these illustrations singly we find that every one strictly illustrates the doctrine under which it is introduced — not one is introduced merely as an episode. In each case the illustration makes plain to us a point which we should feel difficult to grasp.' Note that adhaesum is almost a verb: puteris adhaesum is the 'dust gathering' just as sidere cretam is the chalk settling, and itacum animantis is the quodviscumque crawling.

382. corpore, membris : the usual variation. Corpore is abl., dependent on the verbal force of adhaesum. Membris is dative with incussam, and understood in the abl. with sidere. — incussam sidere, 'strike and settle.' He says sidebant campi, 5, 492, subsidere saxa, 493.—nec: following neque is probably due to metrical convenience, and in 383 nec and neque are perhaps due to the same reason; but as Dræger says, the choice is altogether arbitrary (Synt. § 323). See on 19.—cretam: Pongerville translates 'le fard ne pèse point sur le teint qu'il colore.' Giuss. compares the modern Italian custom on Holy Cross day of imprinting a cross on people's clothing, and infers a corresponding ancient custom.

383. nebulam : tenuis . . . nebulæ sumique, 6, 104, and 3, 430.—aranei : 4, 727, 'tenvia . . . ut aranea bratteaque auri.' Araneum occurs first in Phaedr. 2, 8, 23; araneus was the animal, aranea the web (Serv. Georg. 4, 247). L. could not write arānēds here (Heinz.) Catull. 68, 49, first has aranea for the animal. See Thes. 2, 394, 15, and 395, 70. For contraction, on 286.

384. obvia : 2, 86, obvia confixere, 'met and struck together,' and 3, 1041— quando: temporal also in 2, 966; 5, 412; 1, 495.—obretimur is cited from no other author. Circumrettit occurs in 5, 1152, and in other authors.

385. supera : 1, 429 n. For the syntax, Aen. 9, 553, 'saltu supra venabula fertur'; Phaedr. 1, 2, 20, 'lignumque supra turba . . . insilit.' — vietam, 'flimsy' (M.). As an epithet of the vine it is written e connect. in 2, 1168, meaning 'worn out.' Ter. 688, 'hic est vietus vetus veternosus senex,' and Donatus' comment 'vetus mollius flaccidusque et flexibilis corpore . . . Lucretius vietam vestem id est putri mollius praeditam.' Prop. 3, 6, 33, 'putris et in vacuo texetur aranea lecto'; Ser. 956, 'si vero caput infestus conliserit ictus, | ex oleo necti vestis debebit arachna.' Good has caught the sense, 'nor the tattered web | From some old roof that on the hair descends.'

386. vestem, 'web' as the work of the loom: Ov. M. 6, 127, 'ultima p[ar]t[es] telae', 131, 'pictas vestes' in the story of Arachne, 145, 'antiquas exercet aranea telas.' Plaut. Stich. 348, 'ut operam omnem araneorum perdam et texturam imp[ro]bam | deiciam eorum omnis telas . . . :: Quid? illos itidemne esse censes quas te cum veste unica?' Note the dignified treatment of trifling matters.

387. nimia, ‘exceeding’; 6, 850, ‘homines fontem nimis admirantur’; 5, 564, ‘nec nimio solis maior rota’ (very much); cf. 5, 988; 6, 1196, and lex.—gravatim, ‘reluctantly.’ These objects float in the air before settling, and hence fall not lightly, but slowly and unwillingly. The present ed. proposed gradatim in A/P. 21, 187, as cadere gravatim is unexampled, and gravatim occurs only twice elsewhere in Latin.

388. itum: ordinarily used only with reditum, ‘vota pro itu et reditu suo,’ Suet. Tib. 38.—cuiusviscumque animantis: 4, 859, ‘cuiusque animantis.’ Animans is ‘animal,’ 97 n. Quiviscumque gives animans an extremely wide application; quicunque and quisvis are both more common. Quoviscumque is cited from Mart. 14, 2, 1, but Friedländer there separates the compound.

389. priva: on 372.—quaesque, ‘each,’ implying all or several, is a favorite word with L.; cf. 727; 1, 213; 2, 165; 4, 41. It often seems equivalent to omnia et singula, both as adj. and substantive.

390. et cetera, etc.: 2, 812, ‘nigrum et cetera’; Cic. Top. 30, ‘crura pedes et cetera.’ L. writes cetera for alia. Polle, Jahrb. 95, 34, culices et talia.

391. multa: object of est ciendum; 1, 111 n. This acc. occurs in Catull., Varro, rarely in Cic. and then for antique coloring, and in the jurists. As Heinze suggests, multa is best taken absolutely.

392. 392–393 were transposed by Marull. Lachm. and Br. Goebel explained usque adeo in nobis multa corporis primordia cienda sunt priusquam illorum consumum sentiant animai semina corporibus nostris inmixta per artus; see Polle, Phil. 26, 330, and Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 777.—sentiscant probably has inceptive meaning here, but not in 4, 586. It is not apparently used elsewhere; cf. persentis-cunt, 249.

393. corporibus . . . artus: the seeds in the body throughout the frame.—inmixta: in mixta, Br., but cf. 1, 877 with 1, 894; Georg. 1, 454, ‘maculae incipient . . . inmiserier igni.’

394. quam in his, Lachm. M. Br.; quantis, OQ; quam sis, Lamb. Turnebus, Heinze. For the hiatus cf. sed dum abest, 1082 and n.—his recalls the beginning of the paragraph in the author’s manner; he probably never has iis.—intervallis: cf. 380 and n.—tuditantia was used by Ennius. Cf. 2, 1142, of the attack of the atoms.

395. et keeps apart concursare coire and dissultare; 1, 680–681, quaedam decedere abire | atque alia adtribui.—dissultare: instead of the more common dissilire. The contention of Democritus which L. began to refute was that the number of body and soul-atoms was inferentially equal. Now body has sensation (350) when the atoms of the soul are touched by some exterior object; hence if the object is too small to touch the soul-atoms there is no agitation of the soul-atoms, then no agitation of the animus, and none of the quartessence, and none of the whole anima, and finally of the body; but if the object is of sufficient size, all these will follow in the same order. If but one soul-atom were agitated, it is probable that its disturbance would be too slight or too shallow to convey motion to adjoining atoms: many atoms must be disturbed (391) before the soul is agitated, because the soul-atoms are few in number as compared with those of the body; and because the action of several is mechanically necessary to convey motion to the anima,

396-416. 'The mind — animus — is more necessary for life than the anima, ~~for~~ if the animus receives the slightest injury the man dies, but much of the anima may be lost and life remain. The animus is like the pupil of the eye, and the anima like the rest of the eye; if the pupil is hurt sight is lost.'

396. magis . . . coercens . . . dominantior: cf. 192 and n., but the case is different here, because coercens is a real participle with est, a rare usage. Cf. 2, 10~~—~~9, 'generatimst . . . abundans'; Catull. 64, 318, 'fuerant extantia,' and Dr. § 142. — claustra is also said of life in 1, 415 and 6, 1153. Cf. the metaphor from nodus, 2, 950, vitalis nodos a corpore solvit; and nexam, 3, 217.

397. dominantior: cf. 281. — ad vitam: cf. 'inmutat sensus ad pristina,' 5, 14~~—~~5, and 214 n.

398. mente animoque: 142 n. — residere also occurs in 2, 1010, 'aeterna perennit . . . residere . . . corpora.' Note the synonyms manet, remansit, 402; cunctatur, haec, 407; mansit, 408, stat, 409. — per, 'throughout,' instead of abl. of place, occurs also in 4, 942, per membra; 5, 1104, per agros, etc.

399. exiguam: 1, 1016, 'exiguum horai sistere tempus.' Exiguus temporis, 'moment,' Cic. Orat. 1, 93. — partem pars: 71 n.

400. comes, opposed to dominantior, 397; the full expression would be ~~sed~~ anima comes animum inseguitur. — inseguitur: on 172. Cf. 123, 'deserit exte ~~—~~ exemplo,' exemplum = facile; 'inseguitur confessim,' 4, 315. — discedit in auras, 222 ~~—~~ nn.; 5, 360, discedere dissoluisque: 3, 435 sq., dissolution accompanies departure.

401. gelidos . . . frigore: on 300. — leti is poetical and archaic. 4, 924, 'corpus perfusum frigore leti.' L. does not say frigus mortis. Ov. M. 2, 6, 10, 'corpus inane animae frigus letale secutum est.' — linquit: relinquit animus membra, Sen. Tr. 623.

402. in vita, 120 n.; in morte, 875, etc. Cf. also on 357. — remansit: for the number, on 142. In 4, 925 the re seems to have its force: nulla latens animai pars remaneret | in membris.

403. quamvis with indic. 705; 4, 426; it occurs in the poets and here and there in post-Ciceronian prose; Roby, 1627. — circum, Flor. 31, edd.; cretum, OQ. — undique: i.e. round about the trunk. 4, 460, 'silentia noctis | undique cum constant,' i.e. nobis. Circumundique is written as one word in later Latin.

404. truncus: caput abscisum trunco, 654. Heinze makes it an adj. — anima circum, OQ, edd.; animae vi cum, Br. — circum = undique, 'on all sides,' as in 408. Probably circumundique is to be understood from 403, circum only being expressed. — membria is 'body' here, even if it was 'limbs' in the previous line, more Lucretiano; 206 n. It is abl.: 5, 125, 'vitali motu sensuque remotum.' When a limb is lopped off it takes its own life with it, but this life is anima and part of the whole anima of the man, yet the man lives after losing part of the anima. — remota, Q corr. edd.; remotus, O, Goebel; remotis, old vulg. Winck.; remot, Q.

405. vivit: sc. homo, as in 402; so privatus, 407. — aetherias, OQ, edd.; aerias, Lachm. Aetherias is here like aetheriis nubibus, 4, 182; aetherias auras was the old reading in Aen. 5, 520 and occurs in Aen. 4, 445-446; 7, 557; aura aetheria, Aen. 1, 546-547; Georg. 2, 291. Aetherias auras was formerly read in Ov. M. 4, 700, 5, 512; and still is in Am. 2, 14, 41, AA. 2, 59. Lachm. maintained that there could be no aetheris aurae; aether is innubilis in 3, 21: but pater aether sends down rain, 1, 250. Sometimes L. is philosopher, sometimes poet. See Forbiger and Conington on Aen. 1, 546 and Kraetsch, Abundant. etc., 55. Vitalis aeris auras, occurs in 6, 1227; v. auris, 3, 577; 5, 857. Vitalis is regarded as a nom. by some scholars, but cf. 577; 5, 857; 6, 1227. I know of no example of prosodic lengthening in L. He is still following the order of Epic.: δῶ δὴ καὶ ἐντάρχοντα η ψυχὴ οὐδέποτε ἀλλοι τεὸς μέρους ἀπηλλαγμένου ἀναισθητήσει, ad Herod. 65.

406. si non: 2, 1017, 'si non omnia sunt at multo maxima pars'; Cic. Sest. 7, 'si non omnem at aliquam partem.' After a negative tamen is sometimes joined to et, sometimes not.—omnimodis, 'altogether,' on 115.

407. cunctatur et haeret: on 273.

408. circum with lacerato.—pupula: cf. the illustrations from the eye in 147 and 564. This illustration occupies 8 verses; most in L. are contained within 4, but others within to 10 verses; Feustell, 7.

409. stat = manet; 2, 310, 'summa . . . summa videatur stare quiete.'—cer-nundi also in 4, 238; potiundi, 4, 1076; agundis, 5, 1335; dicundumst, 1, 382. —vivata potestas: also in 558, 680. Vivata, 'animated,' seems to be confined to L.

410. totum is important; if the entire eye is ruined the pupil is also destroyed and sight is lost.—luminis orbem is the circle about the pupil; διμάτων κύκλοι, Soph. Antig. 974; oculorum orbis, Aen. 12, 670; torvi luminis orbem, Ov. M. 2, 752.

411. et = sed, which was the old vulgate.—aciem = pupula, 4, 248, 'per nos-tras acies perlabilis omnis | et quasi perterget pupillas atque ita transit' 691, 'feriunt oculorum acies visumque lacesunt'; Sen. Ben. 5, 25, 5, 'opertis oculis inest acies.' Usually acies = oculus.—solam, 'by itself,' cf. 789.

412. id quoque enim: 1, 935; 6, 113, 670; cf. 4, 274. The reference is to the preceding action.—eorum: as if oculis had gone before. The verse is written in O, but Q has an erasure: it was rejected by Lachm. as a derisive gloss. Lamb. changed non fieri to confici; M. corum to et orbei. Woltjer, Mnem. 27, 48, suggested oc'lorum, since Probus, App. 198, 18 mentions oculus and oculus (see Lindsay, LL. 176), and there is a rude Sardinian inscription (CIL. 10, 7756), with the syncopated form. Postgate, J. Phil. 24, excuses corum through the absence of the Latin dual.—Discussion by Reisacker, Feustell (17), Polle, Phil. 26, 330, Br. and Susemihl, id. 27, 41, Edelbluth, Conj. 35.

413. tantula: cf. 5, 593, tantulus ille sol; cf. 4, 116.—peresa: 1, 326, 'vesco sale saxa peresa'; Aen. 6, 442. The comparison is between orbis and anima, acies and mens.

414. lumen occidit: the light goes out and the eye is cassus lumine, 5, 719.—tenebrae for the darkness of blindness is uncommon; cf. Ov. M. 3, 515, 'tene-brasque et cladem lucis ademptae | obicit' . . . 517, 'luminis huius | orbus.'—que, 'and consequently'; cf. Cic. Rep. 1, 25, 'cum obscurato sole tenebrae factae essent.'—secuntur: for the spelling cf. relicuo, 1, 560; anticum, 2, 1170; accum, 3, 513; licuntur, 3, 553; locunur, 4, 581.

415 is also rejected by Lachm. and Polle (Phil. 26, 331).—alioqui is doubted by some because it next appears in Horace's Satires, and is thought unworthy of Lucretius; hence M. would have aliquoi sit, Goebel, linguatur. Bock. changes splendidus to splendeat. Kannengiesser, Phil. 43, 541, missed the verb and so proposed alioquist in which he is followed by Heinze, Bailey, and Duff, but alioquist spl- is reason enough for the omission. Postgate, however (J. Phil. 24, 137), would have incolumist . . . orbi. Neumann misses a verse after 415. Br. and Giuss. keep the text unchanged.—splendidus orbis, like splendida signa, 4, 444; ‘radian.’

416. vincti instead of vincta; see on 66.—foedere, for terms of union, is a favorite phrase, cf. 781 and quo quaeque creata | foedere sint, 5, 56, naturae foedera, 5, 310, 924; 6, 906, etc. Naturae foedus, Ov. M. 10, 353. Columella, RR. I, speaks of a man trusting the waves rupto naturae foedere; cf. on 1, 586.

417–444. ‘I shall now give the proofs of the mortality of the soul or mind (for the terms may hereafter be regarded as synonymous). (1) The soul is preserved in the body as in a vessel; when this vessel is destroyed, the soul must perish even more than water that flows away, or smoke or steam which melt in the air, for it is made of much finer atoms.’ All that precedes in this book is prefatory to his main subject, which he has now reached.

417. Nunc age: on 1, 265—nativos, ‘subject to birth,’ said of corpo, 2, 1088, mundum, 5, 66, cf. 5, 238. What is corruptible must also be ingenerable, said Hume, and Xenophanes declared that they were equally impious who maintained that the gods were born as those who said that they would die (Arist. Rhet. 2, 23, 18). Lambinus gives a quaint warning: ‘sunt autem argumenta quibus utitur admodum infirma et levia; neque tamen possunt ulla affiri firmiora. Quod si essent firmissima nihil apud nos valerent tamē religione Christiana imbutos. Vetat enim pietas cum in plerisque aliis tum in hoc maxime audire Epicurum.’ Lactantius Inst. 7, 12, criticises these arguments, and also Arnobius in Book 2. Some traditional arguments for Immortality are given by Cassiodorus, de Anima, 8; many in S. Thomas Aquinas, Summa Theologiae, vide Index.

418. levis: this quality is inferred from 220. 5, 236, ‘aurarum leves animac’ of wind.

419. conquisita with carmina, his constant effort for suitable expression; cf. 1, 143.—dulci: 2, 730, ‘dicta meo dulci quaesita labore.’—reperta labore: in 1, 141 he tells Memmius that he is willing quemvis efferre laborem to set forth these hidden truths; 2, 1024, ‘rementer nova res molitur ad auris | accidere.’ Jessen would read labore reperta as L. puts reperta in the 5th foot nowhere else; cf. 130, 203, 237.

420. pergam: cf. 178.—disponere: 1, 52, ‘ne mea dona tibi studio disposta fideli | . . . contempta relinquas’; 5, 529, ‘id doceo plurisque sequor disponere causas’; 2, 644, ‘quae bene et eximie quamvis disposta ferantur.’ He uses a rhetorical term in default of a better one.—carmina: 1, 933, ‘tam lucida pango | carmina’; 5, 1, ‘carmen condere.’—vita, OQ, Heinze, Giuss. Bail.; cura, Lachm. M. Br.: perpetua . . . vita, Bern. (for digna tua), but M. comp. Culex, 10, ‘ut tibi digna tuo poliantur carmina sensu.’ Tua vita = moribus tuis (Wakef.) =<sup>u</sup> (Faber). The use of vita as a term of endearment is parallel.

421. fac: 6, 536, ‘fac ut esse rearis.’—uno sub iungas nomine: M. Winck. edd., nome, OQ, nomine, Q corr. subiungas, Heinze; uni subiungas nomen, Lachm.

verbi causa: 'for example,' i.e. for the sake of using some expression; Animus, anima, mens, ingenium are to be synonyms. — cum dicere pergam is probably indicative, yet cf. respicias, 854; sumant, 5, 681; instigant; videant, 1, 1065; videamur, 5, 63; videas, 4, 572. In most of these it approximates in meaning to si; on the other hand quod si = cum in Hor. o. Note the generalizing second person in many of these occurrences. Cf. ist. Gr. 3, p. 142; Hale-Buck, § 540.

dicere: cf. the ellipse of the subject in 462 and Madv. LG. 401, 2.

inter se coniuncta: 136–137, 559 and 4, 847; the que connects the ith unum. For the correspondence of the neuter and res see on 1, 57.

principio, beginning an argument: on 1, 271 and quoniam, 3, 548, 634. principiis in an entirely different meaning in 427 (206 n). — tenuem: in he said this property would be useful in argument; cf. 4, 748, 'tenvis enim et mire mobilis ipsa.' — The subject animam is easily inferred but does ar until 437.

docui: 179 sq. He often uses docui in referring back to previous arguments, y in the first book, e.g. 1, 265, 539, 543; 2, 339; 3, 500, 522; 6, 43. Dixi: is used in much the same way, frequently referring to some recent state- nte = 'just now.' Cf. 1, 907; 4, 73, 643, 742, etc. Dixi he does not use minoribus is not expressly said, but implied in 189 sq. with 229–230.

principiis is a variation from corporibus, 426; so corpore, 2, 468, principiis, incipiis, 2, 732, corpore, 736; corporeis principiis, 4, 534. — factam: cf. iquidus is an epitheton ornans: 1, 348, 'aquarum | liquidus umor'; cf. calidi 126, and n. For lig- see on 1, 349.

nebula aut fumus: nebula occurred in 383; fumus occurs for the first time iscussion, but they are consistent with 216 and 205. 6, 104, 'tenues quam ulae fumique volantes'; 3, 583, 'emanarit uti fumus.' It is singular that nd θυμός — the smoke-soul — are cognate words. It originally was the steam blood. Empedocles reinvented it in placing the soul activity in the blood heart. See Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, 1, 249 sq. — nam, OQ, edd.; iam, Giuss.; see Brieger, Prol. xxii, and Edelbluth, 29. Nam explains paren- y nebula and fumus. The main argument is resumed after the anacolouthon ac igitur, 434 — mobilitate: on 186.

is rejected by Lachm. as an interpolation. — quippe ubi is construed with the 1, 617; 4, 434, 771, 664; but with the subj. in 1, 182, 990; 4, 925; 5, 1158. use is dubious; see Dr. Synt. § 491. — imaginibus are the simulacra or s' which are given off from objects: 4, 730, 'haec (simulacra) quoniam it per rara scientque | tenuem animi naturam intus sensumque lacescant'; 4, movetur, 429; movetur, 430; so prima closes the verse in 5, 677–678; noctes, 181; omnis, 3, 702–703; contra, 1, 66–67; quod, 4, 339–340; putabant, 5, 79.

quod genus: on 221 — in somnis: est, somnis Lachm. In somnis he has and somnis alone not at all. 4, 770, 'nam fit ut in somnis facere hoc vide- igo'; in dreams (and sleep). — sopiti: sopitus quiete, 1038; s. quiescent, 920, cf. 1, 30; s. leto, 904; somno sopitus, Nepos, Dion, 2, 5; cf. Aen. 1, 680. Kannengiesser, Phil. 43, 543, quod genus est somno sopiti. — cernimus: so in sominis . . . contumimur, 4, 35; simulacula cernimus, 4, 789; videbant, 5, 1170; but 4, 757, ‘cum somnus membra profudit | mens animi vigilat . . . certe ut videamur cernere’ — alte: Lachm. edd. for alta: altaria alta is not used.

432. exhalare vaporem: 2, 417, ‘araque Panchaeos exhalat propter odores’ > 5, 253, ‘pulveris exhalat nebulam.’ Vaporem is ‘steam,’ κύσσα, only here; see on 126; M. and Duff would have it = ‘heat’ here. Cf. Br. BPW. 15, 538. OQ have vapore; vaporem, Preiger and Lachm. Wakef. defends vapore against vaporen by Aen. 1, 417, ‘ture calent aerae sertisque recentibus halant; vapore may be exceptional here in case as well as in meaning. One strange usage is likely to suggest another in L. — altaria usually a mere synonym of aras in the poets; so in 4, 1237, ‘conspurgunt aras adolentque altaria donis’; cf. 6, 753 and on 1, 89. — ferre is written partly to alliterate with fumum and partly because dare and erigere are metrically inconvenient.

433 is also rejected by Lachm.; Polle would bracket 430–433. — procul dubio is uncommon for sine dubio; cf. 638; dubio procul, 1, 812 n. — haec, OQ, Heinze, Giuss. Bail.; sc. simulacula from the altars; hinc, Bentley, M. Bern. Br. — geruntur, OQ, Br. Giuss.; genuntur, Lamb. M.; feruntur, Creech, Heinze, Bail. Gero is a favorite word for atomic movement in space and is otherwise a frequent synonym of fero, e.g. 4, 52; 6, 539.

434. undique goes with diffuere; the vase need not be completely shattered for the water to escape nor the entire body to be ruined for the soul to fly away. — vasis: the body is the vessel of the soul in 440, 555, 793. M. compares 4, 54, principio quoniam, 61, nam, 63, quae quoniam, as a parallel case of disregard of the first assumption, and Vahlen, Monatsb. Berlin. Akad. 1877, 484 maintains that 425 and 434 form in common the premise of the conclusion.

435. umorem, laticem: chiasmus and variation. Cf. umore, 5, 261, latices, 262; umor, 4, 1091; laticum, 4, 1093; umor, 4, 870, liquor, 873.

436. discedit: sing.; see on 277. There is a brachylogy here for nebula disedit ac fumus discedit, as he is dealing with two illustrations of one phenomenon.

437. crede: credas, 423, 443. — diffundi; cf. diffusa animae vis, 583. Note diffuere discedere, 435, diffundi perire, 437, dissolvi, 438, showing his love of variety and fulness of statement. — perire is used as the passive of perdo as crescere is of augeo, fio for facio, sano for medeor.

438. ocius et citius: pleonastic like perire and dissolvi. The dissolution is mentioned before the departure from the body; he will not allow the existence of the soul for a moment after leaving the body. The soul breaks up first into air, vapor, etc.: 231 sq.

439. ex is more often omitted by L.; 218 n.

440. quippe etenim, ‘for surely.’ The expression is elliptical: quippe hoc fit etenim; cf. on 1, 104, and Dr. § 350, 8. Heinze would have etenim = praeterea, but in that meaning etenim begins the clause. — quasi: apologetic, as the comparison is not exact. Cic. Tusc. 1, 52, ‘corpus quidem quasi vas est aut aliquod animi receptaculum’; Ένεστιν δὲ ψυχὴ τῷ σώματι καθάπερ ἐν δοκῷ πνεῦμα περιεχομένη . . . δοκεῖ Δημόκριτος καὶ Ἐρίκουρος ἀποφαίνονται, Stob. Ecl. 924; cf. Wolter, L.

Phil. 71. The simile was frequent in antiquity; see 6, 17 and n.—constitit = fuit; 235 n.

441. cum, OQ, edd.; quam, Marull, Lachm, Br. Giuss.; animam is easily supplied from the context.—cohiberere occurs in a similar context in 573.—nequit, with cum, 363 n.—conquassatum: stronger than quassatis, 434, 451, but probably influenced by cum; cf. 4, 1118; 5, 778.—ex: causal; cf. 157. Re stands for the cause whatever it may be.

442. rarefactum like cinefactum, 906, vacefit, 6, 1005 seems peculiar to L.—The soul can escape through the interstices.—venis would be dative according to the usage of other authors: elsewhere L. has the abl.; cf. decedunt corpore febres, 2, 34, and on 3, 225.

443. qui: adverb as in 444, 889.—cohiberier = τερέχεσθαι, Epic. ad Herod. 66.

444. incohicens sit, Woltjer (Mnem. 27, 67) for incohibescit, OQ; am cohibens sit, Lamb.; is cohibessit, Lachm. M.; usque liquecitur Bern.; * mage sit cohibessit, Br. aster Winck. who saw no lacuna; see Madv. Opusc. 2, 66; magis incohicensque, Bergk (Jahrb. 67, 321), Nencini, Heinze; nil cohibessit, Bock.; inque bibens est, Polle, tantopere exstet, Purmann. Giuss. and Bail. regard the text as corrupt. Incohicens is διπλ. λεγ., like inolens, 2, 850; cf. inmerens, 2, 1104, and incogitans in Horace. For the verse ending cf. aetherius sol, 3, 1044. For the syntax of rarus Woltjer comp. inbecilla, 604.—magis modifies incohicens.

445–458. (2) ‘The soul’s development is contemporary with that of the body; it is probable, then, that its life has the same limit.’

445. gigil: the elucidation is delayed until 670 sq.—pariter referring to time, a common Ciceronian usage; cf. 457, 747, 769. Editors quote Herod. 3, 134 αὐτανούμενος γὰρ τῷ σώματι συνάδονται καὶ αἱ φρένες, γηράσκονται δὲ συγγηράσκουσι καὶ ἐτὰ πρήγματα πάντα διαμβλύνονται, which is thought to be a sentiment of Democritus. Voltaire in the Epte à Génorville used this argument as many others have: Est-ce là cet esprit survivant à nous-même? | Il naît avec nos sens, croît, s’affaiblit comme eux; | Hélas! périrait-il de même? | Je ne sais; mais j’ose espérer, etc.—una: adv., on 146.

446. crescere: Woltjer, L. Phil. 72 quotes from the Herculanean fragments 6, 6, 7, ἔτει γὰρ ἡ ψυχὴ μικρῷ σώματι παρατείνουσα κατὰ τὴν παιδικὴν (τροφὴν) αἴκεται. Aristotle says in the de Anima that old age is not in the mind but in its instruments.

447. pueri, ‘children’; 87 n.—Ter. Hec. 310, ‘pueri inter se se quam pro levibus noxiis iras gerunt! | quapropter? quia enim qui eos gubernat animus eum infirmum gerunt.’—vagantur, ‘sway’; Enn. Sc. 185, ‘arbores vento vagant (alii, vacant).’ Prud. c. Symm. 2, 318, ‘infantia repit, | infirmus titubat pueri gressusque animusque’ (Heinze). Duff compares Mart. 3, 58, 12, where the word is used of the gait of domestic fowls.

448. sequitur, i.e. ‘is accompanied by’; cf. 742, 622. ‘The tottering babe, | Weakly of limb, betrays a mind as weak,’ Good.—Mentes perculta novellas, 1, 261.—sententia is the power of thinking instead of the thought itself; so animi sent. = ‘intelligence.’—tenvis: nom., according to Lucretian usage.

449. inde = postea, as in 502; 5, 413; 6, 327.—adolevit aetas: 4, 1038, ‘adulta aetas cum primum roborat artus’; 4, 1031, ‘dies matura’; cf. 2, 1123; Hor. S. 1, 9, 34, ‘simul atque adoleverit aetas’; Aen. 12, 438, ‘cum matura adoleverit aetas’;

Livy, 1, 4, 8, 'cum' primum adolevit aetas'; Ov. F. 5, 175, 'postquam virtus ~~amoris~~ adolevit.' — viribus is abl.; cf. 451. Edd. note the close imitation of L. in Georg. 2, 362, 'ac dum prima novis adolescit frondibus aetas'; . . . 367, 'inde ubi iam ~~valle~~ amplexae stirpibus ulmos.' — Notice viribus, 449, vis, 450, viribus, 451, 452, with his usual indifference; see on 206.

450. consilium, 'judgment'; 5, 126, 'cum quovis corpore ut esse | posse ~~amiri~~ natura putetur consiliumque.' — auctior, with reference to growth. — vis: not in periphrasis.

451. validis viribus occurs in 494 and validas aevi vires, 5, 314, 379, 1217; see on 126. Viribus = 'assaults'; Ribbeck, Rh.M. 30, 633, proposed ictibus. — aevi is used much like aetas, 449, time in its relation to a man's life; but with aetas' life' was more prominent, with aevi 'time.'

452. cediderunt, 'droop'; cadere omnia membra, 596; cadenti, 466; inde cadunt vires, 5, 409. — artus = membra.

453. claudicat: of the flying of birds, 6, 834, of the carpenter's level in 4, 515. Videretur ratio claudicare, Lact. Opif. Dei, 4, 12. — ingenium, 'intellect,' 1043; 'omnia fert aetas, animum quoque,' V. Ecl. 9, 51. — delirat: morbo delirantes betray secrets, 5, 1159; 'profecto deliramus interdum senes,' Plaut. Epid. 392. Io was  $\gamma\lambda\omega\sigma\eta\varsigma \delta\kappa\rho\tau\eta\varsigma$  in Aesch. PV. 884. Arist. Probl. 875 b, 32, trav  $\eta$   $\psi\chi\eta$   $\tau\delta\theta\eta\tau$ ; συμάσχει  $\kappa\alpha\eta$   $\eta$   $\gamma\lambda\omega\sigma\sigma\alpha$ . — labat was supplied by Lachm.; OQ have lingua mens; 'mens in illis labat, in hoc constat,' Celsus, 3, 19 (Heinze). Vitai claustra lababant, 6, 1153. Mens, Bail. † Br.; meat, editor in AJP. 21, 184. — Lactantius denies that the soul develops with the body, for mens and anima differ: exanimis non dementes vocantur; and Tertullian, de Anima, 18, remarks, 'nam et cum dementit homo, dementit anima, non perigrinante sed compatiente tunc animo.' Shaksp. King John, 5, 7, 'and his poor brain doth by the idle comments that it makes | Foretell the ending of mortality.'

454. deficiunt, 'give out': 'validae vires aetate senecta | membraque deficiunt fugienti languida vita,' 5, 886; sensus deficit, 3, 547, anima, 610. 'Singula de nobis anni praedantur euntes,' Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 55. — uno tempore, 'one and the same time,' as in 531; 1, 388, and often. — desunt merely emphasizes deficiunt; 6, 360, 'frigore enim desunt ignes ventique calore | deficiunt.' So defit, 220 = deest.

455. convenit: on 56. — For the caesura, cf. 758, 995, disliked by Naeke (Val. Cat., 319) because quoque falls in the wrong half of the verse.

456. ceu: cf. 4, 56, 'robora ceu fumum mittunt'; 6, 161, 'ceu lapidem si | percutiat lapis'; 4, 618. — Aen. 5, 740, 'et tenuis fugit ceu fumus in auras.' Sext. Emp. adv. Math. 9, 72 (Usener, Fr. 337), (αὶ ψυχαὶ καὶ άβράς δὲ διαμένουσι καὶ οὐχ, ἵνετεν δὲ Ἐπίκουρος, ἀπολυθέσθαι τῶν σωμάτων καπνοῦ δίκην σκίδνανται; Hom. Ψ 100, ψυχὴ . . . ἵντε καπνός | φέρετο; Plato, Phaedo, 70, ώστε πνεῦμα η καπνὸς διασκεδασθεῖσα. — Fumus, nom., is defended by 427, 614; 4, 699; in 1, 479; 3, 42, 510, the case is ambiguous; 2, 457, diffugere ut fumum.

457. quandōquidem is the usual quantity in L.; cf. 1, 296; 2, 969; 3, 471, 557, 831; V. Ecl. 3, 55; it was avoided by the dactylic poets who were purists. Usually in L. it follows an ergo, igitur, or the like.

458. fessa fatisci: 5, 308, 'delubra deum simulacraque fessa fatisci.' — Lact. (Inst. 7, 12) says 'quid mirum, si labentis domicili ruina premitur mens, et pra-ta obliviscitur . . . interire anima non potest, quoniam ex Dei spiritu, qui aeternus, originem cepit.'—Creech, in refutation, compares the aged body to a worn machine which the most skilful workman, the soul, cannot make work properly. 59-525. (3) 'The mind is subject to anxiety and grief just as the body is to disease and pain, so it is probably subject to death also. In disease of body the mind deters, is demented and delirious, is stupefied and plunged into a sleep like death; the mind must be subject to dissolution, since disease reaches it. (4) So drunkenness affects body and mind together, and epileptics (5) lose their senses because disturbing force penetrates to the mind; how, then, can the mind live when divested of the protection of the body? (6) Again, the mind, like the body, is treated by medicine because its parts are subject to change, and this implies dissolution and mortality. Hence, the mind, being subject to disease and being controlled by medicine, must be mortal.'

59. Huc accedit uti: on 1, 192.

60. Note alliteration.—suscipere = sufferre, 999; see on 352.—inmanis, 'ul'; the adjective strengthens the argument. Inmanis is said of corporis tactu, 987, turbanis vim, 6, 447, corpore serpens, which Hercules slew, 5, 33.—im dolorem, like the more common durum laborem in 999; 5, 1272, 1359; Aen. 80, which here and elsewhere is confused with dolorem, and vice versa. Cf. 1, 472, laborem, 366.

61. curas acris: as in 5, 45, 'quantae tum scidunt hominem cuppedinis acres | citum curae quantique perinde timores.' He applies acres—keen, sharp, biting to egestas, 65, corda, 294, iras, 311, vis vini, 476 (pungent, fiery), corporis umor, violentia, 741.—Serv. on Aen. 6, 724, 'si animus insanit irascitur desiderat et caret aeternitate.'—metum: he frequently joins cares and fears together, as 1, 45; cf. 3, 82, 826, 1049-1051. They are diseases of the mind.

62. participem, sc. animum, and for the omission, cf. 1, 664; 4, 473. Participatur occurs in 692.—Panaetius used this same argument: 'nihil esse quod doleat id aegrum esse quoque possit; quod autem in morbum cadat, id etiam interitum: dolere autem animos, ergo etiam interire' (Cic. Tusc. 1, 79), and Cleanthes had it before him. Haec refelli possunt, adds Cicero, with a refutation. In describing nervous shock, 2, 944 sq., L. states as one of the effects dissoluuntur enim positi principiorum | et penitus motus vitales impediuntur, hence great emotion will shake up the soul, which will consequently be destroyed. Cf. 3, 472.—Buchanan, tern Atheism, 203 sq., gives these arguments as presented by Holbach, Priestley, others.

63. Br. brackets 463-471 because nam, 472, follows on 462; Giuss. places 472 after 462. The intrusion of 474-475 may show carelessness here also by the scribe, yet 472 sq. may serve as a common clausula.—quid etiam, 'nay even,' i.e. 'in this case,' 'moreover,' usually introduces a stronger argument; cf. 487, 540.—1, 2, 7, 'ipse denique animus qui inmortalis a vobis et deus esse narratur, cur in ipsis aeger sit, in infantibus stolidus, in senectute defessus, delira ecstasiat et insana?' Ivius errat: pleonastic; 3, 314 n. He has avius vagaris, 2, 82, recedit, 229; a rapax vis . . . raptavit, 5, 397. Aen. 12, 480, 'volat avia longe.'—Erratus occurs in Enn. Sc. 241.

64. dementit . . . delira: see on 353.—dementit: sc. homo; Hor. C. 2, 2, 14,

'nec sitim pellit nisi causa morbi | fugerit venis.' 6, 1181, cum . . . lumina versarent follows corpora. — Dementit is not found elsewhere until Apuleius and Lactantius. — deliraque fatur: an unusual expression; cf. Lact. Inst. 3, 19, 'numquam dictum esse . . . delirius.'

465. gravi lethargo: 'abit in somnum gravis atque oblivia quaerit,' 1066, and 'nigras lethargi undas,' 829; 'gravi lethargo oppressum,' Serv. Sulp. in Quint. 4, 2, 106; Livy, 25, 24, 'sopiti vino erant aut semigraves potabant . . . gravatis omnibus vino somnoque.' — 'Inexpugnabilis paene dormiendi necessitas ληθαπτον Graci nominant,' Celsus, 3, 20. Veternus is the pure Latin word.

466. aeternum: said of luctu, 911; dolorem, 990; maerorem, 907; and again of soporem, 921. Strictly aeternus has neither beginning nor end, semipiternus being simply 'long in time,' 'everlasting,' avoided by L. and Virgil probably for metrical reasons: Hor. C. 1, 24, 5, 'Quintilium perpetuus sopor | urget?' L. here does not mean death itself, but an insensibility very near to it and often resulting in death. So in 908 act. = life long. — nutu: the head sinks on the breast: Ov. M. 11, 620, 'nutanti mento.' — cadenti goes with both oculis and nutu. Deiecto vultu, Aen. 6, 862. Bentl. approved vultu, an old reading, comp. languescere voltus, 595. For the tautology cf. sonitu sonanti, 1, 826.

467. unde is to be taken closely with exaudit; see on 68. Aen. 4, 460, 'hinc exaudiri voces.' L. 4, 554, 'verba . . . plane exaudiri discernique.' — noscere: 'haedi . . . norunt matres,' 2, 367.

468. illorum (propinquorum). The conclamatio (clamor supremus, Ov. Tr. 3, 43) consisted in calling upon the dead repeatedly by name in order to awaken one who might be merely apparently dead; Marquardt, Privatl. 346. — potis est, on 1079. — revocantes, 'trying to call back'; conative; Dr. Synt. § 135.

469. rorantes: 2, 977, 'lacrimis spargunt rorantibus ora genasque.'

470. fateare necessest is a frequently recurring formula: cf. 578, 677, 766; 1, 399. The ending was doubtless metr. gr.; cf. on 1, 974.

471. contagia, 'infection'; see on 345.

472. fabricator is Ciceronian. Pain and disease are the work that death has to do. — Arn. 2, 14, 'quis autem hominum non videt quod sit immortale quod simplex nullum posse dolorem admittere, quod autem sentiat dolorem immortalitatem habere non posse?' Heinze quotes Sext. Emp. adv. Math. 9, 70, πᾶς τὸ άλγεῖν θῆται.

473. exitio, variation from leti. — perdocti, 'thoroughly learned.' Doceo in L. takes only a neut. pronoun or an infin.; cf. 355; 5, 1303. He does not seem to use the secondary object with the passive construction elsewhere with verbs of asking and teaching. — quod, 'a fact that'; this particular one in 5, 348 sq. — ante, 'before this,' 'already.' Ante closes the verse frequently, e.g. 1, 429; 2, 754; 5, 1412; 6, 744.

475, et pariter mentem sanari corpus inani. — These verses are interpolated; 474 = 510; 511 was read by some of the older editors in place of 475. Susemihl, Phil. 27, 44, rejects 474–480.

476. cur, Q corr. edd.; cor, OQ, Lachm. i.e. cur; quor, M. Wakef. and others took cor as the heart, or rather stomach, and changed to hominum. — vini vis, trong wine.' L. rarely mentions wine at all, and only here with remote reference drinking it. Its effect was discussed by Epic. in his Symposium. Aristotle voted the whole 3d book of his Problems to it.

477. acris is nom. ; cf. vemens, 482. — venas : cf. 6, 946, 'diditur in venas cibus' ; 3, 703. Similar expressions in 2, 1136 : 4, 629. — discessit : 2, 711, 'cibus ex inibus intus in artus | corpora discedunt.' — diditus : this proleptic use of the paraple is very common in L. ; cf. ablata recessit, 439 ; fusa peribit, 700 ; ablata progit, 717 ; impulsa moverit, 188. — ardor : 5, 1093, 'inde omnis flammorum diditur lor.'

478. consequitur : also in 929 ; cf. insequitur, 400. — gravitas, because the mind es not hold it up : 5, 557, 'sustineat corpus tenuissimā vis animai.' — praepeditur : on 364. — Ter. Eun. 729, 'neque pes neque mens satis suum officium facit' ; ut. Pseud. 1251, 'pedes captat primum (vinum).'

479. vacillanti, frequently said of drunkards; see lex. ; gloss. : vacillantes οὐκαλώρρες (= crapulati) ; cf. also 504. A prose writer would probably have used : gen. ; so again 4, 952, 'poplitesque cubanti . . . summittuntur.' — tardescit, λέγε. — madet mens seems to betray a feeling of disgust in the writer. Wine had charm for him or he would have inserted it — as Horace certainly would — in ch descriptions as 2, 29, 'prostrati in gramine molli | propter aquae rivum,' etc. For madet cf. the stammer in Plaut. Most. 319, 'tibi videor ma-madere' ? Note e verse-ending which Virgil would have used under like circumstances. With the tire description the character of senility, 453, and of the passionate lover, in 4, 23 sq., should be compared.

480. nant oculi: quid haec ad animum, says Creech. If the lyre is out of tune player can make good music. — nant he has but once, but nato several times. v. F. 6, 673, 'vinis oculique animique natabant.' — singultus : 6, 1160, 'singultus-ie frequens . . . dissoluebat eos.' Notice the asyndeton which he frequently uses descriptions ; see on 156. The metre aids the sense in singultus. — glicunt is etical : gaudia glicunt, 5, 1061 ; glicit furor, 4, 1069 ; glicit gaudium, Pac. 294.

481. et iam : 2, 171, and lex. 'iam' C. 2. — cetera de genere hoc is a Lucretian formula ; cf. 744 ; 4, 462 ; 5, 37 ; 6, 244 ; imitated by Horace, S. I, I, 13. De is irritive. — cetera : other phenomena of drunkenness.

482. Note the alliteration. — sunt, 'take place' : 5, 1397, 'dulces esse cachinni | insuerant.' — vemens, 'intense' ; for the contraction on 152. Cf. acris violentia, 11.

483. conturbare : not common in other authors ; cf. 500, and turbat, 493. — consevit, 'has become accustomed' = 'is wont' ; cf. novi, 'I know.' — ipso : i.e. within ie body, which being agitated hinders the action of the mind, Lamb. ; cf. 128, 36, 575, 590, 683 and M. on 4, 736. 4, 921, 'sensus hic in nobis, quem cum sopor pedit esse, | tum nobis animam perturbatam esse putandumst.'

484. ince pediri : cf. 4, 562 and on 343.

485. durior : Quintilian has paulo est durior causa of a law case ; 4, I, 25. L. 5, 16, 'si tristior incubuisset | causa ; 602, 'gravior causa' ; see on 324. — insinuarit : 'the action of the soul in 671, 698, 722, 729, 738, 780, 782. Here it means 'penetrate,' i.e. through the openings of the body ; it does not always connote stealth. — he contracted form is frequent in L. : insinuarit, 5, 73 ; emanarit, 583 ; regnarit,

5, 395, etc.; the trochaic ending is more convenient than the dactylic.—Insinuare is construed with the accusative in 1, 116, 409; 6, 860; with sese, 2, 435–436; with dative, 1, 722, 729, etc.; with per, 6, 88–89; with in, 3, 671, etc. Si forte is nowhere used with subj. in L. (Schroeter, 24); hence insinuarit is probably fut. pl. here.

486. aevo: only here used with futuro in L. and with plain reference to expectancy of life.—privata is a participle as in 407, 711, 905.

487. vi morbi: not a periphrasis; cf. 492. The violence of the disease is the prominent thought. Note the art with which L. describes a most disagreeable subject.—saepe: 120 n.

488. ante oculos has its full meaning—not merely ‘visible’; see on 185.—fulminis ictu: swift and overpowering. For the simile, 5, 1125, ‘e summo, quasi fulmen, deicit ictos | invidia.’—5, 400, ‘Phaethonta repenti fulminis ictu | deturbavit’

489. concidit: 6, 793, ‘concidere et spumas qui morbo mittere suevit.’—spumas: the pl. occurs in Cic. Verr. 4, 148, ‘cum spumas ageret in ore.’ Enn. Ann. 518, ‘spiritus ex anima calida spumas agit albas,’ of a horse.—tremit artus occurs in Georg. 3, 84; tremere artus, 6, 1186. Landgraf in Archiv 10, 214, says this passage is the first example of this accusative with finite forms of intrans. verbs, and Brenous, Hell. 212, thinks that τρέμουσα κώλη, Eurip. Med. 1169, shows that it is a grecism: it is rather a development of the acc. of extent under ‘Greek suggestion,’ Roby, 1127. The asyndeton and conjunctions add much to the art of this sentence. The arrangement may be expressed (a et b) (c et d) (e f) (g h) (i et i); the letters representing the verbs. Cf. 5, 1188–1193.

490. extentat: the frequentative is more emphatic than the simple extendo.—nervos: 6, 1190, ‘in manibus nervi trahere.’—torquetur: middle, ‘stulti memoria torquentur,’ Cic. Fin. 1, 57.

491. inconstanter: with irregular breathing.—iactando: in his convulsions; bracchia iactare et cetera membra, 4, 769. Celsus, 3, 23, ‘inter notissimos morbos et etiam is qui comitialis vel maior nominatur. homo subito concidit, ex ore spumae mouentur; deinde interposito tempore ad se redit et per se ipsum consurgit.’

492. vis, OQ, edd.; vi . . . artus*, Br. Giuss.; vist, Tohte, Jahrb. 117, 129.—distracta: of mere distribution, 4, 916, ‘distracta per artus | vis animae.—artus, ‘frame,’ as often.

493. animam spumat ut: Giuss.; animam spumans, OQ, which Heinze and Bail. print as corrupt; animam spumat quasi, Lachm. M.; animam spumans ut, Br. who misses in a lacuna preceding tum penitus distinctatur natura animai; animam spumas ut, Tohte, and approved by Heinze, who nevertheless interprets animā (cf. on 405 above); spumam cit ut, Ellis, J. Phil. 28, 18, cf. Georg. 3, 203, ‘spumas agit ore.’ Vi was first supplied by Brix. ed. princ. The passage is still unhealed.—turbat is without object in 2, 126, 438; 5, 502, etc.—agens: conative like revocans; 468. Catull. 63, 31, ‘anhelans vaga vadit animam agens’; S. August. CD. 13, 9, ‘cum in tanta est extremitate vitae, in quanta sunt quos agere animam dicimus’; cf. Thes. 1, 1372, 79.—spumat: sc. the patient; see on 464.—aequore salsa for the sea occurs in 5, 128; 6, 634. There is probably a reminiscence of Ennius, who has mare salsum, Ann. 142; maria salsa, Sc. 119, aequaora salsa, Sc. 367.

494. Note the alliteration.—validis viribus: on 451; cf. validis ventis, 509.—

fervescunt: 6, 428, 'freta . . . fervescunt graviter spirantibus incita flabris.' — undae: poetical for waters; altis aequoris undis, 5, 374.

495. porro: with reference to the next stage, ingemit, 489. — membra: manifestly including the body.

496. adficuntur: cf. 50. Plaut. Persa, 383, 'quanta adficitur miseria.' — omnino, in general'; 6, 448, 'quia fit raro omnino.' — semina vocis: 4, 221, 'nec variae essent voces volitare per auras'; id. 526, 'corpoream vocem quoque enim constare attendumst . . . radit vox fauces saepe . . . ire foras ubi cooperunt primordia vocum.' The body of the patient is racked, and the internal relation of the organs or disturbed that groans, voice, and the soul in part (505) are forced out.

497. eliciuntur, Lamb. edd., demanded by exprimitur, 495; eliciuntur, OQ; 4, 144, 'fit uti pars inde animai | eliciatur' (eliciatur, OQ); cf. 3, 571, 577, and on 58. — ore foras occurs in 4, 548; 5, 906; 6, 1154; see on 122. L. does not usually express the path of the motion in connection with foras, which is in effect a preposition. — glomerata, 'crowded together,' is poetical. Cf. animam glomerari, 541; zomerata vaporis | corpora, 4, 871. — feruntur usually takes a prep.: ab, 4, 225, de, 1, 76.

498. 'By the road they have, so to say, been wont to go, and which they have opened.' — qua: as in 736. — quasi: apologetic for this absolute use of consuerunt, and for sunt munita, which is middle: Cic. Div. 2, 62, 'quod anguis domi vectem circumiectus fuisset, tum esset, inquit, ostentum, si anguem vectis circumPLICAVISSET'; Id. Off. 3, 35, 'aliqua species utilitatis obiecta est'; cf. 2, 734 and n. — viali: probably gen. with qua, possibly dative with munita. The ordinary interpretation 'qua consuerunt ferri et est illis munita via' (M.) does not account for quasi and dislocates the sentence. Lamb. rejected the verse. Lee quotes Herbert Spencer, Essay on Laughter, 'Feeling passing a certain pitch habitually vents itself in bodily action, and an overflow of nerve-force, undirected by any motive, will take first the most habitual route.' 5, 102, 'via qua munita fidei | proxima fert humanum in pectus.'

499. desipientia: διακεῖ; it explains desipit, 490.

500. conturbatur: as in 483. — docui: in 492. — divisa, 'cleft apart.' For the emphatic pleonasm, cf. sorsum secernat, 637; una consentire, 168; rursum . . . redigerit, 848.

501. disiectatur is said of the wrenching by the sea in 2, 553, 'disiectare solet magnum mare transtra.' — eodem: vis morbi of 492; acer umor, 503. — distracta, 'naked,' as in 507.

502. morbi causa has entered from without the body; cf. 485. — reflexit as intransitive seems unexampled. — redit: probably perfect; see on 1042.

503. latebras: the humors retire to their secret places — in propria sua vasa, Haverc. Latebrae also in 6, 766, elsewhere latebrae. — acer, 'acrid.' — corrupti: through disease: corruptus sanguis, 6, 1203. Epilepsy was supposed to be caused by the swelling of black bile, or by a phlegmatic condition of the brain.

504. vaccillans: the spelling and quantity are unusual. M. testifies that the word is so spelled in Nonius, and in the oldest MSS. of Cic. Phil. 3, 31. L. has vacillanti, 479, and elsewhere. Cf. cuppedine, 994. In lammina, 1017; querellas, 955 (luella, 1015), the vowel is naturally long. See Lachm. p. 37. — consurgit: sc. aliquis, 488; 174, 'quasi exurgendi incerta voluntas'; see on 491.

505. redit in sensus: sc. omnis. 4, 1022, 'ex somno quasi mentib' capti | vix ad se redeunt permoti corporis aestu.' Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 138, 'redit ad sece.' — animamque receptat: Aen. 10, 899, 'hausit caelum mentemque recepit'; 2, 960, 'qua re potius leti iam limine ab ipso | ad vitam possint conlecta mente reverti.'

506. haec: anima and animus. So eadem, 508. — tantis, 'such violent.' — ~~abi~~: for the subj. cf. 4, 195, and Holtze, 159.

507. miseris modis is said after the analogy of multimodis, mille modis, etc., common in the colloquial language. Miser is sometimes used of sickness. — ~~l. bo-~~rent: see on 176.

508. credis = putas: see on 351. Epic. ad Herod. 65, καὶ μῆν καὶ λυομένου τοῦ διου ἀδροσμάτος ἡ ψυχὴ διασπείρεται καὶ οὐκέτι ἔχει τὰς αὐτὰς δυνάμεις οὐδὲ κινέσται, ώστε οὐδὲ αἰσθησιν κέκτηται. οὐ γάρ οἶν τε νοεῖ τὸ αἰσθανόμενον μή εἰ τούτῳ τῷ συ-τήματι καὶ ταῖς κινήσεσι ταύταις χρόμενον, θαν τὰ στεγάζοντα καὶ περιέχοντα μὴ τοιαύτα ὦ, ἐν οἷς νῦν οὐσία ἔχει ταύτας τας κινήσεις. — sine corpore is opposed to corpore in ipso, 506; cf. 443. Shaksp. Measure for Measure, 3, 1, 'A breath thou art, servile to all the skyey influences.' — aere aperto: in aperto alone occurs in 604 = cf. 6, 817, expiratque foras in apertum promptaque caeli — 'into the open.' Cf. Titus, 2, 223, 63. — St. Austin, Serm. 150, quotes an Epicurean opinion, 'anima vento dā verberata dissolvitur,' and Plato, Phaedo 77 d, touches on the same thought (Heinze).

509. validis is not justified by the argument, as the winds might be gentle. Validis is an epithet of winds in L. because almost always he describes storm winds = 4, 968, 'nautae contractum cum ventis degere duellum.' — aetatem degere: (4, 1 II 22) like degere vitam, 322; aevum, 2, 1094; 5, 1440, both of which are more frequent. Notice the interrogative form of the argument, and cf. 167, 444, 483, 621, 771–772, 805.

510. sanari represents the passive of mederi, hence aegram is omitted. In this new argument there is the same confusion between spirit and mind. Hellebore was the specific for insanity. The soul is dependent on the body for its means of manifestation; hence disease of body does not prove a diseased soul.

511. cernimus, videmus are appeals to experience. Cerno differs from video by indicating a clear perception; but they are absolute synonyms here, and are another indication of L.'s desire for a full statement; cf. on 1, 268. — et is explanatory, as mentem flecti is equivalent to mentem sanari. — flecti medicina: cf. flectitur a medicina, 522, where the prep. is used, as elsewhere, metr. gr. Stat. Silv. 5, 1, 120, 'hortaturque simul flectitque labores.'

512. praesagit belongs to the language of divination: praesagire est praedivinare, Festus. 'Voluptatem praesagit muta cupidus', 4, 1057; 'venturam melius praessagit navita mortem,' Prop. 3, 11, 5.

513. addere: sc. eum, and see on 183. Addendum partis alias erit, 2, 492. — ordine: 2, 488, 'summa atque ima locans, transmutans dextera laevis | omnimodis expertus eris quam quisque det ordo | formai speciem.' Even nerve force is due to either chemical or molecular change, but L. here implies nothing more than changes in the position of the atoms. Sea water changes to foam when ordo | principium mutatus et addita demptaque quaedam, 2, 769. — traiecere for traicere; eiecit, 2, 951, and Lachm. there; cf. peremo, neglego, intellego. — aecumst, 'natural'; 5, 226, 'vagituque locum lugubri complet, ut aecumst'; for the spelling, on 414.

514. prosum, with hilum: ‘verbum prorsus nullum,’ Cic. Orat. 2, 61; cf. on 45.—hilum, as detrahere is negative; so claudicat hilum, 4, 515; cf. 6, 576; and on 220.

515. commutare: changing about atoms brings destruction: 5, 830, ‘omnia migrant, | omnia commutat natura et vertere cogit’; or identity is lost thereby: 2, 936, ‘nec quicquam commutari sine conciliatu.’—adoratur is regular; deducere adorti, Aen. 6, 397.—infit is usually construed with a verb of speaking, but L. has in 5, 1208, caput erigere infit. Cf. the use of cooperunt = adoriantur in 4, 809.

516. flectere quaerit: Hor. C. I., 37, 22, ‘perire quaerens’ and Orelli-Hirschfelder there: ‘Cicero never joins quaerere with the infinitive, which usage begins with L. and is frequent with Virgil and Horace’ (and Ovid); cf. on 1, 103.

517. transferri: cf. traiciuntur partes, 757.—tribui: 1, 800, ‘demptis paucisque tributis’; 1, 677, ‘⟨corporum⟩ quorum abitu aut aditu mutatoque ordine mutant naturam res.’—vult, ‘will (not) permit.’

518. defluere: cf. 2, 296, ‘nam neque adaugescit quicquam neque deperit inde’; 5, 322, ‘nam quodcumque alias ex se res auget alitque, | deminui debet, recreari cum recipit res.’

519 = 1, 670, 792; 2, 753; frequently repeated because so important a principle in the Epicurean philosophy. Gneisse, 62, rejected 519–520 because animus non ex sensibus finibus exit, but Lohmann, 36, defends: ‘sanando animus mutatur; quod autem mutatur e finibus exit’; cf. 701, 756.—1, 76, ‘finita potestas denique cuique . . . atque alte terminus haerens.’ Evelyn translated ‘For whatsoever once its bounds doth pass, | Straight perishes from what before it was.’

520 = 1, 671, 793; 2, 754.—hoc est, ‘this means.’—mors = causa mortis; cf. on 742. ‘Res autem quae mors vocatur non est mors: quippe quae nihil perire facit, sed resolutio (dissolution),’ Serv. Georg. 4, 225.

521. aegrescit: on 106.—mortalia signa: 6, 1182, ‘mortis tum signa dabantur’; mittere signum sanguinis is said hypothetically of grain in 1, 882. ‘Africanos . . . timoris signa misisse,’ Caes. BC. 1, 71, 3. For mortalia, ‘characteristic of mortal things’; cf. 5, 121, ‘innmortalia mortali sermone notantes’.

522. docui: in all that precedes from 459. Housman, utei docui, J. Phil. 25, 228, as MSS., have uti decoui—a small matter; the correction was made by Q corr.—seu: sive . . . seu is found occasionally in Livy, and frequently in Tacitus (Dr. § 346, 4, a). L. has sive . . . sive in 1, 977; 3, 251; 5, 575; sive . . . seu, 4, 1053–1054.—a: see on 323.

523. falsae rationi: the expression also occurs in 754; cf. 1, 377, ‘scilicet id falsa totum ratione receptumst,’ and for the contrast with vera, 4, 485, ‘qui nisi sunt veri, ratio quoque falsa fit omnis.’—vera: a variation from vera ratio (= veritas); 1, 51 n.—videtur: passive, 182 n.

524. effugium: cf. 1, 975, ‘tibi effugium praeludit et omne | cogit ut . . . concedas.’—eunti, ‘the antagonist’; the ‘going’ of the falsa ratio in advance and retreat, with ultimate defeat; cf. ire in 594.

525. ancipi: referring to aegrescit and flectitur, and the conclusions therefrom; cf. 1, 974, alterutrum fatearis . . . sive . . . sive, etc.—refutatu, Marull. edd. for refutatur, ἀνταρτείη. So he uses oppressus for oppressio, 1, 851; adhaesus, 3, 381; auxiliatus, conciliatus, emissus, commutatus, opinatus elsewhere; see on 1, 795.

526-547. (7) 'The man dies gradually, and sensation is lost, beginning at the extremities; hence the life principle must be impaired and consequently mortal. It cannot retire and condense itself; for then some part of the body would appear to have greater sensibility, which is not the case. But granting that it could condense itself it still is mortal, whether it be dispersed in the air, or stupefied, as sense and life fail the body.' Giuss. places this after 669, of which there seems no necessity; discussion by Susemihl, Phil. 27, 45 and van d. Valk, 94 sq.

526. ire, 'pass away,' oχεοθαι, an euphemism common in English but rare in Latin. 'She's going, wench: pray, pray,' Shaksp. Henry VIII, iv, 2. Stob. 924, ἐν δὲ τῷ ἐκβαίνειν διαφορεῖται καὶ διασκεδάννυται (Usener, Fr. 337). Cf. 2, 1173; 6, 1243.—paulatim is important; the soul is destroyed piecemeal and cannot then survive as a whole.

527 is the most effective instance of sound answering to sense, produced by the simplest means, that I know of in the whole range of Latin poetry,' Munro. The verse has its principal caesura in the 4th foot, and has but one dactyl; there is simultaneous close of the word and second foot, the first two feet being spondees; cf. similar case in 4, 1078, 'nec constat quid,' but there the second foot is distributed.

528. in pedibus: cf. digitis in manu, Plaut. Sicch. 706; cf. 653.—livescere is not a common word: Scrib. Larg. 181, 'livescentibus membris'; it is also found in Claudian and Sidonius.

529. post refers to succession in time, inde to progress of dissolution. Post deinde occurs in the fragments of the XII Tables, 3, 2; post demum also in Plautus, post tum in Varro; a reminiscence of the colloquial language; see Schoell, XII Rel. 107. Inde proporro, 4, 890; tum porro, 1, 298, etc.—per artus, membratim, κατὰ μέλη. Lambin was reminded of the death of Socrates (Phaed. 117 c).

530. tractim, ultimately from traho; especially used of slow progress. See on 1, 20 for adverbs in -im.—vestigia leti: a vigorous personification. Death dislodges the anima, or life principle, in its hostile approach.

531. scinditur: cf. 640.—atqui animae haec, Giuss. i.e. haec animae natura; atque animo haec, OQ, Bail.†; atqui animo haec, Junt. Marull., see Phil. 27, 48; atqui animae quoniam, Lamb.; usque adeo haec, Lachm.; aequem animae haec, Bern.; itque animae hoc, M.; atqui animae quoniam, Br.; scinditur † atque animae, Heinze, who says L. does not have atqui and its position is singular, at ergo he thinks possible; itque animae huic, Winck.; aequem animae, Purmann (Jahrb. 67, 675), Christ; autem animae, Purmann (Jahrb. 115, 277); aequem animae heic, 'in this case,' Polle, Phil. 26, 334. The passage is still unhealed.—quoniam: after the verb as in 1, 362.—nec is rarely used before a vowel in L., as here and in 561 (Jessen, 20); neque, often; cf. 39, 125, 252, etc.

532. sincera, incorrupta; cf. 717.—existit, 'come forth'; cf. 5, 212. The argument proves merely that the anima or life of the body is killed by death. 'Life,' says Jacobi, 'is not a form of body, but body is a form of life;' hence the soul may well exist in some other form. But as animus and anima make one nature (136 sq.) destruction of anima will ruin animus also; L. is logical, as usual, granting his premises.

533. quod si forte putas occurs in 698; sin ita f. p. 1, 870; ne tu forte putas, 2, 410; sed ne forte putas, 2, 718, 842; 4, 129. Cf. also 3, 819, 722. Ac ne fort notes, Hor. Ep. 2, 1, 208.—ipsam, ‘independently,’ without compulsion. Cf. 84.

534. introsum: on 45.—trahere: sc. animam; contracta, 545. Cf. 1, 397, 2er) ipse in se trahere et partis conducere in unum.—conducere: 1, 650, ‘acrior ardor enim conductis partibus esset, | languidior porro disiectis disque supatis.’ The place of retirement is probably the breast; cf. 140.

535. ideo is more often found with particles like quod or ut; cf. 819. Atque deo occurs in 584 and elsewhere; ideoque, 4, 490, where see n.—deducere: Cambr., id.; diducere, OQ, Heinz.—membris is abl.; deducere vero, 1, 370. L. always omits the prep. in expressing ‘motion from’ when the metre allows, according to Lertz, 28.

536. at . . . tamen: on 172. The tamen corresponds to si forte, 533; ‘but, you must know,’ etc.—copia animai: like materiai copia, 193 n.

537. cogitur = coacervatur, Creech. ‘Ventus cogit nubes in unum locum,’ 6, 74; see on 1, 1020.—in sensu maiore, ‘in a condition of greater sensibility.’ But dying man’s mental powers do not increase as his physical strength wanes.—Id est is almost equal to vigere: ‘show itself,’ to be, to be vigorous; cf. 283.

538. qui, sc. locus.—nusquamst, ‘nowhere’ appears.—nimirum, ‘without question.’—ante (added by Nicc.), 531. Such expressions are frequent and ordinarily refer to something immediately preceding—six lines before in 4, 1037; ut diximus re, 4, 73, 882; quae, 1, 794; quod, 4, 742, 1037; quos, 1, 846.

539. dilaniata is stronger than scinditur. Ov. M. 6, 644, ‘animaque aliquid continentia membra | dilaniant.’—dispargitur: so in 4, 895 and dispargit, 2, 1135, ut dispersgitur, 1, 309, and dispergunt, 5, 254 and 6, 839. Cf. conspargere, 661, respargi, 5, 371; contractans for contractans, 6, 854; 2, 853; iniacta for inicta, atull. 64, 153; respargi, Acc. Medea, 394; cf. Thes. 2, 817, 33; 818, 40.—ergo generally begins the verse, as in 1, 364; 2, 495: but as a preposition in 78; 5, 1246; stands at the end. Interit ergo recurs in 701, 756. Cf. Epicurus quoted on 508.

540. si iam introduces an apparent concession in 1, 396; 5, 195. The tamen follows in 543. Si iam fit in 766 and si iam sentit, 843, si iam constituantur, 1, 968, now the clauses to be conditional. The iam implies ‘for the moment’; cf. 1, 68, 1071; 2, 974; 3, 679, 766, 843; 2, 907. Cf. Polle, Jahrb. 131, 892.—condere: sc. tibi; a frequently occurring word in his controversy, e.g. 2, 835; 4, 473.

541. dare, ‘grant’; rather uncommon except in the impersonal form datur.—orpo: not membris.

542. lumina: 5, 989, ‘dulcia linquebant . . . lumina vitae’ and ‘lumine vitae,’ 1, 849, 1042; ‘lumine adempto,’ 1033 (fratri lumen ademptum, Catull. 68 b, 53); ‘luminis oras,’ 2, 577. Lumina solis, 4, 208 (quae pervolgant caelum) may explain the plural analogous to radii; lumen was here metrically admissible, cf. lumen tenebraeque, 414. See on 80 and 1025. Liquerunt lumina fatis, Cic. Div. 2, 63, translating Κῆπες ἔβαρ θαύματο φέρουσαι, Hom. B 302. Naev. Lyc. 31, ‘volucres lino linquant lumina.’ Cf. on 1, 5.—particulatum continues the thought of membratim, 527.

543. fateare necesse: sc. est and see on 1, 111. The reason follows with quando, 546. Note the emphatic position of mortalem.

544. nec = neque enim, Giuss.—auras: artus, Duff, refuted by Birdwood, Athenaeum, 3937, 466.—dispersa: because scattered, διαστέλψαται, Epic.

545. contracta e: 534, partes conducere in unum. For the construction cf. 6, 346, 'ex ipso veniens trahat aere quedam | corpora'; 2, 159, 'suis e partibus unum.' — partibus refers to the parts of the soul itself. — obbrutescat is not classical; the ob is almost pleonastic, as in obstupescere, obmutescere; Roby, 2025. Lee quotes Milton 'imbodies and imbrutes.' Lact. Inst. 7, 12, 'non enim anima corpore deficiente sed corpus anima decadente brutescit quia sensum omnem trahit secum.'

546. totum: the entire man loses sense whether the soul leaks out in many places or is paralyzed in one; the effect in either case is insensibility. Totum emphasizes the totality of the death of the body, which must include that of the soul, since that is pars hominis, 96. — magis ac magis undique corresponding to minus et minus und. are both pleasing and expressive.

547. deficit: on 454.

548–557. (8) 'The mind like the ears and other senses has a fixed place in the body; as they decay when separated from it, so the soul cannot live when removed from the body, it is so closely united with it.' Bolingbroke used this argument; see Leland's Deists (1757), 2, 5.

548. quoniam: an Epicurean assumption. — una is 'one,' not 'a,' like ex uno tondentes gramina campo, 2, 661. — loco without preposition also in 4, 380; cf. regione locoque, 2, 534.

549. fixa: ficta, 4. — certo: in the breast, 140.

550. sensus: organs of sense; αἰσθητὴ ποιῶν not αἰσθητοῖς; the Latin could not distinguish. — qui . . . cumque: a frequent tmesis, e.g. 940, 1075, but quicunque, 6, 1104; 2, 892, etc. Quicunque generalizes; the mind and the other senses of any kind whatever; all of them are mortal. — gubernant: a common metaphor: 'vis animi membra gubernat' 5, 560; 'si quis vera vitam ratione gubernet,' 5, 1117; 'natura gubernans,' 5, 77. Ter. Hec. 311, 'qui eos animus gubernat.' The anacoluthon is hardly noticeable.

551. atque, OQ, edd.; aut Lachm. (cf. 616) Giuss. M. comp. 5, 965, 'glandes atque arbita vel pira lecta.' — naresve: Winck. naresque; aures (549) if removed would not destroy hearing. — seorsum: without synizesis, see on 286. Lactantius replies to this argument: 'anima non pars corporis, sed in corpore est . . . corpus vas animae est' (Inst. 7, 12). Cf. 631. Seorsum secreta is a pleonasm like avies errat, 463 n.

552. secretæ: cf. 625 and on 1, 194. For the gender, on 66. — sentire neque esse: cf. 633, and for the argument 331 sq. Confieri . . . posse neque esse, 5, 891; ubi esse et crescere possit, 3, 795. For convenience the natural order of the verbs is frequently changed.

553. tamen, 'still,' the elliptical use: 'suppose on the contrary that they do live, notwithstanding,' etc.; cf. on 51. Giuss. would make sed tamen an emphatic sed merely; Lachm. and M. sed in tempore quamvis parvo, which puts too much emphasis on parvo. — licuntur, Creech, M. Heinze, Bail.; liquuntur, Voss; linguntur, OQ; lincuntur, Lachm. Giuss. (linquuntur, Flor. 31). Lamb. and Gassendi rejected the verse. 2, 1132, liquitur actas; Ov. M. 2, 807, lentaque miserrima tabe liquitur. In Aen. 3, 28 P has linguntur for liquuntur. — tabe: Creech, M. Heinze, Bail.; tabe nimborum, 1, 806; tali, OQ; tabi, Voss, Lachm. Giuss. Br. in Prol. favors linguntur . . . tabi; in text he has licuntur . . . tabe.

554. non quicquid: also in 646; nequit, 441, 563, 788. Reichenhart, 463, says L. has sequo 50 times; non quo, 17; quo, 75; possum, with negatives, 131.

555. homine: because animus is pars hominis within corpus humanum. The omo is the vas in 793. — vas: on 434. — esse: Flor. 30, edd.

556. potius: Ter. Hec. 753, ‘quid volo potius sodes facias.’ — coniunctius: sc. ‘seam vas which is not nexus per venas viscera nervos, 217. — ei is a spondee in L. only in the last foot; e.g. 2, 1136; 5, 284; 6, 710. The form is said to occur 35 times, in Plaut. Ter. and L.; see Lane, LG. 127; Lindsay, 440.

557. conexus, ‘in close union.’ He joins conexus pondera plaga | concursus motus in 1, 633; 2, 726; 5, 438. — adhaeret: sc. ei, and cf. 6, 914; Lamb. read conexus corpori. Lachm. prints adhaeret denique.

558—579. (9) ‘Again the body and mind enjoy life together and are mutually dependent. The atoms of mind in action are contained within the body; the soul cannot act in the open air unless the air serves as a body for it and keeps it together; when the covering of the body is removed the soul must perish.’

558. vivata potestas, ‘the vital energy of body and soul,’ Giuss.; cf. on 409, and for the argument, 349.

559. inter se coniuncta is a common combination; see on 424: hence he has coniuncta valent in the plural as if corpus atque animus had preceded. So 2, 400, absinthi natura ferique centauri . . . pertorquent. — valent is explained by vita fruuntur, the normal condition of living.

560. enim, postponed; on 1, 219. — vitales motus, on 99. — edere: 2, 443, varios quae possint edere sensus, but here, as Heinze remarks, edere = facere; cf. tal corpore motus, 2, 311.

561. sola, cf. 789. — nec autem, on 531. Autem, ‘on the other hand,’ as in 1, 357, where see n.

562. See on 338. Notice animi natura, but corpus alone; 201 n. — cassum with abl. is poetical; in L. 4, 128; 5, 719, etc. — sensibus uti: there is no sensation without the soul; see on 395. — Creech, in refutation, compares the soul and body to a warrior armed; the soul alone is like a soldier without weapons, but still capable of action.

563. radicibus is abl. of separation; 2, 257, ‘fatis avolsa voluntas.’ — Cf. 325, ‘communibus inter se radicibus haerent.’

564. ipse is explained by per se in 565; see on 149. — seorsum is regarded as a preposition here by Roby (2110), although unexampled; cf. the abl. with procul, 433 n. — On this verse see in general 551 and 661.

565. posse: sc. facere, as a verb seems necessary to balance dispicere: Roby, 1094, would make omnia in omnia poterat (Livy, 1, 54) an acc. of extent of action, as it is undoubtedly in 5, 87, ‘omnia posse,’ ‘to have all power.’

566. per: Flor. 30, edd. — viscera, ‘flesh’; Serv. Aen. 6, 253, ‘viscera sunt quidquid inter ossa et cutem est.’ Cf. on 249. — mixtum: another adverb in -im: 1, 20 n. The word is comparatively frequent in the later Latin (Archiv, 7, 502). Mixtim, Flor. 30, edd.; mixti, OQ. — Cf. 283, ‘commixta per artus’ and Epic. quoted in 508.

567. nervos atque ossa: note the gradation from the parts most easily to those most difficultly moved. Cf. 217. — tenentur ab: 323 and nn.

568. intervallis: 2, 98 n.

569. libera, 'unrestrained,' as in 2, 256. It has also an almost adverbial sense in 5, 78.—conclusa, 'shut in,' 773; 6, 125.—moventur: middle, 144 n.

570. motus, 'produce the sense-bringing movements'; cf. id moveri, 4, 1274. The closest parallel to the unusual acc. is Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 125, 'Cyclopum movetur.'

571. ejecta is to be taken with in auras aeris.—moveri, Lamb. edd. on account of moventur; moveare, OQ, which otherwise would be right.

572. propterea quia occurs about twice as often as propterea quod in L; propterea alone is found, e.g. 2, 406, 835; with quia, e.g. 1, 631, with quod, 2, 799, etc. Metrical convenience seems to determine the use. In fourteen places p. quia begins the verse, and in seven cases p. quod; the latter stands at the end of the verse in four places, at the beginning in two; and once—2, 760—propterea is first, quod third. Classical prose prefers quod; Schmalz, Synt. § 254.—simili ratione occurs frequently; cf. 1, 1061; 2, 1073; ad simili r., 4, 425, consimili, 6, 881.

573. animans, 'a living being'; see on 97.—cohibere: cf. 441.—aer is subject. This astonishing conclusion is justified by 334 sq., 560 sq., where we learn that the action of the soul necessitates a living body. It is a direct inference from the principle that the soul is a part of the body (548).

574. sese anima . . . eos, O, esse, Q; in se animam . . . eos, Wakef. in notes, Lachm. Br. Heinze, Bail.; cf. Phil. 27, 50, Jahresb. 28, 12; sese anima . . . eo, Faber, Bentl. M. Giuss. Goeb. Polle. Lamb. saw no difficulty in the reading of O. In 443 the anima is held together by the atmosphere; here, as a part of the amazing supposition, anima holds itself in; that is, becomes active rather than passive: certainly the air cannot hold it in, because the limits of its body, the air, and its own would be coterminous. Moreover it restricts (concludere) itself to such movements (in eos motus) in the atmosphere as it formerly practised in the human body. L likes to press a conclusion to absurdity; see on 1, 920.

575. nervis: 'animam coercentibus quasi, ac constringentibus,' Wakef. Cf. 697.—in ipso corpore, 'within the body'; see on 483.

576. resoluto: variation from dissoluto; 5, 278, 'omnia iam resoluta forent.' Epic. ad Herod. 65, τοῦ στεγάσσοντος λυθέρου.

577. extra: like foras, 604.—vitalibus auris, 'vital breath,' = anima.

578. sensus: on 98.

579. coniunctast, cf. 348–349 and n.—duobus: body and soul. The case is probably dat.—Cf. 559.

580–614. (10) 'The body cannot bear the departure of the soul without corruption when the soul escapes from the body's inmost depths, and thus must be torn to pieces before it leaves the body. (11) Moreover, when it is still within the body it sometimes seems to wish to leave it, and the mind and soul are shaken; so a more violent cause can break them up. Doubtless the soul cannot live in the open air, but when the body perishes dissolution of the soul must follow. (12) No dying man appears to feel the soul go forth entire, but it fails here and there, like other senses. If mind were immortal it would not complain of dissolution, but merely of having to leave its covering.'

580. As a general refutation of this argument, Lactantius appeals to Plato, showing that souls are not material or earthly, but of heavenly origin. Souls and bodies do not perish together, for bodies last long embalmed (Phaedo, 80 d). Cf. 338 sq. and nn. Death from shock, with consequent dispersion of the soul, was discussed in 2, 944–962.

581. in, ‘in condition of’; see on 295.—taetrum, ‘horrible’: 6, 1154, ‘spiritus ore foras taetrum volvbat odorem,’ id. 1205, ‘taetrum sanguinis’; 2, 415, ‘taetrum cadera.’ The word was avoided by the poets after L. (L. Müller on Hor. C. 3, 11, 19).—tabescat, cf. computrescunt, 343, and 553. ‘The author wrote in a warm climate,’ Bock.

582. ex imo penitusque: similar coördinations of adverbial clause and adverb are quoted in note to 273. Cf. incassum frustaque, 2, 1060.—The phrase is important: the soul retires from the innermost parts of the body and from its most distant organs; so the body falls in like a building whose foundations are removed; or rather one from which every nail and fastening had been taken away, for the soul holds the body together (331 sq.).—coorta, ‘after gathering itself together’: 5, 411, ‘umor item quondam coepit superare coortus.’ Coorta usually closes the line; 15 n.

583. emanarit is used in its primary sense; fons unde emanat aqua, Cic. poet, in Div. 2, 63.—fumus, 428 n.—diffusa: notice discidium, 581; diffusa, 583; disperitam, 589; distractam, 590; and see on 437.

584. putre: cf. 773. Putrisque ruinas, 2, 1145.

585. concederit, implying destruction: ‘et cecidit et fuit ruina illius magna,’ Ev. Matt. 7, 27.

586. fundamenta: 4, 405, ‘convellere tota | fundamenta quibus nixatur vita salusque.’—manante anima usque, Lachm. edd.; manant animaeque, OQ; anima emanante, Wakef. M.

587. perque, on 3.—viarum flexus, ‘winding ways.’—4, 93, ‘scinduntur per iter flexum, nec recta viarum | ostia sunt,’ of odor, fumus, etc.

588. foramina: 2, 397, ‘per cuiusque foramina permanare,’ id. 386, ‘transire foramina’; 4, 650, ‘intervalla viasque foramina quae perhibemus.’ Cf. caulas, 255 and n.—multimodis with noscerre; variation from facile, 2, 462.

589. disperitam: cf. 638, 702.—590–591 are a repetition of the thought of 589 in his manner; the priority of action in disperitam might be overlooked. ‘Life is no substantial thing, nor any primitive or simple nature; it is only an accident or quality arising from the aggregation and contexture of atoms and corpuscles, which, when the compages of them is disunited and dissolved through all the substance, still remains scattered and dispersed, yet the life utterly perishes and vanisheth into nothing’; Cudworth, I, 139.

590. sibi: dat. of separation. Sibi distractam, ‘separated from itself,’ ‘torn to pieces’; cf. 799.

591. prolapsa: of swift motion: 6, 1007, ‘in vacuum prolapsa cadunt.’—enaret: Aen. 6, 16, ‘insuetum per iter gelidas enavit ad Arctos’ is thought to be influenced by this line. Nare and its compounds are often used of flying.—For the tense sequence cf. 6, 412, ‘ausis . . . contendere factum | ut fierent,’ and for the mood on 1, 1064.

592. 592–606 were transferred by Munro to follow 575, from a suggestion of Christ that they should follow 579, in order to connect 607 sq. with 591. Giuss. arranges 591, 607–613, 798–799, 592–606. At first sight a transposition seems plausible, but the arguments have so much in common that L. may here, as elsewhere, have departed from strict logical procedure. Cf. 463 sq. Br. brackets them.—finis : 2, 1171, ‘angustis tolerarit finibus aevom.’—vertitur, ‘moves about,’ = versatur.

593. tamen: yet while still alive.—labefacta : L. is fond of such compounds: timefactae, 2, 44; putrefacta, 2, 898; rarefactum, 3, 442; patesfacta, 1, 10; cinefactum, 3, 906; expergesfacti, 4, 995; liquefacta, 5, 1262; percalefacta, 6, 178; tepefacta, 6, 322; conservesfacit, 6, 353; vacefit, 6, 1005; calefecit, 6, 686; conlabefacta, 4, 697; facit are, 6, 962.

594. ire : cf. 526.—soluti : 687, ‘leti lege solutas’; Aen. 11, 829, ‘exsolvit se corpore.’—velle is supplied by Lachm. most acutely, comparing 4, 518, ‘iam ruere ut quaedam videantur velle.’ For velle, ‘to be about to’; see lex. OQ have omnia membra from 596.

595. supremo tempore : 1, 545, ‘esse inmortali primordia corpore debent, | dis-solui quo quaeque supremo tempore possint’; 6, 1192, ‘ad supremum denique tem-pus | compressae nares.’—languescere voltus : cf. nutuque cadenti, 466.

596. mollia, ‘relaxed’: arcus . . . mollis erit, Ov. H. 4, 92.—exsangui, ‘wan’; in 721 exanguis is ‘bloodless.’ Ov. M. 3, 39, ‘sanguisque relinquit | corpus.’—truncō cadere omnia : Lachm. M. Giuss.; cadere (horrore) omnia, Bern.; omnia (corpore) membra, Flor. 31, vulg. Heinze (cf. 154), Bail.; omnia (facie) membra, Br.; cf. 6, 812. But omnia membra was repeated in 594 with no intervening word.—truncō : 654. The abl. is causal; cf. 452.—cadere : cf. 585 and 452 n.

597. quod genus : on 221.—animo male factum and animam liquisse are the remarks which are made. There is a rare word malefactio for ‘syncope,’ ‘fainting.’ Don. on Ter. Ad. 655, ‘animo male fieri dicitur, cum ictu alicuius maeroris percusus animus non sustinet corpus, sequiturque ruina membrorum.’ Plaut. Mil. 1331, ‘animo male | factumst huic repente miserae’; Amph. 1057, ‘animo malest, aquam velim.’—perhibetur, ‘the remark is made,’ a poetical word; Madv. Cic. Fiu. 162.

598. animam liquisse : Plaut. Mil. 1346, ‘animus hanc modo hic reliquerat’ Lingui animo or lingui alone was common, but not with anima.—trepidatur: impersonal of hurrying alarm: Ter. Hec. 315, ‘trepidari sentio et cursari rursum prorsum.’—omnes, qui circumstant, 469.

599. cupiunt means ardent desire in L. and is not frequent (5 times). Cf. 770, and cupido, 59, 1077; cupidus, 5.—reprehendere, ‘pull back,’ ‘hold fast to’; cf. 859; res . . . reprehendere euntis, 6, 569. The word is always scanned in L. as if written reprendere, a form it has in some authors. See on 152. For the re- d. repetentia, 851; retinentia, 675.

600. conquassatur : cf. corpus, 441.—mens, etc. : 201 n.

601. haec : possibly fem.; Lachm., defending his conjecture haec for ea in 6, 456, maintains that L. uses neither haec nor eae. Giuss. makes it fem. sing. here. Con-iuncta, 559, is probably neut. referring to potestas.—conlabeflunt is a very rare word: Caes. BC. 2, 6, 5, ‘ut navis altera . . . collabeficeret’; cf. L. 4, 697.

602. gravior : cf. 485 and n.

603. quid dubitas : in 2, 53, also closing an argument.—prodita, ‘put forth.’ Not unlike are exagitata foras, 6, 583; expiratque foras in apertum, 6, 817; foras electa, 4, 917. Festus explains prodita as ‘ex interiore loco procedens’; cf. 2, 933.

Woltjer, Mnem. 29, 106, would join 603–606 with 607 following Bock.; 580–614 is one argument.

604. in aperto : on 508. — tegmine : cf. 577 and vas, 555.

605. omnem...aevom : aevom is masc. as in 2, 561; 5, 61. Bouterwek thought L. was influenced by the gender of alwā (els wārra rōv alwā). Plaut. has vitalem aevom, Poen. 1187. ‘Florentem aevom’ occurs in Carm. Epig. 1, 762, 2. (Büch.)

606. consistere, ‘hold together,’ M.; it is the meaning midway between that in 846 and in 349. — tempus : 399 n.

607. sibi depends on videtur; cf. 224.

608. de of separation; metr. gr. for ex; 1, 283 n.

609. iugulum is the collar bone, then the lower throat; in usage it is the exterior throat; cf. iugulatio, iugulo. — supera, OQ, for supra; superas, Lamb. Br. Supera caput, 5, 85; supera terram, 6, 561. Supera, like some other prepositions and adverbs, approximates closely to an adjective; cf. 4, 611, ‘voces accipere extra'; 5, 354, ‘dissociare intus partis,’ id. 1370, ‘in montem succedere silvas | cogebant infraque locum concedere cultis’ which also illustrates succedere. Petr. 62, ‘mihi anima in naso esse’ is quoted by Heinze. — fauces is the upper part of the throat; primarily an opening.

610. verum : sc. omnes sentire videntur, understood from nec quisquam; cf. 4, 511, and n. — deficere : on 454. — in : on 138. — 1, 978, ‘finique locet se'; but the prep. is used in 3, 95, 98, etc. — regione of the body occurred in 140; cf. also 617. The word is often a synonym of locus; 4, 786, ‘in regione locoque’ — a pleonasm. — ocatam : the anima is distributed through the body. It fails in definite parts of it, e.g. in the extremities, 527 sq.; locatam, then, is to be considered with reference to parts of the soul, not of the soul as a whole. Pongerville paraphrases well; ‘comme ces autres sens il faut bien qu'elle meure | aux lieux où la Nature assigna sa demeure’.

611. aliors, ‘as well’; 1, 116 n. Duff regards it as the equivalent of singūlōs. — parti : 1, 978 n. — quemque : in distributive apposition with sensus; see Gild.-L. 323. — scit : variety for sentit; the form only here; nescit once in 4, 469.

612. dissolui : see on 330, and for the caesura on 258. — foret (forent) in twenty places in L. follows a word ending in a vowel or m; in four it follows a consonant ending, as in 3, 748. Esset might have replaced foret in this verse, but then it would have had five, possibly six, spondees. Esset and foret seem to be interchangeable in L. in respect to syntax; cf. on 1, 182.

613. moriens refers to mens; ψυχὴ...δν πότμον γοωστα, Hom. II 857. — dissolvi: causal infin.; 75 n.

614. sed : ita would properly correspond to the tam of 613. Similarly in Plaut. Tv. 688, and Cic. Fin. 1, 1, where see Madv. — ire : a spurious verse follows in the old editions, first in Marull. ‘gauderet, praelonga senex aut cornua cervus,’ which shows that a verb was missed for ire, and that gauderet was supplied in thought. The Jalkut Simoni says that after the Fall the serpents were bidden to change their skins with great pain every seven years. — vestem : 4, 60, ‘serpens | exuit in spinis vestem.’ — ut anguis : nom., see on 456. — Lact. I.c. says ‘equidem numquam vidi, qui se quereretur in morte dissolvi. sed ille fortasse Epicureum aliquem viderat etiam-dum moritur philosophantem, ac de sua dissolutione in extremo spiritu disserentem . . . nec refelli quidem serio debuit; quod qui facit, videtur vereri ne quis id credat.’

615-623. (13) 'The mind is produced in a fixed place because definite places are assigned to each part of a body in which no improper arrangement of members is possible. Fire is not found with water, nor the soul outside the body.'

615.—Br. brackets 615-623 after Winck. because the same argument recurs in 784 sq.; and Giuss. 615-633, because he would connect them with 548-579; van d. Valk, 136, thinks that they belong after 557, the scribe being led astray by denique, which begins both 558 and 615; but why did he then not follow with 580? The poet states these arguments as they occurred to him, and bases different arguments on the same phenomena and is not bound by logical arrangement: moreover, the form is different.—animi mens: L. has mens animi, 4, 758; animi mente, 5, 149; animi mens, 6, 1183; animi ratione, 1, 425; mentis ratione, 2, 677; Catull. has mens animi, 65, 4; Plaut. twice, Cist. 209, Epid. 530. It means 'understanding of the mind,' 'mental power'; cf. on 94—consiliumque, 'governing principle'; see on 95.

616. gignitur (= invenitur) shows by its number that animi mens consiliumque form one conception.—aut...ve is apparently irregular, but the contrast is (a) aut (b)ve).—unis occurs in 5, 897; una, 2, 919. The pl. is due to sedibus, each member having its own place.

617. certis: media regione in pectoris, 140.—omnibus, OQ, edd.; pectoris, Lachm.; unis and certis prevent any ambiguity with omnibus, 'to all alike'; Polle, Phil. 26, compares nobis in 129, 169, 375.

618. nascendum: like gigno, nascor, is used metaphorically, corresponding to creatum, 619; 2, 436, 'quae in corpore natast'; 4, 495, 'odores nascuntur'.—cuique, 'everything.'

619. sunt: a metrical blemish; on 2, 844.—ubi = in quo, hence followed by possit.—quicquid for quidque is not uncommon in L., as quisquis and quisque were probably synonyms by origin; see Lindsay, LL. 448; cf. 2, 957 n.—durare, 'to stay in life,' is opposed to birth in 797, durare genique.

620. partitis, Bern. edd.; per totis, OQ; perfectis, Lachm.; partitust artibus usus, Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 675; pars totis artibus, Winck.; partit vis artibus esse, Polle. Munro, Heinze, and Bail. postulate a lacuna after 619, but L. is negligent, as in 614; the construction is ita (quicquid possit) multimodis partitis artibus esse, membrorum, etc. M. suggests to fill his lacuna 'certum ac dispositum naturae legib' constat. | hoc fieri nostrum quoque corpus foedere debet | atque ita.'—artibus: 'have such a manifold organization of parts' (M.). The abl. is qualitative, like those in 177 and 749; cf. also 6, 268. Artibus is written in 5, 1077; this form was reserved for ars ordinarily, according to the grammarians; see Thes. 2, 711, 57.

621. praeposterus: 4, 833, 'omnia perverse praeposta sunt ratione'; Manil. 2, 764, 'effluat in vanum rerum praeposterus ordo.'

622. res, 'effect,' rem, 'cause'; see on 71.

623. fluminibus alliterates with flamma. A like statement of impossibilities in 784. So Ovid, Tr. 1, 8, 4, 'unda dabit flamas et dabit ignis aquas'; Plaut. As. 99, 'iubeas me piscari in aere'; many refl. in Weise, Charact. d. lat. Spr. 83. Note the prep. in second member but not in the first, as in 4, 98, 147-148; the usage occurs in Catull., Hor., Virg., Caes., but not in Cic., Sall., Nepos; Degering, Hist. Synt. 40, and Forb. on Aen. 5, 512.

624—633. (14) ‘If the soul has sensation apart from the body, it must be endowed with the senses, but these cannot act when separate from the body.’

624. This verse recurs in 670. Of verses with similar caesuras Meyer found four in Ennius, three in Lucilius, one in Hor. S. I, seven in L. VI, three in Catull., two in Aen. IV, none in Ov. M. VI, showing that such a verse form was gradually abandoned; Sitz. Münch. Akad. 1884, 1076.

625. Cic. Div. 1, 129, ‘ut enim deorum animi sine oculis, sine auribus, sine lingua sentiunt inter se quid quisque sentiat, ex quo fit ut homines, etiam cum taciti optent quid aut voveant, non dubitant quin di illud exaudiant, sic animi hominum . . . certant ea quae permixti cum corpore videre non possunt.’ Mallock (Lucr. 160) notices L.’s inconsistency in elsewhere attributing to the mind one of the most important of all the senses—sight (e.g. 4, 755).—sentire: abs., 118 n.—secretæ: cf. 552.

626. ut opinor is very frequent in statements of certainty, sometimes in irony; when L. chooses a less confident expression he writes ausim confirmare (2, 178), firmare potesse (3, 319). Besides the form opinor, he uses only opinanti, 959, and opinantibz, 5, 777, etc.—faciundum est auctam, ‘you must make it endowed?’—auctam: cf. 630; so viribus auctos, 5, 1177, ignibus aucta, 5, 723; nullis sensibus auctæ, Catull. 64, 165. For sensibus, cf. 4, 496, ‘possint alii convincere sensus.’

627. nosmet instead of nobismet where the enclitic properly belongs, just as with ipse the nom. is used instead of the accusative.—Nosmet L. uses but once, tute eight times, tutemel twice; cf. 1024.—proponere: cf. 879, 183.

628. infernas, ‘below’; so nubila . . . inferna, 5, 647. — Acherunte is a place; 10, 978, 984; a river in 6, 763; other names for this place are Tartarus, 1012 (personified), Tartara, 966; Acherusia templa, 25 (Preller, Röm. Myth. 2, 74). For the spelling with u, cf. Lindsay, LL. 33.—vagari: in reference to the aimless wandering in the lower world.

629. pictores: Polygnotus at Delphi and Nicias at Athens were famous; see Müller’s Archaeology, § 397. Plaut. Capt. 998, ‘vidi ego multa saepe picta quæ Acherunti fierent | cruciamenta’; Cic. Tusc. 1, 11, mentions poetarum et pictorum portenta.—scriptorum: as Homer, and Ennius commemorat (Homeri) speciem sacrimas effundere salsa, 1, 125.—sæcla (never sæcula in L.), ‘generations,’ like 67, a meaning midway between the usual Lucretian sense—rare elsewhere—of ‘breed,’ ‘genera,’ which occurs in 753; 5, 1059; 6, 766, etc. sæcla ferarum, and ‘generations,’ 1, 202; 3, 948, 1090, the classical meaning with special reference to time; cf. Polle, AV. 62. L. makes sæcla the pl. of genus; genus occurs in sing. 110 times, pl. 3; sæclum, sing. 3, pl. 42; Polle, Jahrb. 93, 758.

630. introduxerunt (separated by the caesura) is strictly applicable only to sæcla. Exprimo can be said of both poets and painters.

631. sorsum occurs in 637, 660, 796; 5, 447, seorsus, 5, 448; seorsus, 4, 494, orsum, 4, 495.

632. animæ (edd. for anima): dat.—neque: for the disjunctives, cf. 5, 895, ‘quæ neque florescunt pariter nec robora sumunt | corporibus neque proiciunt letate senecta | nec simili Venere ardescunt nec moribus unis | convenient, neque sunt eadem iucunda per artus.’ Cf. 1, 1014; 2, 855; 5, 432, 935.—Christ proposed omine a.

633. hand igitur, Lachm. edd.; auditum, OQ, Gif., but Lamb. objects that audi-

tum cannot mean sonitum; auditū, Hav. M., but aures auditū sentire is tasteless. Yet neque aures auditū per se possunt sentire, neque esse may prove to be right.—per se, ‘by themselves,’ without the body.—possunt recurs to the pl. of 628, 630.—sentire neque esse: on 552.

634–669. (15) ‘When the body is cut in two the soul is also divided, and cannot be immortal. This principle is illustrated by the conduct of men in battle when cut down by the scythe-chariots, and by the action of a snake when cut to pieces. If the soul were not divided, the body would have many souls; but being divided it must be mortal.’

634. inesse has in more often, but cf. 1, 590, corpore inesse.—Br. brackets 634–669, ‘nam 624–633 ab vss. 670–678 seiungi non debabant,’ because they begin in the same way, like 2, 478, 522, but cf. 2, 757, 788, 795.

635. animale is predicate: ‘endowed with life.’ The entire body is permeated by this anima, which is necessary for the vitalis sensus; the terms are not synonymous, but one conditions the existence of the other; 128.

636. medium, ‘in two’; sc. corpus.—si praeciderit . . . dissicietur: poterunt . . . ni dederint, 1, 378–379, is the only other instance in which L. uses this form of the conditional sentence; Dr. § 548.

637. vis aliqua: 5, 1233, 1152.—sorsum . . . secernat: pleonastic; ‘sever asunder’; see on 500. Cf. in general 2, 944, ‘quamvis animantem grandior ictus, | quam patitur natura, repente adfigit,’ where note repente; there must not be time for the soul to withdraw from the part about to be severed.—secernat: cf. 552.

638. dispertita . . . discissa: cf. for the variation, 589–590.—procul dubio: 1, 812 n.—quoque modifies dispertita; see on 349.

639. discissa: discidium occurred in 342.—Claud. Mam. de Statu an. 2, 3 ‘securi omne corpus in partes potest . . . modo tu videris utrumnam, cum cuiuslibet animantis una sit anima, dividi haec eadem possit, ut iterum quotilibet pars animae anima sit, sicut quotilibet pars corporis corpus est’; id. 1, 18, ‘inquiramus igitur, dissicine in partes animus queat’ (Heinze).—dissicietur: in Aen. 7, 339, dissice conpositam pacem, for the spelling of R, followed by most editors, Ladewig prints disice with the Medicean first hand, and Conington, disiice; see Forbiger there and Schuchardt, Vokal. 2, 459. Iacio in its compounds does not retain ii; cf. reicii, 1, 34, reiciat, 6, 81, eicit, 3, 877; 4, 1272; conicunt, 6, 731, deicit, 5, 1125, eicit, 6, 689, disiectis, 1, 651. M. cites Halm’s reading, dissice, in Cic. Cael. 37, and the reading of M., dissicere, in Tac. Ann. 1, 65. Cf. in general, 501 and Mather, Iaciendi verbi composita, Harv. St. 6, 83 sq.—Stolz, Archiv, 13, 101, denies the connexion of disisce with iacio and defends the older theory of a **secere*; cf. secare; so Kühner et. LG. § 43, 7, and Heinze.

640. discedit, ‘divides,’ is rare; cf. 436; 2, 833. L. has in partes discidere ii 659, 669, distrahi, 2, 827, discerpitur, 2, 829, dividit, 5, 684. Notice that the ph. interprets scinditur, in his manner. Wakef. cites Firmicus, 4, who puts this w. argument succinctly: ‘etenim, quod potest dividi corpus est; quod autem corp. necesse est esse mortale. ergo si anima dividitur, corpus est; si corpus est, nec est sit res ipsa mortalis.’ On the other hand, the argument for immortality from h. same premises occurs in Cic. Tusc. 1, 71, and elsewhere: ‘quod cum ita sit, c. nec secerni nec dividi nec distrahi potest, ne interire quidem igitur.’—ullas ( “ )

all,' Duff) is exceptional for aliquas; Polle, Phil. 26, 303, says ullus occurs 77 times in L.; 74 times it has the negative; twice (3, 184, 443) the neg. is implied.

641. aeternam = immortalem; 800, 'mortale aeterno iungere.'—sibi: dative poss.—naturam is here 'quality'; cf. 1, 649; 2, 1072; 5, 355, etc.—abnuit: noteworthy personification in his manner. Cf. in general, 517.

642. falciferos: 5, 1301, 'falciferos armatum escendere currus.' Most persons first learn of them from Xen. Anab. 1, 8, 10, δρυατά δρεπανηφόρα. Livy, 37, 41, 7, describes them as used in the war with Antiochus: 'illa ut quidquid ab latere obice-retur abscideret, haec ut prolapsos subeuntisque contingeret.' Curt. 4, 9, 5, also refers to them, their object being 'quidquid obvium . . . amputatae.' For the compound, see on 11; usually falcatos occurs instead.—memorant: L. had not seen them. So in 6, 756, 'in Syria quoque fertur item locus esse videri.' He had doubtless heard the stories of the veterans returning from the Orient.—abscidere and abscisum are parts of abscido.

643. de subito is found also in 2, 265; the more frequent de improviso, de integro and denuo are analogous. L. has ex improviso in 2, 1034. The grammarians objected to "adding prepositions to adverbs"; see Lachm. on 2, 264.—permixta: 5, 1313, of lions, 'quoniam permixta caede calentes | turbabant saevi nullo discrimine turmas.' Catull. 64, 360, 'permixta flumina caede'; Ellis there compares τριμίξ in Hom. Φ 16. Aen. 11, 634, 'permixti caede virorum semianimes volvontur equi.'

644. in terra: cf. 173 and n.—videatur is passive, 182 n. The quivering shows that the amputated part still possesses anima (656).—artubus, 'frame,' as commonly.

645. decidit implies swiftness; it is said of rain in 6, 497.—cum tamen: on 107. Cum 'at a time when' = 'before,' without the negative.—mens has not time to think.—hominis vis is probably a periphrasis for homo fortis, the warrior; the pleonasm is in his manner. Then mens atque homo = mens hominis, as in 6, 128, 'vis eius et impetus acer' = 'vis acris impetus eius'; 3, 768, 'vitam sensumque priorem = priorem sensum vitalem'; cf. also 888, 966, and Kraetsch, 36 sq. Duff, 'consciousness,' which is an interpretation rather than a translation.

646. mali: physical; on 347.—non quit: on 554.—dolorem: on 111.

647. simul, OQ, edd.; semel, Lachm. M. Cf. 4, 1276, for et simul, introducing a new reason, and Postgate J. Phil. 16, 127.—in studio dedita: Catull. 61, 101, 'in mala | deditus vir adultera'; Cato, ap. Gell. 11, 2, 5, 'in ea re studebat'; L. 4, 815, 'in rebus deditus.'

648. reliquo: so reliqui, 2, 955; aquae, 6, 552, 1072; suādēt, 4, 1157; cf. Bersu, Culturalen, 59.—petessit: sc. homo; petessens, 5, 810.

649. tenet, 'comprehend'; 2, 1173, 'nec tenet omnia paulatim tabescere'; in 3, 1070, also of mental grip.—laevam: sc. manum. Aen. 10, 545, 'Anxuris ense sinistram | et totum clipei ferro deiecerat orbem.' Cf. on 2, 488.—tegmine: of the shield, Aen. 9, 577.

650. abstraxe: cf. protraxe, 5, 1159; traxe, Aen. 5, 786.—rapaces, 'devouring' (M.).

651. dextram: L. has the short form (5 times) when metre requires it, e.g. 1, 317; dextera (5 times), 2, 488; 4, 333, etc.—scandit: on a wall, ladder, or the chariot. It is immaterial whether the action in 651 sq. is caused by the scythes: it is more artistic to consider it so.

652. adempto, 'gone.'

653. agitat: the frequentative is expressive.—propter, 'near by,' as an adverb; cf. 2, 417, 'araque Panchaeos exhalat propter odores.' As a prep. it has the same meaning in 1, 90, and elsewhere.—moribundus: see on 129; dextera . . . moribunda peperdit, Aen. 10, 341. Edd. see an imitation in Aen. 10, 395, 'te decisa suum, Laride, dextera quaerit | semianimesque micant digiti ferrumque retractant.'

654. calido is a constant epithet of vital heat; see on 126.—truncus: cf. on 404. Serv. on Aen., l.c., comp. Enn. Ann. 472, 'oscitat in campis caput a cervice revulsu | semianimesque micant oculi lucemque requirunt.' Curt. 4, 15, 17, 'amputata virorum membra humi iacebant, et quia calidis adhuc vulneribus aberat dolor, truncu quoque et debiles arma non omittebant, donec multo sanguine effuso exanimati procumberent' (Heinze).

655. volutum vitalem: the 'look of life.'—patentis means that the eyes were still capable of sight: 5, 724, 'ad speciem vertit nobis oculosque patentis'; 4, 1143 'prendere quae possis oculorum lumine operto'; cf. caligare oculos, 156.

656. reliquias: 6, 825, 'reliquias vitae.'—animai: rarely within the verse; see on 1, 84.

657. A more familiar illustration confirming the argument from the scythe-chariots.—tibi depends on sit libitum.—vibrante: lambebant linguis vibrantibus ora, Aen. 2, 211; common in the poets, of serpents. Vibranti here is metrically inadmissible,—minanti, O, om. Q, Bern. Goeb.; cf. Florus, 1, 40, 24, 'more anguum qui oprito capite postremum cauda minantur'; minantis, Pius, vulg.; minenti, Nencini; micanti, Lachm. edd.

658. serpentis, OQ, M. edd.; for the separation of the gen. cf. 621, 309, etc.; serpentem, Marull. Lachm.; serpenti, Nencini.—cauda e, Lachm. M. Bail.; caude OQ, cauda, O corr. Bern. Br. Heinze; caudam, Avanc.—procero often means 'long'; passus, 4, 826; aves p. rostro, Cic. ND. 1, 101.—utrumque, OQ, duobetrum, both corpus and cauda; cf. 4, 699; as strange a form as interutrasque, 306, or discidere and ancisa, but well attested in Archiv, 5, 565. L. is in the habit of using strange words in close neighborhood to one another; cf. 675–676. Vtrinque, Marull. Lachm. Goebel; truncum, Giuss. Bail. Br.; utramque, conject. Heinze. M. would have a lacuna: et caudam et molem totius corporis omnem, and Giuss. would have serpentis modify both cauda and his truncum, the construction being 'serpentina.' See Phil. 27, 50; J. Phil. 4, 245; BPW. 15, 1133.

659. discidere ferro, 'chop with an axe,' M. Discidere is a very rare word; it recurs below in 660. Spengel finds it in Ter. Ad. 559, 'vide ut discidit labrum.'

660. iam, 'straightway,' with cernes; sorsum with ancisa; another example of interlocking.—ancisa is the sole example, except in Isidorus, of a supposed verb ancido. Festus mentions ancaesa, which was probably derived from the same verb. For the meaning, cf. amputata.

661. tortari is not classical.—conspargere: see on 539.—tabo: Enn. Sc. 363; 'saxa spargens tabo'; Non. spargere: madesacere.

662. ipsam seque retro: i.e. its own hinder part; object of petere, partem priorem being subject. Ipsam se form practically one expression, hence que might be appended to the second word even in prose; cf. also aequo animoque, 939, 962; res ipsaque, 2, 1050; multa facitque, 4, 273; more in Holtze, 175. Adverbs like retro have the

of adjectives or nouns also in 108, 361, 547, 1051. This all is to prove that the singed parts retain life, and hence anima.

163. ardenti, OQ, edd.: 6, 1172, 'ardentia morbo | membra'; ardentem, Br. see 4, 27, 432.—morsu premat, 'indent,' dente, ore premere are common; see lex. 7r. 798, 'praedam minorem morsibus vastis premens' of a lion.—dolore, OQ, nze, Giuss. Bail. Christ, so that icta may not be absolute; dolorem, Lachm. M.

Giuss. construes ut icta ardenti dolore vulneris premat (eum = dolorem) or (id = us). S. Aug. de Quant. Animae, 62, 'longus vermiculus' was cut up 'atque in ipsorum stilo tactum contorquebat se ad doloris locum' (Heinze).

164. omnibus is emphatic and also totas, as is shown by their unusual position. licemus: cf. sin dicent, 760; quod si dicet, 2, 931; sive . . . dicent, 1, 861, of enable propositions.

165. particulis: the diminutive is expressive.—ratione: on 161.—sequetur: 2, ; 'inde sequetur | ad simili ratione alias ut postulet ordo.' For the subject, animantem . . . habuisse, cf. 2, 121; 4, 502–503; 5, 1262–1263; 1, 680.

166. animantem, a being that has anima; see on 97. For the assonance, animantem animas, cf. parte reparcent, 1, 667; funditus . . . fundamenti, 1, 572–573.

167. divisast, 'has been divided.'—una, 'a unity.'—simul cum: just as the y was one, the two are destroyed together.

168. mortale is nom.; cf. 231, 802.—utrumque, soul and body.

169. disciditur: on 659.

170–678. (16) 'If the soul is immortal and makes its way into the body at birth, is there no memory of former existence? But if there is no such memory the age is practically the death of the soul. Souls existing in a former generation e perished, and those which live now have been lately made.'

170 = 624. This argument is aimed at the doctrine of preëxistence received by the Pythagoreans and Platonists. It is not ordinarily Lucretius' way to refute at length opposing theories. In 1, 635 he delays over Heraclitus, but finishes others who held certain theories of elemental matter in seven lines (705–711). The Stoics are met in similar brief refutations in 1, 1021, 1052; 2, 167, etc. Aristoxenus in 3, 100 sq. Anaxagoras 1, 830, receive a little more attention. But as a rule L. believed the positive force of the Epicurean dogmas was a sufficient refutation; cf. 12cii, 31.—Cf. 1, 112, 'ignoratur enim quae sit natura animai, | nata sit an contra centibus insinuetur.' Cudworth (1, 105) favors the Pythagorean view against atomistic, for the latter 'leaves us in an absolute impossibility of proving the mortality of the rational soul, the incorporeity of any substance, and by consequence the existence of any deity distinct from the corporeal world'; just what L. is going to prove. Reisacker transfers 670–678 to follow 768.

171. Tert. An. 25 attacks those 'qui praesumunt non in utero concipi animam, cum carnis figulatione compingi atque produci, sed effuso iam partu nondum infanti extrinsecus inprimi'; cf. Locke, Phil. Works, I, 470.

172. super, OQ, edd., 'as well'; cf. on 1, 39; supera, Unger, Br.; cf. 5, 326.—actam: 5, 172, 'tempore in anteacto'; 3, 935, 'vita anteacta priorque'; hence acta actas has its sensus prior, 768 sq., but in anteacto tempore nil sensimus ri (832), there is no memory of former experience before birth. Pythagorasognized the shield which he had carried as Euphorbus in the Trojan war:

'habentque | Tartara Panthoiden iterum Orco | demissum, quamvis clipeo Troiana
refixo | tempora testatus,' Hor. C. 1, 28, 9.

673. vestigia, see on 309. — tenemus: 2, 582, 'et memori mandatum mente tenere.' Mēminimus is unmetrical.

674. potestas animi = animus; yet it continues the thought of nequimus; 247 n.

675. actarum, not necessarily limited to the deeds of the soul. — excederit is common in reference to memory; see lex. — retinentia, ἀπ. Λεύ., repeats the thought in tenemus, 673. Cf. the forms desipientia, 499; repelentia, 851. Memoria and recordatio are metrically inadmissible for μνήμη; the popular language had valentia, sufficientia, nascentia.

676. opinor: on 626. — ab leto, OQ, Woltjer, Archiv, 11, 250; a, Non. Char.
edd. since Lachm.; cf. 6, 1042. — longiter, Non. Char. most edd. since Lamb.;
longius, OQ, Heinze, Bail., also in 789; 5, 133; but the unusual form longiter could not have been invented by the grammarians. The derivation of longiter from longum iter has lately been supported by Wölfflin, Archiv, 8, 145; cf. Osthoff, id.
4, 455; opposed by Delbrück and Lindsay. L. has uniter, 839, 846; duriter, 5, 1402; largiter, 6, 622; Cic. Fam. 7, 1, 5, humaniter, (avoided in his later writings); Varro, caduciter; Catull. puriter; Cic. L. Livy, naviter; see Proll, 55. The more common (and regular) acriter, 2, 954; breviter, 6, 1083.

677. quaes: (anima).

678. interiisse: see on 798. — nunc, 'in this generation.' The Council of Trent decided that the soul is created at the instant when the body is formed.

679-712. (17) 'If the soul enters the body at birth, it ought not to live as if it had grown up with the body, but as if in a cave by itself; whereas it is so closely united to the body that the whole frame, even to the teeth, has feeling. So then it has birth and death. (18) If the soul comes into the body from without, bit by bit, then, like food, it is dissolved and perishes in making another soul which actuates the body.'

679. iam: with perfecto; after the body is completely finished; cf. 729, 738.

680. inferri solitast, 'is ordinarily introduced'; cf. 623. For the form of the conditional sentence, cf. 2, 776, 'sin sunt tintæ . . . conveniebat'; other examples of this rare form in Dr. § 548 A, c. — animi, OQ, edd.; animæ, Br., 'nam in dentibus (692) non est animus,' but cf. 512, 558, 747. — vivata: on 409.

681. vitæ . . . limen: in limine vitæ, Stat. Th. 5, 260; leti limine, 2, 960;
6, 1157, cf. 1208; Culex, 224. Limen mortis occurs in Catull., Pliny the Elder, and Seneca.

682. conveniebat (eam inferri); so in Eng. 'it were fitting.' — cum corpore:
see on 276.

683. in ipso, 'within'; on 483.

684. cavea: 6, 198, 'in caveisque ferarum more.' The word means 'cave,' 'hole,' 'cage,' etc., according to the animal confined there. — se sibi: 145 n.

685. tamen: in 5th place as in 1, 399; 4, 1285; 6, 622. — affuat, O, Heinze, i.e. adfluat, read by Bail.; afuat, Q, Dombart Jahrb. 156, 341; afuat, Grasberger, 42, 54, Br.; the Latinity of which is doubted by Lachm., who reads arcet: the verse is rejected by Lamb. Bern. M. Goebel, Neumann 46; bracketed with affuat by Gius. For affuat, cf. 6, 12, affuere divitias: in some mysterious way the soul is to retire to a cavern, and yet the entire body is to overflow with sensation! Vt tamen = et tamen ita ut.—Birt, Rh.M. 52, Suppl. 151, avfuat. The Thesaurus article (I, 1243, 10) makes sensu dative.

686. originis, ‘birth,’ as in 4, 160; id. 838, linguae processit origo.

687. leti lege: see on 353. A prose writer would have written nasci et mori.

688. nam neque corresponds to nec tam, 695, with intervening parenthesis.—adnecti: used but once by L., but conexa several times. For the hexameter endings putandumst, solutas, putandumst, insinuatas, cf. vita, vociferari, coorta, mundi, 13–16; aer, secuntur, aer, transpiciuntur, 4, 275–278; templa, altis, saxa, partis, 5, 491–494.

689. insinuatas = si insinuavissent; cf. on 485.—extrinsecus: cf. 698, 722. It is opposed to penitus in reference to the atoms, in 1, 528, where see n.

690. 690–694 were transferred by Lachm. and edd. to follow 685, so that 688 and 695 can come together. Heinze and Bail. retain the order of the MSS.; cf. the use of nam in 428; Nencini puts them after 683.—quod totum is subject of fieri.—contra, ‘otherwise’ = e contrario; cf. 108; 4, 1088, ‘quod fieri contra totum natura repugnat.’—manifesta docet res occurs in 1, 893; 2, 565; 6, 139, 249. The intimate union of soul and body would be impossible if the soul were merely introduced into it; the two must grow together.

691. conexa est: sc. corpori; cf. 557.

692. ossaque: the addition of que to the last member is not uncommon; see Dr. § 314, 6. L. has it after three members in 1, 56; 2, 922, etc.; after four in 1, 598; after five in 5, 75, 1272; after six in 2, 554; 5, 69 where see n. Ossa are the last affected; cf. 250.—sensu: because the soul pervades the teeth.—participentur is passive; cf. 462 and lex.

693. morbis, OQ, edd.; morsus, Lachm. Bern.; cf. Phil. 27, 51. Munro defends morbis by 6, 657, ‘morbi per membra dolorem . . . arripit acer | saepe dolor dentes.’ Morsus would hardly have been corrupted into morbis, which may be due to caries, or to momentary chill or the like in sound teeth.—gelidai, rare adjective ending; 1, 29 n.—stringor, ‘twinge,’ not found elsewhere. Livy, 22, 51, 6 has stricta frigore; Lucan, 4, 653, stricta gelu. L. also has aegror, 6, 1132; amaror, 4, 224; vagor, 2, 576; exesor, 4, 220; 47 in all of this formation; Terence has 12; see Roby, 907. ‘Aqua dentes habet,’ Petronius, humorously, 42.

694. lapis, ‘grit.’ The ordinary bread was carelessly made: ‘panem non deliciosius cribro discussum’ (Schol. on Pers. 3, 111). See Marquardt, Privatleb. 415 sq.—oppressus, OQ, edd.; expressus, Lachm.; cf. on premat, 663, and 1, 851. Bergk, Phil. 30, 681, offressus.—subtitia, OQ, Heinze, Giuss. Nencini, † Bail.; cf. on 2, 363; subit si, Bern. M.; subito his, Br.; subiens, Lachm. Subito, inadmissible metrically, is all that is needed for the sense.

695. contextae, ‘woven in’; cf. 683. Other metaphors from weaving are exordia cepit, 5, 331; retexens . . . sol, 5, 267; perlexere dictis, 1, 418; cf. on 217 and 1, 529.

696. incolumes: emphatic by position.—salvas, ‘whole.’—exsolvere, ‘release,’ with a preposition is unexampled according to Dr. § 219, 2. L. has it with the simple abl. in 1, 932, etc., with e in 1, 811. If souls are torn in breaking free, they are mortal, 640. Aen. 11, 829, ‘exsolvit se corpore’

697. nervis, etc., are the hard parts of the body which would retard the soul, tending to its greater laceration.—articulis he has only here; there is a climax in the difficulty of release.

698. If the soul is infused throughout the body, the result will be as before.

699. permanare: 2, 397 '(primordia) singula per cuiusque foramina permanare'; see on 253.—nobis instead of nostra, as frequently.

700. tanto quique magis, 'so much the more then,' occurs also in 5, 343, quique being pleonastic; cf. 6, 460. The abl. quique also in 2, 372, 'quique suo genere,' cf. Plaut. Men. 549, Pers. 658; see Archiv, 11, 100. Goebel and Bock. quippe.—fusa: i. q. exhalata, cf. 1033, 'animam corpore fudit'; consequently cum corpore peribit, cf. 759. To take fusa as confusa (M.) is not so probable, for (1) the junction fusa peribit is more Lucretian (cf. 1, 760); (2) destruction of both body and soul, not preservation, is his general prophecy; and (3) fusa = confusa does not appear to be Lucretian. 'Fusing' is expressed by mano and its compounds.

701. Cf. 756, 519–520; bracketed by Br., rejected with 702 by Tohte.—dissolvitur: dissolvi, permanare, perire are all identical.—ergo: the conclusion is plainly false unless the substance loses its identity, which might not always occur; cf. the percolation of water through rock in 1, 348.

702. dispertitur, OQ, Heinze; cf. 589; dispertitus, Pius, Lachm. edd.; dispertita, Itali.—enim: Itali, edd.; ergo, OQ. With hesitation I admit enim; L. on revision would probably have omitted 701, in which case dispertita ergo could stand. Edelbluth, 41 keeps ergo, rejecting 703.—caulas is not used by L. in connexion with cibus which goes in venas, 2, 1136; in corpus, 1, 350; in membra, 703. Except in three places (c. palati, 4, 620, 660; c. aetheris, 6, 492), he always has caulae of the passages of the soul; hence this verse must be separated from the following one. Cf. on 255.—omnis, repeated in 703; see on 430.

703. ut . . . sic: Lachm. edd. except Heinze join this line to the preceding, which is un-Lucretian: cf. 4, 1097; 5, 788.—cibus: on 477.—membra: on 151.

704. disperit: not common, but six times in L.; 4, 376, 639; 5, 284, 291, 1422.—aliam, 'of something else,' like hic dolor = huius dolor; see on 231.—naturam, 'substance,' 137 n.—sufficit, 'supplies'; 6, 480, '(nebulae) sufficient nubes.' The food must be changed before it can be assimilated.

705. anima atque animus:  $\psi\upsilon\chi\eta$ , the entire soul; cf. on 94.—quamvis: on 403.—recens: with corpus; 'recentia volnera,' 4, 1071.—in, Marull. edd., but as strange as ex, 2, 791; cf. 709–710.

706. dissoluuntur: see on 330.

707. quasi: because the hypothesis is so strange.—omnis: probably with caulas, not with artus as in 703, for caulas usually has omnis with it; see on 255. The point seems to be the number of passages in the body, which increases the probability of the soul's dissolution. In artus without omnis in 2, 683, 711; 6, 655, etc., yet the ambiguity remains.

708. particulae: the diminutive ending has its full force, as in 665; cf. partita, 710.

709. nunc, 'at any given time'; this soul must have succeeded an earlier one which was destroyed like the food.—dominatur: cf. on 138.—nata ex: cf. 1, 159, 'ex omnibu' rebus . . . nasci.'

710. tum: when it entered the body. OQ have tunc; on 1, 130.

711. natali die, 'birthday,' cf. 686. — privata: on 486.

712. funeris: on 72.

713.—740. (19) 'Are seeds of the soul left in a dead body or not? If they are, then the soul is divided and cannot be immortal; if they are not, where do worms in dead bodies come from? If souls from without enter these worms, do they hunt up seeds of worms and make bodies for themselves or do they enter bodies already formed? Strange if they do either and so become subject to the inconveniences of a body! But they cannot make bodies for themselves, nor can they enter into bodies previously made; for they cannot fit the bodies closely enough to produce sensation.'

713. praeterea: postponed for the sake of the metre. — linquuntur and lincuntur, 714; see on 293. — necne: instead of annon in a direct question is found elsewhere only in Cic. Tusc. 3, 41 and Flacc. 59; Dr. § 468, Lane, 1520.

714. exanimo: L. does not use the third declension form, exanimis, cf. 6, 705, 1256, 1273; so inermus, inbecillus, sublimus, sublime, sterilis and sterilus, in accordance with the usage of the early writers. — lincuntur et insunt, 'left in it.'

715. erit ut possit = poterit; cf. 725; 'est etiam quare possit,' 5, 715; 'non est ut possit,' 5, 146; 'est ut possit,' 2, 496. See Zumpt, LG. 752 — merito inmortalis: for caesura, see on 258.

716. libata: on 213. — recessit: cf. 439.

717. sinceris, OQ, edd., 'uncorrupted,' see on 532. — Sincera e, Winck. Heinze after Faber s. ex, that is read by Bail.; cf. Cl. R. 14, 367 and on 218. — membri corresponds to partibus, 716, partis, 718, opposed to corpo (humano). With the homoeoteleuton in 716 and 717 cf. ingenioque, 745, seminioque, 746; colore, 5, 1258, lepro, 1259; solum, 2, 727, totum, 728.

718. ex se instead of a part gen.; cf. e quibus una, 5, 531.

719. unde, 'whence comes it'; cf. 876, 1055; 4, 929. L. was not terrified by bacilli and knew nothing of germs. Cudworth (2, 99) quotes Aristotle, Gen. Anim. III, p. 665: If men and four footed animals were ever generated out of the earth as some affirm [e.g. Democritus], it may probably be conceived to have been in one of these two ways, either that they were produced as worms out of putrefaction, or else formed in certain eggs growing out of the earth. Pliny II, 70, 'Vergilius [Georg. 4, 555] iuvencorum corpore exanimato, sicut equorum vespas atque crabrones, sicut asinorum scarabaeos, mutante natura ex aliis quaedam in alia.' Cf. also Ov. F. 1, 379, 'fervent examina putri | de bove'; id. M. 15, 362, 'nonne vides quaecumque exora fluidove calore | corpora tabuerint, in parva animalia verti? | i quoque delectos exactatos obrue tauros; | (cognita res usu) de putri viscere passim | florilegæ nascuntur apes'; Sen. NQ. 2, 31, 'in venenatis corporibus vermis non nascitur: fulmine icta inter paucos dies verminant.' L. 2, 928, 'vermisque effervere terram'; id. 871, 'existere vermes | stercore de taetro.' Hom. T 25 attributes them to flies entering the body. A French writer thus describes an experiment at Gresham College in 1663: 'Further it was noted that the germination of insects does not arise from decay, for the intestines of an animal and other parts which easily corrupt having been placed in a glass closed with cotton wool so that no fly or other animal could enter, but only the air could penetrate, they had been preserved for six weeks without maggots or other thing being observed ;' Littell's Liv. Age, 2434, 598.—rancenti cited only from this passage and Ser. Samon. who was under L.'s influence. 6, 1155, 'rancida quo perolent proiecta cadavera ritu.'

720. expirant: 2, 354, 'sanguinis expirans flumen'; Stat. Sitv. 5, 2, 70, 'fructum expirat.'—animantium corresponds to animalia, 2, 901; 5, 69; in a like context.—copia: 6, 1260, agricolarum | copia.

721. exos: Arn. 4, 8, 'si exos genus humanum velut quidam vermiculi nascemur.' (In Ser. Sam. 670 Bährrens reads exul not exos.)—exanguis: on 596.—tumidus, 'heaving,' M.—perflectuat, 'surge through,' dr. Ley. Discrepitare (803); coactare (6, 1122); transvolitare (1, 355) are other Lucretian frequentatives: persectari, renuntiare, tuditare are sparingly used by other writers. Cf. similar metaphors in 197, 937, 1052.

722. A second dilemma follows.—extrinsecus insinuari: cf. 689.

723. privas, 'severally,' each soul to one worm; see on 372.

724. credis, 'hold'; 351 n.—nec reputas, 'do not consider'; 'make no account,' M., preserving the etymological sense; 'unheeding here,' Good.—milia multa is merely a large number: 4, 412, 'terrarum milia multa'; 2, 538, 'milibus multis (elephantorum)'; 5, 999, 'non multa virum sub signis milia ducta.'

725. recesserit: frequently of the soul; 212 n.—hoc . . . videatur = hoc videtur quaerendum; 909, 'illud quaerendum est'; cf. on 715. For hoc preceding cf. Cic. Milo 35, 'ille erat ut odisset.'

726. in discrimin agendum, 'brought to a decision.'

727. tandem, 'you mean'; very common in interrogative clauses.—venentur, 'hunt up'; Prop. 3, 22, 33, 'Penthea . . . venantur . . . Bacchae.'—semina: the original corpora from which vermiculi grow; cf. 1, 579.

728. vermiculorum: for vermium: he has only besides vermiculos, vermes, vermibus.—ubi sint = 'a home'; tenemusne quid sit animus, ubi sit, Cic. Acad. 2, 124. Vbi also in 2, 474 under the ictus; ibi, 2, 75 n.—Cebes in Plato, Phaedo, 87 D, answers that the soul might make a body for itself, if that decays during life; see Woltjer, L. Phil. 74. Esse, to live, dwell; also in 789, 791, 795.

729. quasi, 'somehow'; cf. 707, 815. The body is not really complete until it is joined to the soul.

730. neque = ne quidem, cf. 6, 1214; or it may be due to anacoluthon; cf. 5, 315.—faciant = fabricentur, etc.: on 1005. Facere is active, laborare passive; cf. facere et fungi, 1, 443; in either case the result would be disquieting.—ipsae, 'without compulsion'; cf. 728, 1041; 5, 1146, 'ipsum | sponte sua cecidit'; 4, 639.—laborent: suffer annoyances mentioned in 732.

731. dicere suppeditat, like dicere satis est, 6, 703. Suppeditat = facile est.—sine corpore = incorporeae, incorporeales, both later words.

732. sollicitae, 'tormented,' shows how completely the souls are personified.—volitant implies restlessness, unhappiness; 4, 38, 'umbras inter vivos volitare.'—alguque fameque was generally dislodged by the alliterative frigus fames, algo being an antique word; Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 59. Algo, Non. edd. algo, OQ.—fame is regular; cf. tube 1, 806 and n.

733. magis seems to qualify both adfine and laborat, because the expression is pleonastic, being equivalent to magis vitiis adfine est and magis vitiis laborat; so ~~so~~

933, corpus aeris . . . vicinum tangitur auris = vicinum est auris and tangitur auris; 3, 315, differre . . . naturas hominum varias = differre nat. hom. and nat. hom. varias esse; see Kraetsch, 65–66.—vitiis: 4, 386, ‘animi vitium,’ mental infirmity.

734. mala fungitur: cf. perfunctus praemissa, 936; quae fructus, 940, but vitta perfuncta, 968; sceptra potitus, 1038; quem potitast, 4, 761; rerum potiri, 2, 13; mobilitate fruuntur, 3, 200; vita f., 559; quid f., 4, 1078. For the use with the acc. see Dr. § 248; cf. also on 168.—contage, OQ, edd. (‘contact,’ 345 n.); contagibus, Lachm. The long e is unusual. Contage occurs in 4, 311, contagibus, 6, 280, 1243. Goebel, Rh.M. 15, 406, defends (Lambin’s) contagi; so Wolff, 20. Others would write contagei. See Müller, RM. 382.

735. sed tamen, ‘but notwithstanding’; 261 n.—his: sc. animis.—esto, ‘suppose’; 2, 907 n.—quamvis, ‘ever so’ = quantumvis, with utile; 2, 391, ‘et quamvis subito per colum vina videmus | perfluere; at contra.’—facere corpus: grammatical subject of esto.

736. cum, OQ, Lachm. M. H.; cui, Bern. recent edd.; cf. Phil. 27, 54. Winck. dum; quod, amic. Fab. Cf. on 422. The reference is plainly to 728, cf. 737; the bodies would not be ‘perfecta’ until the souls should make them so.—qua, edd.; que, OQ.—videtur: Livy, 25, 11, 12, ‘arcis . . . expugnanda cernere viam.’

737. corpora et artus: on 276.

738. est ut: cf. 5, 979.—utquid, M. edd.; ut iam, Lamb. Lachm.; quidum, Bern.; ut quicum, OQ. Qui is an affirmative particle which appears in atqui, hercule qui; cf. Lindsay, LL. 446; Brix on Plaut. Trin. 464. Munro has restored atqui also in 1, 755; 2, 17; in 2, 428, it is a probable addition. Hermann, Ihil. 8, 181, proposed utqui for ‘aliquo modo’; Winck. quicquam ut perfectis.

739. subtiliter: the union between soul and body is very exact, and there is the most delicate harmony between the two: ordinary union he expresses by arte conexa cohaeret, 6, 1010, of the particles of iron.

740. Note alliteration.—conexae: by συμπλοκή.—consensus: from συμπάθεια.—contagia: 345 n.

741–775. (20) ‘Why are lions fierce, foxes cunning, stags fearful, if not from an inherited quality in the seed? But if the soul were immortal, animals would be of changeable qualities: dogs, stags, men, beasts would exchange dispositions. An immortal soul cannot change with a change of body, for that which changes dies. If souls of men go into human bodies, why is not a child as wise as a man? Granting that the mind is weak in a young body, it must be mortal since it has changed. (21) How can it grow old with the body unless it has grown up with it from the beginning? (22) Why does it wish to leave the body in old age? Does it fear the ruin of its dwelling? An immortal soul runs no risk.’

741. This argument is directed against the Pythagoreans.—violentia: 296 and n.—5, 862, ‘genus acre leonum saeque saecla | tutast virtus, volpes dolus et fuga cervos.’ Sen. Dial. 4, 16, ‘iracundia leones adiuvat, pavor cervos, accipitrem impetu, columbam fuga.’ Anacreonta, 24, φύσις κέρατα ταύρου . . . θόρκει . . . ποδωκέη λαγωνῖ, | λέουσι χάραμ' ὀδούτων, etc.—triste, ‘sullen,’ severum, austerum.

742. seminium, ‘breed,’ antecl.; cf. 746 and 4, 1005, ‘quaeque magis sunt a spira seminiorum.’ Edd. compare 4, 997, ‘catulorum propago,’ 1232, ‘virum soboles,' similar periphrases. — fuga: alipedes cervi, 6, 765; cervorum simulacra fugat quasi dedita, 4, 995; cervique fugaces, Georg. 3, 539. Sen. Ben. 2, 29, 'queruntur quod non magnitudine corporum aequemus elephantes, velocitate cervos, levitate aves, impetu tauros.' — Fuga is for celeritas, effect for cause; cf. horror, 1034; mors, 520.

743 was rejected before Lambinus' time and later by Lachm., Bern., M., and Woltjer Jahrb. 123, 777. Br. retains it with a preceding lacuna; Heinze, Giuss., Bail. keep it with cervis (Itali) for cervos, OQ. Cf. 2, 666; 4, 1214; Sil. 15, 719, 'avertit patrius genti pavor.' The old suggestion of punctuating cervos? a patribus . . . artus has much in its favor; there is probably here another indication of need of revision. Note the effect of the dactylic rhythm.

744. et iam cetera: 481 and n. — cetera: qualities, race characteristics.

745. ex ineunte, etc.: cf. 344. — generasunt, 'are generated,' quoted only from Macrobius elsewhere. — ingenio is rare in respect to beasts: 'bestias praeципita ingenia sortitas,' Curt. 8, 1, 35. The disposition of the animal depends on the quality of the soul, 299 sq. — For verse ending see on 2, 878.

746. si non . . . quia, 'merely because'; cf. 1, 176; 4, 1199. — certa, 'definite,' has the emphasis; it is sometimes joined to semine, e.g. 4, 1225. — semine seminioque, 'seed and breed' (M.); L. could not resist the assonance; so sanieque et sanguine, 1, 866. Cf. on 353, and on 717 for the homoeoteleuton with 745. — The simple abl. with cresco is strange: cf. 1, 189. Bock. and Heinze would interpret certa suo semine, which is also unusual.

747. quoque, O, Bock. Br. Heinze, Bail.; cf. 769; toto, Q, Lachm. M. Giuss.; cf. 329, 351, 564, 799. Quoque is the lectio difficilior. Lachm. objects to the -oque in 745-746-747; cf. 6, 646-648. — From the materialistic standpoint there is no essential difference in quality between the human and brute soul; this position was implied in 288 sq.

748. mutare corpora: analogous to mutare vestem.

749. corpora: one body after another. — permixtis, 351 n.; notice the interlocking, and see on 332. — animantes, as in 720, from anima, would strengthen the argument to a Roman: these animals with the wrong souls in them would do strange things. — The reply to this argument is that 'the manifestations of soul depend on the organs of manifestation,' Alger, Future Life, 484. 'Frustraque animalia et animantes appellari,' Cic. Tusc. 1, 21, quoting Dicaearchus, who denied the existence of animus, 'nomen totum inane.'

750. canis: probably masc. In general Latin usage the fem. prevails as regards hunting dogs: 1, 404; Hor. Ep. 2, 31; 'rabidae venantis Iuli . . . canes,' Aen. 7, 493; Ov. M. 3, 140, 'canes satiatae'; κύων is regularly fem.; cf. also Georg. 1, 479; Aen. 7, 493; but 'canis . . . leporem cum Gallicus vidit,' Ov. M. 1, 583. On Gratt. 194, Ulitius, quoted by Wernsdorf, remarks, 'canes feminas omnes sagaces constitui, mares bellicosos.' Pliny, 8, 142, sqq. uses the masc. constantly. In Plautus the fem. is normal. L. was fond of dogs, judging from his frequent mention of them: 'fida canum vis,' 6, 1222. — Hyrcano: Hyrcanian tigers nourished Aeneas, according to Dido in Aen. 4, 367. The point here is their ferocity: 'in Hyrcania plebs publicos alit canes, optumates domesticos; nobile autem genus canum illud scimus esse,' Cic. Tusc. 1, 108; they were supposed to be hybrid,—half tigers; they devoured the dead bodies of their masters. L. may have learned of them in investigating modes of burial (cf. 888). Gratt. Cyn. 161, 'sed non Hyrcano satis est vehementia gentis | tanta suae.' Shaksp. 3 King Henry VI, i, 4, 'more inhuman, more inexorable,—O ten times more,—than tigers of Hyrcania.'—de: of origin.

751. per auras with tremeret, 'cower in mid air' (M.), is more poetical than if taken with fugiens.—'Fortes creantur fortibus et bonis; | est in iuvencis, est in equis patrum | virtus,' etc., Hor. C. 4, 4, 29.

752. veniente seems to have force from its anapaestic rhythm and metrical position: 1, 285, 'nec validi possunt pontes venientis aquai'; '(fulmen) veniens,' 6, 346. So venientibus Poenis, 3, 833, may have this idea of 'swooping.' Sen. Dial. 3, 11, 2, 'atque et (feras) venientes (venator) excipit et fugientes persecutur.'—columba: V. Ecl. 9, 12, 'quantum (valere) | Chaonias dicunt aquila venientes columbas.'

753. homines: some men. For the contrast, cf. 2, 995, 'et genus humanum, parit omnia saecla ferarum.'—saperent: Quint. 1, 1, 1, 'nobis propria est mentis agitatio atque sollertia; unde origo animi caelestis creditur'; id. 5, 10, 56, 'homo est animal, non est satis; id enim genus est; mortale, etiamsi est species, cum aliis tamen communis finitus; rationale, nihil supererit ad demonstrandum id quod velis.' Cf. on 299. Just. Inst. 4, 9, pr., 'nec enim potest animal iniuriam fecisse dici, quod sensu caret.'—ferarum: as having no reason; 5, 932, 'vitam tractabant more ferarum.'—Note the assonance, desiperent . . . saperent . . . fera . . . ferarum; 1, 503, duplex natura duarum. Cf. on 296.

754. falsa: on 523.—quod aiunt: cf. quod . . . ferunt, 41, quod memorant, 1009.

755. flecti: cf. 516. Flectere is common with animum, mentem, etc.; the underlying thought is change in disposition, but this is dependent, by Epicurean principles, on some constitutional change.—Serv. on Aen. 6, 724, 'non esse in animis dissimilitudinem sed in corporibus quae prout fuerint vel vivacia vel torpentina, ita et animos faciunt . . . cum ad corpus venerit (mens) non natura sua utitur, sed ex eius qualitate mutatur.'

756. mutatur excepted, this verse = 701. Here mutatur interprets flecti. Pavor is due to aura in the anima, ira to calor (cf. 288 sq.), so the souls of these animals would be materially changed in their constitution.

757. traiciuntur: cf. 513.—ordine migrant: cf. finibus exiti, 519, and Holtze, 5.—5, 830, 'nec manet ulla sui similis res; omnia migrant, | omnia commutat natura et vertere cogit.'

758. Note alliteration.

759. denique: 'so that at the last,' etc. Cf. 1, 981, 'quaeram quid telo denique fiat'; 5, 1277, 'quod fuit in pretio fit nullo denique honore.'—una: cf. 445.

760. sin, Pont. edd.; sic, OQ; * sic, Br. For sin, cf. 1, 770.—semper: logically with humana. Hominum is taken as an example merely; any other animal would do as well; so horses, 764.—Rohde, Psyche, 2, 277, thinks L. had some Platonist in mind here.

761. quaeram: the question is unanswerable; 4, 473, at id ipsum | quaeram; 1, 981; 3, 909. L. puts the question as if he were pleading in court; Cic. Vatin. 10, 'quaero, Vatini'; Verr. 2, 3, 191, 'quaero nunc abs te, Hortensi.'—e: 137 n.—sapienti: sc. anima.

762. prudens: ‘prudentiam . . . φρόνησιν . . . quae est rerum expetendarum fugiendarumque scientia,’ which rests mainly on experience, Cic. Off. 1, 153; such discretion a child could not have; prudentia est senescentis, Cic. CM. 20; puerorum actas improvida, L 1, 939. Psalm 119, 130, ‘et intellectum dat parvulis.’

763 = 746, a gloss. See Polle, Phil. 26, 334; Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 777. The old vulgate repeated 747 here and arranged 762, 764, 763 (747), 765.

764: included in the gloss by Bern.; bracketed by Br.—doctus, ‘trained; frequent with equus in other authors.—nullus, τὸλος, ‘foal’; usually with a gen. or adjec.—fortis: nom.; see on 8.

765. scilicet, ‘of course.’—tenero tenerascere: on 353.—tenero: 1, 179 n.—tenerascere: ἀπ. λέγ.; the word is written -escere in late authors.—The mind accommodates itself to the young and weak body.—corpore mentem: post ante, 5, 168, lucibus umbras, 5, 688, stansque iacentem, 3, 887, mortale aeterno, 800, inferna supernis, 5, 647; he likes such juxtapositions.—mentem: the understanding, sententia, 448.

766. confugient: sc. ad eam rationem ut dicant; Cic. Verr. 2, 3, 191, ‘illuc confugies . . . dare maluisse.’—iam: on 540.

767. animam quoniam: see on 182.—mutata: the same old argument: 756.

768. vitam = vitalem; on 645.—priorem: in its previous existence; cf. 705 sq.

769. quove modo: i.e. quaeram praeterea quo modo possit (M.).—Having routed the enemy, says Creech, he now brings on some arguments of light armor, to collect the spoil.

770. confirmata = confirmari et. Wakef. comp. V. Ecl. 4, 37, ‘firmata virum te fecerit aetas.’—5, 847, ‘nec potuere cupitum aetatis tangere florem.’—cupitum: on 599.—aetatis: i.e. maturity; 449 and n.—tangere, ‘reach’; 2, 1130, ‘donec alescendi summum tetigere cacumen’; cf. 3, 1065; Aen. 6, 828, ‘si lumina vitae attigerint.’—florem, ‘bloom,’ with aetatis, 4, 1105, with aevi, 1, 564.—4, 1134, ‘surgit amari aliquit quod in ipsis floribus angat,’ i.e. in enjoyment of life. Solon: Ηθης ἐπατοῖσιν ἐπ' ἀνθεσι.

771. consors: cf. 331–332. The gen. might be expected here, but in with abl. is quoted from Cic. Verr. 2, 3, 155.—nisi: cf. 746, 950.

772. quid: adv. acc.—foras exire: for the pleonasm, cf. 1060; foras enarr, 591, prodita foras, 603. The scornful character of these closing arguments is in his manner; cf. 367 sq.; 1, 919; 3, 776 sq. ‘Absurdus foret animus, nisi cuperet corpus vividum et vigens, fugeretque senio confectum,’ Creech.—senectias: Plaut. Tr. 43, ‘hic illest senecta aetate qui factus puer.’ L. 5, 886, 896.

773. metuit . . . manere . . . et . . . ne obruat, ‘hate to stay and fear that,’ etc. The coördination is unusual; Catull. 64, 150, ‘amittere crevi | quam . . . decessim.’—putri: cf. 584.

774. domus: S. Paul. 2 ad Cor. 5, 1, ἡ ἐπίτειος ἡμῶν οἰκία τοῦ σκήνων; Democr. σκῆνως; Bion, οἰκία; Sen. Ep. 30, 2, ‘putri aedificio.’—aetatis spatio vetusto = vetustate; cf. 855, 972. The same expression occurs in 2, 1174; 5, 827, ‘spatio defessa vetusto.’—fessa: on 458.—Waller, ‘The soul's dark cottage battered and decayed.’

775. obruat: metaphor from the falling of a house. Obruuo is elsewhere transitive; perhaps abruat (ἀπ. λέγ.) should be written.

(23) ‘What a ridiculous notion that immortal souls should wait for to be born, and fight for entrance into them! But perhaps they make t: first come, first served.’

sia = concubitum as in Ov. Am. 2, 721. — ad, ‘at’; cf. 959. — Veneris; r. l.c. — ferarum, ‘animals’ in a loose sense; cf. 4, 686, 1264; conubia, cts to men.

. . . praesto: on 2, 1068. — deridiculum: from derideo; hence de. ir: on 1, 497.

mortalis mortalia: 5, 121, ‘inmortalia mortali sermone.’

mero numero: oxymoron occurring also in 2, 1054, 1086, ‘numero rali,’ and Plautus’ epitaph: ‘et numeri innumeri simul omnes collacru. Phil. 1, 5 has insepultum sepulturam; Ennius, mentes dementes; cura. L. writes casta inceste, 1, 98; mortua vita, 3, 1046; vigilans mors inmortalis, 869; mors aeterna, 1091; Horace, strenua inertia, spientiae; innuptis iunxit nuptiis, Poet in Cic. Orat. 3, 219; Μῆτρας. Elect. 1154; νύμφη τ' ἀνυψοφορ παρθένος τ' ἀπάρθενος, Eurip. Hec. 612. cf. 724. — certareque: on 1, 666. It is not probable that the added he word accent in such cases as certareque and potissimaque in-, 780. 13. — praeproperanter, διτ. λεγ.; so moderanter, 2, 1096; praeme-3; permananter, 6, 916; fuerter, 4, 225; 6, 931.

a potissimaque, ‘first and foremost.’ Primum potissimum is cited continus, Fronto by Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 78. So ‘felix faustusque,’ 1, que videnti,’ 3, 1046.

n forte, ‘unless you would have it that.’ The irony is brought out by 2, 40. — ita, ‘on these terms’; cf. Hor. C. I. 24, 11. — foedera: of a in 5, 1443.

18: volitant, 732; venere volantes, 6, 742. The participle = gerund; corpora multa volando . . . coiere. Heinze quotes from Gregory of p. 235, b, Porphyrius, p. 48, and Hermippus de Astrol. p. 60, allusions sole or doctrine.

n: see on 220. Duff suggests that L. is thinking of a crowd struggling public show.

(24) ‘Everything has its fixed environment, and so the soul has its body; it cannot be born or exist outside of the body. When the body perishes. (25) To unite mortal and immortal, and to suppose that they act together is absurd. (26) What is eternal must be solid like atoms, ke void, or have no room about it whence hostile forces may come, or may retire, like the universe. 797 are nearly the same as 5, 128–141; see nn. there. Note alliteration; five other examples of this rich alliteration wherein one letter occurs id the other twice; cf. 684; 1, 853; 4, 283, 394, 1074. — aethere is, nubes, 6, 268; aequor for pisces, arva for arbores; cf. on 623. — 493. Aequore in alto occurs in Trag. Incert. Incert. 224 R.

785. pires: Hor. C. 1, 2, 9, ‘piscium et summa genus haesit ulmo.’ Livy, 42, 2, 5, ‘in Gallico agro quo induceretur aratum sub existentibus glebis pisces emersisse’; Juv. 13, 65.

786. cruor is one of the constituents of a living being in 2, 670. ‘Lapides et ligna . . . nequeunt vitalem reddere sensum,’ 2, 889; lignis and saxis are types of lifeless objects; ‘ye stocks, ye stones, ye worse than lifeless things,’ Shaksp.—saxis is abl.; cf. on 634.—sucus, ‘sap,’ found in arbores, not in ligna.

787. certum ac dispositumst, ‘surely settled’; cf. 794-795.—quicquid = quid que; on 619.—crescat et insit: not the natural order, on 552.

788. oriri: on 272.

789. sola: almost = ipsa, 149. L. likes to make a statement both affirmatively and negatively: 560-561, ‘sine corpore . . . sola’; 554, ‘per se . . . sine corpore’; 333-334, ‘sibi quaque sine alterius vi’; so V. Ecl. 10, 48, ‘me sine sola vides.’—nervis: 2, 904, ‘nam sensus iungitur omnis | visceribus nervis venis.’—longiter, edd.; longius, OQ, Heinze, Bail.; cf. on 676.

790. quod si posset enim, multo, OQ, Wakef. edd.; hoc si p. e., multo, Marull. vulg. Bern.; quid s. p. e.? m., Lachm.; quod si (posset e. m. p.) ipsa, M. Quod enim is a solecism for hoc enim; cf. Madv. Adv. II, 23. It is excused by L.’s frequent use of the relative as a connective. Heinze quotes Varro, RR. 2, 4, 8, ‘ut volentur in luto; quae enim illorum requies, ut lavatio hominum.’

791. capite: it is placed in the breast in 140; see n. Reid, Cic. Acad. p. 323, gives references to ancient discussions in reference to the locality of the soul; cf. 616.—imis, in the heels even, is an epitheton ornans; see on 126, and cf. 6, 141; ‘arbusta . . . radicibus haurit ab imis.’

792. Lachm. puts a comma after posset; most edd. after soleret; M. after part.—innasci: cf. 618.

793. tandem: approximating to tamen or saltem; an uncommon use for which M. cites Plaut. Mil. 1062; Ter. Eun. 1055, Phorm. 630. Madvig, l.c. proposes soleret iam, dum . . . maneret; maneret was the old vulgate reading.—in eodem homine, i.e. one and the same man, M.—homine: cf. 555.—atque is explicative, ‘that is to say,’ ‘or’; cf. quasi, 555; et, 617; que, 952.—vase: for the metaphor see on 434.—‘For that frame outlives a thousand tenants,’ Shaksp. Hamlet, 5, 1, 50.—manere: sc. posset; cf. 402.

794. Cf. the alliteration in 2, 635 (5, 138); 4, 347, 748; 6, 1126, which are the only other occurrences in L. with two letters thrice repeated.—quod quoniam: here only in L. but used by Cic. Fin. 3, 59; see Dr. § 484 c.—quoque: the anima is not only restricted to the body, but also to a part of the body; the anima also is distributed according to law.—corpore: sc. in.

795. dispositumque videtur is only another form of constat certum, the thought being twice expressed in his usual manner. Hence que connects the two statements as it might join two synonymous words; cf. ac, 787.—ubi: on 728.

796. infitiandum: sc. est, and see on I, III.

797. Notice the sententious spondees.—totum, the important word, begins the verse. When the parts of the soul are separate within the body how can it live as a whole outside of it? — durare: on 619. — geni: archaic, here only in O and Q; cf. on 433. For the hysteron proteron, see on 552.

798. interiit, periisse: periisse represents death as destruction and corruption; interiisse as a vanishing, so that the former applies more to the body, the latter to the soul; Döderlein, Syn.; cf. Schmidt, p. 391. L. here reverses the application, as the destruction of the soul is his object. The poets often use the uncontracted iisse for dactylic convenience: Aen. 5, 196, reditisse, 4, 599, subiisse, 3, 606, persisse, 2, 25, abiisse, and Forb. there. Periisse occurs in L. in 5, 339; interiisse, 3, 678; 5, 855; 6, 709. Giuss. places 798–799 after 614 because he thinks a close is needed there, but there it is disguised in a condition. The lines are not out of place here even if they could be spared; Br. (Appendix) thinks the poet in revising would have substituted others for them that would make a logical close. The connexion of thought is loose here, as the poet infers a knowledge of the arguments preceding, and silently appeals to what has been previously said. Moreover, he could presume the reader's acquaintance with such a principle as that stated in 800; he is meeting popular arguments; cf. 1, 103 sq.

799. distractam: cf. 590; join closely with periisse.

800. aeterno = immortali; on 641. For the juxtaposition, cf. on 765. — iungere: subiect; cf. 359 n. — una consentire: 168–169.

801. consentire: on 153. — putare always in the 2d and 3d foot; all other trisyllabic forms of puto ending in a consonant come at the end of the verse except putetur, 5, 127; Siebelis, 57. Putare is here used of an inconsiderate supposition: qui putant omni genere errant, Pseud. Fronto, KGL. 7, 520, 30. — fungi, 'acted upon'; on 168. — mutua: for the unmetrical mutuo; cf. 5, 1100; 2, 76; 4, 325; 5, 1084; 4, 947, motu mutua fungi. L. has diversa, obliqua, acerba, plura, obvia, reblime as adverbs; for other authors, see Roby, 1097, Archiv. 7, 369.

802. desiperest: on 361. — diversius, 'more incongruous'; cf. 191; it may be nom. or acc.; cf. 2, 1052; 4, 118.

803. magis: because discrepitans is not compared, although disiunctum is sometimes. For the alliterative synonyms, cf. divisor ac distractior, 4, 961; indignos inque merentes, 2, 1104; clandestinos caecosque, 2, 128, and 780 n. — inter se goes with all three synonyms; it means 'inherently' or 'self (contradictory)'.

804. perenni, dative, corresponds to aeterno, which is more frequent in L. — propellas: of life to be weathered by soul and body together.

805. iunctum: cf. on 159. — concilio: his word for the union of atoms as in 1, 483; hence of special force as indicating the close union of soul and body. The verse is omitted in Q. Br. finds a lacuna after 804; cf. Phil. 27, 54; Giuss. Vol. I, 222. Christ arranged: 801, 805, 793, 802.

806–818 = 5, 351–363 (where see nn.), except dissiliant for diffugiant, 817. They were retained before Lachmann with the addition of 5, 364–373, somewhat changed. M. Bern. Lachm. reject them, ascribing them to the lector philosophus. Heinze and Bailey retain them, and also Br. and Giuss. who infer a lacuna after 818 to explain magis. The whole last group of arguments from 784 is scrappy like the prooemium to Book 6, and needs revision by the poet, especially 806–818, which seem necessary if the refutation is to be complete. Probably L. transferred them from Book 5. They are not a refutation of the poet's argument like 1, 44 sq., but a valuable addition.

819. ideo: on 535. — magis: van d. Valk would read mens. Lamb. explains magis 'qua occupat quod dici poterat.' 819 sq. is suggested by the immortality of the gods.

820. vitalibus, OQ, Heinze, Giuss. Bail.; letalibus, Lamb. Lachm. Br.; M. hesitatingly; cf. Petr. 42, vitali lecto; Sen. Ep. 99, 22, 'quam multis vitalia emuntur'; see Friedländer, Petr. 234, for the euphemism for mortalia. 2, 575, 'vitalia rerum; defence by vital forces (cf. 813) and from destroying forces amounts to the same thing in the end, still vitalia = mortalia in L. is improbable. — munita: with ab, 'protected from' or 'by'? Contra is common; see lex. M. cites Hor. C. 3, 16, 1; Livy, 22, 1, 3. Cf. 1, 850, 'ab exitio . . . refrenat.' The means of defence is expressed usually by the simple abl. See on 323. — For the repeated quod in 819-820, cf. 1009-1010.

821. veniunt: the terminus is often omitted; 4, 340, 'circum agitur, cum venit, imago.' — salutis, 'existence'; see on 125. For the gender cf. 6, 69, 'alienaque pacis,' id. 1065.

822. Note alliteration. — aut quia: the repetition seems intentional; cf. adde, 828-829; nec, thrice, 2, 349-351; tum, Catull. 64, 19-21; tene, id. 29-30; non, thrice, id. 39-41, 63-65; especially common in the Alexandrian poets.

823. quid noceant, 'their harmful nature.' The sentence is plainly incomplete. Lamb. after Marullus supplied scilicet a vera longe ratione remotum est; Lachm. multa tamen tangunt animam mala, multa pericla. Heinze alone of recent edd. sees no lacuna, but an anacoluthon.

824. praeter . . . quam: praeter enim quam quod occurs also in Cic. Legg. 3, 45. — cum is a preposition: corpore cum, 6, 1075. — aegret, Gif. edd.; aegrit, OQ, 106 n. — 825. advenit for accedit is poetical; 'this often occurs that,' etc.

826. Note alliteration. — macerat: cf. 75. — in metu: on 295. For metu . . . curisque, see on 461. — male habet, 'harasses.' — curis: he uses with this word scindunt, 994; urgeris, 1051; levare, 2, 365; solvare, 4, 908; exercent, 5, 1424; consumit, 5, 1431.

827. praeteritis: opposed to futuris, 825. The mind is troubled by the present, past, and future. Lee quotes Morris, Epic of Hades, 'The pang | Of consciousness of black sins sinned in vain.' — admissis: 'ob admissum foede dictumve superbe,' 5, 1224; 'commissum facinus et admissum dedecus confitebor,' Cic. Fam. 3, 10, 2. — peccata remordit: this remorse is the safeguard of the Epicurean theory of law: 5, 1154, 'nec facilest placidam ac pacatam degere vitam | qui violat factis communis foedera pacis.' For remordit, cf. 4, 1135, 'concius ipse animus se forte remordet.' The re- expresses repetition.

828. adde, 'consider also.' — furorem: 'mentis ad omnia caecitatem . . . maius . . . quam insaniam,' Cic. 7usc. 3, 11. L. adds animi since he uses furor also to express the religious ecstasy of the galli, 2, 621, and amatory passion in 4, 111. There is also a contrast with morbis corporis, 824. — proprium, 'peculiar to'; cf. 357. — oblivia, i.e. dementia, of which lethargy is the last stage; the word is rare, sing.; cf. 1066. It occurs usually in the 5th foot in Virgil, Ovid, Horace, and SE Ital.; see Keller, Zur Lat. Sprachgesch. II, 211, and Norden on Aen. 6, 715.

829. adde is similarly repeated in 1036–1037; 4, 1121–1122; 6, 611–613. In adde quod, quod is always relative in Cic.; the conj. quod is poetical; Krebs-Schmalz, Antibarb. 1, 79.—nigras: common in reference to the things of the underworld; cf. nigra somnia, Tib. 2, 1, 90; L. 3, 39; Blümner, Farben, 67.—lethargi: 465 n.

830–869. ‘Death, then, is nothing to us since the soul is mortal. We were not troubled by events which occurred before our generation, so nothing can happen to us when body and soul are separated. And even if the soul does feel, that is nothing to us who are constituted of both soul and body; and if time should replace our bodies, that would concern us not, for identity would be lost. Now we know nothing of the past, although it is very probable that our bodies once existed; death will prevent our future identical existence; death will make us as if we had never been.’ Andrew Lang (Letters on Literature, 109) calls this a ‘Hymn to Death, to Death which does not harm us’.

830. Nil: Epic. ad Men. 124, μηδὲν πρὸς ἡμᾶς εἶναι τὸ δάκρυον· ἐτελεῖ τὰν ἀγαθὸν καὶ κακὸν ἐν αἰσθήσει· στέρησις δὲ τούτην αἰσθήσεως δὲ δάκρυος; Sen. Tr. 397, ‘post mortem nihil est ipsaque mors nihil.’ See the abundant citations in Usener, Epic. pp. 391, 395.—igitur: ‘quod enim dissolvitur, inquit (Epicurus) sensu caret et quod sensu caret nihil ad nos [a translation of Epicurus’ second maxim, δὲ δάκρυον οὐδὲν πρὸς ἡμᾶς · τὸ γάρ διάλυθεν δρασθῆται · τὸ δὲ δρασθητοῦν οὐδὲν πρὸς ἡμᾶς] . . . quodsi hominis est pati mortem . . . quam ineptum ut tanta vis ad hominem non pertinere dicatur’; Tert. Anim. 42. Gellius, 2, 8, defends the conclusion from a criticism by Plutarch to the effect that Epicurus passed over the process of death, διάλυσις, ‘tum deinde eodem ipso quod omiserat, quasi posito concessoque ad confirmandum aliud utitur.’ ‘Cum eam (mortem) patiuntur qui morientes appellantur, nulli bona est,’ S. Aug. CD. 13, 6. οὐκ ἡμῖν, γενόμενοι· ἡμῖν, οὐκ εἰμι· τοσαῦτα· | εἰ δέ τις δλλά ἐπέει, θεοτεραι· οὐκ ἔσομαι, CIG. 6745.—ad nos, ‘mors nihil ad nos ergo et vita nihil ad nos . . . si ademptio sensus nihil ad nos, nec adeptio sensus quicquam ad nos,’ Tert. 42; publica totius generis humani sententia mortem naturae debitum pronuntiamus . . . ut iam hinc non Epicuri stupor suffundatur negantis debitum istud ad nos pertinere, ad 50. Cf. Cic. Fin. 2, 100.—pertinet: ‘non fui non sum non curo,’ CIL. 5, 1813, from a Greek tomb inscription, οὐκ ἡμῖν, ἔγενόμενοι· οὐκ ἔσομαι. οὐ μέτει μοι; ‘non fueram non sum nescio non ad me pertinet,’ CIL. 5, 1939; the thought was so trite that it was abbreviated n.f.n.s.n.c. (Carm. Epig. 1, 247). Neglegit mortem, Cic. Fin. 1, 62. The arguments used in antiquity are conveniently summarized by Lahmeyer on Cic. CM. 78: the soul is an emanation from the deity, the endowments and powers of the soul raise it above common mortality, life is movement, the soul having this principle must be consistent with itself, the soul is indivisible, existence after death is postulated from existence before birth. Alger, Future Life, 31, has much on the benefits of death.

831. habetur = est; cf. Sall. Jug. 89, ‘habebantur fidelissimi’; so Heinze, Giuss.

832. anteacto: Cic. Tusc. 1, 91, ‘ut nihil pertinuit ad nos ante ortum sic nihil post mortem pertinebit. in quo quid potest esse malum cum mors nec ad vivos pertineat nec ad mortuos?’ Sen. Ep. 54, 4, ‘si quid . . . tormenti est necesse est et suisse aequum prodiremus in lucem; atqui nullam sensimus tunc vexationem.’—aegri is gen. with nil.

833. venientibus: on 752.—undique: on 356. Notice the pride of the Roman:

the Carthaginians rose up on every side but failed to win the world. The mighty struggle of that anxious time would be remembered from ante-natal experience if anything would. Culex, 33, seems to be an imitation: 'Graecia cum timuit venientes undique Persas.' Heinze notes that in [Plato?] Ariochus, 365 d, the times of Draco and Kleisthenes are mentioned in a similar connexion.

834. 'The Romans introduced into their treatises a kind of declamatory rhetoric, which arose principally from their forensic and political habits, . . . yet we may trace in the Roman philosophers to whom this charge mostly applies the national vigor and ambition. There is something Roman in the public spirit and anticipation of universal empire which they display as citizens of the universal republic,' Whewell, Hist. Induct. Sciences, 1, 88.—trepidus: 5, 40, 'trepidus terrore repleta est.' Ennius had written Africa terribili tremuit horrida terra tumultu; Ann. 310; and Catullus has tellus atque horrida contremuerunt | aquora, 64, 206.

835. horrida, 'shuddering.' M. thought of Spenser, F.Q. 1, 11, 7: 'That with their horror heaven and earth did ring.'—aetheris oris: 2, 1000 n. The aether is here simply 'heaven'; cf. 6, 98, 'aetheriae nubes.'

836. fuere : sc. homines omnes inferred from omnibus humanis.—utrumque: Poenis is expressed in 833, Romani is understood from sensimus, 832.—regna, 'empire.'—cadendum, 'must fall'; Livy, 29, 17, 6, 'in discrimine est nunc humanum omne genus, utrum vos an Carthaginenses principes terrarum videat'; id. 30, 32, 2, 'Roma an Carthago iura gentibus daret ante crastinam noctem sciutos; neque enim Africam aut Italianam sed orbem terrarum victoriae praemium fore.'

837. omnibus humanis: probably = omnibus hominibus; cf. 80; it would, however, suit L.'s daring to have it = men and all that belongs to them. Livy, 21, 16, 6, 'cum orbe terrarum bellum gerendum in Italia'; id. 30, 3, 'Poenos Hiberum tracieisse ad delendum nomen Romanum liberandumque orbem terrarum.' The result of the Roman victory was that edomito sustulit orbe caput (Roma), Ov. F. 4, 256. Id. 1, 85, 'Iuppiter, arce sua cum totum spectat in orbem, | nil nisi Romanum quod tueatur habet'; id. 2, 684, 'Romanae spatium est urbis et orbis idem.'—teraque marique occurs also in 5, 219.

838 defines mors, 830. Sext. Hyp. 3, 229, δὲ θάνατος διάλυσις ἔστι ψυχῆς καὶ σώματος, ὅτε μὲν ἡμεῖς ἐσμέν, οὐκ ἔστιν δὲ θάνατος, οὐ γὰρ διαλύσθετα, ὅτε δὲ δὲ θάνατος ἔστιν, οὐκ ἐσμέν τιμεῖς. 'So when the wedlock of the flesh and mind | Which makes us what we are shall cease to bind, | And mind and flesh, being mind and flesh no more | Powdered to dust go whirling down the wind,' Mallock, Lucr. on Life and Death, 24.

839. discidium: Stowasser, Dunkle Wörter, II, 14, compares Varro, LL 60, 'animi et corporis discessus,' and 'discidio nubis' 6, 293, with 'caeli discessus'; Cic. Div. 2, 28, deriving the word from **dis-cidere*; cf. stillicidium; see on 342.—quibus e : repeated in 838. Anastrophe of monosyll. prepositions after relatives was avoided by poets and prosaists of the classical period, although L. had examples in 375; 5, 949. Cornif. and Cicero have quo de and qua de from juristic Latin; Degering, Hist. Synt. 28.—uniter apti : cf. 846, and u. apta, 5, 555, 558; u. aptam, 5, 537; 'formed into one,' 'become one personality.' Vniter does not occur again until the Scholiast on Juvenal, and Venantius Fortunatus. Cf. on 676.—apti is one of his favorite words which occurs also in other connexions, as in 5, 928.

10. scilicet : on 229. — quicquam : sc. aegri; cf. nil accidit aegri, 5, 171; 3, 864, and on 832. — tum : cf. 863.
11. sensumque movere : because there will be no feeling; 832.
12. Note alliteration. — non si, ‘no, even if’ is common in attestations: 6, 1076, si Neptuni fluctu renovare operam des’; Aen. 2, 522, ‘non si meus nunc ad-Hector’; Tib. 1, 9, 33; Ov. M. 7, 802. Si is also concessive in 946, 948. — Virgil amplifies in Aen. 12, 204, ‘non, si tellurem effundat in undas | diluvio ns caelumque in Tartara solvat.’ Juv. 2, 25, ‘quis caelum terris non misceat, et caelo.’ — miscebitur : notice the indic.; the ultimate destruction of the world certain — una dies dabit exitio, 5, 95. For the abl. see on 233. Cic. Fin. 3, 64, vox inhumana et scelerata ducitur eorum qui negant se recusare quo minus ipsis uis terrarum omnium deflagratio consequatur . . . quod volgari quodam verso pronuntiari solet’ (ἔμοι θαύμας γάτα μεθήτω πυρι, Fr. Trag. Adesp. 513). ex. caelum, 4.
13. iam, ‘granting for the moment’; 540 n. — sentit : the subject is placed in subordinate clause: such involutions are common in L.; cf. 1, 566, ‘possint n omnia reddi | mollia quae fiunt . . . quo pacto fiunt’; M. gives numerous ples. — de with distractast. 843–861 are bracketed by Br. and Giuss. as interning the argument; plausible, but not necessary, for L. may well return to his argument after a digression. Pascal, Riv. 32, 591, sees in it a Platonic hypothesis fed by L.
14. distractast : see on 590, and cf. discidium, 839. Elsewhere in this book it d of the breaking up of the soul. — natura . . . potestas : double periphrasis.
15. nil . . . ad nos : 830, 926, 972. The Greek is τρόπος ἡμῶν in Epicurus; cf. Ter-n’s translation, 830 n. Pertinere ad, 850, and attinere ad, 852, is the rule. — itu, ‘union,’ seems to be τηλ. λεγ. (Arn. 4, 37 is regarded as corrupt by Reiff.) ie contractions coperiant, 6, 491; coptamus, cocescat, etc.: Stolz, Hist. Gr. I, 220. niuglio occurs only here in the poem: coniunctam, 349, etc. Cf. coetu concilioque, o. Claud. Rutil. de Reditu Suo, 1, 18, has connubium for the union of Jupiter the other parts of the world.
16. corporia, etc.: 323 sq. — consistimus, ‘exist,’ on 349. Cf. sumus, 839.
17. nec corresponds to et, 843. — materiem : cf. 967. — collegerit . . . pertineat : 80, ‘si . . . offenderit . . . quaerat.’ The present in protasis is more common: ant . . . dissoluant’ 3, 902, cf. 952, 1071. Edd. quote Varro apud S. Aug. CD. 22, genethliaci quidam scripserunt esse in renascendis hominibus quam appellant γένεσις Graeci; hanc scripserunt confici in annis numero quadringtonis quadra, ut idem corpus et eadem anima, quae fuerint coniuncta in homine aliquando, m rursus redeant in coniunctionem.’ This periodic recurrence is inconsistent Epicureanism, not the occurrence itself (cf. Just. de Resurr. 6 in Usener, p. 351); and the reunion of body and soul is possible only. Min. Felix, 11, ‘homo novus nascitur non prior ille reparatur.’ — aetas : Hor. Ep. 1, 6, 24, ‘quid sub terra est, in apricum proferet aetas?’; L. 1, 225; 5, 356. — See Pascal, 32, 592.
18. obitum, euphemistic for mortem, occurs also in 953, and in Cic. and Caes. rsumque redegerit is pleonastic; cf. rursus . . . redeunt, 6, 871; r. refici, 7; and on 500. In this connexion rursum and iterum mean the same; strictly iterum is the 2d time, rursum any number.—ut sita : to its present position ; cf. 857.

849. atque : 'and so.'—lumina vitas : 542 n.

850. quicquam is acc.—id quoque, 'here again,' occurs repeatedly ; cf. 412, 512; 1, 655; 6, 113. Facere id representing a previous action occurs in 1, 899; 2, 193; 5, 1045, 1347.

851. repetentia, Q, edd. ; retinentia, Avanc. Lachm. B. ; repentia, O. Repententia, 'chain of self-consciousness,' as M. translates it, is found elsewhere only in Arnobius, 2, 26, 28. Repeteret with memoriam or memoria is common.—nostri: Pius, edd. ; nostris, OQ.

852. Note the alliteration.—et nunc, 'and so too now,' is contrasted with post obitum, 848 ; see lex. 'et' H. Heinze, and Richards, Cl. R. 13, 17, approve ut.—nobis : antecedent of qui, i.e. the personality that once cohered in the material particles which make our present body. De nobis is parallel to de illis, 853.—ante qui fuimus, 'what we were once.' Sen. Ep. 54, 4, 'hoc erit post me quod ante me fuit,' etc.

853. neque : supplied by Lachm. ; nec, Itali. — iam, 'therefore' ; cf. 2, 1019.—illis refers to nobis; i.e. what will be made from us in the future.—adfecit angor : aerumnis adfecti, 50, dolor, 495. For angor see on 993. L. uses adficio usually of things unpleasant. We should expect here rather adfecimur angore, and in 922 desiderio adfecimur, but the personality of the verbal action is as yet non-existent.

854. cum = si ; 422 n.—inmensi with aevi, 5, 379 ; spatium, 2, 93. Bellum Thebanum et funera Troiae (5, 326) were the earliest dates to measure by ; inmensi is far beyond.

855. praeteritum with aetas, 1, 468 ; temporibus, 2, 1166.—spatium : the Romans probably felt a metaphor here from the race course. L. has spatium transcurrere, 2, 163 ; 4, 192, 207 ; decurrere, 4, 1196 ; transire, 6, 488. See lex. Spatum is inmemorabile in 4, 192 ; 6, 488. Cicero has spatium praeteriti temporis, Arch. 1, 1.

856. multimodis : on 115. The atoms are 'adsiduo varioque exercita motu,' 2, 97, and 'omne genus motus et coetus experiundo,' 1, 1026 ; all forms are possible in time.—adcredere is a rare verb—only here in L. ; for the acc. cf. 'quid iam credas? aut quo credas?' Ter. Ad. 330.

857. ut = in quo ordine. posta : on 346. Posta fuisse, 'have been placed' ; cf. Roby, 1367. 'A finite number of particles is only susceptible of finite transpositions ; and it must happen, in an eternal duration, that every possible order or position must be tried an infinite number of times. This world, therefore, with all its events, even the most minute, has before been produced and destroyed, and will again be produced and destroyed without any bounds or limitations,' Hume, Dialog. Nat. Relig. 2, 1.

858 (865) was transferred by Lachm. edd.—haec eadem : emphatic, and so removed from semina and put at the beginning of the verse. Stanley, Hist. Phil. 570, quaintly puts the argument : 'Whether if we were dissolved by death it might happen in process of time that the very same principles of which we consist might by some odd chance be ranged and ordered again in the same manner as they are now, and so we come to be denominated the same which we are at this present ?

— answer, that it is doubtlessly true, but still so that to have been formerly would nothing appertain to us, because in our very dissolution every disposition which we had, and all memory of those things which compounded us and which we were, would utterly be lost; by which means all our remembrance, too, would have been totally decayed, that it were impossible it should come into our minds that we have ever had a being.'

859. nec tamen: on 231.—memori mente: cf. memores motus . . . mentis, 1040. Mémoria is unmanageable in the hexameter; cf. on 675.—reprehendere, 'recover'; see on 599 and lex. s. v. II A.

860. inter . . . iectast: cf. on 262.—pausa, ταῦσις, 'break,' had been used by Ennius. L. has it 5 times.—vage deerarunt: cf. incerto errore vagaris, 1052. Dryden: 'Because a pause of life, a gaping space, | Has come betwixt, where memory lies dead, | And all the wandering motions from the sense are fled.' Verse 924 explains 860–861; it is the wandering of the primordia (sensifer unde oritur . . . per viscera motus, 272) that causes the wandering of the motus.

861. passim, 'astray'; 2, 9, 'passim errare'—sensibus, 'sensation' (which they fail to produce).

862 (861). 861–869 of the codd. Kannengiesser would transfer to follow 851; van d. Valk, 139, to follow 831; but V. himself acknowledges that he cannot explain how the lines came to be misplaced. Cf. Pascal, Riv. 32, 600.—enim really goes back to his main principle nil mors est. There must be existence for evil to happen and death takes this away. L. does not write debemus etc. as he would have done if 843–861 were an interpolation.—miserere aegreque: predicate like male in 863; see on 307. 'If he is destined to be in misery and suffering.'

863. esse, 'mors nullum habet incommodum: esse enim debet aliquis, cuius sit incommodum,' Sen. Ep. 36, 9. Epic. ad Men. 125, οὐτε οὖν πόδε τούς ξύρρας δοτίοις οὐτε πόδε τούς τετελευτηκότας, ἐπειδὴ περ περὶ οὓς μὲν οὐκ ἔστιν, οἱ δὲ οὐκέτι εἰσίν.—tum has the force of an adj ect. (on 662) and is pleonastic (on 28). In also is unnecessary except to prevent hiatus between esse and eo; see on 24.

864. esse . . . probet: cf. on 322. Probet, Lachm. edd. prohibe, OQ, is for prohibet, like probet, 1, 977, where see n. Keller would read probeant in Ter. Ad. 275.

865 (864). incommoda, only here in L., is common for troubles and misfortunes both of mind and body.—conciliari, 'attached to,' 'brought'; frequent elsewhere of atomic union. For the pentasyllabic ending, see on 2, 878.

866. in morte: not in moriendo as was noticed early: 'illud notabile ex diversis, mors misera non est, aditus ad mortem est miser,' Quint. 8, 5, 5; cf. Lact. Inst. 3, 17. 'Ne moriendum quidem esse malum est; id est enim pervenientum esse ad id, quod non esse malum confitemur,' Cic. Tusc. 1, 16.

867. miserum: sc. illum; see on 183. Cic. Tusc. 1, 12, 'si igitur non sunt, nihil possunt esse: ita ne miseri quidem sunt.' Luc. 8, 632, 'non fit morte miser.'

868. differre: 6, 1106, 'quid . . . caelum differre.'—an nullo: sc. utrum aliquo; the reading of Pontanus and vulg. followed by Br. (see Proleg.) and modern edd. after the analogy of haud scio an; cf. Livy, 44, 25, 11, 'nihil interesse an Pella pecunia esset,' quoted by Heinze. O has annullo anullo; Q, anullo anullo; Lachm. ante ullo; Munro, anne ullo; Winck. ac nullo; Polle, Phil. 25, 277, ei nullo . . . qui; Goebel, referre ante ullo . . . num; Brandt, Jahrb. 121, 772, nece for natus.—iam, ‘now that he is no more,’ or more exactly ‘whether he shall have been born already.’ Cic. Lael. 14, ‘fit idem quasi natus non esset omnino’; Sen. Dial. 11, 9, 2, ‘in eum restitutus est locum in quo fuerat antequam nasceretur . . . aut beatus aut nullus est.’

869. mortalem vitam mors immortalis: for the oxymoron, see on 779. There is no immortality save that of death! ‘And death once dead, there’s no more dying then’ might (says Symonds) be written as a motto on the title-page of the book. Edd. quote Amphis in Athen. 336 c, δθάρατος δ' δθάρατος ἀττίν, δι άταξ τις διθόδηγος. The answer of humanity to all these sophisms will always be that of Achilles, μη δή μαι θάρατόν γε παραίδε, ‘Talk me not fair of death’; Benn, Greek Philosophers, 2, 90. S. Paulinus, adv. Paganos, 232, ‘tunc poterit mors ipsa mori, cum tempore toto | vita perennis erit.’

870–893. ‘When a man complains of what may happen to his body after death be sure that he is inconsistent in denying that there is sensation then, he does not consider his principles but makes a part of himself survive, since he does not separate his present self from his dead body. He will not be alive to mourn over his dead body, whether it be devoured by beasts or buried in the earth—which is quite as bad.’

870. Proinde: similar synesis in 1035, 1053, 1090; 1, 672; always, according to L. Müller, RM. 269; but it is not necessary in 4, 657, 803, 812. Cf. on 4, 386.—ubi . . . videoas: ubi admoveas, 6, 901; ubi nequeas, 2, 313; ubi adportes, 5, 100. See on 506 and 422.—se . . . indignarier is strange: Livy, 2, 31, 11, ‘suam vicem indignantem’; suam vicem and se seem identified, or it may be explained (with Lee) as an anacoluthon as if se were intended to be the subject of an infinitive which is dislodged by fore ut putescat; cf. 884, 1045. Edd. quote Sulpicius in Cic. Fam. 4, 5, 4, ‘nos homunculi indignamus si quis nostrum interierit’; Catull. 101, 6, ‘heu miser indigne frater adempte mihi’; Sen. Epf. 91, 15, ‘indignare si quid in te iniqui proprie constitutum est . . . aequat omnes cinis.’

871. putescat: Avanc. edd.; putes, OQ; putesco and putresco are forms of the same word; Stolz, Hist. Gr. I, 237. Hor. S. 2, 3, 193, cur Ajax . . . putescit; ‘to lie in cold obstruction and to rot,’ Shakesp. Measure for Measure, 3, 1. According to a Stoic saying, a pig’s life took the place of salt, ne putisceret, Cic. Fin. 5, 38.—posto: ‘laid away,’ for **apo-sito* (Stolz, LG. 69). Positus in this sense is poetical; situs was the ritual word. Stat. Th. 12, 99, ‘hei mihi! quod positos humus alma diesque resolvit.’ In Prop. 1, 17, 20, posito amore is ‘buried love.’ The remarks attributed to Socrates and Diogenes relative to the treatment of their bodies after death will be easily recalled. Theodore the Cyrenaic: τι Θεοδώρῳ μέλει πότερος, ιτε γῆς ή οὐδὲ γῆς σήμεραι;

872. Notice the spondees: the halting measure expresses the dreadful fear.—flammis: cf. 887. Sepelire = either cremare or humare, but inhumation was regarded as ritually earlier; cf. Cic. Iegg. 2, 57. The custom of burning was the earliest in Latium; later, inhumation was more favored; Marquardt, PL. 374 sq.—interficiat is archaic; Plaut. has interfieri, Tr. 532.—malisve ferarum: cf. 888; and 880, volucres feraeque. Feras in Georg. 1, 139 includes birds, but here the reference is probably to dogs; cf. on 750. Pliny, 10, 113, ‘voltur et ferae graviores’;

Catull. 64, 152, 'dilaceranda feris dabor alitibusque | praeda'; Pac. 198, 'surge et sepeli natum (tuum) priusquam ferae | volucresque.' Just. 41, 3, of the Parthians, 'sepultura vulgo aut avium aut canum laniatus est'; cf. also L. 2, 877.

873. Note alliteration.—sincerum, adverb. cogn. acc.; Aen. 1, 328, 'hominem sonat'; Pers. 3, 21, 'sonat vitium,' 5, 25, 'solidum crepet'; Plato, Theaet. 179 d, īryuēs . . . φθέγγεται; Enn. Sc. 106, 'nam neque . . . quicquam sincere sonunt'; cf. Conington on Persius.—'Know he's an unsincere, unthinking ass,' Dryden.—sonere, 'ring,' for sonare, 156 n.

874. caecum: Pers. 4, 44, 'caecum vulnus habes'; see on 247.—cordi: 1018, 'mens sibi . . . adhibet stimulos'; cf. 4, 1082.

875. quemquam = ullum; on 234. Cf. with this the bragging in 41 sq.—in morte, see on 402. S. Aug. CD. 13, 11, 'quem ad modum tria sunt cum dicimus "ante mortem, in morte, post mortem" ita tria singulis singula "vivens, moriens mortuusque" reddantur'; but here in morte = post mortem as in 866, 880. If popular speech in L.'s time interpreted the expression in S. Austin's sense the defect in the argument might have passed unnoticed; as according to the wish of the writer in morte would mean moriens or mortuus or both. Seneca has both meanings; cf. Ep. 30, 5 sq. and Haase's index. Plaut. Capt. 741, 'post mortem in morte nihil est quod metuam mali.'

876. opinor: L. is certain; see on 626.—dat quod promittit is a legal metaphor; he does not make good his promises, i.e. does not accept the conclusion which he pretends to accept.—et unde: sc. promittit; and the reason, i.e. the principle; see on 719 ('and the wherefore of it,' vulg.).—Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 786, reads et undat (= fluctuat), Brandt, id. 121, 772, et inplet. Wakef. explains 'non dat quod promittit nec unde promiserat se daturum.'—Br. formerly, and lately Hartmann, abunde, an early conjecture.

877. radicitus: cf. 310.—tollit et eicit: two synonyms, as often; see on 273.—eicit: trochee also in 4, 1272; see on 639.

878. facit: 1, 655 n.—esse . . . super: super . . . eram, Aen. 2, 567; cf. Tac. H. 1, 20. Vulg. Gen. 42, 36, 'Ioseph non est super.'—sui quiddam, 'something of himself.'—inscius, 'unawares,' 'unconsciously.'

879. vivus: emphatic.—proponit: cf. 627.—quisque: indefinite, like hominem, 870; an awkward word here.

880. volucres, e.g. vultures; cf. 984. Min. Felix, 11, 'execrantur rogos et damnant ignium sepulturas, quasi non omne corpus, etsi flammis subtrahatur, annis tamen et aetibus in terram resolvatur, nec interstis, utrum ferae diripient an maria consumant an humus contegat an flamma subducat, cum cadaveribus omnis sepulta, si sentiunt, poena sit, si non sentiunt, ipsa conficiendi celeritate medicina.'

881. miseret, personal, is antecl.—dividit, 'distinguish.'—illim: from his body; displaced by illinc (4, 345); cf. istimi, exim, 160 n.—Q has illum.

882. removet: sc. se; cf. 69 and n.—projecto: 6, 1155, 'quo perolent projecta cadavera ritu'; Cic. Div. 1, 56, 'cum ignotum quendam projectum mortuum vidisset eumque humavisset'; Lucan, 6, 720, 'projecti corporis umbram.'—et, 'but'; 21 n.—illum (mortuum) from projecto.

883. sensu, 'with his own sensation.'—contaminat, 'impregnates' (M.); the metaphor from inficio, dye, is more common in the neutral meaning. M. comp.

contagia, 345, 740; Heinze, 6, 1188, 'croci contacta colore'; contaminare = contingere, CGL 4, 42.—astans: cf. 959.

884. indignatur: 'accepimus peritura perituri. Quid itaque indignamur? quid querimur? ad hoc parati sumus,' Sen. Dial. 6, 5, 7. Symonds would compare this description with Blake's picture of the soul that has just left the body and laments her separation. Mortis formidine et ira, Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 207.

885. alium se, 'other self.' 'Cavendum est ne se quaerat priorem,' Quint. 12, 11, 2 (M.).

886. 'No other self shall then himself bemoan,' Good.—qui, Flor. 31, edd.; cui, OQ.

887. stansque iacentem: for the collocation, see on 765. Stans = astans, 883. For iacentem, cf. 6, 1215, 'multaque humi cum inhumata iacent corpora.' Lexx. quote no earlier authority than Caesar for iacere—'lie dead.'—lacerari urive corresponds to flammis malisve ferarum, 872.

888. Note the alliteration. Bion, in Teles, 23 H., εἰ δὲ μὴ κρυφθεῖται, διλλὰ διαφορὰ φθείηται, τι τὸ δυναχέρεται; Η τι διαφέρει ὑπὸ πύρος κατακαυθήσαι, Η ὑπὸ κυνὸς καταβρωθῆσαι Η ἐπάρω τῆς γῆς ὅντα ὑπὸ κοράκων Η κατορυχθέντα ὑπὸ σκωλήκων; (Heinze).—nam explains urive; it is just as bad to be burnt. Edelbluth, 29, defends iam of Bock. Petr. 115, 'ferae tamen corpus lacerabunt. tanquam melius ignis accipiat'; Catull. 64, 154, 'neque iniecta tumulabor mortua terra,' because the body will be exposed to beasts.—in morte = post mortem, 871.—malum: L. rarely makes an abstract substantive a predicate; cf. 1, 704; 5, 160.—morsu: see on 5, 1037.—Cic. Tusc. 1, 108, 'magorum mos est non humare corpora suorum, nisi a feris sint ante laniata.' Death was regarded as a sleep and so accompanied by a vague sensibility; hence the care for proper burial, the deposit of food at the grave, the attention to the comfort of the departed, both in the disposition of the body and the carrying out of ritual law; the object being to render the sleep peaceful; see Guyau, Morale d'Épicure, 104. Fustel de Coulanges, Ancient City, 16, 'those ancient peoples believed that they were burying something that was living.'

889. tractari, 'worried'; a rare, mostly antcl. meaning; so Eng. 'treat,' 'entreat.'—invenio, 'see'; Ov. ex P. 4, 12, 45, 'nec quid agam invenio'; cf. on 202.—qui, 'why'; 443 n.—acerbum is specially used of the bitterness of death and its concomitants; Carm. Epigr. 1, 75, 'mors acerba eripuit.' 'Quid enim illius interterat quo genere dilaberetur,' Sen. Ben. 5, 20, 4.

890. calidis probably goes with both ignibus and flammis; see on 176 and 126.—torrescere: ἀπ. λεγ.

891. in melle: Cic. Tusc. 1, 108, 'Persae etiam cera circumlitos condunt, ut quam maxime permaneant.' Varro, Menipp. 81, 'quare Heraclides Ponticus plus sapit qui praecepit ut comburerent quam Democritus qui ut melle servarent'; Pliny, 22, 108, 'mellis quidem ipsius natura talis est ut putrescere corpora non sinat.'—situm, 'packed.'—rigere: cf. 6, 1196.

892. frigore . . . gelidi: see on 300.—cubat: the subject is noticeably omitted with all the verbs of the sentence, which nevertheless imply sensation. Cubo, 'lie asleep,' is frequent.—aequore saxi may be the level surface (cf. 1002; 4, 107) of a stone sarcophagus, or a tomb cut in the rock (not the slab upon which the body rested while awaiting burial, Mart. 8, 44, 13); see Marquardt, PL 341 sq.

894—911. “But your home, your wife and children will not make you glad, you will not be able to protect them; one evil day has taken away all of life’s prizes.” Yes; but you will not care for one of them; this thought takes away regret. “Asleep in death you will be free from troubles, but no length of time will remove our sorrow.” Ask him why any one should pine forever, if it all comes to sleep and rest.’

894. Iam iam, ‘now no more’; amiam, O; vimiam, Q. — domus: Hor. C. 2, 14, 21, ‘linquenda tellus et domus et placens | uxor’ and Shorey there. — laeta: Catull. 64, 46, ‘tota domus gaudet.’ — uxor, sc. accipiet.

896. tacita: so deep as to need no words; on 2, 625. — tangent: Aen. 1, 462, ‘mentem mortalia tangunt’; id. 502, ‘Latona tacitum pertemptant gaudia pectus.’ In praeripere the prae expresses rivalry.

897. factis florentibus, ‘prosperous in thy doings’ (M.); for the case, see on 4, 392. Sall. J. 83, 1, ‘neu florentis res suas cum Iugurthae perditis misceret’; Cic. Orat. 1, 1, ‘cum et honoribus et rerum gestarum gloria florenter.’ L. 5, 329, ‘famae monumentis insita florent.’ — tuis: ‘praesidioque . . . decorique parentibus esse,’ 2, 643. ‘Parentibus praesidium, amicis gaudium pollicita, pueri virtus indigne occidit,’ CIL. 1, 1422.

898. praesidium: Sen. Dial. 6, 19, 2, ‘movet & illud lugentem: non erit qui me defendat, qui a contemptu vindicet’; Hor. C. 1, 1, 2, ‘o et praesidium.’ S. Ambrose, Naboth, 1, ‘etsi amisit coniugis praesidium sepulcrum tenet.’ — misero misere: cf. on 71. Spenser has ‘Poorly poor man he lived, poorly poor man he died’ (M.). — aiunt: it is the common talk. — omnia: CIL. X, 2483, ‘apstulit haec unus tot tantaque munera nobis | perfidus infelix horrificusque dies.’ L. is doubtless imitating the obituaries and stereotyped condolences. Cornel. Sev. apud Sen. Rhet. Suas. 6, 26, ‘abstulit una dies aevi decus.’ An epitaph in Meyer, Anth. 1345, 7, quotes Aen. 11, 28, ‘abstulit atra dies et funere mersit acerbo,’ which occurs repeatedly in the Carmina Epigraphica; 1401, 4, ‘te festinans abstulit atra dies’; 1405, 6, ‘summa senectutis praemia passa cremor.’ Carm. Epigr. 1, 405, ‘abstulit una dies anima corpusq. sim(it)ur’.

tilisque dies.' — praemia vitae recurs in 956, and 5, 1151 = gaudia; in 5, 5 it means sources of delight; id. 1450, it is paralleled with delicias. Cic. Fin. 5, 31, 'eorum metum mortis qui quia privari se vitae bonis arbitrentur . . . mortem fugiant.'

900. illud in, etc.: on 1, 80.

901. desiderium, 'regret.' — super = insuper. — insidet: cf. 918. — una, 'withal': see on 146. Iam super reflects the extravagance in words of popular lamentation. — Giuss. reads ullum; cf. 922.

902. quod looks back to illud. — videant animo: of mental vision; 348 n. Cf. 1071. — dictis: words would confirm the principle, but probably there is mere pleonasm for si recte sentiant et loquuntur.

903. animi is no more necessary than pedum was with vestigia in 389. Br. would have a lacuna here.

904. quidem, 'for your part.' For the elision see on 339. — sopitus: 431 n.

905. quod superest: 5, 206, 'quod superest arvi . . . natura . . . sentibus obducatur.' Quod superest aevi occurs in Hor. Ov. Sil.; Thes. 1, 1165, 44. — privatu: on 52. Macbeth, 3, 2, 'Duncan is in his grave; | After life's fitful fever he sleeps well'; Faerie Queene, 1, 9, 40, 'He there does now enjoy eternall rest | And happy ease which thou dost want and crave.'

906. cinefactum probably means in cinerem dissolutum as Nonius explained it, but as the word occurs only here the meaning is doubtful. Lachm. would have it 'acquired the color and appearance of ashes.' — prope, 'near by'; 6, 403. — busto: properly the ground on which a funeral pyre was erected; distinct from astrina, the public place of burning. The tomb was usually adjacent: Cic. Legg. 2, 57, and 64. In 5, 993, busto means tomb.

907. The verse is ponderous and seems unsympathetic; the poet, if true to his principles, could not look with favor on such an exhibition; this scorn appears plainer in 910-911. — The bucolic diaeresis occurs about 50 times in the poem (Kühn, 51). Cf. for the verse, Sidonius, 'innumerabilibus legionibus imperabant'; Juvenlus, 'luxuriosorum convivia concelebrabant,' quoted by Burmann on Cons. ad Liv. 103; Claud. iv Cons. Hon. 560, 'Bellerophontea indignaretur habenas'; L. 1, 417, 468, 583; 4, 660. — insatiabiliter was perhaps coined by L.; cf. insolabiliter in a like connection in Hor. Ep. 1, 14, 7. — deflevimus, as custom demanded; it might, or might not, be sincere. 'Defletum in foro laudatum pro rostris cuncta a maioribus reperta aut quae posteri invenerint cumulata,' Tac. An. 3, 5. — aeternum, 'lifelong'; on 466.

908. dies, 'lapse of time'; cf. 1, 233. — nobis, probably dat. of separation; a vulgar pleonasm.

909. hoc: the complainer; Hertz audaciously makes ab hoc = igitur like ab'is, a quo in Varro (p. 24). — quaerendum: it is unanswerable; 761 n. — amari: gen.; cf. acerbum, 889. — Martha, 142, well remarks: the poet stifles the cries of the heart which touch and annoy him; he denies the misery of the miserable, having no consolations to offer them. Therein lies the weakness of the ancient ethics which can only make a virtue of insensibility, which thinks tears may be suppressed by condemning them.

910. tantopere, 'so passing.' — si is important. — res reddit, 'all comes.' The restful sleep of death is a commonplace from Homer down; κοιμήσατο χάλκεον ὑπὸ τοῦ, A 241; cf. κοιμητήριον; ‘that this my body | Might in the ground be closed up in rest,’ 3 King Henry, 6. The reverse is also common: Ov. Am. 2, 9, 41, ‘stulte, quid est somnus, gelidae nisi mortis imago,’ and Heinsius there.

911. Epic. ad Men. 125, δλλ' οἱ πολλοὶ τὸν θάρατον δὲ μὲν ὡς μέγιστον τῶν κακῶν φεγγούσιν, δὲ δὲ ὡς διάπαντας τῶν ἐν τῷ ζῆν (κακῶν αἰροῦνται . . .) οὐδὲ φοβεῖται τὸ μὴ ζῆν.

912–930. ‘Men at revels speak from the heart and say here is brief enjoyment, soon it will be over never to return! But death brings no parching thirst nor desire of anything else, not even of life, no more than sleep does. Yet the sleep of death may well last forever, from which no one will awake when the chill of death has come once for all.’

912. faciunt . . . ut dicant: ‘love to say,’ nearly = dicunt; 6, 536, ‘fac ut esse rearis’; Catull. 64, 231, ‘facito ut . . . vigeant.’ See Madvig, LG. 481 b. — discubere: the regular word for reclining at the commissatio. — tenant: sc. manibus: 1, 495, ‘manu retinentes pocula.’ — Br. brackets 912–918 with Jessen because 911 and 919 should go together; but in App. he admits that 919 follows well on 918. Giuss. puts the passage in brackets after 930, with Susemihl.

913. pocula: p. plena tenemus, 6, 950. — ora, ‘brows’; 2, 627, ‘rosarum | floribus umbrantes matrem’; Stat. Th. 6, 554, ‘umbratus tempora ramis.’

914. ex animo, ‘in all sincerity,’ κυρόθεα; ‘willingly’ in 4, 1195. — homullis, ‘poor men.’ — brevis . . . fructus: a commonplace: Amphis in Athen. 336 c, πῶμα ταῖς θητρὸς ὁ βλος, δλίγος οὐτρι γῆς χρόνος; Cope, 37, ‘pone merum et talos! pereat qui crastina curat’; Petr. 34, ‘eheu nos miseris, quam totus humuncio nil est. | sic erimus cuncti, postquam nos auferet Orcus. | ergo vivamus, dum licet esse bene’; Plaut. Most. 726, ‘vita quam sit brevis simul cogita’; Hor. S. 2, 6, 96, ‘vive beatus; | vive memor quam sis aevi brevis,’ Ep. 2, 2, 198, ‘exiguo gratoque fruaris tempore raptim.’ Martha, 144, contrasts the carpe diem of Horace and his frivolous grace which would have appeared to L. as a profanation of Epicurean doctrine. — brevia is emphatic by position.

915. iam fuerit, ‘soon it will be over’ (presently it will have been); Roby, 1481. — revocare: sc. fructum vitae. S. Paul, 1 ad Cor. 15, 32, ‘manducemus et bibamus, cras enim moriemur.’

916. mali with hoc: cf. 4, 92, ‘ex alto . . . ortae.’ — cum primis = imprimis; 6, 939; metr. gr.

917. sitis: Ov. F. 4, 299, ‘sitis usserat herbas.’ — exurat: quoted reason. — atque connects the two verbs. — arida: 6, 1176, ‘insedabiliter sitis arida.’ — torrat, O corr. Q, edd.; torret, O; torres, Lachm. M. Giuss. (= a burnt brand according to glossaries; cf. Archiv, 8, 587); aridus’ terror, Housman, J. Phil. 25, 237. Torrat from torro is unexampled, but may be defended by tueror tuor, servo serveo, etc.; see Lindsay, LL. 476.

918. aliae: the gen. alias is very rare; Cic. Div. 2, 30, ‘aliae pecudis’; Livy, 24, 27, ‘aliae partis’; Neue-Wagener, 2, 534. — desiderium insideat: cf. 901. The desire may be for companionship which L. appreciated (2, 29; 5, 1397, tum ioca tum sermo tum dulces esse cachinni), but he did not wish to weaken his argument by this admission. — rei, monosyll. also in 4, 885; 27 times in poetry according to Lane, 127.

919. enim: '(but that is not true) for . . .'—tum: in sleep.—se vitam: te . . . adventumque tuum, 1, 6 and n.—requirit ('want them back again'): so all edd. for requiret, OQ, retained by Blasé, Hist. Gr. 3, 122.

920. pariter precludes dreaming, for the mind is free from care.—sopita: 431.

921. nam: i.e. non requirit nam.—aeternum . . . soporem; cf. 466.—per nos: 'for all we care.'—sic is predicate; 307 n.; tr. 'this sleep may last forever.' As M. says, L. accumulates words to show how indifferent it must be.—soporem, O; praemo, Q; per aevom, Bern.

922. nostri nos: see on 71. Nostri is of course gen. pl.; it corresponds to se vitamque in 919.—adficit, on 853.—Winck. puts 922 after 919.

923. et tamen: sc. we are alive after all and can be awakened.—tunc: in sleep.—illa: because he has mentioned the primordia so often.—artus: on 129.

924. Cf. 860 and nn. In sleep much of the soul is ejecta foras (4, 923), and that which remains is excited to action much as fire is kindled from ashes. Inasmuch as part of the soul is lost, few first beginnings of it remain, and these are distributed throughout the body at some distance from one another, but near enough to communicate motion and thus produce sense; if they are too far apart sense-motion is not produced (cf. 568) and the man does not wake; longe, then, being the important word, begins the verse.

925. Note the alliteration.—cum with indic., see on 363; colligat, Winck. Br. Heinze, Giuss. Bail.—corruptus: see on 163.—se colligit and animum, mentem colligit are frequent expressions for 'recover mind,' which L. here uses to express the recovery of the physical condition of the soul and its functions; Cic. Tusc. 4, 78, 'quid est autem se ipsum colligere nisi dissipatas animi partis rursus in suum locum cogere.'—ipse: of his own accord, because animus still remains.

926. putandumst: on 231. Goebel omits the est with Vict.; cf. on 1, 111.

927. minus: 'is less than nothing if a less could be,' Dryden. 'Of much less moment, then, should death be held | Than sleep,' Good.—videmus: i.e. evidently nothing.

928. turbae, OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss., i.e. turbatae materiai; cf. 1, 1113; 2, 127; turba et, Goebel, Br. Heinze, Bail.; cf. 2, 126; 5, 1141. Turbae should be retained as the lectio difficilior.—disiectus, dræf; Cic. used dissipatio.

929. consequitur: on 478; 'follows close from,' 'is a consequence of.'—leto, abl.: 1, 459, 'rebus ab ipsis consequitur sensus.'—expergitus exstat, 'is there any one who has awakened,' stronger than expergitus est, as 6, 188, 'extra quid extent.' Expergo is an archaic word, expergescio and expergiscor are the classical expressions: expergitus, ab alio excitatus: quem solemus dicere expergesfactum, Festus.

930. frigida, 'chilling'; 299 n.—est secuta, 'has overtaken'; cf. indepta, 212. A later writer would have written either in quem incidit or used sequi absolutely. Madv. on Cic. Fin. 1, 32 quotes Tusc. 1, 32, 'quis igitur Epicurum sequitur dolor,' and other examples.—pauas: 860. Ov. M. 2, 611, 'corpus inane animae frigus letale secutum est.'

931–977. 'If Nature should address one, "Why, mortal, do you complain at death; your life has had its enjoyment, why not leave like a well-fed guest? But if you have lost your enjoyment of life why not put an end to trouble? I cannot invent anything to please you even if you should live for ever," this would be a fair charge. And if an old man should lament overmuch, why should she not be more severe: "Away with your complaints, you have had the good things of life, and it is your own fault if you have not enjoyed them; yield now, you must," this also would be justified; for the old is ever pushed along before the new; generations must come and go. The time before our birth is the mirror of that which will be after our death.'

931. rerum natura: L. conceives nature as the efficient cause, rerum natura creatrix, 1, 629; as governing, natura gerit res, 1, 328; as fostering, pascere naturam, 2, 706; altogether in these senses at least 35 times in the poem; here only and in 951 he goes so far as to personify it. Usener prints Φύση in Fr. 469 with Bernays. The Epicurean nature reduces to blind chance although it may be disguised as leges, foedera, rationes. Martha, 148, quotes Lamartine, 'De quel nom te nommer, ô fatale puissance ? Qu' on t'appelle Destin, Nature, Providence, Inconcevable loi !' Patin, Posie Latine, 1, 119, sees in such passages the 'Anti-Lucretius' in the poem, that is the refutation of the poet's principles. Holbach in his System of Nature introduced Nature discoursing and instructing mankind. Cic. Fin. 1, 71, 'exaudita quasi voce naturae'; cf. the address of patria to Catiline, 1 Cat. 18. Heinze comp. Hervla by Bion (Teles, 3, 15), εἰ λάθοι φωρήν τὰ πράγματα . . . καὶ ἡ Ηέρβλα ἀντ’ εἰποι: κτλ.; the figure was not uncommon in philosophical diatribes; Sen. Ep. 22, 15, 'illa (natura) nobiscum queri debet et dicere "quod hoc est,"' etc.; cf. Dial. 6, 17, 6. Min. Fel. 19, 'etiam Epicurus ille qui deos aut otiosos singit aut nullos, naturam tamen superponit.' — repente, 'should confront him unexpectedly.' Notice the legal expressions: vocem midat ('vox de quaestura missa nulla est,' Cic. Flacc. 6); respondemus, intendere litem, 950; exponere causam, 951; iure agat, 963; mancipio usu, 971, showing his familiarity with law.

932. hoc alicui increpet is unusual for hoc (= probris) aliquem increpet, although in Livy, 9, 24, 10, haec pavidis increpat occurs. Hoc is hardly necessary with sic, as the verb is often used absolutely; cf. 963. — nostrum: i.e., a normal person, distinguished from grandior, 952. — ipsa, 'in person.'

933. tanto labore: 'what troubles you so much;' for the adverbial expression approximating to a noun, cf. 5, 1157, 'id fore clam diffidere debet.' — mortalis: advisedly, to remind him of the necessity of nature; so mortem is emphatic in 934. — quod would have probably introduced a subjunctive in prose. — aegris luctibus: cf. 905. Luctibus is dative.

934. congemis is a rare word, occurring but once in L. Cic. Suet. Virg. For the acc. cf. te deflevimus, 906; fleo, active, is mostly poetical.

935. (si) grata, Nauger edd.; gratis, OQ; gratis suit (haec), Lachm.; gratis(ne), Bern.; gratis anteacta . . . vita, M. Si seems to be needed to correspond to sin, 940, and grata to ingrata, 937; and nam looking forward to cur recedis, 938, apparently demands si. Yet it is not impossible that OQ are right without change; gratis may be defended by ingratis, 6, 15, and elsewhere, and suit is not impossible; see Sommer, 618. The bluntness of the address is noticeable.

936. pertusum, etc., is a reminiscence of the fable of the Danaides, explained in 1009. Cf. 6, 20, 'partim quod fluxum pertusumque esse videbat, | ut nulla posset ratione explelier umquam.' Plaut. Pseud. 369, 'in pertusum ingerimus dicta dolium:

'operam ludimus,' 102, 'non pluris refert quam si imbre in cibrum geras'; Plato, Rep. 2, 363 d, κοσκίνῳ ὕδωρ ἀγαγάζουσι φέρειν of the punishment of the wicked in Hades; Plut. Prov. 8, κοσκίνῳ ὕδωρ ἀπλεῖται.—congesta is ordinarily used of solids, rather than liquids as here and in 1009, ingesta, the proper word, being excluded by the metre.

937. commoda: on 2.—perfluxere: for the metaphor, see on 1,177. Notice the repeated preposition per, and cf. pergam pertexere, 6, 42, cf. 916. Antiquae elegantiae est, says Lachm. Note also ingrata interiere.—ingrata, 'thankless,' unprofitable; Epic. in Sen. Ep. 15, 10, 'stulta vita ingrata est et trepida tota in futurum fertur'; id., Benef. 3, 4, 1, 'Epicuro . . . qui adsidue queritur quod adversas praeterita simus ingrati.' The word occurs below in 942, 958, 1003. Hor. Epid. 11, 16, 'ut haec ingrata ventis dividat.'

938. Notice the gravity of the spondees.—cur: 'passionate questions are equivalent to a command,' Gild.-L, LG. 273.—plenus: Sen. Ep. 98, 15, 'ipse (senex) vitae plenus'; Vulg. Job, 42, 16, 'mortuus est senex et plenus dierum.'—conviva: cf. 960. Horace has imitated this: 'vita | cedat, ut conviva satur,' S. 1, 1, 118; 'edisti satis atque bibisti; | tempus abire tibi est,' Ep. 2, 2, 214. Travesty by Babrius, 60, of a mouse which fell into a pot of broth: 'βέβρωκα' φησι 'καὶ πέτυκα καὶ τάσσης | τροφῆς πέτλησμα· καύρος ἔστι μοι θήσκειν.' Bion (Teles 11), δοτερ εἰ συμποσίου ἀπαλλάγτομαι οὐδὲν δυσχεραπονῶ, οὐτω καὶ ἐκ τοῦ βίου, δταν ὥρα γ. Orelli on Horace cites Pseud. Arist. 610, Rose, ἐκ τοῦ βίου κράτιστόν ἔστιν ὑπερέλθειν ἢ ἐκ συμποσίου μήτε δύψωτα μήτε μεθύσσω; see Usener, Epic. p. 310, 19 nn. La Fontaine, Fab. 8, 1, 'on sortit de la vie ainsi que d'un banquet.' Delille, Gilbert, Delavigne, Chénier have also borrowed the simile as may be seen in Pongerville's notes.

939. aequo animo is 'equanimity,' composure, the ἀραράξια-ἀπάθεια desired by Stoics as well as Epicureans; cf. 962; 1, 42; 5, 1119.—que: on 662.—securam quietem: Georg. 2, 467. Ov. F. 6, 331, 'placidamque capit secura quietem'; see on 211. Friedländer, Sitteng. 3, 617, cites several inscriptions: securitati sacrum, perpetuae securitati, dis securis.

940. quao . . . cumque: tmesis, on 550.—fructus: on 734. The perfect is cited elsewhere only from Velleius and Seneca.—profusa continues the metaphor in vas. Sen. Dial. 9, 3, 8, 'saepe grandis natu senex nullum aliud habet argumentum, quo se probet diu vixisse, praeter aetatem.'

941. in offensu (Lamb. Lachm. M. Bern. Woltj.), 'an annoyance,' analogous to in amore, in invidia. Offensast, mentioned by Lamb. and Wakef. and approved by Postgate, J. Phil. 16, 127, is read by Br. Heinze, Giuss. Bail., and in offensa occurs in Cic. Att. 9, 22 2; but offensus is Lucretius' word (cf. on 2, 223), and the s of offensost in OQ points to a nom. in -us, not to one in -a, yet offensa is very attractive.—amplius as opposed to plus and magis has special reference to time. Sen. Ep. 93, 3, 'quid illum octoginta anni iuvant per inertiam exacti? non vixit iste, sed in vita mortuus est, nec sero mortuus est, sed diu.'—addere quaeris: 1, 103 n.

942. For the coördination of the synonymous verbs, pereat . . . occidat, cf. difundi . . . perire, 437; machiner inveniamque, 944; marcel . . . languent, 946-947 (exurat torrat, 917).—male pereat, 'come to an unhappy end.' Notice the chiasmus. Pers. 5, 61, 'et sibi iam seri vitam ingemuere relictam.'

943. non: sc. cur. — vitae finem: of the natural ending of life, 1093. Sall. Jug. 10, 3, ‘quoniam mihi natura vitae finem facit’; Cic. Att. 16, 16, 16, ‘faciam finem rogandi.’ — atque, ‘and at the same time.’ Of course an Epicurean had no restraint with regard to suicide, but Epic. did not recommend it as the Stoics did; cf. 81. Epic. in Sen. Ep. 12, 10, ‘malum est in necessitate vivere, sed in necessitate vivere necessitas nulla est’; cf. Cic. Fin. 1, 49.

944. machiner: 4, 1119, ‘nec reperire malum id possunt quae machina vincat’; Philod. de Morte, 19, δ' ἀφρων οὐτ' ἀξιόλογον ἐπιλήψετ' ἀγαθόν, ἀν καὶ τὸν Τιθωνοῦ διαγένηται χρόνον (Heinze).

945. Vulg. Eccles. 1, 9, ‘quid est quod fuit? ipsum quod futurum est’; Sen. Ep. 77, 6, ‘cibus somnus libido, per hunc circulum curritur,’ id. 14, ‘voluptates quae te morantur ac retinent consumpsisti: nulla tibi nova est, nulla non iam odiosa ipsa satietae.’

946. si: on 170. — marcer, cf. 956, is a poetical word not occurring in Caes. and Cic.

947. confecti: confectum annis Micipsam, Sall. Jug. 11, 5. Conficere is specially used of the exhaustion of age. ‘The uniform spectacle of the world of which he is only an inactive spectator wearies and exasperates him,’ Martha, 334. — tamen, ‘yet (as you do not hope for better things).’

948. Georg. 2, 295, ‘multa virum volvens durando saecula vincit’; cf. 1, 202. — pergas vincere, ‘continue to surpass’ = vinces, almost; see on 1, 16. — pergas: Lamb. edd., cf. sis in 949; perges, OQ, Heinze. — vivendo is perhaps pleonastic here and in 1081, 1090; cf. Aen. 11, 160, ego vivendo vici mea fata, where Serv. ‘veteres enim vivendo vivere dicebant supervivere’; Plaut. Epid. 177, ‘vivendo vincere’; cf. on 1, 202. No doubt the alliteration influenced its use; so propagando procudere saecula, 5, 850. — saecla: on 629.

949. atque, ‘yes, and.’ — potius: sc. eadem restant. Lucian, Dial. Mort. 27, 9, τι δακρύεις τηλικούτος ἀποθανών; τι δύαρακτεῖς, ὁ βέλτιστος, καὶ ταῦτα γέρων ἀφίγμένος;

950. respondemus: τι ἀν ἔχοις ἀρρεπεῖν of Bion (931 n.), ‘what answer have we?’ M. quotes the phrase from Cic. Att. 16, 7, 4; Goebel would read respondebis with Ritschl, but it should be responsurus (sis) if there is to be complete harmony with 931 sq.; L. disregards his protasis. The present in such cases is shown to be common by Madv. Opusc. 2, 40. — nisi: sc. respondemus. — intendere litem, ‘set up a claim,’ is a legal phrase: l. 44, § 4, Dig. 10, 2, ‘non calumniae causa litem intendere.’ If the poet is using intendere as implying intentio (‘intentio est ea pars formulae qua actor desiderium suum concludit,’ Gaius, 4, 41), the word iustum has special force, for the claim was thrown out if not prosecuted according to strict law; later, the word was a synonym of actio (see Heumann, Röm. Rechts-Quellen, s.v. ‘intentio’).

951. veram: vera causa occurs in l. 5, D. 6, 2; causam expositam, Cic. Rosc. Amer. 34; expositio criminum, l. 20, C. 9, 1. Cf. Engl. ‘true bill.’ — verbis, ‘in her words,’ i.e. pleading.

952 (955). Transferred by Lachm. edd. — grandior: grandis suspirat arator, 2, 1164. Grandior implies greater age than senior, with consequent weakness. — hic is the pronoun. La Fontaine’s Dialogue of Death and the Dying Man may be compared.

953. Cf. 934. — aequo: on 313.

954. in clamet: Hor. S. 1, 9, 75, magna | in clamat voce. — magis, 'with more reason.' — voce acri, 'sharp accents,' M.

955. ab hinc of future time is cited only from Pac. 21, and then from Tertullian; probably here it is only a strong hinc, 'from here,' 'out of my sight'; Plaut. Poen. 1035, 'maledicta hinc aufer' = fer maledicta ab hinc. The Thesaurus makes it local; see Hertz, Præp. 12; Archiv, 4, 113. — balatro: Heins. and others, edd.; baratri, OQ; these words in -o (agaso, caupo) belong to the common language; Weise, Charakteristik, etc. 102. Cf. stulte, 939; improbæ, 1026. Hor. C. 2, 20, 21, 'absint . . . neniae | luctusque turpes et querimoniae ; | compesce clamorem.'

956. perfunctus: see on 734. 'After you have,' etc. Sen. Ep. 60, 3, 'mortem suam antecesserunt.'

957. Cf. 1082. — aves: on 6. — temniss: rare for contemni; it recurs in 5, 123. So he uses stinguo, plico, sueo, suesco instead of the compound verbs. M. quotes Eur. Hipp. 183, οὐδέ σ' ἀρέσκει τὸ παρὸν τὸ δὲ ἀπὸ φίλωρος ἦγῆ; cf. the saying ascribed to Democritus, ἀρογμονες τῶν ἀπεβυτων ὅργονται, τὰ δὲ παρεβυτα ἀμαλδύνονται.

958. Notice the gravity of the spondees. — imperfecta, Epic. in Sen. Ep. 23, 9, 'male vivunt qui semper vivere incipiunt'; id. 10, Seneca's comment, 'semper illis imperfecta vita est.'

959. nec opinanti, like the more common necopinatus, shows the survival of nec = non; the form survives in negotium neglego nescio, etc. Caesar uses inopinans instead. — caput: as one lies on the lectus. — adstitit: cf. 883; often of the appearance of the gods: Aen. 4, 702; Thes. 2, 899, 59. — ante | quam occurs four times in L. and is not found in the dactylic poets except in Aetna, 423; Hor. S. 1, 2, 104; Manil. 5, 184. But ante . . . quam is not uncommon; Thes. 2, 154, 45.

960. satur ac plenus: cf. on 938. The words correspond in chiasmus to inperf. — fecta . . . ingrata. — possis: on 213. — discedere, Flor. 30, edd. for discere.

961. aliena: with abl.; see lex. and Roby, 1261. Soph. Antig. 1165, τὰς γὰρ ήδονάς | διαν προδώσων ἀνθρόπος, οὐ τέθημ' ἔγώ | ξῆν τούτον, δλλ' ζυψυχον ἡτούμενον περόν. — mitte: mirari mitte, 6, 1056.

962. agedum: agedum, sume, Hor. S. 2, 3, 155; dic agedum, Pers. 2, 22. — magnis, OQ; † Bail. Heinze; iam aliis, Marull.; dignis, Lachm.; gnatis, Bern. B 1. Giuss.; magnus, Censor Orellii, M.; cf. magnus exclama, Sen. Ep. 110; ad manus B 1. Bock.; gnavis, Woltjer, Jahrb. 119, 786, and Brandt; Maccus, Bury, Cl. R. 9, 15 gnavus, Nencini; manus, Everett; age: iam dormis or age: numne gemis, edit. AJP, 21, 185. Wakefield interpreted magnis 'grown up men,' Orelli 'from great things.' Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 213, 'vivere si recte nescis decede péritis' is perhaps influenced by this passage; Epict. Diss. 4, 1, 106, δὸς δλλοις τριῶν (Heinze). — concede: 1191, 'humanis concedere rebus,' which led M. formerly to read humanis here. Ac 11, 111, vivis concedere.

963. iure . . . iure, 'justly,' not legally; the word has many modifications — meaning. 4, 1173, 'nempe aliae quoque sunt; nempe hac sine viximus ante.' — agat: juristic. — incilet is quoted by Nonius from Pac. Acc. Lucil. as = increpare.

964. rerum . . . vetustas, 'the old.' The old order changeth, yielding place the new; cf. 1, 263–264; 2, 77; 5, 832 sq.

965. ex aliis aliud: alia ex aliis in fata vocamus, Aen. 3, 494. — reparare: 546, 'dissolui quo (into atoms) quaeque supremo tempore possint, | materies ut su-peditet rebus reparandis.' Cf. firmare necessest, 6, 940. Sauppe, Quaest. Crit. 20, reparari et acquisiri.

966. barathrum has its simple meaning in 6, 606. There is doubtless a hendiadys for atrum barathrum Tartarorum; cf. on 645. 'Tenebras Orci vastasque lacunas,' 1, 115.

967. The nom. with opus est occurs also in 1, 1051; 4, 1268; 2, 1149. — postera: cf. 1085.

968. perfuncta: on 734.

969. ante: as in 852, 858; antehac, Heinze. — haec is nom., continuing quae. — cedicere cadentque: see on 261. Hor. AP. 70, 'multa renascentur quae iam cedere, cadentque | quae nunc sunt in honore vocabula.'

970. alid occurs six times certainly, viz. 1, 263, 407, 1115; 5, 1305, 1456. It is uncertain whether aliud or alid was the primitive form; the old grammarians regarded alidas as an archaism (Neue-Wagener, 2, 531); latterly alid has been regarded as a syncopated form (Sommer, 470). Aliud ex alio would be unmetrical; the remedy used in 965 was not always convenient; later the plurals alia ex aliis were used. Richards, Cl. R. 13, 17 would read desistit which Wakef. ascribed to the Cambridge Ms.

971 is the most famous line in the poem. — mancipio may be dative 'for a permanent possession' (so Hidén, II, 44) or preferably abl. 'in fee simple,' 'by hand take,' as Roby, Vol. II, xlvi, 1243, and Cartault, 45, take it. Mancipatio was the oldest form of transferring property by the civil law; it gave full quiritary ownership as absolute as Roman law could make it; such ownership in life we have not, but merely the right of occupancy, usus, which is precarious and from which we may be ejected. Usus and fructus so often went together that fructus may be supplied. Curius in Cic. Fam. 7, 29, 1, 'sum enim χρήσει μὲν tuus, κτήσει δὲ Attici nostri'; id. 30, 2, Cicero's answer, 'quoniam proprium te esse scribis mancipio et nexo, meum autem usu et fructu contentus isto sum'; Lucil. 27, 6, 'cum sciam nil esse in vita proprium mortali datum, | iam, qua tempestate vivo, chresin ad me recipio'; Müller there compares Pl. Cist. 194, 'ut sunt humana, nil est perpetuum datum.' Cic. Sulla, 90, 'lucisne hanc usuram eripere vis?' Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 175, 'perpetuus nulli datur usus'; Arn. 2, 27, 'omnis enim passio leti atque interitus ianua est, ad mortem ducens via et inevitabilem rebus adferens functionem (necessitas) quam si sentiunt animae et tactui eius atque incursionibus cedunt, usu et illis est vita, non mancipio tradita.' The commonplace that goods are a loan is found in Eur. Ph. 555, Bion ap. Stob. Flor. 105, 56; Eur. Supp. 534 (Heinze). CIL. 1, 1010, 'fortuna spondet multa multis praestat nemini; | vive in dies et horas, nam proprium est nihil'; Sen. Dial. 6, 10, 2, 'mutua accepimus. usus fructusque noster est . . . nos oportet in promptu habere quae in incertum diem data sunt'; id. 11, 10, 4, 'rerum natura illum tibi . . . non mancipio dedit, sed commodavit.

972. respice: cf. 854. — vetus: cf. 774 and n.

973. quam . . . ante for antequam also in 4, 884; quam . . . prius, 6, 979.

974. futuri: participle.

975. post . . . denique: 'in the end after'; denique finis, 1021.

976. An unmusical verse. — ibi: Fronto, ad Caes. 3, 13, 'ne quid ibi e frigore impliciscar,' referring to a future condition. — horribile: Martha, 376, quotes Pascal,

'quand je considère la petite durée de ma vie, absorbée dans l'éternité précédent et suivant, . . . je m'effraye.'

977. omni : 'any'; so Plaut. Aul. 606, 'sine omni suspicione'; sullo is the usual word except in Plaut. and Ter. Juv. 14, 68, 'omni sine labore'; Livy, 9, 6, 3, 'omni morte tristior fuit,' cf. 'ohne alle Gefahr.'—securius : on 211.—exstat : the subject is omne understood from quicquam. Pliny, 7, 190, 'at quanto facilius certiusque sibi quemque credere ac specimen securitatis antegenitali sumere experimentum.' This argument was advanced by Schopenhauer, but, as Guyau (111) points out, non-existence leading to existence is a very different thing to contemplate from existence passing into non-existence and that too against the will. Consolation is easy for never having possessed a good, but difficult for condemnation to future loss. Aristotle is right, φοβερότατος δὲ θάρατος, Nic. Ethics, 3, 6. L. in ignoring this human instinct goes against fact.

978–1023. 'The tales of Acheron are merely reflections of life : Tantalus represents the vain fear of the gods, Tityos is the man tortured by lust and passion, Sisyphus the disappointed politician, the Danaides signify the dissatisfaction of the mind with the blessings of life ; Cerberus, the furies, Tartarus, are imaginary ; but the prison, the executioner, the whip, are the realities ; yes, and the guilty conscience that makes a hell on earth.'

978. Acherunte, on 628. Cf. in general Anth. Pal. 7, 524, al δ' ἀνθοῖς τέ ; | ψευδοι. δὲ Πλούτων ; μῦθοι. ἀπωλόμεθα ; Prop. 3, 5, 39, 'sub terris sint iura deum et tormenta nocentum | . . . an ficta in miseras descendit fabula gentes, | et timor haut ultra quam rogus esse potest.' Cicero, Seneca, and Juvenal ridiculed the infernal torture, and Plato agrees in the explanation when he makes the souls of the guilty covered with hideous scars ; see Martha, 156. Lewis Morris in his Epic of Hades has followed Lucretius' interpretation. There is an interesting excursus by Cort in his Sallust, p. 402.

979. prodita sunt as in Homer λ 576 sq. and after L. in Ovid, M. 4, 432 sq., Aen. 6, 548 sq. But of course occasional references are met with throughout classical literature.—in vita : see on 357. Notice the repetition of vita in 982 (hic, 992), 995, 1014, 1023.

980. aere is abl. of place; not good prose use. The physical impossibility the poet does not notice. Cic. Fin. 1, 60, 'mors quae quasi saxum Tantalo semper impendet, tum superstitione qua qui est imbutus quietus numquam potest' ; cf. Tusc. 4, 35. But in Tusc. 1, 10 he adopts the common story of the tantalizing thirst. Pindar, Euripides, and Plato in the Cratylus, Sophocles, Aeschylus, Archilochus, Alcman, Alcaeus, state the impending rock ; Homer and Horace and many others the food and drink ; Virgil, Aen. 6, 602, Euripides, and Hyginus, Fab. 82, combine the two.—The original form of the legend made T. refrain from food and drink because of the impending rock ; see Phil. 32, 241 ; Siemering, 10. Φόβος Ταρράλου was proverbial—cf. Ribbeck, Proleg. Verg. 62.

981. Tantalus perjured himself according to one account, but there are three other charges against him ; 'exhibuit linguam scelerata paternam,' Ov. M. 6, 213, says of his daughter. Diog. of En. Fr. 12 a 3, φοβοῦμαι γὰρ οὐδὲν διὰ τοῦτο Τίτυρος καὶ τοῦ Ταρράλου, οὐτε ἀγαγράφουσιν ἐπιτίθενται τοῦτο.—ut famast : of general report, occur also in 5, 17, 395, 412.—cassa formidine : cf. 305 and 1049.

982. sed magis, ‘but the truth is.’ ‘L. dicit . . . superstitiones significari,’ Serv. on Aen. 6, 596.

983. mortalis: advisedly instead of humane (80)—casumque, ‘fall,’ chance; metaphorical with reference to the literal fall of the rock.—timent is the fear of cowardice.—fors is constantly used with fero and its compounds, alliteration having some force : see lex. Cf. 1086.

984. Tityon : ‘incontinentis nec Tityi iecur | relinquit ales,’ Hor. C. 3, 4, 77.—ineunt: Wakef. notes that Homer λ 579 has δύορρες. Virg. Ov. Tib. Prop. use no corresponding word in their descriptions.—iacentem: in prostrate helplessness; ‘puer . . . nudus humi iacet, infans,’ 5, 223.

985. quod is object of scrutentur.—magno: ‘Tityo iugera pauca novem,’ Prop.—scrutentur: Aen. 6, 599, has rimatur; L. 6, 809, terrai penitus scrutantes abdita ferro; the birds ‘mine.’—quicquam : obj. of reperire.

986. aetatem : acc. of duration ; cf. 6, 236 and lex. s. v. E; perpetuo aevio, 5, 161.—profecto, ‘you may be certain.’

987. quamlibet with the subj. is not classic, Dr. § 567; it is possible to make existet hortatory and to take quamlibet with immani only.—immani: 460 n.—projectu, ‘bulk,’ is a rare word; the abl. is qualitative. The word, no doubt, suggested projecta cadavera to the reader; T. was dead, yet with sentient feeling.

988. sola, ‘merely.’—dispessis (Turn. edd.), from dispando, is a rare word and form commented on by Gellius, 15, 15; Ov. M. 4, 458 has distantus; Tibull. 1, 3, 75, porrectus; Virgil, porrigitur. Dispersis, OQ.

989. optineat: concessive.

990. asternum: on 466. L. will not admit the possibility of an unnatural existence. ‘Dolor in longinquitate levis, in gravitate brevis soleat esse ut eius magnitudinem celeritas, diuturnitatem adlevatio consoletur,’ Torquatus in Cic. Fin. 1, 40.

991. Note the alliteration throughout this paragraph.—praebere, ‘provide.’ Sen. Thy. 11, ‘nocte reparans quidquid amisit die.’—de, on 213.

992. hic: adv. Serv. on Aen. 6, 596, ‘dicit enim Tityon amorem esse, hoc est libidinem: quae secundum Physicos et Medicos in iecore est; . . . unde etiam exsum a vulture dicitur in poenam renasci; etenim libidini non satisfit re semel peracta, sed recrudescit semper.’—in amore, ‘adstrictos in amore’, 4, 1187.

993. Br. reads *lacerant * atque* with acrumnae in the lacuna; Phil. 27, 56 and Append.; an entire verse to him is lost.—atque, ‘that is to say’; see notes of M. and Heinze. Petronius, Fr. 25 B. interprets the vulture of Prometheus as cordis mala, livor atque luxus. Tibull. 1, 3, 76 has plural: ‘viscere pascit aves.’—anxius angor: repeated 6, 1158, cf. Aen. 9, 89, timor anxius angit, where the assonance seems to be imitated. Angor occurred in 853; it = cura; cf. 903; 2, 19. Cic. Tusc. 3, 27, ‘aegritudo . . . lacerat, exest animum.’ Postgate, Cl. R. 14. 352, proposes stimuli for volucres; Allen, id. 414, veneres, and aegrot for angor.

994. cuppedine (curpedine, OQ) : so spelled in 1, 1082; 4, 1090; 5, 45, but cūpido, in 3, 59, 1077; so lammina, 1017; vaccillans, 504. Cf. 5, 45, ‘quantae tum scindunt hominem cuppedinis acres | sollicitum curae’; hence Cartault would read aliae; Br. after Bruno, aliae quoius . . . cuppedini. Cooper, Sermo Pleb. 46, regards cupedo as vulgar.

995. ‘Sisyphus versat | saxum sudans nitendo neque proficit hilum’ (Lucilius?)

in Cic. Tusc. 1, 10. The labor is futile below just as it was on the earth. Sisyphus was exceeding crafty; his offence is not quite plain. — in vita, belongs to this world. Phaedrus, App. 5, rationalizes: Sisyphus ‘ostendit hominum sine fine miserias’; Tantalus ‘avari . . . quos circumfluit usus bonorum, sed nil possunt tangere’; Danaides, ‘luxuriae quicquid dederis perfluet’; Tityos, ‘quo quis maiorem possidet terrae locum, hoc demonstratur cura graviore adfici.’ — ante oculos: on 185.

996. Hor. Ep. 1, 16, 33, ‘ut si | detulerit fascis indigno, detrahet idem. | “Pone meum est” inquit; pono tristisque recedo’; cf. L 3, 65. — populo: populi fasces occurs in Georg. 2, 495. — saevasque secures: 5, 1234; Aen. 6, 919. The reference is to candidacy for the consulship or praetorship, i.e. for imperium; the axes were not carried within the pomoerium (Willems, Droit<sup>6</sup>, 238).

997. imbibit, ‘is bent on’; poenas petere inbibat, 6, 72.

998. petere is common in candidacy for office. — inane: 2, 38, ‘proficiunt neque nobilitas nec gloria regni.’ — datur: dare, mandare, and accipere imperium belong to the publicist’s language. ‘Semel repulsi petitores ambire non desinunt,’ Serv. l.c. The result must always be vain in spite of apparent success; cf. 5, 1129.

999. eo: sc. petere. — sufferre laborem: 460 n. Hor. C. 2, 14, 19, ‘damnatusque longi | Sisyphus Aeolides laboris,’ Epicurus’ precepts were μῆτρα τολμεῖσθαι and λάθε βιώσας.

1000. The metre illustrates the sense of difficulty. — adverso monte, ‘up a hill’ so 4, 423, in adversum flumen, ‘up the stream.’ Cf. on 293 for the abl. — nixantem is a rare word occurring in 6, 836; 4, 506; Aen. 5, 279; it implies greater effort than nitor.

1001. e: (supplied by Pont.) of motion from the surface; 5, 1125, tamen e summo; id. 946, montibus e magnis decursus aquai; 1, 283 (n.), 1086. — russum for rursum; see on 45. There was a god Rusor; S. August. CD. 7, 23 end, ‘Rusori quare? quod rursus, inquit (Varro), cuncta eodem revolvuntur.’

1002. aequora campi closes the verse in Enn. Ann. 137; aequore campi, Aen. 7, 781. Hom. λ 598, αὐτίς οὐειτα πέδοντε κυλίνθητο λᾶας ἀκαδής. The rhythm is opposite of that in 1000.

1003. ingratam: on 937. — naturam: on 43. — pascere: subject infin. (see on 4, 765) with explere, satiare, represented by hoc, 1008.

1004. atque, ‘and yet.’ — explere: edd. quote Nonius, who cites this passage, ‘expleri et satiari hanc habent differentiam: expleri est tantummodo plenum esse, satiari supra modum et abundantiam.’ They seem to be synonyms here and in 4, 1093–1102. L. sometimes uses two synonymous verbs to add to the weight or beauty of the thought; cf. 2, 154; 5, 1235; and on 3, 291. — satiareque: see on 1, 666.

1005. faciunt represents pascere; the seasons bring food. 5, 552, quod facere 1045, facere id, 1269, facere haec. Quod fit would be plainer. Ribbeck, Rh.M. 30, 633 would read quom satiant omnes; Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 322, facimus . . . circum dum; Lachm. victum for circum. — nobis: for humanity, as frequently. — annorum: 5, 220, ‘cur anni tempora morbos | adportant?’ Personal also in 2, 32; the puellae. — 1008. — circum cum redeunt represents the Homeric περιπλοκέων ἔνιαυτῶν; cf. — solis redeuntibus annis, 1, 311; solis volventia lustra, 5, 931. Circum redire is for — circumeunte redire; here again egestas linguae troubled him.

1006. fetus: on 1, 193. — ferunt: one of the Hours was called Pherusa: Hyginus —

183. — lepores: 5, 1376, ‘vario distincta lepore’ of the beauty of a landscape; lepores here of the delight of the mind as well. One of the Hours was named Thallo.

1007. nec tamen: on 231. Men fail to be satisfied with the gifts of Nature: so the girls cannot fill their vessels.—fructibus corresponds to fetus; cf. commoda, 937.

1008. hoc is inserted to gather up the distant subjects with emphasis; Madv. LG. 489 a. — aevo florente: also of pueri in 5, 888; equus florenti aetate, id. 1074. Cf. 1, 564. — puellas, ‘brides,’ the daughters of Danaus who killed their husbands. This fable of the punishment of the Danaids comes mainly from Roman poets (so of Ixion); in the early legend they were purified by Athene and Hermes; the punishment, however, was known, but with no definite application; see Kiesling on Hor. C. 3, 11. L. does not wish here to emphasize their guilt, hence he does not name them.

1009. quod, 754 n.; and for repetition in 1008–1009, cf. 820. — pertusum: 936. Bion the Borystenite thought that the water ought to have been carried in full buckets as a greater punishment (DL. Bion, 3).

1010. nulla ratione: on 1, 153. — potestur: poteratur, possit, possetur, also occur in archaic Latin; cf. queatur, 1, 1045; Dr. § 93. Note that the use is with passive verbs.

1011. Cerberus: ‘nemo tam puer est ut Cerberum timeat,’ Sen. Epf. 24, 18. There is doubtless a lacuna after this verse (so M. Br. Bail.); Munro’s stopgap is ‘are idle tales, as well as all the rest, Ixion’s wheel and black’ Tartarus. Lachm. reads with Marullus egenus Tartarus, and Heinze sees no lacuna in spite of the missing verb and the qui of 1013; he suggests that Ixion may not have been mentioned by L.’s authorities; but it is by no means certain that L. mentioned Ixion in the lacuna. Serv. l.c. although omitting any reference to the Danaides says ‘per rotam autem ostendit negotiatores,’ where Bernays and Heinze think he is explaining Virgil, not L. But Ixion is constantly mentioned in the catalogues, e.g. Juv. 13, 51, ‘nec rota nec Furiae nec saxum aut vulturis atri | poena’; cf. Ov. M. 4, 465; Tib. 1, 3, 73. Ellis defends the lacuna by an old gloss on Macr. § 14 of SS. 1, 10, illos radiis rotarum: ‘aliter Lucretius negotiatoris qui ambire non desinunt’ (J. Phil. 20, 159). Purmann, Phil. 3, 66, does not think Ixion was mentioned, and Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 778, limits the lacuna to one verse. Giuss., *potestur *Cerberus . . . egestas *Tartarus. —iam vero*, ‘further.’

1012. Tartarus: on 628. — faucibus with omitted e, 218 n. 6, 639, ‘per fauces montis ut Aetnae | expirant ignes’; Aen. 7, 785, ‘Chimaeram . . . efflantem fauci- bus ignis’; id. 6, 295, ‘Tartarei . . . Acherontis . . . gurges | aestuat atque omnem Cocyto eructat harenam.’ — aestus: of fire or heat; 6, 364, ‘permiscet frigus et aestum’; 1, 300 n.

1013. qui neque: quid? neque, Lachm. — profecto, ‘for a fact’; here = ut opinor. — A like incredulity in Cic. ND. 2, 5; Claud. 171; Juv. 2, 152; etc. Sen. Dial. 6, 19, 4, ‘illa quae nobis inferos faciunt terribiles, fabulam esse, nullas immi- nere mortuis tenebras . . . luserunt ista poetae (L. 1, 102 sq.) et vanis nos agitavere terroribus’; Arn. 2, 30, ‘et quis erit tam brutus et rerum consequentias nesciens, qui animis incorruptibilis credat aut tenebras Tartareas posse aliquid nocere aut igneos fluvios aut caenosis gurgitibus paludes aut rotarum volubilium circumactus?’

1014. in vita: 357 n., 5, 1151, 'metus maculat poenarum praemia vitae.'

1015. insignibus insignis, 'signal as the deeds are signal,' M.; 'the mighty pains to mighty mischiefs due,' Dryden. See on 71.—luella, ἀτρ. λεγ., 'expiation.'

1016. saxo: 'L. Pituanus saxo deiectus est' (i.e. Tarpeio), Tac. Ann. 2, 32.—iactu' : on 52.—deorsum is hardly necessary; 6, 1021, 'sursum . . . consurgere,' and 3, 27 n.

1017. robur is probably some instrument of torture made of wood, such as a rack or stake; it is not likely that L. would introduce a synonym of carcer amid other tortures even if robur = Tullianum is common elsewhere. Anth. Lat. R. 1, 415, 32, 'spes et in horrendo robore parva manet.' Carcer was frequently used for Tullianum.—pix: 'te pix atra agitet apud carnuficem tuoque capiti inluceat,' Plaut. Capt. 596.—lammina: 'ventres lamna candente nepotum . . . urendos,' Hor. Ep. 1, 15, 36; cf. on 504.—taedae: 'taeda lucebis in illa | qua stantes ardent, qui fixo gutture fumant,' Juv. 1, 155.

1018. conscia, 'conscience-stricken.' For the syntax cf. 6, 393, 'nulla sibi conscientia in re'; Aen. 1, 604, 'mens sibi conscientia recti.' But factis may be dative; if so sibi must be taken with praemetuens adhibet as conscientia does not regularly take two datives; Madv. LG. 289, 2.

1019. praemetuens is very rare.—torret, OQ, Giuss.; terret, Lachm. M. Br. Bail. Lachm. excludes torreo flagellis for uro f., which is unexampled, in spite of Prop. 3, 24, 13, 'correptus saevo Veneris torrebar aheno,' or Hor. C. 3, 9, 13, 'me torret face mutua.' Torret flagellis is as forcible as adhibet stimulos, but terret is weak and torquet (Heins. Heinze) unnecessary. Note that the tortures of 1017 are mainly fiery. Juv. 13, 194, 'mens habet attonitos et surdo verbere caedit, | occultum quatiens animo tortore flagellum'; id. 2, 'se | iudice nemo nocens absolvitur'; Sen. Ep. 87, 24, 'atqui maximum scelerum supplicium in ipsis est.' Tennyson, Sea Dreams, 'Ever bears about | A silent court of justice in his breast, | Himself the judge and jury and himself | The prisoner at the bar, ever condemned.'

1020. interea: while in this condition.

1021. poenarum: these they fancy will have no end, even if death is usually the terminus malorum.

1022. Note the alliteration.—magis with gravescant.—in morte: 'after death'; on 866.—gravescant is poetical; cf. 4, 1069; 6, 337.

1023. hic, OQ, edd., sc. in terra; cf. 992, and 6, 140, and see on 322. Hinc, Pontanus, Br. Purmann Jahrb. 115, 277.—Acherusia is an adjective. 'Hell lies near | Around us as does Heaven,' Lewis Morris. 'The mind is its own place, and in itself | Can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven'; and 'For within him Hell | He brings, and round about him, nor from Hell | One step, no more than from himself can fly | By change of place,' Milton. The conception goes back at least to Democritus: ξυρειδθοις (δε) τῆς ἐν τῷ βίῳ κακοπρηγμοσύνῃς, τὸν τῆς βιοτῆς χρόνον ἐν ταραχῇσι καὶ φέβοισι ταλαιπωρέουσι, apud Stob. 120, 20; see Phil. 29, 612. Rohde, Psyche, 2, 179, traces the conception to Empedocles, who knew no underworld. The furies as symbolical of the tortures of the guilty conscience are referred to by Cicero in Rosc. Amer. 67 and elsewhere.—stultorum: like the Stoics the Epicureans divided mankind into sapientes and stulti, δρόγροι. Cic. Fin. 1, 62, 'cum stultorum vitam cum sua comparat magna afficitur volupitate.' Bossuet, 'comprends.'

δέ πέcheur, que tu portes ton enfer en toi-même.' The 4th Council of the Lateran condemned the tenet 'infernum non esse locum specialem, sed eum qui in statu peccati mortalium versatur, in se ipso habere infernum.' — denique, 'to sum it all up.'

1024—1052. 'Consider: Ancus had to die and many other kings and potentates, Xerxes, Scipio, Homer, Democritus, Epicurus himself; will you then think it a hardship,—you who are half dead already, terrified by fears and wandering in error?'

1024. tute is general, 135 n.; for the form, metrically convenient, 627 n.—possis: 213 n.

1025. lumina is the light of day; 542 n.—sis for suis, like sam, sum, sos, from an old pron. stem; cf. svo, 1, 1022, and Lindsay, LL. 428.—oculis was regarded as a dative by Festus, who quotes Ennius; approved by Heinze.—bonus is a standing epithet of Ancus Martius, perhaps from his supposed favoring of the plebeians (Lange, Röm. Alterth. I, 429). Enn. Ann. 149, postquam lumina sis oculis bonus Ancu' reliquit. Cf. also Hor. Ep. 1, 6, 27, 'ire tamen restat, Numa quo devenit et Ancus'; C. 4, 7, 14, 'nos ubi decidimus | quo pater Aeneas, quo dives Tullus et Ancus.' 'Death lays his icy hands on kings | Sceptre and crown | Must tumble down | And in the dust be equal made,' Shirley. 'But kings and mightiest potentates must die, | For that's the end of human misery,' King Henry VI, 3, 2. —Ancu': only certain case in L. of elision of s in a proper noun.

1026. melior: κατθανε καὶ Πάτροκλος, δ τερ στο πολλὸν δυειρών, Hom. Φ 107.—improbœ, 'outrageous,' makes the 5th foot in Aen. 4, 386, Hor. S. 2, 2, 104; 3, 200; Pers. 4, 47. He outrages decency in his expectations; δραδῆς, M.

1027. reges rerumque potentes: also in 2, 50. Tr. 'princes and potentates' to keep the alliteration.

1028. occiderunt: 86 n. 'Occidit et Pelopis génitor conviva deorum,' Hor. C. 1, 28, 7.—magnis: for emphasis as in Aen. 1, 148, 'veluti magno in populo,' and Horace's imitation, S. 1, 6, 4, 'qui magnis legionibus imperitarent'; there is Ennian influence here.—gentibus: 1, 119, per gentis Italas hominum.—imperitarunt is used instead of the metrically impossible imperarunt as in Hor. S. 1, 6, 4; 2, 7, 81; cf. Enn. Ann. 427, induperantum.

1029. ille: Xerxes was a stock example (so much so that his name here is unnecessary) from the beginning of the rhetorical schools (Mayor on Juv. 10, 173) to the New England Primer: 'Xerxes the great did die, and so must you and I.' Cic. Fin. 2, 112, 'Xerxes cum . . . maria ambulavisset, terram navigavisset'; Catull. 66, 45, 'cum Medi peperere novum mare cumque iuventus | per medium classi barbara navit Athon'; cf. Isocr. 4, 89; Plato, Legg. 3, 699 a. Brandt, Rh. M. 38, 606, finds a reminiscence in Incerti Panegyr. V, p. 137, 1, 'nec insultavit elemento.'—viam is the bridge over the Hellespont: Enn. Ann. 378, isque Hellesponto pontem contendit in alto.—magnum is a constant epithet of the sea, due probably to alliteration; retained here although the Hellespont was not strictly wide; in 6, 144 and 615 it means merely 'mighty'; in 2, 1 and 553 'boisterous.' Val. Max. 1, 50, 'magni numen maris excitat Helle.'

1030. iter is object of dedit and ire = quo irent; Aen. 5, 260, 'loricam . . . donat habere viro'; cf. on 86.—legionibus, 'armies,' as in 2, 40.

1031 is bracketed by Lachm. as an intolerable pleonasm. Juv. 'suppositumque rotis solidum mare.' Winck. sees in 1030 a reference to troops, in 1031, to infantry, in 1032, to cavalry; Purmann rightly holds that Xerxes' might is the emphatic thought. — super ire, OQ, edd.; superare, Marull. M. — lucunas: of the sea; salsus lacunis, 5, 794; see on 186.

1032. contempsit: 259 n. — insultans: literal. Gifan. comp. Culex, 33, 'non Hellespontus pedibus pulsatus equorum.' — murmura is always a loud, terrifying noise in L.; e.g. 1, 276. Aen. 1, 124, 'miseri murmur pontum.'

1033. lumine: 542 n. — corpore: prep. is omitted in 5, 812; de is written in 4, 53. — fudit: cf. 700.

1034. Scipiadas: the elder Africanus, as the next verse shows the influence of Ennius. The form is hybrid, like Memmiadae, 1, 26; Scipiadam, Hor. S. 2, 1, 17; Scipiadas, sing. in Lucil. inc. 57, pl. in Georg. 2, 170. Scipionides is inadmissible in the hexameter and Scipio in most cases. Romulides, Tuscolides, Appiades, are also hybrids; Müller. RM. 389; Roby, LG. 475. — fulmen: Cic. Balb. 34, duo fulmina nostri imperii . . . Cn. et P. Scipiones; Aen. 6, 842, duo fulmina belli | Scipiadas; id. 12, 654, fulminat Aeneas. Scott calls Nelson a thunderbolt of war. M. suggests that Scipio was connected in thought with σκύρτος, thunderbolt, in family pride. Val. Max. 3, 5, 1, 'di boni quas tenebras ex quo fulmine nasci passi estis' of the degeneracy of the son of Africanus Maior. — Carthaginis: so Athenae is personified in 6, 2. — horror: 742 n. M. shows from Silius, Seneca, Culex, that Carthaginis horror and the like became traditional; e.g. Sen. Ep. 86, 5, 'ille Carthaginis horror'; Sil. 15, 340, 'iacet campus Carthaginis horror.'

1036. adde: 829 n. — repertores: 'inventas aut qui vitam excoluere per artes,' Aen. 6, 663. — doctrinarum, 'sciences.' — leporum, 'arts,' 1006 n. Catullus' book was a lepidum libellum, but the expression is not limited to poetry. Lepos, of L.'s own poetry, 1, 28, 934.

1037. Heliconiadum is not quoted elsewhere. — comites: Μονάρχων θεάτρον; Musarum comitem, Aen. 9, 775; Musae comitem, Prop. 3, 2, 13; so comes of a client in Hor. Ep. 1, 18, 30; see Kiesling there. — quorum unus: Prop. 1, 7, 3, 'primo contendit Homero'; Hor. C. 4, 9, 5, 'prior tenet sedes.' Hertz, Phil. 6, 34, thought Hor. AP. 359, dormitat Homerus, was a misunderstanding of L., but cf. Quint. 10, 1, 24, 'cum Ciceroni dormitare interim Demosthenes, Horatio vero Homerus ipse videatur.' — Homerus is praised in a digression in 1, 117, 'qui primus amoeno | detulit ex Helicone perenni fronde coronam'; cf. also the laudation of Empedocles, 1, 729. In both passages L. takes some trouble to give honor.

1038. In general cf. Mundi Vanitas of Iacoponus, 13, 'Dic ubi Salomon, olim tam nobilis, | vel ubi Samson est, dux invincibilis, | vel pulcher Absalom, vultu mirabilis, | vel dulcis Ionathan, multum amabilis? | quo Caesar abiit celsus imperio, | vel Dives splendidus, totus in prandio? | dic, ubi Tullius, clarus eloquio, | vel Aristoteles, summus ingenio?' — sceptra: for the case, see on 734. Σκῆπτρον Οὐρανος ἔχει,

Anth. Pal. 7, 409, 6.—aliis: cf. 4, 1174, ‘eadem facit . . . omnia turpi’; 2, 919, ‘animalia . . . mortalibus una eademque’; Hor. AP. 467, ‘idem facit occidenti.’ The construction is found in Ovid and the later poets and in Pliny; cf. Schmalz, Synt. § 90. Brenous, Hellenismes, 152, proves it a grecism: Xen. Anab. 3, 1, 27, εἰ ταῦτῷ γε μέντοι ἡσθα τόντος; see Roby, 1143, 6.—aliis for ceteris is common in Livy; Dr. § 55; here ‘all others,’ as in Hor. C. I. 3, 4.

1039. denique, as often, merely introduces another case.—Democritum, OQ, edd.; Democritus, Bentl. Heinze; advancing years warned him of the decay of his faculties, of memory particularly. ‘Αρ्थημος θάρατος δεδούκτρες γηράσκειν έθέλουσι was one of his remarks, Mor. Fr. 53.—matura: he died at 90; others say at 109. There is no certainty in the varied accounts of his death: Zeller, Phil. I<sup>6</sup>, 841–845.

1040. Note the alliteration.—memores: on 859.—motus mentis is consistent with Epicurean philosophy; cf. 240.—4, 765, ‘meminisse iacet languetque sopore.’ ‘Memores motus would produce memory, and thereby the power of consistent thought,’ M.

1041. obvius: on 384. Aen. 10, 552, ‘obvius ardentī sese obtulit’; note the pleonasm, due probably to alliteration, like obvius obstes, 4, 1150.—D. is said to have died from voluntary starvation.

1042. Epicurus: named here only by L. Stanley translates ‘Great Epicurus died, his Lives race run | Whose Wit Mankind exceeded, as the Sun | Eclipseth by his Rising all the stars.’ Καὶ δὲ Ἡρακλῆς ἀπέθανεν, Inscript. Sic. et Ital. 1806. Obēis ἀθάρατος was common both in Pagan and Christian inscriptions; Rohde, Psyche, 2, 395.—obit, Flor. 31, edd.; obii, OQ; iit, Lachm., who maintained that obit for obii could not stand here before a consonant; cf. Leo, Plaut. Forsch. 286, who objects to -us before a vowel; cf. famul, 1035, but obvius obiit, 1041. Mart. Spect. 161, ‘raptus abit media,’ and 11, 82, 3, ‘imitatus obit saevis.’ Vollmer on Stat. Silv. 5, 2, 12, gives a list of cases of -it for -iit in Statius. Subit tibi is the only one before a consonant; there Queck reads ibi. Juv. 6, 563, perit cui; 8, 85, perit ceneit. Lachm. is refuted by Munro, and Müller RM<sup>2</sup>, 508; redit, 3, 502; init, 4, 339, perit, 771. Winck. arranges ipse obiit decurso Epicurus lumina vitae; cf. Polle, Phil. 26, 336.—decurso: spatio, 4, 1196 (Cic. CM. 83; Plaut. Stich. 81) is the usual metaphor. For the pass. cf. morte obita, 1, 135. ‘Ita (de)cucurrit vitam,’ Carm. Epigr. 1, 91, 10. Finito lumine vitae occurs in Meyer’s Anthol. 1164, 8. The ordinary metaphor was extincto lumine; here the two are mixed.—ipse: the master.

1043. Lactantius quotes this (3, 17, 28) with bitter scorn, adding, ‘itaque poeta inanissimus leonis laudibus murem non ornavit sed obruit et obtrivit.’—ingenio: 453 n. ‘The philosopher Lucretius could free himself from the God-idea, the poet cannot; his God is Epicurus,’ Hachez, 10. The epigram of Leonidas on Homer (Anth. Pal. 9, 24) may be compared: Μοτρα μὲν ἡμάτρωσε καὶ λεπτὰ κύκλα σελήνης | ἀξοναὶ διστρίχας ἔμπυρος ἡλίου | ὑμοκοπόλες δὲ ἀγεληδὸν ἀπημάλδυνες Ὄμηρος | λαμπρότατος Μουσῶν φέγγος ἀνασχόμενος.

1044. aetherius sol occurs in 5, 215, 267, 281, 389; cf. Aen. 8, 68; ‘sidera autem aetherium lumen obtinent,’ Cic. ND. 2, 42; Anth. Pal. 12, 59, ἄλλα Μυτόκος | λαβεσσεν ἐκλάμψας δαστέρας ἡλίου.

1045. indignabere: on 870. ‘Thy lot is the common lot of all.’—obire: Brenous, Hell. 286, suggests that the infn. may be due to dubitari; but see on 75.

1046. morta vita, oxymoron, 779 n. 'Vestra . . . quae dicitur vita mors est,' Cic. Rep. 6, 14.—vivo atque videnti: proverbial; 'vivus, ut aiunt, est et videns,' Cic. Sest. 59; 'huic acerbissimum vivo videntique funus dicitur,' Quinct. 50; in L also, 5, 993, 'viva videntis vivo sepeliri viscera busto.' Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 92, cites other passages and compares vivo praesenti, Plaut. Most. 427; ζων καὶ θρῶν.

1047. conteris, 'waste,' is frequently used of time.—aevi: 5, 1431, 'curis consumit inanibus aeovem.'

1048. vigilans stertis: hic vigilans somniat, Plaut. Capt. 845; cf. Amph. 697; Men. 395; vigilans dormiat, Pseud. 386; vigilanti stertere naso, Juv. 1, 57.—somnia: 'visions.'—cessas is properly a result of slothfulness.

1049. sollicitam, 'all stirred up,' from the etymology.—geris (= habes) animum is not uncommon; see lex.; cf. gestat = kabet, Hor. C. 1, 8, 10; in corde gerens furores, Catull. 64, 54, and habendo = gestando, L. 1, 312. In general, 1, 104, 'quam multa tibi iam fingere possunt | somnia quae vitae rationes vertere possint.'—cassa: on 981.

1050. nec . . . saepe, 'nor oftentimes'; saepe qualifies the principal clause, although in the subordinate one, as in 913; 2, 85, etc.—mali: with quid, 'what is the matter.'

1051. ebrius: reeling like a drunken man. Cf. μεθύειν &<sup>ξ</sup> δρυντών; Theocr. 20, 98, ἔστη δὲ πληγαῖς μεθών.—urgeris: cf. 982.

1052. fluitans, 'drifting'; 4, 1077, 'fluctuat incertis erroribus ardor amantum'; 1124, 'aegrotat fama vacillans'; Aen. 5, 867, 'amiso fluitantem errare magistro'; Hor. S. 2, 3, 269, 'caeca fluitantia sorte laboreti | reddere certa sibi.' For the double metaphor, cf. Kraetsch, 74.—vagaris: Cic. Off. 2, 7, 'ii quorum vagetur animus errore nec habeat umquam quid sequatur.'

1053–1075. 'If men understood the cause of the burdens they bear, they would alter their way of life and not try by change to escape from themselves; they would give themselves up to the study of Nature, for the stake is not for an hour but for all eternity.'

1053. Si: 170 n.—sentire: they feel the burden but know not the cause.—videntur: passive; 182 n.

1054. animo, like sensus animantibus insunt, 6, 984, is probably an abl. as Hertz, Holtze, and Hidén take it.

1055. e: on 157.—quoque: with noscere, 349 n.—unde: et unde closes the verse in 876; 4, 929; Pers. 3, 68.

1056. moles: 'burden'; Cic. 3 Cat. 17, 'molem mali'; 1 Cat. 23, 'molem invidiae'; Tac. Ann. 12, 66, 'mole curarum'; without tamquam, which is the sign of a simile here.

1057. vitam agerent: agere aetatem, 4, 1136; 3, 672; aevom, 5, 82; tempore, 3, 832.—plerumque videmus: also in 4, 974; p. putant, 4, 1236; putantur, 4, 1265.

1058. quisque represents homines, 1053; cf. ille, 1060; quisque, 1068, 1071; mortalibus, 1074. Quisque and not quemque is the rule where there is a choice as here; Madv. LG. 495.—quaerere commutare: 516 n. 'Vbi satias fieri coepit commuto locum,' Ter. Eun. 973 (H.). The old edd. followed by Br. punctuate after semper; Bentl. and Lachm. removed the point; the restlessness is the important matter.

1059. onus: omnis curas doloresque deponerem, Cic. Fam. 4, 6, 2. ‘Stultus uterque locum immeritum causatur inique,’ Hor. Ep. 1, 14, 12.

1060. foras: 37 n.; notice foris, 1062. For pleonasm, see on 772.—magnis is important.—aedibus is here (1) a mansion having many apartments, (2) a town house, opp. of villa, 1065.—ille, ‘such a one.’

1061. pertaesumst is stronger than taesumst. ‘Adde quod idem | non horam tecum esse potes, non otia recte | ponere,’ Hor. S. 2, 7, 111; ‘ades abesse via, abes reverti cupis,’ Auct. ad Her. 4, 21.—revertit is supplied by Politian, edd.; cf. 5, 1153; revisit, Proll, 46. Nencini proposes rebetit (BPW. 15, 1134); Bergk, esse domi semper quem pertaesumst subitoque; Polle, Phil. 26, 278, adamat rus.

1062. nilo melius, ‘and finds there’s no relief in open air,’ Dryden.

1063. mannos is a Gallic word for ‘pony,’ occurring first here, and rarely in other authors. They were a ‘fancy’ animal, not intended for hard work (Archiv, 7, 318). Hor. Epod. 4, 14, ‘et Appiam mannis terit.’ In general: ‘Romae Tibur amem ventosus, Tibure Romam,’ Hor. Ep. 1, 8, 12; ‘Romae rus optas absentem rusticus urbem | tollis ad astra levis,’ S. 2, 7, 28; Sen. Ep. 28. M. Arnold, Obermann once more, ‘In his cool hall with haggard eyes, | The Roman noble lay; | He drove abroad in furious guise, | Along the Appian way; | He made a feast, drank fierce and fast, | And crown’d his hair with flowers— | No easier nor no quicker pass’d | The impracticable hours.’—praecipitanter occurs only here in classical authors; the word seems to imitate the hoof-beats.

1064. instans, ‘corpus de terra corripere instant,’ 4, 998 and n.

1065. tetigit: ‘fas illi limina divum | tangere,’ Georg. 4, 358. See on 770. Pongerville quotes Boileau: ‘Un fou rempli d’erreurs, que le trouble accompagne, | est malade à la ville, ainsi qu’à la campagne.’

1066. Sen. Dial. 9, 12, 3, has the same course of thought: ‘vagantur querentes negotia . . . quorundam quasi ad incendium currentium misereris . . . domum cum supervacua redeuntes lassitudine urant nescisse se ipsos quare exierint,’ etc.—abit, ‘goes off.’—gravis, ‘heavily’; 2 King Henry IV, 3, 1, ‘O gentle sleep—how have I frightened thee, | That thou no more will weigh my eyelids down.’ Q. Curt. 7, 6, 18, ‘gravesque epulis et somno.’—atque, ‘which means.’—oblivia: ‘ducere sollicitae iucunda oblivia vitae,’ Hor. S. 2, 6, 62; see on 828. M. gives the full expression from Ov. Her. 14, 33, ‘cibo vinoque graves somnoque iacebant.’

1067. etiam: he even returns in the same hot haste.—urbem, ‘quod commune est et aliis nomen, intellectu alicui rei peculiariter tribuitur; ut urbem, Romam accipimus,’ Quint. 8, 2, 8. Edd. quote Enn. Sc. 240, ‘imus huc illuc hinc; cum illuc ventum est ire illinc lubet’; cf. Hor. Ep. 1, 1, 80 sq. and 1, 14, 14, ‘tu mediastinus tacita prece rure petebas, | nunc urbem et ludos et balnea vilicus optas.’

1068. fugitat, quem: Madv. Adv. II, 24, Br. Heinze, Bail.; fugit at quem, OQ, Giuss., cf. Note L. 40; fugit (at . . . haeret) et, M.; fugit: at quom, Lachm.; cf. Cartault, 80. Sen Dial. 9, 2, 14, quotes hoc se quisque modo semper fugit with the comment ‘sed quid prodest si non effugit? sequitur se ipse et urget gravissimus comes’; id. NQ. 4, 1, ‘turbam hominum rerumque desiderent qui se pati nesciunt.’ Seneca does not quote with accuracy here, and fugitat occurs six times in L., a synonym of fugit (I had thought of fugit et). Hor. C. 2, 16, 19, ‘patriae quis exul | se quoque fugit?’ Byron, Childe Harold, 1, 1, ‘What exile from himself can flee? | To zones though more and more remote, | Still, still pursues, where'er I be, | The blight of life, the demon Thought.' — quem scilicet, i.e. se fugit, scilicet cum quem neque effugit neque effugere potest.

1069. effugere implies successful flight.—potis est, 1079 n.—ingratia: this spelling occurs in 5, 44; 6, 15, 216; Gell. 17, 1, 7; but the orthography is not definite (Neue-Wagener, 2, 609). This is the earliest occurrence of ingratia as a trisyllable; it is always a quadrisyl. in Plautus: Archiv, 4, 402. OQ have ingratius, which Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 138, retains.—haeret: Hor. S. 2, 7, 26, 'haeres | nequam caeno cupiens eveltere plantam.'—odit: Hor. S. 2, 1, 23, 'cum sibi quisque timet, quamquam est intactus, et odit,' also absolute.

1070. morbis: mali, 1056.—tenet: 649 n.

1071. relictis rebus: 'leaving everything'; see lex. 'relinquo'; rebus omissis, Hor. Eph. 1, 5, 30; 'ego relictis rebus Epidicum operam quaerendo dabo,' Plaut. Epid. 605; 'eru me relictis rebus iussit,' Ter. And. 412; see Wagner there; Plaut. Truc. 236, 'relictis rebus rem perdit.'

1072. Epic. ad Men. 122, Μήτε νέος τις διν μελλέτω φίλοσοφεῖν, μήτε γέρων ὑπάρχων κοιτατῷ φίλοσοφῷ. οὐτε γάρ διὸς οὐδὲς ἔστιν οὐτε πάρωρος πρὸς τὸ κατὰ ψυχὴν ὕγιαν. The ardor of this whole description may imply L.'s personal experience; 'the storm of the soul,' as Epicurus called it, was ended. See on 16.

1073. temporis aeterni: cf. 973. Kannengiesser would transfer 1073–1075 to follow 1089, Susemihl to follow 1094 (Phil. 27, 57).—unius: on 97.

1074. ambigitur is a juristic word, 'the matter in doubt is'; status has also juristic coloring, 5, 829, 'ex alioque alias status excipere omnia debet.'

1075. aetas, 'time': 449 n.—cumque, manenda, Lamb. edd.; cumque manenda, Lachm. M.: manenda, Lamb. edd.; manendo, OQ, Wakef. Heinze; cf. 6, 333. Manebit, in 1091, is transitive, and also in 2, 1088, etc. Martha, 166, says these last three lines are the real conclusion, not of the third book only, but of the entire system.

1076–1094. 'Why then be so eager for life in troubles and dangers? Death cannot be avoided, and in prolonging life no new pleasure can be found. Live as long as you may with dubious fortune, everlasting death awaits you; the same end comes to all.'

1076. Denique: hear the conclusion of it all.—dubiis: on 55. Lange remarks (1, 148) 'one might often fancy one's self listening to a Rationalist of the last [18th] century except that we are in the sphere of classical ideas.'

1077. mala, 'cowardly.' Dira cupido, in the same connection in Aen. 6, 373, 721.—subigit is rarely found with the infin.; cf. 5, 1028; 6, 736.—vitai: but vitae, 1078.

1078. certa: life is certain to end; Heinze thinks this is un-Epicurean: 'you can't live forever' is Epicurean, 'you must die at some definite time' is Stoic; but L. does not intend certa to have such a fatalistic meaning.—quidem 'you may be sure.' OQ, certe equidem (Heinze), which is plainly un-Lucretian. L. does not use equidem elsewhere certainly (Jordan, Krit. Beitr. 326); certe occurs in 4, 760. Certa quidem, Avanc. edd.—adstat, 'awaits.'

1079. Notice the gravity of the spondees.—letum, 'destruction.'—pote without esse occurs only here in L. against potis est eleven times and twice e coni., potis es once. Potis and pote are parallel forms like magis, mage; Ennius has potis alone.

Leo, Plaut. Forsch. 264, maintains that pote and potis, mage and magis, fabulare and fabularis, and the like, are similar forms, differing only in pronunciation and therefore in orthography. But cf. Stolz, LG. 269, 317, Hist. Gr. 346; Lindsay, LL. 533.

1080. ibidem: 4, 1014; 6, 125, etc.; see lex.

1081. nova: Sen. Dial. 10, 7, 9, ‘quid enim est quod iam ulla hora novae voluptatis possit adferre? omnia nota, omnia ad satietatem percepta sunt.’ ‘First our pleasures die, and then | Our hopes, and then our fears, and when | These are dead, the debt is due,’ Shelley. See on 945.—vivendo: on 948.—procuditur: the metaphor is that of forging (2, 1115, ignem ignes procudunt) or hammering, the literal meaning as in 5, 1265, mucronum duci fastigia procudendo; in other places the metaphor is lost in the idea of mere production. Wakefield thought of ‘coining’; ‘for the atomists identical with procreatur,’ Bock.

1082. dum abeat: for the hiatus, cf. cum odore, 2, 681; cum eo, 6, 276; nūm adest, Hor. S. 2, 2, 28; see L. Müller, RM. 278; Hermann, El. Doct. Metr. 62; Lachm. 130; Fleckeisen, Jahrb. 61, 49; Klotz, Altr. Metr. 121.—avenus, cf. 957.

1083. 5, 1414, ‘posteriorque fere melior res illa reperta | perdit et immutat sensus ad pristina quaeque.’—post: adv.—contigit: of evil in 6, 710.

1084. sitis: with vitai.—aqua, ‘the same.’—hiantis, ‘open-mouthed,’ continues the metaphor.

1085. in dubio: 836. The clause is subject of est.—vehat = advehat. The proverbial Necis quid vesper serus vehat was the title of one of Varro’s satires.

1086. Cf. 983.—exitus: euphemism for mors.

1087. nec prorsum: 45 n.—ducendo = producendo, as often; see lex. Notice the gerund where the gerundive might be expected; Roby, 1384. Städler, 42, states Lucretian usage to be gerund with abl. and gen.; gerundive with dat., acc., and prep. phrases; comp. 1, 585, 1026, etc. with 1, 59, 184; 3, 238; 5, 80, etc. 1, 1005, ‘nec prorsum facere ut restet minus ire meando.’—hilum: 220 n.

1088. de: anastrophic; 6, 467, ‘vertice de montis;’ 1, 26 n. L. rarely allows de after a noun.—delibare: cf. 24. Notice the customary fulness of expression—demimus . . . deliberae.

1089. minus diu: also in 1092.—forte, ‘convenit irridenti,’ Lachm.—perempti: in the state of the dead.

1090. licet is concessive; ‘L. uses licet as a conjunction only with quamvis, e.g. 6, 601, 620, cf. Cic. Tusc. 4, 53’; Schmalz in Jahrb. 143, 216; cf. Lane, Gr. 1904.—vivendo: 948 and n.—condere, ‘put away,’ as in condere frumenta. Hor. C. 4, 5, 29, has condit quisque diem; V. Ecl. 9, 52, condere soles; Pliny, Ep. 9, 36, 4, dies conditetur. Condere lustrum was used of the close of the ceremonies of the census. No doubt these varied associations would occur to the reader: ‘quoquo modo dictum sit tralatio esse videtur,’ Lamb. The plain meaning is given by Creech, ‘per plurima saecula vitam tuam producas.’—saecla: 629 n.

1091. Note alliteration.—mors aeterna: 779 n.—illa: emphatic.—manebit: sc. te.

1092. iam, ‘from this time forth’ (more exactly, ‘will in the end be non-existent’).—non erit, ‘fail to live.’—ex: starting from to-day; cf. 344. Wakef. quotes Pacatus, Pan. 7 (Pan. L. B., 277), ‘parum interest quando cooperit quod terminum non habebit.’

1093. finem fecit: 943 n. There is no suggestion of suicide; finem fecit = finivit. — et, 'than'; 1, 281 n.

1094. Jeremy Taylor studied L.: 'And if our death could be put off a little longer, what advantage can it be, in thy account of nature or felicity? They that, three hundred years agone, died unwillingly, and stopped death two days, or stayed it a week, what is their gain? Where is that week? And poor-spirited men use acts of protraction and make their persons pitiable, but their conditions contemptible' (Works, I, 554, ed. 1837). — mensibus atque annis: scheme of the whole and part; cf. ora genasque, 469, and 346. — qui . . . occidit: possibly 'whose sun has set,' keeping up the metaphor. — ante: with abl. of degree of diff.; Lane, 1393. — Creech's general criticism is as follows: 'iis qui bonis prosperisque rebus utuntur, quid calamitosius ista morte quae sit στέρησις αἰσθήσεως? et Miseris talem mortem proponere qua extinguantur penitus, . . . perinde est ac si iactato tempestatum saevitia proponatur naufragium, quo submersus suffocatusque procellam deinceps sensurus non sit.'

BOOK IV

The numbering of the verses of the Oblongus Ms. is retained in the text and notes to this book, because of the frequency of transpositions.

1-25. See on 1, 926-950, and nn. 1, 936, has sed, 4, 11, nam; 1, 949, perspicis; 4, 24, percipis; 1, 950, qua constet compta figura; 4, 25, ac persentis utilitatem. They are bracketed by Lachm. M. Br. Bail. as a supposed supplied prooemium of Book IV. Lachm. thought they were placed here by the éditeur; Br. following Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 664, supposed the poet himself put them here. Neumann, 25, regards the latter view impossible, but holds that the prooemium to IV was either lost or never written, and that the transfer was made by copyists. Gneisse, 15, argues from compcta, 27, and compcta, 1, 950; persentis, 4, 25, that the poet did not intend any prooemium to IV, and that the change was made by an editor; but why could it not have been made by L. himself on a second writing? See Lohmann, 49; Purmann, 4; Vahlen, Monatsb. Berlin. Akad., 1877, 481. Again, repetitions are too common in L. to justify one in laying much stress on the avoidance of one word. Giuss. does not bracket them. There is something in the view of Bock, that they form a general preface to the second half of the poem. They are quoted by too many authors as occurring in both the first and fourth books to be rejected in either place. Compta figura was needed in Book I as a notice of what was afterwards to be discussed, but here the words would be out of place.

25-48, 26-41. 'I have discussed the character of atoms and the constitution of the soul; now I shall describe the films which pass through the air and present themselves to men asleep and awake; these must not be mistaken for ghosts of the departed.'

45-48 are transferred here by Marull. and the older edd. who are followed by Br. Giuss. Bail.; they were rejected by Lachm. Bern. M. They certainly cannot stand in the order of the MSS. A reference to the character of atoms (Books I and II), and to the constitution of the soul (Book III) is very suitable here. The verses are repeated from 3, 31-34, except sed for et in 45; quoque, 48, quove, 34. See Br. Phil. 29, 417. Neumann, 16, rejects them.

26. atque is fitting as continuing the statement of 45–48; in 3, 31, et quoniam docui cunctarum exordia rerum, etc.

27. compta vigeret: cf. 3, 259, compta modis vigeant and n.

28. distracta: 3, 844 n.—ordia prima: here only for primordia. So Homer, τόλις ἀκρη for ἀκρότολις. Nettleship, Archiv, 6, 433, proposes to read ut his ex ordia primis in V. Ecl. 6, 33. Cf. also for the reversed order facit are, 6, 962, and L. Müller, RM, 367.

29. agere incipiam: cf. 674, quo pacto . . . tangat agam, and on 1, 55.—veminter: 2, 1024 n. If there are no ghosts there is no immortality; cf. 37.—ad has res: cf. et id nos, 234; et in res, 5, 279.

30. simulacra: translation of τύπους, εἴδωλα. Catius had used the word spectra, Cic. Fam. 15, 16. See on 1, 123. Epic. ad Herod. 46, καὶ μὴν καὶ τύποι θυμοσχήματος τοῖς στερεμνοῖς εἰσὶ, λεπτήγησιν διέχοντες μακρὰ τῶν φαινομένων . . . τύπους δὲ τοὺς τύπους εἴδωλα προσαγορεύομεν. Cic. Fin. 1, 21, ‘sunt tota Democriti, atomi inane imagines quae εἴδωλα nominant, quorum incursione non solum videamus sed etiam cogitemus’; Quint. 10, 2, 15, ‘illas Epicuri figuræ quas e summis corporibus dicit effluere.’

31. membranae: explained by effigias tenuisque figuræ, 42; vel cortex, 51.—summo de corpore: cf. 43, 64.

32. volitant: Wakef. compares Cic. Fam. 15, 16, 2, ‘eius εἴδωλον mihi advolabit ad pectus.’ Aen. 7, 88, ‘sonnosque petivit, | multa modis simulacra videt volitantia miris’; id. 10, 641, ‘morte obita qualis fama est volitare figuræ.’ Cf. 38 below.

33. vigilantibus obvia: 1, 132 n. ‘The thing by which L. seeks to explain apparitions, though materialistic, seems to allow some influence also to the working of imagination. It is hard otherwise to explain how his simulacra (which are not unlike astral spirits of later times) should appear in dreams,’ J. R. Lowell, Essay on Witchcraft. The consideration whether the waking person was delirious or not is of no special importance here; cf. 769.

34. somnis: 3, 431 n.—figuras: Carm. Epigr. 1, 430, ‘cum vita functus iungaris umbra figuris.’

35. luce parentum: lucis egestas, 3, 1011. Georg. 4, 472, umbrae ibant tenues simulacraque luce parentum; id. 255, corpora luce parentum exportant.

36. languentis sopore: languet sopore, 765; aevo debile languet, 5, 832.—nos = homines, as commonly. Bock. infers many deaths in L.’s family!

37. ne . . . reamur depends on agere incipiam, 29. Rearis, Winck.—Acherunte . . . effugere: Acherunta rearis liquisse, 170.

38. umbras: only here in L. with this connotation.

39. neve aliiquid: not for aut nequid, but for neve reamur aliiquid; aliiquid = ‘something.’—nostri: cf. 3, 851.

40. corpus atque animi natura: for the order, see on 3, 201.—perempta: neu. pl.; cf. 3, 66 and n.

41. discessum dederint = discesserint. Lachm. reads quoique for quaerque, OQ, insisting that discessus datur = conceditur; M. cites Aen. 12, 367, ‘fugam dant nubila caelo,’ i.e. fugient. Cf. on 1, 288.

42–109. ‘The films are emitted from the surface of things; they have the shape of the objects which produce them; they may be compared to smoke, to the shells of cicadae, to snakes' cast-off skins. The colored hangings in the theatre bathe with color the spectators because of the emitted forms of color. In mirrors also these images may be seen; they may be separately invisible.'

42. Br. infers a lacuna after 41, and introduces, before 42, verses 127-128, which were transferred by Winck.—effigias: also in 85, effigiae in 105. The word is quoted once from Plaut., Afranius, and from an inscription.

43. mittier: on 3, 67.

44 follows 53.—45-48 follow 25.—49-50 = 29-30.

51. quae: Flor. 31, Nonius, vulg.; qui, OQ; quo, M., too artificial, but see J. Phil. 4, 243; cui quasi membrana est vel cortex nominitanda, Hidén, quis quasi, Cartault. Br. brackets 51-53; see Phil. 29, 417. Nominitandae sunt is, of course, to be supplied as a verb for quae. See also on 3, 352.—cortex is prevailingly masc.

52. speciem: 1, 125 n.—gerit: 2, 735 n.—The order is quod imago de cunctis corpore fusa cluet vagari, gerit speciem ac formam similem eius.

53. cluet = dicitur; 1, 119 n.—fusa, 'produced abundantly'; 1, 40 n.

44 = 5, 882; transferred by Marull. edd.—corde: 5, 1107, 'ingenio qui praestabant et corde vigebant'; 6, 5, 'virum tali cum corde repertum'; Georg. 1, 123, 'curis accuens mortalia corda.' Cf. excors, 'stupid.'

54. rebus apertis: the canon of inference, that what is beyond sense-perception agrees with what is subject thereto, is to be appealed to.—mittunt, 'let go'; so in 56, 60.

55. corpora res multae: corpora multa would be ambiguous.—solute: not closely, united.

56. robora: only here in L. in the definite meaning 'wood.'—ceu: 3, 456 n.—que, 'or'; 3, 284 n.—vaporem, 'heat,' as usual in L.

57. partim, 'some'; on 3, 78.—contexta: 3, 695 n.—condensa: 1, 575, 'condenso conciliatu' and n.—olim, 'at times.'—For elision, see on 1, 337.

58. Notice alliteration.—teretis: 5, 803, 'folliculos ut nunc teretis aestate cicadae | lincunt'; cf. on 1, 35.

59. membranas: technically called alantois.

60. lubrica: Aen. 5, 84, 'lubricus anguis.' Possibly lubrica should be written here, but serpens is epicene.

61. vestem: 3, 614 n.—saepe videmus: L.'s knowledge of country life has been noticed in the Introduction.

62. illorum, OQ, edd.; illarum, Br.; cf. on 1, 611. Serpens is prevailingly masc.—spoliis: Wakef. quotes Palladius, 12, 7, 4, iuvat in ea (arbore) et spolium serpentis appendi.—vepres is masc. in other writers, but the fem. here is attested by auctas of O and by Nonius.

63. debet is hardly necessary for the comparison; perhaps merely 'ought by analogy.'

64. rebus . . . rerum: inartistic repetition; cf. 43, 90-91.

65. illa: tunicae, etc.

66. tenvia: 3, 232 n.—hiscendi: should this be discendi? The word occurs in its proper sense in 6, 1070; but see lex. Discendi is found in one inferior Ms. Scribon. Larg. 84, 'quis enim adversus veritatem hiscere potest?'

67. Giuss. brackets 67-71, but 68 sq. explains imago of 63, and 67 explains 64; see van d. Valk, 101.

58. minuta: 3, 179 n.—iaci: 239, simulacra . . . iaciuntur; 6, 959, quae iuntur | corpora. Cf. 96 below.—eodem, Pont. edd.; eorum, OQ; rerum, inc.
59. fuerint: i.e. which they had before.—servare figuram: cf. 298, 556. Forma | figura are frequently used together: see on 2, 778 and Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 57. derlein says that figura merely implies a definite outline, but forma is a visible np of an interior substance; figura is mathematical, forma, aesthetical.
70. indupedirū: 1, 240 n. Kannengieser would put 70 sq. after 64 and bracket m there.
71. pauca, 'being few' and stationed, etc.—quae was added by Lachm.—prima ate locata: 97.
72. largiri: Lachmann's emendation for tergiri.—videmus: of appeal to erience, 3, 153 n.
73. non solum . . . verum quoque: L. has elsewhere non solum . . . sed: 3, 1; 2, 727; 4, (706), 986. R. B. Steele, Formula Non modo, etc., 163.—ex alto itusque: 694, 'ex alto primum quia vix emititur ex re : | nam penitus fluere,'—ante: cf. 56.
74. colorem depends on a supplied iacere.
75. volgo shows that the use of vela was no longer a novelty.—id: sc. iacere rem.—russa: cf. rosso, roux, ruber: an indefinite color, perhaps a coarse red, flesh-red like that of the gums; see Blümner, Farben, 77; Ellis on Catull. 39, —vela: the awnings stretched over the theatre, Juv. 4, 122, 'pueros inde ad ria raptos'; L. 6, 109, 'carbasus ut quondam magnis intenta theatris | dat situm malos inter iactata trabesque.' Vela were introduced at Rome by Q. Catullus 676/78; carbasina vela by Lentulus Spinther, 694/60; see Pliny, 19, 23; Quadrat, Staatsv. 3, 533 sq.
76. ferruginea: the usual form is ferruginea; a greenish-blue color, a shade of blue; colos thalassicus, Plaut. Mil. 1179; Blümner, Farben, 101. The general ct must have been similar to that produced by stained-glass windows.—intenta: 1, 5, 829, 'attolli malos intendi bracchia velis.'
77. malos: the masts or poles.—volgata: 'stretched' (for the people) seems xampled; cf. pervolgant, 208.—trabes: the cross-beams, yards.—trementia ant: Prop. 3, 18, 13, fluitantia vela theatro. Q has fluctus; O an omission; ant, Turnebus, edd.; see on 3, 189.
78. concessum: cf. 982. Caveae concessum, Aen. 5, 340, cf. 8, 636.—caveai: place for the spectators.—supter . . . inficiunt: verbs compounded with 'er alone are few; subterintendo, subterinsero occur in late authors.
79. scaenai: Lamb. edd., 'the stage'; cf. 983; scaenai, O; scaenali, Q.—rum coetumque decorum, M. Giuss.; patrum matrumque deorum, OQ, il.; p. m. deorumque, Marull. vulg.; pulcrum variumque decorum, Lachm.; iam variamque deorsum, Bern.; Parium marmorique deorum, Br.; parvum numque deorsum, Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 322; propriam variamque deorsum, Polle; ium ornatumque deorum, Höfer. All are unsatisfactory, but Munro's is the best ar.—patrum: Aen. 5, 341, 'ora prima patrum.'—coetumque: 3, 662 n.
80. fluitare: highly expressive of the wave of color changing with the motion of awnings.

81. mage: metr. gr. in 318, 756; 5, 1203; Aen. 10, 481. Magi, could have stood, of course, in all these places, but L. does not use it; see on 3, 1079.—inclusa theatri: old vulg. Bern. Bail.; inclusi theatri, M.; angusti t. Lachm.; ita clausa t. Br.; his clausa t. Giuss. Q has inclusa; O, inclastra; moenia, OQ; moenibus, M. Giussani's reading is attractive, but the his is hard to account for.—inclusa, 'shut in by curtains.'

82. moenia, 'enclosures' (not of stone at this date); moenia navis, Ov. M. 11, 532.—haec refers to the illuminated objects; hoc, Br.—perfusa: 2, 821 n.

83. conrident: here only in L.; quoted also from S. Austin and the Vulgate. Cf. rident, 3, 22.—correpta: within these limits; Lachm. 'spatium . . . in se corripit et colligit lucem, ne dispergatur'; Bruno, 'indem das reine Tageslicht durch die Laken aufgefangen und abgeschnitten wird,' or he would read corrupta, adopted by Cartault. M. comp. 5, 1223, corripiunt divum membra timore.

84. de . . . cum: inartistic.—fucum: frequent for color, but rare in L.; cf. 2, 745.

85. mittunt: mittant, Höfer, but cf. on 2, 859 if causal as M. thinks; Br. and Giuss. make it temporal.—effigias: 42 n.—quoque: 3, 349 n.—tenuis: acc.

86. iaculantur: cf. 145.—utraque, 'in both cases,' cf. 291; utraque, sunt, Giuss.

87. formarum vestigia: 5, 1261, lacunarum vestigia, 'outlines'; see n. there.

88. volgo: 1, 238 n.—filo: 2, 341 n.

89. Cf. 105.

90. atque: cf. 517.

91. diffusae, OQ. M. Br. Giuss.; diffusa, Lachm.—e is added by all editors after Lamb.—abundant, 'stream off,' 145.

92. ex alto: 73.—extrinsecus, OQ, Lachm. Giuss.; intrinsecus, Lamb. M. Br. Bail.—ortae, OQ; torte, Lachm. Extrinsecus = foras, Lachm. It is supported by exire, 94. Cf. 6, 1099, where O and Q vary.

93. scinduntur: of the soul, 3, 531.—flexum: of devious ways, 330, 599.—recta, 'straight,' 2, 249 n.

94. coortae: Lamb. edd.; coorta, O, Itali, Lachm.; coorte, Q.

95. summi coloris, 'surface color,' M.

96. iacitur: cf. 68; 2, 823.—discerpere: 2, 829.

97. Cf. 1, 879 and nn.

98. speculis: sc. in; see on 3, 623. Lachm. comp. Mart. 2, 66, 3, 'speculo quod (quo, Friedl.) viderat.'—splendoreque: que = 'or,' as frequently, 3, 284 n. Splendor, of a polished surface, is not common.

99. simulacula: cf. 1, 1060.

100. simile: cf. 52.

101. ex ea: Lotze, Br. Giuss. Bail.; ex imaginibus, OQ; excita, Lachm.; extima, M.; exin, Purmann; esse in, Avanc. vulg.; esse et, Marull. Ex ea is seems harsh, but it is the best that has yet been suggested. See the general criticism by Jessen, QL.

31. rerum: Lachm. edd.; erorum, OQ; earum, Marull.

102, 103 = 65, 66; omitted by all modern edd.

104. formarum illis similesque: Lachm. Giuss.; formarum dissimilesque, OQ; formae rerum similesque, Purmann, M. Br. Bail.; formae rerum his similesque, Postgate; formarum consimilesque, Lamb. Formae = simulacra is dubious; cf. 69, 87. Arn. 3. 12, 'ullas formarum effigies possidere.'

105. M. quotes Locke, Essay, 2, 8, 12; ‘since the extension, figure, number, and motion of bodies of an observable bigness may be perceived at a distance by the sight, it is evident some singly imperceptible bodies must come from them to the eyes.’

106. tamen goes most naturally with reddunt; so Giuss. Br. against Lachm. M. See Langen, Phil. 34, 30. — repulsa rarely occurs in any other case.

107. Cf. 290. — visum: 5, 101, ‘hanc oculorum subdere visu.’

108. ratione alia: i.e. by continued reflection from flat surfaces. — videntur: sc. effigiae.

109. tanto opere modifies similes.

110–128. ‘Learn how subtle images are. There are creatures whose organs are wonderfully small; the atoms which constitute these are smaller still; then the atoms which constitute odor *images then fly about.’

110. Br. puts 110–126 after 173, with lacuna before and after; cf. Phil. 29, 423. — Nunc age: 1, 265 n. — tenui: Epic. ad Herod. 47; τὰ εἰδώλα ταῖς λεπτότησιν διυπερβλήτος κέχρηται.

111. percipe: 3, 135 n. — in primis: the corresponding deinde was probably in the lacuna.

112. infra: here only as prep. in L. Cf. on 3, 274.

113. primum coeptant: 2, 612 n. — coeptant: 1, 267 n. L. means that atoms are far smaller than objects barely visible. Cf. 2, 114 sq.

114. id: the tenuity of the atoms. — confirmem: cf. 2, 185. — exordia rerum: 3, 31 n.

115. suptilia: cf. 2, 385. — percipe paucis: 723.

116. tantula: cf. 3, 413. — quorum = ut eorum; eorum, OQ; corum, Lachm., see Bersu, Gutt. 37; quorum, Purmann, edd.

117. tertia: Lotze, extera. Bock. would have tertia idiomatic like Germ. viertel.

118. intestinum is quoted from Celsus and Juvenal. Quodvis modifies it here.

119. Notice the anaphora. — cordis globus: a periphrasis for cor. — artus, ‘frame,’ as often in Book 3.

120. primordia quaeque: the several first beginnings; whether atoms, or with Giuss. groups of atoms, is not important.

121. anima: 1, 131 n. — necessumst: sc. quantula esse.

122. nonne videt: 2, 196 n.

123. praeterea corresponds to primum, 116. — corpore: notice the singular.

124. acrem: 6, 791, ‘extinctum lumen ubi acri | nidore offendit nares.’ — Panaces, ‘all-heal’: Pliny, 25, 30, ‘panaces ipso nomine omnium morborum remedia promittit’; Aen. 12, 419, ‘odiferam panaceam.’ Cartault, 44, thinks panaces is plural. — absinthia taetta: 1, 936, n.

125. habrotoni, ‘southern-wood’; artemisia abrotonum, L. Pliny, 21, 160, says it has ‘amaritudo absinthi,’ and 60, ‘odore iucunde gravi floret aestate.’ — tristia centaurea: 2, 400 n. M. comp. Georg. 4, 270, ‘Cecropiumque thymum et grave Olentia centaurea,’ and Lucan, 9, 918, ‘et panacea potens et Thessala centaurea . . . fumoque gravem serpentibus urunt habrotonum’.

126. Much is lost after this verse. The sentence may have continued with correctis digitis, as Havercamp suggests. Lachmann calculated a loss of 25 lines and one heading, but there is no certainty. See Woltjer, L. Phil. etc. 82 sq., Jahrb. 123, 778; Christ, 21; Höfer, 12.

127. Br. puts 127–128 after a lacuna following on 41, after Winck., who, however, saw no lacuna and read sed for quin. Cf. Aen. 7, 89, ‘multa modis simulacula videt volitantia miris’ and L. 4, 724.

128. multa modis multis: 1, 341 n.—nulla vi: probably ‘without body’ as Giuss. suggests. Vis is frequently quantitative.—cassaque sensu: i.e. invisible.

129–142. ‘There are also images which fly through the air, self-created, of varied shapes; just as clouds gather in the sky and resemble mountains.’ Lachm. M. Bail. bracket this paragraph as interrupting the sense, but owing to the lacuna this is dubious. Br. and Christ put it after 109; Giuss. leaves it, although it is not well connected with the preceding.

129. Sed ne forte putas: 3, 533 n.—demum: 1, 143 n.—vagari: repeated from 127 in his manner.

130. rebus rerum: 3, 71 n.—recedunt: cf. 65.

131. et ipsa, ‘and of themselves.’ Cf. 735, ‘omne genus quoniam passim simulacula feruntur, | partim sponte sua quae fiunt aere in ipso, | partim quae variis ab rebus cumque recedunt.’

132. caelo qui dicitur aer: Aen. 1, 58, ‘maria ac terras caelumque profundum’ where Servius says caelum pro aere posuit, quoting this verse. Cf. Aen. 5, 18 and 9, 20. L. Müller, Q. Ennius, p. 35, quotes this verse in proof of the common knowledge of Greek. Cic. Arch. 23, ‘Graeca leguntur in omnibus fere gentibus.’ Cartault, in hoc caeli; cf. 6, 452.—qui: for gender see on 3, 94 and Jessen, QL 32.

135 (133). The transpositions which follow were made by Lamb. and are universally accepted by edd., but Giri, Riv. 29 (approved by Br. Jahrest. 33, 10), defends the solecism, and van d. Valk, 161, agrees with him in transposing only 135 after 132, and not 141. Cf. Epic. ad Herod. 48, καὶ συντάσεις ἐν τῷ περιέχοντι δέκαια διὰ τὸ μὴ δεῖν κατὰ βάθος τὸ συμπλήρωμα γίνεσθαι, καὶ δῆλοι δὲ τρόποι τινὲς γεννητικοὶ τῶν τοιούτων φύσεών εἰσιν.

141. liquentia: Aen. 1, 432, liquentia mella, and L. 2, 1132. The word seems to mean here ‘fluid’.

142. formarum oras: cf. formai figuram, 69. For the plural oras, Giuss. comp. fines = territory, and 166 below. Langen, Phil. 34, 30, would keep ora of the old vulgate, and also Cartault.

133 (136). concrescere: 6, 159, ‘concreti montes nimborum’; id. 250, 528.

134. mundi, ‘heaven’; cf. 213.—violare: cf. 3, 21.

136. mulcentes, ‘moving lightly’; Cic. Arat. 88, ‘mulcens tremebundis aethera pinnis.’—nam refers to 134, 136.—Gigantum: Creech quotes Diod. Siculus 3, 50, 4, συντάσεις (spontaneous appearances in the air) δρῶνται κατὰ τὸν άέρα παρολοντὸν ίδεις ἐμφανουσαι· τοῦτων δὲ μὲν ἡρεμοῦσιν, αἱ δὲ κίνησιν λαμβάνουσι, καὶ ποτὲ μὲν ὑποφεύγουσι ποτὲ δὲ διώκουσι. Aristoph. Clouds, 347, ήδη ποτ' ἀναβλέψας εἶδες τεφέλην Κενταύρῳ δύοισιν, | ή παρδάλει, ή λύκῳ, ή ταύρῳ; Cic. Div. 2, 49, ‘in nubibus numquam animadvertisisti leonis formam aut hippocentauri?’ Shaksp. Ant. and Cleop. 4, 12, ‘sometimes we see a cloud that’s dragonish, | a vapour, sometimes like a bear or lion, | a towered citadel, a pendent rock,’ etc. Polonius saw weasels in the clouds. See Schwarz, Naturanschauungen d. Lücr., in Jahrb. 109, 366 sq.

137. ora is nom.

138. magni montes: 1, 201 n.—avolsaque saxa: 6, 539, ‘deruptaque saxa’; Aen. 2, 608, ‘avolsaque saxis | saxa.’

139. montibus: with avolsa.—praeter, ‘across.’ Holtze, 83.

140 (142). belua: sc. videtur.

143–175. ‘Now I shall show how easily and quickly these flow from things * they pass through some objects but in others are torn and bent, and in mirrors they are reflected; the reflection is instantaneous, showing the ease and quickness of the action. The clear sky is quickly overcast with clouds, so numerous are these images.’

143. This section Br. places after 175; Christ arranged: 110–126, 168–173, 143–167. Edd. quote Macr. 7, 14, 14, ‘censem Epicurus ab omnibus corporibus iugi fluore quaepiam simulacula manare, nec umquam tantulam moram intervenire quin ultra ferantur inani figura cohaerentes corporum exuviae.’ Epic. ad Herod. 48, ἡ γένεσις τῶν εἰδώλων ἀμα τοῦματι συμβαίνει· καὶ γὰρ ρεύσις ἀπὸ τῶν σωμάτων τοῦ ἐπικολῆτος συνεχής, οὐκ ἐπίδηλος τὴν μείουσει διὰ τὴν ἀπαντλήσισιν, σφῦνσα τὴν ἐπὶ τοῦ στερεμνοῦ θέσιν καὶ τάξιν τῶν ἀτόμων ἐπὶ τούλν χρόνον, εἰ καὶ ἐποτε συγχεομένη ὑπάρχει. —ea: sc. simulacra, 127.—genantur: edd. with Lamb. for gerantur; cf. 159.

144. Jessen, QL, 33, proposed tibi edam for que cedant, thus avoiding the lacuna which is recognized by all modern edd. Some word like expediām is missing.

145. summum quicquid, ‘whatever is on the surface’; 3, 619 n.—abundat: cf. 91.

146. iaculentur: cf. 68.—hoc: summum quicquid.—alias is probably proleptic, but he may have intended another alias to follow; certas, Br. Susemihl, Phil. 29, 431; raras, Lotze.

147. vestem: OQ, Lachm. Br. Schütte, 8; it means ‘veil’; cf. its use in 3, 386 of a web. Vitrum, Oppenrieder, M. Giuss. Bail.; cf. 602 and 6, 992. Although vitrum is very attractive, it is hard to see how vestem could have been twice corrupted into it.—aspera saxa, sc. in: 3, 623 n.

148. For the order, see on 3, 201.

149. scinditur was used of anima, 3, 638 sq.

150. splendida: 299, ‘splendida oculi fugitant.’—constant = sunt as frequently; 3, 235 n.—opposta fuerunt: for the contraction, 3, 346 n. Fuerunt is used instead of sunt for metrical convenience.

151. densaque: bright bodies not dense; flame e.g. would not reflect.—speculum: of course metallic.—accidit: occidit was read by some early edd.

152. vestem: others vitrum as before.—possunt, OQ, Wakef. Br. Giuss. Langen Phil. 34, 28; cf. 2, 961 n. Potis est, Lachm. M.—neque autem: 1, 857 n.

153. quam = et eam.—meminit: Lucan, 5, 109, ‘meminit mare,’ inanimate subject.

154. hinc: from these objects.—redundent, ‘flow back.’

155. The alliteration is unintentional.—quamque, ‘any.’ Proof of celeri ratione, 143; cf. 159.

156. contrapoно occurs in Quintilian and late Latin.

157. fluere, ‘stream.’

158. texturas: 3, 209 n.

159. There is not much poetry here.

160. celer, fem., occurs in Livius and Ennius. The second e in the word belongs to the stem; Lane, LG. 629. Cartault, 56, suggests celeris rei. Cf. Lindsay, LL. 371.

161. quasi . . . sic: 3, 147 n. — summittere lumina: cf. 2, 675.

162. plena: sc. luce.

163. The alliteration is unintentional.

164. temporis in puncto; 1, 1109 n.

165 = 725. The two halves of the verse are also frequently repeated.

166. quocumque: quacumque, Gronov. Winck. Höfer. — oris, 'borders,' objects; cf. oras, 142. Langen makes it gen. sing. Br. Phil. 29, 432, ollis; Cartault, omnis; cf. 242.

167. ibi: O, M. Br. Polle; cf. 213. sibi, Q, Lachm. Giuss. Albert Phil. 56, 249.

168. Br. places 168–173 after 140; Lachm. and Bern. bracket them here. Nardius had transferred them, according to Creech. The transposition is approved by Albert, l.c. — cum: concessive.

169. tempestas: Georg. 1, 322, 'saepe etiam immensum caelo venit agmen aquarum | et foedam glomerant tempestatem imbris atris'; Aen. 9, 19, 'unde haec tam clara repente | tempestas'; id. 12, 283, 'it tota turbida caelo | tempestas telorum'; cf. on 1, 178. — perquam: 3, 180 n.

170–173 = 6, 251–254 with reamur for rearis.

170. undique, 'everywhere.' Bock. joins it to the preceding verse. — Acherunta: 3, 37, 'The darkness vast as hell fills the great caverns of the sky,' Masson, 163.

171. caeli cavernas: 391, 'aetheris cavernis'; 6, 252, 'caeli complesse cavernas'; Cic. Arat. 252, 'caeli lustrare cavernas'; Varro, Sat. Men. 271, 'caeli cavernas.' See the objection to the term in the Borgian Vita, Introd. 12.

172. taetra, 'gloomy.' — nimborum nocte coorta: Pacuv. 412, 'noctisque et nimbum obcaecat nigror'; Aen. 3, 198, 'involvere diem nimbi et nox umida caelum | abstulit.'

173. Br. infers a lacuna after this verse. — inpendent: 6, 490, 'tempestas atque tenebrae | copierant maria ac terras impensa superne.' — ora, 'shapes'; cf. 137. Aen. 12, 335, 'atrae Formidinis ora.'

174. Br. puts 174–175 after a lacuna following 126. — quorum: i.e. clouds.

175. eam rationem: i.e. an account of their smallness (and swiftness); how much thinner they are than clouds (Woltjer). Marull. Lachm. Bern. put 179 after 175; Giuss and Woltjer, L. Phil. 84, find a lacuna after 175 which may be better, eam looking forward to something lost. Munro's interpretation 'the ratio between the imago and the overcast sky' seems untenable. The cloud monsters are seen through imagines shed from them; but these imagines are so small that they cannot well be explained.

176–229. 'Next I shall explain the swiftness of movement of idols. First, you can see that things made of light and small bodies are swift, such as the sun's light and heat which are constantly emitted; so the images quickly pass through the air, especially since they come from the surface of things; the stars are reflected immediately in water. So odors, voices, taste, come to us; these images proceed from everything, as we know from our senses.'

176. Nunc age : 1, 265.

177. mobilitas : 2, 65 n. — ollis : 1, 672 n. — tranantibus : cf. 601 ; 6, 1052.

178. brevis hora : 1, 1016, exiguum horai tempus. Cartault proposes brevis (sup-pelat) hora. — teratur, Pont. edd. ; feratur, OQ.

179. quaeque : 1, 966 n. Goebel, and Cartault, 78, quemcumque. — numine : 2, 632 n. ; opposed by Susemihl, Phil. 29, 432 ; momine, Lachm. Br. — tendat, Lachm. ; tendit, OQ, Giuss. ; tendunt, Lamb. M. Br. Bail.

180—182 = 909—911.

180. suavidicia: ἀτ. λεγ.; cf. veridicis, 6, 24; causidici, 4, 966; suaviloquenti, 1, 945 n. — quam multis : cf. percipe paucis, 115, and 1, 499.

181. cycni : 3, 7 n. — Lamb. quotes Antipater of Sidon (Anth. 7, 713, 7) λωτέρος κύκνου μικρὸς θρόνος τὴν κολοιῶν | κραυγὴς ἐν εἰπιράτης κιδώμενος νεφέλαις. — canor, 'strain,' is poetic. — gruam : Hom. Γ 3, κλαγγή γεράνων πέλει οὐρανοῦ πρό. For the monosyllabic ending see on 3, 3.

182. clamor is opposed to canor; dispersus to parvus. — aetheriis nubibus : 6, 98. — Cf. in general Aen. 10, 264, 'sub nubibus atris | Strymoniae dant signa grues atque aethera tranant | cum sonitu.'

183. levis : Epic. Περὶ Φύσεως 2, col. 2, κοῦφα εἴραι τὰ εἰδῶλα, εἰ δὲ ὑπερβαλλόντως κοῦφα δῆλον ὡς καὶ ὑπερβαλλόντως ταχέα κατὰ τὴν φοράν.

184. coloris is predicate with esse.

185. in quo genere : 3, 296 n.

186. primis : 2, 313, primorum natura

187. cuduntur : cf. 1, 1044. — perque : 3, 3 n.

188. dubitant transire : 6, 1191, 'succedere frigus | non dubitabat.'

189. 5, 283, 'suppeditatque novo confestim lumine lumen.' — lumine lumen : 3, 71 n.

190. protelo : 2, 531 n. — fulgere may be an ablative; cf. fulgoris, 5, 284. Some read fulgera in Germ. Arat. Progn. 4, 77; cf. Ellis on Catull. 64, 355. Breous, Hell. 296, taking it as a verb, says that it is the first example of an infin. with stimulo; so instigant laedere, 1082. The parallelism lumine lumen, fulgere fulgur is in his manner. Fulgere was read before Lachm.

191. pari ratione : 395 ; 5, 643, etc.

192. inmemorabile : cf. διτερικότητα χρόνος. Epic. ad Herod. 46 ; 6, 488, 'inmemorabile per spatium transire solerent,' also 2, 163. M. comp. Milton, PL. 8, 113, 'distance inexpressible | By numbers that have name.'

193. parvola is taken with simulacra by Creech and Munro which is improbable; Br. regards it as corrupt; Susemihl, Phil. 29, 434, parvola (etiam ipsorum primordia sunt et similis) causa, etc.; Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 139, parvola causa | sat procul a tergost. Woltjer, L. Phil. 86, explains parvola causa, ea nempe vis quae simulacra a corporibus evellit et emitittit. Christ read parvola causast | protelo a tergo . . . feruntur. The parvola causa L. does not explain; it may be the pressure of succeeding images; cf. 188. Discussion by Giuss. in Excursus I to this fourth book.

194. 6, 1027, 'aer a tergo quasi provehat atque propellat.' — procul goes with provehat; so Br. in Phil. 29, 433. Cf. retro repulsanti, 913. — prōvehat . . . prō-pellat: for the variation in quantity see Lindsay, LL. 590; L. Müller, RM. 363, and on 3, 145.

195 is placed by Lachm. after 205.—quod superest, ‘moreover’; 1, 50 n.—levitate ferantur: cf. 745.

196. texturā praeditā rarā: note the interlocking.

197. quasvis . . . res: quavis . . . se, Br.; cf. Phil. 29, 437.—quasvis: not all things, but things of any kind, then things of many kinds (Giuss.). M. thinks some images may enter but not pass through.

198. permanare is used strictly of liquids, but elsewhere L. does not qualify it with quasi when it is used figuratively; possibly quasi goes with aeris intervallum.

199. praeterea corresponds to principio, 183.—penitus . . . ex altoque: cf. 73.

200. Cf. Enn. Ann. 90, ‘exin candida se radiis dedit icta foras lux.’

201. puncto diei: variation for puncto temporis.—lapsa: with diffundere.

202. caeli spatium: 2, 1110 n.—diffundere: 1, 9.

203. perque volare: pervolet, 6, 1060.—caelum: Giuss. compares for the repetition the carelessness with that of montes, 405–406. Lachm. changes to circum. Bern. places the verse after 188. Cf. 5, 594, ‘quod maria ac terras omnis caelumque rigando’ whence Polle and Purmann regard this line as spurious, Susemihl as a dittography.

204. quid: sc. dices de illis.—igitur: 1, 419 n.—prima fronte: cf. 97. The particles ‘in the front rank’ ought to go faster, as the obstacles will be fewer.

205. iaciuntur: by the parvola causa, 193.—emissum: sc. simulacri. For nouns in -us see on 3, 525.

206. quone, OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss.; nonne, Q corr. old vulg. Br. Bail. Langen Phil. 34, 30. There are two constructions fused: quo (i.e. quanto) citius ire debent and videsne multo citius ire debere. M. comp. Catull. 64, 180, ‘an patris auxilium sperne quemne ipsa reliqui’; quantane, Hor. S. 2, 3, 316.

207 = 2, 163.

208 = 2, 164, with lumina for fulgura.

209. specimen, ‘illustration’, then ‘example’; 5, 186, ‘redit specimen natura creandi,’ 1361, ‘specimen sationis’.—verum: veri, Lamb. Goebel, Bock.

210. celeri motu: L. cannot use celeriter; cf. on 3, 182.

211. simul ac primum . . . extemplo: 5, 286; Cic. Arat. 350.—sub diu = sub divo.—splendor aquai: cf. the illustration in 414, and in Aen. 8, 22.—Hor. C. 3, 13, 1, ‘fons Bandusiae splendidior vitro’.

212. caelo stellante: Aen. 7, 210, ‘stellantis caeli’; Hom. dōtrepoēls obparōs.

213. respondent, ‘correspond’; cf. 167; Langen, Phil. 34, 32, ‘appear.’—mundi, ‘firmament’; cf. 418; mundo, Lachm.

214. iamne, etc.: 1, 907 n.

215. aetheris oris: 2, 1000 n.—terrarum oras: 1, 717 n.—accidat in: Wak. —comp. Ov. F. 5, 360, ‘accidere in mensas.’

216. mira: OQ, edd. with lacuna; mitti, Lamb. Lachm. with no lacuna. M. probably agreed with mobilitate in a lost line following; cf. 748, mire mobilis. H. —mann, Phil. 3, 511, fateare micare necessest. Everett, Harv. St. 7, 32, would fill t ~~the~~ lacuna with mobilitate loci spatium transcurrere totum.

217–229 = 6, 923–935 with few changes. Br. omits them here, following Winckl. and Goebel, who omitted 218 sq., but Gellius and Nonius read them here. Br. p̄ ul 239–243 after 216 with Kannengiesser in the order 239–243, 241 * 244, etc. Giuss.

brackets 218–229. Neumann, 7, omits them, and Susemihl, Phil. 29, 439 sq., and Gneisse 73, who also rejects 216 and 217. They are all defended by Lohmann and the arguments for their ejection (demonstrare esse omnino effluvia — drossolas — quae sensus lacerarent, summae esset inceptiae, Br. Prol.) do not appear cogent. Here as in many other cases the MSS. contain what a modern writer would have omitted as superfluous or inconsequential.

217. feriant oculos : cf. 257, 303, 691, etc. — visumque lacaessant : 691, 729. Aen. 7, 526, ‘aera fulgent | sole lacaessa.’ Polle, AV. 12, shows that lacaessere is a technical word.

218. fluunt odores : 695, ‘fluere atque recedere rebus odores.’

219. The alliteration is unconscious. — aestus, ‘spray.’ 6, 144, ‘cum frangitur aestus’ (surf). — Kannengiesser, Phil. Suppl. 4, 510, frigus ita fluvii, but cf. 1, 490. Br. follows K. in 6, 925.

220. exesor : only here and in the repetition in Book VI. — moerorum : this archaic spelling occurs in Varro, Ennius, Virg.; see lex., and on 1, 29. The verse may be borrowed or imitated from one of Ennius' now lost.

221. voces volitare : 6, 951, ‘voces | pervolitant.’

222. denique, ‘then again.’ — umor saporis : 3, 339 n.

223. versamur : 2, 51 n. — proper : local, 1, 316 n. — diluta : (being) dissolved (in hot water). — contra, ‘before us’; Bock, cocca.

224. amaror : elsewhere only in VI and in Georg. 2, 247; cf. Gell. 1, 21, 7; Introd. 51. Some edd. do not admit the word in Virgil.

225. fluenter : in 6, 931 and perhaps in Apul. M. 2, 16.

226. in . . . partis : 1, 1007 n.

227. nec mora nec requies : Aen. 5, 458; 12, 553; Georg. 3, 110. — interdatur : interdatus, 868. — fluendi : requies mali, 6, 1178.

228. sentimus : absolute, ‘have feeling’; sensibus utimur, Lachm. Br., in 6, 932, reads omnibus for omnia.

229: ejected by Lachm. because (1) falsissimum est semper licere cernere . . . quasi omnes res sensibus percipi possint [but why not?]; (2) gustum omittere! (3) repetition of sentimus . . . sentire is puerile [but such repetitions are common enough in L.]. — cernere licet : cf. 6, 1227, ‘ali dederat vitalis aeris auras | volvere in ore licere et caeli tempora tueri.’ — sentire sonare, ‘perceive things sound.’ Edd. compare this paragraph with Macr. 7, 14, 5.

230–268. ‘We feel a thing in the dark and recognize it; hence touch and sight come from a like cause. Idols proceed in all directions and meet the eyes, and enable them to judge of distance because they push the air, which lies between the objects and the eyes, through the pupils; the greater the quantity of air the more distant the object. The idols are not seen, but the things are; so we do not see the wind and cold which we feel, and we touch the surface of a stone and feel its inner hardness.’

230. Br. transfers 230–238 to follow 97; now abandoned, Appendix. Cf. on 105. — figura, ‘a shape.’

231. quaedam, ‘any.’

232. luce, ‘daylight.’ — candore, ‘brilliant light,’ not dim.

233. tactum, visum: tactio is Plautine, visio, classical. Seeing is feeling with the eyes; see Schütte, 9.

234. et id nos: cf. 29 n.
235. luci: cf. Plaut. Aul. 741; Ter. Ad. 841; Cic. Phil. 12, 25. See on 3, 132, and notice luce, 232. Cf. Proll, 25.
236. ad speciem, 'on the sight'; cf. 242; 5, 707.—eius: prosaic, 1, 782 n.
237. causa: 3, 324 n. Epic. ad Herod. 49, δεῖ δὲ καὶ νομίσειν, τηλεσιόντος τοῦδε ἀπὸ τῶν ξέων τὰς μορφὰς δρᾶν ημᾶς καὶ διανοεῖσθαι.
238. cernundi: 3, 409 n. Notice the inelegance of videtur . . . videri.
239. quae (simulacra).
240. iaciuntur: cf. 68.
241. Br. puts this verse and a supposed lacuna after 243 with Kannengiesser, who misses tantum and thinks omnes superfluous.—oculis solis go together.
242. The simulacra move only in a straight line; 601.
243. omnes: intensive—res et omnes quidem; Giuss.
244. ab nobis: but nobis, 408.
245. curat: Lachm. cogit, denying that L. uses the infin. as a substantive accusative, like Ennius' aut occasus ubi tempusue audere repressit, and maintaining that it must have another accusative joined with it, as in 5, 1186. But, as M. says, the ut videamus makes it easy to understand the infin. as = ut internoscamus. See Dr. § 154, 2, and, against curat, Langen, Phil. 34, 32.
246. protrudit: cf. 902.
- 247 = 281; cf. 6, 831. Note the interlocking; the prose order might be quicunque locatus est inter se oculosque.
248. is . . . omnis: emphatic words at the beginning and end of the line.—ita, 'thus.'—acies: 3, 411 n.
249. perterget: cf. 252, 277. Shorey, Harv. St. 12, 205, comp. Plato, Tim. 65 D, δυντικὰ καὶ πᾶν τὸ κερπὸν γλωττας ἀπολύτρονα.—transit: he does not say what finally becomes of it.
- 251 (250). The transposition was first made by Marullus.
250. ante: sc. imagines.
252. longior: of space; cf. on 393.
253. tam procul magis = tanto magis procul (remota); see Holtze, 32.
254. summe celeri: L. does not compare celer.
255. una: together with the sight.
256. Kannengiesser wished to transfer 256–268 to follow 238, but this is one of many passages which could have occupied various places. Cf. 2, 308 and n., and on this section, Höfer, 15.
257. videri: passive; 3, 182 n.
258. singula, 'by themselves.'—perspiciantur: Tohte, Jahrb. 117, 133, percipiantur, because Ep. says λαμβάνειν, but cf. videri, 257.
259. paulatim: with one blow after another, gradatim. Bock. pulsatim, dīr. Ley.
- 261 (260). privam, 'distinct'; on 3, 372. The transposition was first made by Marullus.
260. particulam . . . frigoris: wind and cold are both atomic; 1, 271 sq.
262. unorsum, 'the whole together'; oinvorsei occurs in S. C. De Bacch. unose in Pacuvius, 213. See Stoltz, Hist. Gr. I, § 330; Lindsay, LL. p. 554, and Lachmann here.—perinde . . . tam quam occurs in Livy, 4, 3, 7.

263. aliquae for aliqua is not cited unless it be read in Cic. Fam. 6, 20, 2, where M and G have aliquae, and Bait. Wesenberg and Mendelssohn read aliqua with R. But Festus, 254 b, 29, quaepiam (significat) aliquae.

264. 'and giving us a sensation of its body outside,' M.—extra: cf. 611.

265. lapidem: but 266, saxi.

266. extremum saxi: the outside of the stone. — colorem: because tenuis summi membrana coloris iacit, 95; the color-stratum is the outermost on the stone.

267. eum (colorem).

268. duritatem: here only in L.; in Catull. and Ov. We feel the hardness of the stone because it does not yield to pressure; but he does not show how this quality is penitus in alto.

269–323. 'Hear why the image appears beyond the mirror. Just as when objects are seen beyond an open door the eye is met by successive currents of air, so the image of the mirror first presents itself, then the image is reflected back to the eyes from the mirror. Right and left are changed in the mirror because the image is altered, just as a wet plaster mask might be when dashed against a beam. Images can be reflected from any number of mirrors, and the images represent all the curves and shapes of the objects. Curved mirrors change the form of the image so that right and left are not changed about. Our movements are reflected in the mirrors, and all things are reflected from them according to the angle of incidence.'

269. ultra: prep. The problem of the mirror had been discussed by Democritus, Leucippus, and Epicurus; see the quotations from Aetius, 4, 14, 2, and Apul. Apol. de magia, 15, in Usener's Epicurea, p. 221, and also Höfer, 16.

270. percipe: 3, 135 n.—semota: 288; Marull. edd. for remota, OQ.

271. quae vere transpiciuntur: OQ, edd., but Lachm. (and in 278), quae sunt, bene transpiciuntur on account of his theory of quod genus (3, 221 n.). Kannengiesser, Phil. 43, 544, punctuates illa, foris quae vere, transpiciuntur, and infers a lacuna preceding, to explain cur ultra speculum videatur imago. — vere: so vere loqui, 'speak truth,' not 'speak in a true manner,' Giuss. The contrast is between the real things seen without the door and the unreal images in the mirror.

272. transpectum, διπλόν, and the verb transpicio is quoted only from Lactantius.

273. facit ut: cf. 282, 287; 1, 1005; 5, 1049.

274. quoque: referring to the explanation in 246 sq.—duplici geminoque: tautologous; M. comp. 766, 1004; 5, 1078.—6, 1146, duplicis oculos. — aere: i.e. a column or shaft of air.

275. primus aer corresponds to alter, 278.—citra: prep. here only in L. 'Circa, contra, ultra are first used as prepositions about Cicero's time,' Lane, LG. 1412.

276. fores: the leaves of the door. — dextra: 3, 651 n.

277. extraria: beyond the door; here only in L.—perterget: 249.

278. illa foris: i.e. the objects without, through their images.

279. ubi primum: here only in L.—speculi imago go together.

280. protrudit agitque: 246.

281 = 247.

282. hunc omnem (aera).

283. speculum: of course the image of it. MSS. inspeculum; see Lachmann's interesting note illustrating such intrusion of in.

284. idem: M. edd.; eum, OQ; iterum, Lachm. Idem refers to speculum, but it is harsh; Christ; 10, would keep eum sc. speculum.

285. reiecta: 'reflected.' Distinguish (with Bock.) — 1, aer speculi; 2, speculum; 3, aer imaginis a speculo reiectae; 4, imago.

286. Cf. 6, 1026, 'qui post est cumque locatus | aer a tergo quasi provehat atque propellat.'

287. Cf. 282. — hunc: the second air. — se: the image. Creech's interpretation of this discussion is as follows: 'sic ubi primum speculi imago se proiecit, dum ad nos oculos venit, protrudit et propellit aera qui inter se et oculos iacet, et facit ut prius sentire possimus omnem istum aera, quam speculum istum: sed quando ipsum quoque speculum sensimus, continuo imago ista quae a nobis mittitur illud speculum attingit, et ad nos oculos remissa redit et ante se alium aera protrudit et facit ut istum alium aera sentiamus prius quam se; et ob hanc causam esse tam procul ultra speculum videtur.'

288. Cf. 270. O has av speculo, and OQ, in 2, 99, av ictu; cf. the compounds, aufugio, aufero.

289. etiam atque etiam: 3, 228 n. — par: 1, 361 n. Lamb. thought this and the two following verses spurious.

290. * illis quae reddunt: Goebel, Polle, Br. Giuss.; illic quor reddant, M. Bail.; Lachm., with no change of words or lacuna, transfers to follow 270, Bern. to follow 269. Polle's proposed stopgap was hic quoque imaginibus spatium quod conduplicatur, which is inadequate; there was probably something about the things which do not reflect. Goebel proposed quasque foris res tam simili ratione videri. — aequore: cf. 107.

291. aeribus: a technical plural; cf. 5, 645, — utraque: 86 n.

292. membrorum = corporis, as frequently.

— 293. A very prosaic line.

294. ad: postpositive, 3, 24 n. — offendit, 'strikes.' Wakef. comp. Georg. 4, 50, 'vocisque offensae resultat imago.'

295. recta retrorsum, 'in a right line backwards,' M.

296. eliditur: cf. 323 (299), 339 (315).

297. cretea seems  $\delta\pi.\lambda\epsilon\gamma$ .

298. continuo, 'straightway.' — rectam fronte figuram, 'the lines of its features undistorted in front,' M. Giuss. 'reversed,' denying that fronte is = a fronte. For fronte Br. reads forte, which is mentioned by Lamb. and Wakef.; but fronte could not be a corruption of forte. Br. Phil. 29, 441, objects that fronte must mean either 'face' or 'before'; and that the first meaning is out of place, the second senseless.

323 (299). Verses 323–348 were transferred here by Lamb. with Q corr. The original Ms., as Lachm. acutely observed, had its 76th leaf,  $2 \times 26$  lines = 49 verses and 3 headings, inverted. M. translates this line: 'and were to strike out an exact copy of itself straight backwards.' Höfer (17) would read sumat for servet. — exprimat, 'body forth,' vividly represent; see Reid on Acad. 2, 77.

324 (300). ita, Lachm. ; ut, OQ; et, Wakef. — oculus: oculos, Q corr. Wakef.

325. laevus: 3, 649 n. — e, 'instead of'; Aen. 10, 221, 'nymphas e navibus esse | iusserat.' Cf. on 1, 186. — mutua: 3, 801 n.

326. tradatur, 'delivered,' cf. translucet, 332; transfertur, 338.

327. aut sex: Lachm. Giuss.; 577, 'sex etiam aut septem'; sexe, Marull. M. Br. Bail.: sex, alone, OQ. Sex septem is asyndetic in Hor. Ep. 1, 1, 58; Ter. Eun. 332; Cic. Att. 10, 8, 6; with aut Varro, Sat. Men. 203, 9, R. (438 B.); Mart. 4, 15, 2; 7, 15, 1; vel, Colum. 2, 13; ve, Mart. 8, 3, 1; Flor. 2, 18, 9, given by Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 83.

328. retro latebunt: abdita retro, 607. — parte interiore: sc. domus.

329 (305). inde: parte interiore, and so penitus. — torte, 'deviously,' here only in L.; lex. does not quote it elsewhere. By torte L. means that the image might pass through corridors and around corners.

330. flexos aditus, 'winding passages,' zigzag. Cf. 93. — educta quaecumque (haec).

331. pluribus speculis: abl. of means. — videntur: passive.

332. adeo speculo; OQ, Lachm. M.; adeo e sp. Wakef. Br. Giuss. Bail. For the omission of the prep. cf. 3, 757 and n.

333. data est: 'presented,' sc. a primo speculo. — rusum: 3, 45 n. — dextera: see 3, 651 n., and cf. 337 below.

334 (310). convertit: OQ. Br. Bail. Langen Phil. 34, 33; convertitur, Lachm. M., cf. 295, 341; but variations are common enough. For verto reflexive, see Wölfflin, Archiv, 10, 5, and also L. 5, 831. — eodem: adv.

335. latuscula: an uncommon word; probably plebeian: Cooper, Serm. Pleb. 175.

336. Note the interlocking. — flexura: an uncommon word, not in Cic. and only here in L. As the mirrors were metallic he is describing convex ones or those with convex edges. Several of these might be joined together to form a concave mirror; and a mirror with concave reflecting surface might be convex on the other side.

337. dextera: not reversed to the left, to the spectator, as in the case of flat mirrors. — eaxpropter: Ter. And. 959, Bentl. Dziatzko, Servius; cf. 28 n., and such forms as hactenus, hacpropter.

338. de . . transfertur: ab and ex are more common with transfero.

339 (315). elisa bis: de speculo in speculum. Höfer strangely understands 'divisible by two.' — advolat: the dactylic poets use only advolet and -at, and only in the first and fifth feet except here and in Sil. 15, 243; Thes. 1, 895, 44.

340. circum agitur, 'turned around' a half circle's distance. Note the elision of circum; so in Plaut. Pseud. 899, circum ire. — vénit: not vénit.

341. docet: sc. imaginem. Cf. meminit, 153; curat, 245. — ad nos: in our direction, so Höfer. M. learned that laterally concave mirrors give images such as L. describes; those vertical concave invert the image.

342. indugredi: 1, 82 n. — pariter: with nobiscum. — pedemque ponere: 3, 4 n.

343. gestumque imitari: 365. — credas: potential.

344 (320). propterea quia: p. quod, 340; cf. on 3, 572. The movement may be parallel to the plane of the mirror or back from it.

345. illinc: from the first part. The image is not lost, but fails to find the observer, who has changed his position.

346. Giuss. infers a lacuna after 345 and transfers 346 and 347 to follow 331. Gneisse also would have a lacuna on account of his theory of porro (1, 184 n.). Giuss. thinks the remarks are out of place here, but it is L.'s habit to close a discussion with the enunciation of a general law; cf. 2, 292, 815.

347 (323). The alliteration with r was probably conscious.—ad aequos flexus: according to similar windings. The doctrine that the angle of reflection is equal to the angle of incidence was known to the geometers of L.'s time.

299-322, 348-378 (324-378). 'The eyes cannot look on bright things for brightness burns them; jaundiced persons emit yellow particles from their eyes and hence see yellow; light things are seen out of the dark because the light drives the dark airs away; square towers in the distance look round because the idols are bruised in coming; the human shadow is caused by the interception of light.'

299. Br. brackets 299-363, which seems unnecessary, although the observations are miscellaneous.—fugitant tueri: 1, 658 n.

300 (325). tendere (oculos) pergas: 3, 948 n. Cf. on 1, 66.

301. alte: 5, 610, 'rosea sol alte lampade lucens.' Giuss. disputes M.'s interpretation, ab alto.

302. graviter: 1, 741 n.—feruntur: cf. 2, 239.

303. Note the pentasyll. ending: 2, 878 n.—composituras, 'fastenings,' socks etc.; the word is antcl. and rare.

304. adurit: Hor. Ep. 2, 1, 13, 'urit enim fulgore suo.'

305 (330). semina ignis | multa: multa is emphasized. 5, 667, ignis . . . semina, and elsewhere.

306. insinuando: 6, 234, 'calor . . . insinuatus'

307. lurida: emphatic. Luridus is used by Plaut. Hor. Ov. Sen. Pliny, Sil.; luror by Claudian and Apul. 'Luridi supra modum pallidi,' Paul. ex Fest.; 'totum corpus cum pallore quodam inalbescit,' Celsus, 3, 24, who also says 'color autem cum morbum detegit maxime oculorum in quibus quod album esse debet sit luteum.'

308. arquati: 'jaundiced.' Nonius says that arquatus morbus called regius is 'quod arcus sit concolor de virore.' Galen describes the same phenomena as arising from the suffusion of the eyes with bile.

309. rerum: with semina, as well as with simulacris.

310 (335). oculis in: 3, 24 n., but 1, 894, in rebus . . . mixtas; 1, 877, inmixtas rebus; 3, 393, corporibus inmixta.—denique, 'too.'

311. contage: 3, 345 n.—palloribus: the pl. is unusual: Tac. Agric. 45, tot hominum palloribus; cf. on 3, 154. Culex, 144, 'pinguntque aureolos viridi pallore corymbo.'

312. e tenebris tuemur is the order.

313. aer, 'current of air,' as before.

314. init: pf.; 3, 1042 n.

315 (340). insequitur: 3, 172 n.—candens lucidus aer corresponds to caliginis aer ater; see on 1, 258.

316. purgat, 'clear them out'; cf. quasi perterget, 249.—discutit umbras: Georg. 3, 357, 'tum Sol pallentis haut umquam discutit umbras.'

317. multis partibus: 1, 735 n.

318. mobilior, 'swifter'; cf. on 2, 65.—minutior: the comparative is cited only from here; cf. on 3, 191.—mage: 81 n.

319. vias oculorum: cf. 351.

320 (345). patēfecit: patēfiet, 6, 1001.—aer, Bern. edd.; ater, OQ, Lachm.

321. ater: added by Bern. edd.; aera, Lachm.; simulacula adaperta, Flor. 31, old vulgate.

322 (347). lacessunt: as in 217.

348. 'The reverse we cannot do.'—quod contra: 1, 82 n.—facere: i.e. videre (quae sunt) in tenebris.

349. posterior: predicate.

350. crassior: used frequently of the atmosphere; see lex.

351. obsidit: from obsido.

352. movere: Bentl. edd. sc. oculos, i.e. lacessere; OQ, moveri.

353. turris: Sext. Empir. adv. Math. 7, 208 (in Usener, Epic. Fr. 247), οὐδὲ εἴποιμι ψεύδεσθαι τὴν ὥψιν διτὶ ἐκ μακροῦ μὲν διαστήματος μικρὸν δῆλον πόργον καὶ στρογγύλον, ἐκ τοῦ σύνεγγυς μείζονα καὶ τετράγωνον, δῆλὰ μᾶλλον διηγθεῖν, διτὶ καὶ διτὶ φαίνεται μικρὸν αὐτῷ τὸ αἰσθῆτόν καὶ τοιουτόσχημον, διτὼς ἔστι μικρὸν καὶ τοιουτόσχημον, τῷ διὰ τοῦ δέρους φορῷ ἀποθραυσμένων τῶν κατὰ τὰ εἴδωλα περάτων κτλ. Tert. de Anima, 17, 'Itaque mendacium visui obicitur quod remos in aqua inflexos vel infractos adseverat adversus conscientiam integratatis, quod turrem quadrangulatam de longinquō rotundam persuadeat, quod aequalissimam porticum angustiorem in ultimo infamet, quod caelum tanta sublimitate suspensum mari iungat'; Sen. NQ. I, 3, 9, 'columnarum intervalla porticus longior iungit'; Plut. adv. Col. 25 (Usener, Fr. 252), 'when a tower at a distance appears round and we combine the visual impression of roundness with the conception of the tower, but afterwards upon approaching the tower find it to be square, our subsequent impression contradicts our previous opinion without however making the earlier sensation to be erroneous,' as tr. by Ritter-Morrison, Hist. Phil. I, 427. Lewes, Problems of Life and Mind, I, 2, 74, 'when a man errs in supposing that the moon is larger at the horizon than at the zenith, or that a certain tower is round which seen at a lesser distance appears square, the error of judgment is that of generalizing the terms, without at the same time generalizing their import, and assuming that a change in the conditions will not bring with it a correlative change in the expressions.' Macrobius, Sat. 7, 14, 20, 'hac cessante visus inefficax est adeo ut quod remus in aqua fractus videtur vel quod turris minus visa, cum sit angulosa rotunda existimatur, faciat rationis neglegentia quae si se intenderit, agnoscit in turre angulos et in remo integratatem' (cf. L. 4, 438). Lamb. quotes Alex. Aphrodis. I, Problem. 37, 'why does the square appear round at a distance.' Petron. Fr. 29, 'nam turris, prope quae quadrata surgit, | detritis procul angulis rotatur'; Sen. NQ. I, 3, 9, 'remus tenui aqua tegitur et fracti speciem reddit.' See in general Reid's Works (N.Y. 1822), II, 117.

354. rutundae: 3, 186 n.

355. optusus: predicate.

356. etiam potius: etiam is superfluous in English idiom.

357. Cf. 248.—nec ad: 3, 531 m.

358. aera per multum: 558.

359. eum: sc. ictum.—offensibus: 6, 333, 'multis offensibus'; 2, 223 n.

360. hoc: abl. with ubi; cf. 553, 622, 658; 5, 807, etc.; Georg. 2, 312; Archiv, I, 1, 102.—suffugit: a rare word, not in Cicero; 5, 150, tactum suffugit.

361. tornum . . . terantur: M. Bock. Gius.; turnum . . . tuantur, OQ; tornum . . . tuamur, Lachm. Br. Bail. Cf. the quotation from Petronius above, and also M.'s citations, Georg. 2, 444, 'hinc radiis trivere rotis,' explained by Servius, 'tornavere,' composuere de torno, and Pliny, 36, 193, 'aliud torno teritur.' — saxorum structa, 'stone structures'; 1, 86 n.

362. ut, 'like.'

363. adumbratim: ἀντί λεγεῖ. — paulum simulata: 'resembling them a little.'

364. in sole: 1, 306 n.

365. gestumque imitari: 343 (319).

366. No doubt there were still among the Romans vestiges of primitive superstition in relation to shadows. Cf. the story of Peter Schlemihl. — si credis: 1, 1057 n.

367. indugredi: 1, 82 n. — sequentem: with aera.

368. potest: the subject is id. — lumine cassus: Aen. 2, 85, 'cassum lumine,' with different meaning. Cf. for the Virgilian rhythm, L. 5, 719.

369. A rough verse. — perhibere: 3, 597 n. — suēmus: 1, 60 n.

370. locis ex ordine certis: 973, 'dies multos ex ordine.'

371. lumine solis: 1, 5 n.

372. officimus, 'obstruct' — repletur (id). — eius: sc. terrae. The partitive gen. with the relative was used by Livy; Dr. § 199, 7. Cf. on 1, 782.

373. The order is videatur eadem secuta nos usque e regione.

374. corporis: emphatic. — e regione, 'in direct line.' 6, 344, 'e regione locum quasi in unum cuncta ferantur'; 6, 742, 823, 833.

375. semper, 'ever again.' Plaut. Asin. 420, 'qui semper me ira incendit' and Archiv, 5, 441.

376. prima, 'old'; Hor. AP. 61, prima cadunt. — lana: like wool vanishing in the flame (meaning tow or combings of wool). Others carmine lana, agmine, magine, imaginem. The Greek phrase ξαλεύει εἰς τῷ πῦρ is compared, which Jowett, Plato, Laws, 780 C, translates 'combing into the fire,' and continues 'or any other impossible and useless feat.' A modern simile would rather be a flash of powder. (I had thought of lina trahantur; cf. 6, 900.)

377. spoliatur lumine: cf. 5, 762–763. Spoliatum lumine, Aen. 12, 935.

378. Harsh elision; there is no word in Latin beginning with babl-. — ablit: edd.; cf. purgat, 316 (341). Hor. C. 1, 7, 15, 'Albus ut obscurō deterget nubila caelo.' — Adluit, OQ.

379–408. 'But the eyes are not deceived; they merely see light and shade; they are not accountable for illusions of the moving bank, the stars at rest and the like; the mind deludes itself by adding suppositions to what is actually seen.'

379. hic: cf. 382. — hilum: 3, 220 n.

380. sit lux atque (sit) umbra. See Reid on Cic. Acad. 2, 79 sq. for a general discussion of the credibility of the senses.

381. eadem: predicate. — necne: 1, 954; cf. 3, 713.

382. eadem: the very same shadow.

383. (id) flat. — paulo quod diximus ante: in 375. For the repeated phrase see on 1, 794.

384. Note the alliteration. — animi ratio: 1, 448 n. 'A false judgment is an influence which sensation irresistibly disproves. A false theory is a formula which the fact contradicts'; Lewes, Problems, etc. I, 2, 74.

385. The eyes do not understand physics. Neither a camera nor any other optical instrument is deceived.

386. proinde : in conclusion in 1, 672 ; 2, 755 ; 3, 870, 1090 ; 4, 499, 803 ; 5, 573 (570), 1041, 1131 ; 6, 601, 620, 1119 — adflingere : Arn. 1, 26 (p. 17, 14, R.), ‘regi crimen impietatis adflingit’; see lex.

387. stare : cf. in statione, 388, 396. Cic. Div. 2, 120, ‘nam et navigantibus moveri videntur ea quae stant, et quodam obtutu oculorum duo pro uno lucernae lumina’; Acad. 2, 81, ‘videsne navem illam? stare nobis videtur, at eis qui in navi, sunt moveri haec villa’; Reid there mentions this stock example as found in Sext. Pyrr. 1, 107 ; Math. 7, 414. — qua . . . (ea) fortur : 1, 15 n.

388. in statione : at rest at its moorings; Aen. 2, 23, ‘statio male fida carinis.’ — praeter ire : the infin. in tmesis, the other forms not; cf. 2, 1104. — creditur with infin. is not good prose usage; Dr. § 459, 2.

389. ad puppim : ‘astern.’

390. quos praeter : cf. quos supra, 406 ; 3, 838 n. — velisque volamus : Aen. 3, 520, ‘velorum pandimus alas.’

391. cessare : 2, 80 n. — aetheris cavernis : cf. 171.

392. et, ‘and yet.’ — adsiduo motu : 1, 995. For the abl. of quality cf. Madv. LG. 272 ; Roby, 1232.

393. longos, ‘distant.’ Lex. cites the rare meaning from Sil. 6, 628 ; Just. 18, 1 ; Ps. = Quint. Decl. 320 ; Munro comp. Serv. on Aen. 11, 544 ; Bell. Afric. 51, 6. — obitus : 5, 709, ‘oriens obitus eius super edita vidit.’

394. Note the alliteration. — suo corpore claro : 1, 413 n.

395. videntur : Lachm. edd. for videtur, on account of ea. — manere : opposite of ferri. This was another stock example. Cic. Acad. 2, 82, ‘cum ille sol qui tanta incitatione fertur ut celeritas eius quanta sit ne cogitari quidem possit, tamen nobis stare videatur.’

396. ea : sol et luna.

397. exstantisque : OQ, edd.; exstant usque, Lachm. Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 323, exstant sic scopuli medio de gurgite ponti; Purmann, Phil. 7, 734, existuntque. If the text is sound the interpretation is inter quos montis procul medio de gurgite existantis according to Winck. Polle, M. Giuss. Br. Phil. 29, 442, objecting, then compares 596–597, per loca quae . . . haec loca per where quae loca per was avoided. Catull. 64, 18 has exstantes e gurgite cano. Cf. on 1, 316.

398. liber may be a predicate of patet or liber ingens exitus may be taken together; cf. on 2, 7. Aen. 3, 410, ‘angusti rarescent claustra Pelori’; Just. 4, 1, 18, ‘ea est enim procul insipientibus natura loci ut sinum maris non transitum putet; quo cum accesseris ac seiungi promontoria quae antea iuncta fuerint arbitrere.’ — exitus : 1, 100 n.

399. ex his : sc. montibus.

400. atria : Juv. 6, 303, ‘cum bibitur concha cum iam vertigine tectum | ambulat.’ Edd. quote also Athen. 6, 245 and Q. Smyrnaeus, 13, 9 for similar effects from drunkenness.

401. Notice the dactyls and the alliteration. — ub(i) ipse : 1, 409 n.

402. verti: middle, or desierunt would have been passive; see Dr. § 92, and 2, 613 n.

403. ruere minari : 1, 722 n.

404. rubrum . . . ignibus : his favorite interlocking. The quantity of rūbrum is unexampled.—iubar: 5, 697, 'tremulum iubar haesitat ignis'; Aen. 4, 130, 'iubare exorto,' of the sun according to the best interpretation. Ennius, Sc. 292 and Aen. 7, 9 have lumine tremulo; cf. L. 6, 174.

405. coepiat: 1, 267 n. — montes: local coloring.

406. tibi: Naug. edd.; ubi, OQ; cf. on 3, 28. — montis is best taken as an acc.; supra quos montis . . . (ei) vix absunt, etc.; cf. on 397.

407. comminus: 1051; 6, 903, 'multaque praeterea prius ipso tacta vapore | eminus ardescunt quam comminus imbut ignis'; Catull. 64, 109 and Ellis there, and Vahlen, Berlin Index, Summer, 1897, 4. Comminus is better spelling than cominus; see Lindsay, LL. 554. — contingens: 1, 934 n.

408. Note the judicial spondees.—absunt nobis: the omission of the prep. is unusual; Dr. § 219, 2; cf. 244. — missus, 'flights,' not cited elsewhere in this meaning.—bis mille: poetical; Dr. § 59.

409. cursus quingentos saepe veruti is quoted from Ennius by Paul. ex Fest. (375 M.). 408–409 were suspected by Purmann as interpolated.

410. eos: montes; nos, Bock. — immania: 3, 460 n. — ponti aequora: 1, 8 n.

411. aetheris oris: 5, 85; 6, 61; aetheria plaga, Aen. 9, 638.

412. terrarum milia multa: e.g. the lands lying between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, between the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean, beyond the ocean itself.

413. quae: acc. — retinent: 2, 25 n. — saecla ferarum: 3, 629 n.; cf. 2, 1076.

414. collectus: 3, 198 n. Aetna, 294, 'collectus aquae.' — digitum non altior unum: Madv. LG. 306; Lane, 1329.

415. strata viarum: 1, 315 n.

416. despectum: a favorite word in Caesar, not in Cic. For the general thought cf. Hom. Θ 16 τὸσσον ἐρεψθ' Αἴθεων, δοῦον οὐπαρύς ἀτρή δρόδ γαῖης; Aen. 6, 577, 'tum Tartarus ipse | bis patet in praeceps tantum tenditque sub umbras, | quantus ad aetherium caeli suspectus Olympum.' — impete, 'reach'; 5, 913, 'hominem tanto membrorum esse impetum natum'; 6, 186, 'extruitis aliis alias super impetu miro'; 5, 200, 'quantum caeli tegit impetus ingens'; Caes. BG. 3, 8, 'in magno impetu maris vasti atque aperti,' and other examples in Wakef.

417. caeli hiatus: edd. comp. caeli palatum ut ait Ennius (Cic. ND. 2, 49).

418. despicere, OQ, Br. Giuss.; despicere, Lachm. M. Bail.; cf. 416 and see Munro, Notes, I, and Phil. 29, 444. Lachmann maintains that despicere with the acc. always implies contempt, and his dictum has influenced editors in such places as Georg. 2, 187. Nonius, 288, says simply despicere, desuper aspicere. Doubtless Lachmann's rule is generally true, but probably the word was used sometimes ambiguously like the English 'look down on.' — caeli ut: Bergk, Polle, Giuss.; caelum et videare, Q; c. v. Lachm. who places 419 before 418; caelum ut videare, O, M. who regards caelum as corrupt, and also Bail.; rerum ut, Nettleship; viva ut, Palmer; solem ut, Br. with lacuna after the verse, see Phil. 29, 446; videre et, Bern. but et does not come at the end of the hexameter in L.; cf. on 1, 557. M. suggests for caelum, volucrum or atque avium, because birds would look well in the picture. Goebel proposed nubila despicere et caeli ut v. v. | corpore mirando sub terras abdita signa; Winck. corpora mirando s. t. a. c. | nubila despicere et caelum; Polle, et caeli; Everett, Harv. St. 7, 32, clare for caelum; Cartault, et caeli ut videare videre.

419. OQ have corpora mirande . . . caelo, read by Wakef. Giuss. and by Bailey as corrupt; corpora miraclo . . . caeli, Bern.; c. mirando . . . caelo, M.; c. [†] mirande . . . caeli, Br.; ut prope miraclo . . . caeli, Lachm.; corpora mirando . . . caeli, Sauppe; c. mirandi . . . caeno, Bergk; c. mirande sub terris . . . caeli, Purmann; c. mirandum! sub terras abdita retro, Bentl.; c. mirando sub terra subditæ caelo, Cartault.—caerula may be defended by 1, 1090, cf. AJP. 21, 184; it was also proposed by Polle, who read tudo for caelo.—mirande is retained by Havercamp, 'studiose adverbialiter positum'; and by Nettleship and Palmer; and Br. in his Appendix regrets that he did not print mirande here and in 462.—sub terras abdita: sub terram abdite, Cic. Tusc. 2, 60; abdita, Palmer.—caelo: the reflected heaven. M. quotes Shelley: 'We paused beside the pools that lie | Under the forest bough, | Each seemed as 'twere a little sky | Gulfed in a world below; | A firmament of purple light, | Which in the dark earth lay.'

420. denique: cf. 426, 453, and on 1, 199.—acer: the swift horse is stopped. Aen. 1, 144, 'caput acris equi'; cf. Thes. 1, 358, 83.

421. flumine, 'stream.'—annis: 1, 15 n.—desperimus: Flor. 31, edd.; desperimus, OQ.

422. transversum: 2, 213 n.

423. vis: subject postponed in his manner.—adversum: 3, 1000.

424. ferri: of water in 1, 281.

425. adsimili: metr. gr. for simili; cf. 2, 493; 4, 336; and on consimili, 3, 74.

426. ductu, 'line'; here only in L. The portico was another stock example: Sen. Ben. 7, 1, 5, 'quare latitudo porticus ex remoto spectantibus non servet proportionem suam, sed ultima in angustius coeant et columnarum novissime intervalla iungantur'; id. NQ. 1, 3, 9, 'columnarum intervalla porticus longior iungit.' See the quotation from Tert. in 353 n. The modern illustration would be from a railway track, but in modern books on Physics the columns hold their own. See also Sextus, Pyrr. 1, 118. Petr. S. 29, 'in deficiente . . . porticu.'

427. stansque: i.e. et est stans = et stat; cf. on 3, 396. Bock. prints statque.—in perpetuum, throughout its extent; L. uses perpetuus elsewhere of time, but 4, 537 may be an exception. Aen. 8, 183, 'perpetui tergo bovia.'

428. longa tota: the whole length.—summa: from the upper end.

429. 'it gradually forms the contracted top of a narrowing cone,' M.

430. solo: 1, 212 n.—dextera laevis: cf. 276.

431. obscurum, 'dim.'—conduxit: sc. tecta solum dextera laeva.—acumen, 'vanishing point,' M. 6, 1193, 'nasi primoris acumen.' Thes. 1, 459, 68, quotes Chalcidius Comm. 20, 'pyramidis anguli sunt productiores in acumine.'

432. nautis: dative. The juxtaposition ex undis ortus in undis . . . obire is in his manner.

433. Join fit uti sol videatur.—obire: obitus, 393 and 5, 776.—condere lumen: of the moon, 5, 710. See on 3, 1090, and cf. Georg. 1, 438, 'sol quoque et exoriens et cum se condet in undas.'

434. quippe ubi, 'naturally since,' etc.; so Giuss. Cf. 1, 182 n. Br. takes it as temporal and Langen thinks the verse interpolated. Cf. Aen. 3, 193, 'caelum un-dique et undique pontus'; Ov. Tr. 1, 2, 23, 'nihil est nisi pontus et aer.'—tuentur: Proll, tuantur.

435 is placed after 386 by Bock. and Giuss. with Langen, Phil. 34, 33, and Edelbluth, Conj. 58. It is somewhat disturbing here, but not enough to warrant the proposed change.—leviter, ‘without ground.’—labefactari: cf. 1, 694.—undique, ‘completely’; Catull. 51, 5, ‘quod omnis eripit sensus mihi’; see on 2, 990.

436. clauda: M. compares 515, libella si . . . claudicat hilum, clauda being the reverse of recta.

437. navigia : 6, 430, ‘navigia in summum veniant vexata periculum.’—apulstris : 2, 555.—undis : Itali, old vulgate; undas, OQ; undae, Lachm. edd. If undae be read it must be dative. L. has nowhere else unda in the sing.; possibly ob nitier undas should be read even if ob is not used elsewhere by him in this sense; adversus niti, 5, 310; cf. Roby, 2017. Ob liquorem obeunt, 440. But undis agrees best with Lucretian usage. OQ have also factas, which Bock. defends.

438. rorem salis : 1, 496 n; Georg. 4, 431, ‘rorem late dispergit amarum.’—For the illustration cf. on 353 and 2, 801, and Tennyson cited by Reid (Acad. 269), ‘All we have power to see is a straight staff bent in a pool.’

439. guberna : 2, 553 n.

440. liquorem: uncommon in L. without a defining word; Hor. C. 3, 3, 46, ‘qua medius liquor | secernit Europen ab Afro.’

441. supina, ‘sloping upwards’; cf. 518.

442. Note refracta, reverti, reflexa.

443. rara, ‘thinly scattered,’ M.; an uncommon meaning in L.—venti nubila portant : also in 6, 630.

444. tempore nocturno : 793, 1008; 5, 971; 6, 849.—splendida signa : s. luminaria solis, 2, 108.—signa : 1, 2 n.

445. labier : 3, 67 n.—superne : 1, 496 n.

446. vera ratione, ‘in fact,’ 1, 51 n. Vera, Voss, edd.

447. super pressit: there is no compound subterprimo. Cic. Acad. 2, 80, ‘Timagoras Epicureus negat sibi umquam, cum oculum torsisset, duas ex lucerna flammulas esse visas; opinionis enim esse mendacium, non oculorum.’ See Reid’s note there, who shows that this deception of sense was discussed in the Eudem. Ethica, 7, 12; Arist. Probl. 31, 17; Sextus, Math. 7, 192.—Aen. 12, 908, ‘oculos ubi languida pressit | nocte quies.’

448. sensu : sensus eorum (oculorum), 3, 361.

449. tuimur tuendo : pleonastic like subdita super, 447; bina geminare, 451.—Juv. 6, 305, ‘geminis exsurgit mensa lucernis’; Petr. S. 64, ‘lucernae mihi plures videbantur ardere.’

450. Note alliteration and interlocking.—florentia flammis : 1, 900, and n. Hor. S. 2, 1, 25, ‘accessit fervor capiti numerusque lucernis.’ Edd. cite Tert. Apol. 11, ‘lumina floruisse.’

451. bina supellex : 5, 879, ‘duplice natura et corpore bino.’ Neue-Wagener, 2, 333, quote bina lampade from Nemesianus, Cyn. 123.—aedis, ‘mansion’; 3, 1060 n.

452. duplicis : 274 n.—facies : for human faces in 1094; 5, 1111, etc.

453. devinxit : 1027, ‘somno devincti’; Enn. Ann. 5, ‘somno leni placidoque revinctus.’—sopore somnus : 3, 431, ‘in somnis sopiti’ and n. there.

454. summa quiete : 2, 310; fessum corpus mandare quieti, 4, 848.—corpus : variation from membra as in 3, 112-113; see n.

455. vigilare : 979, ‘etiam vigilantes ut videantur | cernere saltantis et mollia membra moventis’; cf. also 789, 878; 5, 1173. Wakef. quotes Manil. 5, 636, ‘vigilantia membra.’

456. Note the alliteration : ee | ee — nostra : emphatic. — caligine caeca : 3, 304 n.

457. cernere : again for videre, metr. gr. — censemus : 1, 973 n. — lumenque diurnum : luce diurna, 6, 848.

458. conclusoqe loco : Hor. S. 1, 4, 76, ‘suave locus voci resonat conclusus.’ — caelum mare flumina montis : for the asyndeton cf. 1, 820, ‘caelum mare terras flumina solem’; 5, 261, ‘mare flumina fontes.’

459. mutare : 6, 1134, ‘caeli mutemus amictum’; 3, 1059, ‘commutare locum.’ Sen. Epf. 104, 8, ‘quid prodest mare traicere et urbes mutare?’ Bock. reads metari.

460. sonitus : 6, 927, ‘nec varii cessant sonitus manare per auras.’ — severa silentia : 583, ‘tacitura silentia’; 5, 1190, ‘noctis signa severa’; Hor. C. 2, 8, 10, ‘tacitura noctis | signa.’ — noctis : Q corr.; montis, OQ.

461. reddere dicta : r. vocis, 577.

462. mirande : OQ, Haverc. Wakef. Bock. Giuss. Bail.; and now Br.; cf. 419; miraci, Lachm.; miracula, M., cf. 590 sq.; mirando, Flor. 31; multa et miranda, Bergk.; mirandum ut, Everett.

463. violare fidem : 505, and cf. 1, 694.

464. nequicquam quoniam : 1110, 1133; 2, 1148; 5, 1332; etc. Catull. 114, 4; Livy, 42, 64, 4, and Gronov. there; Archiv, 2, 9. ‘I had always observed that mournful nequicquam which comes to throw cold water on us after a little glow of hope . . . Magnus rules in L. as much as nequicquam,’ E. Fitzgerald, Works, 3, 285.—pars maxima : Epic. ad Herod. 50, τὸ δὲ ψεῦδος καὶ τὸ δημαρτημένον ἐπ τῷ προδοξαζόμενῳ δεῖσιν.

465. opinatus : δτ. λεγ. for ὄπινόνες. Aet. 4, 9, 5 (in Usener, p. 183, 26) ‘Ἐπίκουρος τάσσεται αἰσθησιν καὶ τάσσεται φαντασίαν δληθή, τῶν δὲ δοξῶν τὰς μὲν δληθεῖς τὰς δὲ ψεῦδεις; cf. Sext. Emp. Math. 7, 203, in Usener, 181, 7. Cic. Legg. 1, 47, ‘sed perturbat nos opiniorum varietas hominumque dissensio et quia non idem contingit in sensibus hos natura certos putamus, illa quae aliis sic, aliis secus, nec isdem semper uno modo videntur, facta esse dicimus’; id. Div. 1, 118, of prodigies, ‘male coniecta maleque interpretata falsa sunt, non rerum vitio, sed interpretum inscientia.’ Tert. Anima, 17, ‘sensus enim pati, non opinari; animam enim opinari.’ ‘The mind has transcended the merely perceived and has given it a meaning,’ Wallace, Epicur. 227. ‘Den Sinnen hast du dann zu trauen; | Kein Falsches lassen sie dich schauen, | Wenn dein Verstand dich wach erhält,’ Goethe.

466. visis . . . visa are both participles; he uses the word visus in another sense.

467. aegrius : cf. aegre, 2, 198.—apertas : cf. 596. ‘Wherein then lies the deception? It is evident that it lies in this, that because this body has some qualities belonging to an apple I conclude that it is an apple. This is a fallacy, not of the senses, but of inconclusive reasoning. The errors we fall into with regard to objects of sense are not corrected by reason, but by more accurate attention to the informations we may receive by our senses themselves,’ T. Reid, Works (1822), 2, 120, 126.

468. addit: προσδοξάστι, Epic.—ab se = ipse, 3, 271; Thes. 1, 34, 35. M. comp. Plaut. Trin. 182, ‘a me argentum dedi.’

469-521. 'Then again, if any one thinks knowledge is impossible, how does he know what knowledge is? The senses furnish the grounds of reasoning and cannot be mistaken; for what can be more trustworthy? Each sense is equally trustworthy at all times, and reasoning must rest upon the evidence of sensation and will be false if the senses be false.'

469. siquis: a sceptic, or New-Academic. Metrodorus of Chius, who developed the sceptical side of Democritus' philosophy, says, in Cic. Acad. 2, 73, 'nego scire nos sciamusne aliquid an nihil sciamus, ne id ipsum quidem, nescire aut scire, scire nos, nec omnino sitne aliquid an nihil sit'; see Reid there.—id quoque nescit: Catull. 17, 22, 'ipse qui sit, utrum sit an non sit, id quoque nescit.'

470. scire: sc. se.

471. contra: anastrophic, 3, 353 n.—mittam contendere: 690, mitto dicere; 6, 1056, mirari mitte. Bock. quotes Quint. 3, 4, 8, 'de his lite contenditur.'—causam: 3, 951, exponere causam.

472. The prose order might be qui ipse sese statuit capite in sua vestigia. Ter. Ad. 316, 'capite in terram statuerem.' The thought is, 'I cannot debate with a man who stands on his head'; not that the Latin means this exactly, but one who reverses the true order of things by questioning what should be regarded as a postulate needing no proof. One who denies the evidence of the senses would discuss the propriety of standing upside down. The phrase sounds proverbial.—sua: Lachm. edd.; suo, OQ; yet L. may have been less acute than Lachmann.

473. uti, 'supposing that'; 2, 541.—scire at: for elision see on 1, 350.

474. cum, 'considering that.'

475. undē sciat: 'Dawes' rule: the Latin poets after the time of L. lengthened a naturally short vowel [syllable?] at the end of a word when the following word began with sc, sp, sq, st. But this is not observed by the satirists. . . . The Roman poets of the Augustan age and their successors in serious compositions carefully avoided placing a word ending with a short vowel before a word beginning with sc, etc.' Ramsay, Lat. Prosody, 272, 278. Cf. Gild.-Lodge, LG. 703, 1; Lane, 2458; and on 1, 372.—quid sit scire: cf. 3, 354, 'quid sit corpus sentire.'—'While Epicureanism claims to rest all truth and reality on sensation, its own theory of the world is confessedly at variance with the verdict of sensation. It is reason, and not feeling, which pronounces for the atomic constitution of things,—which enlightens a man as to the limitations of life and pleasure,' Wallace, Epic. 268. 'There is no safer guide than the senses, they are my philosophers. However much we may revile them, we must always come back to them if we wish seriously to discover the truth,' De la Mettrie, quoted by Lange, Materialism, 2, 57.

476. notitiam: O, edd.; notitiam, Q. N. veri, 'conception of truth'; see Höfer, 22. Bock. remarks that notitia veri = scire; n. falsi = nescire; certum = verum; dubium = falsum. It would be more exact to indicate correspondence rather than equality.

477. quaeres: as in 476; more emphatic than quid.

478. primis ab sensibus = ab sensibus ut primis, Giuss.; cf. 3, 250 and n. For ab, cf. 483, 521; so creari = oriri here.

479. notitiam: 2, 745 n.

480. maiore: i.e. than any other thing.

481. sponte sua, 'independently.'—veris . . . falsa, 764, 'falsum veris convincere rebus.' 'Epicurus, in the language of modern philosophy, lays down immediate consciousness as the final court of appeal. Clear and distinct consciousness is not an unfair equivalent for his ἐνδρέμενα τῆς αἰσθήσεως, perspicuitas, or evidentness of perception,' Wallace, Epic. 216.

482. sensus, 'sense,' αἰσθησις.

483. falso: merely for the sake of argument; falsus sensus is impossible. Höfer reads apta for orta; Epic. in DL. 10, 31 (Usener, Fr. 36), πᾶς γὰρ λόγος ἀπὸ τῶν αἰσθήσεων ἤρηται.

484. eos: sc. sensus. 1, 694, 'et labefactat eos unde omnia credita pendent.'—eos contra: L. does not limit the placing of polysyll. prepositions after monosyll. pronouns only; 5, 708, eum contra; 6, 785, eas super. Cic. and Caes. avoid the use, according to Degering; cf. on 3, 839.—orta: apta, Br., suggested by Höfer's change in 483.

485. 3, 523, 'falsa ratione vera videtur | res occurrere.'

486. reprehendere: 497. Epic. l. c., οὐτὲ η διομοιγένεια τὴν διομοιγένειαν, οὐ γὰρ τῶν αὐτῶν εἰσὶ κρίτα. —aures: Polle, Jahrb. 95, 34, writes auris | tactus for variety, comparing tenuis aures in 912. Aures, acc. pl., occurs 21 times in L., auris, 2 times; cf. Thes. 2, 1501, 84.

487. sapor oris: 494; 2, 511.

488. revincent: cf. 481 and on 1, 593.

489. non ut . . . ita est: 1, 684 n.—seorsum: 3, 286 n.

490. divisast, 'assigned.' The verse is rejected by Bock.—ideoque: a rare combination in classical writers, first quoted from here; common in silver Latin. Cf. 495, 678; 5, 626; Dr. § 357, 5; Schmalz, 468.

491. seorsum, Bentl. edd. for videri.

492. sentire colores: 2, 811.

493. colorib': 1, 570 n.—coniuncta: i.e. the forms, Giuss. Cf. 2, 743, 'nullo coniuncta colore'; the idols have form as well as color.—videre: Lachm. edd. for necessest. Br. brackets the verse as tautologous; see Phil. 29, 446.

494. seorsus . . . vim: i.e. in the mouth.

495. nascantur: Giuss. suggests noscuntur.—sorsum, following seorsum; 3, 631 n. Sorsus sonitus would be uneuphonic.

496. convincere: vincere, 481; revincent, 488.

497. ipai: each sense by itself.—reprehendere: Epic. l. c., οὐτέ γὰρ η διομοιγένεια αἰσθήσεις τὴν διομοιγήν (διελέγεται) διὰ τὴν λοοσθένταν (Usener, Fr. 36).

498. semper is emphatic.

499. proinde: 386 n.

500. dissolvere, 'explain,' a rhetorical term; Cic. Orat. 2, 158, 'reperiunt non modo ea quae iam non possint ipsi dissolvere, sed etiam quibus ante exorsa et potius detexta prope retexantur.' Arn. I, II, 'dissolvere neque originem valeas neque causam.'

501. iuxtim: 1213 and 1, 20 n.—quadrata: 353 n.

502. rutunda: 3, 186 n.—rationis egentem: Aen. 8, 299, in another sense.

503. mendose: i.e. to set up a working hypothesis; see 5, 526 sq.; 6, 703 sq.; Sen. NQ, 6, 20, 5. This is a characteristic element of Epicurean physics, repeatedly appearing in the letter to Pythocles. Epicurus was not a physicist, but merely used physical principles to support his theology, such as it was. In general cf. Lange, Materialism, 2, 152; Stanley, Hist. Phil. (1701), 594.—figurae: 1, 685 n.

504. manibus manifesta: manifestus is a compound of manus.—emittere, 'let go.'—quoquam, 'anywhere'; cf. on 1, 428.

505. violare fidem: 463 and 1, 423, 'cui nisi prima fides fundata valebit.'

506. nixatur: 3, 1000 n.—vita salusque, 'safety of life'; 2, 863, 'fundamenta quibus nitatur summa salutis.' L. has salus, nom., only here. Bock. comp. 2, 942, 'omnitudines sensus animantem quamque tueruntur'; 3, 550, 'alii sensus qui vitam cumque gubernant.'

507. non modo: without sed or verum: Tac. Ann. 3, 19, 'non modo apud illos homines . . . etiam'; H. 2, 27, 'nec solum apud Caecinam . . . Fabii quoque'; see Dr. § 333, 8, g.

508. exempli, 'forthwith.'—ausis: irony. It means more than velis, but cf. 5, 730.

509. Br. infers a lacuna between 508 and 509.—locos for loca; so Aen. 1, 306; Livy, 5, 35, 1; etc.—Cf. Hor. Ep. 2, 2, 135, 'posset qui rupem et puteum vitare patentem.'—vitare: sc. ausis, but Giuss. makes it a subject of concidat; Creech, 'ab illis monitus praeceps fugere.'

510. cetera in genere hoc: cf. 3, 481.

511. Giuss. transfers 511, 512 to follow 521.—verborum copia: argumentorum c., 1, 417.

512. instructa, 'arrayed'; a military metaphor; cf. 2, 6, and lex., paro.

513. denique: another anacoluthon.—fabrica, 'building.' The word was dubious in Quintilian's time (8, 3, 34).—prava, 'bent.'—regula: carpenter's rule.

514. norma: a square.—rectis regionibus, 'straight lines,' plumb; 2, 249 n.

515. libella: a level, i.e. a triangle with a plumb line suspended from the apex; see Rich's Dictionary.—parti: 1, 1111 n.—claudicat: 3, 453 n.—hilum: 3, 514 n.

516. omnia: with tecta.—obstipa: 'bent on one side.'

517. For asyndeton, cf. 90.—absona: not found before L. and Cicero; avoided by the purists on account of **assonus*, and displacing in some degree dissonus; see Archiv, 6, 195.

518. velle: μέλλειν; see on 3, 594.—ruant: with omnia; see Phil. 32, 478.

519. iudicia: based on faulty instruments.—Shorey, Harv. St. 12, 207, comp. Plato, Laws, 793 c, οἷον τεκτόνων ἐν οἰκοδομήμασιν ἔρεσματα ἐκ μέσου ὑπορρέοντα, συμπίπτειν εἰς ταῦτα ποιεῖ τὰ ξύμπαντα, κεῖθαλι τε ἀλλὰ οὐφ' ἔτέρων αὐτά τε καὶ τὰ καλῶν ὕπερον ἐποικοδομηθέντα, τῶν ἀρχαίων ὑποκεσθέντων.

520. igitur: 1, 419 n.—ratio rerum, 'reasoning about things,' and by inference a system of philosophy based on incorrect foundations. Höfer, 24, goes too far in making it directly 'philosophy.'

521. falsis, 'deceived.'

522-546. 'Hear now how the other senses work. Sound is heard when particles of voice strike the sense. Voice makes its way through the throat and sometimes scrapes it, and long-continued speaking weakens the body. Roughness and smoothness of voice are due to the quality of the first beginnings.' Schütte, 35 sq., discusses this whole section.

522. quo pacto, ‘by what arrangement’; 1, 307 n. — suam: in its own particular field.

523. ratio: ‘way of explanation’; cf. 6, 132, 639. — scruposa, ‘rough,’ hard; cited only here in a figurative sense.

524. Epic. ad Herod. 52, τὸ δικοῖς γίνεται δεύματός τιος φερομένου διὸ τοῦ φωνούστος ή ἡχούστος ή ψυχοφόνος ή δύως δὴ τοτὲ δικούστικὸν πάθος παρασκευόστος.

525. pepoplere: cf. 527; Cic. ND. 1, 106, ‘cuius crebra facie pellantur animi.’ In sangere et tangi nisi corpus nulla potest res, 1, 304, tangere = pellere.

526. vocem: supplied by edd. Lachm. and recent edd. place it before quoque enim, the Itali, Flor. 31, and old vulgate place it after. Edelbluth, 35, shows that elsewhere enim is in the third place and quoque second; cf. 6, 116. For quoque out of place, cf. on 3, 349.

527. sensus: by hearing, pellendo; by feeling, radendo.

528. praeterea: O, edd.; propterea, Q; practer radii enim, old vulg.

529. asperiora arteria: ‘aspera arteria (sic enim a medicis appellatur),’ Cic. ND. 2, 136; τραχεῖα ἀρτηρία. The neu. pl. does not occur elsewhere in class. Lat.; Thes. 2, 686, 10. — gradiens: ‘nimio confidentius’ Gellius (10, 26, 9) says of the metaphor.

530. quippe, ‘for.’ — angustum: 5, 1132, ‘angustum per iter.’ — turba maiore coorta: 6, 465, ‘turba maiore coorta | et condensa queant’; 6, 511, ‘turba maiore coacta | urget.’

531. foras: from the trachea into the mouth.

532. expleti: Purmann, Lachm. M.; expletis, OQ, Bail. Br. reads arteria clamor, quippe, per . . . vocum. scilicet, expletis . . . oris, *, and is followed by Giuss.; Marull., scilicet expletis quoque ianua redditur oris | (rauca viis, et iter laedit qua vox it in artus). In 6, 1203, sanguis expletis naribus ibat, the word means ‘gorged.’ — ianua: the opening into the mouth from the larynx; but Br., in Phil. 32, 479, makes it the lips. — raditur, Q; reditur, O.

533. voces verbaque: this alliterative pairing is found also in Virgil and Gell., and vox verbaque in Ovid and Livy; Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 93.

534. ut: result.

535. fallit: ‘nor can you fail to notice.’ — corporis: 1, 810 n.

536. hominum: L. doubtless speaks from personal experience. But, as Giuss. suggests, the illustration may be from hucksters crying their wares. — L. knew nothing of nervous exhaustion.

537. perpetuus sermo, ‘unbroken discussion.’ Cic. Legg. 3, 11, ‘loco senator et modo orato,’ and in 40, ‘modo, ne sit infinitus.’ Cato was an example of a long speaker peccante senatu; Plut. Cato Minor, 31; Val. Max. 2, 10, 7. — noctis: the senate could not meet at night.

538. perductus, ‘continued through.’ Catull. 64, 271, ‘aurora exidente.’

539. profusus: 931, verba profundam; 6, 6.

540. ergo: the conclusion is logical from his premises.

541. loquens: probably a substantive.

551 (542): transferred here by Lamb. edd.; Br. also brackets 551 to 546; see Phil. 32, 483.

552. levor levore: juxtaposition in his manner.

542 (544). forma: abl. of quality.

543. depresso, 'deep.'—sub . . . mugit: probably a case of tmesis, with Br. Phil. 32, 478, against M., although submugio does not occur elsewhere.—Aen. 8, 526, 'Tyrrhenusque tubae mugire per aethera clamor.'

544. reboat raucum Berecynthia barbara: Voss, Giuss.; revorat raucum retro cito barbara, OQ, which Bail. prints as corrupt; reboat raucum regio cito b., Lachm. M.; reboant r. retro loca b., Br.; Berecynthia cornu, Bentl. Bergk, vii, objects to regio barbara, and regio cito of Lachm., and proposes regio taratantara. Wakef. defends the MSS., et barbara tuba, retro cito [i.e. reflexa] revocat [ob curvaturas numerosas scilicet] raucum bombum. Polle, Phil. 25, 279, et reboat rauco aeri Etruria barbara bombum; Albert, Phil. 56, 251, defends regio as picturesque; Winck, et reboat rauco regio cito barbara (neut.). With much hesitation I follow Voss; Giuss. defends by Catull. 64, 263, 'multis raucionos efflabant cornua bombos, | barbaraque horribili stridebat tibia cantu' for two instruments.—reboat: Georg. 3, 222, 'urguentur cornua vasto | cum gemitu reboat silvaeque et longus Olympus,' and L. 2, 28 n.—bombum: Pers. 1, 99, 'implerunt cornua bombis.' Origen, de Libris ss. Script. 160, 25 in Archiv. II, 574, 'tubas . . . utimur, quibus . . . rauco bando frementes'; there Wyman thinks bando is corrupt for bombo and a reminiscence of L.

545. gelidis cycni nocte oris, Bern. Br. Giuss.; validis nocti tortis, O; nete tortis, Q. O corr.; v. cycni torrentibus, Voss, M.; cycni tortis convallibus, Lachm.; many attempts are given in Lachmann's note. The verse so far is desperate; I accept Bernays' reading merely as a stopgap. Lotze proposed valedicentis cycni torto ex Heliconis and v. tortis cycni e. H.; Winck., calidi cycni nocte oris; Bergk, nece Dauliades moestae oris e. H.; Bailey †.

546. Hor. C. 1, 24, 2, 'praecipe lugubres | cantus Melpomene cui liquidam pater | vocem cum cithara dedit.'

547–594. 'The tongue and lips give form to voice, which reaches the ear as articulate language if the distance is not too great; otherwise the words become confused. One voice sometimes distributes itself in meeting different ears, and some parts of it go by and are lost or are reflected back, causing echo in apparently lonely places which people fancy are inhabited by nymphs and fauns.'

547. cum: conj.

548. recto foras ore: 6, 689, 'rectis ita faucibus eicit alte'; cf. on 3, 497.

549. mobilis . . . figurat: cf. 2, 413.—articulat after L. is not found until the second century: Thes. 2, 690, 50.—verborum daedala: 1, 7 n. Edd. comp. Cic. ND. 2, 149, 'in ore sita lingua est finita dentibus; ea vocem immoderate profusam fingit et terminat atque sonos vocis distinctos et pressos efficit.' Plato, Protag. 322, a φωνὴ καὶ δύματα ταχὺ διηρθρώσατο τὴν τέχνην.

550 (552). formatura, 'shaping' by the lips, below 556; quoted elsewhere only from Arnobius.—pro parte: 1, 807.

553. hoc ubi: 360 n.—una: Bentl. edd. for illa retained by Giuss., but there is nothing for illa to refer to; 'ne Latinum quidem est,' Lachm.

554. quaeque with una: 5, 990, 'unus enim tum quisque.' Br. in Phil. 32, 485 joins quaeque verba ipsa, cf. quaeque corpora, 1, 578–579. See his Appendix, 220.

555. exaudiri: 3, 467.

556. servat: sc. vox.—formaturam and figuram are apparently synonyms. Bock refers form. to the work of the lips and fig. to that of the tongue.

557. longius aequo: 3, 313 n.

558. aera per: 1, 22 n.

559. transvolat: transvolant, 1, 355.

560. sonitum sentire: son. sensit, Georg. 4, 333.

561. sententia quae: 1, 15 n.

562. confusa: cf. 613.—inque pedita: 3, 484 n.

563. perciet: 3, 184.

564. omnibus: dat; 3, 129 n.

565. voces vox: juxtaposition in his manner.—repente: 1, 187 n. Bock. strepentes.

566. privas = singulas: 3, 372 n.—dividit: cf. 603.

567. obsignans: impressing as material substances. Cf. on 2, 581.—verbi: Lachm. edd., cf. 563, 571; verbis, OQ.

568. auris incidit: i.e. in auris cadit; 5, 608, ‘segetes stipulam . . . accidere . . . incendia’; Tac. H. 3, 29, ‘quos inciderat’; Carm. Epigr. (Büch.), 1, 227, ‘auris Memnonis vox accidit.’

569. frustra diffusa: cf. 571.

570. pars solidis adiisa locis: edd.; pars, solidis adlisa, locis, Lachm. Solidis locis are pillars, sides of buildings, saxa, 574; colles, 578. Georg. 4, 50, ‘saxa sonant vocisque offensa resultat imago.’

571. imagine verbi: Hor. C. 1, 12, 3, ‘cuius recinet iocosa | nomen imago,’ and Shorey there, who quotes Wordsworth ‘Ye voices and ye shadows and images of voice’; Stat. Silv. 1, 3, 18, ‘fallax responsat imago.’

572. cum videas: 3, 422 n.—possis: 1, 327 n.

573. loca sola: 591; 6, 396.

574. pars probably refers to the repetitions of the one sound in the echo. Schütte, 19, explains ‘gleiche Formen der Worte.’—ex ordine reddant: as they were received.

575. palantis . . . quaerimus: 2, 10.—opacos: Aen. 3, 508, ‘montes umbrantur opaci.’

576. magna . . . ciemus: cf. 5, 1060 and n.—Aen. 3, 68, ‘magna supremum voce ciemus.’

577. sex aut septem: proverbial for an indefinite moderate number; Archiv, 9, 352; Schmalz, Stilistik, § 30; Keller, Lat. Sprachg. 2, 42; cf. on 327. —Pliny, 36, 99, describes such an echo at Cyzicum. —vocis: 1, 744 n. Reddere voces occurs as a hexameter ending in Varro Atac. Fr. 12 and in Aen. 6, 689, etc.

578. iaceres: 5, 1081, ‘iaciunt voces.’—colles collibus: usual juxtaposition.—ipsi: sua sponte.

579. docta: Lachm. edd.; dicta, OQ, Giuss. who makes dicta referri a compound noun. Lachm. comp. Hor. AP. 67, ‘amnis doctus iter melius.’—Bentl. icta referre, Grasb. iacta referri.

580. tenere: 5, 948, ‘silvestria templa tenebant | nympharum.’ Aen. 8, 314, ‘nemora indigenae Fauni Nymphaeque tenebant.’ Probus on Georg. 1, 10, iccirco rusticis persuasum est . . . saepe eos (faunos) in agris conspici.’

581. faunos: Cic. ND. 2, 6, ‘saepe Faunorum voces exauditae.’

582. noctivago: not quoted before L.—strepitu: Hor. Ep. 1, 2, 31, ‘ad strepitum citharae.’

583. volgo with adfirmant: 2, 701 n.—taciturna silentia: Aen. 2, 255, ‘tacitae per amica silentia lunae’; Ov. AA. 2, 505, ‘taciturna silentia vitet.’—silentia noctis: 460.—Aen. 10, 63, ‘quid me alta silentia cogis | rumpere.’ Milton, PL. 1, 782, ‘Whose midnight revels, by a forest side | Or fountain, some belated peasant sees | Or dreams he sees.’

584. dulcisque querellas: 5, 1384, ‘dulcis didicere querellas.’

585 = 5, 1385.—fundit: cf. 589.—pulsata: Tib. 1, 1, 4, ‘somnos classica pulsata fudent.’

586. sentiscere: 3, 392 n.

587. pinea velamina: V. Ecl. 10, 24, ‘venit et agresti capitis Silvanus honore | florentis ferulas et grandia lilia quassans’; see on 1, 930. M. comp. Ov. Her. 5, 137, ‘cornigerumque caput pinu praecinctus acuta | Faunus.’ But vallamina, Voss, Heins. Wakef., otherwise unknown, may be right: 5, 27, vallata colubris'; Ov. M. 1, 699, ‘Pan videt hanc, pinique caput praecinctus acuta’. OQ have vallamina, Flor. 30, edd. velamina.—semiferi: 2, 702 n.

588. 5, 1407, ‘et supera calamos unco percurrere labro.’—unco: because distorted over the pipes; see pictorial representations. Browning, ‘to blow his pipes his lips he wrinkled.’—hiantis: Prop. 3, 17, 34, ‘calamo Panes hante canent.’

589. silvestrem musam: V. Ecl. 1, 2.

590. 5, 845, ‘cetera de genere hoc monstra ac portenta crebat (tellus).’—portenta, L. elsewhere uses of monstrous creatures.

591. quoque: so lonely as to be abandoned by the gods also.

592. miracula: only here in OQ.

593. ratione: superstitious motive, or pleasure in coining and hearing fables.

594. nimiris auricularum: OQ, M. Giuss.; nimiris miraclorum, Bentl. Lachm.; auricularum, Br. Bail.; nimiris terricularum, Bergk; nugarum genus est avidum nimiris agricolarum, Albert, Phil. 56, 246; auribus horum, Cartault; aucupiorum, Br. App. 220. Pers. 2, 29, ‘qua tu mercede deorum | emeris auriculas,’ i.e. audience, privilege of being listened to; see examples in lex. s.v. Travellers' tales are proverbially wonderful, like those of fishermen and soldiers.

595–614. ‘Thus voices pass where the eyes cannot see, because voices can bend about things and idols cannot. Again, voice divides itself in many directions just as fires do sometimes, but idols go by the straight line by which they are sent. Still, voice is blunted by obstacles, and then only indistinct sounds reach the ear.’

595. Quod superstest: 1, 50 n.

596. apertas: cf. 467.

597. loca per: 1, 316 n.—lacestant: 217 n.

598. conloquium occurs nowhere else in L. which may support Marull.'s and the old vulgate cum loquimur clausis foribus quod saepe videmus. Wakef. explains ‘colloquium fieri vel esse videmus.’—videmus: OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; ubi demus, Lachm.; ut clausis, Br., Phil. 23, 466; quo saepe videmus, Bern. Br. punctuates lacestant, . . . videmus; with Lachm. For videre of sounds cf. 1, 256 and Aen. 4, 490, ‘mugire videbis | sub pedibus terram.’

599. flexa foramina: 330 n.

600. renutant is cited in addition only from Prudentius, Ham. 774.
601. recta: cf. 93. — tranant: cf. 177. Note the variation travolat in 602; 3, 291 n.
602. vitrei: gen. form retained by Lachm. and M.; cf. on 1, 230.
603. Br. brackets 603–611, and Giuss., following Kannengiesser, places them after 614.
604. aliis: sc. vocibus. — ubi una: for the elision cf. 605 and on 1, 409.
605. semel: with exorta, cf. 439. — quasi does not introduce a simile of fact in classic writers, Dr. 611; the word originally was equivalent to the Homeric ως οτε (Schmalz, LG. § 307).
606. Allit. (ssss), unexampled in L. elsewhere.
607. retro: cf. 328 (304).
608. quae, OQ, edd.; que his, Br. Cartault objects to retro . . . circum and proposes quae et circum fervunt, but quae et is improbable. — fervunt: M. Br. Giuss. Bail.; fuerunt, OQ; feriunt, Lachm.; subsunt, Bern. For fervere, cf. 2, 41 n.
609. derectis: the idols do not go around corners. For derigo and its derivatives cf. on 2, 198.
610. missa: cf. 68.
611. saepta intra: Br. Giuss.; saepe supra, OQ, Bail., Howard, J. Phil. 1, 131; saepe intra, Lachm.; saepe ultra, Bern. M.; saepta supra, Wakef. Saepta is preferable on account of 1, 354, ‘inter saepta meant voces,’ while saepe is un-Lucretian; granting saepta, intra is better than supra to balance extra. — accipere: sc. potis est quisquam by a common zeugma.
612. clausa domorum: cf. 1, 354. Domorum was first added by Lachmann.
613. confusa: cf. 558.
614. verba: articulate words.
- 615–632. ‘The tongue and palate, by which we experience flavor, are no more difficult to explain. We experience flavor when the food is compressed like a sponge and particles of it pass through the openings of the palate and tongue: when these are smooth or rough the sensation varies in pleasure. But after the food is swallowed there is no pleasure nor discomfort if it can be digested.’
615. Nec: edd.; hoc, OQ. — qui: OQ, M. Bail.; quis, old vulg. Br. Christ, Goebel. For qui cf. 5, 233, qui sua tutentur and on 1, 700.
616. plusculum: for elision of a dactylic word in -um, on 1, 1012. — habent, ‘require.’ — operaeve: Lachm. edd.; 6, 1082, ‘nec me tam multam hic operam consumere par est’; opere, OQ.
617. For the monosyll. ending with cum cf. 6, 279. L. closes the line with cum, prep. in 3, 667 also; with cum, conj. seven times. The only other occurrences of monosyll. close with prep. are both due to emendation, ex 2, 791, in 3, 705. He closes with si, once; dum, once; quod, seven times; ut, once; quam, eight times. Virgil never closes with a monosyllabic prep.; cf. Norden, Aen. VI, 393, 438.
618. ceu . . . si: 6, 161; only in L. according to Dr. 612. — spongiam aquai: for the elision cf. on 1, 1012.
619. coepit: Lachm. quotes from Sacerdos, 1, 44 (KGL. 6, 468) fossam retinere coepit which he thinks may be from Ennius, but he would read pretendere there, thus obviating the diaeresis.
620. quod: pronoun.

621. perplexa: OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss.; per flexa, Vict. Lamb. Br. Bail. Goebel. Perplexa elsewhere in L. does not refer to passages, but here it may mean 'intricate.' Lexicons quote perplexum iter omne revolvens, from Aen. 9, 391. The prep. is easily supplied from per caulas; cf. 5, 128. — foramina: cf. 650.

622. levia: cf. 2, 466 sq. — manantis, 'oozing.'

623. suaviter . . . suaviter: cf. 2, 1078, unica . . . unica.

624. sudantia: OQ, M. Bail.; sidentia, Lachm. Vmida sudantia is a Lucretian pleonasm like sudent umore, 6, 943; candens lucidus, 4, 315 (340) n. — templa: 'regions,' temple of the palate. Giuss. notices that obparb is Greek for 'palate' and that the Italian word is cielo.

625. pungunt: sc. corpora suci, cf. 2, 460. — coorta: 2, 306, 'unde coorta queat nova via intrupere' and elsewhere. Here it means 'assault' as Giuss. suggests, cf. 5, 411.

626. asperitate: cf. 2, 404–407.

627. fine: almost a preposition like tenuis; see Roby, 2165; Lane, 1419; Bentley on Hor. C. 2, 18, 30, Wölfflin, Archiv, I, 424. It means 'so far as . . . reaches.'

628. praecipitavit: sc. sucus, i.e. cibus.

629. diditur omnis in artus: OQ, edd.; omnis in diditur, Br. Winck.; 3, 703, 'ut cibus in membra atque artus cum diditur omnia,' id. 707, 'per caulas omnis diduntur in artus.'

630. nec refert quicquam: 1, 680, nil referret.

631. capias: cibum capiunt, 645, cf. 867.

632. umectum: Pont. Vulg. Br. Giuss. Bail.; umidulum, Lachm. M., but L. uses diminutives to express quantity; ūmidum, OQ. — The stomach must furnish the digestive juices. — servare tenorem: 5, 508, 'conservans usque tenorem'; Aen. 10, 340, 'servatque cruenta tenorem'; Ov. AA. 3, 758, and Heinsius there.

633–672. 'Why some food is poisonous to some animals and nutritious to others. Living creatures are formed of seeds of varying shape, and the passages between these seeds must also differ; hence the food will have a varying effect. In disease the arrangement is changed, and thus food may be no longer wholesome.'

633. qui: adv. — cibus ut videamus: OQ; Br. Giuss. Bail. with lacuna; suavis et almus, M.; unicus aptus, Lachm.; suppeditatus, Bern.; suavis et aptus, Goebel; utilis unus, Polle; utili' demus (i.e. demum), Nencini; unus avendus, Grasb.; ali' qui fiat cibus ut videatur, Bergk; admoderatus, Bruno; sit vitae cibus aptus, Christ. I leave the MSS. with Ellis, Cl. R. 11, 205, although ut videamus expediam is dubious. Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 677, would change only quareve to quareque.

634. triste: 1, 944 n.

635. esse: not the equivalent of edere, as Giuss. interprets. — psudulce: quoted only from an inscription.

636. differitasquest: OQ, Wakef. Giuss.; -tasque, modern edd. with Nomius who omits est while retaining in which OQ omit; tantaque sit, Cartault; tanta quia, Nencini. — differitas: a Lucretian invention for the unmetrical differēnſia; used several times by Arnobius. Carmen de figuris, 19, ἀλλοτρωσις, differitas. Cf. on 2, 498.

637. ali: dat. also in 6, 1227; altis, OQ. — fuat: cf. 2, 383. — acre venenum: 640; 5, 900; 6, 974.

638. est aliquae ut serpens: Lachm. Giuss.; est itaque ut serpens, OQ, Everett, Bail. †; extetque ut s., M.; est utique ut s., old vulg.; est ut quae s., Br.; dedicat ut s., B.; est itaque ut s.h. quom, Nencini; mutuaque ut s., Albert, Phil. 56, 246; est itaque et s., Howard; exectra ut est s., Ellis, Cl. R. 11, 205; bestia ut est, Cartault. The line still needs medicine; meanwhile the reading of Lachm. is as good as any.

639. Pliny, NH. 7, 15, 'et tamen omnibus hominibus contra serpentis inest venenum, feruntque ictas saliva ut ferventis aquae contactu fugere.'

640. venepum: 5, 899, 'videre licet pinguescere saepe cicuta | barbigeras pecudes homini quac est acre venenum'; 6, 970, 'barbigeras oleaster eo iuvat usque capellas.'

641. capris, adipes, coturnicibus: all only here in L. The first syllable of coturnix is short in Ovid, but probably long in Plaut. Pliny, 10, 69, 'coturnicibus veneni semen gratissimus cibus'; DL. 9, 80, τὸ κύριον δρυγὶ μὲν τρόφιμον, ἀνθρώπῳ δὲ θανάτιμον. Keller, Thiere, 104, says that capra is pleb. Latin, caprea, capreolus, urban.

642. id . . . ut: OQ, Wakef. Giuss.; ut . . . id, Lamb. edd., but id is emphatic.

643. ante: 1, 814 sq.

644. multimodis: 3, 115 n.

645. animantes: 3, 97 n.

646. generatim: cf. 1, 229.

647. Cf. 3, 219 and nn.

648. proinde, 'in the same way'; cf. 656. — ex: Lachm. Br. Giuss. and older edd.; cf. OQ, M. Bail. — variante: Lachm. edd.; variantque, OQ; cf. 2, 722.

649. porro, 'again,' 'moreover.' Cf. 2, 725.

650. perhibemus: 3, 597 n.

651. ipso probably goes with ore as well as with palato; cf. on 621.

652. minora (foramina).

653. aliis (animantibus).

654. Note alliteration. — rutunda: 3, 186 n. — multangula: quoted only from here; multiangulus from Mart. Capella.

655. figurarum modifies motus as well as ratio. — reposcunt: 2, 369 n.

656. foraminibus: dative.

657. Cf. 647.

658. amarum is the opposite of dulcis (or suavis); acerbus (661) is opposed to mitis; Död.

659. illi: dat.

660. contractabiliter, 'in a way which can be felt'; a Lucret. coinage. For the rhythm see on 3, 907. — caulas: 620.

661. eadem res: the usual variation from the neuter.

662. aspera (corpora). — fauces = foramina. See Br. in Phil. 33, 435.

663. Br. infers a lacuna after this line: (illud ut est, quod mellī liquor dulcissimuſ multo saepe aliquoi perfoedus amarusque esse videtur), and Giuss. follows him. Lachm. puts 671–672 after 662. Bern. finds a lacuna after 670. — quaeque: such cases as 633–634.

664. bili superante: bilis suffusa is 'jaundice' in Pliny, 22, 49 and 54. For the i cf. on 1, 978.

665. vis morbi: periphrasis; 3, 8 n.
666. ibi: under the ictus.
667. positurae: cf. 2, 947.
668. fit: OQ, M. Bail.; ut, Lachm. edd.; ut was supplied after sensum by Flor. 31, etc.
669. cetera: i.e. hamata.
670. penetrata: middle; cf. 1246.
671. utraque (corpora), i.e. aspera et levia; cf. 3, 193. — mellis sapore; cf. 2, 504. M. quotes Sen. Ep. 109, 7, 'morbi vitio mel amarum videatur.'
- 672: ejected by Br. Gneisse, 8, regarded it as an interpolation, because almost a repetition of 1, 429; it is defended by Lohmann, 39. — supera: 2, 398 sq.; 3, 191 sq.
- 673–686. 'Smell is produced by the emitted particles entering the nostrils, and as they vary in shape the smell is pleasant or otherwise to different animals.'
673. adiectus: 1, 689 n.
674. tangat: Aen. 7, 480, naris contingit odore.
675. Note the alliteration. — volvat: 6, 1154, 'volvebat odorem'; Aen. 12, 591, 'volvitur ater odor.' Cf. Epic. ad Herod. 53, quoted on 1, 303, and add of μέν τοῖς τεταργυμένως καὶ ἀλλοτρίως, οἱ δὲ τοῖς ἀταράχως καὶ οἰκείως ἔχοντες; 6, 924, 'perpetuoque fluent certis ab rebus odores.'
676. fluere (odores).
677. animantibus: Polle, AV. 39, would change to animalibus; 3, 97 n.
678. formas (principiorum et foraminum).
679. mellis . . . odore: both emphatic.
680. fissa, 'cloven.' Vulgate, Levit. 11, 3, 'omne quod habet divisam ungulam.'
681. tulerit: tetulit, Bergk; Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 330; Polle, cf. 6, 672. — promissa: OQ, M. Bail. Giuss., 'onward reaching'; permissa, Lachm. Br.; cf. 688. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 131, cites Nemes. Cyn. 269, 'promissi spatiose per aquora campi,' where Heinsius read permissi.
682. ducit: OQ, edd.; dicit, Lachm.; noscit, Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 277; huc it, Nencini. — odorem: Livy and Pliny ascribe the occurrence to the wakefulness of the geese, not to their sense of smell.
683. Romulidarum: not cited from an earlier author; later in Virg. Pers. Prud. Rutilius. — candidus: argenteus anser, Aen. 8, 655.
684. nidor: variation from odor.
685. resilire, 'recoil.'
686. saecla ferarum: 3, 629 n.
- 687–705. 'One odor can be sent farther than another, but not so far as sound and sight, because they move slowly and come from the inside of things and are produced by larger atoms; thus it is harder to trace odors.'
687. lacestit: see on 217.
688. alio . . . alter: 5, 835, 'ex alio terram status excipit alter.' M. comp. Sen. Ep. 94, 43, 'ab alio expectes alteri quod feceris.' Several examples are given by Langen on Val. Flacc. 1, 140.
689. quisquam (odor); 3, 234 n.
690. quam . . . quam . . . quam; 5, 93, 'tria . . . tris . . . tria'; 5, 498,

'inde . . . inde . . . inde'; 5, 1397, 'tum . . . tum . . . tum.'—mitto: Cic. Sull. 22, 'mitto iam de rege quaerere'; see lex.

691. oculorum acies: 1, 324. The verse is much like 217.

692. errabundus (odor).—ante (tam longe fertur).

693. facilis: adj ect. for adverb; cf. 3, 21 n. Others take it as gen. or acc.

694. ex alto: cf. 863.

695. penitus explains ex alto, cf. 73.—recedere rebus: cf. 65, 130, 737, 860.

696. redolere and olere, 701, are used but once by L.

697. contrita is frequently said of the grinding of drugs.—conlubefacta: cf. 1, 492.

698. creatum: 3, 229 n.

699. vox: 1, 354, 490; 6, 951; and for the case 3, 456 n.

700. qua: quacumque feruntur, 1, 1076.

701. quod olet: with locatum.—facile esse: pred. of videbis.

702. investigare is said properly of dogs; cf. verum protrahere, 1, 409.

703. refrigescit: here only in L.; in other writers generally figurative.—plaga: the ictus of the odoriferous particles.

704. decurrunt: OQ; decurrat, Lamb. Giuss. — calida (corpora): in thought opposed to refrigescit.—nuntia rerum: n. praedarii voltus, 1033; n. formae, 6, 77; Catull. 63, 75, ad aures nova nuntia referens, and Ellis there.

705. quaerunt: 1, 332 n.

706–721. 'Not only in the case of odors and flavors, but in forms and colors there is difference in feeling. Lions cannot face a cock because the seeds emitted hurt the eyes of lions, but they do not harm men.' This paragraph is bracketed by Lachm. and edd.; it seems to follow in thought 686, whither Giuss. transfers it with Susemihl, Phil. 33, 438.

706. hoc: this state of things.

707. est: 'occurs.'—species: cf. 602.

708. conveniunt ad: 'agree together' to produce sensations. The construction is more frequent with the impersonal convenit.—omnibus omnes: favorite juxtaposition. Omnibus is dative.

709. alias: probably dative.

710. quin etiam: 'now take.'—explaudentibus: originally a word connected with the stage. Ov. M. 14, 507, plausis alis, alis standing for manibus. Pliny, NH. 10, 46, 'nec solis ortum incautus patiuntur obrepere, diemque venientem nuntiant cantu, ipsum vero cantum plausu laterum.' Milton, L'Allegro, "While the cock with lively din | Scatters the rear of darkness thin."

711. auroram: Prudent. Cath. 1, 1, 'ales diei nuntius | lucem propinquam praecinit'; St. Ambrose (Migne, Patr. Lat. 16, 1473), 'praeco diei iam sonat . . . a nocte noctem segregans.'—clara voce: 567, c. sonorem. Aen. 4, 680, vocavi voce. Enn. Ann. 50, blanda voce vocabam.

712. noenu: 3, 199 n.—rabidi: Hor. AP. 393, 'lenire tigres rabidosque leones.' The ancients believed in this terror of the lion, but Cuvier put a cock into a lion's cage and the lion ate him up; see n. in Pliny, 8, 19, ed. Lemaire. Plin. 10, 47, 'terrori sunt etiam leonibus ferarum generosissimis,' and St. Ambrose, Hex. 6, 4, 26 (Migne, 14, 267), 'leo gallum et maxime album veretur.' Satan, like the lion, flees before the preacher of whom the cock was the constant symbol; see the hymn Multi sunt presbyteri (Kayer, Kirchenhymn. I, 283), where the priest and cock are compared at length.

713. inque tueri: 3, 343 n.

714. gallorum in corpore: the order is due to metrical necessity.

715. oculis: dative.

716. interfodiunt is quoted elsewhere from Palladius only. Key, quoted by M., noticed Lucr. usage of compounds of inter = 'through.'

717. praebent: 'cause.' Serv. Aen. 10, 321, labores praebuit, says 'nove dixit cum bona praebeti dicantur.'

718. acies: variation from oculos, 715, its metrical equivalent.

719. aut quia . . . aut quod: other examples in Dr. Synt. § 531. — illis: as he has ollis usually at the close of the verse (3, 271 n.) Jessen would read intus here. Illis, Q corr. edd. for ilis.

720. remorando: 6, 333, 'in remorando | haesitat.'

721. ex ulla parte: cf. ex animo, 3, 109.

722–748. 'Now learn how the mind is affected. Images, then, like gold leaf, wander through the air and sometimes join together, producing monstrous forms of Centaurs and ghosts, and are so apprehended by the mind.'

722. moveant animum: 2, 887. — et unde: 3, 719 n.

723. Note the alliteration and juxtaposition of veniunt veniant in his manner. Catull. 61, 197, 'quod cupis cupis'; Petr. 37, 'quem amat amat' and Bährrens on Catull. — percipe paucis: 115.

724. vagari: cf. 127.

725 = 165.

726. auris: 6, 308, 'ignem concepit in auris.'

727. obvia cum veniunt: cf. 2, 85–86. — aranea: 3, 383 n. — brattea: this is the first recorded occurrence in Latin literature.

728. quippe etenim, 'for surely.' — tenvia textu, t. texta, 743.

729. percipiunt: 3, 80 n. Dittel, pertergent; Gif. and others percutiunt.

730. corporis: emphatic by separation from rara, and causing the deferred position of quoniam; 1, 4 n.

731. tenvem animi: 3, 425 sq.

732. Centauros: pl. of a class. 5, 878, 'neque Centauri fuerunt.' — Scyllarum membra: periphrasis; Cerbereasque canum facies, 733. The mark of all these monstrosities is discordia membra, 5, 894. Centaurs and Scyllas are elsewhere mentioned together: Aen. 6, 286, 'centauri in foribus stabulant Scyllaeque bifomes,' and Forbiger there. — videmus (simulacra): and so are deceived in thinking real objects are seen; 1, 134, 'cernere uti videamur eos,' etc.

733. Cerbereas: transferred from canum; 1, 10 n. Cerberus was mentioned in 3, 1011.

734. 1, 135, 'morte obita quorum tellus amplectitur ossa'; cf. 761.

735. omne genus: 1, 1026 n. — Omnigenus, OQ.

736. partim . . . partim: on 1, 483. — sponte sua: 131 and nn. — ipso: 3, 483 n.

737. recedunt: cf. 65, 130.

738. conflunt: cf. 2, 1069, and 5, 891.
739. Internal rhyme vivo . . . imago: 3, 6 n.—vivo (Centauro).
740. animalis: Lamb. Lachm. Br. Bail. Polle AV. 32; anima, OQ; animatis, Gif. M. Giuss. Goebel. M. notices that animal, noun sing., is read only in 5, 823, e coni. where it is collective; Br. takes it here as an adj.; it is defended by 2, 718; 5, 908 sq.
741. Harsh elisions.—equi atque hominis casu: OQ, edd.; equi casu atque hominis, Lachm., to avoid elision of the iambic word; but L. has but one hypermeter, 5, 849, and one verse closing in four spondees, 3, 198; see Br. Prol. xviii and M.'s n., and cf. Havet, Phaeader, 166. Moreover, he elides final ū but twice: 1, 677; 3, 49. Consider also the many words he uses but once.
742. haerescit: 2, 477 n.—ante: 726.
743. texta: cf. 5, 94.
744. cetera: Syllas, Cerberus.—eadem: 1, 480 n.
745. levitate: qual. abl.
746. prius: 176 sq.
747. nobis: 3, 129 n.
748. tenuis: cf. 3, 209 sq.—mire mobilis: cf. 3, 182 sq.—3, 243, 'qua neque mobilius quicquam neque tenuius exstat.'—ipsa: as well as the images.
- 749–776. 'Seeing with the mind and seeing with the eye are produced in the same way through images, but those by which the mind sees are much thinner. In sleep the mind sometimes sees these, and we think we see the dead because memory is inactive. Motion is inferred by the mind from the rapid succession of images which are continually supplied.'
749. memorō: 2, 112.—facile . . . possis: cf. 2, 462; 5, 285.
750. hoc: seeing with mind; illi: seeing with eyes.—quod: pronoun, so Giuss. M. and Howard take it as a conj.: J. Phil. 1, 131.
751. atque (quod vidēmus) oculis.
752. quoniam docui: Lachm. Br. Bail.; docui quoniam, OQ, M. Giuss.; cf. 1, 265, and on 1, 4, and Holtze, Synt. 156. Quoniam is not elsewhere postponed after a verb in L. Aen. 5, 22, 'superat quoniam.'—forte = e.g.; quoted in lex. from the lawyers.—leonem: Lachm. M. Bail. Giuss.; leonus, OQ; leones, old vulg.; leonem*, Br. Yet Wakef. may be right in retaining the MSS.: per simulacra leonum cernere (leones). A scribe would have naturally retained leonem.
753. Br. would have leonum at the end of his lacuna.
754. M. quotes Cic. ND. 1, 108, 'vos autem non modo oculis imagines sed etiam animis inculcatis.'
755. leonem et: Lachm. edd.; leonum MSS. The metrical difficulty of the MSS. is insuperable, but perhaps leonum et (Marull.) should be read; certainly Lachmann's reading is very harsh.
756. mage: 81 n.
757. profudit: 6, 744, 'profusae | in terram'; 3, 113, 'effusumque iacet sine sensu corpus honustum' and n. there.
758. mens animi: 3, 615 n.—vigilat: animo vigilante, 5, 1170; mens per-vigilat, Catull. 68, 8.
759. quae: 'as.'

760. videamur cernere: 1, 134, 'cernere uti videamur eos audireque coram,' whence Bruno would read coram here; see nn. there.

761. Notice the spondees.—relicta: Voss, edd.; reddita, OQ; reddita pro, Lachm.—potitast: 3, 734 n.

762. No supernatural phenomena then.

763. offecti: 2, 156 n.

764. falsum veris: 1, 700.

765. meminisse: subst. nom. Dr. Synt. § 249, cites Ov. M. 2, 483, 'posse loqui eripitur,' Cic. Tusc. 3, 21, 'cadit . . . et misereri et invidere'; cf. on 1, 381, and the list in Reichenhart, Inf. 460; he cites among other passages 1, 337; 3, 998; 4, 475, 836, 843, 848, 878; 5, 1250, 1379, 1427.

766. dissentit, 'protest,' 'object'; an unexampled meaning; 1, 582 n.—mortis potitum: est potitus hostium, Plaut. Capt. 92; cf. Eng., 'possessed of the devil'; necis potior, CIL. I, 1011, but Auson. Idyll. 15, 50, morte potiri.

767. cornere: again for videre.

768. Giuss. brackets 768–776 + 818–826 (822); Br. 768–776; see Br.'s Proleg. and the discussion by Christ, 44 sq. It seems natural that L. should explain next why the ghosts dance.—quod superest, 'furthermore'; 1283. Cf. on 1, 50.

769. Cf. 788.—in numerum: 2, 631 n. But here the meaning is 'coördinately,' 'in harmony.'

770. sonnus: 3, 431 n.—facere hoc: 1, 667 n.

771. perit: 3, 1042 n.—altera: 'second.' This explanation is applicable to the 'vitoscope,' 'mutoscope,' etc., which represent motion by a quick succession of pictures.

772. indē statu: 475 n.

773. celeri ratione: for celeriter; cf. on 3, 182.

774 was rejected by Lamb. with 775–776.

775. sensibili: Epic. ad Herod. 47, τὸν αἰσθητὸν χρῆμα; i.e. moment, second, 794, 'tempore in uno cum sentimus.' The word does not appear before L. and is rare; it is cited also from Sen. Vitruv. Lact.

776. copia particularum: and hence of images.—suppeditare: 3, 10 n.

777–817. 'Many problems remain: why does the mind think of what it wishes? Do the images regard our desires and present themselves, whether the objects be near or distant? Then, too, are the images trained to move harmoniously as we see them in sleep? Rather, at any one time of perception many times lie concealed, and the images are at hand. Images are thin, and escape the eye and mind unless attention is fixed.' This paragraph is bracketed by Lachm. M. and Bail. 788–804 contain a second use of a previous example, but the remainder is not so clearly a repetition (see van d. Valk, 142), and so I do not feel justified in marking off any part, although convinced that the poet would not intentionally have left these passages in their present shape. See Br. in Phil. 33, 439 sq.

777. multa clarandumst: 1, 111 n.

778. Cf. 2, 216.

779. quod (cogitare).—Cic. ND. 1, 108, 'quid quod simul ac mihi collibitum est praesto est imago?' and id. Fam. 15, 16, 2, 'simul ac mihi collibitum sit de te cogitare illud occurrat,' and the context in both.

780. mens eius refers to cuique.

781. tuentur, 'regard.'

782. occurrit: accurrit, Lamb. with his reading of Cic. Fam. l.c.

783. terram cordist: OQ, Lachm. Giuss. Br. Bail.; sc. occurrere; terra in cordest, Bern; terras cordi. Pont. M. Goebel puts the line after 780.—si . . . si . . . si: lexicons cite si deus si dea es from Cato, RR. 139, but I think there is no archaism here; the si is 'if,' not 'whether,' with his favorite asyndeton which appears strikingly in 784. Cf. Dr. § 362, who with Müller regards it as = sive.—de-nique: to complete the list of suppositions (to finish); I, 278 n.

784. Note the examples from city life.

785. sub, 'at'; 6, 413, 'uno sub tempore.' — verbo: 'word (of command)'.

786. cum praesertim = quamvis. See Madv. on Cic. Fin. 2, 25.—aliis: dat. probably with animus; not with dissimilis as Giuss. — regione locoque: 2, 534.

787. The order is: cogit et res omnis longe dissimilis.

788. in numerum procedere: 769 n.

789. mollia membra: 3, 596; cf. 4, 980, 'saltantis et mollia membra moventis.' Hor. S. 1, 9, 24, 'quis membra movere | mollius.' The membra were particularly bracchia: Ov. AA. 1, 595, 'si mollia bracchia, salta,' id. 2, 305, 'bracchia saltantis vocem mirari canentia.' Dancing masters were mollis corporis motus docentes, Sen. Ep. 90, 18. In the dance rhythmic movement of the arms was particularly important (cf. 'cake walk'). See Friedländer, Sittengesch., 1, 313, and Munro's n.—mollia . . . mollia: 3, 12 n. The word means primarily 'easily moved.'

790. mobiliter = celeriter, metr. gr. as in 6, 235.—alternis: I, 524 n.

791. repetunt: OQ, edd.; referunt, Lachm.—oculis: OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss.; ollis, Creech, Br. Bail., i.e. ut pedis motus bracchiorum motui convenient.—repetunt oculis, 'represent to the eyes.' Giuss. makes the case abl., oculis i.q. capite, but the syntax is then strained. Lamb. gestum pede oculis convenienti, but he suggests manibus for oculis. Repetunt = iterant, M. Ollis is very attractive, yet oculis cannot be ejected; the pleonasm is justified by the problem, which is one of sight.—convenienti: i.e. to the action of the arms.

792. scilicet: ironical, as rarely in L.—arte madent: Mart. 7, 69, 2, 'Cecropia pectora voce madent.'—docta: 'trained,' 3, 764 n.

793. facere ludos, 'make game,' perhaps with suggestion of cheating, as in the comic poets.

794. illud: the following.

795. cum sentimus: Winck. Br. Bail. Nencini; consentimus, OQ; quod sentimus, Lachm., transferring to follow 782; cum sentimus id et, M. Bern. brackets the verse and Lamb. rejects it. Giuss. accepts Lachm.'s emendation, but does not transfer. Madvig proposed non sentimus (item ut, cum vox emittitur una, tempora multa latent, ratio quae comperit esse) propterea, etc. Duvau, Rev. d. Phil. 12, 30, cum sentimus idem. Brieger's reading seems least unsatisfactory. Cum vox emittitur is then merely the measure of time, αλογητὸς χρόνος. See Phil. 25, 74.

796. Cf. 775 n.—ratio: Epic. ad Herod. 47, τοῦ διὰ λόγου θεωρητὸς χρόνος.

797. quaeque, 'the various.'

798. quisque = quibusque; cf. quis, 5, 871; Catull. 63, 46; 64, 80; Aen. 1, 95. 799, 800, 801 = 774, 771, 772 nearly; all rejected by Lachm. M. Bail.; Lamb, retains the first and rejects the others, approved by van d. Valk, 142. Br. brackets them, inferring a lacuna between 799–800; Lachm. ascribes them to his lector philosophus; Bern. brackets them; Giuss. retains them. It seems to me that they must not be omitted, as L. is repeating himself; he would have changed much in revising.

802. quae (que): OQ, Wakef. M. Br. Giuss., sc. cernere; se, Lamb. Lachm.; nisi qui, Cartault. — contendit: important for the theory, explaining why the mind does not always perceive the images. He does not say why it is led ‘contendere.’ — acute: Hor. S. 1, 3, 26, ‘cur in amicorum vitiis tam cernis acutum’; ἀξιώτατος θέρκεσθαι.

803. proinde, ‘therefore’; 386 n.

804. praeterea: predicate. — (si) ad quae se: Br. Giuss. (?) Bail.; si quae ad se, Lachm. M.; que ex se, OQ; queis sese, Christ, 23, Polle, Purmann Jahrb. 115, 278; qui sese, Cartault, qui being abl. — paravit: sc. cernere.

805. sperat, ‘expects.’

806. consequitur, ‘follows on.’

807. nonne video: another appeal to experience.

808 = 804.

809. cooperunt: of an attempt; cf. 5, 411, and Kraetsch, 16. — contendere: ‘strain’: 1, 324, ‘oculorum acies contenta’ and n. — se atque: 5, 1120.

810. eo (contendendo).

811. et tamen, ‘and even’; 1, 1050 n. — apertis: 1, 915 n.

812. advertis animum: 3, 46 n. — omni tempore, ‘all the time.’

813. semotum, ‘put aside’; remotum, ‘put away.’

814. cetera, ‘(all) other things.’

815. in rebus deditus: 3, 647 n. — ipse: of itself.

816. adopinamur: dr. λεγ., ‘conjecture.’ Epic. προσδοξάτε; 464 n. — signis: i.e. simulacris. — maxima parvis: juxtaposition of contraries in his manner.

817. fraudem suggests a trap; cf. 1206; 5, 1005. — frustraminis: dr. λεγ.; 1, 435 n.

818–826 (822). ‘Sometimes sex is changed or age, without being noticed.’

818. Giuss. puts these verses after 776.

819. generis: ‘sex,’ 5, 1356.

820. in manibus: i.e. ante oculos; cf. 504.

821. ex: denoting change; cf. 325 (301). — aetas: Cic. Lael. 101, ‘ut alia ex alia aetas oriatur’.

826 (822). ne miremur . . . curant: 3, 127, and n. (The order of vss., from Q corr., is universally accepted.)

822 (823)–857. ‘Do not think that the eyes are made for seeing and the feet for walking: having eyes we see and having tongues we talk, and so with the other members; a use was found for them, but they were not made for this use.’

822 (823). vementer: 2, 1024 n. — avessis: M. Br. Bail.; inesse, OQ; avessus | te, Bern. Giuss.; rebus necessest, Lachm. Avessis is an aorist form, rare except in ausim and faxim, with potential and optative meaning. This section is bracketed by Lachm. M. Br. Bail. because ‘cum huī libri argūmento nullo vinculo continetur,’ which is doubtless true, yet the discussion somewhere was necessary for the completion of his plan. Giuss. does not follow the other edd. Susemihl, Phil. 33, 443, arranges: 907–1036, 858–906, 822–857.

824 (825). lumina oculorum: 836; 6, 184, 1181; o. lumen, 4, 1143. Cudworth, Intell. System, 2, 87, '(The atheists') argument should have been framed thus: Whatsoever anything is made for as the end, that must needs be in the knowledge and intention of the maker, before the existence of that which is made for it. And therefore if eyes were made for the sake or end of seeing, seeing must of necessity be in the knowledge and intention of the maker of eyes before there were any eyes actually existing. But there could be no knowledge of seeing before there were any eyes. Wherefore eyes could not be made for the use of seeing.' Lact. de Opif. dei, 6, 7, 'quid ais Epicure? non sunt ad videndum oculi nati? cur igitur vident? Postea, inquit, usus eorum apparuit. Videndi ergo causa nati sunt, si quidem nihil possunt aliud quam videre.' Cf. also Masson, At. Th. 80, and Voltaire, Dialogues Phil. vii (Œuvr. 32, 46).

825 (826). possemus: Lachm. edd.; possimus, OQ.—proferre queamus: cf. 877, justifying Lachmann's emendation of via into queamus. Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 139, would read viciissim.

827. proceros: 3, 658 n.

828. pedibus fundata, 'attached to the feet as a base.' M. 5, 927, 'ossibus intus fundatum'; Arn. 2, 16, 'ex ossibus illis fundata sunt corpora': Aen. 6, 4, 'ancora fundabat navis.'—plicari refers to the folding of the limbs at the joints.

829. apta: cf. 2, 479.—validis, 'muscular'; 6, 397, 'bracchia consuescant firmantque lacertos.'

830. ex is added by Lachm. and edd. as L. has ex parte in 515; 5, 721; 6, 694; yet e is more likely to have fallen out; see on 1, 616.—ministris: Arn. 2, 18, 'ministras manus . . . nobis opifices manus.' M. quotes Cic. ND. 2, 150, 'multarum artium ministras,' said by the Stoic Balbus; and διὰ τὸ χείρας οὐχὶ φρονιμώτατος εἶναι τῷ πόνῳ ἐπιθυμούσι, from Anaxagoras (Arist. de Part. Anim., 687 a).

831. quae: acc., sc. facere.—usus: 5, 844, 'sumere quod foret usus,' 1, 184 n.

832. cetera de genere hoc: 744.—quaecumque interpretantur, 'whatever explanations they make.' For the tmesis, 3, 262 n.

833. praeposta: 3, 621 n.; Introd. 21.—Voltaire, Candide: Pangloss says, 'Observe . . . the nose is formed for spectacles. The legs are visibly designed for stockings, accordingly to wear stockings. Stones were made to be hewn and to construct castles, therefore my lord has a magnificent castle. . . . Swine were intended to be eaten; therefore we eat pork all the year round.'

834. Order: quoniam nil natumst in corpore ideo ut.—ut uti: symplosio, 1, 385 n. Cudworth, 2, 86, 'the poet would infer that whosoever affirms eyes to have been made for the sake of seeing must suppose in like manner there was some kind of seeing or other before eyes. But since there was no seeing at all before eyes, therefore could not eyes be made for the sake of seeing.'

835. procreat: use has no existence until the member is produced.

836. videre: subject, 1, 331 n.—nata: OQ, edd.; natum, Lachm., cf. 850.

837. orare, 'speak,' archaic; see lex.

838. 5, 1028, 'at varios linguae sonitus natura subigit | mittere.'

839. sermonem, 'talk.'

840. Paley, Nat. Theol. (1825) 47, 'carpenters' adzes, saws, planes, and gimlets were not made as we suppose to hew, cut, smoothe, shape out, or bore wood with; but these things being made, no matter with what design, or whether with any, the cabinet-maker perceived that they were applicable to his purpose and turned them to account.'

841. usus, 'employment.' 'Whether this use by degrees created an organ more and more appropriate for its purpose-function — as it were perfecting the organ — is not apparently discussed by Epicurus,' Wallace, Epicureanism, 115.

842. utendi, 'being used.'

843. contra: Vahlen, Berlin Index, '81-2, 17, strangely takes this with conferre; see Edelbluth, 14. Lachm. quotes Aen. 7, 604, 'Getis inferre manu lacrimabile bellum.' — certamina pugnae: 1, 475 n. M. remarks 'Arist. de part. anim. 1, 5, and 4, 10 goes over much the same ground as L. here and comes to exactly opposite conclusions: he uses the tools made by a man as a proof that the tools made by nature had the same end in view, the hand being ὁτερεπι δργανον πρὸ δργανων; the body and all its parts are made for the functions they perform, as the saw is made for the sake of sawing: the sawing is not done for the sake of the saw.'

844. L. is a man of peace.

845. ante multo quam: see lex. ante II B d. — lucida tela: usually of the sun's rays; 3, 92 n. Aen. 5, 306, lucida . . . spicula.

846. natura here seems to mean 'instinct'; nowhere else in L.

847. dareb obiectum parmai = obiceret parvam; cf. 41 n.

848. scilicet, 'yes.'

849. mollii strata: 475 n.

850. Note alliteration. — sedare sitim: 5, 945; Ov. M. 3, 415.

851. cognita (esse), 'invented.'

852. credier: beginning the verse, 3, 67 n. — reperta, 'discovered.'

853. seorsum, 'different.' — ipsa, 'by themselves.'

854. post: adverb.

855. genere: descriptive abl.; cf. on 3, 296.

856. etiam atque etiam: 3, 228 n. — procul est ut: unexampled.

857. officium: 1, 336 n.

858-876. 'No wonder that animals need food, for they are constantly losing their substance; pain is caused by the resulting weakness which is cured by food. Drink too quenches the fire in the stomach.' This passage is bracketed by Lachm. M. Bail.; Br. puts it after 906. There is incoherence here and the poet may have omitted some links, as Br. thought, comparing Aristotle; but with Giuss. I think bracketing undesirable.

858. Cf. 898 and 5, 592. — ipsa, 'taken by itself,' without mental suggestion.

859. 2, 1146, 'omnia debet cibus integrare novando | et fulcire cibus, cibus omnia sustentare.'

860. recedere rebus: 605 n.

861. docui: as in 2, 1128 sq.

862. quae: added by Lachm. edd. — exercita motu: 2, 97.

864 (863). Transferred by Lachm. Br. Giuss. M. Bail. keep Ms. order, but the transposition is more logical, and better grammatically. — languida: adv.

- 863 (864). ex alto: cf. 694.
865. rarescit: 3, 255, 'diffugiant partes per caulas corporis omnis.'
866. consequitur, 'follows close on'; cf. 3, 478.
867. suffulciat artus: 950. — Hor. S. 2, 3, 153, 'deficient inopem venae te n*cibus atque | ingens accedit stomacho fulta ruenti*'; Maximian Eleg. 5, 29, 'ah! quantum mentem stomachi fulta movebat.'
868. interdatus: 'distributed'; cf. 227. — patentem: 6, 1175, ore patente. A bold figure with amorem and further strengthened by opturet, 'block up,' stop.
869. amorem edendi: ἔδητός ἐπος. Aen. 8, 184, 'amor compressus edendi.'
870. discedit: 2, 711, 'cibis ex omnibus intus in artus | corpora discedunt.'
871. glomerata: 3, 497 n. — vaporis corpora: 3, 126 n.
872. incendia: 1, 902, 'semina sunt ardoris multa, . . . quae creant incendia silvis.' — nostro = humano, as frequently.
873. dissupat: 6, 181, 'dissipat ardoris . . . semina.' — liquor: variation from umor, 870.
874. ne amplius: Aen. 3, 192, 'nec iam amplius ullae | adparent'; not Ciceronian. — calor: variant from vapor; calor aridus again 5, 741, but in a different connection.
875. tibi, 'you see.' — anhela sitis, Stat. Th. 3, 328, 'oraque retro | sorbet anhela sitis,' id. 7, 349, 'anhelam . . . sitim.'
876. abluitur: strong metaphor. — ieiuna cupido: ieiunae aviditatis, Pliny, 10, 8.
- 877–906. 'Walking is suggested by idols which produce the desire of the mind, which then moves the body; so the ship is moved by the wind of subtle body and directed by the hand of the steersman, and small machines move great bodies.' — This could logically follow 822.
877. qui: adv. — passus . . . queamus: 825, 827.
878. varieque: Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 140, would keep vareque of MSS. with Wakefield, but he, as well as Lachm., shows that the i in this word was omitted frequently. — membra movere: 455 n.
879. quae res: quod might have been ambiguous. — oneris . . . nostri: cf. 900.
880. tu percipe dicta: 3, 135 n.
881. simulacula meandi: what could these have been? Bock. reads meando.
882. accidere with dat. is not classical, Dr. § 185, 1. Cf. 5, 97, 'menti accidat.' The common construction with ad occurs 2, 1024; 4, 236. — ante, 724 sq.
883. inde, 'next,' as in 3, 247. — voluntas: 2, 257.
884. quam . . . ante: 3, 973 n. — quam: supplied by Brix. and edd. — providit: the mind is free to will but needs some suggestion from without.
885. M. translates what is not in the Latin 'From the very fact that it determines such thing, there is an image of that thing'; the Latin is rather 'inasmuch as it sees this, there is an image of it (naturally before the mind).' If providet really means 'determine,' the thought is plain enough, but the determination is in velit, 886; how the mind determines to call up an image L. does not say. Perhaps providet is 'anticipates'; because the mind anticipates it there results an image of the thing. At any rate it seems that the mind was free to act even if the idols were necessary. Lamb. read at for id, Bock. et. M. says quod is a conjunction and that the phrase is elliptical.

cal: quod providet id, (hoc fit quod) illius est imago. Giuss. thinks the verse is superfluous and interprets providet 'sees the image.' None of the explanations are satisfactory. — rei: 3, 918 n.

- 886. commovet of mind in 3, 146, 152.
- 887. inque gredi: 3, 343 n. — ferit (vim animai). •
- 888. membra atque artus: 3, 151 n. — dissita: 3, 143.
- 889. coniuncta: cf. 3, 159; 5, 558.
- 890. proporro: 3, 275 n.
- 891. Notable alliteration. — moles (corporis).
- 892. rarescit, 865, from the motion in 862. — aer: with venit, 894.
- 893. 'to be sure, as it ought, being always swift.'
- 894. largus, 'plentifully.'
- 895. dispargitur: 3, 539 n.
- 896. hic: OQ, Lachm. M. Bail.; his, Creech, Br. Bock.; hinc, old vulg. — utrumque, 'in two ways.' — duabus: ferit, 887; venit, 894.
- 897. corporis, OQ, regarded as corrupt by M. and Bail.; retained by Muretus, Lachm.; corpus ut ad, M. formerly; corpus uti ut Lamb.; corpus ut ac, Wakef. Giuss. Lotze Phil. 7, 727, which I accept provisionally. — ut ac, OQ, † Bail.; ut Lachm. Everett, Harv. St. 7, 32, makes ac = aeque ac. — velis, OQ, edd.; remis, Gassendi, Creech, Giuss., cf. Bruno, 6. aeque id ut ac Bern. Br.; compare ut hac (i.e. mole corporis), Ellis, C. R. 11. 205. Corporis and ac may be repeated from corporis and hic of 896; if that be the case, the line may be parenthetical and scilicet ut navis may be read instead; cf. 2, 922. As the ship is carried along by sails and wind so the body is affected by the air which penetrates it: L. may be thinking of the swelling of the sail by the wind and its recovery again under diminished pressure. The passage is still corrupt.
- 898. Cf. 256.
- 899. tantula . . . tantum: 5, 593 (591).
- 900. contorque is frequently used of steering.
- 901. ventus: 1, 295.

- 903. impetu: he does not use impetu which might stand here; 2, 330 n.
- 904. gubernaculum is nom.
- 905. trocleas: pulleys in a frame; picture in Rich. — tympana, hoisting drums worked as treadmills; see Rich. — pondere magno, OQ, M. Br. Bail. cf. 5, 556; 3, 201; pondera magna, Lachm. Giuss., but see on 1, 232.
- 906. sustollit is not classical.
- 907-928. 'The cause of sleep. The soul is separated through the body; some of it escapes without and some retires within the body, and so the limbs relax. Sensation, being due to the soul, is diminished by the soul's partial withdrawal; death comes with its entire departure. The body is aroused from sleep as a fire is kindled from ashes.'
- 907. ille somnus, 'oft mentioned sleep'; cf. 5, 67.
- 908. inriget: Hom. β 395, ὑπνον ἔχειν; Furius Antias ap. Macr. 6, 1, 44, 'rigat per pectora somnum'; Aen. 1, 691, 'per membra quietem | inrigat'; Pers. 5, 56,

'inriguo . . . somno.' Stat. Th. 2, 144, 'cornu perfuderat omni | somnus.' 'Somnus cornu defundit quietem,' Heyne. — atque; 'and so.'

909–911 = 180–182.

912. Cf. 1, 50 and nn. — tenuis, 'exact'; not quoted elsewhere with aures.

913. negites: only here in L. and a very rare word; note the other frequentative repulsanti in 914.

914. discedas: 'withdraw' from Epicurean truth.

915. tutimet: OQ, M. tutemel, Q corr. Lachm. edd.; see on 1, 102. — in culpa sis: a common idiom.

916. distracta: 3, 492 n. Schol. on Epic. ad Herod. 66, ὑπνον τε γίνεσθαι τῶν τῆς ψυχῆς μερῶν τῶν παρ' ὅλην τὴν σύγκρισιν παρεσταμένων ἐγκατεχομένων ή διαφορουμένων, εἴτε συμπιστόντων τοῖς ἀπεριστοῖς. Pliny, 10, 211, 'est autem somnus nihil aliud quam animi in medium sese recessus.'

917. foras electa: 2, 950, 'vitalis animae nodos a corpore solvit | dispersamque foras per caulas eiecit omnia.' — recessit of the soul, 3, 212 n. Tert. de An. 43, 'Epicurei (somnum affirmant) diminutionem spiritus animalis.' Cf. also 3, 119 sq.

918. in altum: viz. in ossa atque medullas, 3, 250.

919. fluunt, 'are relaxed'; soluti ac fluentes, Quint. 1, 2, 8.

920. animal; unusual position of a word ending in -ai; cf. on 1, 84. For the doctrine see Book III, especially 238, 356. — opera: 1, 158 n.

921. hic: 2, 387 n. — impedit esse: cf. 3, 222.

922. perturbatam: cf. 3, 253.

925. quippe, ubi: 1, 167 n. — latens animai: cf. 3, 273, 277, 280. Latere of ignis, 1, 892 cf. 871.

926. in membris: 3, 129 n. — cinere: occasionally fem.; see lex.

927. reconfigari, ἀν. λεγ. Cf. 3, 335–336 for the same metaphor with constatur, and also 1, 473. — The practice of combining prefixes is vulgar: Cooper, 291.

928. ex igni caeco: caeco igni Ov. M. 3, 490; cf. on 1120.

929–961. 'This change is due to the following reasons: the outside of the body is beaten by the air at all times, and when there is any breathing the body is beaten by the air within also; hence there result disorder and confusion throughout. Part of the soul is forced out, part retires to the inmost retreats, part is distributed through the body, and sense is impeded and the body gives way. Food produces like effects.'

929. et unde: cf. 3, 719 n.

930. perturbari, languescere: both occur several times in L.

931. Cf. 2, 66. — ventis verba: Ov. Am. 1, 6, 42, 'verba dat in ventos'; Amm. Marc. 15, 5, 8, 'ventis tamen loquebatur incassum'; Otto, Sprichw. 364.

932. externa: contrasted with interiorem, 937.

933. aeris . . . auris; 3, 222 n.

934. eius, OQ, edd.; ab iibus Lachm. Eius refers to aeris understood from aeris; cf. the reverse genus humanum . . . quorum, 2, 174, and see on 3, 185. M. comp. Pliny, 35, 5, 'Epicurius voltus per cubicula gestant . . . natali eius sacrificant.'

935. An indication of the anti-Lucretius in L (Patin, Poésie Latine, 1, 117); the appeal to teleology is unepicurean; cf. Cic. ND. 2, 121. — fere res: for the symploso see on 1, 385. — aut is repeated five times in Cic. ND. 3, 30, Off. 1, 28.
936. aut etiam: 1, 1012 n. — cortice: Varro, Menipp. 547 B. ‘anima corporeum corticem reliquit.’
937. partem: object of verberat. — spirantibus: probably dative; cf. cubanti, 952.

947. coniuncta inter se: 3, 424. — mutua fungi: 3, 801 n.
948. intersaepeit: only once in L. — coetus: a frequent technical word. — natura: the contraction and disturbance come naturally.
949. abit alte: cf. 3, 273.
950. suffulciat artus: in 867 without quasi.
951. debile: 5, 832, ‘aliut . . . aevo debile languet.’
952. cubanti is regarded as corrupt by Br. who in Phil. 33, 444, proposed cavanti or cavantur (Nonius quotes the passage with cavanti) followed by etiam or tremunt in 953. Cubandum occurred in 2, 36, but with the suggestion of illness. Purmann proposed cudenti, Tiesler labanti. For the case cf. 3, 479.
953. Rejected by Lamb. and others. — tamen: ‘at any rate’; OQ and recent edd.; tama, i.e. swelling in the legs, Voss, Wakefield. Tamen is used as in 988, 991; ‘ergo cubantes tamen saepe movemus genua et crura summittimus,’ Lachm. Cf. 1, 92. — virisque resolvunt, ‘relax the tension.’
954. quae facit aer: the effect of the action of the air, cf. 933 sq.

960. Cf. 917. altior: in altum, 918. — electus, ēr. λεγ.
961. divisor, distractor: unexampled comparatives. So superantior, 5, 394. — intus: OQ; in test, M. actus, Lachm. Giuss. cf. 3, 192. Br. keeps intus and supposes a lacuna after 961 which he would fill with multo etiam potis est minus ad sensum revocari, Phil. 33, 445. Purmann, Jahrb. 77, 677, ipsas; intust, Everett, Bail., as in Plaut. Rud. 1174 R. With Lamb. Wakef. I keep intus as another case of Lucretian neglegentia; anima is easily supplied, or less easily, if more logically, disiectus from iectus as Giuss. suggests; Creech paraphrases particulae animae.

962–1036. ‘In sleep people continue the actions of their waking hours, and sometimes illusion occurs also to those awake; animals, too, in sleep betray their occupations. The passions also disclose themselves in dreams.’

962. fere: cf. 6, 683; 5, 1414.—devinctus: cf. 453. Edd. comp. Fronto de seris Alsiensibus, 3, ‘donat et multa somnia amoena, ut quo studio quisque devinctus esset, ut histrionem in somnis fautor spectaret,’ etc.; Claudian, praef. VI consul. Hon., ‘omnia quae sensu volvuntur vota diurno, | pectore soplito reddit amica quies,’ and what follows; Accius, Prætext. 29, ‘rex quae in vita usurpat homines cogitant curant vident | quaque agunt vigilantes agitantque, ea si cui in somno accident, | minus mirumst.’ Petr. Fr. 30, 5, ‘quicquid luce fuit tenebris agit,’ and he recounts the examples of the soldier, lawyer, miser, hunter, sailor, lover.

963. morati, ‘occupied.’

964. ea: Goebel and the old vulg. qua, but cf. 1, 721 n.—contenta: 1, 324 n.

965. in somnis: 3, 431 n.

966. causidici is usually used in malam partem: see Gudeman on Tac. Dial. 1.—leges: legal forms, see lex. Aen. 12, 315, compositae leges.

968. degere, ‘to be living in,’ after the analogy of degere vitam.—duellum: Bodl. Ms., Bergk, Br., for bellum, O corr. edd.; vellum O, velum Q. Cf. duellica 2, 662 n.

969. hoc: this work. Cf. Martha, 43, and on 1, 41.—naturam rerum: see n. on Title. —quaerere: ‘investigate.’ Cic. ND. 1, 83, ‘physicum . . . speculatorum venatoremque naturae.’

970. patriis chartis: 1, 137, Latinis versibus. For patrius=Latinus, cf. Ov. Tr. 5, 7, 62; Plin. Ep. 4, 3, 5.

971. studia, as described in 969; artes, as in 968.

972. frustrata: ‘misleading,’ before in 571. The participle agrees with studia.

973. multos: in L.’s time the Iudi Romani continued 15 days, i. plebeii, 14, l. Ceriales, 8; cf. Friedländer in Marquardt’s Rom. Staatsverw.<sup>2</sup> 3, 485.

974. dedérunt also in 6, 4; see on 3, 86.

975. destitérunt: institerunt, 1, 406.—ea: ‘such things.’—usurpare: 1, 301 n.

976. relicuas: 1, 560 n.—in mente: and in mentem as well.

977. qua: adv.

978. obversantur: cf. 1062. For the accidental rhyme, 978–981, cf. on 3, 52.

979. videantur: ‘think they see.’

980. Cf. 789.

981. Note alliteration. Sounds do not have simulacra (εθωλα), but δύκοι (Epic. ad Herod. 52). Cf. 522 sq.—liquidum: cf. 546 of sound.—carmen: 2, 506 of a tune.

982. consessum: cf. 78; consensum OQ.

983. Cf. 79.—decores is not quoted elsewhere in the pl. Bock. and Cartault (39), vario splendore.

984. refert studium: refert with subst. subj. occurs in Pliny the Elder and Fronto; see Schmalz, Synt. § 78.—voluntas: OQ, Bock. Woltjer in Serta Romana and edd. before Lachm.; cf. on 2, 258 and 6, 389. Voluptas Lachm. edd. It is not probable that in three places widely separated, in each of which there are other difficulties, the scribe should have mistaken voluntas for voluptas, even if the corruption is one of the commonest in MSS.; cf. e.g. Juv. I, 3, 208. Lamb. approved the Latinity.

985. consuerint: cf. 5, 53; suerit. — operati: Cic. has operam dare instead of operor.

986. non . . . solum . . . sed vero: not elsewhere in L.

* 987. equos fortis: 3, 8 n. — iacebunt: Aen. 3, 150, ‘visi ante oculos adstare iacentis | in somnis.’

1007. variae volucres: 1, 589 n.

1008. divom lucos: 5, 75. ‘Divi viz. hospites suas aves ab imagine accipitris tueri non valent,’ Creech.

1009. accipitres is usually masc.; M. rejects the testimony of Nonius, p. 192, that it is fem.—proelia pugnas: 2, 118 n.

1010. The order is: sunt visae persectantes volantesque; 2, 363, ‘oblectare animum subitamque avertere curam’ and the numerous examples like ex oculisque, 2, 70, given by Holtze, 174. M., taking volantes as a noun, is forced to supply aliae to make sense.

1011. quae: OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; qui Lachm. Br. Quae goes with magna; cf. 2, 732.—motibus: Vict. vulg. M. Giuss. Br.; montibus OQ; mentibus Lachm.; mortibus Bern. 3, 1040, ‘memores motus mentis.’ L. means here profound thought or hard study; cf. 962 sq.

1012. itidem: 3, 12.—faciuntque geruntque: with his frequent redundancy.

1013. reges = imperatores, cf. 967; it is nom. (But should arcet be read instead?)

1014. quasi si: pleonastic, as occasionally in Plaut.; Lane, LG. 2118.—ibidem: ‘then and there.’

1015. multi: parallel with 1018, 1020; sc. homines, who may have been soldiers or gladiators.

1016. quasi: with the subj. as usual, hence mandantur is from mandere.—pantherae: known in the venationes; Caelius had asked Cic. to send some (Fam. 2, 11, 2). L. 5, 1036, ‘catuli pantherarum scymnique leonum.’

1017. Note alliteration.—complent: 2, 358 n.

1018. 5, 1158, ‘se multi per somnia saepe loquentes | aut morbo delirantes protraxe ferantur | et celata diu in medium et peccata dedisse.’—magnis: 1, 931 n.

1019. indicio facti: the gen. with pred. dat. is rare; examples in Roby II, p. xxx.—fueri: 1, 467 n.

1020. Note alliteration and anaphora.—obeunt: i.e. obire videntur.

1021. toto corpore: with all their weight (Parnajon); of course no contrast with falling with a part of the body is implied: Aen. 4, 253, ‘toto praeceps se corpore ad undas | misit.’

1022. exterruntur: Ald. vulg. Giuss. Paulson and Br. App.; cf. exterritus 2, 1040. Exterruntur OQ; externantur Lachm. M. Bail.; expurguntur Bern. Externantur occurs in Catull. 64, 71, 165 and Ov. M. 1, 641; 11, 77, but is very rare. Suet. Iul. 45, ‘per somnum exterriri solebat.’—somno presumes waking and the resulting self-possession.—mentibu capti is a juristic expression frequent in the law books; see Heumann, Lex. 235.

1023. corporis aestu: cf. mentis aestus, 3, 173.

1024. sitiens: cf. 1097.—propter: ‘near,’ 1, 90 n.

1025. prope: with totum.

1026. puri: OQ, edd.; pusi, Lamb. Br. Bergk. The contrast is plainly with adults, 1030. Puri cannot be a contraction of pueri as L. might have written saepe lacum pueri propter as M. remarked; puri is then ‘innocent (children)’ as Giuss. interprets. Varro, Menipp. 409 B. purus dum cogito, i.e. imberbis. L. Müller RM. 256 (298) still accepts the generally rejected contraction from pueri.—lacum: Juv. 6, 603 (but see Friedländer there).—propter: for the anastrophe, on 3, 353.—si ac for ac si; se OQ, sei(si) Lachm. edd.—dolia: edd. comp. Titius in Macr. 3, 16, ‘nulla est in angporto amphora quam non impleant.’—curta: c. vasa Juv. 3, 270.

1027. devincti: 962; vincos somno, Livy 5, 44, 7 and Drakenb. there, and Burmann on Ov. M. 11, 238.—vestem: he uses the sing. more often than the pl.: 17 to 6. Bergk, credentes tollere.

1028. saccatum: Ser. Sam. 74, ‘ex asino saccatus corporis humor.’

1029. Babylonica: Pliny 8, 196, ‘colores diversos picturae intexere Babylone maxime celebravit et nomen imposuit’; below 1123. Joshua 7, 21, ‘goodly Babylonish garment’: pallium coccineum valde bonum, Vulg.

1030. ‘L. was too much of a man of sense . . . not to know that the higher order of minds are little liable to seduction from the gross exposures of nature: and only to such minds is his poem addressed,’ Busby apud Watson, Tr.—aetatis freta: aestus ac fervor adolescentiae, Eichst. Fretum adolescentiae is quoted from Florus 1, 26.—primitus is not classical; again in 5, 1093.

1031. ipsa dies matura: 3, 1039, ‘matura vetustas.’ For ipsa cf. 5, 7, ‘ipsa maiestas cognita rerum’; 6, 1207, ‘partis genitalis ipsas.’—creavit: sc. semen.

1032. quoque: OQ, edd.; quodam Lachm. Quoque is used loosely for quocunque; cf. 1065.—foris e: cf. 273.

1033. nuntia: on 704.—pulchri coloris: cf. 1094.

1034. qui: Lamb. edd.; quae OQ.—turgida: 1045; Hor. S. 2, 7, 49.

1035. transactis rebus: Cic. Tusc. 4, 55, etc. Greek comp. έπράχθη τὰ μέγιστα, Theocr. 2, 143.

1036. cruentus: ‘defile’; insigne cruentum, 5, 1138.

1037–1057. ‘Seed is summoned forth by human influence and tends to its proper place.’

1037. id in, Flor. 31, etc. edd.; id e Lachm.—ante, 1031 sq.

1038. adulta aetas: 2, 1123.—roborat, robur adulatum, 2, 1131.

1039. Br. transfers 1039–1040 to follow 1036; Phil. 33, 445. Giuss. keeps the order but infers a lacuna after 1038 to contain the object of reference in namque. But namque refers to the necessary maturity.

1040. For the elision see on 2, 919.—una: ‘alone.’ Van d. Valk, 104, would have vis = robur, adulta aetas; it rather = imago as the statement is general.

1041. Intentional alliteration.

1042. Schol. on Epic. ad Herod. 67, τὸ τε σπέρμα ἀφ' ὅλων τῶν σωμάτων φέρεσθαι. M. quotes Hippocr. de Gen. 8, ἡ γονὴ ἐξέρχεται καὶ τῆς γυναικὸς καὶ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἀπὸ ταὐτὸς τοῦ σώματος.

1043. conveniens is a participle.

1044. partis: euphemistic; see Beier on Cic. Off. 1, 126. Cf. 6, 1207.—ipseas: cf. 651.

1045. inritata: 1034.—fitque voluntas: 883.

1046. ēlcēre: 3, 639 n.—dīra: ‘fell’; cf. 1090.—lubido, libido, 779.

1047 = 1034.

1048. corpus: nom.—saucia amore: Enn. Sc. 254, ‘Medea animo aegro amore saevo saucia’; Aen. 4, 1, ‘saucia cura’.

1049. omnes plerumque: Caes. BG. 5, 57, 3, ‘equites plerumque omnes’ (M.).—cadunt in vulnus: edd. comp. Liv. 1, 58, ‘prolapsa in vulnus . . . cecidit’; Aen. 10, 488, ‘corruit in vulnus.’ 1049–1051 were rejected by Lamb.; they contain a general observation.

1050. sanguis: 6, 1203.

1051. comminus: 407 n. — umor, of blood, is unusual.

1052. telis ictus: Cic. Off. 2, 19, a bestiis ictus.

1053. sive . . . seu: 3, 522 n. — muliebribus: mollibus.

1054. iactans: 2, 846, ‘iaciunt . . . de corpore odorem.’

1055. feritur keeps up the metaphor in ictus, etc.

1056. Note alliteration.

1057. praesagitt: 3, 512 n. — muta: O, edd.; multa Q, Lamb.; mutua, Döderlein, Polle.

1058–1072. ‘Such is the way Venus comes; be on your guard.’

1058. momen: Lachm. Br. Giuss.; see on 3, 144; nomen OQ, M. Bail. This part to the end of the book was translated by Dryden.

1059. hinc illaec primum: M. Giuss. Bail.; hinc illaec. primum, Lachm. Br. — illaec: O corr., ille O, illa Q; haec illa ex primum Madv. Adv. II, 25. Illaec occurs below in 1083; as Lachm. says, it is used metr. gr. for illa like istaec for ista in Tib. 1, 9, 68; Catull. 67, 73.

1060. stillavit: Bentl. quotes Eurip. Hipp. 527, ‘Ἐπως . . . δοτις στάζεις πόθον.’ — frigida cura: Lachm. comp. Ov. ex P. 3, 9, 25, ‘lento curarum frigore.’ Aen. 6, 444, ‘curae non ipsa in morte relinquunt’ of lovers; L. 3, 992, ‘in amore iacentem . . . scindunt cuppedine curae.’

1061. si abest: 2, 404 n. — quod: i.e. object of love. — ames: OQ; aves Lachm. Br. Cic. Att. 15, 4 a, 1, ‘nisi forte quae non ames omnia videntur insulse fieri’ (M.).

1062. Prop. 1, 12, 6, ‘nec nostra dulcis in aure sonat.’ — obversatur ad, for the usual dative.

1063. simulacra are the pabula amoris.

1064. absterrere with dat. like adimere, 1234; cf. 5, 846. — alio: adv. 1072; 6, 986–987.

1065. quaeque: cf. 1032 n.

1066. conversum, sc. hominem.

1067. dolorem of the torments of love is frequent in the erotic poets.

1068. vivescit: of something hidden; cf. 1138. Petr. 42, ‘antiquus amor cancer est.’ — inveterascit of disease, Celsus 3, 13. — alendo: 1, 312 n. Georg. 3, 454, ‘alitur vitium vivitque tegendo.’

1069. inque: 3, 3 n. Inque dies occurs in six other places, all in Book V (483, 706, 1105, 1279, 1307, 1370) in the same metrical position. — gliscit: 3, 480 n. — furor: 1117; common in the erotic poets. — aerumna: 3, 50 n. — gravescit: 3, 1022 n.

1070. conturbes: ‘confuse the account,’ i.e. ‘overbalance’; a bookkeeping metaphor; cf. Catull. 5, 11. ‘Novo quodam amore veterem amorem . . . eiciendum,’ Cic. Tusc. 4, 75 (Lamb.).

1071. volgivaga is apparently Lucretian; again in 5, 932: Πάνδημος. Giuss. quotes Ov. Rem. Am. 485, ‘ergo adsume novas auctore Agamemnone flamas | ut tuus in bivio distineatur amor.’ Hor. S. 1, 3, 109, ‘venerem incertam’; id. 1, 2, 119, ‘parabilem amo venerem facilemque.’ — Venere: the Venus Erycina, Preller, Röm. Myth.<sup>8</sup> 1, 450.

1072. animi motus: metr. gr. for cōgitationes.

- 1073–1120. ‘Avoid entanglement in this passion.’
1073. fructu: i.e. volutate.
1074. Note alliteration.—poena: Prop. 2, 23, 23, ‘libertas quoniam nulli iam restat amanti, | nullus liber erit si quis amare volet.’
1075. pura magis voluptas, cf. 1081; 3, 40. Virg. has purior in Georg. 3, 522.—sanis, only here in L.; insanus not at all.
1076. miseris: 1159, 1179; Catull. 45, 21, ‘unam Septimius misellus Acmen | mavult.’—tempore in: 3, 24 n.
1077. Cf. 3, 1052 and n. Amm. Marcell. 26. 2, ‘errorum profunda caligine fluctuant.’
1078. On the rhythm see 3, 527 n. Br. brackets 1078–1101 as a parallel version of 1102 sq.; cf. Phil. 33, 445; but L. likes to eddy about his subject.
1079. arte: 1, 610.
1080. dentes illidunt: Hor. S. 2, 1, 77, ‘quaerens inlidere dentem.’ Tib. 1, 8, 37, ‘et dare anhelanti pugnantibus humida linguis | oscula et in collo figere dente notas.’
1081. oscula adfigunt: O; adfigunt Q, Lamb., might be defended by 1108 and 1179, but adfigo is better applicable to the amoris certamen (adfigunt osculum osculo). O is sustained by Flor. 31, Vict. Cambr. and all the Vatican MSS. Other examples of the literal meaning of osculum in lex. s. v. I.
1082. stimuli subsunt: 3, 873.—instigant: only here in L.; the infin. construction is unexampled.
1083. rabies: gen.; Roby, LG. 357; Gell. 9, 14.
1084. frangit: 5, 1017, ‘puerique . . . blanditiis facile ingenium fregere superbūm.’ 1084–1085 are rejected by Neumann, 39.
1085. blanda voluptas: 1, 19 n.—refrenat: Nicc. edd.
1086. in eo: 1107.
1087. flammam: cf. ignis 1, 474. For the dependent inf. cf. 5, 262, ‘latices manare perennis | nil opus est verbis.’
1088. quod totum: 1, 377 n.—repugnat ‘protests,’ with inf.; cf. 1269. As Giuss. remarks, there is a fusion of two constructions: quod fieri . . . natura significat and q. f. n. repugnat.
1089. quam . . . tam: OQ, Giuss. Bail.; quom . . . tum, M.; quo mage . . . tam, Lachm.; proquam . . . tam, Br. comp. 3, 199, proquam . . . ita. M. defends the Ms. reading, although not retaining it, by Ter. HT. 997, ‘nam quam maxume huic vane haec suspicio | erit, tam facillume patris pacem in leges conficiet suas’; Cato, RR. 85, 9, ‘quam plurimum bibit, tam maxume sitit’; Poeta ap. Quint. 9, 3, 15, ‘quam magis aerumna urget, tam magis ad maleficendum urget.’ There is a mixture of two constructions, quam . . . tam and quam with superlative.
1090. ardescit . . . pectus: 1, 474, ‘ignis . . . sub pectore gliscens.’
1091. intus: cf. 2, 711, ‘sua cuique cibis ex omnibus intus in artus | corpora discedunt’; and Roby, 2009, and 3, 171 n. M. comp. 6, 202, 278, 798, 1169 for intus as a prep.; purists can easily explain otherwise. All prepositions originally must have been syntactically ambiguous.
1092. obsidere: cf. 351.
1093. laticum: variation from umor 1091; cf. 870–873; and frugum from cibus.—cupido: amorem edendi, 869.

1094. facie pulchroque colore: voltus pulchrique coloris, 1033.
1095. datur in corpus: 6, 1249, in lectum . . . dabantur. — nil fruendum: cf. 1078 and 3, 734 n.
1096. vento . . . raptast, Wakef. M. Bail.; vanos . . . raptat, Br.; vento . . . raptat, OQ, Giuss.; mentem . . . raptat, Lachm.; mentem spe captant, Bentl.; raptat est, Vat. 3276, Itali; vecors spe captat, Polle. Br. discusses the passage in Phil. 33, 447, where he reads vanos spe raptant; cf. Val. Fl. 1, 798, 'sacer effera raptet | corda pavor.' The verse was regarded as spurious by Lamb.
1097. Cf. 1024—1025. — bibere querit: on 1, 103.
1098. stinguere: 1, 486 n.
1099. frustraque laborat: 5, 1430; 6, 396. The phrase begins with L. and continues into mediaeval Latin; Archiv 2, 2.
1100. sitit torrenti: OQ; siti torretur Br.; cf. Phil. 33, 447. Torrenti suggests the plenteousness of the imaginary flood. V. Ecl., 7, 52, 'torrentia flumina.'
1101. ludit: Wakef. quotes Aen. 1, 408, 'ludis imaginibus.'
1102. spectando: 1, 312 n. — corpora: nom. — coram: opposed in thought to simulacra.
1103. abradere: 1110.
1104. toto corpore: 3, 154—155, 564, etc.
1105. flore aetatis: aevi f. 1, 564, aevi florente 3, 1008 and n. Catull. 62, 46, 'cum castum amisit polluto corpore florem'; Livy, 21, 2, 3, 'flore aetatis,' and frequently, of innocence. Cf. also 1031.
1106. praesagit: 1057.
1107. in eost: 1086. The construction is probably personal here. — conserat arva: 2, 211, 'lumine conserit arva.' Plaut. As. 874, 'fundum alienum arat'; Aesch. Sept. 750, δοτε μη πρὸς ἀγρὰν | σωτερας θρουρας, τι' ἐπάρθη, | πλευραν αμαρτεσσαν | ἔτλα; Raumer, Metapher. 11.
1108. salivas: Catull. 78 b, 4, 'savia commixxit spurca saliva tua.'
1109. dentibus: Plaut. Pseud. 67, 'teneris labellis molles morsiunculae'; Hor. C. 1, 13, 12, 'impressit memorem dente labris notam'; Catull. 8, 18, 'cui labella mordebis.' Anth. L. 1, 430, 5 R., 'felix si qua tuum conrodit femina collum, | felix, quae labris livida labra facit.' Cf. on 1080. — inspirant: neut.
1110. Br. brackets 1110—1112 as a repetition of 1103 sq. (Phil. 33, 446). — nequiquam: 464 n. 'The master word' of this description as Symonds says; Southern Europe, 1, 345.
1111. corpus corpora: juxtaposition, 3, 71 n. Stat. Th. 11, 631, 'totum abiit in corpora ferrum'; Anthol. 1, 427, 11, 'dum iaceam tecum permixtus corpore toto.'
1112. facere = preceding verb as frequently; 3, 1005 n. For omission of id M. comp. 1153, 1195.
1113. compagibus: cf. 1205.
1114. voluptatis vi: probably not a periphrasis. Voluptatis gen. only here in L.
1115. se erupit: Georg. 1, 445, 'sese | diversi erumpunt radii,' 4, 368, 'se erupit Enipeus'; Panegyr. Mess. 86, 'fontibus ut dulces erumpat terra liquores.' — nervis: as in 1043.
1116. pausa: 3, 860 n.
1117. 'Mysterious love, uncertain treasure | Hast thou more of pain or pleasure ?'

Addison, Rosamond, 3, 2.—rabies and furor occur together in the later writers; Wakef. quotes examples from Statius, Th. 7, 810, Florus, 1, 34, 15, Juvenal, 3, 230; Lucan, 4, 240, ‘redeunt rabiesque furorque.’

1118. contingere, ‘reach,’ 1, 564 n.

1119. Cf. 3, 944.

1120. volnere caeco: Ov. Her. 4, 20, ‘caecum pectora vulnus habent’; cf. 1, 34; 3, 874 nn.

1121–1140. ‘Illicit love leads to waste of substance and loss of self-respect.’

1121. viris: 5, 1017, ‘Venus inminuit viris.’ Absumere (= debilitare, consumere) is used with vires after L. in Virg. Ov. Stat. and a few others; Thes. 1, 220, 3.—labore, ‘worry’; Ellis on Catull. 50, 14.

1122. Plaut. Merc. 24 sq.: ‘sed amori accedunt etiam haec quae dixi minus | insomnia, aerumnna, error, terror et fuga, | ineptia atque stultitia adeo et temeritas, | incogitania, excors inmodestia, | petulantia et cupiditas, malivolentia; | inhaeret aviditas, desidia, iniuria, | inopia, contumelia et dispendium, | multiloquium, pauciloquium.’—adde . . . adde: 3, 829 n.—degitur aetas: 3, 509 n.

1123. Br. and Giuss. invert 1123, 1124 with Winck. and one of Lambinus’ MSS.; but to a Roman, waste of patrimony is a greater moral delinquency. The transfer is supported by Everett, Harv. St. 7, 33.—labitur: Plaut. Tr. 242, ‘quom exemplo saviis perculsus est | ilico res foras labitur liquitur.’ Eurip. Hipp. 626, θάλαττας ἐκτίνονται . . . δέ αὖ λαβόντες . . . τέτλοσιν ἔκποτε | θύετηρος, θάλαττας δωμάτων ὑπεξελών. Cf. Prop. 3, 13.—Babylonica: 1029 n.

1124. Note the caesura in atque; 3, 258 n.—fama: existumatio, personal reputation, necessary for Roman self-respect. Notice the strong metaphors: aegroti of character occurs in Plaut. Tr. 30, 72. Bock. can hardly be right in taking officia and fama as legal duties and credit.

1125. unguenta: OQ, Giuss.; huic lenta M.; argentum Lachm. Br.; arguta proposed by M. Vnguenta were costly, and so in order here, but the syntax is strained. Possibly Giuss. is right in suggesting a lacuna preceding. Lenta is artificial and argentum is flat. Everett proposed inventa; Faber suggested uniisque or fibulaeque or Tyrrhena. Probably some word of Greek origin lies concealed in unguenta; or unguenta (sc. parantur) and scilicet should exchange places.—Sicyonia: soft shoes worn by women: Lucil. 1161, ‘et pedibus laeva Sicyonia demit honesta’; Ciris 169, ‘non teneris Sicyonia servans’; Sikunónia, Poll. 7, 73.

1126. grandes: ‘big.’—cum: not necessary in prose; 1, 276 n.—zmaragdi: 2, 805 n.

1127. includuntur, ‘set.’—teritur: ‘worn out,’ although costly.—thalassina: Plaut. Miles 1179, ‘palliolum habeas ferrugineum nam is colos thalassicust.’ Georg. 4, 435, ‘carpehant hyali saturo fucata colore.’ Ov. AA. 3, 177, ‘hic undas imitatus habet quoque nomen ab undis | crediderim Nymphas hac ego veste tegi.’ It is possible that the reference may be to form and not to color; Varro and Pliny mention undulatae vestes, ‘diversified as with waves.’

1128. potat: of vellera, Hor. Ep. 1, 10, 27.

1129. Giuss. brackets 1129–1130 as a first redaction of 1125–1128; to me they seem rather a continuation.—bene parta: ‘noble earnings.’ M. Comp. Ter. Pk. 788, ‘mei patris bene parta’; other examples in lex. ‘bene.’—anademata, mitrae:

anadema was a head-band worn for ornament; mitra was more like a scarf, and covered the head, being tied by strings; see Rich. Notice the Greek names, like the use of French terms in English, in the description of dress. Digest, 34, 2, 27, ‘mitrae et anademata: quamvis enim corpus tegant, tamen ornamentorum, non vestis esse.’ Hor. S. I., 2, 56, ‘qui patrium mimae donat fundumque laremque.’ Cowper, Task 2, 614, ‘Dress drains our cellar dry | And keeps our larder clean; puts out our fires, | And introduces hunger, frost and woe, | Where peace and hospitality might reign.’

1130. Alidensia: OQ, M. Br. Giuss. Bail.; alideusia Lachm., an unknown Greek word; ac Meletensia Ceaque, old vulg.; Ciaque edd. for chingue. Lachm. thinks that Varro, Lucr. and Pliny confused the islands Cos and Ceos as places where silk was produced; Coan dresses were known under the empire; see his note and cf. Marquardt PL<sup>2</sup> 493. Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 324, ac levidensia Coaque. Bernays printed † Alidensia, but in his Gesam. Abhandl. 2, 365, defends the MSS., Alidensia being for Elidensia with shortened initial, metr. gr.; cf. Scaptensula, 6, 810. Jessen, QL, 10 has shown that cotton (byssus) was known and manufactured in Elis, and was comparable to silk for costliness. Munro refuses the short quantity, and refers to Carian Alinda, after Wakefield. Ellis, Cl. R. 11, 204, would have Aledensia = Male-densia, ‘wool,’ and Cia, ‘wool’; cf. Aelian, 16, 32.—vertunt: neut. as perhaps in 5, 831; cf. 5, 1422; Cic. Brut. 141, ‘hoc vitium huic seni in bonum convertebat.’

1131. veste: hangings and coverings.—ludi: O corr. M. Br. Giuss. Bail.; luidi, OQ; lychni Lachm.; cf. on 5, 295. The ludi were particularly those with dice: M., among other citations, has Plaut. Circ. 354, ‘postquam cenati atque appoti talos poscit sibi in manum | provocat me in aleam ut ego ludam,’ and Titius ap. Macr. 3, 16, 15, ‘ludunt alea studiose, delibuti unguentis, scortis stipati.’

1132. coronae: 5, 1399, ‘caput atque umeros plexis redimire coronis’—serta: cf. 1178. M. comp. Plaut. Asin. 803, ‘tum si coronas sertा unguenta iusserit.’

1133. nequiquam: 464 n.—fonte leporum: f. curarum, 3, 82.

1134. ‘Some bitter still | Wells forth perpetual from his fount of bliss | And poisons every flow’ret,’ Good, Tr.—amari: 3, 909.

1135. consciu ipse animus: mens sibi conscientia, 3, 1018 n.—remordet: 3, 827 n.

1136. lustris, see examples in lex.—perire: middle as in 1121.

1137. aut quod, to avoid hiatus instead of aut cum, 1135.—in ambiguo: cited from Plaut. Hor. Tac.—verbum iaculata: iaciunt voces, 5, 1081.—reliquit: Aen. 4, 71, ‘liquitque volatile ferrum.’

1138. ‘That like a living coal his heart corrodes,’ Good.

1139. iactare: sc. eam.

1140. putat: sc. mens amatoris.—in voltuque: not inqve voltu; 3, 3 n.—risus: Ov. F. 1, 438, ‘omnibus risus erat.’

1141–1191. ‘Men are blind in love and overlook defects and weaknesses of human nature. A clear vision will often prevent entanglement.’

1141. proprio, ‘successful,’ is opposed to inopi, secundo, ‘fortunate,’ to adverso.

1142. inveniuntur, ‘experienced’; sunt, ‘exist.’

1143. prendere: comprendunt, 6, 456, comprendere, 6, 1083; 3, 599 n.—oculo-rum lumine: 824 n.

1144. innumerabilia: emphatic by position, as always in L.
1145. docui: 1063 sq.—iniciaris, Marull., is justified against inligniaris OQ, and various emendations, by 2, 788; 5, 169.
1146. plagas: 5, 1251, ‘saepire plagis saltum.’—Sen. Phaedr. 135, ‘sero recusat ferre quod subiit malum’ of love.
1147. ita . . . quam: 3, 5.
1148. Nem. Cyn. 300, ‘plagas longoque meantia retia tractu | addiscant raris semper contexere nodis’ (Wakef.).
1149. et tamen: 3, 51 n.; at, Br.—ineque peditus: 3, 343 n.
1150. obvius obstes: o. opulit, 3, 1041.
1151. praetermittas: ‘pass over’; 1191.—animi vitia: cf. 386.—primum: cf. 1, 66.
1152. quam praepetis: Marull. Giuss. Postgate, J. Phil. 16, 128. Quam tu petis, Br. Bail.; quam ppetis, O, precis, Q; si quam petis, Lachm. M. Praepeto is quoted by Festus under praepetes ‘quod es quea praepetamus indicent.’
1153. nam refers back to praetermittas.—faciunt: cf. 1112.—cupidine caeci: Luc. 1, 87; caeca cupido L., 3, 59.
1154. commoda: ‘charms.’—his: edd.; is, OQ, but the existing hostility to ii, monosyll., may yet be overcome in spite of Lachm. p. 262.
1155. pravas turpisque: ‘crooked and ugly.’ For prava cf. 513, 520.
1156. in honore vigere: Aen. 2, 88, ‘vigebat | consiliis.’
1157. alias alii: the order is probably metr. gr.; Archiv 7, 359. Lamb. rejected 1157–1159, but they may be taken as parenthetical.—suädent: very unusual.
1158. placent: to propitiate Venus.
1159. maxima: i.e. foedissima.
1160. nigra: frequently said of women by the poets in uncomplimentary reference to the complexion; Blümner, Farben, 56.—melichrus: honey colored, olive-brunette.—acosmos: negligée. This softening down of defects is found in Plato Rep. 474 d, e, and Hor. S. I, 3, 44, ‘strabonem | appellat Paetum pater; et Pullum, male parvus | si cui filius est . . . ; hunc Varum, distortis cruribus; illum | balbutit Scaurum, pravis fultum male talis,’ etc. Ov. AA. 2, 657, ‘nominibus mollire licet mala. Fusca vocetur, | nigrior Illyrica cui pice sanguis erit; | si crassa est, Veneris similis. si torva, Minervae. | sit gracilis, macie quae male viva sua est. | dic habilem, quaecunque brevis. quae turgida, plena, | et lateat vitium proximitate boni.’ Theoc. 10, 26, Σύρας καλέοντι την πάντες | λοχάνω διδόκαστος, ἐγώ δὲ μόνος μελίχλωρος. For the Greek words cf. Juv. 6, 187, ‘omnia graece, | cum sit turpe magis nostris nescire latine; | hoc sermone pavent, hoc iram gaudia curas | hoc cuncta effundunt animi secreta’; Mart. 10, 68, 5, ‘Κύρη μου, μέλι μου, ψυχή μου congeris usque | pro pudor! Hersiliae civis et Egeriae’; cf. Friedländer, SG. 1, 340 and Cooper, Sermo Pleb. 317. Molière, Misanthrope: ‘Ils comptent les défauts pour des perfections, | Et savent y donner de favorable noms. | La pâle est aux jasmins en blancheur comparable; | La noire à faire peur, une brune adorable; | La maigre a de la taille et de la liberté; | La grasse est dans son port pleine de majesté; | La trop grand parleuse est d’agréable humeur, | Et la muette garde une honnête pudeur,’ etc. The opposite in Ov. Rem. Am. 327, ‘turgida, si plena est, si fusca est, nigra vocetur,’ etc.; 334, ‘fac saltet, nescit signa movere manum.’

1161. 'The cat-eyed is a Pallas: skin and bones they term gazelles,' Baring, Tr. — caesia is grey-blue: Gell., 2, 26, 19, quotes a derivation from Nigidius: de colore aeli quasi caelia. — ligneal: Catull. 23, 6, 'et cum coniuge ligneal parentis' Alexis Fragm. Com. Mein. 3, 473) σῶμα υπόβυλον.

1162. 'The tiny pygmy is a Grace, and brims with wit, they say,' Baring. — sumilio: because dwarfs were pets; Mayor on Juv. 8, 32. — sal: Catull. 86, 4, nulla in tam magno est corpore mica salis'; Bährens there comp. Afran. 30, 'ut quid loquitur sal merum est.'

1163. catalepsis: 'a wonder'; personified majesty, Bock. 'The huge and bulky, dignified and grand,' Good. — honoris: 'esteem.'

1164. 'One stutters, cannot talk, she lisps; the dumb is so discreet,' Baring. — ravulizi: τραυλίζει.

1165. 'A sharp-tongued spitfire dazzles like a meteor,' Mallock translates. — diosa: again of a person in 1190. — loquacula: διπλ. λεγ.

1166. 'This mignon gracieuse et svelte, who scarce can live for want | of flesh; and one half dead with cough is simply ravissante', Bar. — ischnon eromenion: slim darling'; cf. Ov. I.c. Maxim. 1, 85, 'quaerebam gracilem, sed quae non macra uisset' (Wakef.).

1167. rhadine: 'delicate.'

1168. tumida: Bern. edd.; Lamia, Avanc. Lachm. atiamina, OQ, which probably conceals some unliterary or Greek word synonymous with tumida. — mammosa: Arn. 3, 10, 'ab Iaccho Cererem Musa ut praedicit Lucretia mammosam.' Adjectives in -osus express an undesirable fulness; cf. labeosa, 1169, and on 1, 83. — ab: 'personae per quam orta sit condicio aliqua' Hertz, 24. The Thesaurus, 1, 3, 36 makes it = proper. Dionysus, as the son of Demeter, was sometimes represented as an infant at the breast.

1169. simula: 'flat nosed,' διπλ. λεγ. except as a proper noun. — Silena, διπλ. λεγ. — Satura, διπλ. λεγ. — labeosa: 'thick-lipped,' διπλ. λεγ. — philema: 'an incarnate iss.' Fielding, Joseph Andrews (1889), p. 30, 'Again when thou [love] pleasest thou canst make a molehill appear as a mountain, a jewsharp sound like a trumpet, and a daisy smell like a violet. Thou canst make cowardice brave, avarice generous, pride humble, and cruelty tender hearted,' etc.

1170. cetera: innumerabilia, 1144. — longum est: Roby, 1535, Madv. 348. obs.

1171. iam: 1, 968 n. — oris honore, Ciris, 496, 'oris honos primum, et multis ptata labella.'

1172. A sibilant line. — Veneris vis, Ter. Ph. 107, 'ni vis boni | in ipsa inesset orma.' — exoriatur: 1, 869 n.

1173. nempe: 'well'; 2, 907 n. For the repetition cf. Petr. 115, 'nempe hic proxima luce patrimonii sui rationes inspexit, nempe diem etiam,' etc. — hac sine: , 26 n.

1174. eadem . . . turpi ('ugly'); 3, 1038 n. Ov. Rem. Am. 437 is compared by Creech.

1175. taetris odoribus: 6, 1154, 807; 3, 581 n. — taetris here = potentibus, Wakef. — suffit: 'perfumes'; βδεῖ, Housman, J. Phil. 25, 240; cf. aura, 1180.

1176. cachinnant: 1, 919 n.

1177. exclusus: Ov. AA. 3, 69, 'tempus erit quo tu quae nunc excludis amantes | sparsa nec invenies limina mane rosa'; id. Rem. Am. 36, 'exclusus . . . amans' Catull. 63, 65, 'mihi ianuae frequentes, mihi limina tepida, | mihi floridis corollis redimita domus erat.'

1178. Tib. 1, 2, 14, 'cum posti florida sarta darem.' Aen. 2, 504, 'postes . . . superbi.' Bentley on Hor. C. 2, 14, 27 explains the Lucretian passage propter amaracinum superbos, but perhaps the doors are haughty in the exclusion; sceptra superba, 5, 1137. Lamb., also on Hor., explains postes puellae superbæ.

1179. unguit: Pera. 5, 165, 'dum Chrysidis udas | ebrius ante fores . . . canto.' — oscula figurunt: Aen. 2, 490, 'amplexaeque tenent postes atque oscula figurunt.' Osculantur is unmetrical.

1180. admissum (ammissum), Lamb. edd.; missum, OQ; ammissu, Lachm.; iussu, Bern. Admissum is opposed to exclusus, 1177; iam as in 1171. For admitto, de amatoribus, see Thes. 1, 749, 56. The omission of the syllable points to copying from dictation at some stage. — offenderit: as in 6, 792.

1181. modō: 2, 941 n. — honestas: 'specious.' Caes. BC. 3, 32, 4, 'ut honesta præscriptione rem turpissimam tegerent.'

1182. cadat, i.q. mittatur, because useless; he drops it.

1183. stultitia: OQ. Wakef. M. Giuss. Bail.; stultitiae, Itali, Lachm. Br. Damno takes the abl. of scelus in Cic. Phil. 13, 27. See Roby, LG. 1229, Howard, J. Phil. 1, 132. — tribuisse, 1154.

1184. videat: of mental vision, 3, 348 n.

1185. Bucolic diaeresis, 3, 907 n. — Veneres, Cic. Cael. 52, Venerem illam tuam referring to Clodia. Plaut. Curc. 192, tun' meam Venerem vituperas?

1186. postcaenia: Br. Bail.; postcaenia OQ; poscaenia Lachm. M. Giuss.; 'ante multas consonantes scribitur pos,' Lachm.; but postscripterat occurs in Tac. Ann. 3, 64. The word is ἀπ. λεγ. = τροσκήνια. Lamb. quotes Ov. AA. 3, 229, 'multa viros nescire decet.' Ter. Eun. 940, 'nosse omnia haec salus est adulescentulis.' Ritschl, Opusc. 2, 548 discusses poscenia and the like, but postcaenia is implied by the Ms. reading and postremus, postridie occur. Cf. admissum 1180 and n.

1187. retinere . . . adstrictos: unsymmetrical.

1188. nequiquam, sc. celant. — animo protrahere, 'in thought drag forth'; ratione deligere, Creech. Videant animo, 3, 902. M.'s reference to the amata is unlikely.

1189. risus caused by the various postcaenia as in 1176; ridiculous situations, déshabillé, etc. Hermann, Phil. 3, 511, proposed nitus, which had already been suggested by Lambin.

1190. bello animo: 'of good disposition.' Note the enallage.

1191. praetermittere: 'overlook,' cease idealizing. Marull. edd. supply et, but may not the asyndeton be more forcible even with the hiatus?

1192–1207. 'There is genuine love.'

1192. mulier = uxor. — suspirat: an erotic word.

1193. Note alliteration. — cum . . . iungit: 5, 444, 'cum paribus iungi'; 6, 1074, 'iungitur uno corpore cum.'

1194. adsuetis, ἀπ. λεγ. — umectans: cf. 1, 920.

1195. ex animo: 3, 914 n.

1196. decurrere: cf. 3, 1042 and n. The infin. with solicitare is unexampled; Dr. § 417.—spatium: iter Prop. 2, 33, 22; cursus rape, Sen. Phaed. 449.

1197. armenta feraeque: 2, 922 n.

1198. subsidere: Hor. Ep. 16, 31, tigres subsidere cervis; unusual.—possunt: Lachm. Br. Giuss.; possent, OQ. M. Bail.

1199. quod: quoque, Br.—illarum: Br. Giuss. Bail.; illorum, OQ. Lachm. M. Subare demands the fem., and M.'s theory that illorum neut. represents the preceding feminines is hardly tenable. Yet cf. on 1, 611.—subat ardet: asyndeton.

1200. salientum: 'covering'; see lex.

1201. nonne, etc.: 2, 196 n.

1202. Pentasyllabic ending: 2, 878 n.

1203. quam: Lachm. edd.; cum, OQ.

1210 (1204). divorsi: 3, 105. The verse was first transferred by Naug.

1204 (1205). quom interea: harsh elision in the first foot as in Catull. 64, 305; cf. Norden, Aen. VI, p. 447.—compagibus: nodos, 1148.

1205. gaudia: naturally pl. in this sense; L. does not have sing. (1106, 1196; 5, 854, 1061). Cf. Ov. Am. 2, 3, 2, 'mutua nec Veneris gaudia nosse potes.'

1206. fraudem: 817 n.

1207. etiam ut dico is unusual, 3, 228 n.

1208–1232. 'Causes of hereditary resemblances.'

1208. virilem: Br. Giuss. Bail. Bruno 8, cf. Phil. 33, 448: cf. duplici in 1229; vim in 1229 needs an adj ect. Virili, OQ. Lachm., M., who suggests semen for semine.—Act. 5, 5, 1, Πιθαγόρας Ἐπίκουρος Δημόκριτος καὶ τὸ θῆλυ προίσθαι σπέρμα.

1209 (1210). Edd. cite Censorinus Die n. 6, 'Anaxagoras autem eius parentis faciem referre liberos iudicavit qui seminis amplius contulisset'; Hippocr. de Generatione et Cibis 7, δύκτερος δ' ἀπὸ τλέων ξυμβάλλεται . . . καὶ ἀπὸ τλεών χωρίων τοῦ σώματος, κείνῳ τὰ τλεῶν δούκε· καὶ οὐτε θετε θυγάτηρ γενομένη δούκε κάλλιον τῷ πατρὶ ή τῷ μητρὶ καὶ κούρος γενέμενος δούτη δε τάλλιον δούκε τῷ μητρὶ ή τῷ πατρὶ. Lact. Opif. d. 12, 'aiunt [Varro et Aristoteles] non tantum maribus incesse semen verum etiam feminis et inde plerumque matribus similes procreari, . . . cum semina inter se permixta coalescant si virile superaverit patri similem provenire sive marem seu feminam; si muliebre praevaluerit progeniem cuiusque sexus ad imaginem respondere maternam,' etc.—vicit: Salmas. edd.; ulcri, OQ.

1211. semine: abl. of means, cf. 1229.

1212. patribus patrio: i.e. ut similes patribus sunt patrio semine. For the variation between gen. and dat. with similis, see Roby, 1317, Madv. 219, 2, Harkness, 435 N. Cic. ND. 2, 149, 'plectri similem linguam . . . chordarum dentes, naris cornibus.' For Lucretian usage see Holtze, 45, 50.

1213. vulta: also in Enn. Ann. 464; vultus, 1224.

1214. Note chiasmus and omission of prep. with sanguine, which = semine, 1211.

1215. artus: cf. 1041 sq.

1216. obvia confixit: 2, 86, obvia confixere; and for obvia as predicate cf. 3, 383, tenvia fila obvia. Confixit is transitive also in Cic. Inv. 2, 126.—ardor: 1077.

1217. neque utrum: nec utrum, 5, 839. He does not use neuter.

1218. avorum: atavism was a puzzle to the ancients: edd. quote Arist. Gen. an. 4, 3, 28, διὰ τὸν αἰτιανὸν τοῦ προγόνους ὡς ἐπὶ τὸ πολὺ καὶ τοῖς ἀποδεῖν;

1219. referant: 1, 597 n.
1220. multa . . . multis: 1, 341 n.
1221. parentis: nom., 1, 808 n.
1222. quae (primordia) projecta ab stirpe. — pātribus pātres: Aen. 2, 663, 'pātria pātrem'; Hor. C. 1, 32, 11, 'nigris oculis nigroque'; 3, 145 n. — ab: 6, 720, ab stellis, 4, 288, ab speculo; the change here by Lachm. edd. from a of OQ seems necessary; 2, 1135 n.
1223. inde: primordiis. — producit: reducit, 1, 228.
1224. voltus voces comas, by which persons are most easily recognized. Voltus signifies the play of expression on the face (3, 163); it is not a synonym of facies, 1226.
1225. magis: OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss.; minus Lamb. Br. Bail. van d. Valk; cf. 2, 533. — haec: voltus, etc. — semine certo: virili aut muliebri, Lachm. — 1227-1228 were transferred to follow 1224 by M. and Giuss., who would make haec in 1225 mean distinctions of sex, but van d. Valk insists that with the transposition it must refer to muliebre saclum et mares. Br. takes refuge in a lacuna after 1224, and says in Phil. 33, 448 that haec refers to moral traits, and that the lost verse was like aque animorum naturam moresque sequaces; but L. would surely give more than one line to such an important ethical principle.
1226. facies: 'facial outline'; facies et corpora, 452. Bock. would have a missing tergora displace corpora.
1227. muliebre saclum: 5, 1021.
1228. corpore creti: 2, 906 n.
1229. M. cites Hippocr. de Genit. 8, kal ēv τῆ γυναικὶ καὶ ἐν τῷ ἀνδρὶ καὶ κούρῳ γένη καὶ θηλυγόνη. — partus: 2, 935.
1230. utri (parenti). — simile magis: similius is unmetrical.
1231. eius (parentis). — quod: 'as.' — cernere: again metr. gr. for videre. — possis: 3, 213 n.
1232. virum: gen. pl. as in 2, 326; he might have used virilis. — origo: 'beginning' of quocumque creatur.
- 1233-1277. 'Sterility is not due to divine displeasure, but to physical causes.'
1233. divina: e.g. Juno, Ceres, Venus; or merely divinitus, 1, 150.
1234. absterrent: cf. 1064. — dulcibus: 3, 895.
1235. appelletur: Ter. Eun. 651, 'hunc videre saepe optabimus diem, | quom ex te esset aliquis, qui te appellaret patrem.' — exigat aevum: a common phrase, but only here in L.
1236. quod: 'as,' 1, 1080; 3, 1057, 'ut nunc plerumque videmus.' Giuss. thinks that quod refers forward to 1238-1239, and punctuates accordingly, but the construction is loose in L.'s manner. — maesti, through discouragement.
1237. aras . . . altaria: 3, 432 n. Aen. 2, 514, 'arae . . . altaria'; id. 8, 284, 'cumulantque oneratis lancibus aras, | tum Salii . . . incensa altaria circum.' — adoleat: ritual word for 'honor' (honor the Lord with thy substance, Prov. 3, 9); Aen. 7, 71, 'adolet . . . altaria taedis.' If the sacrifice were an unbloody one, the word would not necessarily mean burn. Vulg. Levit. 2, 11, 'nec quidquam fermenti ac mellis adolebitur in sacrificio Domino'; most frequent of incense in the Vulgate. Cf. Thes. 1, 793, 24.

1238. gravidas: 1275, and figuratively of nubes, 6, 400, of a storm, 6, 259.
1239. nequiquam again beginning the line: 464 n.—sortis: either by strips of wood or from consultation of books or through any other method of divination; see Mayor on Juv. 1, 82.—fatigant: 2, 1169.
1240. steriles: Pliny, 10, 78, ‘hederae nigrae . . . steriles etiam viros faciunt.’
1241. praeter iustum: plus iusto, Hor. C. 3, 7, 24.
1242. tenue (semen).—locis: 1043, 1045, 1266.—adhaesum: 3, 381 n. Cf. Georg. 2, 317, ‘nec semine iacto | concretum patitur radicem adfigere terrae.’
1243. liquitur: cf. 2, 1132.—abortu: Pliny, 28, 32, fetus abortu vitiavit; Lamb. ab ortu, perhaps rightly; cf. origo, 1232, and ortus, 1, 212.
1244. his: i.e. aliis; join with mittitur. Hic OQ, his Lachm., editors.—concretius: 3, 191 n.
1245. prolixo: ‘far reaching.’
1246. penetratum: 670.
1247. semine semen: for the collocation, 3, 71 n.
1248. harmoniae: sc. seminis virilis et muliebris.
1249. magis: ‘preferably.’
1250. succipiunt: suscipere, 1253, succipit, 5, 402, where see n., and cf. lex. s. v.
—inque gravescunt: unexampled use; for the tmesis on 3, 343.
1251. An indication of the frequency of divorce, and one of the reasons for it.
1252. puellos is anteclass.; the diminutive is one of endearment.
1253. Note alliteration.—dulci: Catull. 61, 219, ‘dulce rideat ad patrem'; dulci is subjective. Cf. 1234.—partu: unborn as well as born; Pliny, 7, 42, capillum germinante partu. Cf. on 1, 476.
1254. fecundae in a former marriage or under other conditions; cf. Kraetsch, 65.
1255. illis: 3, 271 n.
1256. gnatis: so 1234; 6, 13, 1258; nati, 3, 895.—munire: Catull. 61, 66. ‘nulla quit sine te domus | liberos dare, nec parens | stirpe nitier'; Stat. Th. I, 394, ‘geminio natarum pignore fultus.'
1257. refert ut, only here in L.; see Reisig, Sprachw. 3, p. 440.
1258. genitaliter, d̄r. λεγ.
1259. crassaque: OQ, Lachm., Giuss. i.e. refert ut crassa, etc.; crassane, M. Br. Bail.—l̄iquidis et l̄iquida: 3, 145 n.
1260. in eo: the question touched on in 1248.
1261. rebus, sc. food.—concrescunt: cf. concretius, 1244.—membria: cf. 1041–1042.
1262. extenvantur: 3, 232 n.
1263. blanda voluptas: 1, 19 n.
1264. permagni: 1, 908.—more ferarum: 5, 932; f. m. 6, 198; cf. Aen. 4, 551; Livy, 5, 44, 6.—Cf. Ov. AA. 3, 771 sq.
1265. ritu: Livy, 3, 47, 7, ‘pecudum ferarumque ritu promiscue in concubitus ruere'; id. 4, 2, 6, ‘ut ferarum prope ritu vulgentur concubitus'; cf. Archiv 10, 77.
1266. loca: 1242 n.
1267. positis = pronis. Cf. on 3, 346.
1268. Cf. 1277.—opu' is unexampled elsewhere in OQ; see APA. 34, lxvi.—hilum: 3, 220 n.

1269. prohibit with inf.; cf. 3, 864.
1270. Venerem: cf. 1200.
1271. exossato: 'omni pectore seu corpore exossato, id est, ita inflexo et incurvato ut exosse videatur, fluctus commovet. Apuleius . . . exossem saltationem,' Lamb. — fluctus: cf. Arn. 5, 44, and fluctuare, id. 7, 33.
1272. eicit: 3, 639 n. — sulcum, Georg. 3, 136. — recta regione: 1, 958 n.
1273. ictum: 1245.
1274. id . . . moveri: 3, 569 n.
1275. completerentur: 1249. — gravidae in gender refers to scorta; gravida OQ.
1276. Venus: Ov. M. 3, 323.
1277. coniugibus: dat., as in 1268. — nostris: i.e. Romanis; 1, 117 n. There is no evidence of L.'s marriage. He speaks as a man of science, like any modern physician of integrity.
- 1278-1287. 'Yet with no divine influence women without beauty are loved on account of their deeds and character. Habit, too, is of great importance: drops wear away stone.'
1278. Nec divinitus: DL. 10, 118, ἐρασθήσεσθαι τὸν σοφὸν οὐ δοκεῖ αὐτοῖς . . . οὐδὲ βεβηπτόν εἶναι τὸν ἔρωτα. — sagittis: cf. 1052, 1215.
1279. muliercula: not cited before L.; the word has generally a leaning in malam partem.
1280. interdum, under exceptional circumstances. — femina: metrical variant for mūlīcēr (so always in L.); notice alliteration also.
1281. Note alliteration. Voltaire translated: 'On peut, sans être belle, être toujours aimable: | L'attention, le goût, les soins, la propreté, | Un esprit naturel, un air toujours affable, | Donnent à la laideur les traits de la beauté.' Bentley quoted Afranius (380 R.): 'aetas et corpus tenerum et morigeratio, | haec sunt venena formosarum mulierum.' Prop. 2, 20, 19, 'quod si nec nomen nec me tua forma teneret, | posset servitium mite tenere tuum.'
1282. te secum: Bern. edd.; secum nos, Lachm. — insuescat te: Hor. S. 1, 4, 105, insuevit pater optimus me.
1283. quod superest: 'moreover,' 1, 50 n. — consuetudo: Sen. Dial. 9, 1, 3, 'tam malorum quam bonorum longa conversatio amorem induit.' Apul. M. 6, 8, 'una de famulitione Veneris nomine Consuetudo.'
1284. πολλαῖσι πληγαῖς δρῦς δαμάζεται, Diogen. 7, 77 a; Otto, Sprichw. 96. — crebro . . . ictu: 934.
1285. labascit: 1, 537 n. — Cf. on 1, 920.
1286. guttas: 1, 313 n.
1287. longo in: but in longo, 1285. — pertundere, 3, 936 n.

BOOK V

1-54. 'Who can praise Epicurus worthily for his great deeds? He was divine; his gift of philosophy was greater than the gift of any god, his protection greater than that of Hercules, for he alone gave relief from superstitious terrors.' — Cf. laudes Epicuri at the opening of Books III and VI, and the older prooemium of I (62 sq.).

1. dignum: absolute. There is no need of taking it closely with pro in 2 and 4. Hor. Ep. 1, 7, 24, 'dignum praestabo me etiam pro laude merentis'; Roby, 2075, gives many examples of pro without dignus. Cf. also Kritz on Sallust, Cat. 51, 8, 'in hac structura dignum absolute positum est ut saepe; cf. Cat. 35, 3.' — Sil. Ital. 12, 388, 'sperarim tanto digne pro nomine rerum | pandere,' in his eulogy of Ennius; L. may be under Ennian influence here.—Notice the parallelism: potis est with valet, verbis with pollenti pectore. Cic. Caec. 42, 'quae cum cogito iam nunc timeo quidnam pro offensione hominum qui illi inimici sunt et expectatione omnium et magnitudine rerum dignum eloqui possim.' — pectore: instrumental abl.; it is the seat of animus (3, 140) and synonymous with it. Cf. 1, 731, 'carmina divini pectoris eius'; 1, 413, 'haustus . . . diti de pectore fundet,' and 5, 18, 43 below.—carmen condere, 'build the losty rhyme,' Milton, Lycidas. Ennius began his sixth book of Annals with quis potis ingentis oras evolvere belli. For condere see lex. A, c.

2. pro: 'in the face of.' — maiestate hisque: Lamb. edd.; maiestatis atque OQ; but cf. on 4, 1154. — repertis, εὑρηματι; used of Empedocles' philosophical discoveries in 1, 732, and of those of Epicurus again in 6, 7. — There is a list of cases of hendiadys in L. in Kraetsch, 36 sq.

3. valet tantum: cf. 561. — flingere: usually in L. of falsehood or insincerity; hence Lamb. proposed depingere or fundere, and Gif. pingere; but flingere here is a metaphor from plastic art.

4. eius: the name Epicurus avoided in his manner.

5. parta quaesitaque: strictly a ὑπεροπή τρόπερον, but practically synonymous. — suo: 3, 2 n. — liquit: Val. Flacc. 5, 230, monumentum . . . liquerat.

6. cretus: 2, 906 n. — Lact. Inst. 3, 14, quotes and comments on this and the next two verses.

7. si: 2, 404 n. — cognita: i.e. nobis per Epicurum.

8. deus: Lact. Inst. 3, 17, 'et invenit homo divinus quae reprehenderet.' Boissier, Rel. Rom. 1, 181, says that L. here uses a very violent hyperbole intended to show the excess of his enthusiasm. 'We may say only "divine Plato," Epicurus becomes a god,' Caro, Mélanges, 1, 276. — Cic. Tusc. 1, 48, 'soleo saepe mirari non nullorum insolentiam philosophorum qui naturae cognitionem admirantur eiusque inventori et principi gratias exultantes agunt eumque venerantur ut deum.' — Memmi: see Introd. 24.

9. principes: 1, 94 n. — vitae rationem: 1, 105 n. — Conington, Misc. Writings, 1, 262, says this sentence is prose pure and simple, where the words must wonder how they ever got into metrical order.

10. sapientia: only here in L. Horace, repentant, insanientis dum sapientiae| consultus erro, C. 1, 34, 2. — artem: edd. comp. Georg. 1, 122, 'primusque per artem | movit agros,' and Manil. 1, 42, 'primique per artem | sideribus videre vagis pendentia fata.' Ars here = ratio.

11. tantis tenebris: 3, 1. — Note the chiasmus.

12. Note alliteration. — tranquillo: substantive; Juv. 13, 228, dilata sereno. — Gratt. Cyn. 96, 'deus ille an proxuma divos | mens fuit, in caecas aciem quae magna tenebras | egit et ignarum perfudit lumine vulgus.' Plut. Philos. c. princ. 3, 778 c (Usener, Epic. Fr. 544), 'Ἐπίκουπος τάγαθος ἐν τῷ βαθυτάτῳ τῆς ἡσυχίας θωκερ ἐν ἀκληστῷ λιμένι καὶ κωφῷ τιθέμενος. Note that tranquillo is contrasted with fluctibus and luce with tenebris.

13. divina antiqua reperta: so aurea fulgentia mala, 32; cf. on 1, 258.
14. Note alliteration.
15. A clumsy verse with pentasyllabic close.—vitigeni: 6, 1072, vitigeni latices; quoted from no other author. Laticis of wine also in 2, 657. Langen, Phil. 34, 34, would write calicem here, but L. is lawless in his use of periphrasis.—mortalibus: metr. gr. for hominibus, as frequently.—instituisse: established by introducing and cultivating. Grasb. indu didisse.—Cic. ND. 1, 38, 'at Persaeus, eiusdem Zenonis auditor, eos dicit habitos deos a quibus magna utilitas ad vitae cultum esset inventa,' on which passage Mayor quotes Philodemus' (pp. 75, 76) reference to the allegorizing of Persaeus and Prodicus: τὸς εὐρύτας ή τροφάς ή σκέπας ή τὰς ἀλλας τέχνας, ως Δῆμητρα καὶ Δίδυνον. Cf. Pascal, Graecia Capta, 64, and on 3, 221.
16. his rebus: because luxuries; cf. 939 sq.
17. ut fama est: 3, 981 n.—gentis, e.g. the Germans, Caesar, BG. 6, 22.
18. bene: emphatic. Cic. Tusc. 3, 49, 'negat Epicurus iucunde posse vivi nisi cum virtute vivatur,' from Epic. Sententia V (DL. 10, 139) οὐκ ἔστιν ἡδέως γῆρας ἀνετοῦ φροντίων καὶ καλῶν καὶ δικαλών.
19. magis: with videtur; cf. 1, 481; 3, 954.
20. ex quo: elsewhere he has e before q; Hertz, 6; Lachm. on 5, 531.—didiit, by the Greek writings of Epicureans.—magnas gentis, 1161.
21. solacia: 113; 6, 4.
22. autem: 'again.' He passes from gods to demigods.
23. longius: i.e. than by preferring Ceres and Liber to Epicurus.—ferere: in the sixth foot, similarly 2, 441, experiare; 6, 653, contuare; but 3, 1052, vagaris; 1, 80, 652, rearis; 1, 398, moreris.—For the thought cf. 3, 105 n.
24. Nemeaeus . . . hiatus: periphrasis, 1, 258 n. The hypallage Nemeaeus for Nemeaei is not uncommon in proper names; 1, 10 n. Cf. the depreciation of Hercules in comparison with Augustus in the Aen. 6, 801 sq. and the defence of the cult of Hercules in Aen. 8, 185 sq. Faber quotes Anacreonta, 24, 4, λέοντος χάσιν δδόντων. — L. refers to eight of the labors of Hercules; he omits the horned hind, Augean stables, victory over Amazons, and journey to Hades, as these were not enemies of humanity. See Hercules' lament in Soph. Trach. 1090 sq., translated by Cic. Tusc. 2, 20 sq.
25. ille: 'renowned.'—sus closes the line in Georg. 3, 255, and Aen. 3, 390.
26. Br., after Kannengiesser, transfers this verse, with 27, to follow 36, but he would replace them in App.—denique: 'again,' deinde.—Lernaea pestis: L. anguis, Aen. 8, 300.
27. Sen. Herc. Oct. 1192, 'utinam meo cruro satiasset suos | Nemeaea rictus pestis aut centum anguibus | vallatus Hydram tibe pavissem mea.'
28. Bern. and edd. suppose a lacuna after 28 to be filled with something like quid volucres pennis aeratis invia stagna, proposed by M.—tripectora, ἄτ. λεγ. Cf. tricorporis, Aen. 6, 289; Sil. Ital. 3, 422.—Seitz, De fixis Epithetis, 14, shows that Geryon was called tergeminus, tricorpor, triformis, triplex, the first most frequently.—Geryonai: from Geryones. Masc. stems have rarely gen. in -ai; Bücheler, Lat. Dekl. 65.

29 (30) placed here by M. and recent edd. Lachm., following Itali, places the verse after 31 with no lacuna, and reads et aves for nobis; Bern. follows him in the transposition but keeps nobis. Early edd. inserted between nobis and Stymphala the words uncisque timendae | unguibus Arcadiae volucres. The need of a pl. subj. for officent caused the order of the MSS.—Stymphala may be pl. of Stymphalum, like Ismara, or more probably an adj.

30 (29). Georg. 2, 140, 'haec loca non tauri spirantes naribus ignem,' and id. 3, 85, 'volvit sub naribus ignem.' Aen. 7, 281, 'spirantis naribus ignem.'

31. Thracis: M. edd.; Thracia, OQ; Thracam, Lachm. M. defended his reading by Ov. M. 9, 194, 'Thracis equos humano sanguine pinguis.' Thracis is emphatic to distinguish the Thracian king from the hero at Troy, Tydides.—que . . . atque: cf. 190; unexampled in Caes. and Cic., but occurs in poetical and silver Latin; Dr. § 322, 3; Lane, 1664.—propter: 1, 316 n.

32. mala: aurantia, oranges?

33. acerba: cf. torva tuentem, Aen. 6, 467 and Aen. 9, 794, asper acerba tuens ('rough staring savageness,' Lane, 1142); Georg. 3, 149, asper acerba sonans. Notice that the internal rhyme is not kept by V.; 3, 6 n.—immani corpore: probably abl. of quality; 2, 498, 'inmani maximitate.' The abl. rather than the gen. is used with immanis until Velleius; by the poets, perhaps for metrical convenience, but it is also the usage of Caesar and Cicero; Archiv 11, 205.

34. amplexus stirpem: robora complexus, Luc. 9, 364. — quid denique obisset: 'what possible harm,' Duff.

35. pelagique: OQ, edd.; Br. 'nam 6, 619, pelage sunt pluria maria.' Pelagoque, Lamb. Lachm. M.—severa: OQ, edd.; sonora, Itali, Lachm. M. For pelagi severa cf. caeli serena, 2, 1100; Aen. 6, 374, amnemque severum, Plaut. Trin. 825 (Nep-tunum) sacromque severumque. Discussion in Jahrb. 93, 393 and by Cartault, Flex. 44.

36. noster: L., then, regards himself as a Roman. Noster for nostras, a form not used.

37. cetera de genere hoc: 3, 481 n.—portenta: Hor. Ep. 2, 1, 11, 'notaque fatali portenta labore subegit.'

38. sei points to sed of OQ; most edd. si, after Flor. 30.

39. satiatem, 2, 1038 n. Wild beasts still destroy, but Epicurus' relief is permanent.

40. scatit: 6, 891, dulcis aquai | qui scatit. 5, 1162, ararum compleverit. — trepidō terrore: cf. 3, 834, and n. For -re repleta, 1, 385 n.

41. montes magnos: 1, 201 n. Nemora . . . montis . . . silvas, 955, 992.—silvas profundas, Aen. 7, 515.

42. potestas: 2, 53. The argument fails to notice that the beasts may take the initiative.

43. at nisi is rare; Thes. 2, 1002, 30 quotes only five instances,—two from Ovid.—purgatumst, 6, 24, 'veridicis igitur purgavit pectora dictis.' Lact. Inst. 1, 9, 'Hercules . . . orbem terrae . . . peragrasse ac purgasse narratur.'—proelia: acc.; 1, 111 n.

44. pericula: 3, 55 n.—tumst: Lachm. edd.; sunt, OQ. (Why not sunt . . . insinuanda? Prop. 3, 9, 28, 'omni tempore tam faciles insinuentur opes.')—ingratias: 3, 1069 n.—insinuandum: 3, 485 n. Cole, C. R. 19, 205, interprets: 'into what battles . . . must we find our way.'

45. scindunt: 3, 994, 'alia quavis scindunt cuppedine curae.' — acres: acris, Bergk, Br. The MSS. have cuppedines, unmetrical.
46. 3, 1049, 'sollicitamque geris cassa formidine mentem.'
47. superbit sp.: 1, 372 n. — spurcitia: probably pecuniary meanness: Cic. Verr. 2, 1, 94, 'avarissime et spurcissime.' — petulantia: violence from avarice, insolence. Avarice and political ambition lead to any crime; 3, 59 sq. But the two last words ordinarily refer to impurity of life.
48. luxus, desidiae: plurals in relation to many concrete instances; Dr. § 7.
49. ex . . . que: as commonly; 1, 37 n.
50. dictis non armis: Cic. ND. 1, 115, 'nec manibus sed rationibus.' Note the disfavor of militarism.
51. hominem: 1, 66, Graius homo. — numero: Langen, Phil. 34, 34 would supply in with Bentley, cf. 180; but the preposition is sometimes omitted; see lex. nummerus II. — dignarier: pass.; for inf. cf. 2, 1039.
52. bene is out of place owing to its quantity. — divinitus: because he was deus, 8; 1, 736, 'multa bene ac divinitus invenientes.'
53. See Epicurus de Dis, Usener Epic. p. 232, mostly from Cic. ND. 1, 43 sq.
54. pandere: 1, 55, rerum primordia pandam.
- 55-90. 'Following in his steps, as I have explained the nature of the soul and of images, I shall now show that the world is mortal; how it was made; and how animals and men have developed, and superstition originated; and how the heavenly bodies move; for such knowledge will banish fear of the gods.'
55. vestigia: 3, 3, 'te sequor, o Graiae gentis decus, inque tuis nunc | dicta pedum pono pressis vestigia signis.'
56. Martha, 346: 'on voit au Louvre dans le musée des antiques une tête de marbre, sorte de Janus à deux faces, dont l'une est le portrait d'Epicure, l'autre celui de Métrodore, son disciple. L'artiste grec a-t-il voulu exprimer que les deux philosophes ne font qu'un ?'
57. foedere: 3, 416 n.
58. nec = et quam non. — valeant: sc. quaerque. Validas valeant, assonance, 1, 826 n. — sevi leges: v. a. vires, 314, 379, 1217.
59. quo genere in primis: 3, 296 n. — reperta: 1, 504 n. The reference is to the argument of Book III.
60. nativo: emphatic by position. 3, 417, 'nativos animantibus et mortalis | esse animos animasque.' — consistere corpore creta: 2, 906 n.
61. incolumis: 3, 608, animam incolumem; cf. 3, 696. — durare per aevom: 3, 605.
62. simulacula: cf. 1, 123.
63. vita reliquit: Aen. 6, 735; Ov. M. 11, 327. — 1, 134, 'cernere uti videamur eos.'
64. quod superest: 1, 50 n.
65. 1, 754 of primordia, 'nativa videmus | esse et mortali cum corpore.' The subject is discussed at 235 sq.
66. ratio: 1, 128 n.
67. ille: cf. 73. — congressus: 2, 1065 n. A dim foreshadowing of the nebular hypothesis. Discussion in 416 sq.

68. fundarit: cf. 161.

69. lunai globum: Aen. 6, 725. Que closes the enumerative asyndeton as in 75; 6, 529; cf. on 3, 692.—animantes: 3, 97 n. The fem. here as in 2, 669; 3, 666; Madv. LG. § 41 obs.

70. nullo . . . natae: e.g. chimaeras, etc., 783 sq.; especially 878 sq.

71. quove = quoque: 3, 34 n. Discussion in 1028 sq.—variante loquella: varios linguae sonitus.

72. vesci: cf. 857.—per: cf. 10; 1, 403, etc.

73. Discussion in 1161 sq.

74. qui in: 2, 404 n.—sancta: participle, as in 147; 'under divine protection.'

75. lacus: the most famous was the lake of Nemi. Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 63 quotes lacus luci from Cic. Verr. 4, 107; 5, 188; Georg. 4, 364; Aen. 7, 697; Livy, 24, 38, 8.

76. 1, 128, 'solis lunaeque meatus'; 5, 418, 'solis lunai cursus.' 76 nearly = 774.

77. expediam: 1, 499 n.—gubernans: on 3, 550. Discussion in 509 sq.

78. haec: sol et luna.—inter . . . que: que is appended to inter in prose; see lex. It occurs also in Eleg. ad Maec. 21.

79. liberā: 1, 372 n.—lustrare: 'traverse,' 693, 1437.

80. morigera: 'obsequious'; ironical; an echo, as Giuss. noticed, of Epic. ad Herod. 76, ἐν τοῖς μετεώροις φοράν καὶ τροπήν καὶ ἔκλειψίν καὶ ἀνατολὴν καὶ δύσιν καὶ σύντοιχα τούτοις μῆτε λειτουργοῦντος τινὸς νομίζειν δεῖ γενέσθαι . . . and Cic. ND. 1, 22, 'quid autem erat quod concupisceret deus mundum signis et luminibus tamquam aedilis ornare?'

81. ratione: 'forethought,' cf. 160.—volvi, of heavenly bodies, 514, 644.

82. Hor. S. 1, 5, 101, 'namque deos didici securum agere aevum'—agere aevom: elision, 1, 409 n. Aevom agere occurs in Pacuv. 262 R. For the elision of securum, see 1, 350 n. This double elision is pre-Virgilian: Enn. Ann. 307, 'atque aevom agitabant'; Catull. 110, 3, 'mentita inimica es'; cf. I. 5, 547. 5, 82–90 is repeated in 6, 58–66. Many passages illustrating the sentiment are collected by Usener, Epic. 242.

83. mirantur: 6, 608, 'mare mirantur non reddere maius | naturam.' Horace's nil admirari, Ep. 1, 6, is used in a like connexion.—interea: 'notwithstanding, with tamen', Catull. 101, 7.

84. praesertim: Giuss. comp. Epic. Sent. XI (DL. 10, 142) εἰ μηδὲν ἡμᾶς αἱ τῶν μετεώρων ὑποψίαι ἡρώχλοιν . . . οὐκ ἀν προσεδέμεθα φυσιολογίας.

85. supera: 1, 429 n.—aetheriis: 4, 411.

86. religiones: 2, 44.

87. dominos: always of gods in L.; superbis, 2, 1091.—adsciscunt: needlessly. Cf. 473.—posse: 1, 586 n.

88. miseri: cf. 3, 51.

89–90 = 1, 76–77.

91–109. 'The world will sometime come to destruction—a stupendous topic; perhaps you may see this catastrophe which may fortune avert!'

91. Quod superstet: 1, 50 n.—promissis: 6, 245, 'neque te in promissis plura morabor.' Kannengiesser and Br. Jahrb. 125, 833, interpret as 'vorbemerkugen.'

92. maria ac terras caelumque: 594; Aen. 1, 58.

93. triplicem: Ov. Tr. 2, 426, 'casurumque triplex vaticinatur opus.'
94. Cic. ND. 1, 15, 'lentiscus triplici solita grandescere fetu | ter fruges fundens tria tempora monstrat arandi.'
95. una dies: 3, 899 n.—dabit exitio: Ov. Am. 1, 15, 24 of L.'s poem, 'sunt peritura . . . exitio terras cum dabit una dies.' Cf. 5, 1000 and 2, 1144.
96. Ps.-Sen. Anth. 1, 131, 5, Meyer, 'moles pulcherrima caeli | ardebit flammis tota repente suis.'—ruet: for sing. cf. 1057, 1152, 1189, etc.—Ov. M. 1, 256, 'affore tempus | quo mare quo tellus correptaque regia caeli | ardeat et mundi moles operosa laboret,' moles operosa corresponding to moles et machina. Arn. 1, 2, 'numquid machinae huius et molis qua universi tegimur et continemur inclusi parte est in aliqua relaxata aut dissoluta constructio.' Prop. 3, 5, 31, 'sit ventura dies mundi quae subruat arces.'
97. nec . . . fallit: 1, 136 n.—menti accidat: 4, 882 n.
98. exitium is in apposition with res nova miraque.—futurum: 'the future.'
99. pervincere: 1, 72 n.
100. ubi: 3, 870 n.—insolitam ante: Aetna, 8, 'per insolitum Phoebo duce tutius itur.'—rem adportes: for elision, see on 1, 150 n.
101. visu: dative.—Quint. 1, 2, 11, visus oculorum.
102. iacere indu: = inexcere; 1, 82 n.—via munita: 3, 498 n.—fidēi occurs also in Plaut. Ter.; Lane, 160, Roby, 357.—Bentley first compared Empedocles, 356 (p. 222, 133 D.), οὐκ ἔστιν ἀγάπασθαι τὸ δρθαλμώντις ἐφυκτὸν | ἡμετέρους η̄ χεροὶ λαβεῖν, η̄ περ τε μεγίστην | τειθόδις δυθράπτοισιν ἀμαξίδος εἰς φρέα τίτανει.
103. proxima: 'most speedily.'—in pectus: hic mens animus quest, 3, 142.—templa: 'regions,' 3, 25 n.
104. effabor: the form is said to occur only here—dabit fidem is unusual for facit fidem; fidem ducat, 2, 479.—res: exitium futurum.
105. graviter terrarum: for symploso, see on 1, 385.
106. in, 'within.' Note -ari in; 3, 167 n.
107. a nobis: L. has a before n about seven times, ab, five or six; cf. on 1, 554.—fortuna gubernans: Ter. Eun. 1046, 'fortunam conlaudem quae gubernatrix fuit'; Ov. Tr. 5, 14, 29, 'fortuna gubernet.' Cf. 77.
108. ratio . . . res, 'reason . . . reality,' M.
109. fragore: Duff quotes Sen. NQ. 2, 27, 3, where fragor is defined to be a thunder clap sabitus et vehemens.
- 110-145. 'Before treating the subject, let me warn you against believing in the divinity of the world and its parts, and in any punishment for denying it; they are inanimate because mind cannot exist outside of the body' [as was proven in Book III]. Cf. Cic. ND. 1, 18-24, and Woltjer, L. Phil. p. 110.—110-234 were bracketed by Lachm., Bern., and M. Dyroff, Zur Quellenfrage bei L. (V Gesang), 5, regards the passage as an excursus to prove that the world is not a divine work, and hence not subject to providential care.
110. 6, 979, 'ipsa quam dicere de re | adgredior quod dicendum prius esse videatur.'—fundere: 1, 40 n. Catull. 64, 321, 'suderunt carmine fata.' Cic. ND. 1, 66, 'haec ego nunc physicorum oracula fundo.'
- 111-112 = 1, 738-739. Neumann, 24, would eject them as being a sarcastic gloss on fata, but they refer to Epicurus' wisdom; cf. Purmann (1849), 12.

113. doctis dictis: 2, 987 n.

114. Note the assonance; cf. 480.

115. Cudworth, 1, 678: 'Plato writes (Legg. X, 665) that the atheistic wits of his time therefore concluded the sun and moon and stars not to be gods because they were nothing but earth and stones (or a certain fiery matter), devoid of all understanding and sense, and for this cause . . . unable to take notice of any human affairs.' L. doubtless has the Stoics in mind, as they were his principal opponents, but the dogma was accepted by the Peripatetics and Academics as well. See Woltjer, 106 sq., who would have the reference to the Platonists.

116. corpore is logically abl. of cause, although syntactically an abl. of quality.—manere is generally accepted for the Ms. meare.

117. ritu: 1, 1102.—Gigantum: 4, 136.

118. omnis: emphatic.

119. qui, as Epic. himself.

120. caeli solem like caeli signa, 1, 2, which are all inferred here. But the sun was Phoebus Apollo to the unconverted reader.—praeclarum: rare in the literal use; 2, 1032, p. luce; Juv. 5, 42, p. iaspis.

121. Note the paronomasia in inm. mort.—notantes, 'branding,' censuring; such matters were too deep for explanation.

122. distant; Lachm. Bern. M.; distant, Madv. Christ, Bruno, Br. Giuss. Bail.; bistent OQ; cf. for the subj. 2, 87; 5, 316 with M.—St. Austin, CD. 18, 41, 'Epicurus . . . securus non solum solem vel ullum siderum deum esse non credens'; see Usener, Fr. 342.

123. indigna videri, see Dr. § 421; videntur, Madv. Br. etc. The Ms. reading, videri, is harsh, yet not intolerable. Madv. Adv. Crit. 2, 25, says that the syntax distant . . . videri is impossible, yet he cannot explain the corruption of videntur to videri. Postgate, J. Ph. 24, 141, distant . . . putarim.—videri: 'to be found.'

124. notitiam: a 'notion,' τύποις.

125. vitali motu: cf. 2, 942; v. sensu, 2, 916.—The common phrases, bruta tellus, surda saxa, and the like defend the principle.

126. quovis: Cic. ND. 1, 23, 'qui vero mundum ipsum animantem sapientemque esse dixerunt nullo modo viderunt animi natura intelligentis in quam figuram cadere posset.'—est ut: cf. on 3, 715.

127. animi natura . . . consiliumque: 3, 615, 'animi . . . mens consiliunque.'

128–141 nearly = 3, 784–797. Sicut, 128, denique, 784; salso, 128, in alto, 784; neque, 129, nec, 785; seorsum, 140, sorsum, 796; formamque animalium, 141, durare genique, 797. Br. omits 5, 128–137 as interpolated, regarding in eodem homine, 137, as absurd here. Goebel retained the first four verses and sic animi natura nequit of the fifth (132), adding sine forma animali and continuing with putribus in glebis, 142. Giuss. retains the verses, interpreting sine corpore, 132, as sine corpore humano. Lachm. Bern. M. Bail. retain them. Reisacker rejects them here, Neumann, 10, in the third book. Gneisse, 37, would eject 131–133; they are defended by Lohmann, 31. They had been doubted as early as Faber. The argument is an extravagant one, and no doubt repeated from Book III. Here again the poet, in revising, would probably have made some changes.

142. putribus: 'crumbling'; 2, 872, 'putorem cum sibi nacta est | intempestivis ex imbris umida tellus'; Georg. 1, 44, 'Zephyro putris se gleba resolvit.'

143. aetheris oris: 2, 1000 n.

144. constant praedita: 1, 581 n.—divino sensu: 1172, 'his (dis) sensum tribuebant.'

145. vitaliter: elsewhere only in Chrys. Serm. 108, according to Neue.

146–149. 'The gods do not live in any parts of the world; their abodes, like their bodies, are attenuate, as I shall show later. And the world is not made by divine providence, and therefore no gratitude is due the gods for it. Why should the gods have troubled themselves to impair their blessedness for the sake of men? The world was made by natural causes.'

146. est ut possis = potes; 3, 715 n.—sedes: 3, 18 nn.

147. sanctas: because belonging to the gods; Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 278, solidas.

148. tenvis natura: 2, 232; 4, 731; 5, 561. 'Hunc (deum) igitur inseptum ingenti quidem et inexplicabili muro divisumque a contactu et a conspectu mortalium non habes quare verearisi; nulla ibi nec tribuendi nec nocendi materia est,' Sen. Ben. 4, 19, 2.

149. animi mente: 3, 165 n. and cf. 1, 425, animi ratione. Cic. ND. 1, 105, 'speciem dei percipi cogitatione non sensu.'

150. suffugit, 'has always escaped'; Dr. § 127.—tactum: 2, 434, 'tactus corporis est sensus.'

151. Natura deum debet contingere nil quod sit tactile nobis.—tactile is not quoted elsewhere.—contingere: 'touch,' 2, 755, and on 1, 934.

152. The principle is universal, but he is thinking here of manuum tactum (150), not of the contact which is necessary for mental perception. On the difficult subject of the Epicurean constitution of the gods, see W. Scott in J. Phil. 12, 212 sq., Giuss. Vol. 1, p. 227 sq., with the criticisms of Masson, Cl. R. 16, 452.

153. etiam quoque: 3, 208 n.

154. de: OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; pro, Lamb. Br.; tenues si corpore deorum, Lachm.; tenuesque e corpore eorum, Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 141. Ceu corpū deorum, Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 330; ceu corpora eorum, id. 1865. Those who keep the MSS. explain de as secundum; Plaut. Asin. 210, 'meo de studio studia erunt vestra omnia'; Ap. M. 8, 8, 'Thrasylus . . . de ipso nomine temerarius'; lex. s. v. y.

155. There is no fulfilment of this promise; perhaps he intended to close the poem with a description of the gods.

156. dicere porro: 3, 359. Vss. 156 and 165 sq. are quoted by Lact. Inst. 7, 3.

157. praeclaram: cf. 120.

158. adlaudabile occurs only here and in the dubious passage, Plaut. Persa, 673.

159. atque connects aeternum and inmortale. Strictly speaking, the Stoics held eventurum ut ad extrellum omnis mundus ignesceret (Cic. ND. 2, 118), but as the immortality of the soul was practically accepted, so was the eternity of the world; the έκπύωσις was too far distant to have any influence. Sen. Ep. 58, 26, 'si mundum ipsum non minus mortalem quam nos sumus providentia periculis eximit.'

160. ratione vetusta: τρόπον; cf. 81.

161. gentibus humanis: 1, 727 n.—fundatum perpetuo aevo: 'established on everlasting foundations,' M.

162. sollicitare: Ov. M. 6, 699, 'sollicito manes totumque tremoribus orbem.' The metaphor is continued for several lines.

163. nec (fas esse).—verbis vexare: see lex. vexo, B.—summa apparently stands for ad summa, but I can cite no parallel. It is possible to make summa the direct object of everttere, in which case summa = τὸν πᾶν.

164. affingere et addere: 'to accumulate errors on errors,' Giuss. Caes. BG. 7, 1, 'addunt ipsi et affingunt rumoribus Galli.' Cf. Thes. 1, 1216, 57.

165. desiperest: cf. on 3, 361. 'Quae utilitas deo in homine, inquit Epicurus, ut eum proper se faceret . . . quid ergo, inquit, deo cultus hominis consert beato et nulla re indigenti?' Lact. Inst. 7, 5. For the caesura, 3, 258 n.

166. gratia: only here in L.—largirier: 3, 67 n.

167. gerere: the gods were inactive because they had no motive for action; 2, 647 n.

168. novi: 'revolution': 6, 646, 'quid moliretur rerum natura novarum.'—post ante: note the juxtaposition; 3, 765 n.—quietos: 6, 73, '(deos) placida cum pace quietos'; Aen. 4, 379, 'scilicet is superis labor est, ea cura quietos | sollicitat.'

169. inlicere: 'beguile.'—vitam priorem: cf. 3, 935.

170. gaudere: omne quo gaudemus voluptas est, Cic. Fin. 1, 37, but the gods can receive no increase of pleasure.

171. nil aegri: 3, 832.

172. tempore in anteacto: 3, 832.—degeret aevom: 2, 1094, placidum degunt aevom; cf. on 3, 509.

173. Aen. 4, 54, 'animum inflammavit amore.' After L. this use of accendere is not uncommon; Thes. 1, 277, 65.

174. 175, 176 (175, 176, 174) transferred by Lamb. M. Br. Goebel. Lachm. placed 175–6 after 169; Giuss. and Giri, Riv. 30, keep the Ms. order. Langen, Phil. 34, 35 would transfer 174 to precede 177 because 175 cannot refer to men before birth. Neumann, 37, would reject 175–6 as a gloss on 172, and Edelbluth, 13, agrees with him. Bruno objects to the Ms. order because rerum genitalis origo cannot refer to men uncreated, but only to the gods before the creation of the world. The difficulty of the Ms. order seems insuperable in spite of Giuss.'s defence that intense irony is intended, vita being the life of men. M. discussed the passage in J. Phil. 4, 248. 174 and 177 certainly refer to men, and the intervening lines may be applied to either men or gods, but more likely to gods. [Perhaps creatis should be changed to creatos (deos) and the Ms. order retained with an, cf. 180. In that case the reference would be to gods throughout. (What do we care if the gods were not created?)]

174. at: Lachm. edd.; an O., anc Q.—credo: M. proposes crepera, Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 324, an caeca, Bruno, haud credo.

175. genitalis origo: 324, 1212.

176: Lamartine: 'si l'on m'eût consulté, j'aurais refusé l'être' quoted by Martha, 394.—creatis: in 180 there is no dat. to cause attraction.

177. natus est is emphatic; the involution is in his manner.

178. in vita: 'alive'; 3, 402; 6, 1211.—donec, 'so long as,' first here in this meaning, then in Horace: Archiv 11, 334. Gild.-Lodge, 569, 1; Lane, 2002.—blanda voluptas: 1, 19 n.

179. M. quotes Cic. Tusc. I, 93, nondum gustaverat vitae suavitatem.

180. in numero (viventium).

181. exemplum: 'model' = specimen, 186.

182. divis hominum, M. Br. Bail.; hominum divis, OQ; hominum dis, Wakef. Lachm. Giuss.—notities,  $\pi\rho\lambda\eta\psi\iota s$ , 'idea'; 2, 745 n. Cudworth, I, 141, 'how could the supposed deity have a pattern or platform in his mind to frame the world by, and whence should he receive it? How could he have any knowledge of men before they were made, as also what himself should will to do when there was nothing?'—primum: pleonastic; 2, 612 n.

183. Cf. 1047, 'unde insita notities est | utilitatis et unde data est huic prima potestas, | quid vellet facere ut sciret animoque videret'; 6, 532, 'animoque videre'; 4, 883, 'neque enim facere incipit ullam | rem quisquam, quam mens providit quid velit ante.'

184. vis, probably 'power,' as possent follows. 'Chemische Laboratorien gab es auch auf dem Olymp nicht,' Bock. But Lohmann, 33, would understand nobis, not divis, with cognita.—principiorum: I, 55 n.

185. seese: Itali.—permutato ordine: I, 827.—possent: I, 586 n.

186. specimen (edd.): cf. 1361. Speciem, OQ, is thought by Reid, Cic. Acad. 307, to be possibly right as meaning lōtar, exemplar. But Wakefield's π, a Brit. Mus. Ms., has specimen for speciem in 4, 141 (134), and in Prop. 4, 11, 67, specimen, two MSS. have speciem. Cf. I, 321 and n.

187-188 = I, 1024-1025, and are repeated in 422-423. Neumann suspects 187-191 here, defended by Lohmann, 32, who states the argument: 'non dei homines crearunt quoniam hoc neque ipsis profuit neque hominibus. Porro nonne natura specimen creandi dat, et nonne natura docet quid possint primordia, nec vero dei? Ergo non dei sed natura homines creavit.'—The reminiscence of verses caused the poet to put the argument less clearly.

189 = 424. 2, 239, 'aeque ponderibus non aequis concita ferri.'

190 = 425. que . . . atque: 31 n.

191 = 426. possent: edd. with 426; possint, OQ, retained by Langen, Phil. 34, 36.—congressa: I, 760 n.

192. I, 1027, 'deveniunt in talis disposituras.'

193. decidērunt: 3, 86 n.—quoque modifies the clause, particularly disposituras, 3, 349 n.—meatus: 2, 957. The 'courses' do not differ materially from motus, 'movements.'

194. I, 1028, 'qualibus haec rerum consistit summa creatu'; 2, 75, 'rerum summa novatur semper.'

195-234. 'The world is not a divine work for it is too faulty; much of it is uninhabitable, the rest naturally unfruitful; even after long toil the result is disappointment. Ravenous beasts, diseases, death abound; the infant's wail is premonitory of his coming misery. But beasts need no care; nature has provided for them.'

195-199 = 2, 177-181 with nam quamvis, 177, creatam, 180, mundi . . . quanta, 181. The promise given in 2, 182, he now fulfills. In 199 Bergk would read tantast ea. For iam, 195, see on 3, 540.

200. principio: practerea, 218; tum porro, 222.—impetus: 'reach'; dissipat in impetum caeli, Vitr. 8, I, 7; see on 4, 416.—This whole theodicy is imitated by

Voltaire in Plato's Dream (Works, tr. Smollett, 18, 220 ed. 1762). Cf. also Lactantius, Inst.—Watson quotes Young's Night Thoughts: 'A part how small of the teraqueous globe | Is tenanted by man! The rest a waste, | Rocks, deserts, frozen seas, and burning sands, | Wild haunts of monsters, poisons, stings, and death! | Such is earth's melancholy map!'

201. avidam: OQ, Giuss.; Val. Flacc. 1, 183, 'gressus avidos ad litora vertit'; so here 'a greedy half they hold'; not too bold for L. Avidei, M.; avide, Bern. Br. Bail.; aliquam, Lachm.; dividuam . . . feraque, Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 324; amplam, Purmann, id. 677.—inde = eius, Fr. en.—silvaeque ferarum: 967, silvestria saecula ferarum, uninhabitable by men; cf. 41 and Engl. 'den of lions' (Duff). 'L. thinks of mountains as waste ground,' Hardie, Lectures, 3.

202. For the rhythm, cf. Georg. 2, 144, 'inplevere; tenent oleae armentaque laeta.'

203. mare distincte: oceano dissociabili, Hor. C. 1, 3, 22, and Bentl. there. Dyroff, Quellenfrage V Gesang, 24, sees here a reminiscence of Erastosthenes, and translates, 'Das Meer, das die Ökumene in Inseln zerreist'; cf. Berger, Gesch. Erdkunde b. Griech. 448.

204. inde porro: freira.—duas partis: 'two thirds'; 1, 617 n.—fervidus ardor, again in 1099.—The ancients thought the torrid zone uninhabitable; Hor. C. 1, 22, 21, 'pone sub curru nimium propinquai | solis in terra domibus negata'; Ov. M. 1, 49, 'quarum (zonarum) quae media est, non est habitabilis aestu; nix legit alta duas.' In general, Shaksp. Merchant of V. 2, 1, 'The shadowed livery of the burning sun | To whom I am a neighbor and near bred, | Where Phoebus' fire scarce thaws the icicles.'

205. geli casus: nix cadens, 3, 20–21; nivis casus, Livy, 21, 35, 6.—mortalibus, metr. gr. again for hominibus.—Pliny, 2, 173, 'terrae tris partis abstulit caelum, Oceani rapina in incerto est.'

206. arvi: for cultivation.

207. sentibus: Georg. 2, 411, 'segetem densis obducunt sentibus herbae.'—vis humana, Georg. 1, 198, 'ni vis humana . . . legeret.'

208. vital causa: 1, 194, 'nec porro secreta cibo natura animantium | propagare genus possit vitamque tueri.'—valido bidenti occurs in Tib. 2, 3, 6.—consueta with vis humana = homines fortes. Langen, Phil. 34, 36, cum sueta.

209. ingemere: Georg. 1, 45, 'depresso incipiat iam tum mibi taurus aratro | ingemere.' Ingemere agris, Tac. G. 46. Note the pathetic tone.—proscindere: 1259, 'et ferro coepere solum proscindere terrae'; Georg. 2, 237, 'terram proscinde.' In Pliny, 18, 257, terra proscinditur occurs for the first plowing. Lucil. 1043, 'tune iugo iungas me? anne et succedere aratro | invitum et glebas subigas proscindere ferro'; Sil. 16, 551, 'impressis dociles terram proscindere aratris.'

210, 211 = 1, 211–212 with si non for quaes nos. Br. and Giuss. infer a lacuna, after Christ, before 210, and Br. brackets the lacuna and what follows through 212. There is no expressed object of cimus and subject of nequeant unless sentes or glebae be supplied; and the connexion calls for primordia, not fruges. Br. regards the clause as a variant of the preceding. Kannengiesser would read nam quae, Grasserger, 56, seturas; Gneisse, 80, thinks the two verses are interpolated, and Munro that omnia, 214, supplies the missing subject and object. Lohmann, 35, would get the notion of fruges from fecundas; the omission of an object is common enough in L.; cf. 225. The emphasis of the passage is human effort exerted against many difficulties. Bock. ejects the three lines, objecting to secundas [the only encouragement for labor], cimus with vis humana [but vis humana = homines = nos; cf. nobis, 198], and the syntax. Orelli says, 'scil. fruges, germina, quod omittere poterat quia nulla omnino ambiguitas ex obiecti omissione oriebatur.'

212. nequeant after cimus: 1, 808 n.—existere: 2, 796 n.
213. quaesita: Georg. 1, 134, 'sulcis frumenti quaereret herbam.' L. 2, 730, 'dulci quaesita labore'; cf. 3, 419.
214. per terras: 1, 30 n.—frondent . . . florent: 'frondem ac flores addidit,' Inc. Trag. 220, R.
215. fervoribus: 605, 611.—aetherius sol: 3, 1044 n.—'Qua parte debacentur ignes, qua nebulae pluviique rores,' Hor. C. 3, 3, 55. The sun in a cloudless sky would probably be hot, and hottest at noon, nam meditis fervoribus acrior instat, Georg. 3, 154.
216. subiti, 'onrushing,' 1, 286 n.—peremunt: 1, 226 n.—gelidaeque pruinæ: 2, 431 n.
217. flabra: 1, 275 n. turbine: cf. 1, 279.—For such agricultural misfortune cf. Georg. 1, 311 sq.
218. Cic. Acad. 2, 120, 'quaero cur deus omnia nostra causa cum faceret (sic enim vultis) tantam vim natricum viperarumque fecerit, cur mortifera tam multa ac perniciosa terra marique disperserit?' Reid there gives many references to this perennial controversy. St. Thos. à Kempis, Imitation, 3, 58, 'these things are beyond the reach of man, neither is it in the power of any reason or disputation to search out the judgments of God.'
219. humanae genti = h. generi, Cic. Fin. 5, 65, 'totius complexu gentis humanae'; 1, 727 n.—terraque marique: usually terra marique; see lex. 'terra' and cf. 3, 837.
220. anni tempora: 2, 32. Here, of course, the autumn particularly: Hor. C. 2, 14, 15, 'per auctumnos nocentem | corporibus metuemus Austrum.'
221. mors immatura: so interitus, obitus, funus, but mors is most frequent. Claud. de Rapt. Pros. 2, 355, 'mors nulla vagatur | in terris.' To an Epicurean untimely death could be no evil, but L. is thinking of the popular feeling.
222. projectus: usually of the dead: Bentl. on Hor. Epod. 10, 22; cf. 3, 882; so iacet in 223.—ab: 'from'; cf. ex, 225. Lact., Opif. D. 3, reviews this argument: 'hominem tamquam ex naufragio in huius vitae miseriis proici et expelli . . . itaque naturam non matrem esse humani generis, sed novoccam,' etc.—This passage has been translated by Dryden. The general reply may be summed up in the phrase Deus non tenetur ad optimum (Cudworth, 2, 328). 'The point of view changes; the earth precisely by reason of its faults is the proper place of sojourn for the human race,' Royer, Materialisme in L. 35. The Stoic reply is found in Sen. Ep. 90, 18 sq., 'ad parata nati sumus: nos omnia nobis difficilia facilium fastidio fecimus . . . sufficit ad id natura quod poscit,' etc.
223. indigus takes the gen. elsewhere.—Pliny, 7, 2, 'hominem tantum nudum et in nuda humo natali die abicit ad vagitus statim et ploratum . . . flens, animal ceteris imperaturum,' etc.
224. luminis oras: 1, 22 n.

225. profudit: cf. 823. Ser. Sam. 1029, 'nudum hominem primo mundi natura profudit.'

226. Sen. Dial. 11, 4, 3, 'non vides qualem nobis vitam rerum natura promiserit, quae primum nascentium hominum fletum esse voluit? hoc principio edimur, huic omnis sequentium annorum ordo consentit'; id. 6, 11, 4, 'fletu vitam auspicatum'; id. Ep. 102, 26, 'hoc ipsum flere nascentis est, sed tunc debebat ignosci: rudis et imperitus omnium veneras . . . tenerque adhuc et nullius rei gnarus obstupuisti inter ignota.' Shaksp. K. Lear, 4, 6, 'Thou know'st the first time that we smell the air | We waul and cry.' Lange, Materialism, 3, 96: 'Kant makes the remark in the Anthropology [II E. Hart. vii, 652] that no creature except modern man has the habit of entering on life at birth with a cry. He believes that even in man this betraying and enemy-attracting cry cannot originally have occurred—that it belongs to the period of domestic life without our knowing through what coöperating causes such a development has taken place.' Some quotations from the Fathers may be found in Martha, Poëme, 395. Aen. 6, 427, 'infantumque animae flentes in limine primo,' because they could not live. Giuss. quotes Eurip. Cresphontes (Fr. 452), ἔχρη γάρ ήμᾶς σύλλογον ποιουμένους | τὸν φύττα θρηνεῖν, εἰς δέ τρχεται κακό.—aecumst: 1, 189 n.

227. restat transire: 1, 1005 n. The Epicurean, in striking the balance of good and evil in life, would surely find both, although the good might, and probably would, predominate. Lact. quotes this verse, I.c.

228. Cf. 2, 343.—Cudworth calls this passage a poetic flourish, the advantages of mankind being so notoriously conspicuous above those of brutes (Vol. 2, 322). Martha, 330, says the irascible poet, blinded by his teaching, does not see that this feebleness of man is proof of his strength, since the infant abandoned by nature finishes by ruling her; then follow quotations from Montaigne, Plutarch, and Bossuet.

229. crepitacillia: see woodcut of a rattle in Rich. Crepitaculis obticuit auditis, Arn. 4, 21. ('Festive Italus in margine E nec crepitu ancillis,' Orelli.)

230. infracta: 3, 155 n. Min. Felix 2, 'in liberis amabilius, adhuc annis innocentibus et adhuc dimidiata verba temptantibus, loquellam ipso offensantis linguae fragmine dulciorem.' Cf. balbe, 1022. Porph. on Hor. S. I., 3, 47, 'blandientes infantes infringere linguam solent ut quasi eos imitentur.'

231. tempore caeli: 1, 1066 n.

232. alta: common epithet of moenia, rather than valida or its synonyms.

233. qui: OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss. 1, 700 n.; quis, Pius, Christ, Br. Bail.—omnibus omnia: 3, 71 n.—large: cf. larga pabula, 869.

234. daedala: 1, 7 n.

235–246. 'The constituents of the world are mortal, hence the sum of them is mortal also.'

235. Principio recurs in thought to 109.—terrai corpus: 1, 770.

236. animae: 1, 715 n.—calidi vapores: 3, 126 n.

237. consistere videtur, 'apparently consists.'—rerum summa: 194.

238. Cf. 321.

239. eodem (corpore), i.e. mortal.

240. quorum: neuter.

241. nativo ac: Naug. edd., cf. 238; nativom, OQ; cf. 321 n.—figuris: 3, 190 n.

242. ferme: 3, 65 n.
243. maxima, i.e. those named in 235-236.
244. regnii: dīw. λεγ.
245. item: Bentley's emendation of idem; cf. 751; 6, 756, and on 3, 208.
246. principiale: 2, 423 n.
- 247-260. 'One can see earth turned to dust and blown away, or dissolved in water; what increases others is in turn replenished: the earth is wasted away and grows again.'
247. Illud in his rebus, in anticipation of an objection, as in 1, 370, etc. Gneisse, 44, thinks 247-250 interpolated.—corripuisse, 'appropriated.' Lachm. comp. συναρπάζειν τὸ ξηρούμενον in Sextus.
248. sumpei: 1, 876 n.
249. dubitavi, 'doubted,' with infinitive, occurs perhaps first in L., then in Nepos and later writers. See lex. and Dr. § 438, 7, c. Possibly an ellipsis of dicere may be understood, when dubito would mean 'hesitate'; so dico with etiam atque etiam, 1, 1049, etc., and notice dixi in the next line.
250. rursus seems to go with gigni as well as with augescere.
251. principio with an apparent ellipse ('listen now'), not infrequent: 1, 271; 3, 179, 425, etc.—nonnulla contrasted with 255.—perusta solibus, Hor. Epd. 2. 41.—Solibus usta, Ov. Her. 5. 112; urente sole, Livy, 44, 33, 10; solibusicta, 6, 1102. The plural denotes the continuation of the action; Archiv 14, 66.
252. multa vi: 3, 8 n.
253. Georg. 2, 217, 'quae tenuem exhalat nebula fumosque volucris'; cf. 464 below. Pliny, 17, 25, 'terra . . . quae tenuis exhalat nebulas'; Aen. 8, 593, 'pulveream nubem.'
254. validi: 266 and 3, 509 n.—venti: wind is air in motion: 6, 685, 'ventus enim fit ubi est agitando percitus aer.' English usage agrees with Latin in a certain inaccuracy.
255. 6, 291, 'omnis uti videatur in imbreu vertier aether | atque ita praecipitans ad diluvium revocare.' The particle re is intensive sometimes also in redundo refringo refugio remora reperio, etc.
256. Note alliteration.—radentia, Aen. 8, 62, 'pleno quem flumine cernis | stringentem ripas.'—rodunt, Hor. C. 1, 31, 8, 'mordet aqua taciturnus amnis.' Aetna, 112, 'lympna perennis | edit humum, limo furtimque obstantia mollit.'
257. OQ have alit changed to alid by Lamb. ed. 1 and 2 and by modern edd. except Bock. Giuss. Br. and Giuss. infer a lacuna after this verse. Lachm. comp. alit, OQ, in 1, 263; 3, 970; and alit, Q, in 1, 407; 5, 1456. Alit may be defended by auget aliquę, 322; Lamb. ed., 3, defends the asyndeton by 4, 1199.
258. redditur: OQ; roditur, old vulg. The action which corresponds to recrescit in 260 is represented: to keep the balance of nature, so much is received as is given out. Haeberlin would have reccidit, as redditur = reficitur = restituatur is hitherto unexampled; here again do = facio and the use of the word is technical. Van d. Valk, 108, takes redditur as = amittitur, comparing 5, 323; 6, 1498.—dubio procul: 1, 812 n.
259. omniparens: 2, 706 n.—commune: Xenoph. Fr. 8, ἐκ γαῖς γὰρ πάντα, καὶ εἰς γῆν πάντα τελευτᾶ; Aesch. Choeph. 127, καὶ γαῖας αὐτὴν, ή τὰ πάντα τίκτε

ταὶ | θρέψασά τ' αθήσι τῷνδε κῦμα λαμβάνει. Enn. Varia, 48, ‘terris gentis omnis peperit et resumit denuo’; Hor. S. 1, 8, 10, ‘hoc miserae plebi stabat commune sepulcrum’; Romeo and Juliet, 2, 3, ‘The Earth, that’s Nature’s mother, is her tomb.’ Cf. Patin, Poésie Latine, 2, 84.

260. tibi: eth. dat.; cf. 1, 673.—libatur: limatur Lamb.; cf. on 3, 11; 3, 213, ‘nil ibi libatum de toto corpore.’

261–272. ‘So again the waters abound, but are continually withdrawn into the air and earth.’ This passage is placed after 305 by Br. on account of quod superest; Giuss. remarks rightly that the argument proceeds from the gross to the fine elements.

261. Quod superest: 1, 50 n. (‘furthermore’).

262. perennis: fluvique perennes, 463.

263. verbis = dicere. — decursus: 1, 283 n.

264. undique goes with decursus. — primum quicquid = p. quidque; cf. on 1, 389. The water in turn, successively, in the order in which it came, is evaporated. There seems to be no defence of primum ‘on the surface,’ as M. and others would have it. Duff explains τὸ δὲ πρῶτον υδωρ, which is correct as a reference to order of succession.

265. in summa: 3, 84 n.—que: tollitur fitque.

266. verrentes: 1, 279 n.

267 = 389. diminuunt is a necessary change with Giuss. from dim. OQ and recent edd., as diminuo, ‘break,’ is not in point here. Demi. was read by Faber, Lamb, Creech, Wakef., and is the reading of OQ in 389.—retexens: decomposing; ‘undoing its fabric,’ Duff. See on 1, 529. Grasberger, 57, retractans, but cf. 94.

268. supter: super, 271.

269. 269–272 = 6, 635–638, rejected here by Neumann, 21. virus: 2, 476 and nn.—retroque re-: 1, 785 n.—remanat is a Lucr. word.

270. amnibus: dat.; 3, 129 n. Sen. NQ. 6, 7, 2, ‘tot fontes tot capita fluminum.’ Georg. 4, 319, caput adstitit amnis; Eng. ‘riverhead’: Dryden, ‘In earth it first excessive saltiness spends | Then to our springs and riverheads ascends.’ — omnis (materies umoris).

271. agmine: the line of march or train of a river is the current. Enn. Ann. 177, ‘leni fluit agmine flumen’ and in later poets (here not leni, as there were doubtless rapids). Cf. on 1, 606. Humorously, Plaut. Poen. 627, ‘viam qui nescit qua deveniat ad mare | eum oportet amnem querere comitem sibi’ (Lamb.); and Milton, P.L. 7, 305, ‘where rivers now | Stream and perpetual draw their humid train’ (M.). — dulci: not salt; 2, 474 n.

272. Note the dactylic rhythm.—via secta, Georg. 1, 238.—liquido pede: P.L. 11, 847, ‘from standing lake to tripping ebb, that stole | With soft foot toward the deep.’ Hor. Epod. 16, 48, ‘levis crepante lympha desilit pede’; Culex, 17, ‘liquido pede labitur unda.’

273–280. ‘And the air is continually receiving and giving back.’

273. Gneisse, 42, rejects 273–280 because nunc igitur does not introduce the premiss of a syllogism, and because he thinks it a statement inconsistent with 2, 1105 sq. Edelbluth, 18, says the poet would have revised later.

274. For the rhythm, 3, 907 n.—privas: 3, 372 n.

275. fluit is his word for what would be now called chemical change.
276. aeria mare: Enn. Sc. 382, omnem pervolat caeli fretum. Wakef. quotes Shaksp. Timon, 4, 2, 21, 'we must all part into this sea of air.'
277. retribuet . . . resoluta forent: Dr. § 549 c.—recreet (res). Cf. 4, 860.
278. versa: 'changed'; 2, 927, and frequently.
279. cessat (aer). Note the verse ending: 4, 29 n.
280. reccidere: 1, 228 n.
- 281–305. 'And likewise the light and heat from sun and stars are continually supplied: the old light is destroyed and is succeeded by the new.'
281. liquidus luminis: Curt. 7, 11, 21, liquidior lux.—fons luminis: cf. 598 and 293. P.L. 7, 364, 'Hither as to their fountain other stars | Repairing in their golden urns draw light' (M.).
282. recenti: cf. 907. — inrigat caelum: caelumque rigando, 594; cf. 4, 203.
- 283 = 4, 189 nearly.
284. primum quicquid, as in 264.—ei: 3, 556 n.
285. licet . . . possis: cf. 3, 181.
286. Cf. 6, 402.
287. inter quasi rumpere, so apologetically again in 299, but 767 radios interrumpat lumenque. For the tmesis see 3, 262 n., and notice quacumque, 289. He has interrumpere of light in three out of the four occurrences in the poem.—coepere succedere = successerunt, I, 126 n.
288. omnis: emphatic.
289. inumbratur: on umbra see 4, 368 sq.
290. splendore . . . fulgoris . . . lucis: variety of expression.
291. iactum: lucem iactare, 303.
292. in sole: 1, 306 n.—videri: passive, 3, 182 n.
293. caput: fons, 281.
294. nocturna lumina: 6, 791, 900.—terrestria, not caelestia; cf. 2, 383, 'quam noster (ignis) fuat e taedis terrestribus ortus.'
295. lychni, O corr. Macr. edd.; lyclini, OQ; lychini, M., but Aen. 1, 726, 'dependent lychni laquearibus aureis.' For the spelling, see Ritschl, Opusc. 2, 480, 517. Langen, Phil. 34, 37, reads coruscae for coruscis, and rejects 296; 6, 283, coruscis luminibus.
296. caligine, OQ, Lachm. M. Bail.; fuligine, Bentl. Wakef. Br. Giuss. If caligine be retained it must be regarded as a synonym of fuligine, which would go well with fulguribus; the ca could have come from the cl of clarae. Wakef. comp. V. Ecl. 7, 49, 'hic focus et taedae pingues, hic plurimus ignis | semper et adsidua postes fuligine nigri'; but Georg. 2, 308 '(ignis) ruit atram | ad caelum picea crassus caligine nubem,' of the smoke.
297. Notice his careless use of ablatives in these lines; cf. on 1, 183.
298. instant: 4, 998 n., and for the epanalepsis, 3, 12 n.—ignibus must be an abl.; Wakef. defends by Cic. Arat. Progn. 220, 'et matutinis acrecula vocibus instat, | vocibus instat.'
299. lux quasi interrupta is the order.
300. properanter is quoted also from Tacitus.—ab omnibus, OQ; abortis Bruno, Br.; but, as Giuss. remarks, subortis would have been the verb; cf. suborta,

303. Ab omnibus must be taken with origine. Hertz, 20, paraphrases usque adeo properanter omnes ignes celeri origine flammae luci exitium celant. — ēi (luci), as in 284. The dat. is like amnibus, 270.

301. celeri celatur: Madv. edd. for celeri celatur.

302. putandumst: 1, 111 n. — que: 2, 457 n.

303. alio atque alio: cf. 2, 776. — subortu, 'generation,' or 'supply'; ἀπ. λεγ. unless for a dubious passage in Manilius. Cf. on 1, 1036.

304. perdere: 3, 357 n.

305. inviolabilia, 'imperishable'; here only in L. Apul. uses it with elementum.

306–317. 'And stones and rocks crumble with time, even the shrines of the gods.'

306. Bock. and Woltjer, L. Phil. etc., 112, would place this paragraph after 260, because the poet adds a fifth element. But here we have no element but an example of the decay of the strongest bodies. — non, not nonne; 2, 209 n. — ab aevo: 3, 323 n.

307. saxa, building stone; 6, 951, 'dissaepta domorum saxea.'

308. fessas fatisci: 3, 458 n.

309. Herod. 1, 91, τὴν τεκρωμένην μοῖραν ἀδύνατά ἔστι ἀποφυγεῖν καὶ θεῷ; 6, 419, 'et bene facta deum frangit simulacra suisque | demit imaginibus violento volnere honorem.'

310. naturae foedera: 3, 416 n.

311. virum, not deorum. Cf. 6, 242. Juv. 10, 146, 'quandoquidem data sunt ipsis quoque fata sepulcris' (M.).

312. quarerere proposo sibi cumque senescere credas, OQ; † Bail. † proporro † cumque, Br.; quae fore proposo vetitumque senescere credas, Lachm.; q. p. s. sene senescere c. M. Giuss.; aeraque p. solidumque senescere ferrum, M. 1860; aeraque p. silicumque s. petras Ellis, Cl. R. 8, 304; cedere p. subitoque s. casu, old vulg.; quare p. s. c. s. c., Bern. bracketing the entire line; quorsus senecta recedant, Bock.; vergere p. silicumque s. quadras, Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 325; q. p. ut sibi cumque s. c., Nencini; cedere p. sola conque s. creta, Schelling, Werke, I, 9, 312; quare rem porro sibi quamque s. c., Goebel; q. p. sibi qui de se quoque dicat, Polle, Jahrb. 93, 757; kiscere p. sensimque senescere tritu, Albert, Platon. Zahl, 38; van d. Valk, 108, would read quicquid for cumque.

313. silices, stone in its natural position and not used for buildings, and of the hardest kind.

314. nec = et ne quidem; cf. on 6, 1214. — validas vires: 1, 287 n. — perferre patique, ferre p., 2, 291.

315. finiti, emphatic.

316. pertolerassent, also in Acc. 91. Cf. tolerarit aevom, 2, 1171.

317. tormeuta, 'batteries,' literal in 6, 329. Duff quotes Shaksp. Sonnet 65, 'The wreckful siege of battering days.' But Wakef. thinks the metaphor is from the torture of slaves. — privata: 2, 649 n.

318–323. 'And the wide expanse of heaven, which is said to be continually receiving and giving up things, must be mortal for this very reason.'

318. Enn. Sc. 345, 'aspice hoc sublimen candens quem invocant omnes Iovem'; Pac. 86, 'hoc vide, circum supraque quod complexu continet | terram'; Ter. HT. 410, 'luciscit hoc iam.' — Woltjer, L. Phil. 112, would put this paragraph after 280. — tuere: cf. 92.

319. procreat: pater aether, 1, 250, cf. 2, 992. Pac. i.e. 'quidquid est hoc omnia animat format alit auget creat | sepelit recipitque in sece omnia, omniumque idem est pater.'

320. quidam: particularly Diogenes of Apollonia, Epicharmus, and Chrysippus. Cic. ND. 1, 29, 'aer, quo Diogenes Apolloniates utitur deo, quem sensum habere potest aut quam formam dei?' where see Mayor, who shows that Philodemus (p. 70 G.) referred to this Stoic principle. Cf. Pascal, Gracia Captia, 59.

321. nativo ac: Bern. Br. Giuss. Bail., cf. 238 (241), 65, where the copula is used; hence the change from nativum, OQ, Lachm. M., seems necessary.

322. auget alitque: 6, 946, and on 1, 229.

323. For the assonance, 3, 353 n., and for the principle, 5, 257 and 3, 517.

324-350. 'If the world had no beginning, why do not the poets go back of Thebes and Troy? The world has just begun, and many arts are being now developed. If there has been a new start following on a deluge or the like, that fact proves the mortality of the world.'

324. genitalis origo: 175 n.

325. semper aeterna: 3, 990, 'aeternum . . . perferre dolorem . . . praebere cibum semper'; 5, 1175, 'aeternamque dabant vitam quia semper . . .'; id. 1215, 'aeterna . . . salute | perpetuo possint . . .'

326. Tib. 1, 4, 63, 'carmina ni sint | ex humero Pelopis non nituisse ebur'; Hor. C. 4, 9, 25, 'vixere fortis ante Agamemnona | multi; sed omnes inlacrimabiles | urguntur ignotique longa | nocte carent quia vate sacro'; Ov. AA. 3, 397, 'quod latet ignotum est. ignoti nulla cupido . . . quid petitur sacris, nisi tantum fama, poetis?' etc. Macr. on Somn. Scip. 2, 10, 'quis non hinc aestimet mundum quandoque coepisse, nec longam retro eius aetatem, cum abhinc ultra duo retro annorum milia de excellenti rerum gestarum memoria ne Graeca quidem extet historia' (Creech). —funera Troiae: Hor. C. 1, 8, 14, sub lacrimosa Troiae | funera. Cf. 1, 464, 473.

327. alii, than those who did sing.

328. quo, 'wherefore'; Hidén, Synt. II, 113, 'whither.' — cedidere: cf. 3, 969. Cf. the village Hampden and mute, inglorious Milton of Gray's Elegy.

329. famae . . . insita: Tac. Dial. 10, 'nomen inserere posunt famae.'

330. verum, ut opinor: 1, 684 n. — summa: 780, 'redeo ad mundi novitatem'; cf. 340. — recens: from another point of view it is old; 2, 1150 sq.

331. exordia: 1, 149 n.

332. etiam nunc go together.

333. naviglia: cf. 1006.

334. organici: 3, 132 n. — melicos: first used in Latin by L.; cf. mele, 2, 412. — peperere: 1, 83 n. — sonores, Ps.-Tib. 3, 4, 69, cithara sonora and Dissen's note. L. uses sonor frequently of a gentle sound; cf. 1, 644; 6, 1185. The imported Oriental religions brought with them strange music; 2, 618 sq.

335. natura . . . ratioque: hendiadys. — See on Title.

336. nuper: Epicurus opened his school in 305 B.C. — primus: Intro. 21. Amphinius, according to Cic. Tusc. 4, 6, appeared not long after the embassy of 156 B.C.; cf. Zeller, Stoics, etc., 411. — cum primis strengthens primus.

337. sum in, harsh, but permissible, elision; cf. on 1, 150. — patrias: 4, 970 n.

338. fuisse, 'existed.'—Dyroff, Quellenfrage V Gesang, 31, imputes this view to Panaetius, and p. 34, maintains that the entire polemic is ultimately derived from Stoic sources, thus showing that L. followed here an Epicurean authority later than Epicurus himself.

339. saecla, 'generations,' vapore, heat; both frequent.

340. vexamine, dw. λεγ. Justin. 17, 1, 3, ruina vexatarum regionum, of earthquake. See on 1, 435.

341. ex imbris: cf. 2, 873.—adsiduis: frequent with imbris; see Thes. 2, 884, 24.—rapaces: 1, 17 n.

342. cooperuisse, coperiant, 6, 491.

343. tanto quique magis: 3, 700 n. Albert, quippe (Plat. Zahl, 38).—victus fateare necessest: 1, 624.

344. terrarum caerule: 1, 152, in terris . . . caeloque.

345. Note the gravity of the spondees.—periclis: such as those in 339.

346. ibi = eis. Note ibi under the ictus, as in 2, 75.—tristior causa: 3, 485 and n.—incubuisse: 6, 1143, '(ratio morborum) incubuit . . . populo Pandionis.'

347. darent . . . minas: 2, 1145 n.

348. videmur: probably passive.

349. inter nos before Lachm. was taken with videmur; Br. and Bail. take it so still. The comparison is the common sickness, not the being seen; Giuss. would understand it with both clauses.—quod, causal.—isdem, Pius, edd.; cf. 2, 693; idem OQ, Lachm.

350. atque, 'as,' 1, 849 n.

351–379. 'What is eternal must be solid like atoms or yielding like void or have no room about it whence hostile forces may come in or into which it may retire, like the universe. But the world has none of these qualities and hence cannot endure the might of time.'—Part of this passage is repeated from 3, 806–818; see nn. there.

351. marent: 3, 341 n.—necessust: probably for necessum est: 2, 710 n.

352. cum, pleonastic; cf. 364 and on 1, 276.—respire ictus: of diamonds, Plin. 37, 57 (M.).

353. penetrare: 1, 529, 'penitus penetrata retexti.'—sibi, for se, with pati, instead of in se with penetrare.

354. dissociare, 'unfellowship,' poetical.

355. ante: 1, 483 sq.

356. aetatem: 3, 847 n.—durare: L. does not use perdurare; 'longum probitas perdurat in aevum,' Ov. Med. 49.

357. expertia, 'exempt from'; 3, 712, 'natali die nec funeris expers.'

358. intactum, intactile, 1, 437.—ab ictu: 2, 99.—fungitur: 3, 168 n.—hilum: 3, 220 n.

359. fit, Lachm. edd.; sit, OQ, Heinze on 3, 814. Lachm. comp. deficit = fit, 371; fit copia circum, 6, 829. Heinze would have sit correspond to sunt, 357 and 352.

360. quasi, 'so to say.'

361. sicut, OQ, edd., but in 3, 816, sicuti, which is retained by Bern. Br. Heinze, Giuss.; the passage is not printed by Lachm. or edited by M. In 2, 536, OQ have sicuti, changed by Bentley, whom all follow. Lachm. there maintained that sicuti could not stand before a consonant; the occurrences of it in poetry are all in the first foot and in antcl. authors. Sicut should be read, then, in all three places, as is done by Bailey.—summarum summa: the words also occur in Plaut. Truc. 25. L. 6, 679, ad summam summai. Cf. haec rerum summa, 'one world,' 5, 194.—extra, extra summam, 1, 963, and sit extra, 2, 785.

362. For the eternity of the sum of all worlds, see 2, 304–307 and nn.—qui, indef., very unusual for quisquam; perhaps unexampled; in 3, 817, quis, which was read here by the Aldine and vulg.—dissilient, OQ, edd.; dissiliat, Bentl. Wakef. Br.

363. incidere: 6, 350, 'corpora fulminis ipsa | corporibus rerum incident.'

364. docui: 1, 329 sq.

365. Cf. 1, 655.

366. ut, 'like.'

367. 1, 997 (1000), 'ex infinito cita corpora materiali.'

368. corrueire, transitive, is rare; lex. cites examples from Plaut. Varro, Apul.—hanc (nostram).—violento turbine: cf. 217, 1231.

369. pericli, OQ; per ictus, Bock. Br. Bail. Cladem pericli is a bold expression, more so than Tartara leti in 3, 42. Bruno rejects the verse as an interpolation; and Langen thinks the last word fell out and was replaced by pericli.

370. Cf. 1, 1002.

371. deficit, sing., as in 1, 238, 'vis causaque conficeret'; 4, 1091; 5, 775, 806, 1057, 1189, etc.—exspargi: 3, 539 n.

372. Rejected by Bruno, Bock. and Giuss. and now (Append.) by Br.; cf. Langen, Phil. 34, 38. It is a good Lucretian verse, even if hardly necessary; so 358 might be rejected and many other verses not absolutely necessary for the sense. Cf. 109 for the thought. Van. d. Valk would write possint with Ald. etc.

373. leti ianua: 1, 1112.

374. aequoris undis is a hexameter ending in Ov. M. 1, 341, Am. 2, 11, 1.

375. immani, OQ; immane, Bentl. Bock. Bruno, Bail. Aen. 10, 726, '(leo) hians immane'; but Aen. 6, 237, 'vastoque immanis hiatu.' Conway, Cl. R. 14, 359, would take et twice, as in Prop. 3, 4, 17, 'tela fugacis equi et braccati militis arcus.' Bruno rejects the construction patet immani (sc. hiatu) et vasto respectat hiatu, which is both easy and natural; yet et may connect the verbs, and immani vasto may be taken as another case of his frequent asyndeton.—respectat, waits for them. Cf. 975; 6, 1234.

376. quare: cf. 235 sq.

377. haec, heaven, sun, etc.

378. Cf. 315–318.

379 = 1217. Cf. 314.

380–415. 'The continual war of the elements must finally cease (with the victory of one); the waters may be dried up or may cover the earth, or fire burn everything. The stories of Phaethon and Deucalion represent a temporary victory.'

380. maxima, i.e. fire and water; cf. 244. 'The ocean and the sun will last our time, and we may leave posterity to shift for themselves,' Johnson, Idler, 3 (Watson).

381. pio nequaquam: Hor. C. 2, 1, 30, impia proelia, fought by brothers.

382. ollis: 3, 271 n.—certaminis: - minis in fifth foot, 1, 22 n.

383. finem: M. Giuss. Bail. put the interrogative after this word.—vel: the corresponding vel cum hic umor omnia vicerit is represented by 411 sq.; cf. Madv.

Fin. 795.—omnis is nom.; 1, 7 n. Postgate, Cl. R. 17, 30, amnis, object of exsuperant, the adversaries of sol and vapor of 415; but pontus, 387, as well as amnis, 386, furnish the water and all of it is needed (omnibus eponis, 384).

384. umoribus, pl. in 1, 841; 6, 475, 1177.

385. patruntur: patrarunt Grasberger, 57; Goebel, Obs. 57; Bock. It is here middle; the verb is used only here in L.

386. ultra, 'moreover.' Marull. Postgate, ultra.—minantur diluviare: 1, 722 n.—Hor. C. 4, 14, 28, 'diluviem meditatur agris.'

387. diluviare, perhaps dw. λεγ. Postgate, Cl. R. 14, 352, proposes exalto, 'over-deep,' dw. λεγ.—gurgite in fifth foot, also in 4, 397; 5, 482; Aen. 6, 310; 7, 704; Ov. M. 15, 714.

388, 1-2 = 1-2 of 266.

389 = 267.

390. confidunt: note the personification.

391. liquor: cf. 4, 873.—incepti, 'undertaking'; 1, 55 n.—contingere, 1, 564 n.

392. spirantes . . . bellum: Cic. Att. 15, II, Martem spirare (M.). Vulg. Act. Apost. 9, 1, 'spirans minarum et caedis.'

393. cernere, Sen. Ep. 58, 3, 'quaedam simplicia in usu erant, sicut cernere ferro inter se dicebant. idem Vergilius hoc probabit tibi: . . . cernere ferro [Aen. 12, 709] quod nunc decernere dicimus.' See lex. Enn. Ann. 555, 'olii cernebant magnis de rebus agentes.' Flor. 30 has inter se after rebus; Lachm. edd. after magnis; om. OQ.

394. cum, concessive.—interea: 83 n.—superantior, the comp. apparently dw. λεγ.

395. ut fama est (cf. 412) applies to both fire and water.

396. superat et lambens, Lachm. M. Giuss.; superavit et ambens, OQ, lambens, Q corr.; superavit et ardens, Polle, Phil. 25, 280; Br. Bail.; superavit amens et, Bergk, Emend., avens, Jahrb. 67, 325. Lambens is too well attested by Q corr., and so superat must be read; cf. on 1, 70. Ellis, J. Phil. 15, 10, would keep ambens (= encompassing); Bock. angens. Everett, Harv. St. 7, 34, favors ardens, which Housman rejects in Cl. R. 14, 367.

397. Ov. M. 2, 205, 'ripiuntque per avia currum.'—avia rapax: 13 and n.—vis equorum: 3, 8, and n.

398. Ov. ib. 204, 'altoque sub aethere fixis | incurvant stellis.' For the abl. of place, cf. toto aere, 254.

399. at pater omnipotens, so Ov. 304; Aen. 6, 592. L. uses the myth in illustration, granting poetically its truth, just as he used that of Cybele, 2, 600 sq.; cf. also the invocation to Venus, 1, 1 sq.

400. magnanimum, Ov. 111, m. Phaethon.—repenti, elsewhere only in nom.; this may be another form of the adverb; cf. tempore, tempori.—fulminis ictu, 3, 488 n.

401. deturbavit usually has a preposition: Aen. 5, 175, 'in mare praecipitem puppi deturbat ab alta.'—equis = curru.—sol = Phoebus.

402. aeternam: according to the myth. Cf. Aen. 2, 154, vos aeterni ignes.—succipit, 'suscipimus ad animum et mentem refertur. succipimus corpore,' Caper, GLK. 7, 98. Succipio is to catch from underneath, suscipio to raise up; Aen. 1, 175; 4, 391; 6, 249; Nettleship, J. Phil. 13, 80. Cf. on 4, 1250.—lampada: 2, 79.

403. Ov. 398, ‘colligit amentes et adhuc terrore paventes | Phoebus equos.’—que . . . que: probably a contemptuous enumeration.

404. suum, i.e. equorum; Lane, LG. 2337.—recreavit cuncta gubernans (equos).

405. scilicet, here with unusual sarcastic meaning; 3, 229 n.—veteres . . . poetae, 2, 600. Aeschylus wrote a Heliods and Euripides a Phaethon. Knaack, Hermete, 22, 637, thinks the reference is also to an unknown Alexandrian poet, which I doubt.

406. Cf. 1, 880 and n.

407. potest: the possibility of a conflagration is granted.

408. plura, sc. than usual. Br. and Giuss. infer a lacuna which should include specific mention of igneas.

409. Lachm. interchanges 409 and 410 and reads et for aut.—inde, ‘then,’ 1, 605; 2, 134, etc.—cadunt: 3, 452 n.—revictae: 1, 593 n.

410. torrentibus, OQ; cf. 339; fūrentibus, Br.—aut, ‘or else’; M. comp. 1026, and other passages.

411. coepit, conative; cf. 4, 809; 6, 432.—coortus, of a hostile attack, as in 1002.

412. multas . . . urbes, recent edd. after Pontanus, except Giuss., who follows Purmann (Jahrb. 115, 278) in reading vitas for multas and retaining undis, OQ, for urbes. Should we write homines multos . . . undis?—quando, temporal, 3, 384 n.

413. Cf. 409 and his scientific indifference.

414. Cf. 367–415.

415. constitērunt: 3, 86 n.

416–431. ‘The union of matter formed earth, heaven, and sea, through fortuitous combination.’

416 nearly = 67, and part of 417 nearly = part of 68. The cosmogony of Epicurus reported by Plutarch, Plac. 1, 4, p. 289 (Usener, Epic. Fr. 308), and V. Ed. 6, 31, may be compared, and also Ovid, M. 1, 1 sq. and Manil. 1, 116 sq.

417. profunda, ‘depths’; cf. gurgite, 387.

418. solis lunai cursus = solem lunamque et cursus.

419–421 = 1, 1021–1023.

422 = 1–2, 1, 1024 and 1–2, 5, 187.

423 = 5, 188.

424–426 = 189–191.

427. volgata, ‘spread abroad’; cf. 4, 77 n.

428 = 1, 1026, with changed order.

429 = nearly 2, 1061.—convecta, Lachm. edd.; conventa, OQ.

430 = nearly 2, 1062.

431 = 2, 1063. These vss. are rejected by Gneisse, 72, because primordia rerum is repeated unnecessarily in 422 from 419, and because tum in 432 refers back to 416. Neumann, 16, and Giuss., arguing from Plutarch, think they were written here first; M. and Lohmann, 34, that they are repeated here. Editors would not find a ‘patchwork’ if the preceding books had been lost.

432—448. ‘There was no sun, moon, or stars, no earth, heaven, or sea, but chaos of seething matter which gradually separated into earth, air, sky, and sea.’

432. Hic: Sauppe would change to sic, but hic = ‘under these circumstances.’ Cf. Emped. 27 D., τὸν οὐτὸν τὴλοιο διείδεται ὥκτα γύνα | οὐδὲ μὲν οὐδὲ αἵτις λάσιον μέρος οὐδὲ θάλασσα. — solis rota: 564. Enn. Ann. 558, ‘patefecit radios rota candida caelum’; Tib. 1, 9, 62, ‘dum rota Luciferi provocet orta diem.’ The metaphor ‘chariot’ is a common one: Ov. AA. 2, 230, ‘si rota desuerit, tu pede carpe viam,’ and lex. s.v. B. Aesch. Pers. 506, λαμπρὸς ἡλίου κύκλος.

433. sidera mundi: 1, 788 n.

434. nec denique, ‘no, nor’ (M.) — caelum, the blue heaven; aer, the atmosphere with clouds.

435. nostris, ‘common,’ ‘ordinary’; 2, 383 n.

436. Ov. M. 1, 7, ‘quem (vultum) dixere chaos: rudis indigestaque moles.’ — tempestas et moles, for tempestuosa moles.

437 (440). 440—445 are transferred here by Reisacker and all edd. since Lachm. except Bock. — genus: 3, 221 n. — omne genus de, Lachm. edd.; cf. on 1, 1026; omnigenis e, O, omnigenus e, Q; e would be unmetrical.

438 = 2, 726.

439. 1—2 = 1—2, 2, 727.

440. Cf. 2, 778, ‘ut saepe ex aliis formis variisque figuris.’

441. sic, as they were then; lex. s.v. V, 3. Stanley, C. R. 11, 27, interprets ‘being thus unlike.’

442 (445). conveniantis: 1, 1030 n.

443 (437). inde loci = postea; cf. 741, 791; Enn. Ann. 22, 530; Cic. Arat. 327. Lane, LG. 1253.

444. cum paribus: 2, 337, ‘paria omnibus constant.’ — iungi cum: 4, 1193 n. — discludere: V. Ecl. 6, 35, discludere Nerea ponto, which Macrobius 6, 4, comparing with this Lucretian passage, says, ‘ferit aures nostras hoc verbum discludere ut novum.’

445 (439). membra . . . et . . . partes; cf. 244 and Ov. I.c. 33, ‘congeriem secuit sectamque in membra rededit.’

446. terris, metr. gr. for terra. — secernere: 2, 728, ‘terrās et mare totū | secerunt caelumque a terris omne retentant’; Ov. 22, ‘nam caelo terras et terris abscondit undas.’

447. A comma after mare seems necessary with Bock. Br. Bail. I cannot believe with Lachm. M. and Giuss. that caelum and mare are not both accusatives.

448. seorsus: 3, 631 n. — ignes (paterent).

449—454. ‘The heavy bodies of earth first united and forced out the substance of the rest of the world: ether first because lightest; then the heavenly bodies between that and itself; finally the sea poured forth, the mountains rose, and the plains settled down.’

449. Quippe etenim: 3, 440 n.

450. perplexa: cf. 2, 102. Plut. I.c. (Usener, p. 215, 20) ἀθροιζομένων δ' ἐν ταῦτῷ τοῖς τὰ μὲν δονταὶ μεῖζον ἦν καὶ βαρύτερα τάρρως ὑπεράθιζεν.

451. medio (mundi), that is, what was the middle after the formation of the world. Epic. nowhere says that the world is spherical; see on 534 sq.

452. quanto magis . . . tam magis: 483, 'quanto . . . magis . . . tam magis . . . et tanto magis'; 6, 460, 'quam . . . quoque magis, tanto magis'; Aen. 7, 787, 'tam magis . . . quam magis'; Dr. § 519, I, d.

453. expressere, Plut. I.c. (Usener, p. 215, 21) διὰ δὲ μικρὰ καὶ περιφερῆ καὶ λεῖα καὶ εὐδίλισθα, ταῦτα καὶ ἐξεθλιβέτο κατὰ τὴν σύνοδον τῶν ἀτόμων εἰς τὸ μετέωρον ἀνεφέρετο.

454. magni moenia mundi, of ether; cf. I, 73 n.

455. magis levibus atque rutundis: cf. 2, 451; magis e parvis et levibus, 3, 244; see on 3, 192.

456. sunt: 3, 216 n.

457. tellus, metr. gr.—rara, 'open'; pleonastic with foramina.—terrae goes in thought with both foramina and partibus, as suggested by the punctuation of the older editors.

458. Bentley proposed protinus and Wakef. partubus for partibus.

459. Edd. comp. Manil. I, 149, 'ignis in aethereas volucer se sustulit auras | summaque complexus stellantis culmina caeli | flammarum vallo naturae moenia fecit.' Aether is ignifer in Cic. Arat. 88. Note that aether ignifer may be visible in its formal condition.

460. videmus, OQ; videntur, Lachm. Giuss. keeps videmus, but infers a lacuna following, and places 461–462 after 464 with Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 279, who reads exhalare. 5, 1030, 'non alia longe ratione atque ipsa videtur,' and cf. on I, 281.

461. aurea, Enn. Ann. 92, aureus exoritur sol.—gemmaantis rore: 2, 319 n.

462. matutina assists cum in designating the time.—radiati: 700, radiatum insigne diei; Ov. Tr. 2, 325, radianitia lumina solis. Br. has a lacuna after this verse to contain an object to videmus, but the action is the object: 'see occur, when,' etc. The slight anacoluthon is very excusable.

463. exhalant: exhalare, Lachm. Cf. on 253.

464. fumare: 6, 523, 'terraque cum fumans umorem tota redhalat.'

465. in alto: 4, 133, 'nubes . . . concrescere in alto'; 6, 527, 'sursum crescent.' I restore the punctuation conciliantur in alto that obtained before Lachm. Here conciliare is used instead of concrescere, which L. needed in another connexion.

466. 6, 482, 'et quasi densendo subtexit caerulea nimbis'; Sen. Phoen. 422, 'atra nube subtexens diem'; Aen. 3, 582, 'caelum subtexere fumo' and Forbiger there. The opposite, retexere, 267. Bruno would write nubibus here.—corpore concreto: 468, 495.

467. diffusilia, 'expansive,' ἀπ. λεγ. Cic. ND. 3, 31, aer . . . dissupabilis.

468. flexit, 'arched,' Lachmann's correction of saepsit, which came from 470; ἐπιέσθετο, Plut.

469. omnis: he usually has cunctas in such a connexion, e.g. I, 1007.

470. omnia cetera, 'everything else.'—avidō complexu: 2, 1066, 'avidō complexu quem tenet aether.'—saepsit: Shaksp. Sonnet 21, 'That heaven's air in this huge roundre hemis' (M.).

471. hunc (aethera).—exordia: cf. 2, 1062. Plut. I.c. (Usener, p. 216, 1) τὴς δὲ αὐτῆς ἐχθρευται φύσεως αἱ ἄπομοι . . . τὴν τῶν δαστέρων φύσιν ἀπετέλουν.

472 and 476. interutrasque: 2, 518 n. Here the reference is to the earth and ether.—globi: 69.—vertuntur: 510, caeli si vortiuntur orbis.

473. maximus, Aen. 8, 239, maximus intonat aether (Wakef.).
474. fuērunt: 677; 3, 86 n.
475. summas, 'loftiest'; but Lamb. 'extremitates.'
476. viva: 1, 1034, 'vivant labentes aetheris ignes' and n. Bentl. and Lotze priva on account of 145, but the use is poetical here.
477. versent: cf. 720.
478. quod genus: 3, 221 n.
479. manere = esse; 1, 363 n.—tamen cum: 3, 107 n.
480. Note the assonance and cf. 114.—his, constituents of ether, sun, and moon.
481. maxuma, 'vast.'
482. gurgite, 'flood'; Juv. 13, 69, amnis gurgitis miris.—fossas, kolhous rōwous, Plut. I.c.
483. inequ dies: 4, 1069 n.—aetheris aestus, 519; 6, 481; a. ignes, 5, 585.
484. cogebant: 1, 1020 n.
485. verberibus: 1104, 'verberibus radiorum atque aestu victa'; 613, 'radiorum ictum.'—ad limina in artum, M. edd.; ad limina partem, OQ; a limini parte, Lachm.—limina, sc. terrae in its nebulous condition; the blows affect its outer surfaces.—in artum: cf. 6, 158.
486. propulsa condensa coiret: notice the compression of the statement.
487. salsus sudor: 2, 465 n.
488. manando, a frequent metaphor; lit. in 6, 944.—camposque natantis: 6, 405, 1142. Georg. 1, 372, 'rura natant fossis'; 3, 198, 'campique natantes.'
489. foras, without the earth.
490. vaporia: cf. 236.
491. densebant, Lamb. edd. for densabant OQ, to agree with usage elsewhere in the MSS. There is a Ms. variation between densemur and densantur in Georg. 1, 248.—fulgentia templa also in 6, 387–388; cf. fulgentia mala, 5, 32, and on 1, 258.
492. sidebant: Tac. Ann. 2, 47, 2, sedisse immensos montes.—altis is a constant epithet of mountains, e.g. 1, 283; 5, 663.—Ov. M. 1, 43, 'iussit et extendi campos, subsidere valles, | fronde tegi silvas, lapidosos surgere montes.'
493. ascensus, 6, 469, 'montis ascendimus altos'; Vulg. Judith, 4, 6, 'obtinenter ascensus montium.' Mountains are produced by the unequal contraction of the earth's surface.
494. partis (terrae).
- 495–508. 'Thus the earth settled and the sea air and ether were left separate; the ether, being most clear, whirls along in tranquil course.'
495. concreto: cf. 466.—terrae pondus = terra ponderosa: 1242, 'argenti pondus.' Ov. M. 1, 52, 'pondere terrae | pondus aquae levius'; Manil. 1, 159, 'ultima subsedit glomerato pondere tellus.'—For the rhythm, Cic. Cons. 2, 18, concreto lumine luna.
496. constitit, 'came to rest.'—Ov. M. 1, 29, 'densior his tellus, elementaque grandia traxit, | et pressa est gravitate sui.'—atque, explicative, 'that is to say,' as in 3, 993.—limus: Manil. 160, 'convenitque vagis permixtus limus arenis.'
497. gravis, Catull. 17, 25, 'animum in gravi derelinquere caeno.'—The double monosyllabic close, aided by the alliteration, has an unusual effect in L.—faex, Ov. 68, ‘liquidum . . . aethera nec quicquam terrenae faecis habentem.’ In its metaphorical sense, 5, 1141.

498. inde, noticeable anaphora; 4, 690 n.—ipse, ‘by itself’; last of all from the earth.

499. relicta, not left by the earth (Bock.), but said of a resultant state; 1, 656, ‘denseri poterunt ignes rarique relinquiri.’

500. alia refers to omnia.

501. aerias auras: 3, 222 n.

502. turbantibus, ‘heaving’; 3, 493 n.

503. haec, the heavier air and sea; hic, Lachm.

504. incertis, ‘wayward’; cf. incertis ventis, 782.

505. ignis, the fiery substance of ether: ignifer, 498.—certo, ‘sure’; cf. 507.—impete, ‘sweep’; 2, 330 n.—labens: 1, 2 n.

506. nisu, ‘effort’; poetical for nixu.

507. Pontos, Lachm. edd. for ponto.—mare: what is true of one element—sea—may be of another—ether.—aestu, ‘current’; cf. 649 and 2, 562.—Sen. NQ. 4, 2, 29, ‘ob hoc Pontus in infernum mare adsidue fluit rapidus, non ut cetera maria alternis ultro citroque aestibus, in unam partem semper pronus et torrens.’—Shaksp. Othello, 3, 3, ‘like to the Pontick sea | Whose icy current and compulsive course | Ne'er feels retiring ebb, but keeps due on | To the Propontick and the Hellespont’ (M.).

508. usque, ‘continually.’

509–533. ‘Why the stars move: (a) If the heaven revolves, an air pushes it, stars and all, like a water wheel; (b) if it does not move, the stars may be impelled by fires contained in them, or an air may blow them along, or they may move in pursuit of food; any one of these causes may be acting.’—This section is bracketed by Lachm. M. Bail.; Br. Giuss. put it after 563, following Bock. and Ussing; Lachm. thought it could be placed there ‘aptius.’ Kannengiesser, Jahrb. 125, 833, and Woltjer, Mnem. 23, 324, think it in place as agreeing with Epicurus’ order of discussion. The movement of the stars may well come between mention of the ether and the earth.

509. astrorum: the word does not occur before L., who has it only here and in 530. For the meaning, cf. signis, 532. This would seem to be contributory evidence that the passage is a later addition. For the rhythm, cf. V. Ecl. 4, 1, paulo maiora canamus.

510. si: this condition is inconsistent with 505 sq.—(Epic.) ad Pyth. 93, τὰς τὲ κυρχεῖσιν αὐτῶν οὐκ ἀδύνατον μὲν γίνεσθαι κατὰ τὴν τοῦ θλού οὐδέποτε δίσην τὸ τούτου μὲν στάσιν, αὐτῶν δὲ δίσην κατὰ τὴν ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἐν τῷ γενέσει τοῦ κεσμοῦ ἀνάγκην ἀπογεννηθεῖσαν ἐπ' ἀραρόδη. —vortitur: 1436, mundi versatile templum.

511. polum, the end of the axis.—parti: for the abl. ending, see 1, 978 n.—premere: 4, 286, ‘alium prae se propellens aera.’

512. utrimque, apparently both ends of the axis.

513. alium (aera).—eodem, in the same direction; deorsum, Lachm.

514. Lachm. transposes to follow 516.—volvenda, equivalent to a pr. act. part.; 1276, volvenda aetas; 6, 179, glans volvenda; Roby, LG. II, lxxviii, compares secun- dus and rotundus. — aeterni: poetically only; cf. on 476; alterni, Faber; aeternum, Bock.; externi, Wakef. — sidera: 1, 788 n.

515. aut: Lachm. hinc; Bruno, atque; but L. is imagining one or the other air currents to be at work, either above or below. They might work together, but he does not say so.

516. hausta, scoops on a water wheel; see Rich, Dict., ‘rota aquaria.’ The word is cited from no other author except Nonius in quotation. So in 3, 650, rotas falcesque = wheels with scythes. — videmus: again an appeal to experience; 3, 153 n.

517. etiam quoque: 3, 208 n.

518. statione: cf. 478, and on 4, 388.

519. aestus: cf. on 483. Woltjer, L. Phil. 120, quotes a theory of Anaximander in Plut. Plac. 2, 20, that the sun ἔχοντα κολην περιφέρειαν πλήρη πυρὸς, κατὰ μέρος ἐκφαίνουσαν διὰ στομὸν τὸ πῦρ.

520. Repeated at 6, 200. — quaerentes viam: 2, 10 n. — ignes is acc.

521. summania, OQ, ἀτ. λεγ.; immania, Lachm. S. Austin, CD. 4, 23, ‘Romani veteres nescio quem Summanum, cui nocturna fulmina tribuerunt coluerunt magis quam Iovem ad quem diurnum fulmina pertinerent’; hence summania = nocturna. See also Bergk, Jahrb. 83, 506, and Everett, Harv. St. 7, 34.

522. aliunde alicunde extrinsecus: notable pleonasm. — This was a theory of Anaxagoras and Anaximenes.

523. serpere: sol serpens, 692; aer serpere coepit, 6, 1120.

524. euntis: aventis, Lachm. It is probably nom. pl.; cf. 692. — Cf. on 1, 231. Bergk, voluntas.

525. passentia, like cattle grazing; (Epic.) ad Pyth. 93, κατὰ τὰ ἐπινέμησιν τοῦ πυρὸς δὲ ἐπὶ τῷ ἑῆσι τόπῳ λύρος. Callim. Del. 176, τελεσιν, ἡρικα πλεῖστα κατ’ ἡρά βουκολέονται, quoted by the commentators on Aen. 1, 608. — He does not mean that the stars range about for food (Epic. ad Herod. 77, μήτε . . . κατὰ βοδησιν τὰς κυκλεῖς ταῦτας λαμβάνειν), but that fire is drawn on by the substance it feeds upon; ignium modo alimentum suum sequitur, Sen. NQ. 7, 21, 2, of comets. This was a Stoic doctrine established by Heraclitus (Usener, p. 383).

526. Cf. on 4, 503, for the indefiniteness. — ponere: cf. 622. — eorum, i. q., carum causarum.

527. omne, τὸ πᾶν. Cf. Gneisse, Jahrb. 121, 843.

528. Cf. on 2, 1065.

529. sequor disponere, an unusual construction. Plaut. As. 159, ‘tractare exequar’ (M.). See on 3, 420.

530. quae (causae). — possint, because refuted neither by sense nor phenomena.

531. una, since in each case one of many causes must act, because there must be a cause for an act; it is immaterial which, and one is as probable as another, provided it σύμφωνος ὁν τῷ φαινομένῳ, ad Pyth. 87. — siet hic, Bern. edd.; sit et haec, O, haec, Q; siet haec, Lachm.; sit in hoc, M.; sit et heic, Nencini. — siet: 3, 101. — On this whole paragraph, see Woltjer, L. Phil. 117 sq.; Munro’s note; and Introd. 34.

532. vegeat, used by Ennius and Varro. — signis: astrorum, 530.

533. Cf. 1453. — Keller, Zur lat. Sprachg. II, 279, thinks that pedetemptim is from pedem temptare by popular etymology; pedetentim would be from pedem tendere; Cicero says flumen pede temptare.

534-563. 'The earth is at rest in the middle of the world and has atmosphere of allied nature in organic union beneath it to hold it up. The weight is not burdensome any more than that of the body to its members.' (Interesting, says Giussani, as a new example of Epicurean abuse of analogy.)

534. media: cf. 451. — As to the shape of the worlds, Epic. writes to Herod. (74), τοῦς κύριους οὐρανούς ἐξ ἀπάγκης δεῖ νομίζειν ἔνα σχηματισμὸν ἔχοντας and the scholion, οὓς μὲν γὰρ σφαιροειδεῖς, καὶ φοεδεῖς ἄλλους, καὶ ἀλλοιοσχήμορας ἔτερους· οὐ μέντοι τὰν σχῆμα ἔχειν. Perhaps he considered the earth flat; so Giuss. thinks. In a fragment of the Περὶ Φύσεων, xi, occurs φημὶ ἐν μέσῳ εἶναι τὴν γῆν. Sen. N.Q. 7, 14, discusses quomodo illa moles non descendit et se onere suo frangit, and Koeler, in his excursus there, gives the opinions of the ancients on the subject.

535. evanescere probably through rarefaction. Cf. the only other certain cases of hysterología — in 625 and 6, 1032.

536. convenit: by no means necessary, but a convenient explanation. — naturam, 'substance,' 3, 137 n.

537. Schol. on Ep. ad Herod. 74, τὴν γῆν τῷ δέρι ἐποχεῖσθαι. — ex . . . aeo: 3, 344 n. — uniter aptam: 3, 839 n.

538. vivit, as an organic body; cf. 476; sedit, Lamb.; crevit, Lachm.; vi sit, Bergk. — Ov. M. 1, 12, 'nec circumfuso pendebat in aere tellus | ponderibus librata suis.' — At first sight there is a contradiction with 145 and what precedes there; but to Epic. the world was a ξῶρ.

539. oneri, pred. dat. not uncommon; Roby, LG. II, xlix.

540. pondere: but abnormally, consequitur gravitas membrorum, 3, 478.

541. collo: Cato, Orat. 77 (Jordan, p. 71), 'accipite, si vultis, hoc onus in vestros collos.' Prop. 4, 11, 76, 'omnis erit collo turba ferenda tuo . . . domus coepit nunc onus esse tuum.'

542. pondus inesse: 3, 1054, 'pondus inesse animo.'

543. inposta: Prop. 4, 2, 29, inposta corona.

544. minora, than the parts of the body.

545. queat (quaeat) OQ, edd.; cf. 1, 586; aveat, Lachm.; obeat, M.; quoi quae adiaceat, Lamb.; vehat, Gronov.; quadret, Christ, 24; gerat, Howard; gravet, Bergk. Wakef. explains 'quae sint primigeniae qualitates eius et potestates quibus sit natura praedita.'

546. aliena, as if foris allata.

547. est allata = pervenit; Thes. 1, 1205, 9. — aliunde, from somewhere else. — auris: cf. partibus aeriis, 538. — Note the elisions in this verse.

548. ab origine: 3, 331. The hexam. ending occurs in Ov. M. 1, 3; Tr. 2, 559 (Zingerle).

549. videntur: videtur, old vulg. Br. Bail. Unnecessary punctuation after membra makes videntur harsh. — quasi: 3, 493 n.

550. Giuss. bracketed 550-555 as a marginal note, but abandoned the view in his Note L. 197. The verses contain an argument to show that the air and the earth are united just as a man is to his limbs.

551. Note the interlocking in supra quae se sunt.

552. nisi esset, for the elision see on 1, 409.

553. partibus aeris, the atmosphere.

554 = 3, 325 nearly.

555 = 537 nearly.

556. 4, 879, ‘quae res tantum hoc oneris protrudere nostri | corporis insuerit.’—pondere is abl. of quality.

557. 3, 162, of the soul, propellere membra, | corripere ex somno corpus mutare vultum | atque hominem totum regere ac versare.—tenuissima, cf. 3, 179.

558. Cf. 3, 331 and 4, 889.

559. pernici: correction of pernice, metr. gr. See on 2, 635.—denique iam: 2, 431; 5, 318, etc.

560. animi, Lachm. edd., cf. 563; animae, OQ, Br. Bail. Animae has been defended by 3, 143, ‘cetera pars animae per totum dissita corpus | paret,’ but the animus is the dominus, not the anima. And yet it is anima which immediately moves the limbs.

561. iamne vides: 1, 907 n.

562. coniuncta cum: 3, 159 n.

563. terris, pl. for metr. convenience.—animi, OQ, edd. except Bock. Br., who have animae, which is defended by 557–558, and may be right; the decision between these words is one of the most difficult in Lucretian criticism. Cf. 3, 421 sq. Perhaps, with Bailey, the Ms. readings animai, 557, animae, 560, animi, 563, should be retained; Giuss., Note L. 63, rather inclines to this opinion, and thinks vis animai, 557, may be due to metr. convenience.

564–591. ‘The sun, moon, and stars are not very much larger than they appear to the senses, just as fires on the earth, so long as they are visible, do not change materially in size.’

564. nimio . . . ardor, OQ, edd.; minimo . . . ardens, Bock. Br.; but cf. 571 sq. Orbis, Polle, Phil. 26, 526; re for rota, Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 142; autem for ardor, Duff, J. Phil. 20, 317; cf. 1, 857; auctus, Purmann.—nimio: 3, 387 n. Cf. quasi pedalis in Cic. Acad., pedalis fortasse in de Fin.—rota, disk, on 432. Rota ardor is in effect equivalent to ardens rota through hendiadys; cf. also ardor, 587. Eρ. ad Pyth. 91, τὸ δὲ μέγεθος ἡλίου τε καὶ τῶν λοιπῶν ἀστρων κατὰ μὲν τὸ πρὸς ἡμᾶς τηλικούτον ἔστιν ἡλίκον φαίνεται· κατὰ δὲ τὸ καθ' αὐτὸν ἥτοι μεῖζον τοῦ δρωμέτον ή μικρῷ διάτον ή τηλικούτον τυγχάνει. Cic. Acad. 2, 82, ‘Epicurus autem posse putat etiam minorem esse eum quam videatur, sed non multo,’ and Reid there; Fin. 1, 20, ‘vel paulo aut maiorem aut minorem.’ Aetius, II, 21, 5 (Usener, Fr. 345), ‘Ἐρικουρος (τὸν ἡλιον) τηλικούτον ἡλίκον φαίνεται, ή μικρῷ τινι μείζῳ ή διάτονῳ. The size of the sun was estimated by Anaximander as 28 times greater than the earth, by Galen, 58, by Cic. (in Acad.) 18, Macrobius, 8, Ptolemy, 166 $\frac{1}{2}$ , according to Migne, Lactant. 353. Heraclitus made the sun εὖρος ποδὸς ἀνθρώπελον (Plut. Plac. 2, 21); for opinions of the ancients in general, see Koeler's excursus on Sen. NQ. 7, 1, 3, and Fay's excursus on L. 5, 565 in Lemaire's ed. p. 123.

565. sensibus = oculis; cf. videri, 572.

566. ignes is nom.

567. adicere, cf. adiectus odoris, 4, 673.—calidum: 3, 126 n.

568. nil illa his, Bern. edd., illi, Cartault, Rev. Ph. 29, 33; nihil nisi, OQ; nil ea in his, Lachm.; nil visi his, Christ, 24; nil tenui his, Grasberger, 58. There were many attempts before Lachm.—illa (spatia).—libant (librant, OQ): 3, 11 n.

569. ad speciem: 3, 214 n.

570 (573) transferred by Itali.

571 (570). mulcent = tangunt, edd. after Lachm.; fulgent, OQ, retained by Cartault; see on 3, 142.

572. hinc, e terra.—filum, ‘size,’ as in 581, 589; see on 2, 341.—videri vere, ‘to appear as it really is’.

573. nil adeo, ‘nothing at all’; cf. 6, 1170.—plus aut minus: 1, 240 n.

574 = 570 of codices; omitted by all.

575. notho, Catull. 34, 15, ‘notho es | dicta lumine Luna.’—lumine lustrans: 693. Eph. ad Pyth. 94, ἔτι τε ἐνδέχεται τὴν σελήνην ἐξ ἑαυτῆς ἔχειν τὸ φῶς, ἐνδέχεται δὲ ἀπὸ τοῦ ἡλίου.

576. iactat lucem: cf. 303, and Aen. 7, 527, lucem sub nubila iactant; as frequently, the Virgilian passage is an entirely different connexion.—The opinion was held by Heraclitus (Plut. Plac. 2, 28), the former one by Pythagoras.

577. quidquid id est, ‘however it be’; 1252; 3, 135.—figura = filo.

578. qua (figura).—cernimus (eam ferri).

579. semota: 4, 253, ‘res quaeque remota videtur,’ cf. 813.

580. confusa videntur: 2, 321, of sheep at a distance.—aera per multum confundi verba necessari, 4, 558.

581. minui, Bentley’s emendation for mi, defended by the scholion to ad Pyth. 91, εἰ γάρ τὸ μέγεθος διὰ τὸ διάστημα ἀπεβεβλήκει, πολλῷ μᾶλλον ἀν τὴν χρόνον.

582. ‘Bright aspect and well-defined form,’ M. (cf. τὴν χρόνον).

583. utcumque = quocumque modo or qualis.—oris, ‘outline.’

584. quanta quanta (Eichstädt, edd.) = quantacumque; it occurs in Plaut., see lex.; OQ, quanto quoque quantast; Lotze, quantaque tanta quoque, refuted by Polle, Phil. 26.—hinc, e terra.

585. ignes, stars.

586. 586–589 are parenthetical.—ignes was added by Marull, followed by edd.; but flammae, Lachm.; anceps Lotze.—Eph. ad Pyth. 91, οὐτος γάρ καὶ τὰ περ' ήμιν πυρὰ ἐξ ἀποστήματος θεωρούμενα κατὰ τὴν αἰσθησιν θεωρεῖται.

587. ardor, i.e. ardor flammae, as in 1099.

588. videtur, O, Lachm. M. Giuss.; videntur, Q, Br. Bail. Here the authority alone of O over Q decides: so filum videtur, and not ignes videntur.

589. alteram utram, Cic. Div. 2, 62; alterutrum, 1, 974, 1012; alterutra, 5, 685.—absunt, Lachm. edd. for absit; Lamb. adsint; absit was due to videtur, sing.

590 (594) transferred after Marull. Cartault, Rev. Phil. 29, 34, would place it after 585.—perquam: 3, 180 n.—minores (ignes).

591. parte is abl. of degree of difference.

592–613. ‘It is not strange that so small a sun should emit so much light; it is a fountain of light and heat, and covers much space, like a fountain of water. Perhaps it merely communicates fire to the air, just as a spark to a wheat field, or there is unseen heat about it which increases the force of its rays.’

592. 4, 858 and n.

593. tantalus: 3, 413 n. Cic. Acad. 2, 82, quantulus nobis videtur (sol)! — ille, deictic; 2, 362 n.
594. Cf. 92 and 4, 203, with n.; and inrigat, 5, 282.
- 595 (593). perfundat . . . vapore: perfusum frigore, 4, 924.
- 596 = 584 nearly.
597. patefactum: fontes aperiemus, Cic. Tusc. 1, 6.
598. largifuum, ἀπ. λεγ. in class. authors.—scatēre: 952, 40; 6, 891, 896
Diog. Enoand. 21, d, 2, πενημάτων αἴθουμένων πηγής τε ἐπέχειν τόπον.
599. elementa vaporis: 6, 312, ‘confluere . . . elementa vaporis.’ This theory was advocated by Anaximander (Usener, p. 383).
600. coniectus: 4, 959 n.
601. capite, i.e. sole, fons luminis. Should hoc be read for hic? Cf. hinc, 597.
602. nonne vides: 2, 196 n.
603. interdum: 608; 3, 61 n.—redundet: 6, 712, ‘Nilus campis redundat.’
604. etiam quoque: 3, 208 n.—non magno, that may not be great; note the lack of a present part. of esse.
605. percipiat, ‘pervade,’ 3, 80 n.—fervoribus: 215.
606. 6, 318, ‘opportuna fuit si forte et idonea flammis.’
607. ardoribus here only in pl. in L.; several times in Cic.
608. quod genus: 3, 221 n.—stipulam with segetes shows that the poet. pl. stipulas was not established in L.’s time (Archiv, 12, 518).
609. accidere, Q; accedere, O; accendere, O corr.; accendi, Flor. 31. See on 2, 1025, and 4, 568.—scintilla: Hieron. Ep. 127, 10, ‘cernentes haeretici de parva scintilla maxima saepe incendia concitari.’—Lotze proposed passam for passim.
610. et: 3, 234 n. Lachm. e.—lampade: 402.
611. caecis: this was noted by Tyndall as an anticipation of modern discoveries. See Adams’ ‘Lucretius and his Science’ in Gentleman’s Magazine, 53, 188 (= Litell’s Living Age, 2620, 726).
612. nullo fulgore explains caecis.
613. aestifer, sc. sol; aestiferiuntum, Q, -tantur, O; aestifer ut tantum, Flor. 31, edd.; aestiferum, Avanc. Woltjer, L. Phil. 271.—tantum (quantum sit).
- 614–649. ‘The reasons for the courses of the sun and moon are obscure. They may be retarded because near the earth; or currents of air may blow them along.’
614. ratio simplex . . . patescit for simpliciter patet qua ratione, etc.; so in Prop. 2, 4, 20, unde tamen veniant tot mala caeca via est for obscura via est qua mala veniant; see Hertzberg there.—et recta, Marull. Bock. Recta ratio is common enough in other authors, as = vera ratio, and recta here is intensive of simplex, which occurs alone in 620. Recta, OQ; nec certa, Lamb., certa being recta with the letters of the first syll. reversed in order. Et certa M. and recent edd.; rellata, Lachm., cf. 620; reclusa, Bern.; reque tecta, Nencini.—patescit: 1, 490 n.
615. partibus of the zodiac; so in 642.—aegocerotis = cāpricorni; hence there is no metrical cogency. Lucan, 9, 537, humidus Aegoceros.
616. flexus = metas, 617.
617. solstitialis: this term was used only of the summer solstice by the ancients: Lucan, 10, 298, ‘consurgere in ipsis | ius tibi solstitiis, aliena crescere bruma;’ see Drakenb. on Livy, 35, 49, 6.—OQ have canceris; Lachm. edd. cancri se.

618. mensibus, 'in monthly periods'; cf. menstrua, 764.

619. annua sol in quo concludit tempora serpens.

620. simplex: one explanation might not satisfy at all times: in fact any such certainty of the laws of natural phenomena was not desired and could not be hoped for. Peace of mind, not scientific accuracy, was the desideratum: τὸ δὲ μᾶλα αἰτιαὶ τούτων ἀποδίδονται, πλεονάχως τῶν φαινομένων ἐκκαλουμένων, μανικόν, Eph. ad Pyth. 113.

621. cum primis, 'in all probability.'

622 = 3, 371. Aet. 2, 23, 7, Δημόκριτος τροπὴν δὲ γνωσθαι ἐκ τῆς περιφεροστῆς αὐτὸν δινήσκει.

623. propter, local; 1, 90 n.

624. caeli turbine: 510 n.

625. illius (turbanis). For the hysteron proteron, see on 535.

626. super, adv.—ideoque: 4, 490 n.—relinqui, 'left behind.'

627. signis of the zodiac. The sun being in Cancer one month, in the next will be found in Leo, so it will be 'left behind' in a constellation nearer the east; hence 'posteriori' as the heaven turns from east to west. See Woltjer, L. Phil. 129, who quotes Hippolytus Philosophumena, 13, 4 (= Diels, Dox. 565), εἶναι τὴν μὲν σελήνην κάτω, ἔπειτα τὸν ἥλιον, εἴτα τοὺς ἀπλανεῖς ἀστέρας· τοὺς δὲ πλανήτας οὐδὲ αὐτὸς ἔχει τονύψος.

628. fervida = summa, but in 642 = aestiva. The highest constellations move quickest, and hence are burning hot.

629. hoc (sole).—lunam (relinqui sententia D. ponit).—eius: 1, 782 n.

630. abest procul: 4, 251, 255; a Lucretian pleonasm.—terrisque: terraeque could have stood metrically: is the pl. generalizing, 'all the earth'? Cf. on 1, 3.

631. tendere, 'keep up.' Aen. 5, 834, 'cursum contendere iussi.'

632. etiam, OQ, defended by Woltjer, Mnem. 27, 54, as introducing a new argument, and also by Heinze on 3, 288. Etenim, Lachm. edd.

633. magis, i.e. celeriter.

634. circum, 'round about'; loosely with signa.

635. haec (luna).

636. mobilius: 2, 65 n.—hanc (mobilius quam solem).—revisunt: Cic. Arat. 337, fugientia signa revisunt. Cf. also on 2, 359.—M. quotes the following illustration from Geminus, Astron. 10: 'If twelve runners are going round in a circle at the same pace and a thirteenth is going the same round at a slower pace, he will appear to be running through those behind him, while in truth they are all passing him; the sun or the moon is this thirteenth; the twelve runners the signs of the zodiac, which are really passing the sun and moon, while these seem to be going through them in the contrary direction.'

637. fit quoque ut . . . possit = potest fieri quoque ut; 3, 715 n. This was a doctrine of Anaximenes and Anaximander; see references in Usener, p. 383, 5, b. Eph. ad Pyth. 93, δύοις δὲ καὶ κατὰ δέρποντες. —transversis, i.e. that cross the sun's path; cf. on 2, 213.

638. alternis . . . alter imply two currents.—alternis: 1, 524 n.

639. solem and lunam, 643, were interchanged by Bentl. and Wakef.

640. 746, 'bruma nives adfert pigrumque rigorem.'

641. frigoris umbris: Georg. 3, 356, ‘semper hiems, semper spirantes frigora Cauri. | tum sol pallentis haud umquam discutit umbras.’ Shade and cold go together in semitropical countries.

642. fervida signa, on 628.

643. stellasque, probably the planets; see Woltjer, 130. Epic. usually mentions the stars with the sun and moon; cf. on 564.

644. volvunt: Aen. 3, 284, ‘magnum sol circumvolvit annum.’ There is no reference to the magnus annus of the Pythagoreans; see on 1, 1029.

645. aeribus, abl. of means; cf. on 4, 291.—alternis with partibus probably; possibly with aeribus.

646. diversis: 3, 105 n.—Cf. on 1, 920.

647. inferna (diversa) supernis: for the syntax, see on 3, 1038, and Roby, 1137; for the juxtaposition, 3, 765 n.

648. qui: 1, 765, qui magis illa queunt and n.—aetheris, carelessly for aeris, which Bock. writes.

649. aestibus: 507 n.

650–655. ‘Night comes when the sun is extinguished, or because he retraces his way below the earth.’

650. caligine terras: same verse ending in Ov. M. 1, 599; 7, 528.

651. de, ‘after,’ 1, 384 n.—ultima, Cambr. edd.; vetima OQ.

652. impulit: Catull. 63, 41, ‘(sol) pepulitque noctis umbris vegetis sonipedibus.’ Albert, appulit.—efflavit: cf. 2, 832, and 5, 758.—This was a theory of Heraclitus; cf. Plato, Rep. 6, 498 a, and Usener, Epic. 383, 3. Ep. ad Pyth. 92, ἀνατολὰς καὶ θύεις ἥλιον καὶ σελήνης καὶ τῶν λοιπῶν δυστρῶν καὶ κατὰ δραγύτινας γενέσθαι δυνατὸν καὶ σβέσιν . . . οὐδὲν γάρ τῶν φαινομένων ἀπιμαρτυρεῖ.

653. itere (for i finire) also in Accius and Varro; see lex.; cf. itiner, 6, 339.

654. ad Pyth. l.c., κατ’ ἐκφάνειά τε ὑπὲρ γῆς καὶ πάλιν ἐπιτροπόθετησιν τὸ προερημένον δύναται ἀν συντελεῖσθαι.

655. via, i.e. turbo, 624.

656–679. ‘Morning comes when the sun returns, or when a new sun is formed at a definite time, just as many other phenomena occur at recurring periods.’

656. Matuta, Pontanus, edd.; natura, OQ; natura, Bock. Br. On Matuta, identified with Aurora and Leucothea, see Wissowa, Relig. u. Cultus d. Römer, 97.—oras aetheris: 2, 1000 n.

657. differit: differre favillam, 2, 676.

658. ille, pleonastic, as frequently in poetry; Dr. § 39.

659. anticipat: Creech paraphrases: radiis antequam ipse appareat praemissis, caelum accendere conatur.—accendere, ‘to cause to glow’; Sil. 15, 678, ‘clipeum . . . accenderet auro.’—temptans with inf. is poetical; cf. 1069 and Dr. § 416, 6.

660. Serv. on Georg. 1, 247, ‘ab ortu colligi scintillas et fieri orbem solis’; Minuc. Felix, 5, 9, ‘sic congregatis ignium seminibus solis alios atque alios semper splendere.’

661. 6, 181, ‘dissipat ardoris quasi per vim expressa repente | semina quae faciunt nictantia fulgura flammæ.’

662. faciunt gigni: cf. 703.—semper: aliusque et idem | nasceris, Hor. CS. 10.

663. Idaensis, in the Troad.—Mela, 94, ‘ex summo vertice eius (Idaei montis) speculantibus paene a medio nocte sparsi ignes passim micare, et ut lux adpropin-quat ita coire ac se coniungere videntur, donec magis magisque collecti pauciores subinde et una ad postremum flamma ardeant. ea cum diu clara et incendio similis effusit, cogit se ac rotundat et fit ingens globus.' — fama: 3, 981 n. — L. had not been there; cf. fertur, 6, 756, and 1, 727 n.

664. orienti lumine, at sunrise; cf. sol ortus, 2, 147; orienti luce, Catull. 64, 376; see also on 1, 282. Lamb. quotes Diod. Sic. 17, 7, 4 (in Usener, Epic. 354), who describes at length this atmospheric phenomenon, due probably to refraction; δρᾶσθαι δὲ τὸν φλοιὸν ἔτι κυκλὸς οὐσίης ἀνατέλλοτα, τὰς αἰγίνας οὐκ ἐν κυκλοτερῖ σχήματι πέμποντα, ἀλλὰ τὴν φλόγα κατὰ πολλοὺς τότεντος ἔχοντα διεσπαρμένην. Cleomedes the Stoic (apud Usener, I.c.) ridicules these explanations: ταῦτα η λεπὰ Ἐπικούρου σοφία ἐξέμερεν (2, 1, p. 107).

665. orbem (solis).

666. Cf. 2, 308 and n.

667. possunt, Lachm. edd. for possit. Lachmann shows that after mirabile quod and the like L. always has the indicative.

668. nitorem: 4, 538, 'aurorae . . . nitore.'

669. certo: 1, 192 n. Note the great skill in repeating the phrase certo tempore in the lines following.

670. florescunt, 'blossom.'

671. arbusta: 1, 187 n. — dimittunt: 3, 339 n. — florem, 'flowering.'

672. in certo: mistaken for incerto in some inf. MSS.; see on 1, 93. — imperat with active inf. occurs first here; the verb only here in L. Cf. Dr. § 441, 6, d. Lamb. comp. suadente, 1, 175. — aetas: 4, 1038, 'adulta aetas . . . roborat artus.'

673. veste: 889, 'molli vestit lanugine malas'; Aen. 8, 160, 'genas vestibat' Cf. vesticeps, investis.

674. pariter: pari parte, 1, 88 and n.

675. Accumulative asynd.; cf. 1192 and on 3, 156.

676. non nimis: see lex. nimir, B. — partibus anni: 1, 181.

677. fuērunt: 474; 3, 86 n.

678. origine prima: 3, 331 n. In general, Epic. ad Herod. 77, 88εν δὴ κατὰ τὰς ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἐναποληθεῖσι τῶν συστροφῶν τούτων ἐν τῷ τοῦ κόσμου γενέσει δεῖ δοξάζειν καὶ τὴν ἀνάγκην ταῦτην καὶ περιόδον συντελεῖσθαι; Epr. ad Pyth. 92, κατὰ τὴν ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἐν τῷ γενέσει τοῦ κόσμου ἀνάγκην ἀπογεννηθεῖσαν.

679. consequē, 'in due sequence'; a brilliant emendation by Lachm. for consequeāt, although ἀπ. λεγ. Cf. on 3, 648. — redeunt, Lachm. edd.; rerum OQ.

680–704. 'The days and nights increase and diminish during the year because either the sun describes a longer or shorter curve in his course below the earth, or because the air is more dense and delays his course, or because fires stream together more slowly at certain parts of the year.'

680. tabescere, an unusual metaphor; Plaut. Stich. 648, quasi nix tabescit dies (Wakef.). — Virgil states the problem, Georg. 2, 481, 'quid tantum Oceano properent se tingere soles | hiberni, vel quae tardis mora noctibus obstet.'

681. luces, lucibus, 688; the pl. is uncommon in the sense 'days,' but occurs several times in Ov. Fasti, and in Manil. — cum: 3, 422 n. — sumant angmina: 2, 188.

682. superne: 1, 496 n.; here = super terras. — Cf. 658.

683. amfractibus: 1, 718 n. Eph. ad Pyth. 98, μήκη νυκτῶν καὶ ἡμερῶν παραλλάξοντα καὶ παρὰ τὸ ταχεῖας ἡλίου κινήσεις γίνεσθαι καὶ πάλιν βραδεῖας ὑπὲρ γῆς.

684. orbem, ‘orbit.’

685. alterutra, or 589.

686. eius (orbis).—adversa parte: Quint. 5, 6, 6, ‘partis adversae iudex eligendus.’ Manil. 3, 619, ‘partibus adversis quae surgunt condita signa | divisumque tenent aequo discrimine caelum; | quae tropica adpellant, quod in illis quattuor anni | tempora vertuntur signis nodosque resolvunt . . . et quanto fraudavit tempore luces | in tantum noctes auget’; id. 637, ‘parte ex adversa brumam Capricornus inertem | per minimas cogit luces et maxima noctis | tempora.’

687. signum of the zodiac where the equator and the ecliptic cross, i.e. Aries, 20th March, Libra, 22d Sept.; see, e.g. Newcomb and Holden, Astron. p. 101 sq.

688. nodus is the knot made by crossing; σύνδεσμος; cf. Manil.—lucibus umbras: Georg. 1, 209, ‘et medium luci atque umbris iam dividit orbem.’ For the juxtaposition, 3, 765 n.

689. medio cursu, loc. abl., ‘in midcourse between’; Madv. LG. 273 b.—flatus aquilonis: the winds are put for north and south; that is, for the summer and winter solstices.

690. caelum, OQ, is nom.; caeli, Marull. Br. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 279 sq.—metas (solis), at the solstices; cf. 617; so Giuss. Note L. 63 sq. Pont. Lachm. Bock., metans.

691. signiferi orbis: Cic. Arat. 317, ‘zodiacum hunc Graeci vocant, nostrique Latini | orbem signiferum perhibebunt’.

692. quo, the zodiac.—concludit, Lachm. edd.; contudit OQ. See on 3, 574. Lachm. and Br. invert the order of 692–693. Goebel, 42, shows that the Ms. order is correct, with whom M. Giuss. Bail. agree.—For the verse, cf. 619.—Cic. Arat. 332, ‘haec sol aeterno convestit lumine lustrans, | annua conficiens vertenti tempora cursu.’—serpens: cf. on 524.

693. obliquo, OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; obliqui, Lachm. Br. The sun’s rays would be ‘slanting’ as regards the ecliptic and equator. Giuss. observes that the adjective should have been expressed with posituram, to which it properly belongs, and thus is another proof that the poet is not discussing the cause of the equinoxes, but of the varying length of day and night; that is, the variation in length of the arc described by the sun above and beneath the earth.

694. eorum: perhaps Hipparchus among other astronomers; his celestial sphere was described by Ptolemy (Flammarion, Astronomical Myths, p. 57).

695. notarunt, ‘mapped’.

696. partibus of the sun’s course beneath the earth.—aer, OQ; *anni * sub*, Br.

697. tremulum iubar: 4, 404 n.—5, 298, tremere ignibus.

698. penetrare potest: common alliteration; 2, 460; 3, 252. This doctrine was Anaximenes’; Stob. 1, 524, ὅτῳ πεντεκραμένου δέρπος καὶ ἀντιτέτου εἶωθούμενα τὰ δοτρα τὰς τροπὰς ποιεῖσθαι (Woltjer, L. Phil. 130).

699. Georg. 2, 482, ‘quae tardis mora noctibus obstet.’

700. ‘Ere the day star rears his radiant front,’ Good. The sun is the diadem of the day. Cf. on 2, 608.

701. sic refers immediately to crassior aer, 696, but ultimately to the hypothesis in 660 sq.

702. et, at one time tardius and at another, citius.

703. faciunt, as in 662. — de surgere, Lamb. Hand, Winck. Hertz (44), Postgate (J. Phil. 19, 288), Cartault (26), Br. in Append.; Giuss.; ed. in AJP. 21, 185. What desurgere (Lachm. M. Bail.) means may be learned by consulting Scrib. Largus, 140, 142.

704. M. infers a lacuna following, like qui faciunt solis nova semper lumina gigni, approved by Br. Giuss. Bail. I do not think L. intended to approve this last hypothesis so strongly. Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 781, ejects the verse, after Goebel, and earlier still, Gifanius. The vulg. before Lachm. put it after 714, changing to faciant. I incline to the spuriousness of the verse.

705-750. ‘The moon may shine with reflected rays of the sun; as she recedes from the sun with light increasing, and diminishing as she reverses her course; or she may shine with her own light, at times being obscured by another body; or she may roll like a ball bright on one side, which may be wholly or partially presented to view; or a new moon may be born every day, just as the seasons come in regular succession.’

705. percussa, Flor. 31, edd.; perculta, OQ; see on 2, 800.—Cf. the quotation in 575 n.

706. inque dies: 4, 1069 n.—id, supplied by Lachm. edd.; maius, old vulg. Could allumen be written? There is a rare verb alluceo; cf. the analogous forms affamen, cognomen, discrimen, examen, adaugmen, 6, 614, adactus, 5, 1330; there is also a mediaeval verb allumino.

707. ad speciem, ‘to look at,’ 724; 4, 236 n.—orbi, also abl. quoted from Varro; cf. on 1, 978. This theory was attributed to Democritus by Woltjer, 133.

708. donique: 2, 1116 n.—eum contra: 4, 484 n.—bene, probably with fusit, according to his usual interlocking; cf. 3, 1071, bene videat, 2, 1090, bene teneas.

709. obitus, acc.; pl. metr. gr.

710. minutatim: 2, 1131 n.—retro (revertens).—quasi, probably with retro, rather than with condere lumen; cf. 4, 433 and n.

711. propius ad: 2, 135 n.

712. orbem, signiferi orbis, 691.

713. faciunt: cf. 1, 783.— fingunt: 1, 371 n.

714. consimilem: 3, 74 n.—cursus viam: 1124, iter viae.

715. est etiam quare possit: cf. 6, 1087, 295, 132.—cum, pleonastic, 1, 287 n. The doctrine of the moon’s independent light was taught by Anaximander, Xenophanes, and others.

716. et = et tamen.—formas, ‘phases,’ 732.

717. The originator of the hypothesis of a dark satellite of the moon is unknown. It is alluded to in Ep. ad Pyth. 94, τε καὶ ἐπιποσθῆταις. It was a doctrine of Anaximenes and Anaxagoras.

718. Note the alliteration.—occursans officiensque: 1, 337 n.

719. cerni, ‘distinguished.’—cassum: 4, 368 n.

720. versari: cf. 477.—si, OQ, edd.; sit, Lachm. after Dousa. Si forte = fortasse. This doctrine was held by Berossus (Vitr. 9, 2, 1), ‘qui ab Chaldaeorum civitate sive natione progressus in Asia etiam disciplinam Chaldaicam patefecit, ita est professus (lunam) pilam esse ex dimidia parte carentem, reliqua habere caeruleo colore. cum autem cursum itineris sui peragens sub orbem solis, tunc eam radiis et impetu caloris corripi convertique carentem propter eius proprietatem lumina ad lunam. cum autem evocata ab solis orbi superiore spectet, tum inferiorem partem eius quod candens non sit propter aeris similitudinem obscurare videri'; ad Pyth. l.c., κατὰ στροφὴν τοῦ σώματος.

721. parti: 1, 1111 n.—tinctus: 6, 173, lumine tingunt; Aen. 11, 913, gurgite Phœbus Hibero | tinguit equos.

722. edere, 'present.'

723. quaecumque, Christ, 25, quae cuncta; cf. on 2, 905.—aucta: 3, 626 n.

724. ad speciem: cf. 707.—vertit, perfect; cf. convertit, 6, 643.—oculosque patentis, 3, 655.

725. Cf. 710.

726. glomeraminis: cf. on 2, 453. Note the hendiadys.

727. Babylonica: Hor. C. 1, 11, 2, 'nec Babylonios | temptaris numeros.'—Chaldaeum, gen., 1, 1 n.; the reference is to Berosus, and his followers in Italy.—refutans: 1, 623, 'ratio reclamat vera.'

728. astrologorum, 'astronomers'; the meaning 'astrologers' was later differentiated.—artem, 'system.'

729. proinde quasi: cf. 4, 812, and for the sentiment, 4, 499, 'proinde quod in quoquest his visum tempore, verumst.' Albert, quasi haud.—pugnat, 'fights for,' see lex. B, and cf. 2, 205, the nearest Lucretian parallel.

730. hoc, acc.—ausis, 6, 412, ausis contendere. Epicurean indifference to either explanation, provided either one be correct. 735 might well be taken with 730.

731. nova: Epic. mentions the sun and moon together for this hypothesis; see on 652. Heraclitus had taught the same, if the inference is justified from Aetius, 2, 28, 6, 'Ηράκλειος τὸ αὐτὸν πεποθέναι τὸν ἥλιον καὶ τὴν σελήνην'. Martha, 244, comments on L.'s skill in treating this ridiculous assumption, and avoidance of the inevitable question as to what becomes of the old moons.

732. ordine, 'succession.'—figuris, 'phases.'—Notice the chiasmus and tau-tology.

733. inque: 3, 3 n.—privos: 3, 372 n.—aborisci, OQ, Camb. Gif. Wakef. edd. after the analogy of fatisci, ulcisci, etc., although ἄπ. λεγ. Q corr. has abolisci. Cf. on 3, 155.—quaequa (luna).

734. parte locoque, 'place and stead.' For pars, 'function,' see lex., but in parte in this sense seems unexampled.

735. difficilest: cf. 1168.—vincere: 2, 748 n.; pervincere dictis above, 99, Georg. 3, 289, 'verbis ea vincere magnum.'

736. possint, supplied by Lachm. from 750; videas before him. A repetition of the argument in 669 sq.

737. Veneris, OQ, edd. Kraetsch, 76; veris, Bentl. Wakef. Lachm.—praenuntius, Cupid. In general cf. Hor. C. 4, 7, 9, 'frigora mitescunt Zephyris, ver proterit aestas, | interitura simul | pomifer autumnus fruges effuderit, et mox | bruma recurrit iners.' Bryant, Order of Nature: 'Still sweet with blossoms is the year's fresh prime; | Her harvests still the ripening summer yields, | Fruit-laden Autumn follows in his time, | And rainy Winter waters still the fields'; and for Lessing's criticism, see Introd. 43. Siebelis, QL. 54, well interprets: 'it ver et Venus eiusque praenuntius Cupido quibus Flora colores suos praespargit, ipsa rursus Zephyri vestigiis adhaerens'; Horace mentions (C. 1, 32, 9) Veneremque et illi semper haerentem puerum. For the relation of Venus to spring, cf. 1, 10 sq. 'The seasons pass like figures in some frieze of Mantegna, to which, by divine accident, has been added the glow of Titian's colouring,' Symonds, South. Europe, 364.

738. pennatus, 1075, pinnigeri amoris; Cic. ND. 3, 58, pinnatum Cupidinem. — zephyri, OQ, edd.; sephyrus, Marull. vulg. Lachm. Genitabilis aura favoni, 1, 11. Cf. Unger, Jahrb. 141, 494, who defends the Ms. reading. Symonds, l.c., criticises unfavorably Botticelli's painting of Primavera in the Academy at Florence, which was suggested by this Lucretian passage: 'graceful and subtle, but not Lucretian.' (Photograph of Primavera in Masters in Art, Boston, 1900.) — propter: 1, 90 n.

739. Flora mater, also in Cic. Verr. 5, 36. — quibus, Ver, Venus, and Cupid. — praespargens, dw. ley. — viae cuncta: 1, 86 n.

740. Note the beauty of the rhythm due to diaeresis after the 2d and 5th feet, with caesuras in the 1st and 4th accompanied by alliteration in the first two, middle two, and last two words, and the assonance coloribus, odoribus.

741. inde loci: 443 n. — calor, for 'summer'; 1, 174 n.

742. pulverulenta Ceres: Georg. 1, 66, pulverulenta aestas. — et, Marull. edd. — etesia fibra aquilonum is repeated in 6, 730. — etesia, reversal to the adj. of etesiae, sc. animae, 'trade winds from the north,' on which see 6, 716.

743. graditrus, walks in procession; cf. 738. — Euhius Euan: on the occurrence of this title of Dionysus, see Lachmann's note. Enn. Ann. 424 had 'aestatem autumnus sequitur, post acer hiemps it,' and Sc. 125, 'tum pariter euhan euhoe euhium.' Perhaps we should write Euhas here for Euan.

744. inde following inde in 743: see on 3, 822. — tempestates, ('windy) seasons': 1, 178 n.

745. altitonans had been used by Ennius; so altivolans, 433; both failed to meet with general approval. — Volturnus: Sen. N.Q. 5, 16, 'ab oriente hiberno eurus exit quem nostri vocavere volturnum . . . venti adiutorio ac fulgoris prae-stringentis oculos . . . eurus iam civitate donatus est.' Although Volturnus was a sirocco in summer, it was after 17 Sept. a storm wind with thunder and lightning; cf. Preller, Röm. Myth.<sup>2</sup> 1, 330, 1, and 2, 143, 1. So in L.'s manner altivolans and fulmine pollens are synonymous.

746. pigrumque rigorem: gelidum in 640. Hor. C. 1, 22, 17, pigris campis; id. 4, 7, 12, bruma iners.

747. reddit, Flor. 31, Camb. M. Giuss. Bail.; didit, Bergk, Br.; prodit Lachm.; redit, OQ. Reddit, 'brings again'; the cold increases after Christmas. — crepitans dentibus: crepito dentibus, Plaut. Rud. 536 (Lamb.). — hanc, Q, ac, O. — algor, Lachm. Br. Bail., cf. 3, 623; algi OQ, cf. 3, 732; algus, Wakef. Bergk, M. Giuss.; algus, Lamb. — Spenser, F. Q. 7, 31, 'Lastly came Winter cloathed all in frize | Chattering his teeth for cold that did him chill; | Whilst in his hoary beard his breath did freeze'; cf. also Cantos 28-39. — Laus Pisonis, 149, 'cessat hiems madidos et siccata vere capillos; | ver fugit aestates; aestatum terga lassisit | pomifer autumnus, nivibus cessurus et undis.' (Algor may have displaced some anteclass. adj. meaning 'icy' now lost — unless it be that hiems algus = hiems gelida be retained; the thought then would be, ‘finally winter brings the snow again and numbing frost restores: her the icy winter storm follows with teeth rattling with cold’; the punctuation would then be rigorem reddit; hiemps sequitur . . . † algī.)

748. minus mirum, ‘by no means certain,’ but merely possible.—certo tempore marks the return to the main argument.

749. rusus: 3, 1001 n.

750. tam modifies multa; cf. 736.

751–770. ‘Eclipses of the sun and moon may be due to several causes: the one may be obscured by the moon or the other by the earth; or unknown dark bodies may shut off their light that may be quenched at certain times or in certain places.’ (They do not come divinitus—the most important matter.)

751. item quoque: cf. 6, 756–757.—Georg. 2, 478, ‘defectus solis varios lunaeque labores.’

752. pluribus, emphatic.

753. This theory is ascribed to Thales, and was generally followed in antiquity.

754. a terris, ‘earthwards’; cf. 1332, and on 1, 693. Other examples in Thes. 1, 22, 7 sq.—caput (lunae).—ei (soli). For the spondee ei, see on 3, 556 n.

755. orbem (lunae).

756. 1045, ‘tempore eodem alii facere id non quisse putentur,’ and 765 below.—aliut corpus: Ep. ad Pyth. 96, “Ἐκλεψις ἡλίου καὶ σελήνης δύναται μὲν γίνεσθαι καὶ κατὰ σβέσιν, καθάπερ καὶ ταρ' ἡμῖν τούτῳ θεωρεῖται γινόμενον· καὶ οὐδὲ κατ' ἐπιπροσθέτησιν διλλων τινῶν, οὐ γῆς οὐ οὐρανοῦ ἀ (δοράτου, coni. Usener) τινος ἑτέρου τοιούτου and the scholioum ἡλίου ἐκλείπειν σελήνης ἐπισκοπούσης, σελήνην δὲ τοῦ τῆς γῆς σκιδόσματος, διλλὰ καὶ κατ' ἀναχώρησιν. This theory of dark bodies was advocated by Anaximenes and Anaxagoras; cf. Usener, p. 385.—tempore eodem, merely logical = tamen; cf. interea, 394.

757. cassum lumine: cf. 719 and n.—labatur: 1, 2 n.

758. sol languidus: Chamisso’s ‘entnervte Sonne’ is compared by Schwartz, Jahrb. 109, 370. Cf. also on 1, 651.—dimittere: κατὰ σβέσιν, ad Pyth. and cf. 652.—The theory was advocated by Xenophanes and Metrodorus (Usener, 385).

759. tempore certo, because eclipses were sometimes predicted.

760. flammis infesta: cf. 770, and 2, 521 n.

761. faciunt interstingui: 3, 100 n. Except in Ap. M. 4, 12, only the pf. partic. occurs, and the Lucretian meaning ‘extinguish’ is found also but once, and that in the Apuleian passage.

762. spoliare lumine: 4, 377 n.

763. super, adv.; 1, 649 n. (Perhaps supera—suggested by Gif.—should be read, thus referring to the position of the earth and contrasted with oppressum: the earth is ‘on top’ in the combat.)—ipsa (terra).—tenere, ‘keep’ from illuminating the moon.

764. menstrua: the nights during every month when there is no moon, and the occasional eclipse of the full moon. L. is superbly careless of astronomical accuracy and of his own consistency. ‘If her orbit lay in the plane of the ecliptic, there would be an eclipse every full moon.’—It is possible that menstrua may mean here luna; cf. Georg. 1, 353, ‘quid menstrua luna moneret.’ Duff, p. xxviii, conveniently summarizes the doctrine of modern astronomers: ‘Eclipses can only occur when the moon happens to be near one of the nodes of her orbit, i.e. those points where her orbit intersects the ecliptic. An eclipse of the sun can only occur at new moon, when the moon is between the sun and the earth; an eclipse of the moon, at full moon, when the moon is on the side of the earth opposite to the sun, and passes through the cone of the earth's shadow.' — rigidas, 'rigid,' i.e. well defined. Wakef. comp. Poet in Cic. Tusc. I, 37, 'ubi rigida constat crassa caligo inferum,' and also Septuagint, Exodus 10, 21,  $\psi\lambda\alpha\phi\eta\tau\delta\sigma\kappa\beta\sigma\delta$ . — coni, formed by the shadow of the earth.

765. succurrere, 'pass under,' an unexampled meaning, but somewhat similar to the use in Varro, LL. 5, 48, 'pagus Succusanus quod succurrit Carinis.'

766. perlabier in the 5th foot; 3, 67 n.

767. interrumpat: 287 n. — lumenque profusum: 570.

768. et tamen: 3, 51 n. — fulget: 2, 27 n. Fulgit, Lamb. Lachm.

769. languescere, sol languidus, 758. Tac. Ann. I, 28, tuna . . . visa languescere.

770. Cf. 760. — per is postpositive in 4, 597; 6, 1264; cf. on 3, 24.

771 = 764, omitted by most edd. Van d. Valk would retain 771 and omit 764 for the symmetry of 753–757, 758–761, 762–767, 768–771.

772–782. 'Having explained the courses of the sun and moon, I now return to the infancy of the earth and its first fruits.'

772. caerulea mundi: cf. I, 1090 and n. and Introd. 44. — magni mundi: 2, 1144; 5, 433, 454, 1204; 6, 493, 565.

773. quicquid = quicque: 3, 619 n. — resolvi: cf. exsolvere, 2, 381; dissolvi, OQ, 6, 46.

774. Cf. 76.

775. vis et causa ciceret: I, 238, 'vis causaque conficeret,' and n.

776. quove = quoque, 3, 34 n. — possent, Brix. edd. — offecto: 2, 156 n. — obire: 4, 433.

777. neque opinantis: neque op. for nec op. is said to occur in the continuators of Caesar, but is otherwise very rare. — obducere: 207 and n.

778. quasi conivent, unexampled metaphor. — lumine, here 'eye'; cf. 4, 1143.

779. Note alliteration. — convisunt: I, 145 n. — candida is predicate, 'made brilliant.'

780. redeo with reference to 330 and the astronomical interruption, 509 sq. — mundi novitatem: 818, 943. — mollia, 'tender.'

781. fetu: I, 193 n. — luminis oras, 'existence,' I, 22 n. Tellus cuncta creavit, 2, 1151.

782. incertis: cf. 504. — crerint, Orelli, edd. for credunt; archaic for decreverint, 393 n. Georg. 2, 332, 'inque novos soles audent se germina tuto | credere'; Aen. II, 560, 'dubius committitur auris'; id. 10, 69, 'vitam committere ventis.'

783–820. 'First came the grass and trees; then animals were produced by mother earth; birds were hatched and infants were born and nourished.'

783. Principio, at the beginning of a great division of the argument; cf. I, 271 n. — genus herbarum, all green verdure.

784. collis, 'the hillsides'; cf. 1373. — camposque per omnes: the same verse close in Aen. 2, 498; Ov. Hal. 81.

785. florida, novitas florida mundi, 943. — viridanti: 2, 33 n. — This theory, which was advocated by Oken, attempts to account for the production of flora and fauna by the process of development ; all existing substances are derived from atoms under the action of natural law ; cf. Buchanan, Mod. Atheism, 62.

786. arboribus : 'Εμπεδοκλῆς πρῶτα τὰ δένδρα τῶν ἵψων ἐκ γῆς ἀραδῦναι φησι, Aetius, 5, 26. — exinde may be local, but is probably temporal ; cf. ubi, 809.

787. inmissis habenis : Georg. 2, 363, 'dum se laetus ad auras | palmes agit laxis per purum inmissis habenis' ; cf. Aen. 5, 662 ; 6, 1 ; Ov. M. 1, 280. — 'In the ancient teachings of Empedocles we find the germ of the theory of the Survival of the Fittest, or of Natural Selection. Empedocles was an evolutionist only in so far as he taught the gradual succession of the less by the more perfect forms of life. He had a dim adumbration of the truth. . . . He modified the abiogenetic hypothesis, and by happy conjecture gave his theory a semblance of modern evolution with four sparks of truth : first, that the development of life was a gradual process ; second, that plants were evolved before animals ; third, that imperfect forms were gradually replaced (not succeeded) by perfect forms ; fourth, that the natural cause of the production of perfect forms was the extinction of the imperfect,' Osborn, From the Greeks to Darwin, 39 sq. 'It has been suggested that the origin of flora may be first accounted for by the action of some element on a certain mucus generated at the point where the ocean comes into contact with the earth and air ; that is, on the shore at low-water mark,' Buchanan, 65.

788. primum . . . creatur, i.e. the first growth. — This is a comparison, not a reason.

789. membbris . . . corpore, synonymous ; 3, 112 n. — pennipotentum : 2, 878 n. Note the chiasmus.

790. nova tellus : primis terris, Hor. S. 1, 3, 99.

791. inde loci : 443 n. — mortalia saecula, 'living beings' ; 2, 1153 n. Animalia, Br., because elsewhere in L. mortalia refers to men ; volantia, Cartault ; Cic. ND. 3, 29, 'mortale igitur omne animal.' — creavit : 1, 709. S. Austin, CD. 12, 12, 'sic ut ipsum mundum ex materia sua renasci existimant ita in illo ex elementis eius genus humanum ac deinde a parentibus progeniem pullulare mortalium, sicut aliorum animalium.' Martineau, Ethical Theory, 1, 393, speaks of 'atoms practising their first experiments in morphology and working up their patent organic cells into seaweed, ferns, and forests.'

792. multa modis multis varia ratione : 1, 341. — coorta, 3, 15 n.

793. de caelo : cf. 2, 1154.

794. salsis lacunis : in the Borgian biography it is said that Cicero warned L. to avoid bold metaphors, one being Neptuni lacunas, which is nowhere found in the poem. It is noticeable that salsis might have replaced Neptuni in this verse ; ad Her. 4, 15, 'si praeceps in Neptunias depulsus erit lacunas.' Cf. C.I.R. 10, 19. — The theory was advanced by Anaximander and later expressed by the phrase omne vivum ex aqua : the fish lost their scales after becoming land animals ; the first beginnings of the theory of descent are found in him : Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, 1, 534 ; Ueberweg-Heinze, Gesch. Phil. 1, § 13. — Vahlen, Sitz. Berl. Akad. 32, 717, arguing from Serv. Aen. 2, 173, finds a reminiscence of Ennius here.

795. linquitur ut : cf. 2, 914. — The poet has not really exhausted all hypotheses. — maternum : 'Sacred Goddess, Mother Earth, | Thou from whose immortal bosom | Gods and men and beasts have birth, | Leaf and blade and bud and blossom,'

Shelley. Cf. on 2, 598, and the close parallel, 2, 998. Gneisse and Tohte, Jakrb. 119, 546, reject 795–796 as an interpolation; refuted by Lohmann, 44.

796. Vulgate, Genesis, I, 24, ‘producat terra animam viventem in genere suo, iumenta et reptilia et bestias terrae.’

797. On spontaneous generation, see 3, 719 n.

798. calido vapore: 3, 126 n.—concreta: 3, 20 n.

799. minus mirum: cf. 748.

800. aethere: 907, caeloque recenti.—adulta with plura; ‘alescendi summum tetigere cacumen,’ 2, 1130.

801. genus alituum: 2, 928 n.—variaeque volucres: 1, 589 n.—Giuss, brackets 801–804 as interrupting the argument, and 805 as a variant of 791; and in his Note L. 65 compares 2, 76–79, an interjected reference to men. Martha, 233, well remarks that in these problems science is no more wise than fable, and philosophy may be permitted to err.

802. ova: where did they come from? Aristotle, Gen. Anim. 3, p. 655, says if the earth generated animals, they were either produced as worms out of putrefaction or formed of eggs growing out of the earth (Cudworth, 2, 99).—exclusae: Cic. ND. 2, 124, and Col. 8, 5, ‘pulli . . . exclusi.’—Duff quotes Shaksp. Hamlet, 5, 1, 310, ‘The female dove, when that her golden couplets are disclosed.’—verno, the time of birth, 1, 10 sq.; continuous in the novitas mundi.

803. 4, 58, ‘cum teretis ponunt tunicas aestate cicadae.

804. victum vitamque: 1080, 1105; Plaut. Capt. 493; a frequent alliterative combination; Wölfflin, Allit. Verbind. and Kraetsch, 36.

805. mortalia saecla here includes men; cf. 823.—primum, i.e. tempore verno; passim, Lachm.; proavum, Christ, 25; partu, Bock. Polle, AV. 60, would transfer the verse to follow 796; Masson, At. Th. 73, finds a lacuna after 804. L. is again circling about his subject.

806. superabat: note the continuous action throughout the description.—arvis: he has agros at the close of the verse in 973, 1104, 1366; 6, 642, 1139; in Aen. 8, 695, the unploughed sea is called arva Neptunia. Cf. L. 2, 1154; 3, 785.

807. hoc, ‘therefore’; 4, 360 n.

808. uteri: Empedocles, 439 D., αὐτοσθαι δὲ ὑπὸ τοῦ ἐν τῷ γῇ θερμοῦ διαιρόμενα, δῶτε γῆς εἶναι μέρη, καθάπερ καὶ τὰ θυμφύα τὰ ἐν τῷ γαστρὶ τῆς μήτρας μέρη. Censorinus, 4, 9, ‘Epicurus creditit limo calfacto uteros nescio quos radicibus terrae cohaerentes primum increvisse et infantibus ex se editis ingenitum lactis umorem natura ministrante praebuisse, quos ita educatos et adultos genus humanum propagasse.’ Anaximander, Parmenides, Diogenes of Apollonia, and Democritus all taught the procreation of living beings from the earth (Zeller, Stoics, etc., 451). Critolaus observed (Philo, Quod Mund. Incorr. p. 945) that he might as well have feigned the earth to have had breasts and nipples too as wombs and milk; and then what should hinder but that she might have arms and hands and swaddling bands to boot? (Cudworth, 2, 101).—apti = adepti; cf. 1, 448.

809. aetas, Marull. edd.; aestas, OQ; aestus, Lachm. M. There was no summer in the spring of the world, and aetas (= maturity) seems the easiest correction.

810. infantum, the form here only in L.—petessens, 3, 648 n. Note its agreement with the periphrasis; it could not well go with aestus.

811. ibi: 2, 75 n.; it is local.—foramina: cf. 457.
812. cogebat (terram) fundere: 3, 197 n.
813. lactis: Archelaus, who had great influence on Epicurus (DL. 10, 12), taught (DL. 2, 17), γερῶσθαι τὰ ἔμα ἐκ θερμῆς τῆς γῆς καὶ ίδον ταρατληστας γέλακτι οἰορ τροφὴν ἀνεῖσθαι. οὐρώ δὲ καὶ ἀνθρώπους ποιήσαι. In the golden age, flumina iam lactis, iam flumina nectaris ibant, Ov. M. 1, III. Lact. Inst. 2, 11, quotes 808 and paraphrases the rest: terram ipsam humore quodam, qui eset lacti similis, exuberasse, etc.; and he goes on to show that omnis illa ratio impossibilis et vana est. See also Masson, At. Th. 74.
814. dulci, an occasional epithet of lacte; γλυκύ in Homer. Cf. on 1, 886.
815. impetus, 'rush,' current.—alimenti, here only in L.; usually cibus atque humor, as in 4, 1091. Vitr. 2, 9, 1, 'ex omnibus cibi potestatisibus detrahit alimentum in se.'—'But if men had been at first formed after this manner, there is no reason imaginable why it should not sometimes so happen now, the motions of the atoms being as brisk and vigorous as they were, and so to continue to all eternity; so that there is not the least ground at all for that precarious fancy and pretence of Epicurus, that the earth, as a child-bearing woman growing old, became at length effete and barren,' Cudworth, 2, 100.
816. pueris, the next step in age from infantum, 810. Wakef. comp. Ov. AA. 2, 475, 'silva domus fuerat, cibus herba, cubilia frondes.' Gudeman regards Tac. Germ. 46, vestitui pelles cubile humus, as showing common imitation of Posidonius, of which I see only possibility but not certainty; cf. 1243 n. and APA. 31, 108.
817. abundans: neuter.
818. at, 'but (as some may have thought)'; cf. 18.—dura, the cold was young and tender like everything else.—Aen. 4, 563, 'res dura et regni novitas.'
819. viribus is abl. of quality.
820. pariter crescunt: p. cresci, 3, 747.
- 821–836. 'So the earth was and is mother, but now she is effete, for all things change.' This does not seem finished in its relation to the context, and Giuss. suspects that it does not belong to the first redaction.
821. Cf. 2, 998.—etiam atque etiam, 3, 228 n.
822. tenet: 4, 972, frustrata tenere.
823. animal: here only as sing. noun in L. (unless in 4, 740); animalia in 917. The MSS. have anima, Marull. edd. animal, but Wakef. animans.—prope: Hor. S. 1, 3, 98, 'iusti prope mater et aequi.'—fudit: cf. 225.
824. magnis montibus: 1, 201 n. V. Ecl. 6, 40, 'rara per ignaros errent animalia montis.'
825. aerias volucres: 1, 12 and n.—formis, probably with reference to their beauty; cf. 801.
826. Why spontaneous generation is now limited. — debet: this begs the question.
827. 2, 1150, 'effetaque tellus | vix animalia parva creat quae cuncta creavit.'
828. totius: 3, 97 n.
829. status: 3, 1074 n. and 835 below.—excipere: the preposition is pregnant, 'in succession'; cf. extollere, 3, 1.
830. sui similis: 6, 1124.—migrant: 3, 757 n. For the epanalepsis, cf. Catull. 64, 186, 'omnia muta | omnia sunt deserta.'

831. Cf. 1276. — vertere: 4, 1130 n.

832. 2, 77, ‘augescunt aliae gentes, aliae minuuntur.’ — putrescit: 307. — debile languet: 4, 951, ‘debile fit corpus languescunt omnia membra.’

833. succrescit, Lachm. in notes for crescit, OQ, adopted by Crousié, Bail, Clarescit, edd. after Lachm., cf. clarescere, 1456, for crescere. But cf. also succedit, 1278, and consider the great rarity of succresco. — e, Itali.

834. Cf. 828.

835. Cf. 829. — alter, 4, 688 n.

836. tulit ut, Bentl. Br. Giuss. Bail. Christ; potuit nequeat, OQ, Lamb. Wakef.; pote uti nequeat, Lachm.; quod potuit nequit ut, M.; potuit negitat, potis est, Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 325; potuit nequit et potis est, L. Müller, Phil. 15, 162, and Paulson with at for et. — nequeat (ferre) . . . possit (ferre).

837–854. ‘Nature at first produced many deformed and incomplete beings, which passed away because incapable of life and propagation [being out of harmony with their environment].’

837. portenta are also described in 2, 700 sq. — Empedocles, Epicurus, and L. seek the explanation of progress in the union of heterogeneous forms, while the modern evolutionists find it rather in the successive differentiation of simple forms. Nature tried all possible combinations until one was found capable of life and propagation; see Lange, Materialism, 2, 35. Paley, Nat. Theol. Vol. 5, p. 44 (Works, 1825), on the other hand, says there is no foundation whatever for this conjecture in anything which we observe in the works of nature; no such experiments are going on at present . . . nor are there any appearances to support an opinion that every possible combination of vegetable or animal structure has formerly been tried.

838. conastast, she tried her ‘prentice hand. So the atoms, 190 sq. — coorta, 3, 15 n. — Ov. M. 1, 436, ‘edidit innumeratas species, partimque figuratas | rettulit antiquas, partim nova monstra creavit.’

839. androgynum, the man-woman, ἀνδρόγυνος: ‘hermaphroditos vocamus, olim androgynos vocatos et in prodigiis habitos,’ Pliny, 7, 34. The MSS. have here androgynem inter utras nec utramque utrumque; the reading adopted is due to Lachm. and his predecessors, except interutrasque, M., for which see on 2, 518. — nec utrum: 4, 1217 n. — Ov. M. 4, 378, ‘nec femina dici | nec puer ut possit, neutrumque et utrumque videntur.’ — utrimque: cf. 3, 335. — Hor. Ep. 1, 18, 9, utrimque reductum. Grasberger proposed neutroque. — ‘Res monstrosas versu monstroso,’ Wakef.

840. orba, etc.: 2, 838 n. — Georg. 4, 310, trunca pedum. — partim: 3, 78 n. — viduata, lex. quotes Vitr. 5, 7, 7, ingenii viduatus; Georg. 4, 518, viduata pruinis. This theory goes back to Parmenides, Anaximander, and Empedocles. Parmenides thought that single limbs were first produced which afterwards formed junctions together (Ritter, Hist. Phil. tr. Morrison, 1838, p. 464). Empedocles, 238 (61 D.) πολλὰ μὲν ἀμφιπρώτα καὶ ἀμφίστερα φύεσθαι, | βουγενῆ ἀνδρόπερφα, τὰ δὲ θηταλιές ἔξαντελλειν | ἀνδροφυῆ βούκραν, μεμεγμένα τῷ μὲν ἀπὸ ἀνδρῶν, | τῷ δὲ γυναικοφυῆ, σκιεροῖς ἡσημένα γυνοῖς.

841. volutu, ‘face,’ i.e. eyes. Emped. 234, διμάτα θ' οἰα πλανάτο περγεβόρρα μετώπων. Lamb. suggested visu. — reperta, here a substitute for the missing participle of esse; cf. 1, 247.

842. vincita membrorum adhaesu is the order.—adhaesu: 3, 381 n.
843. nec ut . . . nec: cf. 871–872.
844. foret usus: 1, 184 n.
- 845 nearly = 4, 590.
846. nequiquam: 4, 464 n.—absterruit: 4, 1064 n.—2, 1121, ‘hic natura suis refrenat viribus auctum.’
847. cupitum: the implication is that of 1, 20, ‘ut cupide generatim saecla propagent’; cupio and its derivatives frequently have this suggestion in L.—aetatis tangere florem, repeated from 3, 770, where see nn.
848. Veneris res: 2, 173. Lact. Op. D. 6, ‘eas permanere non potuisse quod illas aut sumendi cibi facultas aut coeundi generandique ratio defecisset.’
849. The only hypermetric verse in L.; for other poets, see Gild.-Lodge, LG. 784, 13; L. Müller, RM. 295.
850. prōpagando: 1, 195 n.—procudere saecla: cf. 856 and on 3, 1081.
851. pabula, probably metr. gr. for cibus, 848; cf. 944. It stands for means of existence generally, and therefore of continuance in life. Val. Fl. 4, 450, ‘Harpyiae semper mea pabula servant.’
852. remissa, Lachm. edd.; remissis, OQ, Lamb. M. Lambin’s interpretation was deinde ut sit via qua genitalia semina per artus, membris relaxatis, manare possint. For remissa is cited, 4, 1041; for remissis, 4, 1114, Ov. M. 4, 229: according to the MSS. the thought would have been deinde qua genitalia semina per artus possint {ejecta sedibus} membris manare {membris} remissis, which is grotesque; hence the correction seems necessary.
853. habere {utrumque}, OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; avere, Lachm. Br.
854. Cf. 1, 167.—mutua gaudia: 4, 1205.—qui, abl.; 1, 700 n.—mutent, Bern. edd.; metuent, OQ; mutuaque insinuant, Lachm.—inter se mutent: 1, 787.
- 855–877. ‘Many races of animals have perished because they could not protect themselves, and were not protected by men.’—855–877 is bracketed by Br. after Woltjer as interrupting the argument. It is an episode.
855. tum, later within the early period.—animantium, more indefinite than animalium: Polle, AV. 36.—‘There is here no implication of the peculiarly Darwinian doctrine of descent or development of kind from kind, with structure modified and complicated to meet changing circumstances. Natural selection of those species which were favored by their qualities or by circumstances in the competition for life is no doubt affirmed by Epicurus as it had been by Empedocles and others before him’; Wallace, Epic. 114.—saecla = genera; 2, 1079 n.
856. Cf. 850. Note alliteration, and cf. on 1, 257.
857. vitalibus auris: 3, 577. Aen. 1, 546, ‘si vescitur aura | aetheria’; id. 1, 387, ‘auras | vitalis carpis.’—Cf. 2, 1127 and n.
858. dolus aut virtus: cf. 3, 741–742.—denique, ‘at least’; cf. on 1, 278. Hor. S. 1, 2, 133, ‘ne nummi perceant aut puga aut denique fama’ (M.).—mobilitas, ‘swiftness,’ 2, 65 n.
859. ex ineunte aeo: 3, 344 n.—Tutata est reservans id genus is the order. Tutata, Itali.
860. multaque {saecla}.

861. commendata: cf. 1021 and Cic. Fam. 7, 17, 2, 'ei te commodavi et tradidi.' — manent, 'live'; 1, 363 n.
862. genus acre leonum: 3, 741, 'acris violentia triste leonum | seminium sequitur'; Ov. F. 4, 215, 'genus acre leones'; Georg. 3, 264, 'g. a. luporum.' — saecula (alia), e.g. apri, 1326.
863. Cic. ND. 2, 127, 'cornibus tauri apri dentibus morsu leones; aliae fuga se, aliae occultatione tutantur.' See 3, 741 and n.
864. levissimma, dx. λεγ. — fido: 6, 1222, fida canum vis. Hor. C. 1, 1, 27, catalis fidelibus. L. liked dogs. — corda, 'courageous hearts.' Cf. 3, 294–295, 'acria corda | iracundaque mens' and nn. there. — cum: 1, 287 n.
865. veterino, of beasts of burden (veho), particularly of horses; cf. 890.
- 866 = 6, 1237 (1245) nearly. — bucura: 2, 663 n.
867. tradita (a natura).
868. fugere (pecudes et saecula), but secutae of OQ is retained by Wakef. Orelli; secuta, Lamb. edd. — V. Ecl. 2, 64, 'cystum sequitur lasciva capella.' See on 1, 156.
869. pabula, acc. — suo sine labore: the food was given as a reward for their service.
870. praemia, 'recompense.'
871. quis: 4, 798 n. — horum: means of self-preservation or usefulness to man. — ipsa (saecula).
872. sponte sua: 1, 214 n. — ut is deferred for metrical convenience and to keep ipsa with sponte sua. Cf. also 6, 784, 887, 1064, 1214 (e coni. 2, 547).
873. qua re = ut propter eam rem. — eorum, with genus.
874. esseque: 1, 973 n.
875. scilicet, 'I say.' — iacebant, 'lay exposed.' There are some remarks on this struggle for existence in Martha, 254.
876. indupedita: 1, 240 n. — fatalibus = naturalibus; only here in L.; cf. on 2, 254.
877. genus id: cf. 859.
- 878–924. 'Animals of a twofold nature are impossible, for each nature has its own law of development and conditions of existence. The earth in its freshness produced much, but not such as these.'
878. Centauri: cf. 4, 732, 739; 2, 921 sq. — fuērunt: 3, 86 n. — tempore in ullo: 1, 26 n. Cic. ND. 1, 108, 'quid quod earum rerum quae numquam omnino fuerunt neque esse potuerunt ut Syllae ut Chimaerae?' The argument is directed against Empedocles as well as against popular fallacies of 'mixedly boviform and hominiform — biform and trifrom animals'; Cudworth, 2, 80.
879. bino: 4, 451 n. Simplicius, Aenigm. 39, 'Centaurus: Quattuor insignis pedibus manibusque duabus, | dissimilis mihi sum, quia sum non unus et unus, | et vehor et gradior, quia me duo corpora portant.' Manil. 4, 230, 'bifero centauri corpore.'
880. alienigenis: 1, 865 n. — compacta: 2, 446; 5, 919.
881. partis ut non par, Br.; parvis ut non sit pars, O, sat, Q; partis ut si par, Lachm.; parilis quis non superesse, Bern.; visque ut non sat par, M.; par, vis ut sat par, Giuss.; parilis quib' non parta, Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 280; animantium hinc illinc partis ut par vis, Leutsch, Phil. 12, 292 and 26, 528; animantium hinc

illinc par vis ut partibus, Brandt; parti ut par si pars, Polle, AV. 35; h. i. par vis ut non (or sat) par e. p., Ellis, Cl.R. 11, 205; parvis ut sat par, Cartault, 90. ‘Si varias scripturas proponere vellem totam paginam implerem,’ Lamb., who suggests par vis ut non pari, and approves Turnèbe’s par vis ut non sic. No proposed emendation is altogether satisfactory: the objection to Brieger’s is the ambiguity of partis and non, and the omission of sat, but all the other suggestions are unintelligible; Bailey †.—partis is the participle, sc. membris. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 133, thinks that either 879 or 881 is interpolated; if 879 be rejected, he would read 881 h. i. par vis ut non sit e. p.

882 = 4, 44 (53).

883. Note the interlocking.

884. ecus: 1, 477 n. — etiam nunc, of past time; see lex.

885. Ov. M. 7, 321, ‘lactantia ubera quareret’ and id. 6, 342.

886. validae vires: 3, 451 n. — senecta: 3, 772 n. Tib. 1, 4, 31, ‘quam iacet, infirmae venere ubi fata senectae, | qui prior Eleo est carcere missus equus.’

887. deficiunt: 3, 454 n. — fugienti: 1, 282 n. Lucan, 2, 25, ‘sed cum membra premit fugiente rigentia vita.’ — languida: cf. 6, 1268.

888. pueris, Avanc. edd.; puerili, OQ, Wakef. perhaps rightly; puero illi, M.; puero levi, Everett, Harv. St. 7, 34. — iuentas for decus iuentutis occurs first here; a poetical use. In prose it means the religious personification of youth; Hey, Semias. Studien, 179.

889. mollis lanugine occurred in 817. The verse ending lanugine malas occurs in Aen. 10, 324; Ov. M. 9, 398; 12, 291; 13, 754; Zingerle, 25: add Lucan, 10, 135.

890. homine et veterino semine: for the order, 3, 201 n. — ne: 2, 410 n.

891. confieri: 4, 738 and n. — neque esse: 3, 552 n.; and for the negative (= or), Lane, LG. 1661.

892. rabitidis, Scyllaeam rabiem, Aen. 1, 200; caeruleis canibus resonantibus sara, id. 3, 432; succitam latrantibus inguina monstros, Ecl. 6, 75; cf. Catull. 60, 2; Sen. Medea, 351. — semimarinis, perhaps dx. ley.

893. Scyllas: pl. of a supposed class; 4, 732 n. — cetera de genere horum: cf. on 3, 481.

894. discordia: Ov. M. 1, 9, discordia semina rerum.

895. robora sumunt: 820.

896. prociunt, the opposite of sumunt; so Turnèbe and edd. for proficiunt, but still corrupt.

897. unis: 3, 616 n. The word is pleonastic; so 508.

898. iucunda, of suitable food; cf. 2, 31, ‘iucunde corpora curant’ and n. there. — per artus as in 851.

899. Cf. 4, 640 sq.

900. barbigeras: 6, 970; 3, 11 n.

— 901. vero, added by Ald., old vulg., and M.; denique flamma, Lachm. edd. Quidem vero occurs in 2, 652; 1, 1001, and several times in other connexions; denique would correspond as usual to principio, 883, but is too long a word to drop out. Ignea flamma of Avancius and others is more probable if something had fallen out at the beginning. Multaque, Bock.; servida, Orelli, cf. 1099.

902. omne, 'every.'
903. visceris: 3, 566 n.
904. qui, adv.—una, with Chimaera.
905. 6, 576, 'summa magis mediis, media imis, ima perhilum.'—Hom. Z 181, πρότε λέων, ὄπιδες δὲ δράκων, μέσην δὲ χίμαιρα· | δεινὸς ἀπονεφελοῦσα πυρὸς μέρος αἰθομένου; Ov. M. 9, 647, 'Chimaera iugo mediis in partibus ignem, | pectus et ora leae, caudam serpentis habebat.' Hyginus, Fab. 57, quotes the Lucretian line, and in part also in Fab. 151. Lang, Myth, Ritual, and Religion, I, 73, compares the league of Iroquois totem tribes represented by a wolf, turtle, and bear. Some mythologists regard the thundercloud as the origin of the myth, but Keller, Thiere, etc., 44, thinks the chimaera was suggested by naphtha springs.—prima: Aen. 3, 426, 'prima hominis facies . . . , postrema . . . pistrix.'—ipsa, i.e. χίμαιρα. Georg. 2, 297, 'media ipsa ingentem sustinet umbram.'
906. ore foras: 3, 497 n.
907. Juv. 6, 11, 'tunc orbe novo caeloque recenti' (M.).
908. Cf. the argument in 2, 700 sq.—fingit: 1, 104 n.
909. nixus in, perhaps metr. gr., or, as Hertz, 62, thinks, for emphasis.
910. ore, orta, Bock.
911. aurea, as Pactolus. Georg. 2, 166, 'auro plurima fluxit' (Wakef.).
912. arbusta: 1, 187 n. The reference is to the trees of the Hesperides.—suēsse: 1, 60 n.
913. hominem, Cyclops, Atlas, and the like.—impete: 4, 416 n. 'Giant force of frame,' M.
914. Cf. 1, 199 and nn.—trans: not only through, but across, with giant strides. Trans uncompounded occurs only here in L., and probably is used as a participle; cf. intrare, penetrare.—pedum nisus: 6, 834, pinnarum nisus.
915. manibus, 'arms.' Aen. 6, 796, 'caelifer Atlas | axem humero torquet.'
916. Here L. returns to the main argument left at 877.—terris . . . tellus: 1, 30 n.
917. animalia: cf. 823 and n.
918. nil signi: see examples in lex.
919. compacta: cf. 880.—animantum: 'v. 917, animalia dicit quia singulas species respicit, v. autem 919, animantum, primum quod non de certis quibusdam generibus agitur, sed de factis . . . ; deinde, quia rem similitudine stirpium probat, quarum eadem sit atque animantum condicio,' Polle, AV. 34.—pecudes: 1, 14 n.
920. nunc quoque, as is not the case with animals.
- 921 is an adaptation of 2, 699 and 1, 889.
922. complexa, 'united in one'; 2, 154 n.
923. sed res, M. edd.; cf. 545; et res, Goebel; sed si, OQ; res sic, Lamb.; sed vis, Lachm.; sed sibi quicque . . . omnia, Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 281.
924. foedere naturae: 3, 416 n. L. maintains the permanence of species, contrary to modern materialism; see Martha, 243.
- 925–927. 'And man was rude and strong: agriculture was unknown; his food was acorns and his drink was from the running brook; his home was the forest cave. There was no law, no regard for common good; marriage was the prize of the stronger. Day and night were expected without anxiety; wild beasts, rather than darkness, were feared.' — See, in general, Guyau, Morale d'Épicure, 158 sq.; Euphorion Fr. 140 ed. Didot (in Benn's Greek Philos. 2, 99).

925. illud refers back to 821. — in arvis: cf. 2, 1154.

926. Note alliteration. — durius, Georg. 1, 63, homines . . . durum genus, id. 2, 341, terrea progenies duris caput extulit arvis; opposite of mollescere, 1014. — ut decuit: cf. ut aecumst, 226. — tellus, but terra, 937. — creasset: cf. 796.

927. solidis magis: the comparative, inadmissible metr. gr., occurs in Columella, 7, 8; solidissima, 1, 565 and n.

928. fundatum: 4, 828 n. — aptum: 2, 479 and n. — nervis, 'sinews'; cf. 3, 697. 'This state of nature is to be regarded as a mere fiction, not unlike that of the Golden Age, which poets have invented,' etc., Hume, Human Nature (1886), 2, 266 sq.

929. quod corresponds to quod in 926. — caperetur, 'affected.'

930. labi: 3, 132 n. Primitive man suffered neither from indigestion nor from any other disease.

931. solis lustra: 1, 311 n. — volutentia, neut.; 6, 345, 'omnia coniciens in eum volventia cursum'; see lex. s. v.

932. volgivago: 4, 1071. — The next stage of homes, 948. — ferarum, 'brutes,' 3, 753 n.

933 = 6, 1253. Note the recurrence of r. The description of the primitive ages in Ov. M. 1, 89 sq.; Aen. 8, 314; Georg. 1, 125 sq.; Tibull. 1, 3, 35, etc., may be compared. — curvi with aratri first occurs here; afterwards frequent in the poets (Archiv, 3, 119).

934. scibat: scibant, 949, 953, 959; poenibat, 6, 1241. — ferro, 1295, 'ferro solum proscindere terrae.' — molirier: Georg. 1, 494, 'agricola incurvo terram molitus aratro.'

935. virgulta, Georg. 2, 346, 'quaecumque premes virgulta per agros.'

936. Hor. Epod. 2, 13, 'inutilisque falce ramos amputans.'

937. Macr. Sat. 5, 1, noticed the Virgilian borrowing, Georg. 2, 500, 'quos rami fructus, quos ipsa volentia rura | sponte tulere sua, carpsit.'

938. Note alliteration. — placabat: Hor. S. 2, 8, 5, 'quae prima iratum ventrem placaverit esca' (Wakef.).

939. inter: thoughtless of the future. — curabant corpora: 2, 31 n. — quercus: Tib. 2, 1, 38, 'desuevit querna pellere glande famen'; Hor. S. 1, 3, 100, 'glandem atque cubilia propter . . . pugnabant'; Pliny, 16, 1, 'glandiferas quoque, quae primae victum mortalium aluerunt nutrices inopis ac ferae sortis'; Georg. 1, 7, 'tellus | Chaoniam pingui glandem mutavit arista'; Ov. M. 1, 106, 'quae decidabant patula Iovis arbore glandes.'

940. plerumque: unusual metrical position, perhaps for emphasis.

941. arbita: this spelling for arbuta does not occur outside of L. — puniceo, 'crimson,' 2, 830 n.

942. plurima, Bentl. pluria. — etiam, Bock. et iam.

943. multa pabula dura: 1, 11 n. Dura is a necessary and early correction for dira; Albert, Phil. 56, 246, mira. — novitas: 780.

944. Georg. 1, 127, 'ipsaque tellus | omnia liberius nullo poscente ferebat'; Just. Inst. 2, 1, 37, 'omnes fructus rerum natura hominum gratia comparavit.' — miseris: it was no golden age. Miseris mortalibus, Georg. 3, 66; cf. L. 3, 60 and 6, 1.

945. sedare sitim: 4, 850. Macr. compared Georg. 3, 529, 'pocula sunt fontes liquidi atque exercita cursu | flumina.' — vocabant with inf. is poetical; cf. on 3, 86.

946. montibus magnis: 1, 201 n. — decurrus aquai: 1, 283 n.

947. claru' citat late, Forb. edd.; claricitatiate, OQ; clarigritat late, Lachm.; clarior accitat, old vulg.; largus citat, Ritschl, Opusc. 2, 435, Goeb. Br. Polle, AV. 42; but largus is unnecessary with magnis, and connotes quiet abundance rather than the torrential rush of a mountain stream; cf. on 1, 1031. — Lachmann's arrogant note is worth reading, 'pro more suo cavillans,' as Forb. says on Aen. 5, 139. Cf. Wolff, 9. — Albert, Phil. 56, allicit adsidue. — clarus of sound, 1, 97 n. — citat, 'invites' by this sound.

948. vagi, in roaming (Mss. vagis), 'ut ipsi illi primi mortales indicentur,' Lachm. — templa nympharum: cf. 4, 580 and on 3, 25. — Aen. 1, 166, 'antrum | intus aquae dulces vivoque sedilia saxo | Nympharum domus.' — tenebant, OQ. edd.; petebant, Br. Giuss. Pascal (cf. WKP. 17, 693) would make tenebant = obtinebant, conat. imp.

949. e in caesura, 1, 664 n. — umori' = umore of OQ; 2, 623 n. — fluenta, noun.

950. Note alliteration throughout this passage. — lavere means usually to lave, often metaphorically; lavare refers to actual washing: so Ellis on Catull. 39, 14. — umida saxa: see on 3, 12, for the epanalepsis.

951. musco: Hor. Eph. 1, 10, 7, musco circumlita saxa.

952. partim refers to springs on the plain in contrast to those in the caves.

953. Diod. Sic. 1, 8, τούς οὐρανούς τῶν ἀνθρώπων, μηδενὸς τῶν πόδες βίον χρηστούν εὐρημένου, ἐπιπόντος διάγειν, γυμνούς μὲν εὐθῆτος θύτας, οἰκήσεως δὲ καὶ πυρὸς ἀνθεῖς, τροφῆς δ' ἡμέρου παντελῶς ἀνενοῦτον.

954. et is apparently explicative. — spoliis: cf. 4, 62.

955. nemora . . . montis silvas: 41 n.

956. frutices: Varro, RR. 2, 1, speaks of montuosis locis et fruticibus ('chap-paral'). — inter, anastrophic, 1, 316 n. — squalida, probably 'rude'; cf. 2, 467 n.; possibly = horrida, by wind and rain; cf. 5, 25.

957. verbera ventorum: cf. 6, 115.

958. commune bonum: Manil. 1, 83, 'et quodcumque sagax tentando repperit usus, | in commune bonum commentum laeta dederunt.'

959. moribus: Aen. 8, 315, 'gensque virum truncis et duro robore nata | quis neque mos neque cultus erat.'

960. praedae, gen.

961. sponte sua: Aen. 7, 203, 'Saturni gentem, haut vinclo nec legibus aequam, | sponte sua veterisque dei se more tenentem' (Wakef.). — valere et vivere: coupled by Plaut. and Ter.; Wölfflin, Allit. Verb. 87. — 'Tel est donc l'état de nature, que Hobbes peindra plus tard sous les mêmes couleurs: c'est l'état d'egoisme, c'est la vie pour soi seul; c'est aussi l'état de guerre, ou règne le droit du plus fort,' Guyau, 160.

962. 4, 1071 n., 1265 n.

963. conciliabat: Catull. 68, 130, 'semel es flavo conciliata viro.' — mutua, 'correspondent'; cf. 4, 1195 sq.

964. impensa, 'vehement.' — The rhyme, cupido libido, is probably unintentional: alliteration excludes end-rhyme; cf. on 3, 52 and Archiv, 1, 366, 371.

965. atque . . . vel: 3, 551 n.

966. virtute: Cic. Fin. 5, 38, speaks of corporis virtuti, and Enn. in Ann. 537, has freti virtute quiescunt. Cf. Morris on Plaut. Pseud. 581.

967. For rhythm, cf. on 1, 85.

968 (975) transferred by Naug. M. Br. Bail. Goebel, Grasb.; Avanc. Marull. place it after 961. Lachm. prints 968, 969 to subus, 975, 969 silv. mem., 970. He would fill in his lacuna with ardorique leonum and inde caris temere abiecti. Giuss. imagines a lacuna after 968 of the MSS., which is followed by 975, then 969, etc. Lotze placed the verse after 966.—pondere clavae: Sil. Ital. 2, 246, ‘nodosae pondera clavae’ (M.).

969. Note the chiasmus.—latebris (hominum), so Lamb.; but Creech (ferarum); cf. 984.

970. subus, OQ, Wakef. Br. Giuss. Bail., defended by Müller, RM. 350; subu' sic, M.; subu' tum, Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 282; parilesque subus, Lotze, Bouterwek; subus hic, Polle, Phil. 26, 529.—sūbus (from * sūbhos, Sommer, 418), but sūbus, 6, 974, 977, after analogy of sūes; cf. on 3, 145.—saetigeris: 3, 11 n.—silvestria membra, ‘savage bodies.’

971. nuda dabant: the symplosio caused the omission of the syllable restored by Lamb. Cf. on 1, 385.—Ov. F. 2, 366, ‘campo corpora nuda dabant.’

972. foliis ac frondibus: Aus. Par. 15, 9, foliis et flore.—Cf. Diog. Enoanda, quoted on 1350.

973. plangore magno: Aen. 4, 668, magnis plangoribus.—Stat. Th. 4, 282, ‘hi lucis stupuisse vices noctisque feruntur | nubila et occiduum longe Titana secutii | desperasse diem’; Manil. 1, 69, ‘velut amissis maerens tum laeta renatis | sideribus’ (Wakef.). Shorey, Harv. St. 12, 209, mentions Plato’s derivation of ημέρα from ἡμέρα . . . δριτέρους τοῦς διθύρων καὶ λυτίρων εἰκ τοῦ σκόρους τὸ φῶς ἐγίγνετο (Cratylus, 418 d).

974. quaerebant palantes: 2, 10 and n.—in umbris: in tenebris metuunt, 3, 88.

975 (974). respectabant: 375 n. Suet. Calig. 50, ‘expectare lucem consuerat.’—sonnoque sepulti: 1, 133 n.

976. rosea face: see on 2, 206.—inferret caelo: 1246, hostibus intulerant; see lex. for examples of the terminal dative. — The imperf. tense is due to the sequence; elsewhere he has the present; see Richardson, Dum, 66, and Archiv, 11, 344.

977. a parvis: Cic. Leg. 2, 9, a parvis . . . didicimus.

978. alterno: elsewhere he has alternis.

979. non erat ut . . . posset: see Dr. § 404; possent, Br. Giuss. after Madv. Adv. Crit. 2, 26, who calls the Ms. reading mera barbaries; but cf. erat, 982 and on 3, 715.

980. diffidere ne, ‘misgiving,’ perhaps unexampled; probably after the analogy of vereor ne. Cf. also 1157.

981. in perpetuum: 4, 427 n.

982. Gratt. Cyn. 1, 13, ‘trepidam bello vitam . . . ferino.’

983. infestam faciebant: cf. 1124.

984. saxea tecta: Ov. Her. 10, 128.

985. spumigeri: 3, 11 n.—validique, OQ; -ve, Lachm. cf. 4, 1016; yet hospitibus, 987, shows that both beasts may have been considered together. Ve and que are often interchanged; see Edelbluth, 26 and on 3, 284.

986. intempesta had been used by Ennius, Ann. 102. The antiquarians explained it as 'unseasonable for work.' See Forb. on Georg. I, 247.

987. cubilia: 816, 1417.

988-1010. 'And death came then from the attack of wild beasts, not from war; the crafty deep was harmless, for navigation was unknown. Then lack of food or unsuspected poison brought death; now the contrary.'

988. nimio . . . plus, 'much more'; 3, 387 n.

989. labentis, Muretus, edd.; lamentis, OQ, Bail.; labantis, Giuss.; clamantis, ed. in AJP. 21, 183; cf. on I, 808, and I, 189; plorantis, Simonds; cf. 2, 580.—linquebant lumina: 3, 542 n.

990. magis, 'more likely (then than now).'

991. haustus: cf. 1324.

992. 41 n.

993. The alliteration of v in this verse is regarded as extraordinarily pathetic, but v does not always have this effect; cf. 4, 1071.—Watson quotes ἡμένχοι τάφοι, said of vultures by Gorgias, and Milton, Samson Ag. 102, 'Myself my sepulchre, a moving grave,' and Pope, Essay on Man, 3, 162, 'Of half that lives the butcher and the tomb.' M. cites Accius, 226, 'natis sepulcro ipse est parens,' and Shaksp. Macbeth, 3, 4, 'Our monuments shall be the maws of kites.' Aesch. Sept. 1020, ὅτε οὐσίων ταφέντα. The prophet Jonah had a vitale sepulcrum, according to Sedulius, I, 178 (Wakef.). Prächter, in Phil. 56, 551, compares from Cod. Vat. gr. 952, 'Ἐπίκουρος δὲ φίλοσοφος ιδών ποτέ τινα ὑπὸ πτηνῶν διασπώμενον καὶ θηρίων αἰμοβόρων καὶ αἰμοχρῶν εἰρήκει ὅδι οὐχ τὴν γῆν ἥριον ἀφ' ἣς ἐγεγόνει, ἀλλὰ κοιλαῖς δρέπων καὶ θηρίων. See Norden's comment on this specimen of Asian rhetoric in his Antike Kunstprosa, I, 384.

994. effugium: I, 975 n.—at, OQ; ac, Sauppe, Cod. Vict. 16; et, Br. Bail. on account of at, 999, but cf. 2, 150, 157; 4, 609, 611, 1165, 1168, and Edelbluth, 9.

995. Note the dactyls and alliteration.—ulcera taetra: 6, 1200.

996. accibant: cf. saevibat, 1003, hauribant, 1324, and on 934.—Soph. Philod. 797, Ὡδάρατε θάρατε, πῶς δει καλοβέρων | . . . οὐ δύνα μαλεῖν ποτε (Wakef.). Arn. 4, 11, '⟨dei⟩ suis acciti nominibus veniunt.'

997. donique, Voss for denique; 2, 1116 n.—privarant, OQ; privarunt, Creech, Br. Sauppe, because the tense is unexampled (Dr. § 509), Edelbluth, 62. 'Vermina eos vita privarant antequam ullam opem reperissent,' Orelli.—vermina, 'writhings': a rare word: quasi a verminibus scindatur, Festus. Sanderson, Cl. R. 10, 246, interprets vermina as vermes, 'maggots' (suggested by Creech).

998. expertis opis: 6, 1242.—Aesch. Prom. 478, εἴ τις εἰς νύσσον πέσοι, | οὐκ οὐδέξημι οὐδὲν, οὐτε βρώσιμον | οὐ χριστὸν οὐτε πιστὸν, etc.

999. Tib. I, 10, 3, 'tum proelia nata, | tum brevior dirae mortis aperta viat.' Prop. 3, 11, 5, 'venturam melius praesagit navita mortem, | volneribus didicit miles habere metum'; id. 2, 25, 7, 'putris et in vacua requiescit navis arena | et vetus in templo bellica parma vacat.' See on I, 272.

1000. una dies: 95. Ennius, Ann. 287, '⟨milia⟩ multa dies in bello confit unus' (Wakef.).

1001. lidebant, OQ, Grasberg. 59, Howard, J. Phil. I, 130, Giuss. Bail. Br. in Append. Fligebant, Lachm. (see his n.), M.; laedebant, Ald., vulg.—Lido is attested by Gloss. Labb. lido, κρούω. L. has adlidat, 4, 297, adlisa, id. 570; the compound is not unusual to describe shipwreck.

1002. hic (cf. 432), Lachm.; sed, Lamb. Giuss.; nec, OQ, cf. 3, 252 and n.—
temere incassum frustra: 2, 1060 n.

1003. saevibat . . . ponebat, edd. for saevidat . . . potebas, OQ. Prop. 3, 10, 6, ‘ponat et in sicco molliter unda minas’ (Wakef.).—que connecting a contrasted thought is frequent; see lex.

1004. placidi . . . ponti: 2, 559 n.

1005. ridentibus undis, Minnehaha, laughing water; 1, 8 n.—in fraudem, Aen. 10, 72, ‘quis deus in fraudem . . . egit?’ Cf. 4, 817 n.

1007. tum deinde, see lex. ‘tum,’ III, A 4.—penuria cibi: Aen. 7, 113, p. edendi; Hor. S. 1, 1, 98, p. victus.

1008. mersat, a bold metaphor; cf. 6, 1176, ‘sitis arida corpora mersans.’ Mergere is not uncommon: Livy, 9, 18, ‘de Alexandro nondum merso secundis rebus.’

1009. inprudentes (Itali), ‘off their guard,’ through ignorance. Cartault, ipsis for ipsi.

1010. nunc dant aliis sollertia ipsi, Juntine, Giuss. Bail. ipsum, Bern. Br., but ipsi in Append.; vergebant nudant sollertia ipsi, OQ; v. nunc se nudant s. i. Lachm.; v. nurui nunc dant s. i. M.; v. nuptis nunc dant sollertia sponsi, M. 1860; nunc dant letum s. ipso, Marull.; notum nunc dant sollertia ultro, Häberlin; nunc dant aliis s. ipsis, Cartault; nunc mutua dant s. i., Nencini; nunc dant patribus s. ipsis, Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 677; n. dant aliis s. isti, Sauppe, 16; n. dant Marsis s. ipsis, Bergk; n. pocula d. s. aequo, Polle, Phil. 25, 281; medici n. d. s. usu, Palmer; at nunc tractant s. i. Grasberg.; medicis n. d. s. ipsis, Postgate, Cl. R. 14, 352, and 17, 30.

1011–1027. ‘Then came home wife and children, fire and shelter and gentler ways, friendships, and protection of the weak.’

1011. postquam pararunt is subordinate to coepit, 1014. — Kant thought it more probable for man naturally to be a neighbor-shunning animal (Lange, Mater. 3, 86).—ignem: ‘This discovery, probably the greatest, excepting language, made by man, dates from the dawn of history.’ Darwin, Descent of Man, 1, 132 (M.).

1013. cognita sunt makes no sense with the preceding, hence there must be a lacuna, although Lachm., to avoid it, changed to conubium, and Bernays to coniugium. Marull. supplied castaque privatae Veneris connubia laeta; M. hospitium ac lecti socialia iura duobus. Albert, Phil. 56, 247, absurdly, cognita iam with no lacuna. — videre, with certainty of paternity.

1014. mollescere: 2, 604, 'quamvis effera proles | officiis debet molliri victa parentum.'

1015. curavit ut: 3, 127 n.—alsia is found only here and twice in Cicero.

1016. caeli sub tegmine: 1, 988 n.

1017. Note alliteration.—Venus inminuit viris: cf. 4, 1121.—pueri parentum imply a relation of age: cf. 6, 1256, Aen. 11, 216; Archiv, 7, 80.

1018. 'Few men are so completely selfish . . . as not occasionally to seek the general good of some smaller or larger community, from natural sympathetic impulse, unsupported by Epicurean calculation,' Sidgwick, Methods of Ethics, 78.

1019. tunc: 1419, 1423.—amicitium, δικαίη; 1, 58 n.—aventes: 4, 1023.

1020. Epic. Sent. 33 (DL. 10, 150), οὐκ ἦν τι καθ' ἐαυτὸν δικαιοσύνη, ἀλλ' ἐν ταῖς μετ' ἀλλήλων συστροφαῖς καθ' ὄπηλίκους δῆ ποτε δει τέκνους συνθήκη τις ὑπὲρ τοῦ μὴ βλάπτειν ή βλάπτεσθαι. Horace maintained; S. 1, 3, 98, ipsa utilitas iusti prope mater et aequi, but there is no real inconsistency between him and L. Guyau, 162, well shows that Epicurus avoided the supposition of a duly executed contract which would postulate accurate language. On the Social Contract, cf. Plato, Rep. 2, 358–359.—finitimi is an adjective with almost adverbial force: 'in a neighborly manner.'

1021. commendarunt, i.e. finitimi finitimus.—muliebreque saeclum, 'woman-kind.'

1022. vocibus et gestu: 'the oldest words seem to have been imperfectly expressed conceptions partaking of an interjectional character . . . gesture language developed side by side with the language of sounds,' Strong, Logeman and Wheeler, Hist. Language, 166.—balbe, inarticulate.

1023. aecum, because of mutual advantage.—omnis (homines).

1024. omnimodis: 1, 683 n.

1025. bona magnaque pars: Ter. Eun. 123, 'bonam magnamque partem ad te attulit.'—caste, Flor. 31, edd.; casti, OQ, which Grasberger would keep with the old vulgate, but changing to servabant.

1026. aut, 'otherwise,' 410.—iam tum, 'even then' in the beginning.

1027. propago, 'propagation'; cf. 850.—perducere, 'continue.'

1028–1029. 'Then language was invented which began with gestures and inarticulate cries. It is absurd to think that any one person gave names to things: man developed language naturally for its usefulness, just as beasts and birds did to a less degree.'

1028. Giussani places this section after 1160, following Bock.—varios linguae sonitus: cf. 1044.—subegit mittere: 3, 1077 n. Hor. S. 1, 3, 103 followed the Epicurean doctrine: 'dōnec verba quibus voces sensusque notarent, | nominaque invenerē,' cf. Darwin, Descent of Man, 87: 'I cannot doubt that language owes its origin to the imitation and modification of various natural sounds, the voices of other animals, and man's own instinctive cries, aided by signs and gestures.' But James Beattie, Theory of Language, 1788, p. 99, said that the theory of natural development of language was simply due to the beauty of Lucretius' poetry, and makes the following paraphrase of the (to him) ridiculous doctrine: 'When men out of the earth of old | A dumb and beastly vermin crawled: | For acorns first, and holes of shelter, | They tooth and nail, and helter skelter, | Fought fist to fist; then with a club | Each learned his brother brute to drub ; Till more experienced grown, these cattle | Forged fit accoutrements for battle. At last (Lucretius says, and Creech) | They set their wits to work on speech | And that their thoughts might all have marks | To make them known, these learned clerks | Left off the trade of cracking crowns, | And manufactured verbs and nouns,' quoted by A. D. White, Pop. Sc. Monthly, 38, 440. — Cf. Guyau, 162 sq.; Usener, p. 380, 4; and Epic. ad Herod. 75, καὶ τὰ δύματα ἐξ ἀρχῆς μὴ θέσει γενέσθαι, ἀλλ' αὐτὰς τὰς φύσεις τῶν ἀνθρώπων καθ' ἔκαστα έθνη ίδια πασχούσας τάσθη καὶ ίδια λαμβανόντας φαντάσματα ίδιως τὸν δέρα ἐκπέμπειν στελλόμενον ύψος ἐκδόστων τῶν ταθῶν καὶ τῶν φαντασμάτων, ὡς ἂν ποτε καὶ η ταρά τοὺς τόπους τῶν έθνῶν διαφορὰ γένετορον δὲ κοινῶς καθ' ἔκαστα έθνη τὰ ίδια τεθῆται τρόπος τὸ τὰς δηλώσεις ἥττον ἀμφιβόλους γενέσθαι ἀλλήλοις καὶ συντομωτέρως δηλούμενας· τινὰ δὲ καὶ οὐ συντομώμενα πράγματα εἰσφέροντας τοὺς συνειδήτρας παρεγγῆσαι τινὰς φθεγγούς αναγκασθέντας ἀναφωνῆσαι, τοὺς δὲ τῷ λογισμῷ ἐλομένους κατὰ τὴν πλειστηνὴν alitiam οὗτος ἔμμητεσθαι.

1029. Vitruv. 2, 1, 1, 'in eo hominum congressu cum profundebatur aliter spiritu voces, cotidiana consuetudine vocabula ut obtigerant constituerunt, deinde significando res saepius in usu ex eventu fari fortuito cooperunt et ita sermones inter se procreaverunt.' (Note that V., like L., mentions fire, then language, then fire again, as in the Ms. order of L.) — Reid, Works, I, 172, maintained the existence of a natural language before an artificial one. — utilitas, 'advantage,' cf. 1048; 4, 835, 'quod natumst id procreat usum'; 4, 854, 'notitiam utilitatis.' — expressit is a metaphor from coining. Hor. S. I, 3, 102, 'verba quibus voces sensusque notarent | nominaque invenerent.'

1031. infantia for actual inability to speak is rare; cf. infans, 223.

1032. facit, sc. infantia. Monstret, OQ, may be right, but all but Wakef. read monstrant, sc. pueri. Note also digito, not digitis. — This theory of gestures preceding signs mutually agreed on was advocated by Locke, Adam Smith, and Dugald Stewart: see Max Müller, Science of Language (1862), p. 40.

1033. vis, OQ; vim, Avanc. edd.; suas, L. Müller, RM. 381, Bail.; cf. 2, 586; 3, 265. The rarity of the form caused the corruption. Suam, OQ, edd. — quoad, 2, 850 n. — abuti occurred in 2, 156 in the sense 'misuse,' but construed with the abl.; here it is used as in Cic. ND. 2, 151, 'nos sagacitate canum ad utilitatem nostram abutimur.' Corpus Gloss. 5, 3, 2, 'abuti et bene uti est et male uti': Thes. I, 240, 56.

1034. extent, 'stand out.' — Ov. Hal. 2, 'vitulus sic namque minatur, | qui non dum gerit in tenera iam cornua fronte,' etc.

1035. Note alliteration. — illis (frontibus). — inurget is quoted elsewhere only from Apul. — illis (frontibus).

1036. Cf. 4, 1016, and n. — scymni, σκύμνοι, 'cubs.' These beasts were of foreign origin, hence the Greek names.

1037. iam tum, while whelps. — morsu = dentibus; cf. 1068; 3, 663, 888; 4, 1016. — Cic. ND. 2, 127, 'suis se armis quaeque defendant, cornibus tauri, apri dentibus, morsu leones.'

1038. vix . . . creati, 'hardly grown.'

1039. alitum: 2, 928 n. — Note the interlocking.

1040. auxiliatum, dat. λεγ.; 1, 795 n.—tremulum perhaps with genus, as Bock suggests.

1041. aliquem . . . inde . . . hic . . . huic . . . unus: Plato in the Cratylus, 388 c, maintained that names were given by an ὀνοματούργος who was an ὀνοματόθετης, following the Pythagorean tradition. Diog. of Enoanda (Rh. M. 47, 440), 24, c, 4, μήτε τὸν Ἐρμῆν παραλαμβάνωμεν εἰς διδασκαλίαν, ὃς φασίν τινες (περιφανῆς γάρ αὐτῇ γ' ἡ ἀδόλεσχία) μήτε τῶν φιλοσόφων πιστεύωμεν τοῖς λέγουσοις κατὰ θεσίαν καὶ διδαχὴν ἐπιτεθῆναι τὰ δύναματα τοῖς πράγμασιν, οὐ' αὐτῶν ἔχωσι σημεῖα κτλ. Steinkthal gives the modern view 'Die Sprache ist ein Geschöpf des Volksgeistes, in welchem er zuerst individuell offenbar wird,' and Bluntschli, while acknowledging the leadership of individuals in the introduction of new words, maintains that the language, with its laws, is the work of the common national Sprachkraft: cf. Weise, Characteristik d. lat. Spr. 3, 121, and see, in general, Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, I, 394 sq.; Gerber, Sprache als Kunst, I, 118 sq.

1042. inde, probably = ex eo, but possibly may refer to distribuisse.—homine: Christ, 25, omnes, unnecessarily.

1043. desiperes: 3, 361 n. Diog. En. 1, c. γελοῖον γάρ ἔστι, μᾶλλον δὲ παντὸς γελοῦν γελούστερον πλὴν τοῦ καὶ τὸ ἀδύνατον αὐτῷ προείδει, συναγαγεῖν μὲν τίνα τὰ τοσάδε πλήθη ἔνα τυγχάνοντα.

1044. varios sonitus: 1028.—emittere: Hor. Ep. 1, 18, 71, 'et semel emissum volat irrevocabile verbum'; cf. AP. 390. L. 4, 548, 795.

1045. tempore eodem, 'while'; cf. 756, 765.

1046. vocibus usi: Aen. 1, 64, his vocibus usa est.

1047. Cf. 182 sq.

1048. prima, 'original.' Albert, privia.

1049. sciret: 2, 27 n. Lachm. changes to scirent and viderent.

1050. item, Bock. idem.

1051. perdiscere, 'to learn by heart from a master.'

1052. surdis, because they could not understand and would not listen: Ter. HT. 222, 'quam mihi nunc surdo narret fabulam.'

1053. quid . . . opus facto: Roby, 1255.

1054. amplius, 'long.'

1055. inauditos, 'unheard of,' i.e. unintelligible.—obtundere auris is common from Plaut. on.

1056. tantoperest: 3, 186 n.

1057. Cic. Inv. 1, 5, 'hac re maxime (homines) bestiis praestare, quod loqui possunt'; Orat. 1, 32, 'hoc enim uno praestamus vel maxime feris quod colloquimur inter nos.'

1058. notaret, OQ; notavit, Br. after Frerichs, 15. L. usually has the indic. after si with expressions of wonder (4, 814; 5, 192, 748, 799, 1238; 6, 375, 1012). Dr. Synt. § 550 c, regards notaret as a potential of the past; Schroeter, 18, thinks that it was used to avoid notarit; it is probably a case of attraction to vigeret.—By a voluntary imposition a word is made arbitrarily the mark of an idea; cf. Locke, Works, 2, p. 4.

1059. 'The language of beasts suffices only for the expression of a simple and definite feeling. The language of man consists in the grouping of several words so as to form a sentence,' Strong, Logeman, and Wheeler, Hist. Lang. 168.—mutae, 'inarticulate'; Juv. 8, 56, animalia muta; cf. 1088; 2, 1082.

1060. ciere, 'emit,' not notare, 'coin.' Val. Fl. 3, 156, verba ciens.—Quint. 10, 1, 10, 'verba quaedam emississe traduntur, tamen loquendi facultate caruerunt.'

1061. iam, in a series, 2, 175, 426; 4, 150, 690; 5, 1069; 6, 1132; cf. also on 1, 601.—glicunt: 3, 480 n.

1062. rebus apertis: 1, 915 n.

1064. ricta: strictly the opening of the mouth, here mollia rictu = 'flabby lips.' Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 282, would have mollib' saecla. For the form, cf. 6, 1195, and vulta, 4, 1213.—nudantia: Georg. 3, 514, 'nudis laniabant dentibus artus.'

1065. restricta (Lachm. edd.), 'drawn back' of the lips to show the teeth, is rare; examples from Plaut. and Apul. in lex. s.v. OQ, have stricta; Lamb. districta, which is defended by Hudeman, Phil. 9, 188; Cartault, 84, rabies restricta minantur.

1066. et cum: 1, 281 n.—iam, 'outright,' M.

1067. et, Lachm. edd. for at which is defended by Edelbluth, 8.

1068. lactant = lacesebant is not found elsewhere in this meaning, but Festus connects lacit, lacesere, lactat; lactant was retained by Gif. Wakef. Forb. Crouslé, and approved by Voss. Notice the strange words in the following lines. Edd. after Naugierius read iactant.—morsu = dentibus, as in 1037.

1069. suspensis: 3, 196 n.—teneros: veros, Faber, Br.—imitantur, 'feign'; minitantur, Lachm.—haustus: cf. 991.

1070. gannitu: gannire and gannitio are mentioned by Festus as describing the yelp of dogs.—adulant: the active form was used by Cic. Poeta in Tusc. 2, 24, and by Val. Max. 4, 3 fin. 'Adulatio est blandimentum proprie canum,' Nonius.

1071. baubantur: used only here by L.; 'to cry bow-wow,' βαύσω.

1072. summissos, 'crouching,' 1, 92 n.—plorantis: 1, 808 n.

1073. videtur, 'appear'; 2, 404 n.

1074. florenti: cf. 888.—iuvencus, adj.

1075. pinnigeri, pennatus, 738; Aen. 1, 663, aligerum Amorem, followed by the later poets (Seitz, De fixis epithetis, 10).—calcaribus: Eurip. Hipp. 38, κρκτερ-ληγμένη | κέρρποις ἔπυτος (Wakef.).

1076. ubi, Lachm. edd.; sub, OQ, Bail.; ibi, Br.—Note the five dactyls.

1077. artibus: 3, 620 n.—alias, 'on other occasions,' e.g. in fright.—sic, 'as it happens.'—Georg. 3, 83, 'tum signa sonum procul arma dedere, | stare loco nescit, rnicat auribus et tremit artus, | collectumque premens volvit sub naribus ignem'; another example of Virgilian imitation of words without strict following of the sense.

1078. Cf. 801.

1079. mergi: Ov. M. 11, 795, 'aequor amat; nomenque tenet, quia mergitur illo.'

1080. Cf. 804. — salso (aquore), as in 128; aquore is here omitted on account of marinis fluctibus.

1081. voces: 2, 146 n. — in: 3, 24 n.

1082. praedaque, O corr. Br. Bail. vulg.; praedataque, OQ; praedaeque, Avanc. edd. The contest is with one another for prey, not the struggle of the captive. Yet there may be a chiastic arrangement, and praedae may be right in referring to accipitres only as land birds. Duff would have a lacuna that he would fill: et quom progeniem parvam nidosque revisunt (J. Phil. 20, 317). — Cartault, 11, would have praedae nom. pl.; Albert, praedataque pugnant.

1083. partim: 3, 78. — tempestatibus: 4, 169 n.

1084. raucisonos: 6, 751; 2, 619 n. — cornicum saecula vetusta: Hor. C. 3, 17, 12, ‘aquae nisi fallit augur | annosa cornix,’ and Georg. 1, 388, ‘tum cornix plena pluviam vocat improba voce'; see edd. there.

1085. greges: grex avium, Hor. Ep. 1, 3, 19.

1086. Georg. 1, 420, ‘vertuntur species animorum, et pectora motus | nunc alias, alios dum nubila ventus agebat, | concipiunt.’

1087. varii: the argument rests on the variety of sounds capable of emission, arising from the variety of sense impressions. — animalia, animals, as in 823, not including man.

1088. muta: cf. 1059.

1089. accumat: 3, 513 n.

1090. Cf. 1058.

1091–1104. ‘Fire came first from lightning and from the friction of trees. Cooking was suggested by the sun’s heat.’

1091–1106 is bracketed by Lachm. M. and Bail.; cf. 73 and 1011; 1091–1104 by Br. because language is needed in 1105 sq. Kannengiesser put 1091–1104 before 1136. Giuss. and Bock. place 1091–1106 after 1027. Van d. Valk, 112, argues against bracketing, and it is barely possible that L. may have left the paragraph in the present order; cf. on 1029.

1091. tacitus: Hor. S. 1, 9, 12, aiebam tacitus, where Schol. Crug. interprets ‘dicebam intra me.’

1092. Cf. the myth of Vulcan’s ejection from heaven.

1093. primitus: 4, 1030 n. — diditur, even now.

1094. incita, Marull., old vulg. Bock. = pulsa et commota, cf. 6, 428; insita, OQ; inlita, Lachm. edd., but the word is not Lucretian.

1095. fulgere: 6, 165; 2, 41 n. — caeli plaga: fulminis p. 1220.

1096. ramosa, with arbor. — et tamen, ‘and still also’; 3, 51 n.

1097. aestuat, ‘tosses.’ — It may be, as Giuss. intimates, that the order of the words suggests the interlacing of the boughs and branches.

1098. extritus: 1, 902, ‘semina . . . ardoris . . . terendo . . . creant incendia silvis,’ and nn. on 1, 898. — Sen. NQ. 2, 22, says that fire was produced duobus modis: uno si excitatur sicut ex lapide, altero si ad tritu invenitur sicut cum duo ligna inter se diutius fricta sunt. Its origin from friction on wood is mentioned in the Homeric hymn to Hermes, 108 sq.

1099. flammai, but flammae, 1102.

1100. mutua: 3, 801 n. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 135, cannot be right in understanding teruntur ab hominibus, as L. is discussing the origin merely of fire.

1101. utrumque, i.e. by lightning or attrition.

1102. mollire: 6, 968, ‘umor aquae . . . carnem mollit.’ Ov. M. 15, 78, ‘sunt herbae dulces, sunt quae mitescere flamma | molliri queant’ (Wakef.).

1103. multa, including both animals and plants.

1104. per agros: 973, 1366; 6, 642.—verberibus: 485 n.

1105–1135. ‘And more and more the intelligent taught progress: cities were founded and flocks and land distributed to the handsome and strong, and then property was invented and the rich were superior. There was a struggle for power and frequent defeat, because men did not know true wisdom.’

1105. Inque dies: 4, 1069 n.—hi, edd.; in, OQ; hinc, Bock., which I am inclined to favor; hi is too far from qui. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 135, explains in as quod attinet ad.

1106. rebus et igni, OQ, Wakef. Bock. Giuss.; rebu' benigni, Lachm. edd.; ab igni, Goebel; rebu' repertis, Kannengiesser. Benigni is not a Lucretian word and the motive implied is not Epicurean: natural leaders at this stage of society would be inspired by selfish ends, according to Epicurean theory; cf. sibi, 1109. On the other hand, the extended use of fire was an important step. There is no close connexion with 1108, which marks another stage, that of reges. Cf. also on 1029.—6, 395 closes with et igni and also Aen. 2, 210.

1107. corde: Enn. Ann. 331, egregie cordatus homo, and 4, 44 n. They had practical as well as theoretical wisdom.—Cic. Orat. 1, 35, ‘initio genus hominum in montibus ac silvis dissipatum . . . prudentium consiliis compulsum . . . se oppidis moenibusque saepsisse.’

1108. Lact. Inst. 6, 10, ‘cum autem nec multitudinem ipsam viderent contra bestias esse tutam, oppida etiam coepisse munire, vel ut quietem noctis tutam sibi facerent, vel ut incursions atque impetus bestiarum non pugnando, sed obiectis aggeribus arcerent.’ ‘Those animals which know best how to combine have the greatest chance of survival and of further evolution, although they may be inferior to others in each of the faculties enumerated by Darwin and Wallace, save the intellectual faculty,’ Kropotkin, Nineteenth Century 28, 711.—arcem, a stronghold for protection, not for tyranny.

1109. praesidium is here a fort, presidio: defendier isdem turribus, Juv. 15, 157.—‘Hobbes denies the Aristotelian principle that man is a political animal. It is not through political instinct, but through fear and reason, that man enters into union with his fellows with the object of preserving their common security,’ Lange, Materialism, 2, 280. ‘The egoism of rulers must have first to assert itself absolutely so as to keep in check the more harmful egoism of all its subjects,’ id. 282. ‘Nam etsi duce natura congregabantur homines, tamen spe custodiae rerum suarum urbium praesidia quaerebant,’ Cic. Off. 2, 73.

1110. pecus, Lachm. edd.; naturally the first form of wealth; cf. 1291.—Pecudes OQ.—Hor. Ep. 2, 1, 7, ‘agros adsignant, oppida condunt.’

1111. facile, pulchris, viribus, validis, 1114; cf. also 1174. Note the pentasyllabic ending also in 1109. Lamb. notices that Aristotle and Xenophon mention the imperial character of personal beauty. Mela, 3, 86, says of the Aethiopians, ‘mos est cui potissimum pareant specie ac viribus legere.’

1112. vigebant, OQ, edd. Vahlen, Berl. Index, 1881, 6. Vigentes, Faber, M.; vigorque, Lachm. Vigebant, 'was strong,' i.e. prevailed in honor; cf. 3, 259.
1113. res, 'property'; avarities, 3, 59, is also unphilosophical. — Hor. Ep. 1, 1, 52, 'vilius argentum est auro, virtutibus aurum,' S. 2, 5, 8, 'et genus et virtus nisi cum re vilius alga est.' — aurum: Hor. C. 3, 3, 49, 'aurum inreputum et sic melius situm.'
1114. Hor. S. 2, 3, 95, 'divina humanaque pulchris | divitiis parent.'
1115. A melancholy general truth to a philosopher and student.
1116. quamlibet: 2, 541 n. — corpore creti: 2, 906 n.
1117. vera ratione: 1, 51 n.
1118. divitiae: cf. in general, 2, 20 sq. Seneca, Ep. 4, 10, 'hoc quoque ex alienis hortulii sumptum est: magnae divitiae sunt lege naturae composita paupertas.' The similar Stoic sentiment is given in Cic. Parad. 6, 49, 'non intellegunt homines quam magnum vinctigal sit parsimonia,' 51, 'contentum vero suis rebus esse maximaue sunt certissimaeque divitiae.' — Postgate, J. Phil. 16, 129, would write parvo for parce; Bock, changes parvi in 1119 to parcis.
1119. aequo animo: 3, 939 n. — Cic. Fin. 3, 75, 'rectius appellabitur dives quam Crassus qui nisi egiisset numquam Euphraten . . . transire voluisse.' Goldsmith, Deserted Village, 61, 'His best companions, innocence and health | And his best riches ignorance of wealth.' Plaut. Aud. 187, 'pol si est animus aequos, satis habes qui bene vitam colas.' Epic. in Aelian, 4, 13, φ δλιγον οδχ ικανός, δλλά τούτω γε οδδὲ ικανός, quoted with many other parallels by Usener, Epic. p. 302. Epicurus' frugality is a commonplace.
1120. se (esse): cf. 3, 61, and Dr. Synt. § 116. — Epic. Sent. 7, Ευδοξος καλ περιβλεπτοι τινες ἔβουλθησαν γενέσθαι, την δὲ ανθρώπων δεσφάλειαν οὗτω νομίζοντες περιποιήσεσθαι. — se atque: 4, 809.
1121. fundamento: cf. on 3, 548, loc.
1122. placidam is the emphatic word; cf. 1, 40 n.
1123. nequiquam: 4, 464 n. — succedere: 1275, 'aurum in summum successit honorem.'
1124. iter viai: cf. 714 and 2, 626. — infestum (sibi). — Stanley, Hist. Ph. 1701, 619, quaintly paraphrases: 'It is too frequently seen that they who climb up to the top of honor are cast down by envy as with a thunderbolt, and then too late acknowledge that it is much better quietly to obey than by laborious climbing up the narrow path of ambition to aim at command and sovereignty, and to arrive there, where nothing can be expected but a great and dangerous precipitation.'
1125. tamen, even when successful. — deicit: Georg. 1, 332, 'Ceraunia telo | deicit.' Cf. cicicit, 2, 951.
1126. Livy, 8, 31, 7, 'invidiam tanquam ignem summa petere'; Vell. 2, 40, 6, 'numquam eminentia invidia carent'; Otto, Sprichw. 148; Shorey on Horace, C. 2, 10, 9. The commonplace is also found in Herod. 7. 10, 5, Q. Curtius, 7, 13, and Sen. Oed. 11. — Tartara: poetically existent; cf. 3, 966, 1023.
- 1127 (1131). 1131-1132 were transferred here by M. and later edd. Lachm. placed them after 1135. The scribe at first overlooked them on account of the repetition of invidia. — vaporant, 'burn,' is unexampled.
1128. quae . . . cumque: cf. 2, 404 for the unusually wide separation.

1129 (1127). satus, here only in L. Imperium is inane in 3, 998. This was one of the justifications of the maxim, λάθε βιώσας: Apollonius even added εἰ δὲ μὴ δύναο, λάθε ἀποβιώσας (Usener, Fr. 551).

1130. regerere imperio res: Aen. 6, 851, ‘tu regere imperio populos’ and Virgilian tradition after him.—L. 6, 55, ‘cogit ad imperium res et concedere regnum.’

1131. proinde, ‘so then’; 4, 386 n.—sine sudent: the only occurrence of sine in L. 6, 1147, sudabant . . . sanguine; Enn. Sc. 181, terra sudat sanguine.

1132 (1130). Cf. 2, 11, contendere nobilitate.—angustum, too narrow for many at once.

1133. sapiunt: Pacuv. 84, ‘plusque ex alieno iecore sapiunt quam ex suo’; Enn. Sc. 273, ‘qui ipse sapiens prodesse non quit neququam sapit.’

1134. sensibus, the only safe criterion; 1, 423 sq.—auditis, Plaut. Bacch. 469, ‘vidi non ex auditio arguo.’

1135. est . . . erit . . . fuit: cf. 2, 298, sunt . . . fuere . . . ferentur; Catull. 21, 2, fuerunt . . . sunt . . . erunt and Ellis there.

1136–1160. ‘So kings were overthrown and crowns laid in dust, then some set up magistrates and laws which were accepted voluntarily to prevent anarchy. Fear of penalties kept them from wrong-doing, for anxiety of mind, at least, was certain for the criminal.’

1136. Ergo, from 1127. L. was probably influenced by Roman history—the expulsion of the Tarquins and establishment of the consulate.

1137. sceptra superba: 1222, ‘regesque superbi.’

1138. capitis summi: cf. 2, 606.—insigne: 2, 608 n.—cruentum is predicate.

1139. pedibus vulgi: 1, 315.

1140. nimis: 3, 933; 6, 850; 3, 387 n.—metutum is ἀτ. λεγ.

1141. res: M. formerly interpreted as ‘government,’ finally as ‘matters.’ I prefer the traditional interpretation of the dominance of the ochlocracy on account of 1139. Cic. Sest. 47, ‘nonne ad servos videtis rem venturam fuisse?’—summam, ‘utmost.’—faecem: Cic. Fam. 7, 32, 2, ‘tanta faex est in urbe’; Att. 1, 16, 11, ‘apud sordem urbis et faecem.’—redibat, ‘was going down.’

1142. cum ac: harsh elision; cf. 2, 812.—summatum, ἀτ. λεγ.

1143. partim: 3, 78 n.—creare: a technical use.

1144. iura . . . leges: Epic. Sent. 33, οὐκ τι καθ' ἐντὸ δικαιοσύνη, ἀλλ' ἐν ταῖς μετ' ἀλλήλων συστροφαῖς καθ' ὑπηλίκους δῆ ποτε δει τέτοις συνθήκη τις ὑπὲρ τοῦ μὴ βλάπτειν η βλάπτεσθαι; id. 34, η ἀδικία οὐ καθ' ἐντῆς κακόν, ἀλλ' ἐν τῷ κατὰ τὴν ὑποψίαν φόβῳ, εἰ μὴ λήσται τοὺς ὑπὲρ τῶν τοιούτων ἐφεστηκότας κολαστάς. ‘Etenim iustitiae non natura nec voluntas, sed ἵπνειοllitas mater est,’ Cic. Rep. 3, 23. ‘Justice establishes itself by a kind of convention or agreement; that is, by a sense of interest supposed to be common to all, and where every single act is performed in expectation that others are to perform the like. . . . After men have found by experience that their selfishness and confined generosity, acting at their liberty, totally incapacitate them for society; and at the same time have observed that society is necessary to the satisfaction of those very passions, they are naturally induced to lay themselves under the restraint of such rules as may render their commerce more safe and commodious,’ Hume, Human Nature, 1886, 2, 270. ‘Nothing but their own consent could at first associate them together and subject them to any authority,' id. Phil. Essays, 1817, 1, 462. 'No one now maintains the old view that the transition from the "natural" to the "political" state actually took place by means of an "original contract," which conferred indelible legitimacy on some particular form of social organization (Hobbes). Shall we say, then, that a man by remaining a member of a community enters into a "tacit understanding" to obey the laws laid down by the authority generally recognized as lawful in that community? . . . we must suppose that certain "natural rights" are inalienable,' Sidgwick, Ethics, 296. 'The fact is that the individual, as such, was originally of no account whatever. He was merely a member of his family, his tribe, or his clan. His adherence to the group of which he formed a part was conditioned by his birth, or imposed on him by force; his obedience was given blindly; and no play at all was permitted to his powers of free will or self-determination,' Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, 1, 391.

1145. colere aevom: 1150. Plaut. Mos. 716 (731), vitam colitis and Lorenz there. Georg. 2, 532, vitam coluere.

1146. ex languebat, 'wearied of'; 3, 157 n.—ipsum, genus humanum.—'During the time men live without a common power to keep them in awe they are in that condition which is called war, and such a war as is of every man against every man,' Hobbes, Leviathan, 1651, p. 62. 'Finally the Peace of the King became universal: the State undertook the decision and composition of all quarrels; and private war . . . was interdicted and superseded by recourse to public judicature,' Poste, Caius<sup>8</sup>, 441.

1147. sponte sua: the essence of the social-contract theory—consent of the governed.—arta, 'stringent.'

1148. ex, 'in.'—ira: 'In the infancy of society it is an important object to the legislator to induce the injured person to have recourse to the public tribunals instead of righting himself, that is to say, constituting himself both lawgiver and judge,' Poste, Caius, 434, who gives historical examples.

1149. ulcisci: the duel is the only quasi-civilized survival of the ancient feud or private war.

1150. hanc ob rem refers to quod, 1148.—rem est, i.e. remst: 1, 150 n.

1151. Note alliteration.—maculat: cf. turbat, 3, 38.—praemia vitae, what makes life worth living; 3, 899 n.—S. Aug. CD. 5, 20, 'nulli faciat iniuriam ne offensis legibus voluptas vivere secura non possit.'

1152. circumretit: for the sing. cf. 3, 277 n.—atque is changed to atqui by Albert.

1153. revertit: revisit, Bergk, Proll, 46; cf. 636, and see on 3, 1061. Ov. A.A. 1, 655, 'neque enim lex aequior ulla est, | quam necis artifices arte perire sua.' Epic. Sent. 35, οὐκ ἔστι τὸν λάθρῳ τι κινοῦται ὁν συνέθεντο πρός ἀλλήλους εἰς τὸ μὴ βλάπτειν μηδὲ βλάπτεσθαι, πιστεύειν δὲ λήσει, καν μωράκις ἐπὶ τοῦ παρόντος λαζθάνη. — Edd. comp. Hesiod, Op. 265, οἱ αὐτῷ κακὰ τεύχει ἀνήρ ἀλλώ κακὰ τεύχων. Psalm 7, 16, 'in verticem ipsius iniquitas eius descendet.'

1154. Ep. Sent. 17, ὁ δίκαιος ἀπαρκτότατος, ὁ δ' δίκαιος πλειστηγός παραχῆται γέμων.—placidum ac pacatum: Plaut. Merc. 965, 'uxor tibi placata et placidast.'

1155. pacis, like the King's peace, disturbance of the peace.

1156. divom genus humanumque, 'God and man,' i.e. the whole world. But Giussani interprets 'even if his crimes remain unknown to the gods—naturally—and to men.' Bock, absurdly vigilum. But Pascal, Graecia Capta, 58, compares Philodemus (p. 21 G.) ἀλλως δὲ καὶ πάντες οἱ πράττοντες ὅδικα καὶ τονηροὶ κοινῶς οὐκ εἰ μὴ βλάπτουσιν οἱ θεοὶ καὶ δὴ νομίζουσιν αὐτοὺς οὐκ ἐνοχλεῖν, ἀλλὰ . . .

1157. clam: Plaut. Truc. 795, 'mea nunc facinora aperiuntur clam quea speravi fore.' Cic. Fin. 1, 50, 'quamvis occulte fecerit nunquam tamen id confidet fore semper occultum.' Cf. palam, 2, 568. Guyau, 270, quotes La Mettrie, 'si tu veux vivre, prends-y garde, la politique n'est pas si commode que ma philosophie, la justice est sa fille, les gibets et les bourreaux sont à ses ordres ; crains-les plus que ta conscience et les dieux.' Epic. in Sen. Ep. 97, 13, 'potest nocenti contingere ut lateat, latendi fides non potest.'

1158. 4, 1018, 'multi de magnis per somnum rebū loquuntur | indicioque sui facti persaepe fuere.' Tib. 1, 9, 27, 'ipse deus somno domitos emittere vocem | iussit et invitox facta tegenda loqui.'

1159. protraxe: cf. consumpe, 1, 233 and n.

1160. diu, Marull. edd. Bergk 9. Lachm. objects because of his rule forbidding elision of iambic words and reads mala, followed by M.

1161–1193. 'Knowledge of the gods and erection of altars with resultant superstition came first through visions, and men gave such forms divine attributes. Then they supposed that the motion of the heavenly bodies and the changes of the seasons must be due to divine agency, and hence placed the abodes of the gods in heaven, the seat of atmospheric phenomena.'

1161. deum numina, periphrasis for deos, cf. divina numina, 4, 1233. — magnas gentis, 20.

1162. ararum compleverit: Lane, 1293. Cf. on 40.

1163. sollempnia for alliteration with sacra; cf. foeda fuga for turpis fuga, cited by Keller, Zur lat. Sprachges. II, 56. — See on 1, 96.

1164. magnis rebus, 'great occasions.' Creech paraphrases: 'quae nunc ubique in usu sunt,' and Lamb. interpreted: 'in iis quae ad bellum aut ad pacem pertinent.' Faber thought the verse spurious (and also Bentley), or he would change it to read quae nunc in cunctis sument arisque sociisque. Orelli changed to stata. Giussani apparently makes magnis rebus refer to advanced conditions of civilization, locis to centres like Rome, but I cannot find this in the Latin. — sacra: 3, 145 n.

1165. unde, a sacris. — etiam nunc, in spite of progress; the strange and grotesque Oriental cults were growing; cf. 2, 609.

1166. nova, and so constantly.

1167. celebrare, 'frequent.'

1168. non ita difficilest: Cic. Tusc. 5, 23, 'haec nunc enucleare non ita necesse est,' and Kühner there. Cf. also L. 5, 735.

1169. divom: cf. 2, 646 sq.; Usener, Epic. 232 sq.

1170. Note dactyls.

1171. somnis: Sextus Empir. Math. 9, 25 (Usener, Fr. 353), 'Ἐνικουρος δὲ ἐκ τῶν κατὰ τοὺς ὑπνους φαντασιῶν οἱται τοὺς ἀνθρώπους ἔννοιαν ἐπιτακέναι θεοῦ· μεγάλων γάρ εἰδώλων, φῆσι, καὶ ἀνθρωπομόρφων κατὰ τοὺς ὑπνους προσπιπτόντων ὑπέλαβον καὶ ταῦς ἀληθεῖαις ὑπάρχειν τινὰς τοιούτους θεοὺς ἀνθρωπομόρφους. — mirando: Juv. 13, 221, 'te videt in somnis; tua sacra et maior imago | humana turbat pavidum.'

1172. sensum: sensation and consequently life.

1173. membra movere: 4, 455 n. — videbantur is a true passive: Aet. 1, 7, 34 (Usener, Fr. 355), 'Ἐπίκουρος ἀνθρωποειδῆς μὲν τὸς θεούς, λόγῳ δὲ πάντας θεωρητὸς διὰ τὴν λεπτομέρειαν τῆς τῶν εἰδώλων φύσεως.

1174. facie, beauty and strength befit gods as well as human leaders: 1111. — viribus: cf. Manil. 2, 53.

1175. aeternamque vitam: Cic. ND. 1, 106, 'hoc idem fieri in deo, cuius crebra facie pellantur animi, ex quo esse beati atque aeterni intellegantur.'

1176. subpeditabatur: Cic. ND. 1, 105, 'neque deficiat umquam ex infinitis corporibus similium accessio'; this perpetual succession of images is of the utmost importance.

1177. tantis viribus, i.e. the power stated in 1176.

1178. convinci = vinci. Duff quotes Shaksp. Macbeth, 1, 7, 64, 'his chamberlains Will I with wine and wassail so convince.'

1179. fortunis: 1, 106 n. — putabant with putabant, 1178, careless repetition.

1180. mortis timor . . . vexaret: cf. 2, 45 sq.; 3, 37 sq. He uses metus and timor indifferently with mortis.

1181. multa et mira: mirum et magnum is a more frequent alliterative combination; e.g. Plaut. Pseud. 512.

1182. inde refers to efficere. — laborem: the gods (ipsos) were never weary.

1183. caeli rationes: 2, 178 n. — ordine certo: 679; tempore certo, 656, 669. — 2, 1095, 'quis regere immensi summam . . . potis est . . . quis pariter caelos omnis convertere,' etc.

1184. annorum tempora: 2, 32.

1185. Ignorance is the mother of superstition.

1186. perfugium, figuratively, seems rare; refugium is more common, especially in later Latin. 1

1187. nutu suggests arbitrariness; cf. 4, 1122. — faceré, 'assume,' 1, 655 n.

1188. in caeloque: 3, 662 n. — sedes and templa are here synonyms. — Cf. 146-147.

1189. nox, OQ, M. Giuss.; /ux, Lachm.; sol, Lamb. Br. Bail. Nox, as the more difficult reading, should be retained. Lachmann's argument from the reversal of the order in the epanalepsis is abundantly refuted by M.

1190. luna: alma, Bock. Br. — severa, OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; serena, Candidus, Lamb. Lachm.; severae, Br. Keats' 'the earnest stars' is quoted by Duff. Cf. 4, 460, severa silentia noctis and n.

1191. faces caeli: 2, 206.

1192. sol, OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss. Bail.; ros, Lamb. Br. Sol seems necessary for the completion of the catalogue of awe-inspiring celestial phenomena. — Cf. 675.

1193. rapidi fremitus, 'swift crash.' For the assonance, cf. 1221; 6, 288. — minarum, 'threatening'; cf. on 369.

1194-1240. 'Unhappy men to give the gods such attributes: true religion consists not in ritual offerings, but in surveying all things with peaceful mind. The ignorant spirit is oppressed by Nature, and people and potentates fear divine retribution, and in the great convulsions of nature leave rule to the gods.'

1194. Cf. 2, 14 sq. and Ov. M. 15, 153, 'o genus attonitum gelidae formidine

mortis.' Emped. 124, D., ὁ πότοι, ὁ δειλὸν θυητῶν γέρος, ὁ δυσάνθλον, | τοιων ἐκ τ' ἐρίδων ἐκ τε στοναχῶν ἐγένεσθε (M.).

1195. iras: 2, 651, '(divom natura) neque tangitur ira'; 6, 69, 'dis indigna putare alienaque pacis eorum.' Iram would have been metrically inconvenient here, but not in 3, 311, where see n. — adiunxit: cf. 2, 604.

1196. ipso, former generations; nobis, present.

1197. volnera: 3, 63 n. — minorib: L. despairs of winning universal acceptance of his doctrine. Sen. Thy. 135, 'et maior placeat culpa minoribus.'

1198. velatum: generally the Roman manner, instead of the Greek aperto capite; according to the legend, Aeneas veiled his head and escaped Ulysses while performing sacrifice at Laurentum. Aen. 3, 405, 'purpureo velare comes adopertus amictu, | neque inter sanctos ignis in honore deorum | hostilis facies occurrat et omnia turbet.' See in general Marquardt, Staatsverw. 3, 186–189. — Giussani brackets 1198–1203, following Sauppe (Cod. Vict. 14), who regarded 1204–1248 as a later addition on account of nam, 1204, and repetition of the thought in 1183 sq. Certainly the connexion between 1197 and 1198 and 1203 and 1204 is not close, yet it is endurable if L. is not held to rigid logic. It is an unsympathetic digression on ritual. See Giuss. also in Note L. 70.

1199. vertier: Suet. Vit. 2, 'adorare ut deum . . . capite velato circumvertens-que se, deinde procumbens'; Tibull. 1, 2, 85 sq. Note the ostentation in videri vertier. Cf. Marquardt, 178–179. — lapidem, perhaps with scorn, as in the hymn 'bows down to wood and stone,' although often the god was fixed in a rude stone as well as in a finished statue. — omnis . . . aras: Aen. 4, 56, 'pacemque per aras | exquirunt,' — from one to another.

1200. Note the alliteration. — pandere palmas: Hor. C. 3, 23, 1, 'caelo supinas si tuleris manus.'

1201. deum delubra: 2, 352 n. — Sil. 4, 791, 'quae porro haec pietas, delubra adspergere tabo? | heu primae scelerum causae mortalibus aegris | naturam nescire deum.'

1202. vota: probably votive tablets. Hor. C. 1, 5, 13, 'me tabula sacer | votiva paries indicat,' etc. Aen. 12, 767 sq.

1203. mage: 4, 81 n. — pacata: divine peace is his great object; see Martha, 353.

1204. Hor. Ep. 1, 6, 3, 'hunc solem et stellas et decedentia certis | tempora momentis sunt qui formidine nulla | inbuti spectent.' — nam, for this calmness of mind is needed when, etc.

1205. super stellisque for superque stellis. Enn. Sc. 196, 'o magna templa caelium commixta stellis splendidissimis.' — fixum, 'studded'; he is not thinking of his astronomical theories here.

1206. venit in mentem viarum: only here in L.; a not uncommon Ciceronian construction.

1207. pectora, OQ, Lachm. edd.; pectore, Itali, Br. 'In pectora nihil caput erigere possit nisi infra pectus sit, i.e. in ventre,' Br. M. translates, 'into our breasts . . . fear as well begins to exalt its reawakened head,' which is dubious English. Giuss. interpretation of in as 'in the face of' needs justification of its Latinity. For the thought, cf. 1, 64, 'quae caput a caeli regionibus ostendebat.' If in be taken as 'against,' there will be no trouble.

1208. The caesuras are after factum and ex; cf. on 3, 258.—infit: 3, 515 n.
1209. nequaes: cf. aliquae, 4, 263.
1210. candida, 'brilliant'; cf. 779.—verset: Aen. 9, 93, 'torquet qui sidera mundi.'
1211. dubiam, 'puzzled.'—rationis egestas: 6, 54, 'ignorantia causarum.'
1212. genitalis origo: 175, 324.—ecquae is used only in this sentence by L.
1213. quoad: 2, 850 n.
1214. solliciti: Bentl. edd.; 1, 343 n. Alta citi, Tohte, Jahrb. 117, 133; et tanti, Lamb.; et taciti, OQ, retained by Bock., who supplies mundi. Taciti will sometime be restored, but et is wrong.—laborem, 'strain.'
1215. salute, 'preservation.'
- 1216 = 1, 1004.
- 1217 = 379.
1218. formidine divom: 6, 51 sq.—Petr. Fr. 27, 'primus in orbe deos fecit timor, ardua caelo | fulmina cum caderent discussaque moenia flammis | atque ictus flagraret Athos,' etc.
1219. contrahitur: Cic. ad Quint. 1, 1, 4, 'ne contrahas ac demittas animum.'—correpunt, like worms. Sen. NQ. 6, 2, 6, 'quid enim dementius quam ad tonitrua succidere et sub terram correpere fulminum metu?'
1220. fulminis: Sext. Emp. Math. 9, 24, δρῦντες βροτὰς καὶ δστρατὰς κεραυνούς τε καὶ δστρων συνόδους ἡλον τε καὶ σελήνης ἐκλείψεις θεμαντόρο θεούς οἰδμένους είρων from Democritus.—torrida, parched before the rain: Bock. territa.—tellus, perhaps to avoid the recurrence of a in terra.
1221. Notice the heavy m, as in 1193.
1222. populi gentesque: Psalm 2, 1, 'quare fremuerunt gentes et populi meditati sunt inania?' M. quotes Livy, 45, 19, 'inter multas regum gentiumque et populorum legationes.' Aen. 6, 706, 'gentes populique.'
1223. corripiunt: 6, 1161, 'corripere adsidue nervos.' Cf. Hidén, Archiv, 10, 99.
1224. admissum: 3, 827 n.
1225. poenarum solvendi: Plaut. Capt. 852, nominandi istorum, and Elmer there; Dr. § 597, 1 d; Roby, II, lxviii; Lane, 2261; Brenous, Hellén. 119. Paul, Principles of Language, 1889, 163, regards the construction as a contamination of poenas solvendi and poenarum solvendarum.—adactum, Marull. vulg. Bock. Giuss.; adauctum, OQ; adultum, Lachm. edd. Adactum is nearer the MSS. and has a juristic flavor. The same corruption in 1330.
1226. Note the alliteration of v and its effect.
1227. induperatorem: 1, 82 n.—classis is the fleet of transports, as in 1, 100; the army is indicated in 1228.—Br. classi.—verrit: cf. 266.
1228. cum pariter, 'equally with'; 6, 590, 'subsedere suis cum civibus urbes,' and 3, 168.
1229. non, not nonne: 2, 209 n.—divom pacem adit for deos adit ut pacem dent. Apul. M. 6, 3, adire . . . dei veniam.—quaesit: here only in L., who is following the early writers.—This verse was probably imitated from some old poet, perhaps Ennius.
- 1230 is bracketed by Lachm., but it is needed for symmetry if for nothing else.—

paces: Hor. Ep. 2, 1, 102, 'hoc paces habuere bonae ventique secundi' (M.).—
animas, 'breezes'; cf. 6, 578.

1231. nequiquam: 4, 464 n.—violento turbine: 368 n.—saepe: 3, 120 n.
 1232. correptus: 1, 294 n.—vada leti, the shallows which bring death.
 1233. vis abdita quaedam is the power of Nature exhibited in catastrophe and cataclysm, which can be guarded against by the wise to a small degree only; to this extent, then, the sentiment is pessimistic. Cf. 6, 29 sq. 'Weakness, fear, melancholy, together with ignorance, are therefore true sources of superstition,' Hume, Essay X. See Bindseil, 27; Patin, Potsie L. 1, 122.
 1234. fascis saevasque secures: 3, 996.
 1235. Iudibrio: cf. Iudibria, 2, 47.
 1236. vacillat from earthquake; also in 6, 575.
 1237. dubiae: 4, 518, 'iam ruere ut quaedam videantur velle.' Arn. 1, 3, 'terra-rum validissimis motibus tremefactae nutant usque ad periculum civitatis' (Wakef.).
 Sen. NQ. 6, 1, 2, 'Herculanensis oppidi pars ruit dubieque stant etiam quae relicta sunt' (Duff).—que = ve; 3, 284 n.
 1238. se temnunt: 'from which mood was born | Scorn of herself,' Tennyson,
Pal. of Art.
 1239. miras, 'astounding'; for alliteration, see on 2, 1028.—relinquunt, 'admit.'
 Madvig, requirunt; 3, 40 n.
 1240. gubernent: 107, fortuna gubernans.
 1241–1280. 'Metals were discovered after fire had burned the forests, and moulds were suggested by the shapes of the ingots; by artificial heat they were softened and shaped into weapons and tools: gold was then useless, but now bronze is despised; so time brings changes.'
 1241. repertumst: each was discovered in due time, not invented by Minerva, Neptune, etc. Bock, Jahrb. 99, 267, aeris vis aeque aurum, retaining aeque of OQ, and avoiding mention of ferrum. Atque, Marull. edd.
 1242. potestas: periphrasis, for lead is not strong, neither is silver proverbially heavy; cf. on 495 and 3, 247.
 1243. ignis: Sen. Ep. 90, 12, 'qui ferri metallia et aeris invenerint, cum incendio silvarum adusta tellus in summo venas iacentes liquefacta fudisset,' naming Posido-nius, who, with others, mentions the liquefaction of ores by forest fires. Posidonus is also cited by Athenaeus, 6, 23, and says that the Alps caught fire once and ran with liquid silver.—Of course L. may have learned about this from Posidonus, but there can be no certainty. Possibly he may have thought of it himself, even if he was a Roman.—ingentis: ingenti, Br. Giuss. needlessly.
 1244. montibus magnis: 1, 201 n.—caeli, Q, O corr. edd.; cf. 1, 489; caelo, O, Lachm.
 1245. silvestre: L. conceives the primal earth as covered with trees, not as a prairie; cf. 1370. The Apennines were wooded in his day.
 1246. ergo: 3, 78 n.—Livy, 22, 38, 4, 'fugae atque formidinis ergo' (M.).
 1247. terrae bonitate: cf. the lex. for frequent similar phrases.
 1248. Note alliteration.—pandere, 'clear' of trees.—pascua, predicate.
 1249. praeda: cf. 875.
 1250. venarier: 4, 765.

1251. Note alliteration.—Georg. 1, 139, ‘tum laqueis captare feras et fallere visco | inventum et magnos canibus circumdare saltus.’—cire, ‘drive,’ i.e. feras in saltum.

1252. quidquid id est: cf. 577.—flammeus ardor: cf. 1093.

1253. M. quotes P.L. 11, 566, ‘two massy clods of iron and brass | Had melted (whether found where casual fire | Had wasted woods on mountain or in vale, | Down to the veins of earth —).’

1254. ab, edd.; a, OQ. 6, 921 is the only other passage where O has a before r against 21 for ab. See on 1, 554.

1255. According to Posidonius, the precious metals in Spain were discovered in this way: see Schrader-Jevons, Prehistoric Antiq. of Aryan Peoples, 150.

1256. Georg. 2, 165, ‘haec eadem argenti rivos aerisque metalla | ostendit venis atque auro plurima fluxit.’

1257. Notice the omission of iron, which demands ordinarily a high temperature for its reduction.

1258. in terra, Lachm. edd.; in terras, OQ, defended by Crouslè in the sense ‘over the earth.’

1259. capti lepore: cf. 1, 15.

1260. simili . . . atque: 2, 1074.

1261. vestigia, the ‘footsteps’ of the fleeting metal, is highly poetical. In simple prose the word would mean ‘outlines.’ Housman objects, and would write fastigia, according to his alteration of 4, 87 (J. Phil. 25, 239).—Tac. Dial. 33, vestigia et lineamenta.

1262. penetrabat: ‘it got into them’ (there was no Posidonius standing by to tell them). This impersonal use of penetrare is unexampled, and looks like vulgar Latin.

1263. decurrere, i.e. mutari decurrente.

1264. et prorsum, ‘and so further.’—quamvis = quantumvis, as in 3, 735.

1265. For the rhythm cf. 3, 191.—fastigia, ‘points.’—procudendo: Georg. 1, 261, ‘procudit arator | vomeris . . . dentem.’

1266. tela: primarily spears, weapons of offence; then tools of industry.—parent . . . possint, OQ, Wakef., Giuss., Crouslè, Bail.; darent . . . possent, Lachm. M. Br. If darent be read, the subject must be haec (metalla), a harsher construction than the strange sequence. Cf. Holtze, 138. Perhaps the corruption lies still deeper.

1267. dolare et levia, Marull., M., Bail.; dolaret levare ac, OQ; domo levare ac, Lachm., Br.; dolare ac radere tigna trabesque, Brandt, Giuss.; dolare et levare aspera tigna, Goebel; tigna valerent, Housman, J. Phil. 25, 269. Polle thought levare a gloss on dolare, but the synonyms in the next line make this improbable.—levia, predicate.—radere, ‘plane.’

1268. Terebra was a gimlet or auger, perforacula, a gouge.

1269. parabant: cf. 1148. Historians of culture would hardly accept this statement.

1270. Validus and violentus are unusual epithets of aes.

1271. potestas (corum): a periphrasis; cf. 1242, but close to the literal meaning.

1272. poterant, OQ, edd.; poterat, Lachm. M. (hesitating), Br. — pariter durum sufferre laborem recurs in 1359. Cf. 3, 999 and n.

1273. tum, Lachm., late edd.; nam, OQ, iam, Bock. But perhaps nam ‘obviously’ should be retained. It is difficult to see how tum could have been corrupted into nam with nunc in 1275.—iacebat, Ov. Am. 2, 2, 30, ‘ille potens. alii sordida turba iacent.’—aes, Flor. 31, edd.

1274. Tert. de Cultu Fem. 1, 5, ‘nullum bidens aurum demergit in terram, nullus clavus argentum intimat tabulis.’

1275. Ov. F. 1, 221, ‘aera dabant olim; melius nunc omen in auro est.’ Cf. 1123.

1276. Cf. 831 sq.—volvenda, 514 n.—tempora rerum, Aen. 7, 37; Hor. S. 1, 3, 112, ‘tempora si fastosque velis evolvere mundi.’

1277. nullo honore, 1294, versa in obprobrium.

1278. Cf. 833.—e, Itali.

1279. repertum, repletum, Br.

1280. 6, 12, ‘et honore et laude potentis.’

1281–1307. ‘Arms were hands and teeth, then stones and fire; then came the metals. Horsemen preceded the chariot, later, elephants were used; and so the horror of war increased.’

1281. ferri natura, ferri vis, 1286.

1282. ipsi per te: cf. 1, 407.

1283. Hor. S. 1, 3, 101, ‘unguis et pugnis, dein fustibus, atque ita porro | pugnabant armis, quae post fabricaverat usus.’

1284. silvarum fragmina: 1, 284 n. Pliny, 7, 200, ‘proelium Afri contra Aegyptios primi fecere fustibus quos vocant phalangas.’—rami: cf. 968 and Prop. 1, 1, 13, ‘Hylaei percussus vulnere rami.’

1285. atque, connecting synonyms: 3, 141 n.

1286. vis is something more than a periphrasis: 2, 103, fera ferri corpora; 2, 449. Georg. 1, 143, has ferri rigor.

1287. Hesiod, Op. 151, χαλκῷ δὲ εἰργάσσοντο μέλας δὲ οὐκ ἔσκε σιδηρός; Ov. F. 4, 405, ‘aes erat in pretio: chalybeia massa latebat.’ This ancient tradition is reflected in the names of the ages of the world.—On the much-disputed question whether the use of iron was earlier or later than that of bronze or copper, see Blümner, Techn. 4, 52.

1288. facilis: Tib. 1, 1, 40, ‘de facili compositique luto.’—copia maior, because often found pure, while iron is less apparent when in the form of ore.

1289. Cf. 934.

1290. fluctus, 1435, ‘belli magnos aestus.’—vasta, ‘monstrous’; more than gravia.—serebant, Plaut. Men. 1012, ‘hisce ego iam sementem in ore faciam pugnosque obserbam.’

1291. Cf. 1110.

1292. inerma: the form is quoted from Cic. Caec. 93, Fam. 11, 12, 1. Cf. on 3, 714.

1293. minutatim, 2, 1131 n.

1294. in with acc. to express purpose is common in later Latin.—obprobrium: Macr. 6, 1, 63, quotes with obscenum.—species, in periphrasis; cf. 2, 364.—falcis ahenaee, mentioned in Aen. 4, 513. Owing to religious conservatism, sacred instruments and the like would still be made of bronze, and yet these metals would be disregarded for effectual service.

1295. proscindere : 209 n.

1296. exaequata, 'evened up,' because all were equally well armed.—creperi, Pac. 128, Acc. 601, 628, 'in re crepera'; 'dubious,' 'wavering'; said to be an old Sabine word.

1297. L. rambles in the next few lines.—armatum : cf. velatum, 1198. He would not speak of 'climbing up on the ribs of a horse' if he sympathized with the military spirit.

1299. biiugo : cf. 2, 601. 'Bigas prima iunxit Phrygum natio, quadrigas Erichthonius,' Pliny, 7, 202.

1300. bis binos : Virgil used quadriungos (Georg. 3, 18).

1301. falciferos, 3, 642. —escendere is apparently used for metrical convenience for conscendere. Cf. Drak. on Livy, 2, 28, 6. Cicero uses conscendere only of ships, and escendere in the sense 'climb up' of laborious effort: Krebs-Schmalz.

1302. boves lucas, established by 1339; cas, OQ, lucas, Q corr. Luca bos, 'elephas,' as Varro says, LL. 7, 39, because the Romans in Lucanis Pyrrhi bello primum vidissent elephantos. Aus. Ep. 15, 12, 'ut Lucas boves | olim resumpto praeferoceps proelio | fugit iuventus Romula.' Pliny, 8, 16, 'elephantos Italia primum vidit Pyrrhi regis bello et boves Lucas appellavit, in Lucanis visos anno urbis 472.'—taetras : Enn. Ann. 607, atrosque elephantos, on which Isidorus says tetrum enim veteres pro fero. The hippopotamus was called bos Aegyptius.

1303. anguimanus : 2, 537 n.—belli volnera : Enn. Ann. 205, 'volnera bellii desperrunt.'—Poeni, a reminiscence of the Punic struggle which made so profound an impression : cf. 3, 833. Bock. paene.

1304. catervas, not orderly Roman legions, but barbaric troops : cf. 2, 611 and see lex.

1305. alid : 3, 970 n.

1306. horrible, emphatic by position.

1307. inque dies : 4, 1069 n.

1308-1349. 'They tried to use bulls and other animals in warfare, but these turned on friend and foe alike, just as elephants sometimes do. They were probably used only in the last resort, with the courage of despair.'

1308. moenere belli : 1, 32.

1309. Note alliteration.—sues, considered as wild: 985. Spart. Carac. 6, 5, 'feris etiam bestiis in hostes inmissis' of a battle with the Parthians.

1310. partim : cf. 1143.

1311. doctoribus, 'trainers,' occurs first here; Verona and old vulg. ductoribus.—saevia, 'stern.'

1312. moderarier with dative 'check,' with acc. (1298) 'regulate.'—vincis, so that they could not break away.

1313. permixta caede calentes : 3, 643.

1314. nullo discriminē : 924, discrimina servant.—turmas, of cavalry; cf. 1316.

1315 = 2, 632, except undique for numine; rejected by Faber and Lachmann because lions do not have crests, although Wakef. thought the term poetical for manes. The verse is defended by M. Giuss. and Neumann, 30; and rejected by Polle, Phil. 26, 531; Gneisse, 77. It is needed for symmetry, which L. usually has in the nequiquam passages: 1308—1312, 1313—1317.—Munro's notion of artificial crests is improbable. Housman transfers it to follow 1304 (J. Phil. 25, 243), where it would be trivial.

1316. fremitu, of lions, 3, 297.

1317. pectora mulcere: 1390, animos mulcebant.

1318. irritata: cf. 1063.—lea: Scholiasts on V. Ecl. 2, 63, veteres dicebant hic et haec leo. Varro used lea; perhaps Catull. 60, 1, is the first occurrence of leaena; see Ellis there.

1319. venientibus: 3, 752, of hostile approach.

1320. nec opinantis: 3, 959 n.

1321. deplexae, ἀντλεύματα, probably means 'folding themselves over.' Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 142, would read complexae. De has a similar sense in dealbo, deargento, deauro, decurro, etc., mostly late Latin, thus again showing L.'s vocabulary of non-literary words. Deplexae may have been a word of the amphitheatre. Wakef. quotes a gloss: deplectitur, περικαμπτεται.

1322. Georg. 4, 237, 'morsibus inspirant et spicula caeca relinquont | adfixae venis.'

1323. Cf. 1068.

1324. haubrant: Hom. N 507, διὰ δ' ἐντέρα χαλκός | ήφυσ'. Ov. M. 5, 126, 'haerenti latus haurit Abas.' Notice the skill of the poet in the continued use of the imperfect indicative.

1325. ruebant: 1, 272 n.—fronte, edd. after Lachm. for mente, is defended by Ov. Am. 3, 13, 15, 'vituli nondum metuenda fronte minaces,' quoted by M. But probably mente should be retained: minitanti mente = minitabiliter, so 1, 1022, sagaci mente = sagaciter; 1, 925, mente vigente = valenter. On adverbs in -ter, see on 3, 676.

1326. socios: no more than human associates here.

1327, rejected by Lamb. ed. 2 and 3, and by Giuss., who thinks that it and the following verse belong after 2, 631.—infracts, 3, 155 n. Aen. 10, 731, 'infractaque tela cruentat,' and edd. there.

1328, rejected by edd. except Bock., M., and Lamb. ed. 1. The verse at first appears to be another form of 1327, but L. is so fond of repetitions that if 1189 be retained, 1328 should be also. Both 1327—1328 should be retained or rejected. Discussion by Gneisse, 77.

1329. dabant ruinas: 2, 1145.

1330. transversa, 'shying'; cf. 4, 422, and on 2, 213.—exibant, 'escaped': 6, 1217, 1206; Aen. 5, 438, tela . . . exit.—adactus, 'push,' is ἀντλεύμα; adauctus, OQ; 1, 689 n. and cf. on 6, 778.

1331. iumenta, only here in L., seems to be opposed to feros.—ventus petebant, 'pawed the air'; Vulgate, 1 Cor. 9, 26, aerem verberans.—erecta, 'rearing.' Aen. 10, 892, 'tollit se arrectum quadrupes et calcibus auras | verberat' (Wakef.).

1332. ab, local; cf. on 1, 693.—succisa: Livy, 44, 28, 14, 'equi pars . . .

absumpti, parti nervos succiderunt'; many exx. in lex. of this meaning 'hamstrung.'

1333. terram consternere: Cic. Arat. 433, 'ille gravi moriens constravit corpore terram'; Aen. 12, 543, 'late terram consterneret tergo'.

1334. siquos: 1, 217, siguid. — domi domitos: notice the unhappy repetition, somewhat like Cicero's notorious fortunatam natam. — 3, 746, 'semine seminoque.'

1335. effervescere: usually of anger; metaphor from boiling water; cf. 3, 295 n.

1336. Note asyndeton.

1337. reducere: 1, 228 n.

1338. genus omne ferarum: 1, 163 n.—6, 363, variae causae . . . omnes.

1339. mactae: from the rare verb maco, not elsewhere certainly found. It is explained by an early proposed emendation 'male caesae.' Bock. and Albert, Phil. 56, tactae. — Muller, Festus, p. 397, proposes macti in a verse now assigned to Livius Andronicus, Fr. 23.

1340. facta, OQ, M.; fata, Q corr. Lachm. edd. Fata is an obvious correction, due to taking dedere as 'gave' instead of 'caused,' a frequent Lucretian use. — fera facta: Ov. M. 3, 248, is cited by Howard.

1341–1346 are rejected by M., who regards 1341 as a comment on 1347. Lachm. rejects 1344–1346, 1345 being = 528, and places 1343 before 1342 and also changes si, 1341, to sic with the Itali. Br. Bail. follow him except that they retain si. Giuss. rejects 1341–1349 as a marginal note by L., but in Note L. he would bracket only 1344–1346; 1347–1349 he regards as inconsistent with 1344–1346. Van d. Valk, 145, would merely transfer 1343 to follow 1341 with no further change. Vahlen, Berlin Index, 1881, 17, keeps all, and Neumann, 34, rejects all as interpolated. I incline to Giussani's earlier opinion.

1341. 'If they really did, but perhaps,' etc.—si: cf. 1, 1057 and n.—adducor (ut credam), a common brachylogy, Dr. § 408; not elsewhere in L.

1342. The involved construction is in L.'s manner and the change in order does not seem necessary.

1343. foedum, as if with vulnus, which occurs in Ovid.—Madv. Opusc. 1, 229, fuerit for fieret; Goebel, foret id.

1344. omni, 'universe,' as a whole; cf. 527.

1345 = 528.

1346. Cf. 526, in hoc mundo, which an interpolator would have copied, as Giuss. remarks.

1347. facere id: to use beasts in warfare.

1348. perire (voluerunt). Perirent was an early conjecture.

1349. vacabant must mean 'had no effective arms,' 'inferior in,' as they must have had some weapons. Bock. lababant.

1350–1360. 'Weaving came after iron, and was done first by men who later turned to sterner tasks.'

1350. Nexilis, 'plaited,' said by Ov. M. 2, 499 of plagae, id. 6, 128, of hederae. Naturally plaiting would come before weaving, which is plaiting by machinery with closer west. Probably coarse fibres were used: Diog. En. (Rh.M. 47, 440) 24 a, eis ἔτιλιαις ημάτων ήλθον, διὰ δὲ τῶν περιβαλῶν, οἱ ἐποιήσαντο τοῖς σώμασιν, εἰ τε φύλλοις αὐτὰ σκέπαστε, εἰ τε βοτάραις εἰ τε καὶ δοραῖς, ἀναιροῦντες ήδη τὰ πρόβατα, εἰς ἐνθύμησιν

εσθήτων, στρεπτῶν μὲν οὕπω, κασωτῶν (felt?) δέ λοις ή ὅποιων οὐδε. εἴτα δὲ προβάλλων ὁ χρόνος ταῖς ἐπινοαις αὐτῶν ή τῶν μετὰ αὐτοῦς ἐνέβαλεν καὶ τὸν ιστόν. Probably the order of the garments was: skins wrapped about the body, then tied together; then rudely fashioned cloth, like mats, of grasses or cut up skins; finally woven cloth.

1351. paratur, ‘made’; cf. 156.—tela means the weaver’s beam, loom, as well as the web; see lex. This was made with tools of iron; see Moore, Cl. R. 4, 450.

1352. alia, not with tools of stone or copper.

1353. ‘heddles (or treadles) and spindles, shuttles and sounding yarn beams,’ but the exact signification is uncertain, insilia being ἀπ. λεγ.; see Blümner, Techn. I, 143; Marquardt, PL. 2, 519 sq.; Rich, Dict. 352; Wolff, 21.

1354. facere lanam: CIL I, 1007, domum servavit lanam fecit. Kelsey quotes Herod. 2, 35, οἱ δὲ ἄνδρες, κατ' ὅλους ἔστρεψαν ὑφαλούσατο, of the Egyptians.

1355. ‘L’inferiorité de la femme sur l’homme dans les travaux industriels surtout dans ceux qui exigent l’adresse n’est pas plus démontrée de nos jours que dans l’antiquité,’ Guyau, 164. Cf. a similar opinion in Plato, Rep. 455 c.

1356. genus virile I do not find elsewhere.—omne is almost an adverb—‘in general.’

1357. The force of public opinion. The inference is that farmers turned aside from agriculture to spinning. But women are the farmers in the beginnings of culture. L. is confusing culture grades.

1358. The easier manual labor only at an advanced stage is surrendered to women.

1359. Cf. 1272. The verse is bracketed by Giuss. with reason; the makeshift repetition of 1272 was to be replaced by 1360, which was rejected by Faber.

1360. Note alliteration.—durarent: durarunt, vulg. before Lamb., Bock. Br.

1361–1378. ‘Nature suggested planting and grafting because seeds and shoots came up spontaneously. More and more land was cultivated, and the trees of the forest retired up the mountains before those which bore fruit.’

1361. specimen: 186.—origo, ‘originator.’

1362. rerum natura creatrix: 1, 629.

1363. arboribus: probably abl. of sep. from Dig. 50, 16, 30, 4, ‘glans caduca est quae ex arbore cecidit’; but it may go with super.

1364. pullorum, of young plants, is cited from Cato, RR. 51 and Palladius, 4, 9.—examina: strictly applicable to bees, but gradually used generally, even of abstract things; see lex.

1365. libitumast, ‘took their fancy’ (by way of experiment). Cf. 3, 540.

1366. Cf. 935.

1367. aliam atque aliam: 1, 813.—dulcis agelli, the diminutive and adjective both imply affection.

1368. mansuescere with object is quoted from Varro and Corippus; cf. bracchia consuescunt, 6, 397 and on 4, 1282.—Georg. 2, 36, ‘fructusque feros mollite colendo.’—terram: Lachm. for terra.

1369. indulgendo: cf. habendo, 1, 312 n.

1370. succedere, ‘retire by ascending’; an unusual turn.

1371. cultis: 1, 164.

1372. -que closing an asyndeton, 69 n.—Note the provision for irrigation.—vine-taque laeta: 2, 1157.

1373. collibus for pasturage (2, 317) and for vineyards. Colles and campi alliterate in 4, 389; 5, 784.

1374. caerulea: olive leaves are now grayish green and must have had the same color in L.'s lifetime. Ov. AA. 2, 518, caerulea Palladis arbor; Manil. 5, 260, caeruleumve oleis, quoted by Blümner, Farben, 137.—distinguens, 'bounding'; cf. 1, 527. So rows of eucalyptus bound hillside fields in California.—intercurrere: 2, 373.—plaga, 'strip'; plaga pinea montis, Aen. 11, 320.

1375. profusa with plaga.—convallis: properly enclosed valleys, but here merely alliterative with campos.

1376. lepose: 4, 82, 'perfusa lepose omnia.'

1377. omnia: M. comp. 1066.—pomis: Tib. 2, 1, 43, consita pomus.

1378. arbustis, 'groves'; 1, 187 n.

1379-1435. 'Music was suggested by the birds and zephyrs and gave delight to rustic life; there was dancing, and merriment. But afterwards these simple pleasures lost their charm, and discontent tortured men as it does at present.'

1379. liquidas: 4, 546 n.—imitarier: 4, 765 n.—Wakef. quotes Athen. Θ 43, Χαμαλέτων δι Πορτικόδι έφη τὴν εὔρεσιν τῆς μουσικῆς . . . ἀπὸ τῶν . . . πέπτυτων ὄρθιων· ών κατὰ μίμησιν λαβεῖν στρᾶσιν τὴν μουσικήν.—Lachm. brackets this passage as a later addition.

1380. ante fuit multo quam, 'came much earlier'; 4, 845.—levia: opposite of aspera, tristis, horrida oratio (Cic. Or. 20), there opposed to levis, structa et terminata.—Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 282, mollia; Nencini, omnia.

1381. concelebrare, 'to make frequent,' practise, 1, 4 n.

1382. cava calamorum: 1, 315 n.—sibila, 'whistling.'

1383. cicutas: V. Ecl. 2, 36, 'est mihi disparibus septem compacta cicutis | fistula.'

1384. inde minutatim: 2, 1131 n.—dulcis querellas: 4, 584.—Giuss. places 1384, 1385 after 1404.

1385 = 4, 585.

1386. silvas saltusque occurs also in alliterative combination in Virg. Tac. Catull. Notice also the vowel change and see Wölfflin, Allit. 18, 83.—reperta, OQ; repertas, Bock. Br. Bail. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 282, reposta: Albert, remota. Whether the pipe was found throughout the woods or its 'complaints' is immaterial. Giuss. would transfer 1386-1387 to follow 1408.

1387. dia, 'unearthly,' M. Tennyson speaks of 'diviner air and diviner light' in The Sisters.—otia: the pl. occurs here first in poetry; Archiv, 12, 545.

1388-1389 = 1454-1455, rejected here by Lachm. and recent edd. except Bock., who puts them after 1378; but there they would be as gratuitous as here.

1390. animos: cf. 1317.—ollis: 3, 271 n.

1391. cum, 'after.'—satiestate: 2, 1038. M. inserts haec from an early source. Lachm. Br. Giuss. change omnia to carmina. Omnia refers to the childish pleasures that they received in everything, not only in carmina, but in what follows in 1392 sq. Faber read otia, Hav. somnia, Bock. comia, Voss, chordae. If tum means only after dinner, omnia may still be taken of postprandial benevolence. Cf. omnia in 214.

1392-1396 = 2, 29-33, but 1392, saepe itaque; 1394, habebant; 1395, ridebat; 1396, pingebant. They are regarded as interpolated here by Neumann, 22, and Gneisse, 76, because they represent pleasures of a refined age and imply a second dinner, but probably the change from curant, 2, 31, to habebant was in part intended to avoid such a thought. As Lohmann, 28, says, curo has frequently a wider reference than to food (i.e. ‘treat,’ Plaut. Capt. 314). Alebant for habebant was read in marg. of Verona. Bock., ‘thaten sich Etwas zu Gute’; M., ‘refreshed.’

1397. tum . . . tum, etc.: mark the anaphora.—ioca: Ciceronian usage instead of iota.—cachinni: here only in L.; the corresponding verb he always uses in ridicule. The pl. is not uncommon.

1398. agrestis musa: V. Ecl. 6, 8, ‘agrestem . . . meditabor . . . Musam.’—Tib. 1, 3, 59, ‘hi choreae cantusque vigent’.

1399. plexis: Catull. 64, 283, ‘hos indistinctis plexos tult ipse corollis.’—redimere: Ov. 2, 369, ‘frontem redimita coronis.’

1400. Creech interprets, floribus, foliis, plexis denique coronis; but probably floribus et foliis are merely epexegetical of coronis; plexis de floribus can possibly be defended by plectentes coronam de spinis, Vulg. Evang. Matt. 27, 29; or floribus may be regarded as an abl. of instrument.

1401. extra numerum: Cic. Parad. 3, 26, ‘histrio si paulum se movit extra numerum’; Hor. Ep. 1, 18, 59, ‘nil extra numerum fecisse modumque,’ and Lamb. there. Cf. in numerum, 2, 631 n.—membra moventes: 4, 455 n.

1402. Note alliteration.—duriter, ‘clumsily.’—pellere: Catull. 61, 14, ‘pelle humum pedibus,’ and frequently elsewhere of a rhythmic beat.

1403. risus is more than ‘smiles.’

1404. For the thought, cf. 6, 674 sq.—magis modifies nova and mira, which thus take the place of comparatives not in use; cf. 2, 100.

1405. somno, OQ, Wakef. Giuss., who cites, after M., Livy, 25, 16, 20, ‘solacium suae morti inventurum.’ L. means here compensation for insomnia. Wakef. cites Ciris, 181, malis . . . solatia tantis. This use of solatium is common in the jurists, who use pro with the abl. instead of the dative. For L.’s use of juristic terms, see on 3, 971. Lachm. and most recent edd. read somni. See Giuss. in Note L. Lachm. quotes Aesch. Agam. 17, ὅτιον . . . ἀπτιμολητον . . . ἄκος, namely by δέλθευ. —Bock. and Giuss. would place 1405–1408 after 1383.

1406. Tib. 1, 7, 37, voces inflectere cantu. Aen. 4, 463, longas in flatumducere voces. Ducere means to produce the tone, and fluctere to change it to another note.

1407. supera: 3, 385.—calamos . . . labro: 4, 588 n.

1408. Br., following Purmann, infers a lacuna after this verse.—vigiles: the night watchmen (in Rome) keep up the country melodies. Rome was constantly recruited from the country.—accepta: Cic. Off. 3, 44, ‘praeflamarum a maioribus accipimus morem.’ The sense ‘agreeable’ is un-Lucretian.

1409. genus, OQ, Giuss. Br.; Bail. †; sonis, Lachm.; recens, M.; genis, Everett, Harv. St. 7, 35. The reference is to dancing; cf. 1401. Genus was repeated from 1411 and the proper word has been lost (perhaps choris or aliquem). Numerum as gen. pl. seems improbable, but is advocated by Giuss., Howard, J. Phil. 1, 136, Cartault, 19, and several early scholars. Numeris, Itali.

1410. interea: 3, 1020 n.

1411. terrigenarum probably first occurs here, unless in the poet in Cic. Div. 2, 133, ‘terrigenam herbigradam domiportam sanguine cassam,’ which is worthy of Pacuvius.

1412. praesto: 2, 1068 n.
1413. Calp. 7, 45, 'vilia sunt nobis, quaecumque prioribus annis | vidimus, et sordet quidquid spectavimus olim.'
1414. reperta is probably nom. and illa acc.; cf. the ambiguity in I, 414; 2, 8. 'As the hunter pursues the hare, through cold and heat, over hill and dale, but, as soon as it is taken, no longer cares for it, and only delights in chasing that which flees from him,' Ariosto, 10, 7, quoted by Montaigne, Friendship.
1415. immutat, most frequent of sentiment, but otherwise in L. 6, 1122.
1416. Juv. 14, 184, 'contingunt homini veteris fastidia quercus.'
1417. aucta: cf. 987 and on 3, 626.
1418. Cf. 954.—cedidit: cf. iacet, 1275.
1419. reor: on I, 154.
1420. letum, not mortem, as the death was violent.
1421. et tamen, 'and none the less'; 3, 51 n.—sanguine: abl. of price.
1422. convertere: 4, 1130 n.
1423. aurum et purpura, opposed to pelles; wealth shown in dress.
1424. fatigant: 3, 826, curisque fatigat.
1425. magis, but the present generation has less excuse.—nobis, hominibus, human nature as exhibited in L.'s generation. Primitive man was discontented with his lot, and envy was as destructive then as now. Contentment, not wealth, is the true gospel.
1426. Skins were a necessary evil.
1427. nil, Bergk, nunc.
1428. apta: cf. 928 and 6, 357.—signis, Aen. I, 648, 'pallam signis auroque rigentem,' whence Jortin and Wakef. rigenibus.
1429. plebeia: 2, 36, plebeia veste and n.—defendere, sc. frigus, to which Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 283, objects, and supplies in a supposed lacuna frigus et ardorem solis nimiumque calorem. Hor. S. I, 3, 14, 'toga quae defendere frigus | quamvis crassa queat.'—Facsimile of verses 1429–1457 in Flor. 29 may be found in Chatelain.
1430. incassum: 2, 1060 n.
1431. in was added by Flor. 31.—curis inanibus: 3, 116 n.
1432. Ov. F. I, 195, 'crevit amor, qui nunc est summus, habendi'; id. 211, 'opum furiosa cupidio'; M. I, 131, 'amor sceleratus habendi'.
1433. finis, 'limit.' Culex, 84, 'ejectus finem transcendat habendi' (M.).
1434. id, i.e. ignorance.—provexit: Caes. BG. 4, 28, '(naves) in altum provectae.' This use of proveho is common. Altum is the sea of trouble; vitam the ship of life.
1435. belli, fluctus b., 1290; war is to L. as great an evil as navigation; both were caused by cupidity; cf. 3, 70. This discontent, as an element in human progress, he does not recognize as a good.
- 1436–1439. 'The heavenly bodies taught the occurrence of the seasons.'
1436. mundi templum = caelum,—versatile, OQ; versatilis, Lachm. Cf. labens, 505, and for two adjectives qualifying the noun, see on I, 258. Et was added after magnum by the Itali.—Georg. I, 5, 'vos, o clarissima mundi | lumina, labentem caelo quae ducitis annum.'
1437. lustrantes lumine: cf. 693 and 79.

1438. perdocuere: 3, 473 n. — annorum tempora verti: 1184.

1439. Note the chiasmus which occurs elsewhere with certus; cf. 732. — 1183, ‘caeli rationes ordine certo.’ — rem: for elision, I, 150 n.

1440–1447. ‘Then they protected themselves with towers and divided and cultivated the earth, sailed ships and contracted treaties, began history in song.’

1440. turribus: arcem, 1108, marks an earlier stage. — He has a republic in mind here as contrasted with the earlier monarchy.

1441. Cf. 1110.

1442. iam, Lachm. edd.; tum, OQ, which should perhaps be retained and iam, 1443, and cum, 1444, changed to tum; cf. 1398. — velivolis: velivolantibus navibus, Enn. Sc. 67; hostes accedere ventis | navibus velivolis, Ann. 387; rapit ex alto naves velivolos, Sr. 79. — navibus . . . Br. Giuss.; florebat propter odores, OQ; puppibus urbes, M.; puppibus et res, Lachm.; navib' pandis, Marull.; proreis florebat opertum, Ellis; mari' navibus pontus, Housman, J. Phil. 25, 244, after Serv. on Aen. 7, 804, ‘Lucretius, fluebat navibus pontus,’ probably from memory. Editor in Cl. R. 16, 169, proposed navibus ventis or n. altum. — florebat: cf. I, 255, ‘urbes pueris florere.’ Aesch. Agam. 642, ἀνθοῖν πέλαγος.

1443. Cf. 1155. International treaties would naturally come with this development of society.

1444. cum . . . coepere synchronizes with degebant, 1440. The reference is to epic poetry. — poetae, probably Greek poets, as elsewhere in L., either expressed or implied, as in 327.

1445. elementa: I, 197 n. But the Homeric lays were handed down by oral tradition long before writing was invented.

1446. prius, ‘earlier.’

1447. vestigia, ‘traces.’

1448. Navigia: probably large ships, if navibus be read in 1442. Cf. 333 and 1006. — culturas: cf. aliam atque aliam culturam, 1367. The Thesaurus cites no other example of agri culturas, but several of agri cultura (I, 1426, 7).

1449. He names the results of civilization. — vias: Tib. I, 3, 35, ‘quam bene Saturno vivebant rege, priusquam | tellus in longas est patefacta vias’ (Wakef.). — vestes: perhaps thalassinae (4, 1127), or purpureae (2, 52); cf. 1423.

1450. praemia: 3, 899 n. — delicias: 2, 22. — funditus omnis: I, 478 n.

1451. daedala: I, 7 n. — polire: edd. following Flor. 31 and other inf. MSS. for polito, OQ. L. uses only the pf. part. of polio, and if polita be read, the catalogue would be continued symmetrically, and polita signa would then be ‘finished statues.’ Bergk has proposed polita in Jahrb. 67, 326, and it is advocated by Bährens on Catull. 64, 48, ‘Indo quod dente politum.’

1452. usus docuit: Columella 7, 2, ‘docuit usus exprimere.’ Diod. I, 8, πάντως τὴν χρειαν αὐτὴν διδόσκαλον γενέσθαι τοῖς ἀνθρώποις. — experientia: experti sunt, 1309. Manil. I, 61, ‘per varios usus artem experientia fecit,’ id. 83, ‘sagax tentando repperit usus’; Tac. H. 5, 6, ‘cuius legendi usum, ut ceteras artes, experientia docuit.’ Moschion ascribed the progress of human society to Prometheus or necessity, or to 'long practice,' in which Nature was the school-mistress: see Gomperz, Greek Thinkers, 1, 388. — 'The beginning and improvement of useful arts and the assistances of human life have all sprung from industry and invention,' Locke quoted by Fraser, Locke, 37.

1453. paulatim: Georg. 1, 133, 'ut varias usus meditando extunderet artis paulatim.' Guyau, 158, calls attention to the lack of appreciation of L. as a promoter of the idea of progress. — pedetemtim progradientis, 533.

1454. unumquicquid: archaic and rare; cf. Dr. § 49 d, and Plaut. Tr. 881, Ter. Ad. 590.

1455. in medium, 1160. Aen. 2, 123, 'protrahit in medios.'

1456. alid ex alio clarescere: 1, 1115. — corde videbant, OQ, Bock. Giuss. Cf. also Note L. 72. Et ordine debet, M.; conveniebat, Lachm. Purmann; cordi videbant, Br. after Polle, Phil. 26; Bail. — corde, i.q. animi vi; cf. 2, 269; mente videmus, 4, 750.

1457. artibus: dative, for he does not use artium at all, for metrical reasons. — summum cacumen: 2, 1130. — Sen. NQ. 6, 5, 3, 'nulla res consummata est, dum incipit'; Cic. Brut. 71, 'nihil est enim simul et inventum et perfectum.' Dyroff, Quellenfrage V Gesang, 8, 20, suggests Dicaearchus and Theophrastus as the ultimate sources of the doctrine of the Kulturschilderung of this book.

BOOK VI

1-42. 'Athens gave food to men, and laws and comfort; but her greatest gift was Epicurus, for he saw that the human heart must be purged, and a limit set to desire and fear. He set forth the highest good, and the way to reach it through true philosophy.'

1. frugiparos is cited elsewhere only from Avien. Arat. 1054. — Pliny the Younger, 8, 24, 2, 'Graeciam in qua primum humanitas litterae etiam fruges inventae esse creduntur.' Cic. Flacco, 62, 'Athenienses, unde humanitas doctrina religio fruges iura leges ortae atque in omnis terras distributae putantur.' Triptolemus of Attica was the legendary inventor of ploughing and cultivating wheat. Isocrates' Panegyric is the storehouse of the glories of Athens. — Stanley quaintly translates in his Hist. Phil. 1701, 534: First Ceres-gifts to Human Indigence | Renowned Athens did long since dispense, | And Mens disordered ways by Laws redrest, | And first ovr Life with greatest Comfort Blest, | When it produc'd a Person of such Worth, | whose Breast contain'd, whose Lips all truth brought forth. — mortalibus aegris: Aen. 2, 268; 10, 274; Georg. 1, 237. Miseris m. L. 5, 944.

2. dididérunt: 3, 86 n. — Athenae, Cic. Or. 1, 13, 'illas omnium doctrinarum inventrices Athenas'; Plaut. Stich. 649, 'Athenae . . . nutrices Graeciae.' This sixth book is the Greek book: it closes with the plague at Athens, and the natural phenomena explained in it had been discussed by Greek authorities.

3. recreavérunt: -avrunt only here in L.: Cartault, 93. L. has -runt from perfects in -evi; -iérunt or -ière from those in -ivi; -vérunt and -vêre from perfects in -ui; -érunt and -ère from perfects in -si; -runt from perfects in -i. — vitam:

Aen. 6, 663, 'vitam excoluere per artes.' — legesque rogarunt, the Roman idiom; rogo here only in L. Greek advice was sought by the Decemviri and others.

4. solacia vitae: 5, 21.
5. tali, as in 5, 4. — cum: unnecessary; 1, 276 n. — repertum = brra; 5, 841 n. — Epicurus spent most of his life at Athens, although he was probably born in Samos: see Gzycki, Epicur. 14.
6. omnia: omnem rerum naturam, 5, 54. — veridico, as an oracle; cf. 5, 110-114.
7. et for etiam, 3, 234 n. Lachm. interprets et (eius) extincti. — divina reperta: 5, 13.
8. vetus, an adj ect. with force of an adverb: divulgata vetus gloria; cf. again 5, 13, divina antiqua reperta and n. — κλέος οὐρανὸς Ικαρεῖ, Hom. θ 74. — iam, in L.'s time.
9. hic: 2, 387 n. — flagitat usus, naturam latrare, 2, 17.
10. ferme: 3, 65 n.
11. proquam: 3, 199 n. — posset, Lachm. edd. for possent.
12. 3, 65, turpis contemptus et acris egestas are the great evils.
13. excellere: Cato in Gell. 6, 3, 14, 'scio solere plerisque hominibus rebus secundis . . . animum excellere atque superbiam . . . augescere' (M.).
14. domi: in 3, 48, the exile needs philosophy. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 283, homini. — anxia corda: 3, 993, exest anxius angor and n. Maas, Archiv, 12, 538, would keep the Ms. cordi, because the poetical pl. of bodily organs does not occur in L., and he would have anxia a substantive; yet the universally accepted corda of modern edd. would seem to show that L. has here used a poet. pl.; Lachm. cited Aen. 6, 49, 'et rabie fera corda tument.' Wakef. kept cordi; Marull. first changed to corda.
15. animi ingratia: 3, 1069 n. M. cites Plaut. Cas. 315, 'amborum ingratia.' — sine ulla, M. edd.; querellis, OQ, Lachm.; timore, Bern. The logical subject of vexare is anxitatem implied in anxia corda.
16. pausa atque . . . querellis, OQ, M. Br. Giuss. passimque . . . periclis, Lachm.; fustam for pausa, Bern. — pausa: 3, 860 n. — cogei, Lamb. edd.; coget OQ. The subject of cogei is anxia corda, but logically homines. Grasberger, 60, causam quae infestis cogat servire periclis.
17. intelligit, also in Sall. Jug. 6; see Lachm. — vas: Hor. Ep. 1, 2, 54, 'sincerum est nisi vas quocumque infundis acescit,' on which Ps. Acron: 'vas pro hominis pectore.' Epict. Arrianus, in Gell. 17, 19, 3, σκέψαι εἰ κεκάθαπται τὸ δύγγειον; cf. on 3, 440. — OQ, fas, Marull. edd. vas.
18. corrumpier, 'spoiled,' as in 1124, etc.
19. et: ei, Woltjer, Jahrb. 125, 471, would refer to vas. Apparently there is a condensation of quaecumque conlata forent foris et quaecumque commoda venirent. So in 646 natura must be taken twice.
20. fluxum, 'leaky' (because flowing) is unexampled. — pertusum: 3, 936 n.
21. 3, 1010, 'quod tamen expleri nulla ratione potestur.'
22. taetro sapore: 2, 510, taetruis . . . orisque sapori. — conspurcare is quoted from Suet. Col. Tert. — Epict. I.c. ή ταχὺς οὐρανὸς γένουτο ή εἰ τοῦτων χείρος.
23. intus with conspurcare: 3, 171 n. Cf. with M. videri vere in 5, 574-575.

24. purgavit pectora: 5, 43, purgatumst pectus. — dictis: 3, 12, depascimur aurea dicta.

25: 5, 45, ‘quantae tum scindunt hominem cappeditinis acres | sollicitum curae quantique perinde timores.’ — Hor. Ep. 1, 2, 56, ‘certum voto pete finem.’

26. exposit: the form posui was used by the dactylic poets for positi: once in Enn. and L., three times in Catull.; Brix on Plaut. Tr. 145. — bonum summum: the fragments of Epicurus’ Περὶ τέλους are in Usener, p. 119 sq. — Epic. ad Men. 128, τὴν ἡδονὴν ἀρχήν καὶ τέλος λέγομεν εἴρι τοῦ μακάρως ζῆν. Introd. 30.

27. tramite parvo, which others cannot find, 2, 10, although it is so simple, viz. listening to Epic. and limiting desire to nature, 2, 17. — Cic. Fin. 1, 57, ‘o praeclarum beate vivendi et apertam et simplicem et directam viam.’ Cf. Masson, At. Th. 191.

28. recto contendere cursu: 4, 609, ‘viis derectis omnia tendunt’; 5, 631, ‘tendere cursum.’ Recta, OQ, may possibly be right sc. regione; cf. on 1, 958, and see lex. rectā (via). But O corr., several inferior MSS., and Lactantius have recto, and cursu, ‘in running,’ would be too emphatic.

29. quidve = quidque unless this itself should be read; see AJP. 21, 185. Woltjer, Jahrb. 125, 471, quodve . . . quo id fieret.

30. The reading is now generally accepted; OQ, fuerit; Christ, fueret. — volaret, of hostile attack, as in 4, 845. — Polle, Phil. 25, 281, rejects 30 and 31.

31. natura parasset: 1, 551. — casu: causa, Lachm. Casu is the cause of ordinary natural occurrences — quid ferat nobis casus, 3, 1086. — vi, the malignant action of nature, like vis abdita quaedam, 5, 1233.

32. portis: of the sapientium tempula, 2, 8.

33. frustra is the important word.

34. volvere fluctus: 74. — fluctus in pectore: 3, 298 and n.

35-41 = 3, 87-93, where see nn. Giussani thinks they were written first here: non liquet. Bock excludes them here.

42. inceptum, ‘my undertaking’; cf. incipiam, 1, 55 and n. — pertexere: 1, 418, ‘ut repetam coeptum pertexere dictis.’

43-95. ‘As I have explained the mortal nature of the heavens, I shall now unfold the action of winds and storms, of lightnings and thunderbolts, that you may not believe they are due to divine wrath, and thus fall into superstition. Calliope help me in this last book!’

43. docui, in 5, 91-415. Cf. the expression in 3, 31.

44. et is added by Flor. 31. — nativo: cf. 5, 321.

45. flerique, OQ; fateare, Lachm.; possuntque, Bern. — Br. Giuss. infer a lacuna after this verse, which seems necessary, since omnia, and not pleraque quae sunt in caelo dissolvuntur.

46. dissolui, OQ; ressolui, Goebel, M.; cf. 5, 773. Dissolui is probably used like dissolvere causam, 4, 500 (so Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 283), and cur or qua fiant ratione stood in the lacuna. — percipe porro: Aen. 9, 190.

47. There is a lacuna after this verse, recognized by Bern. and by later edd.; Lachm., institui for insignem. — conscendere currum: Bern. quotes Manil. 5, 10, ‘cum semel aetherios iussus concendere currus | summum contigerim sua per fastigia culmen.’ The chariot of poetry is a common figure; L. is charioteer in 92. — Fronto, ad Caes. 2, 8, ‘vehiculum concendam et ad vos pervolabo.’

48. ventorum existant placentur omnia rursum*, Bern. ; *placentur ut**, Br. Giuss. ; ventorum extitant placentur omnia rursum, OQ, Bail. † ; ventosum et certant plangentia flamina rursum, Lachm. ; ventorum, ex ira ut placentur, ut omnia rursum, M. ; ventorum existant placentur momina rursum, Ellis, J. Phil. 3, 219, 260 ; ventosum exhortant pelage tuta omnia rursum . . . sic placato, Bährens on. Catull. 64, 9. There are several other attempts, all necessarily dubious.

49. sint placato conversa favore, OQ, furore, Lamb. edd. ; sine . . . furore, Lachm. ; yet favore may have been justified by something in the lacuna. Br. infers a lacuna to follow the verse. Spes pacato . . . furore, Goebel. — Housman, J. Phil. 25, 245, cites Apul. de Mundo, 22, ‘cum vel inter se ventorum proelia ciuntur, vel disiectis nubibus fulminat caelum, et tempestates inter se serenae hibernaeque confidunt, micant ignes, imbres rumpuntur, et rursus placatis omnibus amoena laetitia mundi reseratur,’ to prove the two lacunae. Probably ventorum, 48, depends on a lost proelia.

50. Cf. 1, 152, ‘quod multa in terris fieri caeloque tuentur.’ — cetera, the reference is lost in the lacuna.

51. cum is the conj.

52. et (quae) faciunt : haec, Lachm. Br. For the construction, Giuss. cites Hor. S. 2, 6, 72, ‘quod magis ad nos | pertinet et nescire malum est.’ The old vulgate had efficiunt with new paragraph at 50. Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 219, thinks homines is subject of faciunt. — formidine divom : 1, 151.

53. depressoisque premunt : 4, 299, elisam . . . exprimat, and Kraetsch, 80. — ad terram : 5, 1200, ‘procumbere humi prostratum.’

54. ignorantia, the burden of all the prooemia. Cf. Sen. NQ. 2, 42, ‘ad coercendos imperitorum animos sapientissimi viri iudicaverunt inevitabilem metum, ut aliquid supra nos timeremus.’

55. 5, 1130, ‘regere imperio res velle et regna tenere.’

56 = 1, 153 and

57 = 1, 154; rejected here by Bentley, Lachm. edd. ; an apparent gloss.

58–66 = 5, 82–90. For rationi, 66, cf. on 3, 132; Goebel, Br. Bail. change to ratione. Gneisse, 62 sq., would reject the verses here ; defence by Lohmann, 20.

67. Cf. 2, 10, 54.

68. longe, ‘far’ ; 1, 410, ‘paulumve recesseris ab re.’

69. alienaque pacis : 3, 821 n. — Join remititis putare.

70. delibata : 3, 24, ‘res animi pacem delibat’ and n.

71. oberunt (edd.), ‘obstruct your peace,’ Watson ; oderunt, OQ.

72. ira : neque tangitur ira of the gods, 2, 651. — inbibat : 3, 997 n.

73. quietos : sedesque quietae, of the gods in 3, 18.

74. constitues, of a hypothesis in 2, 560, ‘si finita . . . primordia . . . constitues.’ — volvere fluctus : cf. 34.

75. nec placido, so as to contemplate the divine perfection. Sen. Ben. 4, 19, ‘cur colis (Epicure)? Propter maiestatem, inquis, eius eximiam singularem natu-ram.’ — adibis : cf. 5, 1229.

76. simulacra : facies, 5, 1170, 1176. — feruntur : 4, 735, simulacra feruntur. — corpo sancto : 1, 1015, ‘divum corpora sancta’.

77. nuntia : cf. 4, 704 n.

78. haec (simulacra). — tranquilla pace: 1, 31 n.
79. inde: this mistaken opinion.
80. quidem ut: harsh elision; 3, 339 n. — verissima: vera elsewhere in L.
81. profecta: ‘unde una profecta . . . vox,’ 4, 553.
82. multa tamen: symplosio, 1, 385 n.
83. ratio speciesque: suggested by his common formula: 3, 93 n. He mentioned the ratio eorum qui loca caeli | omnia . . . ornata notarunt in 5, 694. — caeli speciesque tenenda, Itali, M. Giuss. Bail.; caelisque tenenda, OQ; fulgendi visque tonandi, Lachm.; superum caelique, Flor. 31; nu'isque pōnenda, Br. Postgate, Cl. R. 14, 353, notanda, but id. 17, 30, would interchange canenda and tenenda. — tenenda, ‘grasped’; cf. 3, 649 n.; Giuss. thinks with special reference to the doctrine in Book V; see his discussion in Note L. 73. — Cic. Fin. 5, 49, in translating Hom. μ 189, renders tōper by tenemus.
84. canenda: canamus, 5, 509.
85. Lachm. brackets 85–89. — quid faciant, OQ, M.; qui fiant, Bock. Br.; qui or quae faciant, Postgate.
86. caeli partibus: the augural divisions; he will not use tempila in this meaning. Cic. Div. 2, 42, ‘caelum in sedecim partis divisorunt Etrusci.’ The ratio caeli, when grasped, will prevent this fear.
87. utram: probably whether seen (species) on the right or left. — pervenerit: absolute; cf. 4, 285, 554. — 87, 88, 89 = 383, 384, 385.
88. 1, 489, ‘transit enim fulmen caeli per saepa domorum.’ — partim: parti, I, 1111; partim, Livy, 23, 11, 11; 26, 46, 8, etc.
89. dominatus: cf. 224.
- 90–91 = 56, 57 = 1, 153–154. They are rejected by Woltjer, M. Bail. Gneisse, 68, Lohmann, 14; retained by Lachm. Br. Giuss. Purmann. The connexion recurs to 67. — operum: the phenomena alluded to in 84 sq.
92. Note alliteration with c continued through four verses. — supremae: the sixth is the last. — candida calcis = candidam calcem, like strata viarum, I, 315 n. Varro, Menipp. 288, ‘nemini Fortuna currum a carcere intimo missum | labi inoffensum per aecor candidum ad calcem sivit.’
93. An inconsistency like his appeal to Venus, I, 1 sq.; probably the alliterating c had some weight. — praemonstra: Stat. Th. I, 67, ‘callidus ambages te praemonstrante resolvi,’ to Tisiphone; id. 8, 373, ‘alias nova suggeste vires | Calliope.’ M. quotes Empedocles, 131 D., διμβροτε μόντα . . . νῦν ἀβε παρόστασο, Καλλιόπεια.
94. hominum . . . voluptas: 1, 1. Tib. 4, 13, 11, mīhi curarū requies.
95. 1, 929, ‘insignemque meo capiti petere inde coronam.’ Hor. S. I, 10, 49, ‘cum multa laude coronam.’ Aen. I, 625, ‘insigni laude.’
- 96–120. ‘Thunder is produced by the concussion of clouds. Sometimes they meet squarely opposed; sometimes they scrape by one another; hence the different kinds of thunder.’
96. [Epic.] ad Pyth. 100, βροντὰς ἐνδέχεται γίνεσθαι καὶ κατὰ πτερύματος ἐν τοῖς κοιλώμασι τῶν νεφῶν ἀνελλογιν, καθάπερ ἐν τοῖς ἡμετέροις ἀγγείοις, καὶ παρὰ πυρὸς πεπνευματωμένοι βόμβοις ἐν αὐτοῖς, καὶ κατὰ ρήξεις δὲ νεφῶν καὶ διασπάσεις, καὶ κατὰ παρατρίψεις νεφῶν καὶ τάσεις πτῆξιν εἰληφθτῶν κρυσταλλοειδῆ.
97. sublime volantes: 2, 206. Sen. NQ., ‘non quem ad modum inlisae inter se manus plausum edunt, sic in lisarum inter se nubium sonus potest esse magnus, quia magna concurrunt?

98. aetheriae nubes: 4, 182. — contra: the opposing winds drive the clouds.
 99. Aen. 8, 528, ‘arma inter nubem caeli in regione serena.’ Cf. on 247.
 100. denso agmine: 1, 606, agmine condenso.
 101. magis, with saepe. — murmure: of thunder, 1, 69, etc.
 102. Br. and Giuss. bracket 102–107, after Kannengiesser, as an unwarranted anticipation of the discussion of clouds, 451 sq.
 103. lapides, Flor. 31, edd.; pepides, OQ. — ligna, Itali, Br. Giuss. Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 283. Lapides et ligna, 2, 889; lignis . . . fumus, 1, 871; cf. 891.
Tigna, Flor. 31, Lachm. M. Bail.; iigna, O; igna, Q.
 104. fumi: the pl. is not unusual; several times in Martial.
 105. aut, O (Goebel, Rh.M. 15, 412), edd.; avi, Q; ab, Lachm. — bruto, ‘heavy’;
this meaning is attested by Festus.
 106. constare, ‘to keep together.’ — 2, 457, ‘diffugere ut fumum nebulas.’
 107. cohibere: 1, 517, ‘quod inane queat rerum cohibere.’ — nives: 5, 746. — imbris: 1, 762, etc.
 108. patuli super aequora mundi, ‘above the plains of the wide extended earth.’
Giuss. proposes patulae, and Howard, J. Phil. 1, 137, thinks aequa may be nom.
 109. magnis intenta theatris: 4, 76 n. — carbasus: lintea, 4, 84. — Catull. 64, 227, ‘carbasus obscurata dicet ferrugine Hibera,’ of a sail.
 110. 4, 77, ‘per malos volgata trabesque.’ — crepitum is a rattling roar.
 111. petulantibus: Hor. C. I., 26, 2, ‘protervis . . . ventis’; Aen. 1, 536, ‘procacibus Austris.’
 112. fragilis: edd. cite V. Ecl. 8, 81, ‘fragilis incende bitumine laurus’; cf. L.
6, 154–155. — sonitus: supplied from Flor. 31. — commeditatur: perhaps  $\delta\pi.\lambda\epsilon\gamma$ ,
as it is not unquestioned in ad Herenn. 3, 31.
 113. The verse is parenthetical.
 114. chartas: doubtless huge sheets of paper were hung up to dry. Charta is not found before L. — que, OQ; ve, Itali, Lachm.; 3, 284 n.
 115. 5, 957, verbera ventorum. Note the continued alliteration. — plangunt:
Catull. 64, 261, plangebant . . . tympana.
 116. enim cannot be explained except by the hypothesis of unfinished work:
113–115 interrupt the thought. Enim cannot = praeterea here; 3, 440 n. Kan-nengiesser would read fit quoque ut interdum non, etc. — ut: added by Flor. 31; it easily fell out after -dum. Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 220, thinks it unnecessary, as also in 4, 668; cf. J. Phil. 3, 117, 263. Cf. also 147.
 117. frontibus adversis: Mart. 4, 35, 1, ‘frontibus adversis molles concurre dammas.’
 118. corpora, Gronov. edd.; corpore, OQ. — tractim: 3, 530 n.
 119. aridus: Georg. 1, 357, ‘aridus altis | montibus audiri fragor.’ Hom. M 160,
κρύπτεις δ' ἀμφ' αὔον ἀτρευν.
 120. artis, ‘tight.’
 121–131. ‘The wind penetrates within the clouds and causes them to collapse with awful crash, just as a bladder resounds when burst.’
 121. tonitru concussa: 5, 550.

122. omnia: indef. generalization, as in 5, 214.
123. moenia mundi: 3, 16 n.—The walls of the world seem to leap apart.—capacis: 5, 470, (aether) avidō complexu.
124. venti procella: 293.—Sen. NQ. 2, 27, 2, ‘cum spiritum intra se clausere nubes in concavis partibus earum volutatus aer . . . agit . . . sonum.’ Aristoph. Clouds, 404, διανείς ταύτας ἀνεμος μετεωρισθεὶς κατακλεισθῆ | ἵδοθεν αὐτάς ὥσπερ κύστιν φυσά κτλ.
125. intorsit, ‘twisted itself in’; stronger than invasit, 175, incidit, 296.
126. turbine versanti: 1, 294, rotanti turbine.—magis ac magis undique: 3, 546.
127. spisso: cf. 176. One would think that the crust would be thinner, not thicker, but the particles within the cloud are forced to the circumference. The cloud does not itself become larger.—Sen. NQ. 2, 26, 1, ‘aer spissus ad gignendam aquam praeparatus, nondum in illam mutatus.’
128. communuit, O, edd.; see Giuss. Note L. 74. Convaluit, Br. Bock. Tohte, Jahrb. 117, 135; commovit, O corr. Itali; comunit, Q. Isidor, Orig. 13, 8, paraphrases nubem quam excavavit impetu magno percindit (Wakef.); probably the verb means no more than ‘weaken’ here; cf. minuunt, 2, 73, where also the object must be supplied.
129. perterrcrepo, onomatopoeia in both sound and rhythm; disliked by Cic. Orat. 64, for its asperitas.—dat fragorem: 1, 288 n.—scissa, Bern. edd.; missa, OQ, retained by Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 220; fissa, Lachm. Cf. on 96.
130. nec mirum, ‘and no wonder.’—vensicula: Sen. NQ. 2, 27, 3, ‘qualem audire solemus cum super caput alicuius dirupta vesica est’; Pliny, 2, 113, ‘edito fragore cum erumpat ut in membrana spiritu intenta.’—parva: 1, 1114, parva opella.
131. saepe ita dat magnum: s. i. dat parvum, OQ; s. det haut parvum, Lachm.; noenu i. det parvum, Bern.; s. i. dat torvum, M., det, Br. Bail.; s. i. det magnum, Giuss.; magnum, Voss, Wakef.; taetrum, Tohte, Jahrb. 117, 135; pravum, Everett; emittat magnum, Dünzter, Jahrb. 99, 48; clarum, Christ, Jessen; suppetat haut p. ad s., Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 220.—Isidorus: cum vesicula quamvis parva magnum tamen sonitum displosa emittat. Cf. ingenti sonitu below, 151. Parvum was probably repeated from parva; ‘big noise’ is the common result of such an explosion.—dat: 2, 904 n.—displosa: Hor. S. 1, 8, 46, ‘displosa sonat quantum vesica’.
- 132–159. ‘The wind blows through the clouds as through a forest, and they resound; sometimes it breaks through the cloud in front, sometimes the waves break in the clouds. Again the thunderbolt falls into a wet cloud and is drowned, with noise, or it sets on fire a dry one. Then again the ice and hail in clouds rattle.’ 132. ratio: 4, 523 n.
133. ut faciant: 639.—ramosa: 2, 446 n.
134. aspera, i.e. on the surface: aspera saxa, 4, 147.
135. crebram, ‘thick.’—flamina cauri, f. venti, 1, 290.
136. sonitum is the deep roar of the forest: nemorum murmur, Georg. 1, 359.
137. via incita venti: 1, 271 n.
138. impete: repeatedly in the sixth book; on 2, 330.—recto, ‘straight forward,’ i.e. in front.

139. fatus occurred in 5, 689.—manifesta docet res: 3, 690 n.
140. lenior: this quality is assumed.—cum . . . haurit: 2, 904 n. Bock. reads verrit for haurit, but cf. 2, 453, ‘haustus papaveris’ and lex. haurio, 2.
141. arbusta: 1, 187 n.—radicibus ab imis, ‘by its roots.’ Georg. 1, 319, ‘segetem ab radicibus imis . . . eruerent’; Caesar, BG. 6, 27, 3, ‘ab radicibus subruunt aut accident arbores.’ Cf. L. 1, 352.
142. murmur: saevitque minaci murmure, 1, 276.
143. graviter: 4, 545, ‘tuba depresso graviter sub murmure mugit.’
144. frangitur aestus, ‘when the surf breaks,’ cf. 695.—aestus, Flor. 31, edd.; aest, OQ; aestu, O corr. and old vulgate.
145. fit, id, Lachm.—nubi, suspected by Keller, Zur lat. Sprachg. II, 311, as nube occurs in 203; cf. on 1, 978.
146. haec (nubis).—recepit: Aen. 9, 348, ‘(ensem) multa morte recepit.’
147. clamore of things; see lex. and add Aen. 3, 566, ‘scopuli clamorem . . . dedere.’—trucidat, OQ, Lachm.; ut . . . trucidet, Juntine, late edd. The Ms. reading should be retained with Wakef. as an anacoluthon; see Krätsch, 35, who compares 2, 829–831. No doubt L. would have changed this and many other infelicities in this book, which is the most unfinished of all.—trucidat, here only in L.; a strong figure.
148. Note alliteration.—Sen. NQ. 2, 17, ‘ne ferrum quidem ardens silentio tinguatur, sed si in aquam fervens massa descendit, cum multo murmure extinguitur, ut Anaximenes ait: spiritus incidens nubibus tonitrua edit,’ etc. Pliny, 2, 112, ‘cum vero in nubem pervenient vaporem dissonum gigni ut candente ferro in aquam demerso et fumidum vorticem volvi.’ Lucil. 291, ‘primum fulgit uti caldum e furnacib⁹ ferrum.’—Ov. M. 12, 276, ‘ut dare ferrum | igne rubens plerumque solet, quod forcipe curva | cum faber eduxit, lacubus demittit, at illud | stridet.’
149. propere, Marull. edd. for propter. Cf. on 842.—imbrem, ‘water,’ 1, 715 n.
150. aridior: 207, sunt umore sine ullo. Georg. 3, 197, arida . . . nubila.
151. succensa, ‘set on fire.’
152. lauricomos is dr. ley.—flamma vagetur, Hor. S. 1, 5, 73, vaga . . . flamma.
153. turbine: 1, 279.
154. magis with crematur; so M., and Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 220.—laurus, Ov. F. 1, 344, ‘et non exiguo laurus adusta sono.’
155. crepitante: Aen. 7, 74, ‘flamma crepitante cremari.’ Tib. 2, 5, 81, ‘et succensa sacris crepitet bene laurea flammis.’
156. ruina grandinias: 5, 205, geli casus.
157. magnis, not usually said of the clouds, hence probably an ornamental epithet here.
158. M. after Wakef. punctuates confercit, franguntur, in artum, concreti; Br. remarks (in Prol.) quasi aut veteres ita virgulas ponere soliti fuerint aut sine eis verba intellegi potuerint. Br. punctuates confercit, . . . mixti. Giuss. confercit, franguntur . . . mixti. The poet for metrical convenience has placed franguntur before instead of after in artum; the construction is confercit in artum, franguntur, etc.; the case of artum prevents ambiguity, and a Roman would need no pointing; cf. the disorder of 176, 211, 230.—artum: Lachm. arto.

159. montes nimborum: cf. 4, 138.

160-172. 'Lightning is produced by the striking out of fire when clouds meet, like flint and steel; the thunder is heard after the flash is seen because hearing is slower than sight.'

160. Fulgit item: cf. 214. Giuss. thinks there is a lacuna before this paragraph. But item means 'moreover,' as in 1, 753.—fulgit: cf. on 2, 27.—ignis semina: 4, 305. Aen. 6, 6, 'quaerit pars semina flammæ | abstrusa in venis silicis.'

161. excusseré, Ep. ad Pyth. 101, καὶ γὰρ κατὰ περιτριψίν καὶ σύγκρουσίν νεφῶν δὲ πυρὸς ἀποτελεστικὸς σχηματισμὸς ἔξολισθανων δοστρατή γεννᾷ. This theory goes back to Democritus and was advocated by the Stoics also: Usener, p. 386, 4.—Ov. M. 6, 696, 'exilantque cavis elisi nubibus ignes.'—ceu: 4, 56.

162. aut ferrum (lapidem percussiā). The stones used were pyrites and flint: see the passages cited by Morgan, De Ignis elicendi modis, Harv. St. 1, 35, 38. Morgan found no earlier notice of the production of fire from striking iron.

163. ignis, nom. Cf. 4, 605.

164. tonitrum: L. does not use the pl.—auribus accipiamus: cf. 4, 982, a. accipere. Accipio is very common of the sense of hearing: Thes. 1, 306, 45.

165. Pliny, 142, 'fulgetrum prius cerni quam tonitrua audiri, cum simul fiant, certum est, nec mirum, quoniam lux sonitu velocior.' Arist. Meteor. 2, 9, made the same observation.—fulgere, edd., fugere, OQ; fulgura, Goebel, an early suggestion, styled 'indocissime' by Wakef.

166. visum . . . moveant: 4, 233, visum . . . moveri.

167. licet hinc cognoscere: 2, 143 n.

168. ancipiū: 2, 520 n. Ferro ancipiū, Aen. 7, 525; ancipiētū . . . securim, Ov. M. 8, 397.—arboria auctum, a bold periphrasis; lex. cites Lucan, 9, 797, 'corporis auctum.' It is an extension of the use in 2, 482.—Suet. Pratum, 144 R. (from Isidorus, Nat. 30), 'tonitruum sonitus tardius penetrat aures quam oculos splendor fulgoris ad instar securis arboreo procul caedentis, cuius quidem ante cernis icum quam ad aures perveniat.'—Ep. ad Pyth. 102, προτερέ δὲ δοστρατὴ βροντῆς ἐν τοιῷδε τινὶ περιστάσει νεφῶν καὶ διὰ τὸ ἄμα τῷ τὸ πνεῦμα ἐμπίπτειν ἔκωθεισθαι τὸν δοστρατῆς ἀποτελεστικὸν σχηματισμόν, ὑστεροῦ δὲ τὸ πνεῦμα ἀνελόμενον τὸν βρόμον ἀποτελεῖν τοῦτον, καὶ κατ' ἔμπτωσιν δὲ ἀμφοτέρων ἄμα, τῷ τάχει συντονωτέρῳ κεχρῆσθαι πρὸς ἡμᾶς τὴν δοστρατήν, ὑστερεῖν δὲ τὴν βροντήν, καθά περ ἐπ' ἐντὸν ἐξ ἀποτήματος θεωρουμένων καὶ πληγάς τινας τοιουμένων.

169. antequam . . . det: 1, 53 n. and Lane, 1912.

170. fulgorem, the flash (cf. 2, 51), not necessarily always lightning; fulgura, 182.—ante | quam: 3, 959 (n.); 5, 1341; 6, 901.

171. mittitur, 'is discharged.'—pariter for pariter cum; cf. on 3, 445.

172. e: causal, 3, 157 n.—natus: 3, 618 n.

173-203. 'The clouds become heated by the wind, which scatters fire and sound; when they tower up like mountains the winds roar in their caves, and finally force a way out with flashing fire.'

173. lumine tingunt: I. linctus, 5, 721.

174. tremulo: 4, 404 n.

175. versatus, 'rolling about'; cf. 277.

176. ante docui: 124 sq.—spissescere is quoted only from Celsus.

177. fervescit: Ep. ad Pyth. 101, καὶ κατὰ τὴν τοῦ πτεύματος ἐκπύρωσιν τὴν γυμνομένην διὰ τε συντονίας φορᾶς καὶ διὰ σφοδρὸν κατελλησιν.

178. vero, 'indeed.'

179. glans: 306, 'plumbea saepe | fervida fit glans in cursu.' — Sen. NQ. 2, 57, 2, 'sic liquefecit excussa glans funda.' Aen. 9, 588, 'liquefacto tempora plumbo | diffidit,' and Forbiger there, who quotes Ov. M. 14, 826, intabescere, and other passages. For the probability of the occurrence, see Koeler's excursus on Sen. l.c. in Lemaire's edition. — volvenda: 5, 514 n. — liquefecit, Pont. edd.; calecit, Lachm., Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 283; quiescit, OQ.

180. fervidus, 'glowing.' Sol contingens igni, 4, 407.

181. quasi per vim: a strange expression; cf. 275. It probably means 'as if by an irregular internal force,' apart from the action of the wind.

182. semina quae faciunt: cf. 5, 660–662. — nictantia, metaphor from winking; so mico is used for nictio in Enn. Ann. 473, 'micant oculi.' Manil. 1, 863, 'fulgura cum videoes tremulum vibrantia lumen.'

183. adlicit: 4, 597, 'aurisque lacessant'; Paul. ex Fest. 117, 'lacio . . . inde est allicere et lacessere.' Cf. visum moveant, 166. Adficit, Bentl. edd.

184. oculorum . . . lumina: 4, 824 n.

185. scilicet, as in 1, 377. — hoc refers to the main action, 175 sq.

186. super, postpositive. — impete, 'mass,' 4, 416 n.

187. Lachm. transfers 187–188 to follow 193. — ne, nec, Marull. Bern. — frudi, 2, 187 and n., and for dative, Roby, II, xliv. — nos is without logical force; 3, 316 n. — infernē, 'from below,' begins with L.; cf. 597, 764, and on superne, 1, 496.

188. lata . . . exstructa, sc. nubila from nubibus, 185; nubila, 214, eas (nubes), 215; cf. on 1, 57, and A/P. 21, 183. — quid, 'to what degree.'

189. contemplator enim: 2, 114.

190. transversa: 2, 213 n.

191. per, 'along'; cf. 152. The clouds bank up against the mountain side.

192. insuper, prep.; see lex. and cf. 522; with acc. 1284. — urguere superne: urgerice superne, 3, 893. Superna, OQ; superne, Bentl. edd.; superna might be defended by 5, 647.

193. in statione: 5, 478. — sepultis, as if in sleep: 5, 975.

194. Note elision after fifth trochee: 1, 337 n.

195. pendentibū str: 1, 372 n. — Trag. Inc. Inc. 74 R., 'per speluncas saxis structas asperis pendentibus'; Aen. 1, 166, 'scopulis pendentibus antrum': many examples are given by Broukh. on Prop. 3, 2, 28; the verb became traditional.

196. tempestate coorta: cf. 458.

197. For the caesura cf. 3, 258 and n. — Aen. 1, 55, 'illi indignantes magno cum murmure montis | circum claustra fremunt.'

198. ferarum: wild beasts awaiting venationes.

199. nunc hinc nunc illinc: 2, 214.

200 = 5, 520.

201. convolvunt: Forc. cites Sen. Ep. 94, 67, 'turbanum more qui rapta convolvunt.' — e, added by Flor. 30.

202. rotant: Hor. C. 4, 11, 11, 'flammea trepidant rotantes | vertice sumum.' — Actina, 1, 'cavis fornacibus ignes.'

203. Note the interlocking order.
- 204-218. 'Lightning is forced from the clouds when they are brought together by the wind.'
204. Hac fit uti . . . causa: 727, 'quo fit uti pacto.'
205. liquidi ignis: 349; V. Ecl. 6, 33. — color, Serv. l.c.; cf. 208; color, OQ.
206. ipsas, fire in clouds, not in the wind; so hasce, not has, in 211. — necessus: 2, 710 n.
207. sine ullo: for elision, see on 1, 409.
208. colos, again 1074. He has also arbos, vapos; 1, 774 n.
209. quippe etenim, Q corr. edd. Woltjer, Mnem. 27, 54; quippe enim, OQ; quin etiam, Lachm. M. Cf. 5, 1062. Edelbluth, 37, would reject 209-210. — Arist. Meteor. 2, 9, p. 369, b 11, κατοι τινὲς λέγουσιν ὡς ἐν τοῖς νέφεσιν ἔγγινεται πυρ-τοῦτο δ' Ἐπιτεδοκλῆται μὲν φασιν εἶναι τὸ ἀπεριλαμβανόμενον τῶν τοῦ ἥλιου δικτίων. Sen. NQ. 2, 12, 3, 'Anaxagoras ait illum (ignem) ex aethere distillare et ex tanto ardore caeli multa decidere, quae nubes diu inclusa custodiant.'
210. merito, 'properly'; cf. 1, 481.
211. ventus agens contritus: 4, 901, 'ventus . . . trudit agens.' The pleonasm is not uncommon in L. in such a context; cf. Kraetsch, 75. The disturbed order (e.g. separation of unum . . . locum) also corresponds to the turbulence of the action.
212. profundunt (nubes).
213. fulgēre, but fulgēre, 165; fulgore, Lachm. — faciunt fulgere: cf. 176 and on 3, 100.
214. fulgit: fulget, Br. (see Proleg.). — Ἐρ. ad Pyth. 102, καὶ κατὰ βῆκεις δὲ νεφῶν ὑπὸ πνευμάτων ἐκπτωτὸν τε πυρὸς ἀποτελεστικῷ ἀτμῷν καὶ τὸ τῆς δοτραπῆς φάντασμα ἀποτελουσῶν, from Democritus (Usener, p. 387 g.).
215. eas (nubes), from nubila; on 188. — diducit: opposite of compressit, 212.
216. dissoluit, opposite of contritus, 211. — ingratia, Pius, edd.; ingratius, OQ; 3, 1069 n. The seeds of fire fall out of the loose clouds.
217. taetro: 3, 581 n. It is unusual with such a word as terror; probably there is a hendiadys for terrifico sonitu, which occurs in 388.
218. sonitu, edd. after Vat. 1954; sonis, OQ; aque sonis, Pont., which should perhaps be read; 119, aridus sonus, of thunder. — fulgit: fulget, Br. — tumultu: cf. 366.
- 219-238. 'The action of thunderbolts shows that they are made of fire of most subtle body, which penetrates all things with wonderful swiftness.'
219. Cf. 739 and 1, 581. — Quod superest: 1, 50 n. — quali, added by Lamb.
220. ictus et, Flor. 31, vulg. M. Giuss.; ictu et, OQ; ictu loca, Lachm.; ictu eius, Bern. Br. Bail.; ictu procura, Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 678. Bernays's proposal is attractive, but too far from the MSS. Lotze would have caloris for vaporis. Ictus includes the effect as well as the action; Ov. M. 14, 618, 'fulmineo periit, imitator fulminis, ictu.'
221. notae halantis gravis auras. 6, 794, 'castoreo gravi.' Perhaps the ambiguity is intentional. — Cic. Orat. 2, 174, 'si signa et notas ostenderem,' and Kraetsch, 34. — sulpuris: Sen. NQ. 2, 53, 2, 'quocunque decidit fulmen ibi odorum esse sulphuris certum est.'

222. venti, imbris suggest the elements air and water, as well as wind and rain.
223. saepe, Voss, edd. — tecta domorum opposed to aedibus ipsis, 224.
224. celeri flamma: the interior of the house, in the bolt's path, bursts into flame. — dominantur: cf. 89.
225. tibi: 1, 918 n. — subtilem: cf. 2, 385. — cum primis (supilibus) ignibus. — ignibus ignem: 3, 71 n.
226. minutis mobilibusque: 4, 318 (343), ‘mobilior multisque minutior.’
227. Cf. 331.
- 228—229. Lachm. makes one verse — transit enim validum fulmen per saxa per aera. Gneisse, 76, would reject both verses, and Bentley the first. Grasberger, 76, would interchange per saxa per aera and per saepa domorum. Neumann, 30, defends the verses as containing a comparison only. Cf. 1, 489, ‘transit enim fulmen caeli per saepa domorum | clamor ut ac voces’ and nn.
230. puncto in tempore: in is probably metr. gr.; 1, 1109, and 3, 24 and nn.
231. item, OQ, M. Giuss. Bail.; ut ei, Lachm.; item us, Lamb. Bern. Br. See lex. ‘curo,’ for the omission of ut, although it is Lucretian to write it; cf. 3, 127 and n. — vasis: second declension as vasis, 3, 434, and commonly in pl.; vasis, gen., 233. — vina: 2, 391 n. — Pliny, 2, 137, ‘tertium (fulminis genus) est quod clarum vocant, mirificae maxime naturae, quo dolia exhauiuntur intactis operimentis nulloque alio vestigio relicto.’
232. diffugiant: 3, 222 n. — circum: sc. vina.
233. conlaxat: quoted only from Caelius Aurelianus, a late physician. — rareque fecit: 962 n. and 3, 343 n. — lateramina, ἀτ. λεγ., probably derived from later, ‘earthenware’; others think from latus, ‘side’; see Wolff, 18.
234. inassuatus: 1, 116 n.
235. soluens: 3, 330 n. — mobiliter = celeriter: 4, 790.
236. aetatem, ‘in an age’; 3, 986 n. — Lucil. 37, ‘multos mensesque diesque non tamen aetatem.’
237. pollens, Lamb. edd.; tellens, OQ; tollens, O corr.; pellens, M.; plectens, Nencini; torrens, Housman, J. Phil. 25, 238; cellens, Ellis, id. 2, 222.
238. dominantior, ‘imperious.’
- 239—245. ‘Next, how thunderbolts are made, rend buildings, kill men and beasts, I shall hasten to show.’
239. impete: 2, 330 n.
240. discludere: 3, 171 n.
241. Note alliteration. — tigna trabesque: 2, 192 n. — OQ, igna; cf. on 103; tigna, Lamb. edd.
242. monimenta virum, OQ; cf. 5, 311; Lachm. lamenta. Monimenta here as in Aen. 8, 356, ‘vides monimenta virorum.’ — commoliri, OQ, Lachm. Giuss.; demoliri, Marull. vulg. Commoliri occurs below in 255 in a different sense in his manner. Here it = moliri, which is a synonym of deturbare, deicere; see lex. So the rare verb conturbare, 3, 483 = turbare, and many verbs with short penult, like commovet, 3, 146, for movet. The use of con- first for intensive force, later for the primitive, is common. — ciere, OQ, Lachm. Giuss.; † ciere, Br. Bail.; cremare, M. Ciere is also a synonym of moliri in his manner, and hardly intelligible alone. So 456, comprendunt inter se conque gregantur; 5, 761, interstingui atque perire: the one verb interprets the other.—Bergk, vi commolare (now favored by Br. Append.) ac vitiare. Goebel, et mon. vir. demoliri et celeri vi; Polle, mon. v. d. ac delere. Giuss. ably defends the MSS.

243. homines, pecudes: 1092, 1127.

244. cetera de genere hoc: 3, 481 n.

245.—5, 91, ‘ne te in promissis plura moremur.’

246.—322. ‘Thunderbolts come from thick, high-piled clouds full of wind and fire; sometimes the wind falls on the cloud from without; sometimes it gathers fire as it moves; sometimes it strikes out fire in collision with the clouds, for the wind from its motion must be warmed.’

246. gignier, Itali.—crassis: 185, densis.—The thunderbolts are produced by much the same causes as the lightning; hence there is much repetition in the argument. In the Epist. ad Pyth. the order of explanation is βροντάς, 100, ἀστραπαλ, 101, κεραυνός, 103.

247. caelo nulla sereno: so Horace, ‘insanentis sapientiae consultus,’ abandoned his former theories, ‘namque Diespiter per purum tonantes egit equos,’ C. I, 34, although he is not to be taken too seriously. Cf. editor, ‘Influence of Hor. on L.’ in Univ. of Cal. Publ., Class. Phil. 1, 111 sq. But Sen. NQ. 2, 18, of Anaximander, ‘quare ab sereno tonat?’ id. 2, 26, 7, ‘serenum sine fulmine est’; Georg. I, 487, ‘non alias caelo ceciderunt plura sereno | fulgura’; Luc. I, 530, ‘fulgura fallaci micuerunt crebra sereno,’—all prodigious, as they were probably caused by aerolites.

248. mittuntur for emittuntur: 1, 662 n.

249. dubio procul: 1, 812.—manifesta docet res: 3, 690.

250. quod: 3, 211 n.—tum, Lachm. edd. for tunc; 1, 130 n.—concrescunt: favorite word with clouds; 4, 133 n.

251–254 = 4, 170–173 with rearis, 170, which shows that the poet himself transferred the verses. Br. rejects 253–254, after Neumann, 69, who rejected all four, and also Gneisse, 76, and Bock. on the ground that tum, 250, and cum, 255, fail to correspond; but 253–254 are parenthetical. See Lohmann, 18.

255. coeptat: 1, 267 n.—Georg. I, 329, ‘fulmina molitur dextra.’

256. per mare: the clouds seen at sea are more easily visible than those towering above the land.

257. demissum: 426, 433; 2, 1154 n.—plicis flumen: Aen. 9, 813, ‘piceum . . . flumen’ (Wakef.). Hom. Δ 277, τῷ δὲ τῷ, ἀνεύθεν ἔστι, μελάντερος, ήπε τίσσα, | φαίνεται κατὰ πόντον, δύει δὲ τε λαΐλαπα πολλήγη.

258. effertus, Lachm. edd.; cf. repletus, 260. OQ, et fertus; see Ellis, J. Phil. 3, 265.

259. gravidam: cf. 440; the metaphor in gignier, 246, is continued.—Hor. C. I, 7, 16, neque parturit imbris.

260. ipse (nimbus).

261. in terra, i.e. the storm seen from the land.—horrescant (homines); cf. 5, 1377.—tecta, ‘cover’; doubtless caves sometimes; cyclone cellars in modern times.

262. supera caput: 61; 3, 385.

263. altam is emphatic, as he has to prove that quality by argument.

264. obruerent: 5, 650, ‘nox obruit ingenti caligine terras.’

265. multis: dat. with inaedificata.
266. venientes (nubes). Cf. venientis aquai, 1, 285.—opprimere (terras).
267. abundare: 1, 282, fumina abundantia.—camposque natare: 5, 488, camposque natantis.
268. exstructis, OQ; cf. 247 and on 3, 620; exstructus, Bock. Br.
269. hic, 'under these circumstances.'
270. Notice the alliteration, dactyls, and punctuation within the first foot; 2, 844 n.
271. Cf. 206 sq.
272. cavas nubes: 127, 176.
273. concipere: cf. 472.—eorum (radiorum).
274. hoc ubi: 4, 360 n.—cogit: 1, 1020 n.
275. expressit: cf. 212.
276. cum eo: 3, 1082 n.
277. vortex, 'eddy.'—versatur: 175.—arto, Lachm. edd. for alto; Bock. antro.
278. acuit, Vulg. Deut. 32, 41, 'si acuero ut fulgor gladium meum.'—intus: 4, 1091 n.
279. cum: conj., as in 4, 617.
280. calescit is not common in this literal sense.—contagibus: 1242.
281. venti vis et gravis ignis, M. edd.; vel, Bentley. Gravis venti vis igni, OQ; gravida aut vis ignis et acer, Lachm.; vis venti vel gravis ignis, Marull, vulg.; gravis vis venti et ferus ignis, Purmann.
282. impetus: periphrasis, 2, 593 n.—For the double periphrasis, vis . . . impetus, cf. vis . . . potestas, 3, 277.—maturum, 'ready for birth'; 5, 809.
283. que, 'and consequently'; cf. 3, 414.—coruscis: 5, 295, 'coruscis | fulguribus . . . taedae.'
284. lustrans: 5, 575, loca lumine lustrans.
285. Note the dactyls.—insequitur: 3, 172 n.—dispissa repente: 131.—Watson quotes Thomson: 'Follows the loosen'd aggravated roar, | Enlarging, deep'ning, mingling; peal on peal | Crash'd horrible; convulsing heaven and earth.'
286. opprimere . . . videantur, OQ, Wakef. Giuss. Bail. Vahlen, Berlin Ind. 1881, 13; videatur, M. Obruere, Br. Goebel; exprimere, Lachm.; occidere, Bern.—opprimere (terras), cf. 266. Possibly terras, 287, and caeli have changed places. Ellis, J. Phil. 3, 266, would have lumina subject of videantur.
287. Georg. 3, 250, 'ut tota tremor pertemptet equorum | corpora.'
288. Note repetition of m, and cf. 5, 1193.
289. tempestas, as in 259, 263.
290. de: 1, 384 n.
291. aether: cf. 1, 250 n.
292. revocare, OQ, Giuss. sc. terras with Vahlen, I.c.; cf. 266. Br. infers a lacuna. Revocari, Bentl. Lachm. M. Bail. Cf. 5, 255, 'pars etiam glebarum ad diluvium revocatur.' Crouslé quotes Boileau, Sat. 6, 'On dirait que le ciel, qui se fond tout en eau | Veuille inonder ces lieux d'un déluge nouveau.'
293. tantus (imber).
294. ardentis: cf. 145.
295. est cum, τοτιν δε, 'at times'; Roby, 1687; Lane, 1870; here only in L.
296. maturo: 282.—validam, Juntine, vulg.; valida, OQ; calidam, Bern. edd.;

gravidam, Bentl. Lachm. Validus is a favorite word with L., and he uses it loosely: the cloud is 'mighty'; all that relates to the thunderbolt is validus; cf. 228; leges validas, 5, 58. Creech paraphrased by densam, and Bock. remarks that the cloud must be strong enough to contain the winds; cf. crassis, 246. Ellis, validam . . . culmine.

- 297. igneus makes it lightning and not wind.
- 298. A gratuitous remark, showing that this section needed revision.
- 299. Bracketed by Giuss., who thinks it should follow 345, which is too far away.
— idem, sc. cadere. — in partis: cf. 1, 1007.
- 300. sine igni, 'fireless,' i.e. frigida.
- 301. igniscat: usually ignescat.
- 302. dum venit = in veniendo: Lachm., cum.
- 303. The explanation of the ignition of meteors by atmospheric friction is not unlike this.
- 304. conradens: again in 444. — portat, anacoluthon for portans.
- 305. alia parvola commixta is the order.
- 306. plumbea: 179 n. — saepe (not semper) corresponds to longo, expressed in 179.
- 307. fervida fit corresponds to liquescit, 179. — r rigor, 'cold,' 5, 746.
- 308. concepit: cf. 472.
- 309. ipsius: 3, 97 n. Ipsius is not found in L.
- 310. frigida via: 315, 319. — pepult: cf. on 286. Cf. vernacular 'lightning struck.'
- 311. vementi: 3, 152 n.
- 312. ipso (vento). — elementa vaporis: 5, 599.
- 313. res in minor clause: 1, 15 n.
- 314. Cf. 161.
- 315. illi, Lachm. edd.; ille, OQ; illa, Flor. 31, vulg. Bock.; cf. 216. But illi is the easier correction and agrees with Lucretian usage; 3, 294 n.
- 316. ad, 'following on'; 1, 185 n.
- 317. quoque: perhaps quaeque should be read; cf. 4, 554; but for quoque, cf. on 1, 290. — Giuss. brackets 317–318; refuted by van d. Valk, 115.
- 318. opportuna et idonea: 5, 606.
- 319. nec temere: 3, 252 n. — omnino plane: Cic. Brut. 215, plane et omnino; 2, 1060 n.
- 320. ea, Lachm. edd. for ex. — tanta vi missa, Flor. 31, edd.; tanta missa, OQ.
- 321. in cursu: 307.
- 322. at, 'at least'; 3, 172 n.
- 323–378. 'Thunderbolts move with great velocity, like missiles from engines; they are made of small and smooth elements. The tendency downward of a falling body increases the force of their discharge, and they gain impetus as they go. They penetrate some objects, burst or melt others. They occur in the autumn and spring because at those times the different causes are most favorable.'
- 323. gravis ictus: cf. impete tanto, 239.
- 324. et, Itali; at, OQ, Br. Giuss. who reject the verse as a doublet of 323; but it is explained by 340–347. — ferme: 3, 65 n. — percurrent, Lachm. edd. for percutunt; the absolute use is rare. Cf. 668.

325. nubibus, locative abl. — incita vis: 1, 271.

326. 1041, conamina sumpsit.

327. inde ubi: 3, 449. — inpetis: this form is dw. Ley. — Note his fondness for the word in this description.

328. exprimitur: cf. 181, 212.

329. tormentis: Aen. 11, 6, 6, ‘nubium inter se compressarum angustiae medium spiritum eiciunt et hoc ipso inflammant et tormenti modo emittunt. nam balistae quoque scorpionesque tela cum sono expellunt.’ — Cf. on 5, 317.

330. Cf. 354; 3, 244; 2, 385.

331. naturae, the only occurrence of dat. of natura in L. — Cf. 227.

332. inter . . . fugit: 1, 619 n. and 4, 716 n. — 4, 894, ‘per patefacta venit penetratque foramina.’

333. in remorando is pleonastic with haesitat = remoratur et. For the form cf. 4, 720 and on 3, 491; many exx. in M.

334. labens: 1, 1003, fulmina . . . labentia.

335. deinde, adde, Lachm. Deinde quod, 1, 746; 4, 196. — quod must be interpreted as if adde had preceded; the ellipse is not violent; the adde quod of 330 takes the place of a primum, and denique follows in 340. — For the principle see 2, 190 sq.

336. plagast, Lachm. edd.; plaga si, OQ.

337. duplicatur occurs only here in L. and the first occurrence in the meaning ‘increase.’

338. ut (impetus). Note the chiasmus: vementius is the result of gravescit, and citius of mobilitas duplicatur.

339. itiner occurs several times; see lex. Wakef. quotes Plaut. Merc. 929, itiner exsequi.

340. quod is probably a conj. It is singular, as Giuss. says, that L. writes venit instead of cadit.

341. quaes (mobilitas). — Aen. 4, 175, ‘mobilitate viget viresque adquirit eundo.’

342. roboret occurred in 4, 1038.

343. illius (fulminis).

344. e regione: 4, 374 n.

345. coniciens (mobilitas). — volventia: 5, 931 n.

346. forsitan: 735; 5, 610. — quaedam corpora, some inflammable substances; so an electric spark as it progresses may decompose the water in the air.

347. incendunt, Aen. 5, 455, ‘pudor incendit vires.’

348. incolunis goes with res; cf. 1, 246, and for the illustration 231 and n. — Cic. Rep. 2, 11, has incolunis atque intacta.

349. transviat, OQ, should be retained with Wakef. although dw. Ley. Transvolat, Naug. edd. Vio occurs rarely, and it and its compounds are vulgar and late, yet L. has too many plebeian words for this to be rejected, as it makes perfect sense. Quint. 8, 6, 33, ‘vio pro eo infelicius fictum.’ — This sixth book has many archaisms and strange words. Everett, Harv. St. 7, 35, is inclined to keep transviat; see also Giuss. Note L.

350. perfigit, O, Lachm. Giuss.; perfrigit, Q; perfringit, Marull. M. Br. Bail.

Goebel, Rh. M. 15, 410. Perfigit is unexampled: perfixus, etc., alone is used elsewhere, but the meaning 'pierces through' agrees well with the sense; cf. 392.—ipse: Br. ipsis.

351. texta, participle; elsewhere in L. a substantive.
 352. aes aurumque: cf. 230.—dissoluit porro, opposed to perfigit. The point of view changes to the effect of the thunderbolt.
 353. confervefacit, another dur. λεγ. — minute, with parvis.
 354. Cf. 330.—vis (fulminis).
 355. insinuantur et insinnata: Kraetsch, 82, compares fateor fassoque ignoscat, Ov. M. 13, 189.
 356. nodos et vincia: Aen. 5, 510, nodos et vincula.
 357. stellis fulgentibus: Enn. Ann. 29, 'qui caelum versat stellis fulgentibus aptum,' id. 159, 'caelum suspexit stellis fulgentibus aptum'; Aen. 11, 202, 'caelum stellis fulgentibus aptum'; cf. Aen. 4, 482.—apta: cf. 5, 1428.
 358. caeli domus: 2, 1110.—tellus: 1, 178 n.
 359. Manil. 2, 182, 'florentia tempora veris' (M).
 360. calore: 1, 174.
 361. denso: cf. 246.
 362. interutrasque: 2, 518 n.—constant = sunt as often.
 363. variae causae omnes: 5, 1338 n. For the repetition of the ae syllable, here only in L., see Norden on Aen. 6, 652.
 364. fretus, the border-line between the two seasons of heat and cold: 'cross currents,' M. L. had used the word metaphorically in 4, 1030, literally in 1, 720.—et, Itali.
 365. nubi, Lachm. edd. for nobis, yet nobis may be right: 'in our opinion' or 'we shall find each necessary,' etc.; 262, nostrum, 184, nostra, 133, 187, videmus, 170, cernimus. Yet there is no other case of nobis with opus in L., and Manil. 1, 853, has fabricantes fulmina nubis.
 366. Br. and Giuss. place 366–367 after 364, with Bock. 'nam non frigore et aestu sed ignibus et ventis opus est.' But ignes et venti are a result of (concurrunt) frigus et aestus through discordia. In 360 he showed that fire fails in the winter and winds in the summer, but when both cold and heat are present then thunder may be expected.
 367. fluctuet, 'heaves.' Apul. M. 5, 21, aestu fluctuat.
 368. et, Marull. edd. M. Br. Bail.; est, OQ, Lachm., who changes id 369 to ut. Bern. pars si est. Giuss. keeps the Ms. reading altogether.—M. comp. Ov. Her. 14, 22, 'ultima pars lucis prima noctis erat.'
 369. quare: quo res, Bern. Polle. Goebel, ubi for id.
 370. res, added by Flor. 31, M. Giuss. Bail.; se res, Lachm. Br.; sese, Bern.—turbare: 3, 493 n.
 371. calor extremus, end of summer.
 372. quod fertur nomine tempus corresponds to tempus id est vernum, 369.
 373. configunt with dat. only in L.: Dr. § 185, 3.
 374. freta, the form in 4, 1030; here supplied by Lachm. from 364.—Bergk, from Monac., movimenta notanda; Itali, sunt haec bella.—nominitanda: 4, 51.
 375. nec mirumst: 2, 338 n.

376. Aen. 12, 283, 'turbida caelo | tempestas' (Wakef.).
377. ancipiū: 3, 525.
378. ventis umoreque, winter, there being little rain in summer: 360—361.
- 379—422. 'This is the true theory of the thunderbolt, not that contained in the Etruscan scrolls. If the gods hurl the fire of heaven, why are they so inconsiderate and unscientific in their gunnery?'
379. ipam, 'very.'
380. perspicere, 'see through,' 1, 157 n.
381. Tyrrhena: Sen. NQ. 2, 32, 2, 'Tuscos quibus summa est fulgurum persequendorum scientia . . . nam cum omnia ad deum referant, in ea opinione sunt, tamquam non, quia facta sunt, significant, sed quia significatura sunt, fiant.' — retro . . .
frustra both signify the futility of the task. Retro implies reading back to the end of the roll, and all for nothing. Retro volvens is for rōvolvens, which he does not use; on retro with following rē, see on 1, 785.—carmina: there is of course no evidence that the Tuscan books were in verse: the interpretation should be made from 1, 109.—CIL. xi, 3370, '[Tarquitius] carminibus edidit.'
382. indicia mentis: Ov. M. 7, 620, mentis signa Iovis (M.).
- 383—385 = 87—89: rejected by Br. after Neumann, 17, Gneisse, 79. The verses are epexegetical of what immediately precedes and are sufficiently defended by Lohmann, 37.
386. nocere, OQ; monere, Bock. Br. (fulgurum monitus, Pliny, 2, 24); docere, Housman, Bail. Nocere refers to the religious character of the bidental, the place where fulgur conditum est; in the ceremony Etruscan haruspices were employed.
Marquardt, Staatsv. 3, 262, quotes Amm. Marc. 23, 5, 13, 'hoc modo contacta loca nec intueri nec calcari debere fulgurales pronuntiant libri.' See also Preller, Röm.
Myth. 2, 192. Nocere seems amply defended by Seneca's discussion in NQ. 2, 41, 1; 43, 1 and 2; 49, 1.—Lucretius does not see why any baneful character is brought on the earth in this manner.
387. alii divi, Juno, Minerva, Vulcan: Serv. on Aen. 1, 42. But Pliny, NH. 2, 138, 'Tuscorum litterae novem deos emittere fulmina existimant.'
388. Cf. 285—286.
389. voluntas, Gassendi, Wakef. Bock. after OQ; cf. 4, 984 n. Voluptas, Marull.
edd. Voluntas est cuique iacere may be defended by Cic. Fam. 40, 'voluntatem habent ad hunc opprimentum.'
390. quibuscumque, dat.—incautum scelus, 'sin not beware of'; see lex.—
aversabile, 'abominable'; quoted only from Arn. Note again strange words and constructions close together in 389—390.—Why, says Aristophanes, Clouds, 399 sq., does not Zeus blast Cleonymus and other perjurors? He strikes his own temple and Sunium and the oaks. The oak tree is not a perjurer.—Cf. 2, 1103.
391. faciunt ut iicti flammas fulgoris halent is the order.—halent, 221.
392. perfixo: cf. 350. Aen. 1, 44, 'exspirantem transfixo pectore flamas | turbine corripuit.'—documen, short for documentum, is not quoted elsewhere: Terent.
M. has docimen.
393. conscius in: lex. quotes Cic. Att. 1, 18, 1; Prop. 1, 10, 2.
394. innoxius, 'though innocent.' Notice the thrice occurring in.—inque peditur: 3, 484 n.

395. turbine correptus: 5, 1231.
396. loca sola: 4, 573 and n.—Sen. NQ. 2, 51, ‘illa (fulmina) quae in vastum mare sparguntur aut in desertas solitudines, quorum significatio nulla est vel perit.’—frustraque laborant: 4, 1099 n. Cic. Div. 2, 44, ‘si ista Iuppiter significaret, tam multa frustra fulmina emitteret! quid enim proficit, cum in medium mare fulmen iecit? . . . quid, cum in desertas solitudines,’ etc. But Pliny, 2, 113, calls such bruta fulmina: ‘his percuti montis, his maria, omnisque alios iactus. illa vero fatidica ex alto statisque causis.’
397. bracchia consuescunt: the omission of the dative is unusual: Col. 6, 2, ‘arato iuvencum consuescimus.’—firmantque lacertos, ‘getting up their muscle.’
398. perpetiuntur occurred in 2, 1148.
399. ipse: Georg. 1, 328, ‘ipse pater . . . fulmina molitur.’—parcit ‘save for use’: Aen. 10, 542, ‘gnatis parce tuis,’ and Serv. there: ‘parce autem est secundum antiquos serva.’
400. Br. places 400–403 after 405 with Bock., Giuss. after 416; cf. Gneisse, Jahrb. 123, 499.—puro caelo: Mart. 9, 24, 4, ‘sic tonat ille deus cum sine nube tonat’; Ov. F. 3, 369, ‘ter tonuit sine nube deus tria fulgura misit. | credite dicenti; mira, sed acta, loquor’; Suet. Tit. 10, ‘tristior quod tempestate serena tonuerat.’ Cf. on 247.
401. fulmen sonitusque: not a hendiadys.
402. nubes successere: 5, 286.—eas tum: Lamb. edd.; aestum, OQ.
403. prope hinc: ‘near where we are’ = prope ab hac parte; hinc for ex his nubibus does not go well with eas.
404. ratione, ‘purpose.’
405. campoque natantis: 5, 488 n.—liquidam molem: Lucan, 5, 625, ‘tanta maris moles’ (Wakef.).
406. caveamus, ‘avoid.’
407. ‘why does he let us see?’
408. nec opinantis: 3, 959 n.
409. tonat (Iuppiter), here only in L. although so common elsewhere. He has tympana tonant in 2, 618.
410. is contemptuous.
411. qui possis, ‘how can one —.’
412. mittere (fulmen), the sing. is important: Cic. I.c., ‘nam esset mirabile quo modo id Iuppiter totiens iaceret cum unum haberet: nec vero fulminibus homines quid aut faciendum esset aut cavendum moneret.’ No doubt these arguments were drawn from an Epicurean armory against Stoicism.—Pronounce mittere ‘n’oc?
413. sub tempore: Aetna, 190, ‘sub exiguo . . . tempore’; Ov. F. 5, 491, ‘sub eodem tempore’; Roby, 2130.
414. saepe . . . numero might be called a case of tmesis.
415. ut is correlative with sic.
416. fieri in different meaning from fieri 414 in his manner: 1, 128 n.
417. sancta deum delubra: 1272.—Pliny, 2, 144, ‘magna huius observationis vanitas tacta Iunonis aede Romae deprehensa est Scavro consule.’ Cf. on 2, 1101.
418. praeclaras, that their splendor might be of no avail.
419. bene facta: he could not have objected to their poor workmanship.

420. Sen. NQ. 2, 42, 'quid enim tam inperitum est quam credere fulmina e nubibus Iovem mittere, columnas arbores nonnumquam statuas suas petere?'

421. Giuss. transfers 421–422 to precede 404, but in Note L. 211 would place them after 405. There is an anticlimax in closing the paragraph in the Ms. order.—eius (Jovis), a certain correction by Lachm. for plus.

422. 5, 1126 n. Sen. Agam. 96, 'feriunt celos fulmina colles.'

423–450. 'Hurricanes are caused by whirlwinds which join the sea and sky. Sometimes the whirlwind comes on land also, but on the sea such tempests are more frequent.'

423. Quod superest: 1, 50 n.

424. praesteras, πρηστῆρες from πίμπρημι, 'brennen.' Pliny, 2, 133, 'idem ardenter accensusque dum furit prester vocatur amburens contacta pariter et proterens.' Sen. NQ. 5, 13, 'si pugnacior est ac diutius volutatur inflammatur et efficit quod prestera Graeci vocant: hic est igneus turbo.' Pliny differentiates (2, 133) ecnephias, typhon, turbo, prester as varieties of whirlwinds. L. seems to call them all presters.—ab re: 740.

425. He treats the water presters first; these were sometimes water-spouts.

426. Cf. 433.—columna: Sen. NQ. 7, 10, 3, of the turbo: 'in eodem enim vestigio versatur et columnae modo circumagentis se volvitur.' [Epic.] ad Pyth. 104, πρηστῆρας ἐνδέχεται γίγεσθαι καὶ κατὰ κάθεσιν νέφους εἰς τὸν κάτω τόπον ἀλλοειδῶν (στυλοειδῶν, Usener) ντὸν πνεύματος δόρπου ωθέστος καὶ διὰ τοῦ πνεύματος κύκλῳ φερομένου, διὰ καὶ τὸ νέφος εἰς τὸ πλάγιον ωθούντος τοῦ ἐκτὸς πνεύματος κτλ.'

427. quam (columnam) circum.

428. incita (Flor. 31), 'set in motion,' 5, 1094; lacita, OQ. Incita, participle, is like cita, 1, 997; 2, 85.

429. deprensa: Catull. 25, 13, 'deprensa navis in mari vesaniente vento'; Stat. Th. 1, 370; Georg. 4, 421.

430. periculum, 'jeopardy,' nautical.

431. vis incita venti: 137.

432. rumpere: Aen. 3, 199, abruptis nubibus, showing that rumpere = abrumperere; see Archiv, 5, 276.—coepit, 'undertaken'; 5, 411 n. Gassendi's and Lotze's cepit is unnecessary.

433. demissa is a real participle.

434. pugno bracchique coniectu: for the order see on 3, 201.—Lotze, Phil. 7, 731, rejects 434–435.

435. extendatur ad, 'stretched out to.' Q. Curt. 3, 9, 10, 'agmen ad mare extenderet.'

436. Giuss. after Bock. brackets 436–437 as a dittohraphy. It is very possible that there would have been condensation on revision, but 440–442 may have reference to 436–437.—prorumpitur: an unusual middle.

437. fervorem, 800 ferventis aquai; cf. 442.

438. versabundus: an unusual word; cf. 582.

439. lento cum corpore: for abl. of quality; 1, 287 n.—Lotze, diducit penitus torto.

440. ac gr-: 1, 281 n.

441. inmittit, 'lets down.'

442. Cf. 148–149.
443. He now describes the whirlwinds without fire.
444. conradens: cf. 304.
445. quasi modifies imitetur.
446. hic (prester). — terrā: 2, 714 n.
447. prōvomit atque prōcellae: 3, 145 n. Provomit is not cited elsewhere. OQ, procellat, ἀπ. λεγ. Wakef., which Watson defends by Milton, PL. 7, 410, ‘Part huge of bulk . . . tempests the ocean.’ Here again the Ms. may be right, strange usages occurring together in his manner. But Pliny discriminates procella from turbo, i.c.
448. fit raro: presters are happily infrequent anyway.
449. officere: mountains impede the tempests. But in our great western prairies they are common enough.
450. prospectu . . . magno, ‘wide prospect’; see lex. — patenti: 1175 patente.
- 451–494. ‘Clouds form from bodies entangled in the air: they are first visible on the mountains which condense them. They also rise from the sea, rivers, and land. Again, cloud particles in immense number stream in from the great ether with wondrous speed.’
451. concrescunt: 4, 133, ‘ut nubes facile interdum concrescere in alto’ and n. This first theory goes back to Democritus. — Ερ. ad Pyth. 99, νέφη δύναται γίνεσθαι καὶ συνιστασθαι καὶ παρὰ πλήθεις δέρος καὶ παρὰ περιτλοκάς ἀλληλούχων ἀτέμων καὶ ἐπιτηδεών εἰς τὸ τοῦτο τελέσαι καὶ κατὰ ρεμάτων συλλογῆν ἀπό τε γῆς καὶ οὐδάτων. Sen. NQ. 2, 30, ‘est enim nubes spissitudo aeris crassi.’
452. hoc supero, Lachm. edd. for hoc super; Lamb. supera. Possibly hoc super should be retained as an adverbial expression. — ‘moreover.’ Bock. reads insuper.
453. modis, OQ, Bock. Br. Bail.; Br. in Appendix; comp. κατὰ μικρὸν σύνταψις of Democritus (in Theophr., Diels' Doxog., p. 521, 7) and modis miris. ‘Modis exiguis id est modice nec nimis arcte,’ Lamb. Bock. notes that asperiora is different from hamata, ramosa, etc. Moris, Lachm. M. Giuss. i.q. hamis; Sen. Ben. 5, 12, 2, ‘commiseuras eorum et moras.’ In 4, 1281, moris, OQ, modis edd.
454. comprensa, edd. for compressa OQ, is made certain by comprendunt, 456.
455. haec (corpora).
456. ea, OQ, Br. Bail. Cartault, 65; haec, Lachm. M. Giuss.; cf. on 3, 601. Haec (nubeculae) is quite as ambiguous as ea (nubila) from nubes; cf. 214–215, hence it seems better to keep to the MSS. Bock. would interpret ea (corpora), which cannot be correct with crescunt. Madv. Adv. Crit. 2, 26, would have eae in spite of Lachmann, ‘viro peracuto et perdocto non semper cauto.’
457. coniungendo (se) as inter se was expressed above.
458. tempestas saeva: 3, 805, saevas procellas.
459. montia cacumina: probably metr. gr., so Aen. 3, 274, cacumina montis, but Catull. 64, 240, montis cacumen, and Ov. M. 1, 310, montana cacumina; Ovid has montis cacumen several times. — This second hypothesis goes back to Anaximenes.
460. quoque, OQ, see on 3, 700; quaerque, Cambr. Br. Bail. — edita, postponed like tenvia, 463.
461. fulvae, OQ and edd. before Lachm.; furvae, Bentley and all recent edd. except Bock., who says the cloud is yellowish as long as the sun shines on it. Furva is not Lucretian, while fulva occurs in 5, 901 and, as so frequently happens, L. is followed by Virgil, Aen. 12, 792, fulva de nube, and Ov. M. 3, 723, fulva . . . nube. Fulvae is dust colored; any one who has observed the clouds gather on Mt. Tamalpais near San Francisco can see the appropriateness of the epithet: the clouds gather about the mountain peak long before the plains below are affected. The California climatic conditions are nearer those of Italy than were Bentley's Cambridge or Lachmann's Berlin. It is noteworthy that the early Italian scholars saw no objection to fulvae. — Livy, 28, 15, 11, 'ni se ex vehementi sole, qualis inter graves imbre nubes effulget, tanta vis aquae deicisset': effulget supports fulvae; see also Sen. Oed. 319. Cf. Blümner, Farben, 118.

462. propterea quia: 3, 572 n.—cum . . . primum: Aen. 8, 408; Cic. Verr. 3, 170; Pliny, 30, 91; Archiv 14, 233.

463. Notice the omission of the objects of the verbs.

464. cogunt: cf. 734.

465. turba maiore coortā, as in 4, 530; see on 3, 15. Giuss. thinks coorta is abl., so in 4, 172; but there is, of course, ambiguity.

466. condensa explains crasse, 461; thick enough to be visible. Lachmann's superb emendation is now accepted by all for condensatque arta parere, OQ.

467. aethram, aθpar, only here in L.

468. sursum, 'high in air.'

469. res ipsa: the occurrence of winds on mountain tops.

470. This theory goes back to Xenophanes.

471. 1, 305, 'denique fluctifrago suspensae in litore vestes | uvescunt.'

472. concipiunt: 210, 273, 308, 503, 628.—adhaesum: 3, 381 n.

473. augendas: cf. crescent, 457.

474. momine, Itali, edd., forms a periphrasis: 'salt heaving sea' (M.). OQ, mhomine; Bergk. Jahrb. 83, 505, Bouterwek, marmore.—quoque: 3, 349 n.

475. consanguinea: lex. cites Colum. 1, pr. 4, 'res rustica . . . quasi consanguinea sapientiae.' Cf. 3, 733, 'corpus . . . vitiis adfne laborat.'—ollis, Lachm. Br. Giuss.; 1, 672 n. Omnis, OQ, Bail. Bock. who interprets it 'ganz und gar.' Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 221, would have it mean 'in all cases,' refuted by M. ia. 3, 120, whence Ellis, id. 266, changes to 'whole principle' like omnis natura, 2, 646.

476. ex and de, 477, probably metr. gr.; 1, 413 n.

477. aestum: cf. 816.

478. expressa: 5, 453 n.

479. suffundunt: 3, 304, 'suffundens caecae caliginis umbram.'

480. sufficient: 2, 107, 'haec aera rarum | sufficient nobis'; 3, 704, 'aliam naturam sufficit ex se.' Yet perhaps conficiunt should be read, sufficient being suggested by suffundunt above: 3, 137, 'unam naturam conficere ex se.'

481. aetheris aestus: 5, 483. He may have thought of clouds forming on a very hot day.

482. subtexet: 5, 466 and n.—caerulea (caeli); caerulea alone usually means sea elsewhere from Virgil on; but Enn. Sc. 292 has cava caerulea and Mart. Capell. 2, 190 also has it alone; see Blümner, Farben, 142.

483. huc, edd. after Vat. 3276, except Bock., for hunc. Caelus is well attested, and L. has caelos, 2, 1097. Possibly hunc should be retained in this book where so much that is strange is found.—extrinsecus: cf. 2, 1107 and n. Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 221 and 3, 475, would keep illi of O, sc. aestui; Q has ille; Flor. 31 edd. illa.

484. faciunt = efficiunt.

485. 2, 1054, ‘seminaque in numero innumero.’

486. docui, in 1, 992 sq.

487. ostendi, in 2, 142 sq.

488. inmemorabile per spatium: 4, 192 n.

489. parvo tempore = per quam subito, 4, 169.

490. magnis nimbis, Lachm. Br. Giuss. Bail.; magnis montis, OQ; magnos montis, old vulg.; magna molis, Bern.; montibus tam magnis, M. ('pessime,' Br.). Mountains are out of place here, for they do not cover the sky on sea and land, nor are the latter covered with mountains. Nimbis is not quite satisfactory, but I know nothing better. Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 221; 3, 260, magni montis, 'in such huge mountains do storm and darkness cover the sea,' approved by Masson, Cl. R. 9, 208; but this seems too bold even for L.

491. coperiant, OQ, M. in notes, Bail.; cf. 5, 1058 n. and exx. in Dr. § 552. Coperiunt, Lachm. edd.—impensa: cf. on 1, 326, and Sen. Herc. 1592, 'semper impensum tenuisse ferrum' (Lachm.).

492. caulas: cf. on 3, 255.

493. spiracula: Georg. 1, 89, 'calor ille vias et caeca relaxat | spiramenta'; Aen. 7, 568, 'spiracula Ditis.' Diels, Doxog. 25, sees here a reference to a doctrine of Anaximander's.—magni mundi: 2, 1144.

494. redditus extat: 1, 584, reddita . . . constat.

495–526. 'Rain. Seeds of water rise up with the clouds, which also take up water from the sea and rivers; the clouds then discharge this water when forced together by the wind or by reason of their own weight; or they are melted by the sun's heat. Rains are heaviest when these causes are combined. There is a rainbow when the sun shines opposite the falling rain.'

495. altis: 5, 465, 'cum conciliantur in alto | corpore concreto subtexunt nubila caelum,' and 6, 479.

496. terras: 1, 3 n.—ut, 'in the form of'; cf. 1199.

497. The theory goes back to Anaximenes with that of 459 sq. Ep. ad Pyth. 99, Ηδη δ' ατ' αντων γέ μέν θλιψομένων, γέ δέ μεταβαλλόντων ὑδατα δύναται συντελεῖσθαι, κτλ.

498. simul has the force of a preposition and is aided by the con in consurgere; Roby, 2121.—vincam: on 2, 748.—ipsis: cf. ipsas, 206.

499. utrumque: ἀμφότερος; cf. on 3, 658.

500. extat = est, metr. gr.

501. nobis: cf. 3, 168–169.

502 was rejected by Lamb. and is a wearisome addition.—membris: 3, 117 n.

503. etiam quoque: 3, 208 n.—concipiunt (nubes), which is easily supplied from 498 as well as from 505.

504. pendentia vellera, hung up to dry.

505. supera: 1, 429 n.—magnum mare: 3, 1029 n.

506. consimile, prob. metr. gr.; 3, 74 n.

507. bene, perhaps with multa, but see 5, 52 and on 5, 708.

508. adaucta, on 2, 564.
509. imbris demittere, Bern. Br. Giuss.; viventi, OQ, from 510; umorem, M. Bail.; umentia, Wakef. Lachm.; wentia, Ellis, J. Phil. 28, 18. Necessarily the reading must be purely conjectural.
510. contrudit: cf. 211.
511. turba maiore: cf. 465.—coacta: probably abl.
512. et e, O corr. Itali.; e, OQ; de, Lachm. edd., except Bock. L. elsewhere has ex supero (2, 227 n.) and nowhere de supero; but metrical necessity demands either de or et e. As et e is better attested, was the old vulgate, gives a pure dactylic movement, correlates ac, and as L. uses e and ex indifferently before s, I prefer et e. Furthermore, urget occurs certainly three times elsewhere in L. and is always a trochee: 3, 982; 6, 481, 558.
513. rarescunt nubila: cf. 214 sq.
514. super, adv., 1, 649 n.
515. stillantque, Q corr. edd.: stillante, OQ.
516. tabescens: of snow, 964.—multa, adj. for adv. = multum = saepe? or does it refer to quantity ‘in abundance’? The former seems demanded by the connexion, yet is not easy to parallel. Cf. 3, 290.—Ov. M. 3. 487, ‘ut intabescere flavae | igni levi cerae . . . sole tepente solent.’
517. vemens, vementer: 3, 152 n.—utraque vi: nubila cumulata premuntur vi et impete venti (premuntur): so Giuss.; but M. thinks utraque an adverb. Bentley interpreted nubila cumulata premuntur vi, et impete venti. But there are two causes of heavy rain: the heavy clouds and the impact of wind; vi is superfluous unless taken with utraque, hence Lachm. read aquis instead.
518. Notice his favorite interlocking of words.—impeto, on 2, 330.—cumulata, they fall from heaviness, not vi; cf. turba maiore coacta, 511 = cumulata.
519. atque tenere, Lachm. edd., ‘continue’: Livy 23, 44, 6, ‘imber continens per noctem totam usque ad horam tertiam . . . tenuit’; many exx. in M.’s note. At retineret, OQ; at remanere, Bern. Bail.; dubious Latin. Edelbluth would recall retinere of the Itali., interpreting retinere as retineri = manere; cf. 1190. Bergk, tetinere.
520. cientur: Wakef. edd. for fientur.
521. Note the confused order corresponding to the sense.
522. insuper, on 192.—vulgo: 1, 238 n. Albert, premuntur.
523. fumans: 5, 463, ‘exhalantque lacus nebulam fluviique perennes, | ipsaque ut interdum tellus fumare videtur.’—redhalat, ἀπ. λεγ., an emendation by Voss for rehalat, following rehalat, O corr., Itali.
524. 2, 115, ‘radii per opaca domorum.’ Hoc ubi rather than hic ubi would agree with his general custom, but hic occurs in 446, 686, 836.
525. aspargine: 1, 719, asparginit.—Adv. asp. is an abl. abs.; 3, 293 n.
526. arqui, not arci, is the better form of the gen.—Eph. ad Pyth., 109, ‘Ιπις γίνεται κατὰ τρόσλαμψιν τοῦ ήλιου τρὸς δέρα ύδατοειδῆ; noted first by Anaximenes.
- 527–534. ‘Other atmospheric phenomena also are easily explainable by the atomic theory.’
527. sursum . . . sursumque, OQ, Br. Bail. Vahlen, Index Berl. 1881, 8, who maintains that sursum has no notion of direction here, but is local merely as in 5, 465; 6, 468; Cic. ND. 2, 141, 'nares . . . recte sursum sunt'; Sen. NQ. 1 prol. 10, 'sursum ingentia spatia sunt.' Sorsum . . . sorsumque, M. Bern. Giuss. after Koch, Rh.M. 8, 640, and Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 327, cf. 3, 286; cursu . . . cursuque, Lachm.; sensim . . . sensimque, Albert. — crescunt here = funs, 'occur,' 'happen'; creantur is the passive of it; cf. 533.

528. omnia . . . omnia: 3, 12 n.

529. que in asyndeton, 5, 69 n. Note that all of these 'sursum crescunt,' and some also 'in nubibus'; they are all of atmospheric origin: Epf. ad Pyth. 107 sq.

530. geli: 5, 205. — duramen, quoted also once from Columella.

531. mora, 'check.' — refrenat: Georg. 4, 136, '(hiemps) glacie cursus frenaret aquarum.' — aventis, O corr.; avintis, OQ; euntis, Q corr., Avanc., edd. Wakefield keeps aventis as subject of reperiere. Here again L heaps up strange expressions — duramen, mora; adventis, 'hungry,' 'eager,' is like the more common rapaces 1, 17; 5, 341, and is a bold expression; 5, 415, 'flumina vim minuerunt.' Euntis is too prosaic; avere is one of his words; cf. on 5, 524. — Br. brackets the verse, and Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 327, suspected a dittography. The repetition of the thought in stronger terms is like that in 409–410; 4, 450–451.

532. tamen, notwithstanding their number.

533. ve = que, I, 57 n.

534. bene cognoris: 2, 1090, 'quae bene cognita si teneas.'

535–556. 'Earthquakes. First, the earth is full of caverns filled with wind or water, and is jarred by the fall of rock.' — Br. with Kannengießer puts this after 638. See in general Rusch, De Posidonio Lucr. auctore 6 sq.; Sen. NQ. 6.

535. terrai motibus, the normal expression for earthquake; Ital. terremoti.

536. fac ut: 3, 912 n.

537. Epf. ad Pyth. 105, Σεισμούς ἐνδέχεται γίνεσθαι καὶ κατὰ πνεύματος ἐν τῷ γῇ ἀπλήψιν. καὶ παρὰ μικρὸς ὑγους αὐτῆς παράθεσιν καὶ συνέχῃ κίνησιν, δὲ τὴν κράδασιν τῷ γῇ παρασκευάζει. Sen. NQ. 6, 20, 'Democritus plura putat. ait enim motum aliquando spiritu fieri, aliquando aqua, aliquando utroque.' — superter, supera: on the shape of the earth see 5, 534 n.

538. lucunas: 3, 1031 n. — Aet. 3, 15, 11 (Usener, Epicur. Fr. 350), ἐνδέχεσθαι δὲ καὶ σηραγγώδη τοῖς κατωτέρῳ μέρει καθεστῶσαν ὑπὸ τοῦ διαστειρομένου πνεύματος εἰς τὰς ἀντροειδεῖς κοιλωτὰς ἐμπίποτος σαλεύεσθαι.

539. Milne, Seismology, 33: 'while admitting a few small earthquakes to be volcanic in their origin, we recognize the majority of these disturbances as sudden fracturing of the rocky crust under the influence of bending'; and 38: 'the majority of earthquakes . . . are spasmodic accelerations of the secular folding or creep of rock masses.'

540. tergo terrai, for the crust of the earth, a bold expression. Georg. 4, 366, 'omnia sub magna labentia flumina terra.'

541. Sen. NQ. 6, 20, 7 '(Epic.), fortasse palustres et iacentes aquas aliquis fatus inpellit.' — summersaque saxa, Flor. 31, edd.; Aen. 5, 124, 'saxum . . . submersum'; summerosca, OQ.

542. similem (terram). The interior of the earth is inferred to be of the same form as the exterior; 5, 492.

543. rebus, speluncis, etc.

544. superne: 1, 496 n.—Sen. NQ. 6, 10, '(Anaximenes) . . . in hoc universo terrae corpore evenit ut partes eius vetustate solvantur, solutae cadant et tremorem superioribus adferant'; id. 20, 6, '(Epic.), fortasse aliqua parte subito decidente percutitur et inde motum capit. fortasse aliqua pars terrae velut columnis quibusdam ac pilis sustinetur, quibus vitiatis ac recedentibus tremit pondus inpositum.'

545. subruit: Grasberger, obruit; cf. 4, 866.

546. quippe, 'inasmuch'; 3, 190 n.

547. disserpunt, dr. Ley.

548. plaustris, OQ, retained by Bock. and Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 222, Christ, 26, Frerichs, 15, and Polle, Phil. 25, 282; plaustri, Lachm. Br. Bail.; Giuss. with hesitation. As L. likes to heap up ablatives, plaustris non magno pondere is probably right.—Sen. NQ. 6, 22, 'si quando magna onera per vices vehicularum plurium tracts sunt et rotae maiore nisu in salebras inciderunt, terram concuti senties.'

549. tota, 'throughout.'

550. exultant res ut lapi' cumque, Br. Giuss.; exultantes dupuis, OQ, Bail. † exultant et ubi lapi', Lachm.; exultant ut scrupus cumque, M.; res dum vis usque, Bock.; ubi currus fortis equum vis, Lamb.; rupis ubi cumque, Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 327; exultant sedes ubi quicque viai, Grasberger; exultant sedes ubicumque, Christ, 26; si qua vis cumque, Goebel; exultant onera umbo ubicumque, Polle; fissura ubicumque, Rusch; extantis rupis vis cumque, Frerichs; exultant et scrupus cumque, Ellis.—viae, Lachm. and all moderns; vim, OQ. No reading is altogether satisfactory, but I take Br.'s adaptation of that of Lachm and Bock for the present; the objections to it are: res, for things in the house is weak; lapis does not jar all the wheels, orbis; viae with lapis is strange, and the elision of lapis and its occurrence in the 4th foot are unusual; see on 2, 53 and 3, 52. But there are greater objections to the other readings. A rearrangement—lapis ut res—is probably too violent.

551. utrimque: cf. 835. Bergk, aurigae.

552. aquiae, on 3, 648.

553. e instead of a for euphony.

554. terra vacillans: 5, 1236.

555. interdum, Lachm. and edd. for inter, which seems weak: can the jar sometimes stand up when the water is agitated? The old vulgate was in terra; Wakef. interea or inter nos. The verse is not yet sound. Perhaps a lost adjective lies concealed in inter: vas internum for one within a house might be defended by Ov. Her. 7, 113, internas aras; num would easily fall out before non. More likely some proper adjective is missing.

556. dubio, 'to and fro.'

557-576. 'When subterranean wind presses in the caverns, the earth bends in the same direction, and things on its surface sway, and the world is saved only because the wind abates.'

557. Shaksp. in King Henry IV, 3, 1, 'Oft the teeming earth | Is with a kind of colic pinch'd and vex'd | By the imprisonment of unruly wind | Within her womb; which, for enlargement striving, | Shakes the old beldam earth, and topples down | Steeples, and moss-grown towers.'

558. procumbuit, cf. 1, 291.—Sen. I.c. 7, mentions spiritus agitatio ipso motu crescens as one of the causes proposed by Epicurus.

559. magnis viribus: 5, 819.
560. incumbit, 'gives,' 'yields.' — Sen. l.c., 21, 2, distinguishes, after Posidonius, between succussio, cum terra quatitur et sursum ac deorsum movetur, and inclinatio, qua in latera nutat navigii more.
561. extracta domorum: 1, 86 n.
562. ad . . . que, to avoid confusion with atque as constantly; 1, 725 n. — edita, houses were high in the city; three-story houses were common (Marquardt, Privatl. 221).
563. minent, OQ, Lamb. Giuss. (Br. in Append.) Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 222; tument, Vat. 3276, M.; minantur eandem in, Goebel, Br.; meant, Lachm.; abeunt, Bern.; † Bail. Minent is another dw. λεγ.; the compounds promineo, immineo, etc., are used. Inclinata helps to interpret it, in his manner. — prodita: cf. 606.
564. ire: cf. on 3, 526.
565. metuunt, 'shrink': Catull. 64, 146, nil metuunt iurare. — 1, 658, fugitant . . . relinquere. — This is an obiter dictum; men are scrupulous about accepting this principle of the world's destruction when they see it tumbling down about them!
566. exitiale: 2, 569. — manere: 2, 1087, 'terminus . . . manet haec.'
567. molem: 5, 96, 'ruet moles et machina mundi.'
568. respirent must mean stop (as if to take breath), for there is no evidence of the winds reversing their direction. It is an unusual meaning; lex. cites Cic. Phil. 8, 20, and Quint. 53. Cf. J. Phil. 2, 222; 3, 121, 268. — referent: 1, 850, 'ab exitio res ulla refernat.'
569. reprehendere: 3, 599 n.
570. nunc, adversative: 1, 110. — alternis: 1, 524 n. — inque gravescunt: 4, 1250.
571. quasi qualifies cedunt as well as redeunt; there is a military metaphor.
572. ruinas: he does not use ruinam. — saepius: ruin is threatened more often than it really occurs, but of course it does not occur as a matter of fact to the extent of the destruction of the earth. L. is writing carelessly, and is probably influenced by personal experience.
573. facit: 1, 740, secere ruinas and n. — recollit = reclinat according to Festus.
574. pondera, Q, Lachm. edd.; pondere, O, vulg. M., Polle. Lachm. maintains that pondus 'equilibrium' is never found in the singular, cf. 2, 218; but M. appeals to Manil. 1, 173, 'librato penderet pondere tellus' and other passages. There is a difficulty with either reading; the simplest construction is recipit prolapsa pondera in suas sedes as suggested by Giuss. Lamb. explained prolapsa (se) in suas sedes pondere; Lachm. prolapsa in pondera = ab omni parte in aequalia pondera prolapso, et loquor, after Turnebus. M. explains in pondere as 'in equal poise.' Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 223, well remarks that in pondere is unnatural, and that the acc. is more idiomatic; Munro, id. 3, 122, fails to meet this statement. Housman, id. 25, 246, defends in with sedes, comparing per in 4, 597, and prope in 6, 863, and many passages from other authors. Pondera is merely 'mass'; 'brings back her mass into its original position,' as Housman says; but prolapsa is probably nom.: 1007, in vacuum prolapsa cadunt. L. is again appealing to personal experience and the involved construction harmonizes with the phenomenon which cannot be adequately described. But the rhythm of the verse is wonderfully expressive.

575. vacillant: 5, 1236.
576. per hilum, dw. λεγ.
- 577–607. ‘Sometimes the wind gathers in caverns and issues forth with great force, rending the surface; or remaining below it shakes the earth, thus causing apprehension of immediate destruction.’
577. haec quoque: 3, 349 n.
578. animae: Epic. in Sen. NQ. 6, 20, 6, ‘potest terram commovere impressio spiritus; fortasse enim alio intrante [aere] agitatur.’
579. ipsa, on 3, 483.
580. coniecit, a vigorous expression: nihil est in rerum natura potentius, nihil acris, says Seneca (NQ. 6, 21) of the wind.
581. fremuit, like a wild beast; of lions, 3, 297. — ante corresponds to post; cf. 4, 1251–1252.
582. que, Flor. 31, edd.; versabunda, OQ, as if with fremitante tumultu. — incita vis, 137. Christ, vi, Bock. vist. There is either an anacoluthon or an asyndeton with cum which takes up the distant ubi.
583. erumpitur: cf. prorumpitur, 436.
584. concinnat, of wind in 437, of air, 1118; cf. also 4, 1283.
585. accidit and fuit are synonyms. — Sidone: Sen. NQ. 6, 24, 9, ‘Thucydides ait circa Peloponnesiaci belli tempus Atalanten insulam aut totam aut certe maxima ex parte suppressam. idem Sidone accidisse Posidonio crede’ (in Strabo, 1, 58 c). — Aegi: Ov. M. 15, 293, ‘si quaeras Helicen et Burin, Achaidas urbes, | invenies sub aquis.’ Sen. NQ. 6, 25, 4, ‘cum laboravit Aegium, tam propinquas illi Patras de motu nihil audisse? illa vasta concussio (B.C. 472) quae duas suppressit urbes, Helicen et Burin, circa Aegium constituit’; cf. Rusch, 16. L. may refer to an earthquake which affected Aegium alone, or to the earthquake of 372. But earthquakes of great energy are always felt in the immediate neighborhood of the line of disturbance.
586. Milne, Seismology (81 and passim), says that these vertical shocks — succussions — are most severe, especially in Japan.
587. disturbat = disturbavit; 1, 70 n. — abortus = qui abortus est.
588. The alliteration in this and the two lines following is intentional. — moenia: cf. 749; a mass of buildings, nearly synonymous with urbes, 590.
589. per mare, along the sea; cf. 191. — pessum, ‘to the bottom’; see lex.
590. subcedere: Luc. 1, 645, ‘terraene debiscent, | subsidentque urbes?’
591. nisi for si non; 1, 515 n. — impetus, ‘rush.’
592. vis venti, periphrasis as in 1, 271. — foramina terrae: 5, 811.
593. dispertitur, of the anima, 3, 638. — horror: 3, 291 n.
594. frigus is a material substance to an Epicurean. — artus, ‘frame,’ as repeatedly in Book 3.
595. moveare: 3, 571 n.
596. ancipi: superne and inferne.
597. Tecta and caverna, superne and inferne, timent and metuunt, all correspond in chiastic order. The sentence is condensed from tecta superne timent (ne terrai natura repente ea dissoluat), metuunt inferne cavernas ne terrai natura repente (eas) dissoluat neu (terra) distracta, etc.

598. repente: 1, 187 n.
599. hiatum: Cic. ND. 2, 14, speaks of labibus aut repentinis terrarum hiatibus as terrifying.
600. atque, edd. after Lachm. for idque. Possibly hiatum is neuter and idque should be retained: cf. fretus-um, rictus-um, vultus-a, caelum, masc. in 483, OQ; there is no example of hiatum, 2d declension neut., known.—Ellis' explanation (J. Phil. 2, 213), id, 'the void it has made,' seems untenable.
601. licet quamvis: 620; 3, 1090 n. Quamvis = quantum vis.
602. 5, 1215, 'an divinitus aeterna donata salute.'
603. praesens, when at hand.
604. et = etiam; Lachm. athuc. — stimulum timoris: Sen. Agam. 133, 'mixtus dolori subdidit stimulos timor' (M.). — quadam de parte, 820.
605. 1, 1106, 'terraque se pedibus raptim subducatur.'
606. barathrum: 3, 966 n.
607. 1, 1107, 'inter permixtas rerum caeruleique ruinas.'
- 608–638. 'The sea is not enlarged by the constant addition of water, because that is continually withdrawn from it by evaporation, or by seepage into the interior of the earth.'—This section does not fit in, and hence is bracketed by Lachm. M. Bail. Br. places it after a lacuna to follow 534. Giuss. infers a lacuna after 607. Kannengiesser would have it before 535; Bock. after 711. The reason for the abundant supply of water was discussed briefly in 5, 261–272. The Juntine and Aldine edd. sought to evade the difficulty by prefixing a verse, Nunc ratio reddenda augmen cur nesciat aequor.
608. mirantur ought to occur in a connexion like that in 59.
609. naturam (Itali), as in 2, 168; 5, 206; natura, OQ, defended by Wakef.—quo sit, by reason of.—de cursu aquarum: 5, 263.
610. quo veniant, 'whither come.' 1, 1031, 'avidum mare fluminis undis | integrant amnes.'
611. vagos, 'passing.'
612. maria is object of both verbs, which are synonyms: showers sprinkle, rather than flood, both land and sea.
613. suos fontis, under the sea; an example in 890.—ad, 'in comparison with'; cf. 679, where M. quotes Bacon, 'and all these are nothing to thy mercies'; see lex. D 4.
614. instar, again in 805.—adaugmen, δτ. λεγ.; cf. on adaugescit, 2, 296.
615. magnum is particularly effective, and so placed last; cf. on 3, 1029.
616. magnam sol, edd. for sol magnam.
617. quippe videmus enim: Dr. § 350, 8, found but five cases of enim following quippe, four being from Cicero; he would punctuate here quippe; vi-. Cf. quippe etenim, 1, 104 n.—vestis madentis, 1, 305 n.
618. radiis ardentiibus: 860; 5, 755.
619. pelage, on 5, 35.—substrata: 4, 411, 'aequora substrata aetheris oris.'
620. licet quamvis, an echo of 601.
621. delibet, lit. 'sip up.'
622. largiter, again in 1113; quoted from Plaut. Varro, Petron., Hor. S., Vitr.; once in Caesar.

623. tollere: cf. 507, 627.

624. ventis, Lachm. edd.; venti, OQ, Ellis (J. Phil. 2, 222); cf. 5, 266, 388, verrentes aquora venti; ponti, Itali; cf. 1, 276, where pontus is corrected to ventus. Perhaps validi should be read for venti in 622, and venti kept here.

625. vias, 'highways.'

626. mollis, gen.—concrescere crustas: of ice, Georg. 3, 360.

627. docui: 506.

628. magno is usually omitted with aquore.

629. toto is also emphatic.

630. venti nublia portant: 4, 443.—cum pluit in terris: Aen. 10, 807, dum pluit in terris compared by Serv., who says in terris is an archaism. Tib. 2, 5, 72, in terras deplueret. L. is distinguishing rain on land from rain on the sea.

631. cum: 1, 287 n.

632. coniunctast (mari): 3, 348, 'quoniam coniunctast causa salutis, | coniunctam quoque naturam consistere eorum'; cf. also 5, 562–563.—oras, OQ, edd.; oris, Br.—maris, Q corr.; magis, OQ.

633. de partly metr. gr. for e, partly for assonance with debet; cf. 477.

634. manare: Sen. NQ 3, 5, 'occulto enim itinere (quod influxit) subit terras et palam venit, secreto revertitur, colaturque in transitu mare.'

635–638 = 5, 269–272 with convenit . . . fuit in 271 for confusit . . . redit, which shows that the repetition is intentional. Bock. rejects them. Sen. l.c. also says amaritudinem ponit . . . et in sinceram aquam transit in the same argument.

639–640. 'Why fire is emitted from Etna.'

639. fauces: 1, 724, faucibus eruptos . . . ignis; cf. below, 701–702.—ut, deferred; cf. 5, 872.

640. Actna, 73, 'aestuat et petulans expirat faucibus ignem.'

641. mediocri clade, Voss's fine correction of media grecia de; universally accepted.

642. flammae, OQ, vulg. before Lachm.; flammea, Nonius and late edd. Cicero, Sest. 140, has tempestate populari, and Planc. 11, tempestate populi, so I see no reason why flammae may not be retained. Naturally tempestas—'storm'—is a storm of wind and rain and infrequently of fire.

643. finitimus, Cic. ND 2, 96, 'quantae (tenebrae) quondam eruptione Aetnaeorum ignium finitimas regiones obscuravisse dicuntur.'—gentibus, dat. for gen. 3, 129 n. Cf. also 636, 729, and 5, 1319, venientibus ora petebant.

644. fumida has the force of a participle: the heavens are covered with smoke, yet with an occasional gleam of fire.

645. The alliteration is noteworthy.—pectora cura in varying cases became a frequent hex. ending in Virg. and Ovid.

646. Mark the assonance at the close of 648–650; 5, 964 n.—rerum, i.e. rerum natura and rerum novarum; cf. on 19.

647–679. 'Remember well that the universe is fathomless, and has many parts, of which the world is one. As a man may suffer in his members, so the world has its various diseases; this should cause no surprise, even if some phenomena are unusual.'

647. late . . . alte, assonance; with longe in 648, all dimensions are regarded.

648. dispiciendum: Vitr. 9, 4, 5, 'capita inter se dispicientia sunt collocata' (Lachm.).
649. reminiscaris: what was said in 1, 958 sq. and in 6, 485.
650. unum, such as the one of our system.
651. multesima, πολλοστὸν μέρος, ἀν. λέγ. except for Nonius' quotation; cf. millesimam partem, Cic. Att. 2, 4, 1.
652. tōta . . . quōta: Manil. 3, 420, 'detrahitur summae tota pars quota demitur usque'; Columella, 5, 3, 5. — homō, homō elsewhere in L.: 1, 66 n.
653. propositum, Q corr.; propositus, OQ, Bock.
654. relinquas, 'give up,' with inf. is unexampled according to Dr. § 424, 7 b.
655. artus: 2, 34, decadunt corpore febres; he prefers to use artus, e.g. 3, 398, unless it is inconvenient metrically, e.g. 3, 510.
656. coortam: 4, 664, febris coorta est.
657. per membra dolorem: 4, 1079, dolorem corporis.
658. opturgescit is quoted only from Lucil. and Paulus Diac.
659. saepe, before the development of dentistry.—oculos, diseases of the eye were acute in his time.—invadit in: Livy, 28, 29, 3, 'nec maior in corpus meum vis morbi quam in vestras mentes invasit.'
660. sacer ignis, 1167, erysipelas, called also herpes, Ἑρψης (cf. serpens) in Celsus; there were varieties of the disease then as now.
661. partim: cf. 384.
662. rerum, which cause disease: 1095–1096.
663. haec (semina).—morbi, OQ, Gif. Bock. Bail. Wakef., who compares mali morbi in Celsus, 2, 4. Nobis, Itali, M. Br.; orbi, Lachm. Bergk, Jahrb. 67, 327, thought 663–664 a dittography. The repetition of morbi in 664 is not strange in L.; Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 223, compares the repetition of tactu, MSS. in 778–779, sentimus . . . sentire, 934–935. Morte mala occurs in 1241.
664. vis, from the development of the seeds.
665. toti, in contrast to the part inferred in 663. Our heaven and earth are inconsiderable parts of the whole, just as a man is of our world.
666. ex infinito: 1, 997 n.—omnia (semina).
667. queat, metr. gr. for possit, and tellus for terra.
668. perque . . . percurrire: Aetna, 99, 'per tota errantes percurrunt corpora.'
669. flammescere, elsewhere only in Ambrose and glosses; the phenomenon is caused by reflection from the volcano.
670. id (flammescere caelum).—ardescunt: Sen. NQ. 1, 15, 5, 'frequenter in historiis legimus caelum ardere visum.'—These three lines seem an afterthought, and have no reference to Etna.
671. coortu: 2, 1106. Graviore coortu sunt = maiore copia cadunt, Lamb.
672. tetulerunt, here only in L.; in Enn. Plaut. Ter.
673. at: at, inquis: 1, 897.
674. scilicet et: 1, 809 n.—For the principle of novelty, cf. 5, 1404.—qui visus maximus ei, OQ, Vahlen, 15, Giuss.; quivis est maximus ei, Bentl. Lachm. M. Bail.; *qui visu maximu' cuiquest* qui*, Br. Fluvius (videtur ingens), qui visus etc. The emphasis is on ingens from 673, and stated in 675, 677, not on maximus. Br. would put in his lacuna ingens est ei. For the omission of the verb, cf. 1119;

Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 142, after inferior MSS. would supply one at the end, cisit, changing et to ut. Nencini quia visus. Preiger comp. Claud. Epigr. 2, 17, ‘proxima cui nigris Verona remotior Indis | Benacumque putat litora rubra lacum.’

675. ingens closes the verse in 553; 4, 398; 5, 200.

676. omnia de genere omni: cf. cetera de genere hoc, a frequent formula.

677. tingit = putat: 1, 842, tingit . . . putatque.

678. ‘all that belongs to our terrestrial system.’

679. ad summam summai: cf. on 613, and 5, 361.

680–702. ‘Etna is hollow, and the wind within it whirls about and ignites the earth and rock and ejects them. Again, the sea works into the base of the mountain and (producing wind and steam) causes the eruption.’

680. tamen marks the return to his main line of thought.

681. vastis: Aen. 8, 446, vasta fornace.—Aetnae fornacibus: Georg. 1, 472; cf. Aetna, 1, 556 and passim.—efflet: Aetna, 451, ‘candentes efflant lapides disiectaque saxa.’

682. totius: 3, 97 n.

683. silicum: Aetna, 399, ‘maxima causa molaris | illius incendi lapis est; is vindicat Aetnam.’—cavernis, i.q. ‘arches.’

684. Cf. 537 sq.

685. ventus: the cause was merely alluded to in 529; in 1, 277, there are venti corpora caeca.

686. Sen. Ep. 79, 2, says the fire in Etna in ipso monte non alimentum habet sed viam (Giuss.).

687. Serv. on Aen. 3, 571, mentions sulphur, and others, e.g. Trogus, bifumen as contained in the caverns.—Aetna, 328, ‘furens tota vomit igneus Aetna.’

688. Aetna, 403, of the lapis molaris: ‘sed simul ac ferro quaeras respondet, et ictu | scintillat calor.’

689. tollit: Aen. 3, 576, erigit eructans.—rectis faucibus: 4, 548 n.—eicit: 3, 877 n.

690. longe longeque: 3, 69 n.—Aen. 3, 572, ‘interdumque atram prorumpit ad aethera nubem | turbine fumantem piceo et candente favilla.’

691. crassa caligine: cf. 461.

692. mirando, ‘astonishing.’

693 explains 692; cf. 187.

694. parti: 1, 1111 n.—ad: of rest, 729, 750, 1265.

695. Notice alliteration.

696. speluncae: Serv. on Aen. 3, 570, ‘Aetnam constat ab ea parte, qua Eurus vel Africus flant, habere speluncas et plenas sulphuris et usque ad mare deductas. hae speluncae recipientes in se fluctus ventum creant qui agitatus ignem gignit ex sulphure.’

697. A lacuna after this verse is assumed by M., who suggested fluctibus admixtam vim venti, intrareque ab isto; he is followed by Br. Giuss. Bail.; the subjects of ire and penetrare are plainly wanting.

698. penetrare penitus: 1, 529 n.—mari aperto is frequent; see Thes. 2, 220, 44.—res cogit aperto, OQ; percocta in apertum, Lachm.; res cogit aperta, Creech, Br. Bail.; maris fluctus (quibus aere motum | sedibus eicere se subito) res cogit aperta, Purmann, QL.; et penetrare maris fluctus cogique ita ventum, with no lacuna, id. Jahrb. 115, 284; nec penetrare mari penitus retro cita aperta, Nencini; animam for mari, van d. Valk, 116, from Faber's animam res cogere. Howard, J. Phil. 1, 138, would read ventis for penitus with no lacuna. The content of the lacuna (if admitted) makes all emendation uncertain.

699. efflare is probably transitive, as in 2, 832.

700. Aetna, 199, 'pellitur exhaustae glomeratim nimbus harenæ.' — subiectare: Georg. 3, 241, 'nigramque alte subiectat harenam.'

701. crateres in this sense is cited only from Pliny.

702. nominant: 2, 1018 n. — Cf. 4, 132 n. for the interpretation. — ora: Lucan, 1, 545, 'ora ferox Siculae laxavit Mulciber Aetnae.'

703-711. 'Several explanations of a phenomenon may be given, of which some one will be true.'

703. For this Epicurean principle, cf. 4, 502 sq. and 5, 531 sq. and nn.

704. satis est: so potis est, but est in L. does not follow any living adjective in -is; so in 2, 453, itemst facilis; cf. Leo, Pl. Forsch. 260. Bock. comp. Plaut. Truc. 928, nihil t̄ φλυαπεῖρ satis est. — unde: cf. e quibus, 5, 531. — pluris: this acc. form of the word occurs in all places in Virgil and Horace, and in 5, 529, the only other Lucret. occurrence (Keller, Lat. Sprachg. II, 307).

705. exanium: 3, 714 n. — procul, 'afar off.'

706. conspicias with acc. and inf. first here and sparingly afterwards; Dr. § 437, 1. — fit, 'it comes to pass,' i.e. the natural thing is, etc.

707. illius (hominis leti). — una: the proper one.

708. vincere, 'maintain'; cf. on 2, 748.

709. interiisse a morbo corresponds to ἀποθανεῖς ὀπό, copiously illustrated in Archiv, 10, 495. As the preposition is not written with veneno, probably metrical convenience had some weight.

710. contigit ei, Voss, edd.; contioitēl, O; contioite, Q. — contigit: 3, 1083 n.

711. dicere habemus, θύμεις λέγεται: for elision, cf. on 2, 919, and for the phrase, Cic. Rosc. Am. 100, All. 2, 22, 6, cited in lex.

712-737. 'The Nile overflows in summer because (1) the north winds blow it back, or (2) sand is heaped up at its mouth, keeping back the water, or (3) heavy rains occur at the source, or (4) snow melts on the mountains there.'

712. in aestatem: cf. in lucem, 875, in horas, 5, 274, and in dies. Aen. 7, 8, 'adspirant auræ in noctem.' — redundat: 5, 603.

713. terris Aegypti, Lachm. M.; terris, Aegypti, Br. Giuss. Bail.; but every one knew that the Nile was the river of Egypt; in popular consciousness now it is the 'only river of Egypt.' Herod. 2, 18, recounts that the oracle of Ammon declared that only that which was watered by the Nile was properly Egypt. Lamb. avoids the difficulty by punctuating only after crescit, in which case unicus is ἄνδρα κοσμοῦ. Sen. NQ. 4, 1, 2, mentions the same phenomena of the Danube.

714. saepe = semper; the words are interchanged in 2, 1062; 5, 430. But the Nile did fail sometimes: Sen. NQ. 4, 2, 16. — Cic. ND. 2, 130, Aegyptum Nilus irrigat. — calorem: 1, 174.

715. This explanation is ascribed to Thales: Sen. 22. — Herod. 2, 20, remarked that the Nile rose when these winds did not blow.

716. qui etesiae: 2, 204 n.; etesiae esse, 3, 374 n. Cic. Arat. Phaen. 157, 'hoc motu radiantis etesiae in vada ponti,' the only hiatus in Cicero's hexameters (APA, 28, 65).—etesiae: trade winds blowing annually, eros, during the summer.—qui: abl. on 1, 700; M. takes it as nom., but cf. tunc, 731. — See Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 224, and 3, 269.

717. remorantur: cf. 2, 158.

718. cogentes . . . coguntque: repetition in different senses; 3, 206 n.—manere, 'to wait.'

719. adverso: adversis, 725.

720. ab: Lucan, 2, 51, 'fundat ab extremo flavos aquilone Suevos.'—axis, 'pole'; cf. 1107.

721. ex . . . ab, 'out of' . . . 'away from.'—aestifera: on 3, 11. — parti: 5, 511.

722. Cf. 5, 339, for rhythm.—percocto, 'baked,' i.e. blackened.

723. media . . . diei: mērīdiē is unmetrical.

724. est quoque uti instead of aut corresponding to aut, 715. Est uti possit = potest: on 3, 715.

725. A bar of sand may form, closing the mouth of the river against the current. Mela, 1, 53 sq., gives several explanations of the Nile's rising, among them aut harenis quas cum fluctibus litori adlicant ostia obducunt. Oppilo seems transitive wherever used.

726. ruit harenam: 1, 272 n. Georg. 1, 105, 'cumulosque ruit male pinguis harenae' in a different meaning.

727. quo . . . pacto: hoc . . . pacto, 121, 173; pacto is separated from other attributes in 1, 1035; 2, 750, 773, 1052. — fit uti . . . fiat, fiant, 730; Cic. Orat. 202, fit ut . . . fiat, cited by M. to show how fit uti has sunk to the equivalent of a particle.

728. proclivis: 2, 455 n.

729. Mela, l.c., 'nubes super principia eius imbre praecipitant'; Pliny, 5, 55, 'imbris Aethiopiae aestivos iidem etesiis nubila illo ferentibus'; by Diod. Sic. 1, 39, ascribed to Democritus.—forsan: the first occurrence in the literature.—ad caput: cf. 694 and 5, 270.

730. quo, OQ, Howard, J. Phil. 1, 138, and vulg. before Lachm.; quod, Lachm. edd., following Juntine. But quo corresponds to eo, as qui to eo in 716, and the hiatus also is similar. Lachm. objects to the tautology quo . . . tunc, but he accepts his ibi in 3, 28, which is no worse. Surely L. is the last writer against whom such an objection should stand.—etesia fibra aquilonum: 5, 742.

731. omnia seems emphatic by its position; cf. 4, 519.

732. electa (nubila), Bock., fancifully, 'banished.'—Cf. 723.

733. cum convenerunt: cf. 896–897.

734. Cf. 517–518.

735. Sen. NQ, 4, 2, 17, 'Anaxagoras ait ex Aethiopiae iugis solutas nives ad Nilum usque decurrere. in eadem opinione omnis vetustas fuit. hoc Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides tradunt, sed falsum esse pluribus argumentis patet,' and his refutation is similar to that by Herodotus.

736. albas occurs rarely as an epithet of snow: Blümner, Farben, 13.—descen- dere, Lamb. edd.; decedere, OQ. Serv. on Aen. 4, 250, misquotes albas effundere ningues. For the confusion between decedere and descendere, cf. Drak. on Livy, 36, 14, 4 (with Wakef.), and see on 1, 680. — ningues: the form is quoted elsewhere only from the grammarians; cf. ninguit.

737. tabificis: first appearance of the word; Accius had used tabificibili. Cf. tabescere, 964. — sol lustrans: 5, 1437.

738–768. ‘Avernus, so called because without birds, near Cumae. Another at Athens; another in Syria, where quadrupeds also suffer from noxious vapors. No supernatural explanation is necessary.’

738. quaecumque loca locusque. Notice the pleonasm in his manner and cf. 538. — sint, OQ, edd.; sunt, Bock. Br. There is asyndeton, hence sint.

739. natura praedita constant: cf. on 1, 581.

740. principio: ‘to begin with,’ as an introduction. — quod, OQ, M. Giuss.; ‘as to the fact,’ 3, 31 n. Quo, Lachm. Br. Bail. — Polle, Phil. 26, 537, rejects 740–746 because there is no correlative to principio, because of the hiatus in 743, because 745 sq. is tedious, because 818 sq. is a discussion of the same subject, and because of the numerous etymological glosses. — Averna is evidently derived from avis; so Nonius, ‘quia odor avibus infestissimus,’ Archiv, 8, 436. — id (nomen): we should have expected id factumst.

741. inpositumst: on 3, 346. — contraria, ‘baneful,’ is not Ciceronian. Georg. 3, 546, ‘est aer avibus non aequus’; Aen. 6, 239, ‘haud ullae poterant impune volantes | tendere iter pennis.’

742. e regione: on 4, 374. — loca venere: earliest example of the terminal acc.; Archiv, 10, 395.

743. remigl oblita (Lachm. edd.): 3, 374 n.; remigio, OQ, which Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 224, would keep as a dat. of purpose; remigiom, Wakef.; remigium, Struve, Everett. — remigi . . . pennarum, πτερύγων ἐρετμοῖσιν ἔρεσσμενοι, Aesch. Agam. 52, afterward a commonplace; Aen. 1, 301, remigio alarum.

744. cervice: on 1, 35. — profusae: lex. cites from Festus, profusus, ‘abiectus, iacens,’ as used by Pacuvius.

745. terram: sunt quaedam averna sine aqua, Lamb. — fert: 2, 260 n.

746. Avernist, Bern. edd.; Averni, OQ, Juntine, vulg.; Averno est, Lamb.; est si . . . Averni, Lachm. Whether L. is bound in consistency to use est here I doubt. Cf. 3, 1079.

747. aput occurs only here and in 848 in L. — montis is n. pl., as in 4, 397. Montis, O; montes, Q. The older scholars had much difficulty with this verse; all editors now read aci sulphure, with Salmiasius, for eci suiper.

748. calidis fontibus: Strabo, 5, p. 244, τῶν τε Πυριφλεγέθοντα ἐκ τῶν θερμῶν ὑδάτων ἐτεκμαλπόντο τῶν πληνούντων καὶ τῆς Ἀχερούσιας.

749. et: Lachm. ut, but quoque in 756 makes it certain here. L. is the only Latin poet that uses Athenaeus; the others have Cecropidae and Thesidae.

750. ὡς Ἀθηνᾶς τε ἰδεῖς ἕστιν ἐν προδόμῳ τοῦ Παρθενῶν, Philostr. Apoll. 2, 10, of Averna (M.).

751. pennis appellunt, as if sailing; unusual of birds.

752. non cum, ‘not even when.’

753. Coronis in Ov. M. 2, 562, ‘acta deae refero, pro quo mihi gratia talis | red-

ditur ut dicar tutela pulsa Minervae | et ponar post noctis avem . . . quamvis irata est, non hoc irata negabit.'

754. pervigili: gen. sing.; Ov. M. 557, 'abdicta fronde levi densa speculabar ab ulmo.' — causa: Stat. T. 2, 74–75. — Graium . . . poetæ: cf. 2, 600. Possibly the reference is to Callimachus.

755. loci || opus: 3, 374 n. — opus efficit, OQ, Wakef. Br. Giuss. Bail.; vi ibus efficit, Lachm.; ope sufficit, M.; locorum ope sufficit, Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 284; potis est facere ipsa sua vi, Goebel; sponite efficit, Polle, Phil. 25; sponite officit, Meissner; locorum opus efficit ipsa suapte, Bouterwek; sua vi, Lamb. — opus: Cic. Div. 2, 59, 'si mures corroserint aliquid quorum est opus hoc unum' (Giuss.). Ellis, J. Phil. 28, 19, pus. — suapte, Acc. 492, 'illos suapte induxit virtus' (Lachm.). Suapte, naturally = sponite sua, may be nom., as Ribbeck suggests on Accius.

756. fertur: L. had not visited Syria; cf. 5, 663. The place is supposed to be the Plutonium in Hierapolis, near Laodicea, mentioned by Strabo, 13, p. 629. — esse videri, 'is to be seen' = videndus esse.

757. quoque, as well as birds.

758. ipsa, 'alone,' with vis. Lamb. interpreted ipsa (animalia).

759. manibus divis: 3, 52. — sint mactata (quadripedes): 1, 352 n. Fit . . . mactatu', Lachm.

760. naturali: cf. 30.

761. e fiant causis, OQ, Br. Giuss. Bail.; e causis fiant, Flor. 31, old vulg.; effiant causis, Lachm. M. — 3, 1055, e quibus id fiat causis. For the position of the preposition, to which Lachm. objects, cf. 5, 501, 'atque levissimus aerias super influit auras,' not due to any metrical necessity.

762. ianua Orci, on 3, 67. — forte his, M. edd.: forte hic, Bouterwek; potestis, OQ; Puteis, Turneb. Lachm. Jessen, QL. 39; ianuam ne pote eis, Goebel; ianuam ne Puteis, Bock.; ianua ne putens, Nencini; ne patulis, Albert.

763. post hinc is cited from Aen. 8, 546; cf. post inde, 3, 529. Postam, Bock. Goebel.

764. inferne, i.e. ex inferis, Lamb., who emended from infernæ.

765. cervi: Mart. 12, 29, 5, 'cervinus gelidum sorbet sic halitus anguem'; Pliny, 28, 149, 'exitio his esse cervos nemo ignorat ut si quae sunt extractas cavernis mandentis.' The Etym. Magnum derives Ἰλεφας διὰ τὸ Ἐλκεν τοὺς ὄφεις καὶ δυαιρεῖν διὰ τῶν μυκτήρων. — putantur, sc. by the ignorant.

766. serpentia is still a participle to L., although lubrica serpens occurred in 4, 60.

767. Cf. 1, 880.

768. percipe, on 3, 135.

769–780. 'The earth provides much that is nourishing, and much also that is baneful.'

769. ante: 2, 333 sq.; 4, 633 sq., etc.

770. cuiusque: cf. 4, 859. — figuras, elements, 3, 190 n.

771. cibo, predicate: see in Roby, II, xxxvii sq., examples with alimento cibatus esui potui victui, etc. — quæ, Junting, edd.; equæ, OQ; aequæ, Voss, Lamb. van d. Valk. The text in its present form is due to Wakef. — vitalia, 1094–1095 and 2, 575 n.

772. icutere: 'plague' is from plaga, πλῆγή; there is the same conception of striking and smiting. Incutio is not common in this connexion.

773. 4, 633, 'aliis alius qui sit cibus,' etc., id. 677, 'verum aliis alius magis est animantibus aptus | dissimilis propter formas.'

774. rationem, 'respect.'

775. Cf. 997.

776. primasque figuræ, on 2, 685.

777. inimica, on 1, 759.

778. tactu, OQ, Wakef. Bentley, Bock. † Bail.; odore, Lamb.; iactu, M.; adactu, Lachm.; sese, Br.; tractu, Polle, Giuss. Housman; sensu, Bentley ('si quid mutandum'), van d. Valk. Cf. Ellis, 663 n. and 4, 673, 'quo pacto naris adiectus odoris tangat,' and 2, 434. Aspera tactu again in 1150. Housman's interpretation of tractu, 'harsh to inhale,' appears unclear (J. Phil. 25, 248).

779. multa parum: 2, 336 n.—tactu, of touch-sensation; coördinate with aspectu and sapore, and hence unambiguous.

780. tristia, on 1, 944.—Georg. 2, 126, 'Media fert tristes sucos tardumque saporem.'

781–787. 'Consider how many things have noxious influence: some trees cause headache or death; a smoky lamp is offensive to all, and castor to women; a hot-water bath after eating may cause vertigo, and the vapor of coals affects the brain. The earth, too, produces sulphur, and the mines of gold and silver exhale poisonous gas. The air is constantly receiving these terrestrial exhalations.'

781. Br. and Giuss. place 781–782 after 776, with Kannengießer.

782. sensu, 'influence.'—spurcae: Nonius interprets spurcum as setidum, quoting this line.—gravesque: V. Ecl. 10, 75, gravis cantantibus umbra. Cf. 4, 125 and n.

783. arboribus: Pliny mentions the walnut and box (17, 89, and 16, 70); Virgil the juniper (Ecl. 10, 76). The upas in Java is known in modern times.—Giuss. places 783–787 after 798.

784. capitis dolores, 1202. Cephalalgia.

785. prostratus: 2, 29.

786. arbos, on 1, 774.—Cf. the wonderful serpent, 4, 638. Pliny, 16, 51, 'Sex-tius milacem a Graecis vocari dicit, et esse in Arcadia tam praesentis veneni ut qui obdormiant sub eo cibumve capiant moriantur'; edd. there quote Plut. Symp. 647 Λιστοροῦσι γάρ ὅτι καὶ σκιὰ συλλακος διοκτίσσειν διθρώπους ἔγκαταδαρθέντας ὅταν δργὴ μάλιστα τρὸς τὴν Διθησίν.

787. odore taistro: 3, 581.

788. terris ex, on 2, 791. Giuss. strangely transfers 788 to follow 770.—omnia, these noxious influences.

789. Giuss. places 789–790 after 772. For the formula see on 1, 341.

790. que connects gerit and tradit. Bock. trudit.

791. que introducing a list of examples, 797, 802; in 5, 534, it introduces a paragraph.—recens, on 2, 416.—Pliny, 7, 43, 'cum plerumque abortus causa odor a lucernarum fiat extinctu.'

792. consopit (nidor).—ibidem: 3, 1080 n.

793. A much-tortured line before Lachm., who puts it after 801, reading spumam ut. OQ, pumos; spumas, Madv. edd. Lamb. found in the margin of his codex Memmianus ut spumas. — et connects concidere and mittere. — spumas mittere from epilepsy; 3, 489 n. Eum is to be supplied before qui.

794. castoreo, secretion of beaver.

795. A beautiful and suggestive rhythm. — Catull. 65, 18, ‘effluxisse meo forte putes animo | ut missum sponsi furtivo munere malum | procurrit casto virginis e gremio.’ — nitudum opus, ‘fancy work’; probably embroidery.

796. si ððor: 2, 404 n.

797. Giuss. arranges 780, 797–798, 783. Note the pleonasm languentia solvunt and membra per artus, and cf. 3, 151. Kraetsch comp. Aen. 3, 237, scuta latentia condunt.

798. Cf. the causes of sleep, 4, 919, 922.

799. cunctere, OQ, Br. Giuss. Bail.; the reference is general. Cunctare, Madv. Lachm. M. — lavabria, not found elsewhere; displaced by labrum; Lindsay, LL, 180.

800. et fueris, Br. Giuss. Bail. (in text). Br. recognizes the difficulty of the Lucretian position of et; Wakef. had written plenior, et fueris solio; Br. formerly, ex epulis. Effueris, OQ, et laveris, Lachm. M. (and Bailey), et frueris, Madv. Adv. Crit. 2, 27; O corr. lavaris. Several early edd. had fueris in various arrangements. Ellis, e flustris. I know of nothing better than et fueris at present: perhaps cunctare . . . et fueris could be read, fueris meaning ‘fainting’; at any rate some form of fuo must be retained. Laveris is purposeless, frueris weak, and fueris tautologous. — solio is general for ‘bath tub’; originally it must have been a sitzbatch.

801. in medio (solio) is improbable, as the patient would probably fall to one side of his tub. Bock. in medio for ‘in public’ transfers the customs of the empire to the republic. When the sentence is finally emended, the words will meet with an adequate explanation.

802. carbonum, from braziers used in heating.

803. The suggested remedy seems dubious. Can he mean evaporating water to moisten the air?

804. domans, Marull. Madv. Adv. II, 27, Giuss.; domnus, OQ; domus, Vat. 3276, Lachm. M. Bail.; hominis, Lamb. Cartault, Br., who infers a lacuna following the verse. — servida febris, Lamb. Madv. Giuss. Cartault, Bock.; servida servis, O, f. servis, Q; servidus ignis, Pius; f. nervis, Wakef.; servidior vis, Lachm. Br.; servidu' nervis, M.; f. sorbus, Ellis (J. Phil. 3, 272). — The verse is desperately corrupt, but the adopted reading has in its favor the usual meaning of membra and the alliteration servida febris, and closeness to the MSS. Discussion in Jessen, QL, 39, and by Purmann, Jahrb. 67, 678, who thinks some word explaining vini was extruded by domus.

805. vini, OQ, Br. Giuss. Bail. Cartault; virii, Pius, Lachm. M. M. cites Hor. S. 2, 4, 51, ‘Massica si caelo suppones vina sereno | . . . decedet odor nervis inimicus.’ The pathology is no more extraordinary than that in 803. — mactabilis, ðr. Mey.; cf. on 1, 11. — instar, ‘the equivalent,’ originally of quantity; earlier only in Cicero, Verr. 2, 5, 44; 89 (Archiv. 2, 583). Cf. 614.

806. in, ‘within’; not ‘on,’ as before.

807. concrescere: cf. 626 and n.
808. venas: 5, 1255; Pliny, 2, 158, describing at length the varied gifts of mother Earth, among which are beneficent poisons, says, 'penetramus in viscera auri argenteique venas et aeris ac plumbi metalla fodientes, . . . viscera eius extrahimus. ut digito gestetur, gemma petitur.' Aetna, 276, 'scrutamur rimas et vertimus omne profundum; | quaeritur argenti semen, nunc aurea vena.'
809. terrai . . . abdita, part. gen. on 1, 340. Keller, Lat. Sprachg. 2, 359, would have it locative.—Tac. H. 4, 1, 'scrutari ac protrahere abditos.'
810. Scaptensula, Σκαπτησύλη, a mining town in Thrace, mentioned by Herodotus and Thucydides, and even Festus, who places it in Macedonia. Probably there was arsenic there also.
811. mali, removed in modern times by ventilation. Metalla is not cited from any Latin author before L.—Pliny, 33, 98, 'odor ex argenti fodinis inimicus omnibus animalibus sed maxime canibus.'
812. colores: Silius, 1, 233, 'redit infelix effosso concolor auro' (M.). The ancient gold was pale.
813. audis, Flor. 31, edd.; sole occurrence of the form in L.; OQ, audire.
814. vitai copia desit: 3, 254, vitae desit locus.
815. necessis, Lachm. edd.; necessest, OQ; necessus, Cartault. Cf. on 2, 710.
816. exastuat aestus: 2, 1137.
817. foras in apertum: 3, 604, f. i. aperto.—prompta caeli: 1267, populi loca prompta.
- 818–829. 'So Avernian places exhale deadly poison which first stupefies and then kills the birds.'
818. et: ea, Lachm., but even Bern. does not follow him.—alitibus: he uses only the form volucres of that word: ales, alituum, alitibus, only of ales. Malitibus, OQ, alitibus, Q corr. edd.; halitibus, Bergk, Bock.
819. mortiferam vim: 1138, m. aestus: Dirae, 23, pestiferos aestus.
820. Cf. 604.
821. quo = et eo.
822. correpta, 'arrested.'
823. regione loci: 2, 260 n.; below, 833.—derigit, Bell. Hisp. 29, hinc derigens (Wakef.). Could aestus, from 824, have displaced sese?
824. conruit, 'rushes headlong,' a very rare meaning; see lex.
825. reliquias vitae: r. animai, 3, 656.
826. aestum, 'dizziness,' 3, 173; 4, 1023. The use of the word in different meanings is in his manner.
827. cecidere, pl. of general occurrence; sc. aves.
828. vomenda, Aen. 9, 349, vomit ille animam (Wakef.).
829. fit copia circum: 5, 359 n.
- 830–847. 'Sometimes the air between the birds and the earth is dispelled by the exhalation, and when the birds reach such a place their wings do not sustain them and they fall; * in summer the water in wells is cooler because the earth dries up and sends out the seeds of heat. In winter the earth contracts and sends its heat into the wells.'
830. vis atque aestus: cf. 824.

831. Cf. 4, 247, 'aera qui inter se cumque est oculosque locatus.'

832. inanis, without air.

833. cuius loci e regione is the order; cf. 742 and n.

834. claudicat, on 3, 453.—nexus inanis: 5, 909, 'nexus in . . . nomine inani.'

835. utrimque: cf. 551.

836. nixari, on 3, 1000. Festus, quoting the verse with nexari and the statement nictare et oculorum et aliorum membrorum nisu saepe aliquid conari led Lamb. and Wakef. to read nictari.

837. pondere cogit: 2, 288, pondus prohibet.

838. vacuum: the order is per prope vacuum inane. For vacuum inane, cf. on 1, 439.—iacentes: lying prostrate because powerless; not cadentes merely, proposed by Wakef.

839. 2, 951, '(animam) dispersamque foras per caulas eiecit omnis.'

840. The lacuna here is accepted by all edd. since Lachmann, except Bock., who proved that a leaf of the archetype had fallen out. He inserts the fragments non mihi si linguae centum sint oraque centum, aerea vox; mensibus frigus; cameraeque caminis; ne oblitet here. The first fragment is attributed to L. by Servius on Aen. 6, 625, and Georg. 2, 43, but claimed for Lucilius by Müller (but not by Marx); the second by Sacerdos, KGL. 6, 448, 9; the third by Charisius, KGL. 1, 58, 24; the fourth by Philargyrius on Georg. 3, 136, but is attributed to Virgil himself by Müller, Lucilius, 169. Cf. Pascal, Riv. 34, 257.—Goebel, to avoid a lacuna, would read frigidior fit ut . . . sit; Woltjer, Jahrb. 123, 782, would prefix frigore cum premitur terra, est calidus magis atque. Br. brackets 840–847, although interruption of the argument is not easily proven after so long a lacuna. Serv. on Georg. 4, 51, says, 'secundum physicos qui dicunt quo tempore hic hiems est aestatem esse sub terris . . . quod etiam Lucretius exsequitur et trahit in argumentum putealem aquam,' showing plainly that porro in 840 is a continuation of an argument, as in 845.

841. arescit, OQ, may have been justified by something in the lacuna. Rarescit, edd.—siquae, Avanc. edd.; cf. 4, 199; siqua, OQ.

842. propero, Marull. vulg. Lachm. M.; cf. 149, 985; propriae, O; propri, Q, Bock.; proprieti, Bern. edd. But could the copyist have mistaken the gender of so common a Lucretian word as vapor?

843. tellus effeta, O; cf. 2, 1150. Q, effecta; Bentl., defecta; Lamb., affecta.

844. Cf. 1037.

845. frigore is causal with all three verbs.

846. concrescit: 3, 20, nix acri concreta pruina and n.

847. exprimat: cf. 867.—gerit: cf. 790 and on 1, 717.

848–878. 'The fountain at Hammon is cold during the day and hot at night, not because the sun below the earth heats it, but because the earth is porous round about the fountain and gives up its seeds of heat to the water during the night; during the day the earth expands again and receives the heat back; the water also gives up its heat during the day by rarefaction.'

848. Hammonis: Q. Curt. 4, 7, 22, 'est et aliud Hammonis nemus: in medio habet fontem — Solis aquam vocant.' It was one of the Mirabilia of the ancient world, mentioned by many. Probably the temperature of the water remained constant, while that of the atmosphere changed. — fanum, not templum.

849. fertur: again L. had not seen it; cf. 1, 727.—There is a facsimile in Chatelain of 849–954 as given in the Schedae Vindob.

850. nimis admirantur: 1, 641, stolido magis admirantur.—acri, ‘piercing.’ Pliny, 14, 77, sicanunt acri sole.

851. raptim: Lamb. edd. except Bock. for partim, which is defended by Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 225.

852. terribili: 4, 460, severa silentia noctis.

853. Cf. 2, 176.

854. contractans: on 2, 853.

855. calidum reddere, ‘make it hot.’—supera de parte, ‘on the surface.’

856. superum lumen: Enn. Ann. 102, ‘cum superum lumen nox intempesta teneret.’—fervore fruatur: 3, 200, mobilitate fruuntur and n.

857. 5, 654, ‘aut quia sub terras cursum convertere cogit,’ of the sun’s course.

858. percoquere umorem: 5, 1254, terram percoxerat.—satiare, Vat. 1954, Pius, Lachm. edd.; soclare, OQ; sociare, Marull. vulg.; donare, Bern. Satiare was corrupted into soclare, soclare. Germanicus, Arat. 598, ‘siderea vix tum satiatus luce’ (M.).

859. saepta domorum: 1, 354 n.

860. insinuare: on 3, 485.

861. magis rara: on 3, 192. OQ have para.

862. tenet, OQ, Giuss.; cf. 519; here it approximates to a simple est; tepet, Lachm. edd. Tepet is acute, but is not used by L., and terra tepet is so strange an expression that it needs support. Again, tepet calls for quod, not que, in 863. Lamb. interpreted terra quae hunc fontem circumpleteatur.—cetera: 3, 143.

863. Notice the interlocking.—prope: here only in L. as a prep.

864. hoc ubi: on 4, 360.—roriferis: first in L., then in Statius and Sen. Tr.; cf. on 3, 11.—nox obruit: cf. 5, 650.—umbris, edd. for undis which may be right; 2, 152, aerias undas.

865. penitus, Lachm. edd.; subtus, Ald. Br.; sonitus, OQ.

866. compressa: 4, 618, ceu plenam spongiam aquai | si quis forte manu premere . . . coepit.’

867. ignis is gen.

868. laticis, OQ, Br. Giuss. Bail.; aqüae, Lachm. M., after Bede in KGL. 7, 253. The Ms. tradition for laticis is too strong to be dislodged by the testimony given by Bede, and aqüae may be the gloss; or the change may have been arbitrary to illustrate a metrical principle, as in Terent. Maurus passim. See Ritschl’s defence of laticis in his Opusc. 2, 600, 606.—vaporem, OQ, Giuss. Goebel, QL. 37; saporem, Lamb. edd. Vaporem may be regarded as epexegetical of calidum tactum; a double statement in his manner. Cf. calido vapore in 858, 870; so = vapores exhalat calidos. Bede’s grammarian would have changed vaporem if there had been any necessity.

869. dimovit, ‘loosened’; Georg. 2, 513, ‘terram dimovit aratro’ (Wakef.).

870. glicente, edd., following a suggestion of Wakef., for miscente, OQ; but I am not certain that L. wrote glicente, elegant as it is. Vapor is material to L., and thus could be ‘mixed in.’

871. 5, 86, ‘rursus in antiquas referuntur religiones’; 2, 965, ‘(corpora) trepidant in sedibus intus.’

872. cedit: 2, 999, ‘cedit item retro, de terra quod fuit ante, | in terras.’
873. Note alliteration and emphasis.
874. iactatur: of molecular disturbance, 2, 89. — 874–875 were probably a later addition.
875. in lucem: on 712. — rarescit ab aestu: Cic. ND. 2, 138, ‘calescit ipso ab spiritu.’
876. Prosaic repetition; cf. 867.
877. gelum = frigus.
878. mittit aqua: a general comparison; the cold leaves the ice and thus dissolves it. — nodos: Petr. 123, 188, undarum vincula rupit (M.).
- 879–905. ‘There is also a cold fountain whose exhalations ignite inflammable objects, just as in the sea a fountain pours forth fresh water. So a freshly extinguished candle gives out particles which are ignited before a second candle touches it.’
879. Frigidus fons at Dodona; one of the Mirabilia, mentioned by Pliny, 2, 228, ‘in Dodone Iovis fons cum sit gelidus et immersas facis extinguat, si extinctae admovantur, accendit.’ Bergk misses the name and proposes Tomaro f. q. sita supra.
880. concepto igni: 308, ignem concepit.
881. accensa per undas: Pliny, 36, 174, ‘mirum aliquid, postquam arserit, accendi aquis,’ of lime.
882. Georg. 4, 305, ‘Zephyris . . . inpellentibus undas’ (W.).
883. in aqua . . . vaporis: 872, calor . . . aquai.
884. de . . . que: 3, 3 n.
885. ignis: not ‘flame,’ but as in 1, 636. — For caesura, see on 1, 664.
886. simul: they rise to the surface with the water.
887. multa (ignis corpora).
888. praeterea, OQ, Bock. Giuss.; propterea, Lachm. edd. — dispersa (semina). — foras: away from the water. — The new motive is the velocity of the movement which prevents combinations.
889. conciliari: combine in the air above the fountain.
890. endo: on 1, 82. — Aradi fons (Lachm. edd.), on a Phoenician island: ‘nam dulcis haustus in mari plurimis locis ut ad Chelidonias insulas et Aradum et in Gaditanu Oceano;’ Pliny, 2, 227. OQ, maris parat; Voss, mari Aradio est; the Capitulum before 888 had de fonte Aridi.
891. scatit: on 5, 598.
892. praebet, Flor. 31, edd. for praeter, OQ, which yet may be right, sc. dat; 5, 872, dare nobis | utilitatem. — aequor: the high seas.
893. opportunam, ‘timely’; condensed from utilitatem, rem opportunam; 3, 207, ‘res opportuna cluebit'; 5, 807, ‘loci regio opportuna’.
894. intervomit: on 2, 199. The word is cited elsewhere only from Tertullian.
895. per eum: 885–886.
896. quae, Ven. Howard, M. Bock. Bail.; que, OQ; quo, Lamb. Lachm. Br. Giuss. Quae, as nearer the MSS., should be retained, as the inversion is Lucretian: illa (semina) . . . semina quae; 1, 15 n.
897. conveniunt: 5, 599, elementa vaporis | . . . conveniunt. — taedai (tedai) corpore, Voss, edd.; deda corpora, OQ. — adhaerent: 472, umoris adhaesum.
898. For elision after 5th dactyl, see on 1, 409.

899. latentis, Bern. M. Giuss. Bail.; tepenitis, Lachm.; trementes, Bergk.; tenentes, OQ, which, although tautologous with habent, was approved by Lambinus, a good Latinist, and is supported by all MSS. and edd. before Lachm. Lamb. comp. I, 1069, amplexi habent.

900. Good translates, 'When, just extinct, the taper we apply | To one full blazing.' — linum for 'lampwick' is quoted from the Vulgate and Tertullian.

901. extinctum admoveas: cf. Pliny, quoted in 879. Admoveo is common in this connexion; Thes. I, 771, 19.

902. taedam, (nuper extinctam accendi).

903. vapore: invisible heat.

904. imbuat, 'touch,' like inficio, contingo, a metaphor familiar to L.

905. quoque modifies illo; 3, 349 n.

906–916. 'The next wonder is the Magnet.'

906. incipiam: I, 55 n.

907. ferrum ducere: ferrumque maritat, Claud. Idyll. 48, 37.

908. patrio, OQ; patriae, Bock. Br. in Prol. — de, for etymological origin, occurs here first; afterwards in Virgil and Tacitus (Hertz, 31). — 'Sideritin . . . nomine vocant, quidam Heraclion. Magnes appellatus est ab inventore, ut auctor est Nicander, in Ida repertus,' Pliny, 36, 127.

909. sit, Flor. 31, vulg. Br. Giuss.; fit, OQ, M. Bail.; fit ortu, Lachm. Fit is harsh and is confused with sit elsewhere, e.g. 5, 359. The subjunctive expresses the Greek reason, not the author's. — ortus, 'origin'; Bergk, fortis.

910. Lamb. compared the description of magnetic phenomena in Plato, Ion, 533 d. Bock. comp. S. August. CD. 21, 4, 'Magnetem lapidem novimus mirabilem ferri esse raptorem; quod cum primum vidi, vehementer inhorui,' and then he recounts the usual experiments.

911. The gravity of the spondees is remarkable.

912. que, 'or,' I, 656. — Heinze, on 3, 288, would have etiam for etenim here, as the position of etenim is unexampled in L. elsewhere.

913. demissos, Lamb. edd. for demisso, OQ.

914. unus (anellus).

915. noscit: highly poetical; cf. on 2, 356. Amicam saucia sentit, Claudian, 42.

916. permananter, dw. λεγ. — pervaleat, OQ, Wakef. Bock. Br. Giuss. Bail. Goebel, Polle, dw. λεγ.; pervolat, Turn. Bentl. Lachm. M.; cf. 1060. Here again one drama brings another; the per is due to assonance.

917–920. 'A difficult subject, needing close attention.'

917. Hoc genus = huius generis; 3, 221 n. — firmandumst multa: I, 111 n.

918. A formula.

919. Cf. 1081. — ambagibus, O corr. edd.; ambaginibus, OQ; ambaginibust, Bergk, Bock. Longis ambagibus, Hor. Ep. I, 7, 82; Ov. M. 4, 476. Yet Manil. 4, 304, has et verum in caeco est multaque ambagine rerum.

920. repōsco: 2, 369 n.

921–935. 'Particles continually stream from things, provoking sensation.'

921. ab rebus: a, O; ab, Q; on 1, 554.

922. fluere corpora, 4, 860, mitti debet imago, 4, 63; fluere et mitti . . . spargique odores, 4, 676.

923–935 = 4, 217–229 with propter, 926; circum, 220; sonitus manare, 927; voces volitare, 221. Lachm. ejected 933.

925. ab sole, to agree with 4, 219, cf. on 2, 1135; OQ a.

927. auras, OQ, edd.; auris, Lamb. Housman, Bail.; see J. Phil. 25, 248.

936–938. ‘Remember that body and void are mingled together in things, as has been shown by many examples in the first book.’

936. repetam: 1, 418, repetam . . . retexere and n.

937. primo carmine: 1, 348 sq.

938. hoc is object of noscere.

939. Notice the emphasis of the statement.—protinus, ‘immediately.’

940. Cf. 5, 110.

941. in promptu: on 3, 106.—mixtum inani: on 3, 233. OQ have corpus mixtum inani, whence Wakef. reads c. m. in inani, which is not what L. means.

942. Cf. 1, 348.—ut in: 4, 1218; 6, 137, ut interdum, not uti.

943. sudent: Georg. 1, 117, ‘cavae tepido sudant humore lacunae.’ Wakef. quotes Lucan, 4, 301, ‘antra neque exiguo stillant sudantia rore.’

944. Enn. Ann. 418, ‘tum timido manat ex omni corpore sudor’; Aen. 3, 175, ‘toto manabat corpore sudor’; Ov. M. 9, 173, ‘fluit toto de corpore sudor’; Scrib. Largus, 198, ‘manant sudores frigidi per artus.’—nobis: 3, 129 n.

945. A somewhat grotesque proof of void within the body. Cf. 5, 788.

946. diditur: 2, 1136, ‘in venas cibus omnis diditur.’—auget alitque: cf. 5, 322.

947. unguiculos has no conscious diminutive force.

948. Cf. 1, 494. Br. after Neumann brackets 948–950; Kannengiesser would transfer them to follow 953.

949. The chiasmus is noticeable.

950. pocula tenemus: 3, 912–913 and n.

951. dissaepcta . . . domorum: 1, 354, clausa domorum and n. dissaepcta, on 1, 999.

952. Nonius quotes this line with ados, i.e. odos, and vapos, as examples of the -os ending: 1, 774 n.

953. ferri vim, on 5, 1286.

954. caeli, OQ, † Bail.; Br. Giuss. with lacuna following, and period after 953. Corii, Flor. 31; Galli, Lachm. M., who would have no stop after coerctet; but denique here, as often, begins a new statement. Grasberger would interchange denique and ignis, keeping otherwise the MSS. Early emendations were corpus, colli, coli, collo. Caeli lorica is an expressive metaphor for caeli templi, as was rightly seen by Salmasius and Turnebus. Enn. Sc. 216, caelo clipeo; below 1134, caeli amictum. This lorica is permeable to the elements of disease: cf. 1096 sq. Bossart proposed to fill the lacuna with fervida vis venti transit spiracula mundi. Cf. Siebelis, 59, Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 226.

955. M. places 955 after 956; Br. insulates it between two lacunae; Lachm. places it after 947; Bern. Giuss. Bail. Goebel keep the Ms. order. The incomplete sense is, of course, due to the lacuna: there was something about pestilence affecting the atmosphere.

956. tempestates, Avanc. Giuss. Bail.; tempestatem, OQ; tempestate in, Lachm.

M.; e tempestate in . . . coortast, Bern. Br.—coortae, Avanc. vulg. Giuss. Bail.; coorta, OQ, Lachm. M.—Christ and Purmann also follow Avancius.

957. remotae, OQ; remotas, Bern. Br.—iure, Q, O corr. Bern. Br. Giuss.; iurae, O; iura, Lachm. M.; rurus, Madvig. Br. in Prol. lxxii would thus fill out the whole passage: ‘morbida visque simul cum extrinsecus insinuatast (per caelum, aut cum pestilis hic saepe nocenti) e tempestate in caelo terraque coortast, in caelum terraque remotas iure facessit.’ Postgate, J. Phil. 24, 144, would have ‘Galli lorica coercet (denique pestilis de terra forte coorta) morbida visque . . . insinuatatur, ut tempestates . . . remotae iure facessunt.’ Purmann would read ‘et tempestates aethra caeloque coortae | in caelum terraque remotas iura facessunt; van d. Valk agrees with him except for aethra, and would have iura facessere = subigere. Goebel, virus f.; Bossart, dira f.; Polle, ‘denique qua circum caeli lorica coercet | morbida vis transit, cum extrinsecus insinuatatur, | et tempestates terra caeloque coortae | in caelum terraque remotae iura facessunt.’ Iure is used as in 2, 1139. Facessunt, ‘retire,’ when not imperative, is well attested in Apuleius.

958. raro corpore nexum, OQ, Giuss.; raro corpori' nexu, Lachm. M. Bail. Raro corpore nexum is interpreted by Ellis (on Catull. 64, 48, Indo quod dente politum, polished with ivory, i.e. made of polished ivory), ‘possessing a loose texture of body’; hypallage is common enough in L. Cf. also 941. In J. Phil. 3, 274, he interprets ‘woven with a rare body which forms its texture.’ Giuss. interprets, Note L., ‘nothing which is not woven of rare matter,’ i.e. which is not composed of separate atoms, i.e. which is not porous.

959–978. ‘Consider also that bodies cast off from things have unlike effects on different substances: the sun dries and melts, fire melts and hardens, what is food to one is poison to another.’

959. quae lacuntur, effluvia.

960. sensu, power of exciting sensation, ‘effect.’

961. apta, ‘adapted.’

962. facit are = arefacit; cf. ordia prima, 4, 28 n., and Stolz, Hist. Gr. I, 435, who cites serve bene facito from Cato, and consue quoque faciunt from Varro. Are is an infinitive form: Sommer, 568.

963. altis montibus, because snow was not common in Italian valleys. Housman, J. Phil. 25, 248, albas for altas, cf. 736; but altas is the more difficult reading, and the two expressions, in a measure, synonymous,—altas extructasque,—are in his manner.

964. tabescere: Livy uses tabes and tabida of snow.

965. posta, on 3, 346.

966. liquidum facit, active of liquefit.

967. trahit: Georg. 4, 117, vela traham, ‘draw in.’

968. condurat, dw. λεγ.—ab igni, i.e. statim post ignem. Plaut. Poen. 618, ‘mulieres ab re divina apparebunt domi’; many other examples in Thes. I, 37, 71. Cf. also on 2, 99.

969. coria, Sen. Dial. 5, 20, 3, ‘coria igne mollita’

970. Cf. 4, 640 sq. and 5, 899 sq.—Georg. 2, 314, ‘foliis oleaster amaris’

971. effluat (oleaster): Pers. 3, 20, ‘effluis amens’: here with abl. after analogy of manare: Eng. ‘run with.’ Effluat, OQ, edd., but affluat, Bock. Br., suggested by Lachm.: Lamb., dissuat.—ambrosia, Marull. Br. Giuss. Cartault; ambrosias g. v. e., Ellis; ambrosias, OQ (perhaps to be retained as an acc. pl.) Bail. †; ambrosiae, Lachm.; ambrosius, M.—nectare tinctus, Q, edd.; nectar et intus, O. Cartault, 14, makes ambrosias genitive, proposing nectaris haustus; vere et nectaris tinctus, Lachm.—Bergk, affluat ambrosiae quasi viro et nectaris intus; Schubert, affluat ambrosiae q. vere et nectaris unctus; Polle, qui fuat ambrosius q. vere et nectaris tinctus; Wolff, effluus ambrosia q. vere et nectare tinctus; Nencini, vero et nectaris hinc vis. Vero for vere is a Plautine use.—Edd. compare Hom. i 359, δλλὰ τοδὶ ἀμβροσίης καὶ νέκταρος ἔστιν ἀπορρώξ.

972. amariu', Lachm. edd.; marius, OQ. Siebelis, 21, doubts whether elision of s is possible here, but prius occurs in 5, 1445; cf. on 3, 52.—frondeat esca, Lachm. edd.; fronde ac exscet, O (extet, Q). Escae, Ellis, but that calls for quo, not qua. Bergk, quo . . . aequa.

973. amaracinum, ‘vetus adagium est . . . nihil cum amaracino sui,’ Gell. Praef. 19.

974. acre venenumst: cf. 5, 900, 970. Ungentum is the spelling of O.

975. recreare, ‘refresh.’

976. NT. 2 Peter, 2, 22, ὁ λουσαμένη εἰς κόλισμα βορβόρου. Bergk, caeni, for caenum after a Brit. Mus. Ms.

977. spurcites, form metr. gr. — videtur = est, 1, 224 n.—iucunda, Marull. edd.; ciunda, O; inunda, Q; haut immunda, Bouterwek; res munda, Lamb.

978. insatiabiliter, on 3, 907.—volvantur, ‘wallow,’ in volutabris. ‘sus lota in volutabro luti,’ Vulgate, i.c.

979–997. ‘Another necessary prefatory remark is that the pores vary and so admit various things with varying velocity; thus certain phenomena are limited by the shape of these pores.’

979. quam . . . prius: 3, 973 n.

980. adgredior: cf. 5, 110.

981. foramina: cf. 4, 650 sq. following on 4; 640.

982. natura, ‘character.’

983. naturam, ‘natural constitution.’ — viasque, ‘passage ways.’

984. animantibus insunt: 3, 1054 n.

985. proprie rem: the object which excites in its own way the particular sense.

986. alio, i.e. to one sense. Cf. 2, 683, ‘nidor enim penetrat qua fucus non it in artus,’ etc., and on 4, 1064.

987. e sucis with saporēm, not with cernimus.

988–989 = 995–996 (996–997) rejected by all.

990. manare videtur = manat; cf. 943.

991. Notice the variety of construction in lignis and per aurum. — lignis, edd. after Wakef.; ignis, OQ; tignis, Flor. 31, etc. Cf. on 103.

992. meare: 1, 354, inter saepa meant voces.

993. species, ‘images.’

994. transmittere, absolute, like Eng. ‘transmitter.’ — eadem (via).

995. scilicet: 3, 229 n.

996. variana (propter naturam rerum), Bock.

997 (990), transferred by all since Lamb.

998–1041. ‘Many seeds flow from the Magnet and dislodge the air between it and the iron; the particles of the latter leap forward to fill the vacuum, and the ring follows. The air in front of the ring is made rarer, so the air behind pushes on the iron into void space, working into the pores of the iron. Moreover, the air within the iron is in constant motion, and so helps the ring towards the void.’

998. locata, ‘placed,’ unusual in this connexion.
999. Note the heaping up of synonyms.
1000. hinc, ‘from these principles.’
1001. ferri vim is more than a periphrasis; cf. on 5, 1286.
1002. fluere . . . semina: 4, 309 (334), semina fluunt.
1003. sive, on 1, 955.—aestum, ‘current’; cf. on 2, 562. Fritzche, Rk. M. 57, 370, would have it synonymous with semina.
1004. Cf. 831.
1005. inanitur, below, 1025, and in Pliny and Tertullian.
1006. medio, between magnet and iron.
1007. fit utque (Marull.) = et fit ut; Lachm. comp. 4, 944, fit uti pars inde = inde fit uti; 6, 204, ‘hac etiam fit uti’; OQ, utqui.
1008. eatque: it is not plain why the entire ring should follow its effluvia.
1009. primoribus = primis; primoris, 1193.
1010. arte cohaeret: cf. 1, 610.
1011. horror: 2, 411. Frigidus reminds one of ‘cold steel.’—Cf. on 1, 492.
1012. dicitur [ex elementis], Giuss.; dicitur, OQ; [ex elementis] Bern.; quo dicitur, Lachm.; dico ibus, M.; quod dicitur, Br. Bail. Ex elementis is repeated from 1009; the substance of the remark was put in the text by Lamb., viz. paulo diximus ante.
1013. plura, ‘several.’
1014. quin, ‘without..’
1015. facit, i.e. sequitur.
1016. iam, ‘finally.’—compagibus, ‘connections’: 1071.
1017. Giuss. transfers 1017–1021 to follow 1032 of the codices because he would have the plagis of 1020 refer to the blows post ferrum.—undecumque, ‘whencesoever.’
1018. e transverso, ‘across from it’; the void is made by the withdrawal of the atoms from (unde) localities on every side of the iron.
1019. vicina, near the void.
1020. agitantur, metr. gr. for percipientur; cf. 2, 136. Cic. ND. 1, 114, ‘cum pulsetur agitatetur atomorum incursione.’
1021. sursum, because the natural tendency is downward.—Carm. Epig. ed. Büch. 669, 8, ‘exspectatque deum superos quo surgit ad auras.’
1022. esse, ‘occur’; 5, 1397.—item, OQ, edd.; utei, Lachm.; cf. on 1, 753.
1023. motuque, OQ, Lachm. M.; motusque, Br. Giuss. Bail. Postgate.—iuvatur, OQ; iuvetur, Lachm. Adiumento motuque iuvatur is tautologous like 3, 144, paret et ad numen mentis momenque movetur, cited by Kraetsch, 24. Adiumento motuque = adiumento motus. Perhaps this line should be transferred to follow 1027 (1026); it does not fit in after 1022, and motus is too harsh. Lamb. suspected it.

1024. rarior is quoted from Tac. Juv. Sen. Ov. Curt.; magis rarum from Quint.; maxime raro, rarissimus from Cicero. Cf. Archiv, 4, 5 and L. 2, 532. On the avoidance of the repeated r in comparatives, see on 3, 192.

1025. Cf. 1004–1005.—vacuatus: vacuo is not cited before L.

1026 (1033), transferred by Aldine and edd.

1027. 4, 286, ‘alium prae se propellens aera volvit.’ On prō, see 4, 194 n.

1028. verberat aer: cf. 1039.

1029. tali tempore, on 1, 93.

1030. spatium vacat, on 1, 507.

1031. hic (aer).—Giuss. brackets 1031–1033 (1030–1032).

1032. partis (ferrī).—4, 894, ‘aer penetratque foramina largus | et dispargitur ad partis ita quasque minutias | corporis.’

1033. quasi navem: same simile in 4, 897.

1034. Finally these pores contain air.

1035. The principle in 1, 346 sq.

1036. This is a postulate: 1028; 1, 385.

1037. penitus abditus: 4, 945, introrsum abdita.

1038. sollicito motu: 1, 343.

1039. verberat, on the inside: 4, 937, ‘interiorem etiam partem spirantibus | verberat hic idem.’

1040. scilicet is joined to 1039 by edd., but Giuss. insists on its Lucretian position as introducing a remark, and infers a lacuna before the verse; Br. approves in Appendix. Scilicet ille is like scilicet hic in 2, 132, s. haec, 5, 875.—Q has illo, O a lacuna; edd. write ille after Lachm.; atque, Flor. 31, vulg. There is some doubt as to whether ille refers to aer or to anellus. In 4, 892 sq. the reference is to aer, but such passages as 6, 560, make anellus more probable. Pascal, Stud. 198, defends illo.

1041. in (quam) partem, from quo.—conamina sumpetit: cf. 326.

1042–1055. ‘Sometimes there is repulsion instead of attraction: thus scrapings of iron placed in brass dishes over the magnet are agitated. The current from the brass anticipates that of the magnet in the pores of iron, and so the magnetic current strikes against the iron and repels it.’

1042. It is not probable that L. had any conception of the positive and negative poles, although Gassendi thought so.

1043. interdum: Bock. imperium.

1044. Samothracia: edd. cite Isid. Orig. 19, 32, ‘Samothracius anulus aureus est quidem sed capitulo ferreo; a loco ita vocatus.’

1045. furere: cf. 111.—ahenis: the same result would happen with any other material; see text-books in Physics.

1046. lapis Magnes: Cic. Div. 1, 86, magnetem lapidem; Sil. Ital. 3, 265, qui magneta secant; cf. 908.

1047. a, OQ; ab, Lachm. edd.; on 2, 1135.

1048. aere: the tray happened to be brazen; his arguments would hold for other material. It is ingenious if unavailing, because magnetic force works in a vacuum.

1049. aestus, 1003.

1050. vias apertas: cf. on 27 and 1, 373.
1051. posterior, 'afterwards.'
1052. tranet: cf. 4, 601.
1053. fluctu = aestu.
1054. ferrea texta: 5, 94, tria talia texta.
1055. eo (aere).— saepe, 'ordinarily'; often > usually > always.— resorbet: cf. 695.
- 1056–1089. 'Other bodies are too heavy or too porous for magnetic influence. This is not strange, for mortar cements stone only, glue wood, and so with other things: the cavities and solids fit together, and sometimes act like hooks and eyes, which is the case with the iron and magnet.'
1056. Illud in his rebus: as usual introducing a new paragraph. M. and Giuss. continue the former one.
1057. valet impellere, on 1, 108. — impellere: as in 1060, 1064; 1, 303, impellere sensus: primarily a pushing on, then generally 'influence,' representing the action of both resupit, 1054, and resorbet, 1055.
1058. partim stant = aliae remanent.
1059. et, Lachm. to agree with 4, 57, 918; 5, 952, 1083; at, O corr., Q; ad, O.
1060. intactus, OQ, edd.; intactas, Br. Lotze, Phil. 7, 732. 'Per eas res intactus eat. tralatio est,' Lambinus.
1061. ligneum: wood is too porous to hold the current.
1062. interutrasque, on 2, 518.
1063. aeris, 1049.
1064. eam, Marull. edd.; eum, O; eo, Q.— Magnesia . . . saxa, OQ, Lachm. M. Bail.; Magnesi . . . saxi, Lamb. Br. Giuss.— flumine: Flor. 31, etc., Lachm. M. Bail.; flumina, Lamb. Br. Giuss. with OQ; rem Magnesia flumina saxe, Lotze. The reading adopted is nearest OQ.— saxa: unusual for the magnet.
1065. haec: phenomena.
1066. multa parum, on 2, 336.
1067. singlariter: Flor. 31, vulg. M. Giuss. Bail. Br. in Appendix; singulariter, OQ; inter singollariter, Lachm.; simul uniter, Br. in text, Müller, RM. 197, Phil. 11, 399; se sic gnaviter, Purmann, Jahrb. 115, 286. Singlariter is exceptional like coplata, 1088; and colescere in 1068 is some defence also.— For the caesura cf. on 3, 258.
1068. colescere: on 2, 1061.
1069. taurino: Lamb. quotes Pliny, 28, 236, to show that glue was made ex auri-bus taurorum et genitalibus.— uno, Lachm. edd.; una, OQ, as in 1078; cf. una, 1074; sola, 1068. Vna is read in all three places by Lamb. and Bock.
1070. vitio, 'crack.'
1071. compages: object; cf. 1016. Aen. 1, 122, taxis compagibus.
1072. vitigeni latices: 5, 15 n.— audent, 'make bold.' Is he thinking of an artificial fountain of wine and water?— Emped. 91 D, θύειν οὐτε μᾶλλον ἐνδρόθμον αὐτὰρ ἔλαφος | οὐκ θέλει . . . βύσσων δὲ γλαυκῆς κόκκος καταμίσχεται δάκρυς. Woltjer, Lucr. Phil. 158, shows by this and by Galen and Alex. Aphrod. that Epicurus' theory of the magnet was not original. Galen's account is included in Usener's Epicurea Fr. 293.

1073. gravia, pitch sinks ; leve, oil floats.
1074. colos : 208. — conchyli : Catull. 64, 49, ‘conchyli purpura fuco.’ Cf. on 1, 313.
1075. qui . . . queat : a result clause.
1076. For the metaphor cf. Sen. Phaedr. 715, ‘quis eluet me Tanais aut quae barbaris | Maotis undis Pontico incumbens mari?’ cf. HF. 1323 sq. ; Quint. 1, 1, 5, ‘nec lanarum colores quibus simplex ille candor mutatus est elui possunt’ ; cf. Hor. C. 3, 5, 27, Catull. 88, 5, ‘quantum non ultima Tethys | nec genitor nympharum abluit Oceanus,’ Macbeth, 2, 2, ‘Will all great Neptune’s ocean wash this blood | Clean from my hand.’ — Giuss. brackets the verse, but cf. on 531.
1077. omnibus undis : Georg. 1, 31, ‘Tethys emat omnibus undis’ (Lamb.).
1078. non for nonne, 2, 209 n. — res una : called chrysocolla, probably borax.
1079. aes, Lamb. edd. — plumbo albo, tin.
1080. Cf. 1, 104.
1081. Cf. 919.
1082. par est : on 1, 189.
1083. praestat, Q ; cf. 4, 502 ; restat, O. — comprendere : 3, 599 n.
1084. mutua, on 3, 801.
1085. ut cava haec convenient plenis illius, illaque (cava convenient plenis) huius inter se.
1086. que : out of place, on 3, 662.
1087. anellis, ‘eyes’ ; quasi with anellis as quasi corpus, Cic. ND. 1, 49.
1088. coplata for copulata : cf. iurgo for iurigo and Lindsay, LL. 173.
1089. quod, manner of union. — On this theory of the magnet see Mason, At. Th. 153.
- 1090–1137. ‘The cause of disease. The noxious seeds poison the air ; so in some parts of the world the air and water are pestilential to a stranger and some diseases are confined to one locality. This pestilence settles on food and drink or is drawn in with the breath.’
1090. Cf. 639.
1091. cladem, Q corr. edd. ; gradem, O ; cratem, O corr. ; the last defended by Bock.
1092. morbida vis, 955. — hominum . . . pecudum, on 243.
1093. expidiam, on 1, 499.
1094. supra, 771.
1095. morti corresponds to vitalia ; mortalia would not have conveyed the meaning mortifera.
1096. casu . . . forte, Lucret. pleonasm.
1097. The atmosphere is first corrupted, then the water, afterwards vegetation : in the Georgics, 3, 478 sq. there is the same order as Serv. noted.
1098. pestilitas, Lucretian for pestilentia, 1125, 1132; also in Arn. 7, 43. Cf. on 2, 498.
1099. extrinsecus, Q, of the earth. O has intrinsecus, which Wakef. interprets ex aere ipso.
1100. coorta, OQ ; coortae, edd. since Lachm. ; a correction doubted by M. and Giuss. Lamb. saw no difficulty : it can be neut. pl.

1101. Cf. 2, 872.
1102. solibus: humidity and heat are pestilential.
1103. caeli, 'air.'
1104. temptari: 1116 and on 3, 147.
1105. discrepant res repeated from 2, 1018. Res is here 'circumstances,' i.e. of air and water; Bock's re is unnecessary.
1106. quid . . . putamus: 3, 950; 'quid . . . respondemus' (M.). — Brittannis, O (-anis, Q), edd. except M., who has Brittanni. The long antepenult occurs only here: Müller, RM. 360. — I.'s free use of the dative generally is a sufficient defence of Brittannis: caelum (quod est) Brittannis differre. He could not write in Britannia or in Britannis.
1107. Georg. 1, 240, 'mundus, ut ad Scytham Riphaeasque arduus arces | consurgit, premitur Libyae devexus in austros.' Lamb. explained polus arcticus . . . illis est depresso.
1108. He cites the circumference of the ancient world.—atque closes the verse in Aen. 12, 355, 615, and frequently in Horace's hexameters: Thes. 2, 1049, 68.
1109. Cf. 722.
1110. quae, as if to caela, 'climates.'
1111. a ventis, 'on the side of,' i.e. in the direction of the four winds; cf. on 5, 754. — Georg. 4, 298, 'quattuor a ventis obliqua luce fenestris' (Wakef.).
1112. tum is correlative to cum, 1110.
1113. largiter: 622. — generatim: certain classes of diseases, as if genera morborum had been written; but the word is ambiguous. Lamb. paraphrases 'et morbi videntur generatim nationes ipsas infestas habere.'; the adverb may be ἄντοι κούρευ.
1114. elephas: 'elephantiasis': the skin becomes 'like elephants' hide with tumors affecting the legs. Ser. Sam. 128, says it was tristi nomine dirus. — flumina Nili: Scamandri flumina, Hor. Epod. 13, 14.
1115. gignitur, i.e. all cases may be traced to Egypt, its fatherland; it has never gained a foothold elsewhere. — Celsus, 3, 25, says, 'ignotus . . . paene in Italia, frequentissimus in quibusdam regionibus.' Pliny, 26, 7, 'diximus elephantiasin ante Pompeii Magni aetatem non accidisse in Italia . . . hic quidem morbus celeriter in Italia extinctus est.' Cf. Fritzche, Rh.M. 57, 391. — Aegypto: Flor. 31, edd.; Aegypta, OQ, unexampled.
1116. Attide for Attica, also in Mela. The reference may be to gout, but there is no certainty.
1117. inde, 'then,' 5, 409 n.
1118. partibus: 2, 913, corporis pars. — concinnat: 584.
1119. alienum (est): est was omitted because of forte.
1120. serpere: cf. 5, 523.
1121. nebula, 'fog'; cf. 1099.
1122. coactat, only here and in 1161.
1123. venit (aer).
1124. corrumpat: Aen. 3, 138, corrupto caeli tractu. — sui simile: 5, 138. — alienum (nobis).
1125. clades, as in 1091.
1126. persidit, on 1, 307. — ipsas takes the place of a denique.

1127. pastus: strangely used of men unless the construction is hominum cibatus pastus pecudumque, which is not probable. Hominum and pecudum are metrical equivalents, and perhaps the order should be changed.

1128. ipso, on 3, 483.

1129. hinc: ex aere.

1130. illa: sc. cladem et pestilitatem.

1131. venit bubus: Cic. Caec. 74, hereditas unicuique nostrum venit.

1132. iam pigris, OQ; lanigeris, Voss, Purmann, Bruno, Br.; iam balances quoque merely; cf. 5, 1061. M. comp. Sen. Oed. 133, tardas bidentes.—balantibus, on 2, 369.—aegror, dr. λεγ., but e coni, in Pac. and Acc.

1133. deveniamus: Plaut. As. 105, 'si forte in insidias devenero.'

1134. caeli amictum, a bold expression; caeli tegmine, I, 988 n.

1135. corruptum: Flor. 31, M. Gius.; corumptum, OQ, †Bail.; coortum, Lachm.; alienum, Bentl. Bern.; coruscum, Ellis. Br. arranges natura ultro corruptum—all spondees, and hence highly improbable despite Catull. 116, 3. Müller, R.M. 360, Klotz, Altr. Metr. 96, and Lindsay, LL. 114, approve corruptum.

1136. aliquid: noxious quality in food or drink.

1137. recenti: cf. 3, 705.

1138–1229. 'The plague at Athens [430 B.C.]. Course of the disease and its effect on the people.'—This disease has been identified with measles, scarlet fever, smallpox, bubonic plague, typhus fever, malignant scarlatina, yellow fever, and others. There can be no certainty. See Ebstein, Pest des Thucydides; Schroeder, Lukrez und Thucydides.

1138. aestus: Macrob. edd.; ae, OQ; morti' ferai, Lachm.—Claud. Rapt. Pros. 3, 237, 'seu mortifer aestus | seu mors ipsa fuit.' Cf. on 144.

1139. Cecropis: Macrob.; Cecropit, OQ. Cecropius is the usual quantity.

1140. vastavitque vias: Aen. 8, 8, vastant cultoribus agros.—exhaustit: Livy, 3, 32, 2, 'vastati agri sunt, urbs adsiduis exhausta funeribus.' Stat. Silv. 3, 5, 73, 'trepidas exhaustis civibus urbes' (Wakef.).

1141. ortus, OQ, edd.; morbus, Lachm.—Thucydides (2, 48) says it started in Ethiopia first. For the pleonasm with ortus cf. 5, 411, and for penitus, 6, 723, 735.

1142. camposque natantis: 5, 488.

1143. incubuit: Hor. C. 1, 3, 30, 'nova febrium | terris incubuit cohors'; Ov. M. 7, 523, 'dira lues . . . populis . . . incidit.'

1144. catervatim: Georg. 3, 556, 'iamque catervatim dat stragem.' The word is quoted first from I.

1145. Thucyd. 2, 49, 2, πρῶτον μὲν τῆς κεφαλῆς θέρμαι λοχυράι καὶ τῶν διθαλμῶν ἐρυθητά καὶ φλεγωσις ἀλάμβανε. —gerebant, 'carried,' for habebant; 3, 1049 n.

1146. duplicis: Aen. 1, 93, duplicis . . . palmas.—luce: Georg. 3, 505, ardentes oculi.

1147. sudabant sanguine: 5, 1131. Thucyd. οὐ τε φάρυγξ καὶ οὐ γλώσσα εἰδεῖ αἷματάθη θήν.

1148. vocis via: Ov. M. 6, 355, 'et fauces arent vixque est via vocis in illis.'

1149. animi interpres: Hor. AP. 111, 'animi . . . interprete lingua.'

1150. aspera: Ov. M. 7, 556, aspera lingua tumet. Georg. 3, 508, fauces premit aspera lingua.

1151. Thucyd. 3, κατέβαινεν ἐς τὰ στήθη ὁ πόνος μετὰ βιηχὸς ισχυροῦ.
1152. Thucyd. καὶ δύπτε τὴν καρδίαν στηρίξειν, ἀνέστρεψε τε αὐτὴν καὶ δυοκάθαρσες χολῆς τάσσει . . . ἐπῆσαν. Καρδία is 'stomach,' but L. took it as 'heart.'
1153. vitali claustra: 3, 396 n. — lababant: on 1, 530. Yet the sufferers lived on for a week.
1154. ore foras: 3, 497 n. Thucyd. 2, πνεῦμα ἀποτον καὶ δυσῶδες ἡφει.
1155. perolent, ἀπ. λεγ. — projecta: 3, 882 n.
1156. et omne, Flor. 31, edd.; tum vires, Wakef. Lachm. M; et, om. OQ.
1157. leti iam limine in ipso: 2, 960.
1158. anxius angor: 3, 993.
1159. comes: 2, 580, 'ploratus mortis comites.'
1160. Thucyd. 4, λύγε τε τοῖς πλεοσιν ἐπέτεσε κενή, στασμὸν ἐνθιδοῦσα ισχυρόν. — noctem per: viam per, 1264; persaepe, old vulg.
1161. corripere nervos: cf. 5, 1223. — coactans: cf. 1122.
1162. dissolutebat: 3, 701, dissoluitur, interit ergo.
1163. nimio ardore: 3, 387 n. — Thucyd. 5, καὶ τὸ μὲν ἔξωθεν ἀπτομένῳ [σῶμα] οὗτ' ἄγαν θερμὸν ἦν οὔτε χλωρόν.
1164. summo, 'surface'; 3, 256 n.
1165. Note alliteration.
1166. Thucyd. φλυκταῖς μικρᾶς καὶ ἐλκεσιν ἐξηνθηκός.
1167. est, 'happens.' — sacer ignis: 660. — dum, OQ, Lachm. M. Giuss. Bail.; cum, O corr. Br. old vulg.
1168. Th. τὰ δὲ ἐντὸς οὐτών ἑκάτερα.
1169. intus: prep.; on 4, 1091.
1170. Th. ὥστε μήτε τῶν πάνι λεπτῶν ιματίων καὶ σινδῶν τὰς ἐπιβολὰς μηδὲ δλλο τι ή γυμνοὶ δέχεσθαι.
1171. ventum et frigora, 'cool air.'
1172. Th. ηδιστα τε ἀν ἐς ὕδωρ ψυχρὸν σφᾶς αὐτοὺς φίππεῖν. — partim: on 3, 78.
1173. membra dabant nudum: 5, 970, 'membra | nuda dabant terrae.'
- 1174 (1178), transferred by Naugerius and mod. edd. — Th. καὶ πολλοὶ τοῦτο τῶν ἡμεληγμένων αὐθρώπων καὶ ἔδρασαν ἐς φρέατα.
1175. ipso ore, i.e. with mouth first.
1176. insedabiliter, ἀπ. λεγ. except for glossaries. — mersans, O, edd.; inerrans, Q; inurens, Bern.; torrens, Br. Their great thirst plunged them (corpora mersans) in the water.
1177. Th. τῷ διψῃ ἀπαντώφ ξυνεχόμενοι· καὶ ἐν τῷ δροὶ καθειστήκει τό τε πλέον καὶ ἔλασσον ποτὸν.
1178. Th. καὶ ἡ ἀπορία τοῦ μὴ ἡσυχάζειν καὶ ἡ ἀγρυπνία ἐπέκειτο διὰ παντός.
1179. mussabat medicina: Pliny, Epi. 7, 1, mussantesque medicos. — Th. 47, 4, οὕτε γάρ λαρποὶ ἡρκουν τὸ πρῶτον θεραπεύοντες ἀγρολα.
1180. ardentia morbis, OQ, M. Bail.; ac nuntia mortis, Lachm. Br. Giuss., a very attractive conjecture and a necessary emendation if L. is speaking of the plague still; but he has digressed to a general description of the signs of death; hence morbis is like morbis aegrescimus in 5, 349. He is not following Thucydides, but some medical writer, probably Hippocrates. — Lamb., totas ardentia noctes; Purmann, noctis ardentiaque omnes; Housman (J. Phil. 25, 349), praenuntia mortis.

— Schroeder, 8, defends morbis by Ov. M. 7, 601, ‘penetrant ad viscera morbi’ and L. 1150, ‘debilitata malis.’

1181. lumina oculorum: 4, 824. — versarent: Ov. M. 7, 579, ‘versantes supremo lumina motu.’

1182. mortis signa: general signs of death were then (tum) apparent.

1183. animi mens: 3, 615. Note alliteration with m; maeror and metus are joined in Lucil. and Sallust (Wölfflin, Allit. 67).

1184. acer, ‘peaked’; unexampled, but not unusual in expressing feeling (Thes. 1, 359, 67).

1185. Edd. cite Hippocr. Praen. Coac. 193, βθυβος ἐν δέξιαι καὶ ὑχος ἐν ὥστι θανάσιμον, whence Bock. bombo for porro.

1186. Hippocr. Prog. 8, μέγα δὲ δραπεθέμενον τρεῦμα καὶ διὰ πολλοῦ χρόνου παραφροσύνην δηλοῖ. Georg. 3, 505, ‘attractus ab alto | spiritus, interdum gemitu gravis, imaque longo | ilia singultu tendunt.’

1187. splendidus: Hor. S. 2, 3, 141, splendida bilis.

1188. Hipp. 24, τὸ τε γάρ ξανθὸν πτύελον ἀκρηγτον ἔδν κινδυνώδες. — tenviā sp.: on 1, 372.

1189. rauca, OQ, Wakef. Br.; raucas, Macr. Itali, Lachm. M. Giuss.; tussi, edd.; tusse, OQ; tussis, Macr. Giuss. Macrobius has also cruore for colore in 1188.— Note the correspondence with the last half of the preceding verse.

1190. trahere, ‘contract’; cf. movere, 595, and on 1, 397.

1191. pedibus: cf. 3, 528 sq.

1192. dubitabat: cf. 4, 188.

1193–1194. Lamb. comp. Hippoc. Progn. 2, ρίς δέξια δόθαλμοι κοῖλοι κρόταφοι ξυπεπτωκότες . . . καὶ τὸ δέρμα τὸ περὶ τὸ μέτωπον σκληρόν τε καὶ περιτεταμένον καὶ καρφαλέον ἔννι, and Celsus’ translation, 2, 6, ‘nares acutae collapsa tempora oculi concavī . . . cutis circa frontem dura et intenta.’

1195. in ore iacens, Nonius (181, 27), Juntine, Itali; inhoretiacet, O; inoretiacet Q; inhorrescens, Rutgers, Lachm. Giuss. Br. in text (but patens in App. after Havercamp); in ore trucei, M. Bail.; in ore inhians, Polle; tacens, Postgate.— rictum, edd. after Lamb.; rictu, Non.; rectum, OQ; in ore lacer rictus, Paulson.— tumebat, Heins. edd. for mebat; minebat, Lamb. Ellis, Postgate. Patens is the simplest correction, but not easy to explain palaeographically; iacens rictum may be compared with iacentes oculos, Ov. M. II, 618, vultus i., id. 4, 144. The ‘sunken’ mouth is in point here.

1196. rigida, OQ, edd.; rigidi, Lachm. M. — nec nimio: on 3, 387.

1197. Th. 6, διεφθειρότο οἱ πλείστοι ἐπαταιοι καὶ ἐβδομαῖοι ὑπὸ τοῦ ἐντὸς καύματος. Perhaps L. changed the numeral for metrical convenience. In the pestilence of 580/174, described by Livy, 41, 21, 5, ‘qui inciderant haud facile septimum diem superabant.’ Schroeder thinks L. avoided septimo because the eighth day is nearer the ninth than the seventh.

1198. reddebant vitam: Georg. 3, 495, ‘et dulcis animas plena ad praesepia reddunt’; cf. Burmann on [Ovid] Ibis, 407.— lampade for day is unusual.

1199. Th. εἰ διαφίγουεν ἐπικατόπτος τοῦ νοσήματος ἐς τὴν κοιλιὰν καὶ ἐλκωσεώς τε αὐτῆς λοχυρᾶς ἕγγιγνομένης καὶ διαρροᾶς ἅμα ἀκράτου ἐπιπτούσης οἱ πολλοὶ ὕστερον δι’ αὐτῆς δοθενεὶς διεφθειρότο. — ut est, OQ, Br. Bail.; ibei, M.; vix, Lachm.;

tum, Giuss. Vt est = ut sit, 'in the course of the disease'; Lamb. 'ut verum est aliquos effugisse'; Ellis, J. Phil. 2, 228; 3, 275, 'as may well happen' or ως ἔρθε χεται; cf. 1167.

1200. ulceribus, edd. after Lamb.; viceribus, OQ; visceribus, vulg.—nigra: not expressly in Thucydides.

1201. tabes letumque manebat: 4, 506, 'nixatur vita salusque.'

1202. capitis dolore: cephalgia. Th. διεκήσει γάρ διὰ παντὸς τοῦ σώματος δρα-θερ δρέπανον τὸ ἐν τῷ κεφαλῇ τρῶτος ἰδρωθὲν κακόν; quite different from L., whence Schroeder, 11, suggests that ἰδρωθέν was in L.'s text of Thucydides.

1203. sanguis: 4, 1050.—Georg. 3, 507, 'it naribus ater | sanguis.'

1204. huc, OQ, edd.; hac, Faber, Bentl. Br.; hoc, Schroeder.

1205. Th. εἴ τις ἐκ τῶν μεγίστων περιγένετο, τῶν γε ἀκρατηρίων ἀντιδημύις αὐτοῦ ἐπεσῆμαι.

1206. exierat: cf. 5, 1330.

1207. Th. 8, κατέσκηντε γάρ ἐτ αἰδοῖα καὶ ἐτ ἄκρας χείρας καὶ πόδας.

1208. L. cannot refrain from introducing the motive of fear of death, for διέφυγος does not necessarily imply fear of it, as Lamb. thought.

1209. Th. καὶ πολλοὶ σπειρικμένοι τούτων διέφυγον, εἰσὶ δ' οἱ καὶ τῶν δφθαλμῶν, evidently through the action of the disease; but L. plainly inferred a surgical operation, that Rosenbaum, Gesch. d. Lustseuche, 327, thought possible, as well as from the natural result of gangrene of the extremities.

1210. Nothing corresponding in Th.; L. desired to heighten the description: all that a man has he will give for his life.

1211. in vita: 5, 177, 'natus enim debet quicunque est velle manere | in vita, donec retinebit blanda voluptas.'

1212. incesserat: a necessary correction by Lamb. for incusserat.—his, Vict.; iis, OQ; see on 4, 1154.

1213. Th. τοὺς δὲ καὶ λήθη ἐλάμβανε παρανίκα δραστάτας τῶν τάντων ὅμοιος καὶ ἡγεμός τα σφᾶς τε αὐτοῦς καὶ τοὺς ἐπιτηδεόλους. — atque etiam is unusual in the poets; in Prop. 2, 34, 35.

1214. neque is most easily explained as = ne quidem, yet cf. on 1, 1115.

1215. iacerent supra: tmesis.

1216. Th. 50 (with some omissions by L.) τὰ γάρ δρεα καὶ τετράποδα δοα διθρώπων ἀπτεται, πολλῶν δτάφων γεγομένων, ή οὐ προστηει η γενούμενα διεφθείρετο.

1217. exeiret, Lachm. M. (exiret, edd.); exciret, OQ; so in 1221 exibant.—odorem, instinctively avoided except by vultures and hyenas and the like.

1218. propinquia: Cic. Div. 1, 64, 'adpropinquante morte . . . propinquam Achilli mortem.'

1219. solibus: Aen. 3, 203, tris soles; the metaphor begins with L. in Latin.—tamen, still few animals appeared.

1220. Th. 2, τῶν μὲν τοιούτων δρείθων ἐπίλεψις σαφῆς ἐγένετο, καὶ οὐχ ἐνρώπητο οὔτε δλλως οὔτε περὶ τοιούτον οὐδέτε. — tristia, Macr. edd.: fortia, Flor. 31, vulg.

1221. Georg. 4, 252, 'languebant corpora morbo.'

1222. Th. οἱ δὲ κύνες μᾶλλον αἰσθητοι παρεῖχον τοῦ ἀποβατορος διὰ τὸ ξυρδιαιτᾶ σθαι. — canum vis: on 3, 8.—Ov. M. 7, 535, strage canum primo.

1223. aegre, 'wearily.'

1224. Note alliteration.

1225 is bracketed by M. and Br. Lachm. changed certabant to cernebant, and placed it after 1246 with Bentl.; Giuss. also bracketed with a following lacuna; Br. changed to cernebant, but certabant is no more violent than incuria mactans, 1242, and sitis mersans, 1176. Th. 51, 2, θυησον δ' οι μὲν ἀμελεῖ. Manil. 1, 885, ‘extulit antiquas per funera pacis Athenas.’

1226. Th. 51, 2, ἐν τε οὐδὲ οὐ κατέστη ταμα. — communis certa, apparently with syndeton.

1227. ali: 4, 637. — vitalis aeris auras: 3, 405 n.

1228. volvere, Georg. 3, 85, ‘volvit sub naribus ignem.’ — licere, ‘privilege’; cf. on 4, 229.

1229. Th. τὸ γάρ τῷ ξυνεγκόντι ἀλλον τοῦτο οὐβαττε.

1230—1251. ‘Hopelessness caused by the disease; desertion of the sick and contagion to the well.’

1230. Th. 4, δεινότατον δὲ παντὸς ήν τοῦ κακοῦ ή τε άθυπλα. L. has omitted much of Th. 51.

1231. aerumnabile : also in Apuleius.

1232. ut = ut si; unusual and rare. Th. διπέτρη τις αἰσθούστο κάμων. Edelbluth would have ut consecutive. — morti damnatus, poetical and rare; Roby, 1199.

1233. cum is pleonastic, as often in L. — Scrib. Largus, 189, ‘animo subinde linquuntur deficiuntque’.

1234. Sen. Oed. 63, ‘suaeque circa funus exequiae cadunt.’ — respectans: cf. 5, 975.

1235. apisci, Plaut. Epid. 668, ‘sine me hominem apisci’; L. 5, 808. — Th. ἔτερος δφ' ἔτερον θεραπειας ἀπατητλάμενοι ὥσπερ τὰ πρόβατα θυησον. — quippe etenim is due to carelessness in interpreting Thucydides, as was noticed by M.; L. makes 1235 sq. a consequence of what immediately precedes instead of a parallel clause dependent on aerumnabile, δεινότατον.

1236. contagia morbi: 3, 471.

1237. Cf. 5, 866. — tamquam = ut here only in L. — 1237 = 1245 of the codd., transferred here by Bentl. and recent edd.; Lamb. placed it after 1240 of the codd. Van d. Valk would write lanigerae and not transfer.

1238. Cf. 3, 71.

1239. fugitant, on 1, 658. — visere ad: revisit ad, 2, 359. Visere ad is commonly used of a sick call. — Th. 5, καὶ τὸν πλειστον φθόρον τοῦτο ἐντολεί. εἴτε γάρ μη θέλουει δεδιώτες ἀλλήλοις προσέταξι, ἀπώλλυστο ἐρήμοι καὶ οἰκλαι πολλαὶ ἐκενώθησαν ἀπορίᾳ τοῦ θεραπεύσοντος.

1240. mortis timentis is unexampled; it is influenced by vitali cupidos and the analogy of metuens with the gen. Cic. has veritus once with gen.; see Dr. § 207.

1241 (1240). poenibat, Turneb. for puniebat, is not cited elsewhere. O has Poenibus et, Q at. Cf. on 5, 996.

1242. opis expertis: 5, 998.

1243. ibant: 3, 526 n. Sen. Dial. 7, 7, 4, ‘summum bonum immortale est, nescit exire’. Th. εἴτε προσλοιει, διεφθείροτο.

1244. Th. αἰσχύνη γάρ ἡφειδον σφῶν αἰτῶν ἐσιόντες παρὰ τοὺς φίλους.

1245. εἴτε καὶ τὰς ὀλοφύρσεις τῶν ἀπογιγνομένων τελευτῶντες καὶ οἱ οἰκεῖοι ἔξεκαμον ὅτδ τοῦ πολλοῦ κακοῦ νικώμενοι. (The interpretation of the Greek is not clear; see edd. of Thucydides.) — lassorum probably refers to the sick.

1246. καὶ μᾶλιστα οἱ ἀργῆς τι μεταποιούμενοι following the quotation at 1243.

1247. Edd. since M. find a lacuna necessary. Bock. transfers the paragraph to the end of the poem, and Giuss. thinks it a first draft of the present close. Van d. Valk would write atque alias with no lacuna, and Lamb. Faber, and Creech tried to explain away the incoherence.—populum, ‘host.’

1248. redibant apparently corresponds to ἀπῆσαν in Th. 52, close.

1249. bonam partem: on 3, 64.

1250. quisquam, a single person.

1251. Note alliteration.—tempore tali: 1, 93 n.

1252–1256. ‘The sturdy countrymen fell ill and came into the city with the pestilence; and living and dead were lying about the streets and at the fountains. Religion was disregarded and the decencies of burial.’

1252. Sen. Oed. 147, ‘deficit pastor grege deminuto | tabidos inter moriens iuvencos.’

1253 = 5, 933 nearly.

1254. casa: 5, 1011.

1255. paupertate = penuria; 1, 455 n.

1256. exanimis: as in 1273; 3, 714 n.

1257. Sen. Oed. 53, ‘sed omnis aetas pariter et sexus ruit, | iuvenesque senibus jungit et natis patres | funesta pestis.’

1258. The order is natos edere vitam super matribus. The interlocked order is suggestive.

1259. is maeror, M. edd. for maeroris; Wakef. maeros is.

1260. languens, OQ; labes, Lachm. Th. 52, ἐπεισ δὲ αὐτοὺς μᾶλλον πρὸς τῷ ὑπάρχοντι πόνῳ καὶ ἡ ἔνυκομδὴ ἐκ τῶν ἀγρῶν ἐς τὸ δοτοῦ, καὶ οὐχ ἡσσος τοῦ ἐπελθόντα.

1261. conveniens: for the two participles cf. on 5, 692.

1262. aestu, Juntine, Bern.; aestus, OQ, M. Br. with lacuna,† Bail.; astu, Lachm. Giuss. Kannengiesser, Phil. 43, 545, keeps aestus, and reads et for ita; aestu seems most easily defensible, but the passage is not yet healed.—Th. οἰκιῶν γαρ οὐχ ὑπαρχουσῶν, δλλ' ἐν καλύβαις πνιγηραῖς ὥρᾳ έτος διαιτημένων δ φθόρος ἐγίγνετο οὐδεὶς κύρμω.

1263. δλλὰ καὶ νεκροὶ ἐπ' ἀλλήλοις ἀποθησκούτες ἔκειτο.

1264. protracta, Lachm. edd. for prostrata.—que connects protracta and provoluta.—καὶ ἐν ταῖς δδοῖς ἐκαλινδοῦτο.

1265. silanos: καὶ περὶ τὰς κρήνας ἀπάσας.

1266. ab is not necessary metrically.—dulcedine: Pliny 12, 37, asperitate aquarum. Th. ἡμιθνῆτες τοῦ ὕδατος ἐπιθυμεῖ.

1267. Note alliteration.—The order is multa languida membra per populi prompta loca viasque. The reference is to public squares.

1268. semanimo: cf. semesus, semestris, seminanis, semustus; see Müller, RM. 260.

1269. cooperta: does semanimo call for cooperta? Cf. 491.

1270, bracketed as a dittohraphy by Lachm. Br., but M. compares Poet (Pacuvius?) in Cic. Tusc. 3, 26, ‘barba pedore horrida atque | intonsa infuscat pectus inluvie scrabrum.’—pelli super ossibus una, proverbial for ‘skin and bones’: Otto, Sprichw. 260.

1271. sordi, edd. for sorde, but tatē occurs in 1, 806.

1272. Th. τά τε λεπά ἐν οἷς δακτυητοῦ νεκρῶν πλέα θν., αὐτοῦ ἀνακοθηγυσκόντων. — Cf. 417.

1273. exanimis: as in 1256.

1274. manebant, Cambr. edd.; manebat, O; manebit, Q; tenebat, Lachm.; cf. on 1, 363.

1275. aedituentes, ΔΤ. λεγ. except as attested by Gellius 12, 10, 8, for aeditui.

1276. ὑπερβιαζομένου γάρ τοῦ κακοῦ οἱ ἀνθρώποι οὐκ ἔχοντες δ τι γένονται ἐς δλιγυρίας ἐτράποτο καὶ λεπών καὶ δολών δυολών.

1277. enim: postponed as in 1, 219, where see note. Before Wakefield, enim was joined with praesens dolor, and Woltjer, Mnem. 27, 57, and Hey, Archiv. 14, 270, would recall that punctuation. But enim does not begin a clause in L. Edelbluth, 33, is led by the rarity of so late a postponement, and by Thucydides, to follow the early punctuation.

1278. Ov. M. 7, 606, ‘corpora missa neci nullis de more feruntur | funeribus.’ Th. νόμοι δὲ τάντες ξυνεράχθησαν οἷς ἔχρωντο πρότερον περὶ τὰς ταφάς.

1279. quo pius: Voss, edd.; quo prius, Q. Lamb. Bail.; huc pius O. Pius is more probable as indicating a pious duty. Wakef. noticed that semper consuerat represents ἔχρωντο πρότερον. — humari, middle; humare, Howard.

1280. trepidabat: Q, edd.; repedabat, O, Itali, inconsistent with the sense demanded.

1281. praesenti, M. Giuss., could have easily fallen out; compostum, Lachm. Br. Bail.; consortem, Flor. 31, vulg.—Th. Θαπτον δὲ ὡς ἔκαστος ἐδύνατο.

1282. res: supplied by Cambr., etc.; mors, Bern.; vis, Flor., 31, vulg.—subita, OQ, edd.; subitac, Lachm.—Th. καὶ πολλοὶ ἐς ἀναισχύντους θήκας ἐτράποτο σπάνει τῶν ἐπιτηδείων διὰ τὸ συχνοὺς ἥδη προτεθάραι σφίσιν. — Cic. Fam. 10, 16, 2, ‘in rebus tam subitis tamque augustis.’

1283. ἐπὶ πυράς γάρ διλογρίας φόβαστρες τοὺς ησαντας οἱ μὲν ἐπιθέντες τὸν ἐπυτῶν νεκρὸν ὑφῆπτον.

1284. insuper: prep.—extuncta with rogorum; on 1, 86.—Ov. M. 7, 610, ‘deque rogis pugnant alienisque ignibus ardent.’

1285. subdebat: Aen. 6, 223, ‘subiectam more parentum | aversi tenuere facem.’

1286. rixantes: ‘wrangling.’ Properly, rixa was a quarrel between two persons, as Schroeder shows, 24, quoting Labeo in the Digest, 47, 8, 4, 3.

‘Perhaps the poet intentionally finished his work with the affecting picture of the might of death, as he had begun it with an invocation to the goddess of springing life.’ — Lange, Materialism, 2, 156. Cf. Introd. 48.

LANE'S LATIN GRAMMAR

Revised Edition, $1.50

By GEORGE M. LANE, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor Emeritus of Latin, Harvard University

SINCE its first publication, this work has been more widely used than any other Latin grammar for advanced study and reference. It is approached by no other American publication in completeness and in authoritativeness, and is conspicuous for its originality, sound scholarship, interesting character, accurate analysis of constructions, copious illustrations, lively English renderings of the Latin examples, and clear arrangement.

¶ The revision has been conducted under the direction of Professor Morris H. Morgan, who edited and completed the original edition, left unfinished by the death of Dr. Lane. In this revised edition the chapter on Sound has been entirely rewritten, and enlarged from nineteen to thirty-one pages, by Dr. Hans Oertel, Professor of Comparative Philology in Yale University. In this rewriting the modern views concerning the nature and kinds of vowels and consonants, the Latin accent, and the phonetical laws under which changes of vowel and consonant sound take place, receive the alterations requisite for meeting the needs of college students. Many changes have also been made in the chapters on Inflection and Formation to make these correspond to the rewritten chapter on Sound. Throughout the book the working of "hidden quantities" has been completely revised.

¶ In the syntactical chapters there are a few changes in the treatment of leading principles, such as the main constructions with cum, those with verbs of memory, and the use of the subjunctive in prohibitions. For the most part, however, no alterations have been found necessary in the treatment of broad general principles, or in the method of presentation.

LIVY AND HORACE

SELECTIONS FROM LIVY . . . . . $1.50

Edited by HARRY E. BURTON, Ph.D., Professor of Latin, Dartmouth College. Text Edition, $0.35

THESE selections are intended to give a more comprehensive idea of Livy's genius and versatility than can be had from the reading of any one or two books, and also to provide material dealing with the more significant and interesting periods of the early history of Rome. The passages are varied in nature, and are not confined to military history; they are not so short as to appear fragmentary. Each subject is presented in a series of continuous chapters, the notes supplying introductory and explanatory material for a proper understanding of the period. There is a comprehensive introduction, and a complete system of cross-reference.

HORACE. ODES, EPODES, AND CARMEN

SAECULARE . . . . . $1.50

Edited by CLIFFORD H. MOORE, Ph.D., Professor of Latin, Harvard University. Text Edition, $0.40

WHILE elementary matters have not been neglected in this edition, particular attention has been devoted to the literary side of Horace's work, and to his literary relations. The introduction, besides dealing with the poet's life and writings, discusses his lyric metres and peculiarities of syntax. The commentary is not limited to the baldest aids, but is intended to give such assistance in interpretation as may help students to some appreciation of Horace's art and charm. The relation of the poet to his Greek models, and especially his influence on subsequent Latin literature, are clearly shown.

C I C E R O

CICERO. CATO MAIOR DE SENECTUTE, $o.80

Edited by FRANK G. MOORE, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Latin and of Roman Archaeology, Dartmouth College. Text Edition, $o.30

AN edition embodying much new critical material, and abundant grammatical helps. Unusual attention has been paid to those rhetorical features which are most likely to be misunderstood, to the confusion of the argument, while at the same time both grammar and rhetoric have been treated as a means to an end. The text is supplied with very full footnotes. The scholarly introduction sets forth the character of Cato clearly and impressively, and is supplemented by a comparative list of distinguished old men, and by verses by Pope Leo XIII on Frugality and the Green Old Age. There are critical notes, and an index.

CICERO. LAELIUS DE AMICITIA . . . $o.75

Edited by CLIFTON PRICE, Ph.D., Instructor in Latin, University of California. Text Edition, $o.30

THIS edition enables the student to understand and interpret the text, and contains enough elementary matter to adapt it to use in the best preparatory schools, and at the same time enough advanced material for the first year in college. The book is complete in itself, the grammatical principles being stated in the notes. The notes at the bottom of the page have been made very comprehensive, and the proper balance has been preserved between the notes on syntax and those on interpretation. The system of cross-reference, and the emphasis laid on the figures of speech and grammar, form strong features of the book.

LATIN DICTIONARIES

HARPER'S LATIN DICTIONARY

Founded on the translation of Freund's Latin-German Lexicon. Edited by E. A. ANDREWS, LL.D. Revised, Enlarged, and in great part Rewritten by CHARLTON T. LEWIS, Ph.D., and CHARLES SHORT, LL.D.
Royal Octavo, 2030 pages. Sheep, $6.50; Full Russia, $10.00

¶ The translation of Dr. Freund's great Latin-German Lexicon, edited by the late Dr. E. A. Andrews, and published in 1850, has been from that time in extensive and satisfactory use throughout England and America. Meanwhile great advances have been made in the science on which lexicography depends. The present work embodies the latest advances in philological study and research, and is in every respect the most complete and satisfactory Latin Dictionary published.

LEWIS'S LATIN DICTIONARY FOR SCHOOLS

By CHARLTON T. LEWIS, Ph.D.
Large Octavo, 1200 pages. Cloth, $4.50; Half Leather, $5.00

¶ This dictionary is not an abridgment, but an entirely new and independent work, designed to include all of the student's needs, after acquiring the elements of grammar, for the interpretation of the Latin authors commonly read in school.

LEWIS'S ELEMENTARY LATIN DICTIONARY

By CHARLTON T. LEWIS, Ph.D.
Crown Octavo, 952 pages. Half Leather . . . . . $2.00

¶ This work is sufficiently full to meet the needs of students in secondary or preparatory schools, and also in the first and second years' work in colleges.

SMITH'S ENGLISH-LATIN DICTIONARY

A Complete and Critical English-Latin Dictionary. By WILLIAM SMITH, LL.D., and THOMAS D. HALL, M.A., Fellow of University College, London. With a Dictionary of Proper Names.
Royal Octavo, 765 pages. Sheep . . . . . $4.00

A GRAMMAR OF ATTIC AND IONIC GREEK

$1.50

By FRANK COLE BABBITT, Ph.D. (Harvard), Professor of the Greek Language, Trinity College, Hartford; formerly Fellow of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens

THIS grammar states the essential facts and principles of the Greek language in concise form, with only so much discussion as may reasonably be demanded for a clear understanding of the subject. It therefore meets the wants of secondary schools, and at the same time is sufficient for all ordinary demands of the college course. The book incorporates the results of the more recent philological studies, and includes many departures from conventional presentation.

¶ The body of the book is devoted to Attic Greek, while Ionic forms are given in the footnotes. The subject of indirect discourse is put at the end of syntax, and each principle has been fully stated in its proper place. Tables of syntactical usage for reference are included, thus making it possible for the student to perceive the normal usage at a glance.

¶ In order to simplify the subject, the verbs have been reduced to five classes, yet nothing has been sacrificed in the process. All contract forms are given as they are found in Attic Greek, followed by the uncontracted forms in parentheses. The treatment of cases is thoroughly logical and clear. The true genitive and the ablative genitive are distinguished from each other, and considered separately; likewise, the true dative, the locative dative, and the instrumental dative. In this way much confusion is avoided.

¶ Much of the attractiveness of the book is due to the prominence given to the examples by the use of large type; to the graphic presentation of vowel changes; to the liberal use of headings; and to the untechnical form of statement.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE TEXT-BOOKS

Published Complete and in Sections

We issue a Catalogue of High School and College Text-Books, which we have tried to make as valuable and as useful to teachers as possible. In this catalogue are set forth briefly and clearly the scope and leading characteristics of each of our best text-books. In most cases there are also given testimonials from well-known teachers, which have been selected quite as much for their descriptive qualities as for their value as commendations.

¶ For the convenience of teachers this Catalogue is also published in separate sections treating of the various branches of study. These pamphlets are entitled : English, Mathematics, History and Political Science, Science, Modern Languages, Ancient Languages, and Philosophy and Education.

¶ In addition we have a single pamphlet devoted to Newest Books in every subject.

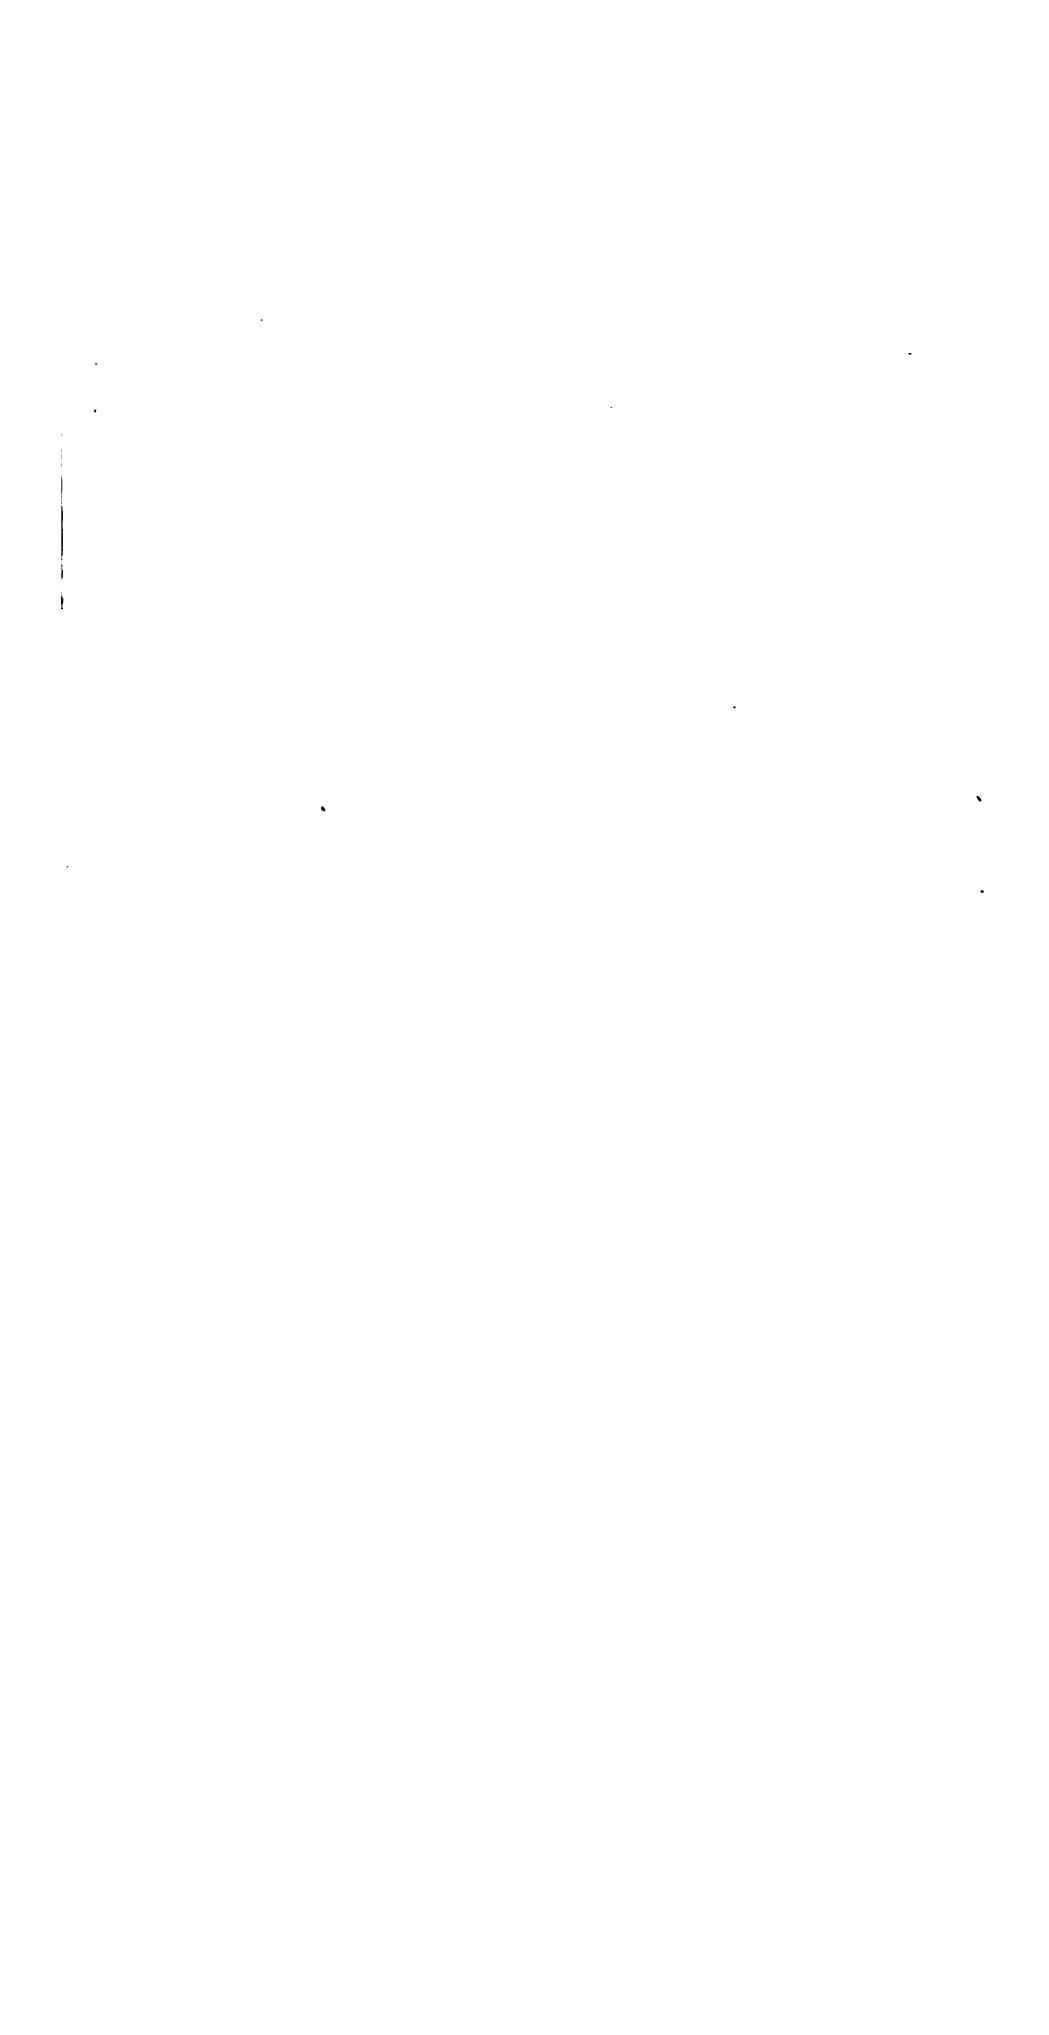

¶ Teachers seeking the newest and best books for their classes are invited to send for our Complete High School and College Catalogue, or for such sections as may be of greatest interest.

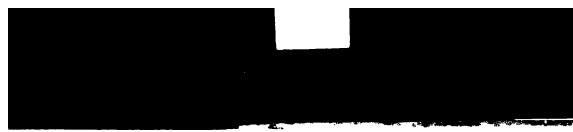

¶ Copies of our price lists, or of special circulars, in which these books are described at greater length than the space limitations of the catalogue permit, will be mailed to any address on request.

¶ All correspondence should be addressed to the nearest of the following offices of the company : New York, Cincinnati, Chicago, Boston, Atlanta, Dallas, San Francisco.
